This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world’s books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that’s often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book’s long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google’s system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google “watermark” you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can’t offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book’s appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Preface.

The letter of the Bible is the shrine of its spirit and the organism by which it comes into contact with the reader's mind. Hence the most spiritual of Bible students may well feel grateful to all who have toiled at the wearying task of preserving, and—where necessary and possible—restoring the true letter of the Sacred Text in its original tongues. All honour then to men who—like Ginsburg, Tregelles, and Westcott and Hort—have for long years laboured, chiefly that others might enter into their labours.

No English Bible can be more than a translation, since the Sacred Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments were originally written in Hebrew and in Greek. Hence it must be obvious to all, that just in proportion to the importance of these documents must be the obligation to translate them as accurately and adequately as possible; and since in the very nature of things no translation can be perfect, improvement is always possible. Even if no further improvement were attainable, various renderings for different classes of readers would still probably be of service. Besides, Divine favours are freely and widely bestowed; and the humblest individual translator may reasonably deem it possible to contribute something to the common stock of happy and effective renderings. Hence it may not be presumptuous to hope that a useful place will be filled by The Emphasised Bible.

Reverent faith and fearless criticism are not necessarily opposed. He that believes may usefully ask—What? and Why? It may be more imperative than some dream to put such questions, unless faith is to degenerate into superstition. Criticism itself may be subdivided and classified. There is the Lower, which deals with words and sentences, and employs grammar and dictionary to find out their sense and force. There is the Higher, which seeks to get behind the text, and to track the wellnigh hidden streams of origin, using for the purpose literary culture, comparison, conjecture and speculation—sometimes, indeed, to great good purpose, by laying down tracks along which to look for trusty emendation; at others, quite needlessly disturbing the common faith, by confounding editorship (which all books need) with authorship, and, worse still, by imagining ancient inventive liberties falling little short of forgery, without any necessity appreciable by common minds. And, finally, there is the Highest criticism, which springs from sympathy, insight, and experience in divine things; from claiming which modest men instinctively shrink; but which is a reality nevertheless, and is sometimes richly possessed by humble souls who, though versed in literary problems, know when broad conclusions wound their religious instincts, and whose unsophisticated judgment deserves respectful consideration before any general critical conclusions can be pronounced wholly satisfactory. It is devoutly to be wished that criticism may yet prove itself a greater aid to faith than it has done in the recent past. Its services hitherto must not be forgotten; and candour should be brought to its appreciation. The present Translator has striven to reach absolute freedom from prejudice; and feels constrained to record the seemingly paradoxical testimony—that the so-called higher critics have won the position of worthily occupying the very front rank of workers in the field of the lower criticism, where all learners must begin; and that among Hebrew Lexicons, none approaches—for thoroughness, accuracy, and resolute sobriety—the splendid monument of English, American, and Continental learning, now nearly complete, emanating from the Oxford Press.

The sacred joy experienced during the twelve years of hard work bestowed upon the production of The Emphasised Bible might excuse the vain desire that another life could be vouchsafed in which to reap the fruit of antecedent toil; but all this is sobered and subdued by the reflection that the fire itself, human and divine, must prove every man's work, of what sort it is.

It remains only to render hearty thanks to the Scholars whose labours have made this work possible; to the Reviewers whose encouragement has lightened a protracted though pleasant task; to the Printers and Correctors of the Press whose enterprise and patience have done much to make this Bible a pleasure to look on and an instrument to handle with facility; but first and last—especially in view of preserved life and eyesight and mental freshness—to Him from whom all blessings flow.

EXPOSITORY INTRODUCTION

TO THE EMPHASISED BIBLE.

CHAPTER I.

THE SPECIAL FEATURES OF THIS TRANSLATION.

That this purports to be an "Emphasised" Bible is naturally the first thing to be noticed. But as it seems desirable to devote an entire chapter to the subject of Emphasis, further discussion of this prominent characteristic may be conveniently deferred until it falls to be considered in due course. In the meantime there are other features which have grown up around this, which it will be of advantage to set forth in order.

1. The size of the page. It is with design that this has been made large; mainly for the purpose of bringing into one view connected portions, the constituent parts of which can be so much more easily grasped and remembered when readily seen in their relation to each other and to the whole, than when extended over several smaller pages. The familiar fifteenth chapter of the Gospel by Luke affords an excellent example; the whole chapter being here brought within two columns, in which its historical introduction and the three parables of which it is composed are at once taken in by the eye.

2. The varying indentations of the lines. These have been employed to serve several important purposes.

a. They mark the transition from Narrative to Speech. The first chapter of Genesis comes out into beautiful relief by this means. After a few introductory words, the arrangement of the lines seems like a commentary on the text "He spake, and it was done." "He spake"—and the words of the speech are distinguished by being set in; "and it was done"—the record of the fact is given as narrative, shown by the nearer approach of the lines to the left-hand margin. The effect is solemnly dramatic. Sometimes the deeper questions of criticism are thus brought to the surface, and the humblest reader is moved to consider whether, for example, the Speeches of Moses recorded in the Book of Deuteronomy were afterwards edited. It is tolerably plain they were; and the perception of the fact would appear to favour the genuineness of the Speeches themselves by the formal removal of objections. Sometimes, again, a subtle question of exegesis is brought very near to a solution by the mere process of rightly indenting the lines. For instance: Does the eighteenth verse of the second chapter of Galatians present a conclusion to which the Apostle Paul had for himself arrived?—or is he still addressing his erring brother Peter, and delicately suggesting that Peter was now, at Antioch, “building up” an invidious distinction which, at Cæsarea, he had “destroyed”? The cited-speech indentation appears to be correctly continued there; and the aptness of the words to describe Peter’s inconsistency, coupled with the independent fact that there is nothing to show that his faithful brother had yet done addressing him, goes far to settle the true explanation.

b. The indentations indicate the existence of Speech within Speech. Thus: Moses in the land of Moab, in relating the desert experiences through which the Sons of Israel, with himself, had newly come, cites previous speeches made at the respective times to which he refers—what the people had said to him and how he had answered the people. And it is an undoubted gain to be vividly confronted with the inquiry, Would any historical romancist have dared not only to put invented speeches into the mouth of Moses, but similar speeches into the mouth of God? “Speech within speech” is to be found in many places, and is sometimes discovered to be invested with great interest: as when Solomon, in his Dedicatory Prayer, c cites Divine promises previously made to his father David; or as when the Apostle Paul, in addressing King Agrippa, quotes the very words in which the Risen Jesus had addressed him. b

c. The indentations call attention to the existence of Poetic Parallelism. This special kind of parallelism is, of course, not to be confounded with parallel texts or parallel narratives, important though these both are in their own way. Poetic Parallelism is that beautiful, measured reduplication of thought, whereby the same sentiment or fact or promise is doubly expressed, the second time with a difference, still within the general scope of the first; the variation serving not only to cluster together beauties of speech, such as synonyms, contrasts, subservient natural images, and so forth, but to fix the general scope and outlook of the couplet or stanza, the one line hinting the limit to which the other may be assumed to submit, or defining the subject to which it also relates. From this point of view Parallelism steps in as a most graceful and useful handmaid to Exposition. But the charm of it, is what first is felt. “So God created man in his image”: that sounds like prose, however weighty. But when Parallelism breaks in with its balanced couplet—

In the image of God created he him.
Male and female created he them, — c then we know we are in the presence of Poesy—a most fitting place, surely, for her first appearance!

There the lawless cease from raging,
And there the toilworn are at rest, d is so plaintive as to be like a mother’s lullaby over her sick child.

* 1 K. viii. ; 2 Ch. vi.  b Acts xxvi. 14-18.  c Gen. i. 27.  d Job iii. 17.
Another strain is touched when we read—

For a child hath been born to us,
A son hath been given to us.—*

in which it may be noted that this and not the current rhythm is undoubtedly the true one; since this it is which, closely following the Hebrew, throws the emphasis in the right place—on "child" and "son."* There lies our hope—in Him! These samples will suffice to point to the thousands of instances of Parallelism which, in this translation, lie before the reader. The present is not the place for discussing the many varieties of Parallelism to be found in the Bible. The subject is necessarily familiar in all treatises on Hebrew poetry. Better, however, than the perusal of any printed treatise will be the collating and classifying of instances by each student for himself. He can label his samples at pleasure, as "synonymous," "antithetic," "recurrent," "progressive," and so forth, provided he correctly describe them. It is uncertain whether due attention has generally been given to what may be described as semi-parallelism, not infrequently to be found in Isaiah. Its presence is intimated in this Bible, either by a couple of responding extra capitals, as in the following:—

I am sealed With ascending-offerings of rams,
And the fat of fed beasts. b

So have I sworn—Not to be vexed with thee, Nor to rebuke thee; c or, when space has required it, by an extra line bestowed upon it, sooner than do it an injustice. Thus—

And they shall call thee—
The city of Yahweh,
The Zion of the Holy One of Israel. d

There is one especial form of Parallelism to which much interest attaches, if not by reason of any novelty in the attention given to it, yet at least by virtue of its inherently striking character and the help it occasionally renders to right reading and interpretation. Dr. R. Moulton e terms it the Envelope arrangement of lines. Its simplest form is where the first line is responded to by the fourth, and the second is answered by the third. A single example will show what is meant:—

Let me see thy form,
Let me hear thy voice,—
For thy voice is sweet,
And thy form comely. f

Its bearing upon the correct reading of the original is seen in Isa. ix. 3; the much-needed emendation of which is reached by Dr. Ginsburg through a wholly independent process, dealing with questions of abbreviation and letter grouping. The result of his critical revision of the Hebrew text is strongly confirmed by the fact that thereby is produced this very special and beautiful form of parallelism:—

Thou hast increased the exultation,
Thou hast made great the joy,—
They joy before thee according to the joy of harvest,
As men exult when they distribute spoil.

INTRODUCTION.

How it touches exegesis may be discovered by turning to Mat. vii. 6; in explaining which we need no longer fear it as an undue liberty, to attribute to the "dogs" the "turning" and "tearing," and to the "swine" the "trampling underfoot."

*d. The indentations of the lines further present the results of Logical Analysis. This is the case where, without any suspicion of poetry, the thought-relation of the clauses is more readily seen by means of the exact place assigned to the line-commencements; whether, for example, a second line is to be regarded as co-ordinate with the first—that is, of an equally leading character; or as subordinate, subservient, helping. An extremely simple instance may be found in the setting forth of Martha's reply to our Lord, who has just said, "Belietest thou this?"

She saith unto him—
Yea, Lord! I have believed,
That thou art the Christ, the Son of God,—
He who into the world should come.

Here, the first line of course is narrative. In the second, Martha confesses that she has faith, but the line stops short of saying what it is she believes; that being reserved for a new and further-indented line, so indented partly because thereby greater distinctness is given to the proposition which first defines her faith, and partly also because her answer appears to be, if not evasive, yet a little indirect. She, at any rate, does not say quite simply, "Yea, Lord! I believe this!" For some reason, she prefers to formulate her own faith. Why she did this may be worth inquiry. Was it that she felt the answer she gave fully endorsed the statements Jesus had just made: "Believing thee to be who and what thou art, I at once confide in the truth of whatsoever thou art pleased to tell me?" Or was it perhaps rather that she was diffident of herself, and hesitated to say whether she believed a revelation so lofty and of such a sweeping amplitude as that just disclosed; and therefore in her grief and perplexity preferred to fall back upon a more elementary truth, to which she felt she had already attained, and upon which she could still rely? The indentation of that line conducts the reader to this profoundly interesting psychological inquiry. Then the further pushing in of the last line is merely to point out—what is seen after a moment's reflection to be true—that this final line is subordinate to the one that precedes it, being of an explanatory character, as showing who and what the Christ, the Son of God, must be, and as indicating Martha's persuasion that in the sympathetic Teacher standing before her she saw Him whom the prophetic Scriptures had foretold and for whom the ages had waited. Now if all this food for thought is presented, in what may be termed a digestible form, by means of four lines of varying indentation, surely the average thoughtful reader can take the hint, and not deem "Logical Analysis" beyond him, but do a little of it for himself, just when he is analytically inclined; and, for the rest, can come to a working confidence in the Translator for having presented

*To these references may be added Job xxvii. 16, 17; Jer. ix. 4; x. 11; and especially Is. vi. 10, with Mat. xii. 15, where the rhetorical movement is "heart—ears—eyes: eyes—ears —heart."

SPECIAL FEATURES OF THIS TRANSLATION.

Scripture thoughts (which had to be presented somehow) after what appeared to him the most apt and helpful arrangement; about which no one is counselled to trouble himself prematurely or overmuch. This, however, is certain—namely, that a little perseverance will soon render it easy to the reader of this Bible to pay a profitable regard to the parentheses and digressions which so strikingly characterise the writings of the Apostle Paul. To a principal statement, he subordinates another; then, to that, another; and so on to such a degree that, although for a time we can comfortably indent more and more, yet at length the device of indentation comes perilously near breaking down; and to avoid being driven quite up to the right-hand margin, and so having no column at all left, we are constrained to use substitutionary initial capitals (as in Ephesians i. and Colossians i.) to indicate where further-indented new lines would begin if only there were room. Extreme indentation, as the initiated know well, is literally, in printing, an expensive luxury; but the student reaps the benefit, and his sense of triumph becomes a keen enjoyment as he watches the return of the great Evangelical Thinker to the point from which—a good while ago—he started. He confesses that his Guide has wandered; but he boasts that his Master never comes back empty. What, for example, though the entire Third of Ephesians is a parenthesis? The world would have been poorer without it. Furthermore, when industrious readers wake up to the gains which Logical Analysis promises to bring home, they may find themselves marking with the greatest interest the unexpected appearance of a similar Logical Idiom in the Book of Ezekiel to that which is found in the Book of Daniel—pursued to such a remarkable extent, in these two Books alone, as to give colour to the assumption that, after all, in spite of the contrary assertions of certain critics, the prophets Ezekiel and Daniel were very nearly contemporaries, just as the sacred history would naturally lead us to suppose they were.

c. The arrangement of the lines is occasionally used to set forth, in a becoming style, Divine Proclamations and certain obvious approximations to Divine Signature. For example: to centralise the words is simply to invoke the assistance of the eye to give to that formula the dominating force over the announcement which follows which by the intention of the prophet it should naturally have. And so again there are cases in the Pentateuch and in the Prophets in which the oft-recurring formula, "As Yahweh commanded Moses," a or "Declareth Yahweh," b can be more becomingly appended, and with better effect, as a line by itself drawn towards the right hand, after the manner of a signature, than in any other way.

3. Varieties of type.—These have been but sparingly resorted to, partly on the score of economy, but chiefly because continual changes of type soon become annoying and even distressing to the eye. For these reasons Emphasis, in particular, has not been thus indicated. At the same time the discreet employment of other than the ordinary type has been made to answer a few very serviceable ends.

* Exo. xl.
* Jer., Eze., Hag. ii., Zech. ii., viii., x., and often.
a. Refrains in the Old Testament have been distinguished by italic type. These naturally abound in the Psalms; and there are few readers who will not be pleased to find them so made prominent throughout that favourite Book. The presence of "refrains" in the early chapters of Isaiah will surprise some readers; while the existence of them in the prophecies of Jeremiah will astonish still more, especially if we are allowed to classify under the heading of "refrains" the recurrence of a biting phrase, magor missaviv ("terror round about"), which (after being found in chap. vi. 25, hurled by Jeremiah against his priestly persecutor Pashur [xx. 3]), then seems to have been mockingly flung back on himself by a tell-tale populace (ver. 10); afterwards to be solemnly directed by Yahweh against Egypt (chap. xlvi. 5) and against Kedar (chap. xlix. 29); strikingly enough to reappear, finally, in the plaintive dirge of the same weeping prophet (Lam. ii. 22), thereby, at last, well-nigh proving its claim to a place among actual refrains. Of course the most beautiful refrain in the Book of Jeremiah is the melodious couplet—which occurs in chaps. vii. 34; xvi. 9; xxv. 10; and xxxiii. 11—three times as a lament, as of something that was to cease; but, on the fourth and last occasion, reappearing as a lovely flower in a gay garland of joyful prophetic news. Not for ever, to Israel, is that fourfold voice to be hushed! If, however, we can tolerate the extension of the word "refrain" to the most inspiring recurrence of consolatory truth, apart from any further thought of poetic composition, then we may surely distinguish by that name the brightest promise of the Old Testament, which meets us in the form of an announcement by the Most High of his own character. Taking its rise in the Ten Commandments, it expands in volume on that later, momentous, re-instanting occasion, when Yahweh caused "all his goodness to pass before" Moses, and when in answer to prayer He graciously restored Israel to covenant favour. Further references will be found under the last-named passage; and whoever will take the trouble to look through those texts, and will thoughtfully note how this manifestation of "all the Divine goodness" forms the sheet-anchor of hope for after times, will probably admit the fitness of terming it, by way of eminence, The Refrain of the Old Testament.

b. Some peculiarities in the use of Divine Names are thereby (viz.; by varieties of type) indicated. Concerning the especial proper name of God (Yahweh) the reader will naturally consult Chapter IV. of this Introduction. But the present is the fitting place for naming some further information which has been conveyed throughout the Old Testament part of this Bible by typographical means. It should be understood, then, that when the familiar word "God" is found printed in ordinary type, then the Hebrew is Elohim; when the same word is printed "Gon" (one capital and two small capitals), then the Hebrew is "El"; and when "God" is printed in Old English letter, then the Hebrew is Eloah (principally confined to the Book of Job). It is not, perhaps, to be assumed that these discriminations are of supreme importance; nevertheless, when connected with other things, they are certainly invested with considerable interest. For the word Elohim, see note on Gen. i. 1. El will be readily remembered as entering into the composition of proper names, such as "Beth-el," "Immanu-el," and many others. It may also be discovered—the evidence would seem to point that way—that in the use of the independent monosyllable El, just where the moral feeling is most intense, there El shows an aptitude to step in, in preference to Elohim. The ordinary reader can now judge of this for himself. Without imagining anything less sacred in Eloah than in its longer or shorter companions, this at least is clear, that Eloah—as compared with the most sacred Name (the Tetragrammaton—see Chapter IV.)—is held to be good enough for the controversial spirit which undeniably pervades all the middle portion of the Book of Job.

c. Quotations from the Old Testament in the New are by the italics rendered conveniently conspicuous. That it is of great convenience and of considerable practical utility to be able to see at once what portions from the Jewish Scriptures are quoted in the Christian, will not be denied by anyone who has given a fair amount of attention to the matter; nor can it be questioned that the employment of italic letter for the purpose is far more effective than the adoption even of quotation marks would have been. Thereby, for example, the reader perceives without any appreciable trouble how largely the Book of the "Revelation" is constructed out of Old Testament language and imagery. Thereby also he sees instantly how even a single word out of a citation becomes the pivot on which an argument is made to turn.

4. Section-headings, Footnotes, References, and Appendices.—These may be left for themselves, when once two or three needful explanations have been offered.

a. It was not at first intended to insert Section-headings in the Prophetic Books, owing to the risk of needlessly determining or attempting to determine difficult questions of interpretation; but an experiment having been made, the result seemed to promise so much convenience and assistance to average readers that the hazard and the additional labour were accepted. In most cases it will be found that, where these headings appear most startling, they are expressly warranted by the very terms of the Sacred Text.

b. The Footnotes include both "alternative renderings" and "various readings," the difference between which, being partly technical, is worth a moment's attention. An "alternative rendering," then, comes of the process of translating, and merely expresses the translator's feeling that some other English word than that adopted in the text might have given the sense of the original nearly or quite as well; and that for the reader to know this may be of practical service. It is well for the reader to be aware that oftentimes no one word wholly and absolutely and alone says precisely what is conveyed by the Hebrew or Greek. It is no question of variance between one Gal. iii. 16; Eph. iv. 9; Heb. ii. 11-14; iii. 5, 6; iv. 7; vii. 24; viii. 13; x. 10, 39; xii. 27; xiii. 11-13.

INTRODUCTION.

... copy of the original and another, but exclusively concerns the best way of representing what is admitted to be in the original. One rendering conveys the meaning more readily or more precisely than another, and to ring the changes on fair alternatives is often very helpful, supplying a breadth or an exactness which can be had in no other way. Sometimes a rendering is too literal for the text, yet not too literal for the margin. Questions of decorum and euphemism may be allowed some influence. Humorous translations may sometimes do good service in the margin which could never be tolerated in the text. Moreover, a freer rendering may the sooner be allowed in the text, provided a more literal one be placed at the foot of the page. So much for "alternative renderings." "Various readings" are a very different matter. They have sole regard to variations which, in the course of transmission from an earlier age, have crept into different copies of or witnesses to the original. Concerning these, more information will be found in Chapter III. of this Introduction.

c. References, as commonly understood, can readily be found elsewhere. Those here given have come into the Translator's hands mostly through special channels or as the result of personal study; and in any case, it is believed, will be found trustworthy and useful.

d. The Appendices present, in orderly collected form, matter which would have been suited for longer notes, but can be more conveniently studied as actually given. These appended notes mostly touch upon subjects of the highest importance, and are respectfully submitted in the hope that they will prove helpful to not a few readers of The Emphasised Bible.

CHAPTER II.

CONCERNING EMPHASIS

AS AUTHORITATIVELY INDICATED IN THE HOLY SCRIPTURES.

1. "Strike, but hear me!" exclaimed an ancient orator to an infuriated mob; that is, "Strike, if you will; but hear me first." In reading aloud this citation, some little stress is instinctively laid on the two words "strike" and "hear," thereby assisting the ear to catch the plainly intended contrast. A few years since, the same saying was modified in sense by a change of emphasis. A trade strike was pending, when an illustrated paper, giving an imposing figure representing "Law," put beneath the figure the legend, "Strike, but hear me!" in this way not only investing the word "strike" with a modern significance, but suggesting, by the emphasis laid on the word "me," a timely contrast—as much as to say, "You have listened to other advisers: before you act on their counsel, hearken to me—consider whether your contemplated strike would be legal." This new point put into the old words would perhaps scarcely have been caught, even with the help of the symbolic figure of the cartoon, but for the outward and visible sign of emphasis attached to the closing word "me."

2. It is freely granted that context and circumstance, when known and considered, are in many cases alone sufficient to guide to correct emphasis, whether it be in ordinary...
CONCERNING EMHASIS.

literature or in the Bible. For example, the bold contrast made by Christ, in the Sermon on the Mount, between other teachers and himself would naturally prompt any reader of taste to lay stress on the pronoun “I” in the recurring formula—

Ye have heard that it hath been said ... but I say unto you.*

3. Context and circumstance, however, are not always sufficient, because not always clear. We have therefore to be thankful that our Public Versions of the Bible furnish further guidance in the matter of emphasis by means of Idiom. The words are frequently so arranged as by their very order to indicate where the stress should be placed. Thus, in the history of Joseph, where “the butler,” in confessing his fault in forgetting Joseph, narrates the diverse fate of “the baker” and himself, he says—

And it came to pass, as he interpreted to us, so it was: me he restored unto mine office, and him he hanged.«

In this sentence it is at once felt that the pronouns “me” and “him” are as certainly emphasised by their mere position as if they had been printed in capitals. So, again, where the Apostle Paul, after thanking God that he spake with tongues more than any of the Corinthian Christians, proceeds to say—

Yet in the church I had rather speak five words with my understanding, that by my voice I might teach others also, than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue,º it is easily seen from the context that the clause “in the church” governs the whole sentence, and should receive the leading stress. Nor is it by order of words alone that an emphatic idiom is constituted. Certain forms of circumlocution serve the same purpose:

But as for me, I shall behold thy face in righteousness,¹ is an altogether effective means of reproducing the force of the emphatic pronoun which opens the verse in the Hebrew. Or a simple repetition secures the result—

The living, the living, he shall praise thee, as I do this day.«

Or a qualifying word of a manifestly emphasising force is employed, like “surely” in the following:—

In the day that thou eatest thereof, thou shalt surely die;¹

or, “certainly” in this place—

Could we certainly know that he would say, Bring your brother down?«

or “diligently” in this—

If thou shalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the Lord thy God.«

4. Yet, varied as is the Emphatic Idiom of our Public Versions and numerous as are the examples which meet us in which that indication of stress has been turned to most admirable account, the pity it is that it has not been resorted to ten times more frequently than is the case. For, be it observed, the Emphatic Idiom of the English is but a faint and fitful reflex of the Emphatic Idiom of the Hebrew and Greek.¹ This fact is well-known to scholars, though scarcely dreamt of by the general Bible-reading public. A fact however it is, and one which can be substantiated just as conclusively as any law which governs language. The great point at present is that all this accession of force and guide to the sense is, in the Sacred Originals, secured simply by Idiom—order of words, fulness of expression, repetitions and the like—and is therefore both pervading and authoritative. It is "pervading": not, of course, as though all Scripture needed to be formally emphasised to the same degree—to imagine such a thing would be absurd; some styles of Sacred composition, instead of bristling with points, calmly flow on, keeping the even tenor of their way—but "pervading" in the satisfactory sense of being ever available when required. Whenever a point has to be made, a quiet contrast to be rather hinted at than expressed, a sharp and sudden home-thrust to be delivered, Idiom is at hand to accomplish it. From which, when the numberless living interests enshrined in the Bible are considered, it will be expected to follow—and follow it does—that a very large amount of indicated stress underlies almost every page of the Sacred Volume. And—does it need to be repeated?—Emphasis so conveyed is surely "authoritative": which is not the same thing as saying there is no room for misapprehension in this place or in that; nor is it the same as affirming that all scholars are absolutely agreed about every little point. But the emphasis is "authoritative," inasmuch as it is in the original—is a part of the original—is of the very spirit and essence of the original. And being in this way "authoritative," it is in all its main indications worthy of unspeakably more diligent heed in exposition than the most brilliant fancies of men who dream they may make what they please of Holy Writ. Sober students are bound by the laws of Grammar: they are equally bound by the laws of Emphasis.

5. It is one of the leading aims of The Emphasised Bible to do justice to the Emphatic Idioms of the original tongues, and thereby place all earnest Bible readers for practical purposes, on the same footing as that occupied by such as are familiar with Hebrew and Greek.

6. Mainly by Idiom has this been attempted. So that if all the artificial signs of Emphasis used in this Bible were swept away, an amount of Emphatic Idiom would remain far surpassing that to be found in any other version known to the Translator. Although emphatic inversion, for instance, is not infrequently discovered in our Public Versions: yet far more frequently and—if the expression may be pardoned—far more consistently does it appear in this translation. Take two examples out of thousands:

A.V. Wilt thou break a leaf driven to and fro?
And wilt thou pursue the dry stubble?

Em. B. A driven leaf wilt thou cause to tremble?
Or dry stubble wilt thou pursue?*

The latter rendering reproduces the idiom of the Hebrew, and therewith also most naturally shows where the primary stress should be laid.

A.V. And when he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth before them.

Em. B. As soon as all his own he putteth forth Before them he moveth on.*

The Idiom, the Emphasis, is in the Greek. It would be endless to cite examples of all the various forms which the Original Idiom takes for the sake of conveying

* Job xiii. 25.

emphasize. Suffice it to say: that in this Bible these forms have been sacredly reproduced whenever possible—so long, that is, as the English remained easily intelligible and was not too constrained.

7. But Idiom alone would have been utterly inadequate to the attainment of the object in view. In many instances the endeavour to preserve in English the order of the words in the original would have resulted in obscurity; or, worse still, would have conveyed the very opposite of the meaning intended. In the following passage from the Book of Lamentations, it could have been wished that, for the sake of preserving the exact rhythm of the Hebrew, it had been perspicuous English to say—

For this cause hath sickened our heart,
For these things have darkened our eyes:*

inasmuch as there is some little weight naturally resting on the paired words (ending words in the Hebrew) "heart" and "eyes" which, if that position could have been preserved in English, would have secured a fine cadence and a satisfying ending to each line of the couplet. But the construction would in two or three ways have been ambiguous—in fact a wrong meaning to some of the terms would have been favoured. Therefore, inasmuch as a clear conveyance of the sense is rightly the first requirement, the Hebrew arrangement can only in part be followed, and we have to be content with some such approximation as this—

For this cause hath our heart sickened,
For these things have our eyes darkened.

An acute accent on "heart" and "eyes" may be allowed as a slight compensation for loss of position; and, to anticipate for a moment, if our angular sign be then attached to the two opening phrases ("For this cause" and "For these things"), those words will be instinctively caught as adverbal clauses, strongly emphasised by their commanding position, and so gathering up into themselves the whole stream of the prophet's foregoing lament—

<For this cause> hath our heart sickened,
<For these things> have our eyes darkened.

This illustration may stand for thousands, and evince beyond a doubt the impossibility of mechanically giving idiom for idiom in translation: hopeless obscurity would frequently be the inevitable result. And as a sufficient proof that in some cases idiom for idiom would cause the translation to express the very opposite meaning to its original, it is enough to cite one instance.

Elijah calleth this man* is the order of the words in the Greek; yet "this man" is the nominative (that is, the caller) and "Elijah" the objective (that is, the person [supposed to be] called upon), and the true rendering is—

This man calleth Elijah;

though rightfully a decided stress should be laid, where indicated, on "Elijah."

8. That, notwithstanding this risk of overdoing, a very free use of Emphatic Idiom has been made in this Bible will soon appear upon examination. Few sympathetic readers will complain of this. Such readers will perceive and bear in mind that inversions in the language of THE EMPHASISED BIBLE are always intentional—always

* Lam. v. 17.

b Mat. xxvii. 47.
according to the original—always expressive. They will go on to observe that an inversion which at first seemed harsh, especially if incautiously read, soon commends itself when tastefully uttered. Finally, the Translator's purpose will be remembered.
It is due to himself to confess that he has deemed himself privileged, and therefore has carried the process of imitating the inversions of the originals to a degree scarcely tolerable in any version designed for public use. It is quite true that the larger number of the inversions here ventured would, as he conceives, adorn any translation, and because of their apt reflection of the Hebrew or Greek he honestly thinks they possess strong claims on general adoption; but not all of them. Speaking approximately, possibly in one case out of ten the Editor of The Emphasised Bible would have himself shrunk back from what he has actually dared, if he had been so presumptuous as to think of producing a competitive translation. His aim throughout has been to form a Companion Version; and he respectfully asks the measure of indulgence which that intention makes reasonable.

9. One thing at least is clear—namely, that English Idiom alone could never have expressed all the Emphasis enshrined in the originals. It follows that either numerous tokens of stress contained in the sacred tongues must have been lost, or else artificial means were necessary to give them effect. As for the best method of doing this, there is, of course, no accounting for individual preferences; and, given the necessity, some would have chosen varieties of type, not sufficiently considering, perhaps, how soon these annoy the eye when multiplied. Others, again, would have preferred the underscoring which was used in the first and second editions of the Translator's New Testament, unaware, probably, that the costliness of that method seemed prohibitive when thought of for the entire Bible. In favour of the plan now adopted, suffice it to claim economy, elasticity, and effectiveness. The signs here employed practically cost nothing, since the compositor can pick up a sign of emphasis as easily as he can pick up a comma. The elasticity springs from the combination of diverse signs: for example, an interposed accent can appear in the midst of an already emphasised clause. And the effectiveness is quite as great as was desired, seeing that delicacy of touch was also wished, and even a fitness to be temporarily disregarded —a quality commended to all who find the marks in the least perplexing. Such persons as would have been better pleased with some heavier and more obtrusive styl of emphasising will kindly bethink them, that stress is mostly quite effective if laid o one syllable of a word, one word in a clause, and so forth; and that all the guidance the eye requires is to be enabled to take in at a glance the beginning and endin of the word, the phrase, the clause within which the enhanced stress is to tak efect.

10. One explanation further, and nothing will be needed for completing this chapte beyond a few annotated examples and the synopsis at the end, which will be con venient for reference both to the scholar and to the learner. The explanation is this Idiom alone, it may be thought, might have been trusted to convey a portion of th emphasis indicated in the original, and artificial signs might have been restricted the conveyance of the rest; instead of which (it may be objected), in this Bible, th artificial signs, in point of fact, mostly accompany the idiom when present, as well serve as a substitute for it when absent. In fact, however, it was difficult to draw t line, especially as, in many cases, the signs of emphasis served as a species of magnifi punctuation, for which reason it seemed better to go through with them. Besid which, is it not sometimes welcome to hurried eyes to have pointed out to them what might have been discovered without aid of vision?

11. Now for a few annotated examples, before submitting which the hint is given that a glance at the Table of Signs placed at the end of this Introduction will here be found convenient.

Doth [this] cause [you] to stumble?

The A.V. rendering of this passage leaves much to be desired; partly because of the wrong impression which the word “offend” conveys, as though Jesus feared He had hurt His disciples’ feelings to the degree of provoking their resentment; and partly because it leaves the point of the question uncertain. The R.V. obviates the wrong impression, by substituting “cause to stumble” for “offend,” but it fails to bring out the fine point seen by laying a little stress on “you.” “Doth this cause you to stumble”—you, My disciples, who might have known better? It is a clear case; for the Greek sets the noun governed before the verb that governs it (cp. post, Synopsis, A, b).

And he said,

I know not, <the keeper of my brother> am [I]?

How the point of Cain’s defence of his professed ignorance leaps to his lips! The arrangement, “Am I my brother’s keeper?” is tameness itself in comparison.

<What is right, what is right> shalt thou pursue.

In this place both A.V. and R.V. preserve the inversion which opens the verse, and for that we are thankful: “That which is altogether just shalt thou follow.” But why not have given it with the greater simplicity and vivacity of the original?—ṣēdhek ṣēdhek tirāḏōf—it is all there. And why not have given the full force of the verb “pursue”—“pursue” with determination, and not merely “follow” with half-heartedness or from a dull sense of duty?

Then thou scarest me with dreams,
And <by visions> dost terrify me:
So that my soul chooseth strangling,
|Death| rather than these my bones.

Note here how parallelism and emphasis enhance the effect of each other. There being two synonymous couplets, constituting a duplicate expression for each thought (viz., first the Divine visitation, then the effect on the sufferer), emphasis steps in at the second line of each couplet, and strongly accentuates the closing word of the preceding line: “dreams—visions”; “strangling—death.” Note also how well the sharp expression which the word “death” draws to itself, prepares the way for the lingering and piteous lament over “these my bones.”

<Righteousness> I put on, and it clothed me,
<Like a robe and a turban> was my [justice];
<Eyes> became I to [the blind],
And <feet to the lame> was [I].

It would be difficult to name a passage more studded with the beauties of combined parallelism and emphasis than this. Observe that, here again, there are two couplets; then, that an emphatic inversion leads off in the first line of the first couplet—an accusative before its verb (Synopsis, A, b); next, that the thought of “clothing” oneself, given in the first line, is emphatically and rhetorically amplified in the second line,

* Jn. vi. 61.  \(^{b}\) Gen. iv. 9.  \(^{c}\) Deu. xvi. 20.  \(^{d}\) Job vii. 14, 15.  \(^{*}\) Job xxix. 14, 15.
“robe” and “turban” forming not merely clothing, but an adornment fit for any assembly; further, that the term “righteousness” at the beginning of the first line is answered by its synonym “justice” at the end of the second—a not infrequent device in Hebrew poetry, and that as the two substantives respond to each other and ending words also have a natural advantage (cp. Synopsis, A, f), a slight stress is marked on “justice.” In line three, note how the word “eyes” at the opening comes into rhythmic relation with the term “blind” at the close, the verb “to become” being unemphatically thrown in between them, with no stress on the pronoun “I,” which is merely implied in the verb; and how finally, in the last line, “feet” and “lame,” instead of being parted like “eyes” and “blind” in the third line, are swiftly and unexpectedly welded into a single emphatic phrase at the head of the line, to be simply followed by the pronoun “I,” which, though having primarily to serve, after Hebrew fashion, for the verb “to be,” yet, with its long-drawn pausal vowel (d’ni), lingers on the ear with an unspeakable pathos (Synopsis, B, a, last sentence).

See ||now|| that ||I|| ||I|| am be,
And there are no’ gods with me:
||I|| kill—and make alive,
I wound, and ||I|| I heal;
And there is none’ who <from my hand> can deliver.\footnote{Deu. xxxii. 39.}

The inquisitive will not begrudge the trouble of examining the context which leads up to this animated and impressive passage. It will be seen that, with keenest irony, idolatrous Israel has just been advised to apply in her extremity to the false gods of which she has boasted. “See now”—if haply ye have at length discovered how utterly vain is their help—“that I, I—emphatically repeated, as if to invite a penitent nation to fill in the blanks from the stores of reviving memories—“I”—your own, your real, your living God; “I”—your long forgotten, but yet faithful, loving God, still waiting, even now after all this, to be gracious. “See now, that I. I am he;” or, “am the one, and the only one, that can help you.” “And there are no’ gods with me”—strong negative of the substantive verb, hence accent on “no.” “I kill”—separate nominative pronoun (Synopsis, B, a); hence strong emphasis on the pronoun. “And make alive”—nominative pronoun not repeated, hence none needed in English: the contrast between “kill” and “make alive” at this point suffices. “I wound”—again no separate nominative, and no emphasis on “I” this time permissible. But then finally, when bringing in the climax “I heal,” there is a triumphant stress to be laid on the “I” (wa’a’ni’erpd).—The Translator protests that, while he does real homage to the elocutionary instinct which is common to all men, and is well trained in most educated men, he considers it very unlikely that such instinct could ever, unaided, have divined the existence of such authoritatively indicated variations as these; of which, indeed, familiarity with the original idiom can alone give trustworthy information.

He was despised and forsaken of men,
A man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief,—
Yes <like one from whom men turn away the face>
He was despised, and we esteemed him not.\footnote{Isa. liii. 3.}

So far the discourse flows calmly on in description of the Suffering Servant, without any use for emphatic pronouns. But now an entire change of mood is felt. From a bare statement of the matter of fact, reflective Israel passes to a revised and deeper view of the cause of the Sufferer’s sorrows:—
CONCERNING EMPHASIS.

| Yet surely | <our griefs> || he || carried,
And <as for our sorrows> he bare them,— where note what a break-up of the historical style occurs, and how the emphasising strokes come throbbing in: "Yet surely our griefs"—the real cause of the Servant’s sufferings by bold inversion being set at the head and front of the sentence (the accusative before its verb: Synopsis, 4, b). "He carried"—the pronoun is, indeed, implied in the verb (násâ‘), but that is not enough, and so it is also separately expressed, in order that stress may be laid upon it (hu’ násâ‘—cp. Synopsis, B, a).

He was our Substitute and bare our burden. That in this couplet the phrases "our griefs" and "our sorrows" are synonymous, is at once evident.

What, perhaps, we desiderate in the second line is that the pronoun "he" should have been again emphasised in like manner as in the line foregoing; and though it is absent from the Masoretic or traditional text, and therefore, according to rule, we can scarcely so mark it, yet we note with intense interest that there is a various readingb relating to that very point, to the effect that some Hebrew written copies actually have the emphatic "he"; in which, moreover, the ancient Syriac and Latin versions keep them company (implying that the ancient Hebrew standards from which they were formed had the pronoun emphatic). And we are further informed that there are some existing Hebrew copies which, though they have not the emphatic hu’ in the text, yet have it set down in the margin as a keri’, that is, to be read, though not written. We have purposely expanded this short note of variance, bearing as it does on a point of much interest.

To return to the text:—

||We|| however, esteemed him—
Stricken, smitten of God, and humbled.
But ||he|| was Wounded for our transgressions,
Bruised for our iniquities,
||The chastisement for our well-being|| was upon him,
And <by his stripes> there is healing ||for us.||

As much as to say: "We," however, away in the past, when the true light of the matter had not dawned upon us, esteemed him divinely chastised for some cause unknown. We then little thought how his sufferings were related to us; "But" we see it all now! And so on, until the ultimate explanation is reached—

But ||Yahweh|| caused to light upon him the iniquity of us all.d

Yahweh did what none other had any right or power to do. Compare verse 10 where the same stress as in verse 6 is laid on the Divine Doer of the work of Salvation. And so we close our brief hints as to the expository value of the emphasis indicated throughout this wonderful prophecy; and we close them by respectfully claiming that it is not at all by the play of pious fancy, but exclusively by giving effect to a well-proved idiomatic law that we lay decided stress upon the Divine interposition through which there is healing for Israel and for Mankind. Before dismissing our notice of this example of emphasis in the famous Fifty-third of Isaiah, it may be worth reminding the reader that in at least three places in the New Testament* do the words of this Prophecy re-appear, and each time with something of the significant emphasis with which the words were originally penned. In fact speaking broadly, the emphasis of the Old Testament is the emphasis of the New the main idioms are the same, their exegetical value is the same. When successfully rendered, the ancient tones and suggestions of the Hebrew are reproduced—in Greek in English. The language again lives.

A SYNOPSIS OF THE PRINCIPAL LAWS OF EMPHASIS DISCOVERABLE IN THE BIBLE ORIGINALS.

Words are emphatic—

A. By position.

a. Nominatives before verbs—always.*

b. Genitives, datives and accusatives before verbs—always.

c. Verbs before nominatives—slightly; * but able to command strong emphasis reduplication, see below, B. b.

d. Adjectives before nouns—chiefly in N.T., and slightly.†

e. Words brought into juxtaposition—sometimes, in prose, internal evidence occurring;* more frequently in poetry, where the last word of one line is of varied and emphatically echoed by the first in next line.‡

f. Words postponed to end of sentence—sometimes in prose, sense concurring more frequently in lyric poetry, in which the last word is mostly weight and claims secondary stress.¶

B. By repetition.

a. Separate nominative pronoun. § Prolific source of emphasis both in Hebrew Greek, as the separate pronoun is independent of position. Always relied when construed with finite verb, which has the pronominal element also within itself. Sometimes also, when used instead of a verb, seems by association to lend itself to some special stress.

b. Reduplicated verb—chiefly in Hebrew, appearing by quotation in . Always indicates lively emphasis. Infinitive verb generally set before its finite—then emphasis only: occasionally placed after its own finite—perhaps sometimes suggesting continuance or repetition of action.¶

c. Independent words, phrases, § and sentences. ¶ The mere repetition of the one of the most simple and obvious devices for indicating stress.

C. By formal expression.

This chiefly applies to Hebrew particles. Owing to the extraordinary facility with the measurement of facts and thoughts can be conveyed forward by peg-letter now, it follows that when more formal and precise connecting par are employed, some emphasis can generally be felt. Hence springs the more or less vigorous, which in the Emphasised Bible is frequently seen on such connectives as "now" (attachment), "therefore" (lack), "for this ca (at ken), and so on; in respect of which appeal is confidently made, locutionary instinct as to the validity of the result.

CHAPTER III.

THE ORIGINAL TEXTS.

For practical purposes it may be assumed that Hebrew and Greek are the original languages of the Bible. The small proportion of Aramaic embedded in the Hebrew Bible does not require formal consideration, just because this dialect is nearly allied to Hebrew, and the portions of the Old Testament written therein form integral parts of all Hebrew written copies and printed editions. With regard to the New Testament, the only question that could arise would be whether some parts of it were not first written in Syriac and then translated into Greek. But this is probably a purely academical inquiry, and inasmuch as the assumption of a Greek original for the whole of the New Testament does not exclude Syriac sources from contributing their quota towards evidence of genuineness and aids to textual purity, the question for the Translator is reduced to this: What Hebrew Bible and what Greek New Testament shall he employ for making his version? In a word—What Texts shall he translate?

It is a relief to think that no translator can be required first to construct his Hebrew and Greek texts before turning them into English. Life would not be long enough for one man or one set of men to explore the whole of the immense field; besides, the task is more likely to be efficiently done if its widely different departments are undertaken by departmental experts. The textual critic prepares the way for the translator, a consideration which makes this the convenient moment for stating that the textual critics followed in executing The Emphasised Bible are respectively Dr. Ginsburg in the Old Testament, and Drs. Westcott and Hort in the New. To understand the debt of gratitude we owe to these pioneers, it will be better to take separately the two leading divisions of our Holy Scriptures, and the more so as each division involves conditions inapplicable to the other.

I. The Original Text of the Old Testament.

1. The Text itself.

In the Old Testament there seemed to be no choice but to take the received or current Massoretic text, unless one had been prepared to embark on the treacherous sea of Conjectural Criticism; and, in the first writing out of the MS. for this work, that text in its commonly printed form was implicitly followed. It was the singular good fortune of the present translator, however, to have only just completed his transcript when the Critico-Massoretic Hebrew Bible of Dr. C. D. Ginsburg appeared; and it was at once seen how greatly it would add to the value of The Emphasised Bible to compare the MS. throughout with Dr. Ginsburg’s Hebrew text and to make and translate a selection from his priceless Various Readings. This additional labour was gladly undertaken; and it is deemed no small cause for gratitude to have been spared to finish the task. Respecting the Old Testament, therefore, the case now stands as follows:—

The Hebrew Text used is the revised Massoretic Text edited by Dr. Ginsburg, subject to certain exceptions which will at once be explained, and which can scarcely fail to commend themselves as soon as they are understood. The exceptions are almost exclusively the confirmed and approved various readings to which Dr. Ginsburg has prefixed the formula, "It ought to be" so-and-so. These have been incorporated in the text of this version, and not merely inserted in the notes; for it was instinctively felt that what "ought to be" should be in a work of this kind. For Dr. Ginsburg's purpose, indeed, it was probably fitting that he should make no changes in his text other than any which might be required to render his edition a perfectly accurate reprint of the Received Massoretic recension, and that accordingly all the emendations he had to propose were wisely incorporated with his foot-notes, no matter with what degree of confidence advanced. This method was at once seen to be in the true Massoretic spirit, which changes nothing, reproduces everything, fences and guards everything. But as this translation of the Old Testament was intended to make straight for correct exegesis and was purely practical in its design, the contrary course was adopted with respect to the especial class of various readings now under consideration, and accordingly the resulting changes were boldly made in the text of this version, with the unvarying note appended in each case, "So it shd be," duly referring to Ginsburg's authority. It was quite otherwise where Dr. Ginsburg prefixed his other formula, "It appears to me" = "I think" it should be so-and-so. These conjectural variations have in the following pages been given (where given at all) in foot-notes, with the corresponding formula "Gt." = "Dr. Ginsburg thinks" the reading should be as follows, in the quoted words then cited. They are the conjectures of an expert, often of great value, and always worthy of respectful consideration, but not advanced into the text of this Bible, save in a very few exceptional cases distinctly notified in the margin. These isolated instances are limited to places in which it was felt that the internal evidence fully made up for any lack of external attestation.

2. The appended Various Readings.

A. Whence come these Various Readings? They are (i.) variations discovered in existing standard copies (Codices) or in early printed editions; (ii.) variations recorded in the Massorah itself as having formerly existed in documents now lost; (iii.) variations preserved in the Talmud or in the commentaries of ancient Jewish scholars; (iv.) variations proved by Ancient Versions, in cases where the changes cannot reasonably be attributed to freedom of translation, but assure us that the translators must have had before them a Hebrew Text materially differing from that which has been handed down to the present day.

B. What are the leading Characteristics of these Various Readings? (i.) Many of them are exceedingly minute: either resolving themselves into variations of spelling and accentuation, such as to make no difference in translation, and therefore passed by in silence in this Bible; or else making very little difference in English—i.e., being of no appreciable consequence for Israel fell into the "hand" or "hands" of their enemies. Still, the collating of the smallest variations has some value as a check on the accuracy of the copyist and the textual critics to note them and guard against their multiplication. (ii.) At the same time, literal minuteness of variation is a very uncertain criterion of importance. Truth is not measurable by bulk, but by weight. The change of a single letter in one case may show nothing but a peculiar spelling of the same word, whereas in the very next instance it may indicate a totally different word.
and make all the difference in the world to the sense. To mistake lo for lo' may bring in a negative and turn the sentence completely round. To write 'āḥar for 'āḥad (showing, in the Hebrew, a minuter difference than this) may turn "one" into "after" or "another." (iii.) Many variations are due to the most simple and obvious causes—mere mistakes of eye or ear, or the writing as one word what was meant for two, and vice versa. (iv.) More serious is the divergence of exemplars; the standard copies of one district having in course of time or under different editorship come to depart from the favourite standards of another region; the old standard becoming worn out or lost, and a new one having to be procured from a distance, bringing its own divergences with it, and propagating them on new soil. (v.) Still more serious is prejudice leading to the deliberate avoiding of certain exemplars, as favouring, say, the detested Samaritan or Septuagint recension. (vi.) Most serious of all is the deliberate intention to change the old reading for one more acceptable—never, perhaps, with wilful corruptness; on the contrary, with pious intentions and for greater edification; yet still displaying a freedom of editing which to us seems quite indefensible.

C. How may Dr. Ginsburg's Various Readings be Classified? (i.) Write, but read; or the official variations technically known as the K'thiv and the K'ri. "The margin of the [Hebrew] Bible exhibits a number of various readings of an early date, called K'ri (read), because in the view of the Jewish critics they are to be preferred to what stands in the text, and to be read instead of what is there written, hence called K'thiv (written)." "So great a reverence for the ancient literal text, as it was handed down by tradition, was preserved among the Jews, that the Grammarians who made the new additions to the text left the written text still unchanged, even in cases where they believed it necessary to follow a different reading and interpretation." Probably the general understanding amongst English students of Hebrew is that the K'ris are invariably to be preferred to the K'thiv. Dr. Ginsburg, however, does not endorse that view, for he says: "It is now admitted by the best textual critics that in many instances the reading exhibited in the text (K'thiv) is preferable to the marginal variant (K'ri), inasmuch as it sometimes preserves the archaic orthography and sometimes gives the original reading. The K'thiv or textual reading, moreover, is in many instances not only supported by MSS. and early editions, but by the ancient Versions." There are two features in Dr. Ginsburg's exhibit of these various readings which cannot fail to give lively satisfaction to the student. The first he states thus: —"I have in most cases given the MSS., the early editions, and the ancient Versions which support the K'thiv and those which exhibit the K'ri." The second is the claim thus expressed: "I have been able to give a larger number of K'ris and K'thivos than those which are printed in any other edition of the Hebrew Bible." On the strength of this last fact, as well as on the score of convenience, the K'ris cited in The Emphasised Bible are given as resting on Ginsburg's authority, without forgetting that many of them are to be found in other Hebrew texts. (ii.) A special class of various readings called Sevirin. These constitute a body of readings "of equal importance to the class of variants comprised in the official K'ri, though it has hardly been noticed by modern critics. Indeed in some respects it is more important than the alternative readings which have hitherto been so scrupulously given in the margin of our Bibles under the name of K'ri by modern editors, who have either entirely banished the Sevir from the margin or have on extremely rare occasions condescended to notice one of the numerous readings introduced by the name Sevir.”a As in the case of the K'ris, Ginsburg mostly states by what authorities the Sevirin are confirmed. A reading of this class will be found given in the notes of this Bible thus: “A sp. v. (sevir),” followed by a translation of the reading, with the addition of any confirming authority. (iii.) Variants cited in the Masorah itself and underlined by Dr. Ginsburg. When possible these have been given in italics. For instance, “(Sam., Sep., Vul.)” indicates that Dr. Ginsburg has found the Septuagintal reading in the Masoretic note of a Hebrew codex or edition. (iv.) Variations discovered by collation of existing MSS., early printed editions, and Ancient Versions, and recorded without editorial opinion. These must be left to speak for themselves. They are here passed on from the textual editor. (v.) Conjectural emendations. As before suggested, these should be received with the deference due to an expert, whose opinion takes into account not only internal evidence, but probably a shrewd suspicion as to the way in which an error may have crept in. Gt. = “Ginsburg thinks” is the sign distinguishing this class of reading in The Emphasised Bible. (vi.) Confirmed Emendations. These have already been considered, and reasons have been given for incorporating their purport in the text of this Translation. b

D. How should these Various Readings be treated by an ordinary intelligent reader? (i.) They may very well lead to a suspense of judgment. Where a transcriptional variant of this kind comes into view, it is natural to eschew dogmatism. (ii.) Internal evidence may inspire a moral certainty as to which reading is correct. The reader can cautiously rely on this for his own satisfaction; and the controversialist may urge it—with becoming moderation. (iii.) Converging evidence may almost amount to demonstration as to which alternative is to be trusted. For example: Starting with internal evidence in favour of a Various Reading which is actually found in some Hebrew MSS. or printed editions, the reader discovers that that very reading is exhibited in the Samaritan Pentateuch—an independent line of transmission from an exceedingly ancient exemplar. Then he finds it handed down by the Septuagint—another line of transmission from a time almost equally remote. And finally, we will suppose, he discovers that the same reading has been preserved by the Vulgate. Internal probability—some existing Hebrew standards, Samaritan Septuagint, Vulgate—what wonder if (some counter evidence notwithstanding) the student yields his mind to a state of working confidence as towards the variant which is sustained by such a superior array of proof?

II.—The Original Text of the New Testament.

There is the less need to enlarge on this, that information concerning it is by this time widely diffused. Few scholars nowadays would advocate the adoption of the so-called Received Text of Erasmus and Stephens, published early in the sixteenth century. The discovery and collation of Greek MSS. have since then made enormous strides, and so many textual critics of supreme ability and industry—such as Griesbach, Scholtz, Lachmann, Tischendorf, Tregelles, and Westcott and Hort have laboured in this department, that it would appear an act of sheer madness to

b Ante, p. 18, op. G. Intro. 162, 170.
back to the critical apparatus of our great-grandfathers. Suffice it then to state in brief the general principles followed alike by Tregelles and by Westcott and Hort—with whom alone in the Christian Scriptures this work stands in immediate relation—and then to explain in a very few words why, for the present (the third) edition of the New Testament portion of The Emphasised Bible, the text of Tregelles was superseded by that of Westcott and Hort.

The fundamental principle common to the Greek texts of Tregelles and of Westcott and Hort is that in the construction of them, ancient authorities have been resolutely preferred, and the text in both cases has been determined rather by the weight than by the mere number of manuscripts. Ancient readings have been preferred in constructing the Greek texts of both these editions. It would perhaps be correct to say that Westcott and Hort gave more attention than did Tregelles to the lineage of manuscripts, and submitted to a more searching consideration the question how far divergent readings had sprung from common sources, so as to get behind the divergences to an earlier and more ancestral text. In particular their treatment of the two most ancient MSS., the Vatican and the Sinai, both as to their similarities and their differences, impresses the inquirer's mind with a sense of the scientific force with which inductive reasoning is carried; and how, under the converging light thrown backward by these great exemplars, in the hands of these editors, the student can almost see for himself what the Apostolic text must have been.

This allusion to the two greatest Greek Manuscripts of the New Testament opens the way for an explicit statement of the reason which led to the adoption of the later text of Westcott and Hort in preference to the earlier one of Tregelles, which had been employed for the present Translator's first and second editions of the New Testament. It was simply and solely because the later text was the later, that the change was made; for the lapse of time between them, though not great, enabled Dr. Westcott and Hort to do what had not been vouchsafed to their predecessor—viz., to keep the Sinai MS. steadily before them in the construction of their text of the Four Gospels. It was felt to be presumptuous to conjecture how far the readings of the Sinai Codex would have confirmed or modified Tregelles' previously formed conclusions; and, at the same time, very undesirable for the Translator to assume the functions of textual critic, functions imperatively demanding the practical skill of the expert, to which he could lay no claim. Better far to place himself under the guidance of such consummate masters of textual criticism as Drs. Westcott and Hort, judging, as they had done, so very nearly in the spirit and after the principles of Dr. Tregelles, on the fuller evidence then spread before them. Even in the Four Gospels the differences between the two texts are comparatively slight; while, in the later Books of the New Testament, it becomes a matter of sustained admiration to note how very generally the conclusions of the earlier editor (having the Sinai MS. before him at that stage of his work) are confirmed by his successors, when judging from substantially the same array of evidence.
CHAPTER IV.

THE INCOMMUNICABLE NAME.

As it might appear premature, at the outset of this chapter, to spell out that Divine Name which some regard as not only incommunicable but unpronounceable, it will be considerate to begin the present investigations by the aid of circumlocution and abbreviation, especially as no inconvenience will be occasioned thereby. The Tetragrammaton, or name of four letters (in allusion to the four letters Y H W H), is a technical term frequently employed by scholars, and will here, for a little, serve a useful purpose. Besides employing this term, we can reverently speak of "The Name," or can set down the first letter only, "Y," in the same way as critics are wont to use the Hebrew letter God as the initial of the Divine Name intended. This understood, we can intelligibly proceed. Our very first sub-division will indicate the serious turn which this inquiry necessarily takes.

I.—The Name Suppressed.

A. The Fact.

It is willingly admitted that the suppression has not been absolute; at least so far as Hebrew and English are concerned. The Name, in its four essential letters, was reverently transcribed by the Hebrew copyist, and therefore was necessarily placed before the eye of the Hebrew reader. The latter, however, was instructed not to pronounce it, but to utter instead a less sacred name—Adonay or Elohim. In this way the Name was not suffered to reach the ear of the listener. To that degree it was suppressed. The Septuagint, or ancient Greek version, made the concealment complete by regularly substituting Kurios; as the Vulgate, in like manner, employed Dominus; both Kurios and Dominus having at the same time their own proper service to render as correctly answering to the Hebrew Adonay, confessedly meaning "Lord." The English versions do nearly the same thing, in rendering The Name as Lord, and occasionally God; these terms also having their own rightful office to fill as fitly representing the Hebrew titles Adonay and Elohim and El. So that the Tetragrammaton is nearly hidden in our public English versions. Not quite. To those who can note the difference between "Lord" and "Lord" and between "God" and "God," and can remember that the former (printed with small capitals) do while the latter do not stand for The Name—to such an intimation of the difference is conveyed. But although the reader who looks carefully at his book can see the distinction, yet the mere hearer remains completely in the dark respecting it, inasmuch as there is no difference whatever in sound between "Lord" and "Lord" or "God" and "God." It hence follows that in nearly all the occurrences of The Name (some 7,000 throughout the Old Testament) the especial Name of God is absolutely withheld from all who simply hear the Bible read. "Nearly all," for there are about half a dozen instances in the A.V., and a few more in the R.V., in which this concealment does not take place. In other words there are these very few places in which the Tetragrammaton appears as "Jehovah"; and although it may be asked, "What are they among so many?" still their presence has an argumentative valu...
THE INCOMMUNICABLE NAME.

If it was wrong to unveil the Tetragrammaton at all, then why do it in these instances? If, on the other hand, it was right to let it be seen in these cases, then why not in all? With the exceptions explained, however, it remains true to say, that in our public versions the one especial Name of God is suppressed, wholly concealed from the listening ear, almost as completely hidden from the hastening or uncritical eye.

B. The Immediate Consequences of the Suppression.

These are—

(i) Partly literary, though more than that. Reference is here made to the confusion into which many things are thrown through this abnormal state of things. "Baal" is "lord" and so is "Adon" (Adonay)—that is unfortunate; but why add to the embarrassment by rendering Y H W H (and Y H, the shorter form) also as "Lord"? Worst of all is the confusion when "Y" and Adonay occur together, as they do many times in the Book of Ezekiel. Inasmuch as to say, "Lord LORD" for "Adonay Y," was too grotesque and misleading (positively false to the ear), the new device had to be resorted to of rendering this combination by "Lord God"—"God" in this case, and not "Lord" at all, standing for The Name. Even Y H (the shorter form) and Y H W H (the full form) of the Tetragrammaton, coming together, caused a dilemma; though in these instances, the acuteness of the trouble compelled the adoption of a partial remedy, and "the Lord Jehovah" is the result. "Confusion," then, is a term not a whit too strong to apply to these varying devices. No wonder that even intelligent and educated people are continually forgetting what they have heard or read concerning so involved a matter.

(ii) Partly practical. Is it too much to assume that The Name has about it something very grand or very gracious, or at least something very mysterious? Whichever conclusion is received, the question arises whether there is not something essentially presumptuous, however little intended, in substituting for it one of the commonest of titles, seeing that there are on earth "lords many," and the master of the humblest slave is his "lord"? There is surely nothing very grand or gracious or mysterious in that! It is therefore the most natural presumption that the suppression of The Name has entailed on the reader, and especially upon the hearer, irreparable loss.

C. The Reason for the Suppression.

The motive was good—let that be assumed. It was to safeguard the Divine Majesty in the minds of men. It was to prevent the inconconsiderate mention of Him before whom seraphs veil their faces—though even so it is very difficult to see how one name should occasion irreverence and another not. Why not, then, leave Him altogether unnamed? Why not fear to allude to Him by any title that could definitely refer to Him? The passages commonly cited as furnishing good reason for the suppression surely cannot mean what is thus attributed to them, since there is a wide distinction between not taking His Name in vain, and not taking His Name into our lips at all, even for prayer or praise. In a word, the motive is respected; but the reverence is regarded as misapplied—the reason given is seen to be invalid.

* As in Is. xii. 2; and xxvi. 4.
II.—The Name Restored.

A. Why?

1. Because its suppression was a mistake. So grave a mistake cannot be corrected too soon. An unwarrantable liberty has been taken; the path of humility is to retrace our steps.

2. Because thereby serious evil may be averted. Men are saying to-day that “Y” was a mere tribal name, and are suggesting that “Y” Himself was but a local deity. As against this, only let The Name be boldly and uniformly printed, and the humblest Sunday School teacher will be able to show the groundlessness of the assertion.

3. Because solid advantage may be counted upon as certain to follow the restoration. Even if the meaning of The Name should not disclose itself, the word itself would gradually gather about it the fitting associations—and that would be a gain; and godly readers would be put on quest—and that would be a further gain; and if the true significance of the Tetragrammaton should be brought to light, there would be a trained constituency to whom appeal could be made—and that would be a yet greater gain.

A Plausible Objection Answered.—A plausible argument in favour of leaving The Name veiled, as it is now, may be based upon its concealment by the Septuagint. The plea takes the following form. The Septuagint conceals the Tetragrammaton under the common title Kurios, “Lord.” Jesus used that version as it stood, notably in citing Psalm cx. 1. Therefore what was good enough for Him should be good enough for us. Answer First: Jesus Christ was not a scribe or literary critic: His mission was much higher. Answer Second: Jesus had to plead His Messiahship at the bar of the Scriptures as then current; and any criticism by Him of the nation’s Sacred Documents might have placed a needless obstacle in the people’s path. We thus conclude that the objection may and should be set aside as inconclusive, and so fall back on the reasons given why the Divine Name should be suffered uniformly to appear.

B. In What Form?

1. Why not in the form “Jehovah”? Is that not euphonious? It is, without question. Is it not widely used? It is, and may still be freely employed to assist through a period of transition. But is it not hallowed and endeared by many a beautiful hymn and many a pious memory? Without doubt; and therefore it is with reluctance that it is here declined. But why is it not accepted? There it is—familiar, acceptable, ready for adoption. The reason is, that it is too heavily burdened with merited critical condemnation—as modern, as a compromise, as a “mongrel” word, “hybrid,” “fantastic,” “monstrous.” The facts have only to be known to justify this verdict, and to vindicate the propriety of not employing it in a new and independent translation. What are the facts? And first as to age. “The pronunciation Jehovah was unknown until 1520, when it was introduced by Galatinus; but was contested by Le Mercier, J. Drusius, and L. Capellus, as against grammatical and historical propriety.” Next, as to formation. “Erroneously written and pronounced Jehovah.

a See Mat. xxii. 41-45.

THE INCOMMUNICABLE NAME.

which is merely a combination of the sacred Tetragrammaton and the vowels in the Hebrew word for Lord, substituted by the Jews for JHVH, because they shrank from pronouncing The Name, owing to an old misconception of the two passages, Ex. xx. 7 and Lev. xxiv. 16. . . . To give the name JHVH the vowels of the word for Lord (Heb. Adonai) and pronounce it Jehovah, is about as hybrid a combination as it would be to spell the name Germany with the vowels in the name Portugal—viz., Cormuna. The monstrous combination Jehovah is not older than about 1520 A.D.\textsuperscript{a} From this we may gather that the Jewish scribes are not responsible for the “hybrid” combination. They intentionally wrote alien vowels—not for combination with the sacred consonants, but for the purpose of cautioning the Jewish reader to enunciate a totally different word, viz., some other familiar name of the Most High.

2. The form “Yahweh” is here adopted as practically the best. The only competing form would be “Yehweh,” differing, it will be observed, only in a single vowel—“e” for “a” in the first syllable. But even this difference vanishes on examination. It is true that “Yehweh” is intended to suggest the derivation of the noun from the simple (Kal) conjugation of the verb, and that some scholars take “Yahweh” as indicating a formation from the causative (Hiphil) conjugation; but, since other scholars (presumably because of the aspirate h) regard “Yahweh” itself as consistent with a Kal formation, thereby leaving us free to accept the spelling “Yahweh” without prejudging the question of the precise line of derivation from the admitted root h‘ydh, we may very well accept the spelling now widely preferred by scholars, and write the name—“Yahweh.”

3. The exact pronunciation claims a word to itself. “The true pronunciation seems to have been Yahwe (or Iahway, the initial I = y, as in ichimo). The final e should be pronounced like the French ê, or the English e in there, and the first a sounded as an aspirate. The accent should be on the final syllable.”\textsuperscript{a} This statement gives rise to a question of rhythm, which is sure sooner or later to make itself felt. We are so used to the three syllables of the form “Jehovah,” with its delightfully varied vowels, that we shrink back dismayed in anticipation of the disturbing effect on our Psalmody of the substitution of Yahweh for Jehovah. Our apprehensions may be dismissed. The readjustment is mainly the business of our hymn-writers; and if it should prove literally true, that “new mercies” shall “new songs” demand, which shall enshrine a new accent in a new rhythm, then we may rest assured that sanctified genius and enthusiasm will prove equal to the occasion. The Translator of The Emphasised Bible has in his own humble province recast a good many lines in his rendering of “The Psalms” in consideration of the modified rhythm now required. As for the rest, it may with confidence be counted upon that increasing familiarisation and the silent growth of hallowed memories will ultimately render thrice welcome what was at first so strange.

III.—THE NAME EXPLAINED.

1. It certainly appears to be explained in Exodus iii. 14. It does not follow that the statements there made are rightly understood; nor can any compelling reason be assigned why a translator should be ready to expound everything which he has to represent in English. Nevertheless, the correct rendering of the above passage is so connected with the meaning of The Name, that, were it not for special reasons, the attempt now to be made might not have provoked the charge of presumption. As it is, the reproach of rashness cannot easily be escaped.

2. Confessedly it is very discouraging to find the editor of the Polychrome Bible declaring bluntly: "The meaning of JHVH is uncertain." That it is uncertain would appear to be the natural conclusion deductible from the varieties of meaning summed up in the Oxford Gesenius under the name "Yahweh."b

3. As against this discouragement it may be considered whether the Old Testament does not strongly embolden us to hope that greater success and greater unanimity may yet be attained. Is not a hidden name almost a contradiction in terms? Does not "name" in the Bible very widely imply revelation? Men's names are throughout the Scriptures fraught with significance, enshrining historical incidents, biographical reminiscences, and so forth; and why should the Name of the Ever-Blessed be an exception to this rule? Does not the Almighty Himself employ this Name of His as though it had in it some self-evident force and fitness to reveal His nature and unfold His ways? His Name is continually adduced by Himself as His reason for what He does and what He commands: "For I am Yahweh." Israel and the nations are placed under discipline, says the Divine Speaker, "that they may know that I am Yahweh." Is it not probable, then, that His Name was intended to be understood? Thus encouraged, we proceed; only requesting that the exposition which follows may be regarded as—

(a) The conclusion formed may be thus expressed: The Name itself signifies, "He who becometh"; and the formulae by which that significance is sustained and which is rendered in the Authorised Version "I am that I am," expresses the sense, "I will become whatsoever I please"; or, as more exactly indicating the idiom involved, "I will become whatsoever I may become." We amplify the "may," and more freely suggest the natural latitude which the idiom claims, by saying: "Whatsoever I will, may, or can become."

(b) The reasons for this conclusion are two: First, that it gives the simplest, most obvious, most direct force to the derivation of The Name itself, as generally admitted. Yahweh is almost always regarded as the third person, singular, masculine, imperfect tense, from the root hawah, an old form of the root hayah. The one meaning of hawah is "become." So that the force of yahweh thus derived, as a verb, would be "He will become"; or, as expressive of use and wont, "He becometh." Then, passing into use as a noun, it is—"He who becometh," "The Becoming One." That is precisely how any other Hebrew name would be formed and would yield up its inherent significance. Thus viewed, its human-like simplicity would be its great recommendation. If the Eternal would speak to man so as to be understood, we seem compelled to expect that He will speak after the manner of men. And if after the manner of men He pleases to take and bear a Name, it would seem the very perfection of condescension that His Name should be formed after the manner of men's names. Second, the sense of the formula given above is very simply and idiomatically obtained. The formula itself is 'chyeh 'asher 'chyeh, in which it should be noted that the verb 'chyeh, “I will become,” runs forward into a reduplication of itself; for it is that which constitutes the idiom. As a mere repetition, the assertion would be meaningless. To escape this we must resort to mystery or imagination or—idiom. How if the mystery itself is imaginary; and where is imagination to end? how is it to be reduced to any trustworthy significance? Would it not be more humble and childlike to be prepared to find that the All-wise and All-loving is simply addressing us in an idiom of our own? We have many such idiomatic formulae even in English: “I will speak what I will speak,” and the like. Only, after the manner of our tongue, we avoid the semblance of meaningless repetition by emphasising the auxiliary verb: “I will speak what I will speak”—my mind is made up; or “I will speak what I can, may, must speak”—according to need and opportunity. Now, in Hebrew, the future (imperfect, or incipient) tense (the one used here) is freely employed to express mood; in other words, to convey those nicer shades of thought in which in English are conveyed by such helping words as “will,” “can,” “may,” “could,” “would,” “might,” “must.” The only question is whether we can assure ourselves that we are not act ing fancifully in resorting to that principle of interpretation in the important statement before us. Have we any examples of such an idiom finding place where, as in Exo. iii. 14, a word is folded back upon itself? As a matter of fact, we have in the Old Testament at least three examples in which the recognition of this simple idiom brings out an excellent sense, and in which the Authorised Version leads the way (followed by the Revised) in so expressing the sense.

Example I.—1 Samuel xxiii. 13, A.V. and R.V.: “And they went whithersoever they could go.” Heb.: “wanyithhallku ba'asher yithhallaku.” Freely: “And they wandered whithersoever they could, would, or might wander.” The repetition is there, and the idiom, and the clear sense of it.

Example II.—2 Samuel xv. 20, A.V. and R.V.: “Seeing I go whither I may,” Heb.: “wa'ani hólék 'al 'asher 'ani hólék.” Lit.: “And (or seeing) I am going whither I am going.” Again the repetition, again the idiom, again the fit sense thereby conveyed.

Example III.—2 Kings viii. 1, A.V. and R.V.: “And sojourn whithersoever thou canst sojourn.” Heb.: “w'guri ba'asher thaguri.” In the first passage the auxiliary is “could”; in the second, “may”; in the third, “canst.” Idiom is recognised in all, and through it the meaning is seized and well expressed.

We thus gain all needful countenance for the idiomatic explication of Exo. iii. 14:

I will become whatsoever I will—may—can—become.

The only difficulty is to suggest the suitable latitude, without multiplying words and without violating any known characteristic of the Speaker. Perhaps the best word on this momentous occasion is: "what I please," since we know that the Divine resources are infinite, and that God will please to become to His people only what is wisest and best. Thus viewed, the formula becomes a most gracious promise; the Divine capacity of adaptation to any circumstances, any difficulties, any necessities that may arise, becomes a veritable bank of faith to such as love God and keep His commandments. The formula is a promise, the promise is concentrated in a Name. The Name is at once a revelation, a memorial, a pledge. To this Name, God will ever be faithful; of it He will never be ashamed; by it He may ever be truthfully proclaimed and gratefully praised.

[[This]] is my name to times age-abiding,
And [[this]] my memorial to generation after generation.*

Praise ye Yah.
For good' is Yahweh,
Sing praises to his name,
For it is sweet."

Praise Yahweh, all ye nations,
Laud him, all ye tribes of men;
For his lovingkindness hath prevailed over us.
And the faithfulness of Yahweh is to times age-abiding.
Praise ye Yah."

5. Whether the foregoing explanation is ever likely to be generally accepted or not, one thing appears to be more and more certain the more the evidence is considered, that the name Yahweh has some inherent meaning of great force and graciousness; at the very least a significance of sufficient peculiarity to make it more fitting to be employed on some occasions than on others. This conclusion, which on its own merits will scarcely be denied, invests the matter with a literary interest which it will be fair not to forget. It may deliver the most open-minded critic from a too ready resort to documentary hypotheses to account for the presence or absence of The Name in or from some verses, sections, and books. The use of previous documents may go some way to account for the appearance and disappearance of that Name; but internal fitness to be avoided or employed may be an equally feasible explanation. Leaving aside the interesting question whether the sudden appearance of the name Yahweh in combination with Elohim in Genesis ii. may not owe its presence to the tenour of the new section which commences at verse 4, in view of Man's coming upon the scene, there are some examples of the presence and absence of The Name to which any documentary hypothesis would appear to be altogether alien. For instance, is it not indicative of what we may call changed moral atmosphere that the prologue of the Book of Job (chapters i. and ii.) and the epilogue (chapters xxxviii.—xlii.) should be replete with the especially gracious proper name "Y," whereas throughout the whole of the doubting, questioning, arguing portion of the Book The Name should occur only once, chapter xii. 9, and then with uncertain attestation? It appears to be equally indicative of a most delicate sense of fitness, that, whereas The Name is employed on an average nearly once in each of the eight-versed sections of Psalm cxxix.—a Psalm pervaded by the atmosphere of sustained communion with Yahweh—the one exception in which a less sacred divine name is used is the single instance in which the Psalmist's mind comes into contact with the colder air of disloyalty to the Gracious Being whom he himself delighted to worship:

"Deport from me, ye evil-doers,
That I may observe the commandments of my God."

It is with a feeling of lively satisfaction that the materials for judgment concerning all such peculiarities of sacred usage are now clearly set forth in the pages of The Emphasised Bible.

The above Table may be put to an interesting special use. It will enable the merely English reader to trace the similarity of certain Hebrew letters, as the well-known cause of errors of transcription. For example, he can perceive how minute is the difference in form between daleth and resh, and how easily "silenced" might creep in where "uplifted" should have stood, or vice versa, in Psalm cxxxvi. 2 (see note there); and similarly how readily kaph should have ousted beth in Prov. xi. 19.

N.B.—The vowel א may be pronounced as a in father; and א as e in there.

<td>The Massorah: a marginal directory, indicating on almost every line in the margin of the MS. Bibles how the letters, words, forms, and phrases are to be written according to the most ancient rules laid down by those who compiled, and transmitted the Canon of the Old Testament Scriptures. This invaluable key to the text of the Old Testament is called Massorah (tradition), because it was traditionally handed down by the authorised and professional scribes, who afterwards committed it to writing. No single MS. contains the whole. To obtain the whole Massoretic apparatus it was absolutely necessary to examine minutely all the accessible MSS. This work had never been done before, until forty years ago Dr. Ginsburg began the work. After twenty years of incessant labour he commenced printing the Massorah. He afterwards framed a text which embodied the results of his researches. This text—the Hebrew Bible edited by Dr. Ginsburg, and accompanied by Hebrew Notes—was published by the Trinitarian Bible Society in 1894, thirty-three years after the work of collating was begun: hence the name “The Massoretico-Critical edition of the Hebrew Bible.” Jacob b. Chayim, editor of the Hebrew Received Text, had neither time nor opportunity to collate the different MSS. in the different parts of Europe. Hence that which he printed in the margin and at the end of his great Bible (1524-25) is not merely a small part of the Massorah, but is exceedingly incorrect. (Condensed from Dr. Ginsburg’s &quot;Provisional&quot; Circular, issued in 1881, and re-issued in 1894.)</td>

Sam. Samaritan Pentateuch: of great value, as having come down (more or less purely) from very Ancient Exemplars. According to some, inherited from the Ten Tribes; according to others, executed about the end of the 4th century B.C. It originated unquestionably before the Septuagint was made. (Dr. S. Davidson, in Kittel’s Cyc., Vol. III., pp. 746–752.)

Sep. The Septuagint version of the Bible (“LXX.”); or “Greek Bible”; executed in Alexandria, about 150 B.C. Especially valuable as having been made from very ancient Hebrew Exemplars, some of which are now lost.

TABLE III.

Signs of Emphasis. (See ante, Introduction, Chapter II.)

The signs used in the Old Testament are the same as those employed in the New—namely, ’, |, ||, and < >.

Those most frequently adopted are the two which call for decided stress:—

1. ’ , ||, when the English words appear in their usual, uninverted order, though the corresponding words are known to be emphatic in the Hebrew.

2. < >, when there is an inversion in the English arrangement as well as in that of the Hebrew.—Sometimes the inverted and emphatically placed portion of the sentence is of some length, extending to a line or more. In such cases the angular marks frequently appear in darker type (thus < >), so as to be conspicuous, thereby also setting free the lighter marks to show a short inversion within a longer one (cp. Jer. vii. 5, 6). If it be remembered that a closing angular sign never completes a sentence, but always demands a sequel before the statement is finished, both mind and voice will be materially assisted.

3. The two signs (’, and | |) are used almost indifferently to denote slight emphasis; the accent being generally preferred for single words, and the single upright lines for the inclusion of more than one word in the effect.

* * * Any simplification observable in this method, as compared with that followed in the New Testament, may be fairly set down to the simpler elements and structure of Hebrew composition. The principle throughout is the same.
THE BOOK OF GENESIS.

1 <In the beginning> God created the heavens and the earth. And light was. And God saw the light.

2 Now the earth had become waste and wild, and darkness was on the face of the roaring deep,—but [the Spirit of God] was brooding on the face of the waters.

3 And God said—

Light be. And God saw the light.

Or: "At first." The definite article in the rendering, "In the beginning," cannot safely be pressed, inasmuch as the phrase may, as preferred by many expositors ancient and modern, be simply construed with what follows: "In the beginning of God's creating," etc.

Heb. "wak'am," "Prob. a plural of quality = 'God-head'; as our 'Lordship' = 'Lord'"—Davies' H.L., p. 9. It should be carefully observed that, although "wak'am" is plural in form, yet when, as here, it is construed with a verb in the singular, it is naturally singular in sense; especially since the "plural of quality" or "excellence" abounds in Hebrew in cases where the reference is undeniable to something which must be understood in the singular number.

"Prop. 'to cut' or 'carve'; hence, 'form,' 'create'—Davies' H.L., p. 103; 'shape, create'—O. G.: not necessarily, nor generally, to make out of nothing, cp. verses 21, 27; chap. ii. 5; and Num. xxv. 20. Seeing that, outside this passage, no example in the O.T. can be found where "wak'am" is construed with a verb in the singular, it is necessary to suppose that here it is not used as a plural, but as a singular. The grammatical introduction of difficulties should of course be avoided.

The emphasis on "the earth" in ver. 2 is quite regular. Cp. Col. ii. 8, 16. The effect of it here is to single out "the earth" from ver. 1, for special comment.

Heb. "šečaša-šāmaša." Evidently an idiomatic phrase, with a play on the sound ("senselessness"). The two words occur together only in Is. xxxiv. 11; Jer. iv. 23; examples which favour the conclusion that here also they describe the result of previous overthrow. "šāmaša" by itself is found in several other texts (Deut. xxxii. 10; Job xii. 24; Ps. cv. 40; Is. xxv. 10; xxxiv. 11, etc.).

Cp. 3 Co. iv. 6.

Heb. "šèem;" Sep. "the abyss." This "but" is not demanded by the particle seen in itself, but springs naturally out of the context of the clause it introduces.

The beautiful word "brooding"—an exact rendering of the Heb.—is most suggestive; since it vividly describes the cherishing of incipient life, as a preparation for its outburst. The participial form of such a word clearly denotes a process, more or less lengthened, rather than an instantaneous act. Standing where it does, it crowns the description of the condition of things on which the first creative mandate of the six days took effect.

The rendering above given of these two important verses may be paraphrased as follows:—

"In the beginning [of the present order of things] God created [that is, shaped or formed according to his own divine idea] the heavens [above] and the earth [below].

And the earth [emphasized idiomatically for the purpose of singling it out for first remark] had become waste and wild [probably by previous catastrophe]; and darkness [emphasized as about to be dealt with] was on the face of the roaring deep; but [preparing the mind for a new order of things] the Spirit of God was brooding [with quickening effect] on the face of the waters. And [things being so; such being the state of the earth] God said [and thus the renewing, re-creating divine acts commence]."

Or: "became," "came to be." Connected with the opening word "so," the simple verb "was" has the same force. Cp. verses 3, 15, 19, 23, 31.

By a well-attested Heb. idiom = "a first day." Here grammatical exopsis steps in and claims its own. Two ways of explaining this striking "refrain" are conceivable—the one, unnatural and absurd; the other, at once living and luminous. Either this six-times-repeated statement is a mere extraneous patch of information, having no organic connection with the creative acts amongst which it is interposed—which no thoughtful reader can seriously suppose—or else on each occasion it grows out of what has gone before. This being conceded, and the words then being grammatically rendered, the reader is on the high road to a correct decipherment of the days, as God-divided rather than sun-divided. Did the calling forth of "light" constitute the first morning? If it did, then the previous "darkness" and the preparatory "brooding" must surely have constituted the first "evening." Then how long was the first day? If no one knows, then no one can say what was the length of the six days. Essential harmony suggests as a crown to the exopsis: That, as it were, a little worker, doing a small work on six short days, is God the great worker, doing a large work on six long, far-reaching days.

6 And God said—

Let there be an expanse in the midst of the waters,—and let it be a means of dividing between waters and waters.

7 And God made the expanse and it divided between the waters that were under the expanse and the waters that were above the expanse. And it was so. And God called the expanse heavens. So it was evening—and it was morning, a second day.

8 And God said—

Let the waters under the heavens be gathered together into one place, and let the dry-ground appear.

And it was so. And God called the dry-ground earth.

9 And God said—

And the earth was waste and wild, and darkness was on the face of the roaring deep, but the Spirit of God was brooding on the face of the waters. And it was so. And God called the earth the ground. So it was evening—and it was morning, the third day.
And God said—

Let the land bring forth living soul, after its kind, tame-beast, and creeping thing, and wild-beast of the land, after its kind. And it was so. 25 And God made the wild-beast of the land, after its kind, and the tame-beast, after its kind, and every creeping thing of the ground, after its kind. And God saw that it was good.

And God said—

Let us make man in our image, after our likeness — and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the heavens, and over the tame-beast, and over all the land, and over every creeping thing that creepeth on the land.

God saw that it was good.

And God said—

Let the waters swarm with abundance of living soul, and birds shall fly over the earth, over the face of the expanse of the heavens. 26 And God created the great sea-monsters, and every living soul that moveth — with which the waters swarmed after their kind, and every winged bird — after its kind. And God saw that it was good.

And God blessed them, saying —

Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let birds multiply in the land.

And God said—

Let the sun arise, that it may give light unto the day, and the night, and let it have dominion over the light of the day, and over the darkness. And God saw that it was good.

And it was evening, and it was morning, a fourth day.

And God said—

Let there be luminaries in the expanse of the heavens, to divide between the day and the night, and let them be for signs and for seasons, and for days and years; yea let them be for luminaries, in the expanse of the heavens, to give light on the earth. And it was so. 28 And God made the two great luminaries — the greater luminary to rule the day, and the lesser luminary to rule the night, and set them in the expanse of the heavens, to give light on the earth; and to rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness. And God saw that it was good.

And it was evening, and it was morning, a fifth day.

And God said—

Let the earth bring forth vegetation — herb yielding seed, fruit-tree, bearing fruit, after its kind, whose seed is within it, on the land. And it was so. 12 And the land brought-forth vegetation — herb yielding seed after its kind, and tree — bearing fruit, whose seed is within it, after its kind. And God saw that it was good.

So it was evening — and it was morning, a third day.

And God saw that it was good.

And God said—

Lo! I have given you — every herb yielding seed which is on the face of all the land, and every tree wherein is the fruit of a tree yielding seed, — to you shall it be, for food; and to every living thing of the land — and to every bird of the heavens, and to every thing that moveth on the land, wherein is a living soul, — you shall be for food.

And it was so. 31 And God saw every thing which he had made, and lo! it was very good. So it was evening — and it was morning, the sixth day.

Thus were finished the heavens and the earth, and all their host. 2 Thus God finished on the seventh day his work which he had made, and rested, on the seventh day, from all his work which he had made. 3 And God blessed the seventh day, and bellowed it, because he therein rested he from all his work which God [by creating] had made.

earth, and no herb of the field as yet had sprung up,—because Yahweh God had not sent rain on the earth, and [man] was there none to till the ground; 2 but [a vapour] went up from the earth,—and watered all the face of the ground. 3 So then Yahweh God formed [man] of the dust of the ground, and breathed in his nostrils the breath of life—and man became a living soul.

And Yahweh God planted a garden in Eden, on the east, and put there the man whom he had formed.

And Yahweh God caused to spring up out of the ground, every tree pleasant to the sight and good for food—and the tree of life, in the midst of the garden, and the tree of the knowledge of good and evil.

Now [a river] was coming forth out of Eden, to water the garden,—and [from thence] it parted, and became four heads. 11 [The name of the one] is Pishon,—[the same] is that which surrounded all the land of Havilah, where is gold; 12 moreover [the gold of that land] is good,—<there> is the bdellium, and the beryl stone. 13 And [the name of the second river] is Gihon,—<the same> is that which surrounded all the land of Cush. 14 And [the name of the third river] is Hiddekel, [the same] is that which goeth in front of Assyria; and [the fourth river] is Euphrates.

So Yahweh God took the man,—and placed him in the garden of Eden, to till it, and to keep it.

And Yahweh God laid command on the man, saying,— —Of every tree of the garden thou mayest eat; 17 but [of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil] thou shalt not eat of it,—for [in the day thou eatest thereof] thou shalt die.

And Yahweh God said,

It is not good that the man should remain alone,—I will make for him a helper, as his counterpart.

Now Yahweh God had formed from the ground every living thing of the field, and every bird of the heavens, which he brought in unto the man, that he might see what he should call it,—and whatsoever the man should call it—any living soul; [that] should be the name thereof.

So the man gave names to all the tame-beasts, and to the birds of the heavens, and to all the wild-beasts of the field,—but for man had there not been found a helper, as his counterpart. 12 So Yahweh God caused a deep sleep to fall on the man, and he slept,—and he took one of his ribs, and closed up flesh instead thereof. 13 And Yahweh God builded the rib which he had taken from the man, into a woman, and brought her in unto the man.

And the man said,

'This is one bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh! [This] one shall be called Woman, 14 for [of a man] is hath this one been taken.

For this cause will a man leave his father, and his mother,—and cleave unto his wife, and they shall become one flesh.

And they were both of them naked, the man and his wife,—and put not each other to shame.

Now [the serpent] was more crafty than any living thing of the field which Yahweh God had made,—so he said unto the woman,

Can it really be, that God hath said,

Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden?

And the woman said unto the serpent,—

Of the fruit of the tree of the garden we may eat; 2 but [of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden] God hath said,

Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it,—lest ye die.

And the serpent said unto the woman,—

Ye shall not [die]. 3 For God doth know, that [in the day ye eat thereof] then shall your eyes be opened,—and ye shall become like God, knowing good and evil.

And [when the woman saw] that the tree was good for food, and that it was desirable to the eyes, and the tree was pleasant to make one knowing then took she of the fruit thereof, and did eat,—and she gave to her husband also, along with her, and he did eat. 7 Then were opened the eyes of them both, and they knew that [naked] they were,—so they took together fig-leaves, and made for themselves girdles.

Then heard they the sound of Yahweh God, walking to and fro in the garden, at the breeze of the day, so he hid himself—[the man with his wife], from the face of Yahweh God, amid the trees of the garden. And Yahweh God called unto the man, and said to him,

Where art thou?

And he said,

The sound of thee heard I in the garden, and I was afraid, for naked was I, so I hid myself.

And he said,

Whence told thee that naked thou wast?

Of the tree whereof I commanded thee not to eat hast thou eaten?

And the man said,—

The woman whom thou didst put with me she gave me of the tree, so I did eat.

Then said Yahweh God to the woman,

What is this that thou hast done?

And the woman said,

The serpent deceived me, so I did eat.

Then said Yahweh God unto the serpent—

Because thou hast done this thine heart shall be full of thorns, and thine flesh shall be worn out.

And in pain shalt thou eat of every fruit of the tree, and in pain shalt thou eat of every herb of the field.

And untold will I put between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed,

That he shall bruise thy head,

But thou shall bruise his heel.

Unto the woman he said,

I will increase in pain thou shalt bring children, and in sorrow shalt thou bring them forth.

And thy desire shall be for thy husband, and he shall rule over thee.

And unto the man he said,

Because thou didst hearken to thy wife, and didst eat of the tree, as which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it

Thou art accursed for the ground for thy sake, in pain shalt thou eat of every herb of the field.

And in thorns and thistles shall it be throned forth to thee, when thou hast come to eat of the herb of the field:

In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, until thou return to the ground, because wast thou taken.

For dust thou art; and unto dust shalt thou return.

So the man called the name of his wife, Eve, because she was the mother of all living.

And Yahweh God made for the man and his wife, skin clothes, and clothed them.

Then said Yahweh God—

Lo! I have come to know Eve thy wife, and Cain,

Now therefore,lest he thrust forth his hand, and take even the tree of life, and eat, and live to times age-abiding.

So Yahweh God put him forth from the garden of Eden, to till the ground whereinfrom he had been taken.

So he expelled the man, and caused to dwell in front of the garden of Eden—cherubim, and a flaming sword to keep the way to the tree of life.

A "seed" appears; but disappoints (Cain) or fulfills (Abel). Yahweh gives a substitute for Abel (Seth).

Now the man having come to know Eve his wife, she conceived, and bare Cain, and said,

I have gotten a Man, even Yahweh!

And she went on to bear his brother, Abel, and Abel became a feeder of sheep, whereas Cain was a tiller of the ground.

So it came to pass that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground and of the firstlings of his sheep, and of his fat, and Yahweh approved of Abel, and of his present; but of Cain and his present he approved not, and it angered Cain greatly, and his countenance fell.

So then Yahweh said unto Cain,—

Wherefore hast thou angered me, and Wherefore hast thy countenance fallen?

Shall it not, if thou do right, be lifted up?
But (if thou do not right) at the entrance a sin-bearer is lying,—

Unto thee moreover, shall be his longing, though thou rule over him.

6 And Cain said unto Abel his brother
(If we go into the field?)
And it came to pass (when they were in the field) that Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and slew him. 9 Then said Yahweh unto Cain,
Where is Abell thy brother?
And he said,
I know not, (the keeper of my brother) am I? 10 And he said,
What hast thou done?
With a voice (the shed-blood of thy brother is crying out to me from the ground).
Now therefore, art thou—from the ground, which hath opened her mouth, to receive the shed-blood of thy brother at thy hand.

8 Though thou till the ground it shall not go on to give its vigour to thee,—
A wanderer and a fugitive shall thou be in the earth.

9 And Cain said unto Yahweh—
Greater is my punishment than I can bear
Lo! thou hast driven me out, this day, from off the face of the ground
And from thy face shall I be hid,—
So shall I become a wanderer and a fugitive in the earth,
And it shall come to pass (whosoever findeth me) will slay me.

10 And Yahweh said to him—
Not so! whosoever slayeth Cain (shall it be avenged).
So Yahweh set, for Cain, a sign, that none finding him should smite him.

11 So Cain went forth from the presence of Yahweh—and dwelt in the land of Nod eastward of Eden.
17 And Cain knew his wife, and she conceived, and bare Enoch,—Now it happened that he was building a city, so he called the name of the city, after the name of his son, {Enoch}.
18 And there was born to Enoch, {Irad}, and {Irad} begat {Mehujael}, and {Mehujael} begat Methusael,—and {Methusael} begat Lamech.

19 And Lamech took to himself two wives,—(the name of the one) was Adah, and the name of the second Zillah.
And Adah bare {Jabal}, the father of such as dwell in tents, and have cattle; and the name of his brother was {Jubal}.
Also bare {Tubal-Cain}, a sharpener of every cutting instrument of bronze and iron, and the sister of {Tubal-Cain} was {Naamah}.

Then said Lamech to his wives,
Adah and Zillah! hear ye my voice,
Ye wives of Lamech! give ear to my tale,—
For a man have I slain, in dealing my wounds,

Yes, a youth, in smiting my blows:
If sevenfold be the avenging of {Cain},
Then of {Lamech} seventy and seven.

And Adam again knew his wife, and she bare a son, and called his name Seth,—
For God hath appointed me another seed instead of Abel, because {Cain} slew him! And {to Seth}—him also—was born a son, and he called his name {Enosh}, (then) was a beginning made, to call on the name of Yahweh.

1 This is the record{ of the generations of Adam—
In the day when God created man—
In the likeness of God—made he him;
Male and female created he them, and blessed them, and called their name Adam,
in the day they were created.

3 And Adam lived a hundred and thirty years, and begat {son} in his likeness, after his image, and called his name {Seth}; and the days of Adam, after he begat Seth, were eight hundred years, and he begat sons and daughters. So all the days of Adam which he lived, were nine hundred and thirty years, and he died.
And Seth lived, a hundred and five years, and begat Enosh; and Seth lived, after he begat Enosh, eight hundred and seven years, and begat sons and daughters; and all the days of Seth were, nine hundred and twelve years, and he died.
And Enosh lived, ninety years, and begat Kenan; and Enosh lived, after he begat

Kenan, eight hundred and fifteen years,—and begat sons and daughters; 11 and all the days of Enoch were, nine hundred and five years,—and he died.

12 And Kenan lived seventy years,—and begat Mahalalel; 12 and Kenan lived, after he begat Mahalalel, eight hundred and forty years,—and begat sons and daughters; 14 and all the days of Kenan were, nine hundred and ten years,—and he died.

13 And Mahalalel lived, sixty-five years,—and begat Jared; 16 and Mahalalel lived, after he begat Jared, eight hundred and thirty years,—and begat sons and daughters; 17 and all the days of Mahalalel were, eight hundred and ninety-five years,—and he died.

14 And Jared lived, a hundred and sixty-two years, and begat Enoch; 18 and Jared lived, after he begat Enoch, eight hundred years,—and begat sons and daughters; 20 and all the days of Jared were, nine hundred and sixty-two years,—and he died.

21 And Enoch lived, sixty-five years,—and begat Methuselah; 22 and Enoch walked with God, after he begat Methuselah, three hundred years,—and begat sons and daughters; 23 and all the days of Enoch were, three hundred and sixty-five years; 24 and Enoch walked with God, and was not for God had taken him.

25 And Methuselah lived, a hundred and eighty-seven years,—and begat Lamech; 26 and Methuselah lived, after he begat Lamech, seven hundred and eighty-two years,—and begat sons and daughters; 27 and all the days of Methuselah were, nine hundred and sixty-nine years,—and he died.

28 And Lamech lived, a hundred and eighty-two years,—and begat a son; 29 and he called his name Noah, 30 saying, This one shall give us rest from our work, and from the grievous toil of our hands, by reason of the ground which Yahweh hath cursed.

30 And Lamech lived, after he begat Noah, five hundred and ninety-five years,—and begat sons and daughters; 31 and all the days of Lamech were, seven hundred and seventy-seven years,—and he died.

32 And Noah was five hundred years old,—and Noah begat Shem, 3 Ham, 3 and Japheth.

§ 6. An adulterous Union of the two Races makes way for the Flood.

1 And it came to pass, when men had begun to multiply on the face of the ground and daughters had been born to them; 2 that the sons of God saw the daughters of men, that they were fair;—so they took to themselves wives of whomever they chose.

3 And Yahweh said—

My spirit shall not rule in man to times age-abiding, for that the flesh is flesh,—

Yet his days shall be a hundred and twenty years.

4 "The giants were in the earth in those days, and also after that, when the sons of God began to go in unto the daughters of men, and sons were born to them; the same were the heroes that were from age-past times, the men of renown.

5 Then Yahweh saw that the wickedness of man in the earth was great, and that every purpose of the devices of his heart was only wicked all the day; and it grieved Yahweh, that he had made man in the earth,—and he took sorrow unto his heart.

7 And Yahweh said—

I must wipe off man whom I created, from off the face of the ground, from man unto beast, unto creeping thing, and unto the bird of the heavens,—for I am grieved that I made them.

8 But Noah found favour in the eyes of Yahweh.

§ 7. One Family to be saved; the World to be destroyed; an Ark appointed, and made ready.

9 These are the generations of Noah. Noah was a righteous man, blameless in his generations,—with God did Noah walk. 10 And Noah begat three sons, Shem, Ham, and Japheth. 11 And the earth corrupted itself before God,—and the earth was filled with violence. 12 And God beheld the earth, and said, Lo! it had corrupted itself,—surely all flesh had corrupted its way on the earth.

13 So God said unto Noah:

The end of all flesh hath come in before me, for the earth is filled with violence, because of them,—behold me, then, destroying them with the earth.

14 Make for thee an ark of timbers of gopher, 15 cubit shalt thou make with the ark, and thou shalt cover it, within and without, with pitch. 16 And this is how thou shalt make it, three hundred cubits the length of the ark, fifty cubits the breadth thereof, and thirty cubits the height thereof. A place for light shalt thou make to the ark, and to a cubit shalt thou finish it upwards, and the opening of the ark—in the side thereof—shall thou put,—with lower, second, and third [stories] shalt GENESIS VI. 17—22; VII. 1—24; VIII. 1—4.

17 And I beheld me bringing in the flood—even waters, upon the earth, to destroy all flesh, wherein is the spirit of life, from under the heavens, everything that is in the earth shall cease to breathe: therefore will I establish my covenant with thee, and thou shalt enter into the ark, thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons' wives with thee. Moreover, of all the living creatures of all flesh—two of each—shall come in unto thee, for keeping alive. But thou shalt take to thee of all food that is eaten, and gather it unto thee, and it shall be for thee and for them, for food.

22 And Noah did, according to all that God commanded him. So did he.

§ 8. The Entrance into the Ark.

7 And Yahweh said unto Noah,

Enter, thou and all thy house, into the ark, for I have seen righteous before me in this generation. Of all the clean beasts shall thou take to thee, by sevens, a male and his female, and of the birds that are not clean, shall be two, a male and his female. Also of the bird of the heavens by sevens, male and female, to keep alive a seed on the face of all the earth.

4 For in seven days more, I am sending rain on the earth, forty days and forty nights, so will I wipe out all the living things which I have made, from off the face of the ground.

5 And Noah did, according to all that Yahweh commanded him. Now Noah was six hundred years old, when the flood came; even waters, on the earth. So Noah entered, and his sons and his wife and his sons' wives with him, into the ark, from before the waters of the flood. Of the beasts that were clean, and of the beasts that were not clean, and of the birds, and everything that creepeth on the ground, two and two went they in unto Noah, into the ark, male and female, as God commanded Noah.

10 And it came to pass, in the seventh days, that the waters of the flood came on the earth. In the six hundredth year, the year of the life of Noah, in the second month, on the seventeenth day of the month—on this day were burst open, all the fountains of the great roaring deep, and the windows of the heavens were set open. (And it came to pass, that the heavy rain was on the earth.—forty days and forty nights.) On this selfsame day entered Noah, and Shem and Ham and Japheth, Noah's sons, and Noah's wife, and his sons' three wives with them, into the ark: they, and all the wild-beasts after their kind, and all the tame-beasts after their kind, and all the creeping things that creep on the earth, after their kind—and all the birds after their kind, every bird of every wing. So they entered in unto Noah, into the ark, two and two of all flesh, wherein was the spirit of life. And they that entered, male and female of all flesh, entered, as God commanded him, and Yahweh shut him in round about.

17 And it came to pass, that the flood was forty days on the earth, and the waters increased, and bare up the ark, and it was lifted high above the earth. And the waters prevailed and increased greatly on the earth; and the ark went its way on the face of the waters. Yea, the waters prevailed very greatly on the earth: so that all the high mountains became covered, that were under all the heavens; fifteen cubits upwards prevailed the waters, so that the mountains became covered. And all flesh ceased to breathe that moved on the earth, of birds and of tame-beasts and of wild-beasts, and of all the swarming things that swarm on the earth, and all mankind.

All in whose nostrils was the breath of the spirit of life, of all that were on the dry ground, died. Thus was wiped out all that existed on the face of the ground, from man unto beast, unto creeping thing, and unto the bird of the heavens, thus were they wiped out from the earth: only Noah and they that were with him in the ark. Thus prevailed the waters on the earth, a hundred and fifty days.

1 And God remembered Noah, and all the wild-beasts, and all the tame-beasts that were with him in the ark,—and God caused a wind to pass over the earth,—and the waters subsided; and the fountains of the roaring-deep were shut, and the windows of the heavens, and the heavy rain was restrained from the heavens; and the waters returned from off the earth, they went on returning, and so the waters decreased at the end of a hundred and fifty days. And the ark rested, in the seventh...

month, on the seventeenth day of the month,—on the mountains of Arrarat. 5 But the waters went on decreasing, until the tenth month,—<in the tenth [month], on the first of the month>—were seen the tops of the mountains. 6 And it came to pass <at the end of forty days> that Noah opened the window of the ark that he had made; 7 and sent forth a raven,—and it kept going forth and returning, until the drying up of the waters from off the earth. 8 And he sent forth a dove from him,—to see whether the waters had abated, from off the face of the ground; 9 but the dove found no resting-place for the sole of her foot, so she returned unto him into the ark, for the waters were on the face of all the earth; 10 and he put forth his hand, and took her, and brought her in unto him, into the ark. 11 Then stayed he yet seven days more,—and again sent forth the dove, out of the ark. 12 And the dove came in unto him at eventide, and lo! [as a newly sprouted olive-leaf] in her mouth,—so Noah knew that the waters had abated from off the earth. 12 And he stayed yet seven days more,—and sent forth the dove, but she returned not again unto him any more.

§ 12. The End of the Flood.

13 So it came to pass <in the six hundred and first year, at the beginning, on the first of the month> that the waters had dried up from off the earth,—and Noah removed the covering of the ark, and looked, and lo! the face of the ground was dried. 14 And <in the second month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month> was the earth dry.

15 So then, God spake to Noah, saying:

16 Come forth, out of the ark,—thou, and thy wife, and thy sons, and thy sons' wives, with thee. 17 <All the living creatures that are with thee of all flesh, among birds, and among beasts, and among all the creeping things that creep on the earth> bring forth with thee,—and they shall swarm in the earth, and be fruitful and multiply, on the earth.

18 So Noah came forth,—and his sons, and his wife, and his sons' wives, with him: 19 <All the living creatures, all> that move along, and all birds, and all that moveth along over the earth—by their families> came forth out of the ark.

20 And Noah builded an altar to Yahweh,—and took of all the clean beasts, and of all the clean birds, and caused ascending sacrifices to go up on the altar. 21 And Yahweh smelled a satisfying odour, so Yahweh spake to himself: 4 I will not again curse any more the ground, for man's sake, although the device of the heart of man be wicked from his youth,—neither will I again, any more, smite every living thing, as I have done. <During all the days of the earth> seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night, shall not cease.

1 So God blessed Noah and his sons,—and said 9 to them,

Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth; 2 and let the fear of you and the dread of you be upon every living creature of the earth, and upon every bird of the heavens,—over everything that moveth along on the ground, and over all the fishes of the sea,—<into your hand> have they been given.

3 <As for every moving thing that hath life> shall it be, for food,— <Like the green herb> have I given you [all things].

4 Yet <flesh with the life thereof, the blood thereof> shall ye not eat;

5 And surely <your blood, of your lives> will I require, 6 <From the hand of every living creature> will I require it,—and from the hand of man.

6 <From the hand of each one's brother> will I require the life of man:

7 <He that sheddeth man's blood> [by man] shall his blood be shed,—

For <in the image of God> made he man.

8 <Ye> therefore, be fruitful and multiply,—swarm in the earth, and multiply therein.

8 And God spake unto Noah, and unto his sons with him, saying:

9 <I therefore, behold me! establishing my covenant with you,—and with your seed after you; 10 and with every living soul that is with you, of birds, of tame-beasts, and of all wild-beasts of the earth, that are with you,—of all coming forth out of the ark, even to all wild-beasts of the earth;> 11 yea I will establish my covenant with you, so that all flesh shall not be cut off any more, by reason of the waters of a flood,—neither shall there be any more a flood, to destroy the earth.

12 And God said,

13 [This is] the sign of the covenant, which I am granting betwixt me and you, and every living soul that is with you,—to age-abiding generations:—

14 <My bow> have I set in the cloud,—and it shall be for a sign of a covenant, betwixt me and the earth: 15 and it shall be <when I draw a veil of cloud over the earth,—and the bow in the cloud appeareth> thence will I remember my covenant, which is betwixt me and you, and every living soul, among all flesh,—that the waters may no more become a flood, to destroy all flesh: so the bow shall be in the cloud,—and I will behold it, to remember an age-abiding...
3 That I may bless them who bless thee,
But him who maketh light of thee> will I curse—
So shall be [blessed in thee], all the families of the ground.*
4 And Abram came on his way, according to that which Yahweh had spoken unto him, and Lot came with him,—now Abram was seventy-five years old, when he came forth out of Haran. 5 And Abram took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brother's son, with all the goods that they had gathered and the souls that they had gained in Haran,—and they came forth to go towards the land of Canaan, and came in to the land of Canaan. 6 And Abram passed along throughout the land, as far as the place of Shechem, as far as the 'Teacher's Teribinth,' the Canaanite being there in the land. 7 And Yahweh appeared unto Abram, and said:

<To thy seed> will I give this land,—
And he built there, an altar, unto Yahweh who appeared unto him. 8 And he moved on from thence, towards the hill country on the east of Bethel, and pitched his tent, with Bethel on the west, and Ai on the east, and built there an altar to Yahweh, and called on the name of Yahweh. 9 Thus Abram brake up, again and again, towards the South. 10 § 20. A Famine in the Land of Promise.

And it came to pass that there was a famine in the land,—so Abram went down towards Egypt, to sojourn there, because [of] grievance was the famine in the land. 11 And it came to pass when he had come near to enter into Egypt> that he said unto Sarai his wife:

Behold! I beseech thee, I know that a woman fair to look on thou art; 12 so will it come to pass when the Egyptians behold thee> that they will say <His wife> this! and will slay me, while <thee> they preserve alive. 13 Say, I beseech thee, that <my sister> art thou,—to the end it may be well with me for thy sake, so shall my soul be preserved alive because of thee. 14 And so it was, when Abram entered into Egypt> the Egyptians behold the woman, that <fair> was she, exceedingly. 15 And the princes of Pharaoh beheld her, and praised her unto Pharaoh, so the woman was taken to the house of Pharaoh; 16 and <with Abram> dealt he well for her sake,—so that he came to have flocks and herds, and he-asses, and men-servants, and maid-servants, and she-asses, and camels. 17 And Yahweh plagued Pharaoh with great plagues, also his house,—for Sarai, wife of Abram. 18 And Pharaoh called out to Abram, and said:

What is this? thou hast done to me?
Wherefore didst thou not tell me that she was thy wife? 19 Wherefore saidst thou, <My sister> she? and so I was about to take her to me, to wife? But, now! lo! thy wife, take her and go thy way.

20 And Pharaoh gave command concerning him unto certain men,—and sent him away, with his wife, and all that he had.

1 So Abram came up out of Egypt, he and his wife and all that he had, and Lot with him, towards the South. 2 Now Abram was very rich,—in cattle, in silver, and in gold. 3 And he went his way, by his removals, from the South, even as far as to Bethel,—as far as the place where his tent was at the beginning, between Bethel and Ai: 4 unto the place of the altar, which he made there at first,—and Abram called, there, on the name of Yahweh. 5 Now Lot also, who was going with Abram, had flocks and herds, and tents. 6 And the land suffered them not to dwell together,—because their substance had become great, so that they could not dwell together. 7 And there arose a strife betwixt the herdmen of Abram, and the herdmen of Lot. Now the Canaanite and the Perizzite were then dwelling in the land. 8 So then Abram said unto Lot:

Pray let not cause of strife arise betwixt me and thee, or betwixt my herdmen and thy herdmen; for <brethren> are we.* 9 Is not all the land before thee? I pray thee, separate thyself from me,—if to the left hand> then I will go to the right, <if to the right hand> then I will go to the left. 10 So Lot lifted up his eyes, and beheld all the circuit of the Jordan, that it was well-watered,—before Yahweh destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, like the Garden of Yahweh, like the land of Egypt, as thou enterest into Zoar. 11 And Lot chose for himself all the circuit of the Jordan, so Lot brake up eastwards,—and they separated themselves, each man from his brother: 12 [Abram] fixed his dwelling in the land of Canaan,—but [Lot] fixed his dwelling among the cities of the circuit, and moved his tent as far as Sodom. 13 Now [the men of Sodom] were base and sinful,—against Yahweh exceedingly. 14 And [Yahweh] said unto Abram, after that Lot had separated himself from him,

Lift up, I pray thee, thine eyes, and look, from the place where thou art,—northward and southward, and eastward and westward; for <all the land which thou art beholding—to thee> will I give it, and to thy seed, unto times age-abiding; 15 and I will make thy seed, as the dust of the earth,—so that <if a man can number the dust of the earth> thine seed also may be numbered. 16 Rise! go up and down in the land, to the length thereof, and to the breadth thereof, for <to thee> I will give it.

* MI: "men brothers we." 30 Round (or oval) —O.G.
14 And it came to pass, in the days of Amraphel, king of Shinar, Arioch, king of Ellasar, Chedorlaomer, king of Elam, and Tidal, king of Goiim; that they made war with Bera, king of Sodom, and with Birsha, king of Gomorrah, Shinab, king of Admah, and Shemeber, king of Zebaim, and the king of Bela — the same is Zoar. All these joined together in the valley of the open fields; the same is the Salt Sea.

8 Thus then went forth the King of Sodom and the king of Goiim, and the king of Admah, and the king of Zebaim, and the king of Bela, the same is Zoar—and set themselves in array against them for battle, in the valley of the open fields; against Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of Goiim, and Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellasar, four kings against five.

13 Then came in a fugitive, and told Abram the Hebrew—"the heavens of Mamre the Amorite, brother of Eshcol, and brother of Aner, they also having a covenant with Abram. So Abram hear'ing' that his brother had been taken captive, drew forth his trained men, born in his house, three hundred and eighteen, and pursued as far as Dan. And he divided himself against them by night, the he, and his servants, and smote them, and pursued them, and as far as Hobah, which was on the left of Damascus.

22 Abram pursues Four Kings: delivers Lot; is blessed by Melchizedec.

§ 22. Abram pursues Four Kings: delivers Lot; is blessed by Melchizedec.

14 And it came to pass, in the days of Amraphel, king of Shinar, Arioch, king of Ellasar, Chedorlaomer, king of Elam, and Tidal, king of Goiim, that they made war with Bera, king of Sodom, and with Birsha, king of Gomorrah, Shinab, king of Admah, and Shemeber, king of Zebaim, and the king of Bela — the same is Zoar. All these joined together in the valley of the open fields; the same is the Salt Sea.

8 Thus then went forth the King of Sodom and the king of Goiim, and the king of Admah, and the king of Zebaim, and the king of Bela, the same is Zoar — and set themselves in array against them for battle, in the valley of the open fields; against Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of Goiim, and Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellasar, four kings against five.

13 Then came in a fugitive, and told Abram the Hebrew — he having his dwelling among the oaks of Mamre the Amorite, brother of Eshcol and brother of Aner, they also having a covenant with Abram. So Abram hear'ing' that his brother had been taken captive, drew forth his trained men, born in his house, three hundred and eighteen, and pursued as far as Dan. And he divided himself against them by night, the he, and his servants, and smote them, and pursued them, and as far as Hobah, which was on the left of Damascus.

16 So he brought back all the goods, yea. Lot also his brother, with his goods, did he bring back, and the women also, and the people.

17 Then came forth the king of Sodom to meet him, after his return from the smiting of Chedorlaomer, and the kings who were with him, into the vale of Shaveh, — the same is the vale of the kings. Now Melchizedek, king of Salem, had brought forth bread and wine, — the he being priest of God Most High. So he blessed him, and said, — Blessed be Abram, of God Most High, possessor of [the] heavens and earth;

20 And blessed be God Most High, who hath delivered thine enemies into thy hand. So he gave unto him a tenth of all. Then said the king of Sodom unto Abram, — Give unto me the persons, but the goods take thou for thyself.

22 And Abram said unto the king of Sodom, — I have lifted up my hand unto Yahweh, God Most High, possessor of [the] heavens and earth;

23 That not from a thread even unto a sandal-thong — will I take anything that is thine, — Letst thou shouldest say, — I enriched Abram!

24 Save only - what the young men have eaten, and the share of the men who went with me, — Eshcol, and Mamre, — they may take their share.

§ 23. Abram's questioning faith confirmed as to the Seed and the Land.

1 After these things came the word of Yahweh unto Abram, in a vision, saying, — Do not fear, Abram, I am a shield to thee, thine exceeding great reward.

2 And Abram said, — My Lord Yahweh, what canst thou give me, when I am going on childless, — and the heir of my house is Eliezer of Damascus?

3 And Abram said, — Lo, to me hast thou not given seed, — And lo! [a son of my household] is mine heir!

4 And lo! the word of Yahweh came unto him, saying, — This one shall not be thine heir; — But one who cometh forth of thy body — he shall be thine heir.

5 And he brought him forth abroad, and said — Look steadfastly, I pray thee, towards the heavens, and number the stars, if thou be able to number them, — And he said to him, — Thy Shall be thy seed.
And he had faith in Yahweh, so he reckoned it to him, as righteousness.

And he said unto him,—

I am Yahweh, who brought thee forth out of Ur of the Chaldees, to give thee this land, to inherit it.

And he said:

My Lord Yahweh, <whereby> can I know, that I shall inherit it?

And he said unto him,

Take for me a heifer, three years old, and a she-goat three years old, and a ram three years old, and a turtle-dove, and a young pigeon.

So he took for him all these, and divided them in the midst, and placed each piece over against its fellow, and set the birds divided be not.

Then came down the birds of prey upon the carcasses, and Abram drove them away.

And it came to pass when the sun was about to go down, and it was deep sleep had fallen upon Abram, lo! a terror—a great darkness—was falling upon him.

And he said to Abram:

Thou must surely know that thy seed shall become in a land not theirs, and shall serve them, and they will humble them, four hundred years; moreover also, the nation whom they will serve I will bring back, and after that shall they come forth with great substance.

But thou shalt go in unto thy fathers in peace, thou shalt be buried in a good old age.

And in the fourth generation shall they return hither, for the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet.

So it came to pass when the sun had gone in, and it was thick darkness, he had come on, that lo! there was a smoking hearth and torch of fire, which passed through between these pieces.

In that day did Yahweh solemnise with Abram a covenant, saying,—

To thy seed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt, as far as the great river—the river Euphrates: the Kenite, and the Kenizzite, and the Kadmonite; and the Hittite and the Perizzite, and the Rephaim; and the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Girgasite, and the Jebusite.

§ 24. Yielding to Sarai, Abram takes Hagar, who bears Ishmael.

But Sarai, Abram's wife, had borne him no children,—[she had], however, an Egyptian handmaid, whose name was Hagar. So then Sarai said unto Abram,

Behold, I pray thee, Yahweh hath restrained me from bearing, go in, I pray thee, unto my handmaid, peradventure I may be built up from her,—

And Abram hearkened to the voice of Sarai. So Sarai, Abram's wife, took Hagar the Egyptian, her handmaid, at the end of ten years of Abram's dwelling in the land of Canaan, and gave her to Abram her husband, to be to him as a wife. And he went in unto Hagar, and she conceived, and when she saw that she had conceived, lightly esteemed was her lady, in her eyes.

Then said Sarai unto Abram:

My wrong is on thee! I gave my handmaid into thy bosom, and when she saw that she had conceived then am I lightly esteemed in her eyes!

Yahweh judge betwixt me and her.

And Abram said unto Sarai,

Lo! thy handmaid is in thy hand, do to her, what is good in thine eyes.

So Sarai humbled her, and she fled from her face.

And the messenger of Yahweh found her, by the fountain of water, in the desert,—by the fountain in the way to Shur.

So he said—Hagar! handmaid of Sarai! Whence hast thou come, and whither wouldst thou go?

And she said:

From the face of Sarai, my lady, am I fleeing.

And the messenger of Yahweh said to her,

Return unto thy lady, and humble thyself under her hands.

And the messenger of Yahweh said to her,

I will greatly multiply thy seed—so that it shall not be numbered for multitude.

And the messenger of Yahweh said to her,

Behold thee! with child, and about bearing a son—and thou shalt call his name Ishmael = "God hearkeneth," for Yahweh hath hearkened unto thy humiliation.

But he will be a wild ass of a man, his hand against every one, and every one's hand against him—yet in presence of all his brethren shall he have his habitation.

And she called the name of Yahweh, who had spoken unto her,

Thou (God) of vision!

For she said,

Do I (even here) retain my vision after a vision?

On this account is the well called, The well of the life of vision,—lo! it is between Kadesh and Bered.

So Hagar bare to Abram a son,—and Abram called the name of his son, whom Hagar bare, Ishmael. Now Abram was eighty-six years old,—when Hagar bare Ishmael to Abram.

§ 25. Ishmael's Burial at Machpelah.

But in all these things Abram clave not to Yahweh, not even to the covenant of circumcision.

Yet Abram said to Abimelech,

Consider to me a small thing, that thou mayst give me a possession of this land.

Then spake Abimelech unto Abram, saying:

This we will do.

I have reaped all the trees of the field, and I have said unto the men of my field, Give me bread, and I have given bread.

And Abram said unto Abimelech,

Consider to me a small thing, that thou mayst give me bread to eat.

And Abimelech said unto Abram,

I will give thee five hundred pieces of silver, that other men may not say that I have taken thee by force.

And Abram said unto Abimelech,

Consider to me a small thing, that thou mayst give me bread to eat and water to drink.

And Abimelech said unto Abram,

These are all the sons and the maid-servants which she had brought thee in the land of Kades; how then shall my lord make his wife to hear it, saying, These are the sons which he brought me in the land of Kades?

Then Abram rose up, and bowed himself unto Abimelech, and to Nahor's wife, and unto the men of his land.

And they made a covenant at Shechem.

And Abimelech said unto Abram,

Here is my land, which is in the land of the Canaanites, and the hill, which is near the city; for I give it to thee.

And Abram said unto Abimelech,

§ 25 The Covenant-Sign of Circumcision. Abram becomes Abraham; and Sarai, Sarah.

17. And it came to pass that when Abram was ninety and nine years old, Yahweh appeared unto Abram, and said unto him, I am God Almighty, —

Walk thou before me, and become thou blameless; —

That I may set my covenant betwixt me and thee,

And may multiply thee (exceedingly).

And Abram fell on his face, and God spake with him, saying:

<As for me> lo! my covenant is with thee;

So shalt thou become — father of a multitude of nations;

And thy name shall no more be called Abram, — but thy name shall become Abraham, for <father of a multitude of nations> have I appointed thee;

And I will make thee fruitful (exceedingly), and grant thee to be nations,—

Yea [kings], <out of thee> shall come forth;

And I will confirm my covenant betwixt me and thee, and thy seed after thee, to their generations, for an age-abiding covenant, — to become to thee a God, and to thy seed after thee;

And I will give, to thee and to thy seed after thee, the land of thy sojournings—all the land of Canaan, for an age-abiding possession,—

And I will be to them, a God.

And God said unto Abraham,

But <as for thee> <my covenant> must thou keep, thou and thy seed after thee, to their generations;—

This is my covenant, which ye shall keep, betwixt me and thee, and thy seed after thee,—

To circumcise to you, every male:

So shall ye be circumcised, in the flesh of your foreskin,—

So it shall become a sign of a covenant, betwixt me and you.

And he that is eight days old shall be circumcised to you, every male to your generations,—<he that is born of the house, and he that is bought with silver, of any son of a stranger, who is not of thy seed> —

He must surely be circumcised; [born of thy house, or bought with thy silver], —

So shall my covenant be in your flesh, for an age-abiding covenant.

But <as for the uncircumcised male who shall not be circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin> — <that person> shall be cut off from among his people,—

<my covenant> hath he made void.

18. And God said unto Abraham,

<As for Sarai thy wife> thou shalt not call her name, Sarai,—but [Sarah] is her name;

And I will bless her, yea moreover will give—from her—to thee, [Isaac], —

And I will bless her, and she shall become nations.

[ Kings ] of peoples <from her> shall arise.

17. And Abraham fell on his face, and laughed,— and said in his heart,

<To one a hundred years old> shall a child be born?

And shall [even Sarah, who is ninety years old], give birth?

18. And Abraham said unto God, —

Oh that [Ishmael], might live before thee!

19. And God said—

Truly [Sarah thy wife] is about to bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name, Isaac,— and I will establish my covenant with him, as an age-abiding covenant, — to his seed after him.

20. Yet <as for Ishmael> I have heard thee; lo! I have blessed him, and will make him fruitful, and multiply him (exceedingly),— <twelve princes> shall be begot, and I will grant him to be a great nation;

But <my covenant> will I establish with Isaac,—whom Sarah shall bear to thee, by this set time, in the next year.

21. And he left off speaking with him,—and God went up from Abraham.

22. So Abraham took Ishmael his son, and all born of his house, and all bought with his silver—every male among the men of the house of Abraham,—and circumcised the flesh of their foreskin, on this selfsame day, according to that which God had spoken with him. 24 Now [Abraham] was ninety-nine years old,—when he was circumcised, in the flesh of his foreskin.

23. And [Ishmael his son] was thirteen years old, when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin.

24. <On this selfsame day> was Abraham circumcised,—and Ishmael his son; 25 and <all the men of his house, born of his house, and bought with silver, from the son of a stranger>, were circumcised with him.

§ 26. Three Messengers visit Abraham, who is promised a Son, and intercedes for Sodom.

1. And Yahweh appeared unto him, among the oaks of Mamre,—as [he] was sitting at the opening of the tent, in the heat of the day.

2. And he lifted up his eyes, and looked, and lo! three men: standing over against him,—so he looked, and ran to meet them from the opening of the tent, and bowed himself to the earth: and said,—

O My Lord! * if I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes: do not, I pray thee, pass on from thy servant.

4 Let there be fetched, I pray thee, a little water, and bathe ye your feet, and rest yourselves under the tree.

5 And let me fetch a morsel of bread, and stay ye your heart,

Afterwards ye may pass on.

For <on this account> have ye passed by, over against your servant. And they said, <small>Thus</small> shalt thou do, as thou hast spoken.

9 So Abraham hastened towards the tent, unto Sarah,—and said,

Hasten thou three measures of fine meal, knead it, and make heath-cakes.

7 And <unto the herd> ran Abraham,—and took a calf, tender and good, and gave unto the young man, and he hastened to make it ready.

8 And he took butter, and milk, and the calf that he had made ready, and set before them,—while [he] was standing near them under the tree, they did eat.

9 And they said unto him, As to Sarah thy wife. . . .

10 And he said, Lo! [she is] in the tent.

15 And and said,

I will surely return unto thee, at the quaking season,—and lo! a son for Sarah thy wife.

Now, Sarah, was hearkening at the opening of the tent, [it] being behind him. But Abraham and Sarah; were old, far gone in days,—it had ceased to be with Sarah after the manner of women. 12 So then Sarah laughed within herself, saying: <After I am past age hath there come to me pleasure, [my lord]; also being old?>

And Yahweh said unto Abraham,—

Wherefore, now, did Sarah laugh saying, Can it really and truly be that I should bear seeing that I have become old? 14 Is anything too wonderful for Yahweh? 15 At the appointed time I will return unto thee, at the quaking season, and Sarah shall have a son.

16 And Sarah denied, saying, I laughed not. For she was afraid. And he said—

Nay! but thou didst laugh!

18 And the men rose up from thence, and looked out over the face of Sodom,—Abraham also, going with them, to set them on their way.

17 Now Yahweh had said,—

Am I going to hide from Abraham what I do, when I shall surely become a great and mighty nation,—and all the nations of the earth shall be blessed in him? 19 For I have become his intimate friend. 20 To the end that he may command his sons and his house after him, so shall they keep the way of Yahweh, by doing righteousness and justice,—

To the end that Yahweh may bring in for Abraham, what he hath spoken concerning him.

20 So Yahweh said,—

The outery of Sodom and Gomorrah, because it hath become great,—

And their sin, because it hath become exceeding grievous.

21 Let me go down, pray, and let me behold, whether <according to their> outery which hath come in unto me> they have done altogether, And if not, I must know! 22 And the men turned from thence, and went their way, towards Sodom,—but Yahweh was yet standing before Abraham. 23 So then Abraham drew near, and said,—

Wilt thou really sweep away, the righteous, with the lawless?

24 Peradventure there are fifty righteous, in the midst of the city>

Wilt thou really sweep away, and not spare the place, for the sake of the fifty righteous, which are therein?

25 Far be it from thee! to do after this manner, to put to death the righteous with the lawless! then should righteous and lawless be alike,—

Far be it from thee! Shall the Judge of all the earth <not do> justice?

26 And Yahweh said,—

If I find in Sodom fifty righteous, in the midst of the city, then will I spare all the place for their sake.

27 And Abraham responded, and said,—

Behold, I pray thee, I have ventur ed to speak unto My Lord, though I am dust and ashes:

Peradventure there may lack, of the fifty righteous, five,

Wilt thou destroy five, [all] the city?

And he said—

I will not destroy, if I find there, forty and five.
29 And he added [yet once more] to speak unto him, and said, Peradventure' there may be found there—[forty].
And he said—
I will not do it, for the sake of the forty.
30 And he said—
Let it not, I pray thee, be vexing to My Lord, but let me speak, Peradventure' there may be found there—[thirty].
And he said,
I will not do it, if I find there—thirty.
31 And he said—
Behold, I pray thee, I have ventured to speak unto My Lord, Peradventure' there may be found there—[twenty].
And he said,
I will not destroy [it], for the sake of the twenty.
32 And he said—
Let it not, I pray thee, be vexing to My Lord, but let me speak [only this once], Peradventure' there may be found there—
[ten].
And he said,
I will not destroy [it], for the sake of the ten!
33 And Yahweh went his way, when he had made an end, of speaking unto Abraham,— "[Abraham]" also returned to his place.

§ 27. Lot delivered: Sodom destroyed: the Fate of Lot’s Wife: Moab and Ben-ammi born.

19 So the two messengers went in towards Sodom, at even-tide, [[Lot]] being seated in the gate of Sodom, so Lot beheld, and rose up to meet them, and bowed himself with his face to the earth.
2 And he said—
Behold, I pray you, my lords, turn aside, I pray you, into the house of your servant,— and tarry the night, and bathe your feet, so shall ye rise early, and go on your way.
And they said,
Nay, but <in the broadway> will we tarry the night.
3 But he became exceeding urgent with them, so they turned aside unto him, and entered into his house,—and he made for them a banquet, <unleavened cakes> also did he bake, and they did eat.
4 <Ere yet they lay down> [[the men of the city — the men of Sodom]] had come round against the house, from youth, even unto age,—[all the people from every quarter].
5 And they called unto Lot, and said to him,
Where are the men who have come in unto thee to-night? Bring them forth unto us, and let us know them!
6 And Lot went forth unto them, to the entrance; but <the door> closed behind him.
7 And he said,—
Do not, I pray you, my brethren, act wickedly.
8 Behold, I pray you, [[I]] have two daughters who have not known man, I must needs, now, bring [them] forth unto you, and do ye [to them] as may be good in your eyes,—
Only' <to these men> ye may do nothing; for <on this account> have they come under the shade of my roof.

9 And they said,
Stand back,
And they said,
[[This one]] <by himself> hath come in to sojourn, and must always be acting the judge,
[[Now]] will we do more wickedly to thee, than to them.
So they pressed sore upon the man—upon Lot—exceedingly, and drew near to break open the door.
10 And the men thrust forth their hand, and brought Lot in unto them, into the house—and <the door> they closed:
11 <the men also who were at the entrance of the house> smote them with blindness, from small even unto great, so that they wacried themselves to find the entrance.
12 And the men said unto Lot,
Whom [besides] last thou here! <Son-in-law, and thy sons and thy daughters>, and all that thou hast in the city> bring thou forth out of the place;
13 For we are about to destroy' this place,— for [great] is the outery of them unto the face of Yahweh, so that Yahweh hath sent us to destroy it.
14 And Lot went forth and spake unto his sons-in-law who were about to take his two daughters, and said, Arise, come forth out of this place, for Yahweh is about to destroy' the city.
And it came to pass, that he was as one that laughed, in the eyes of his sons-in-law.
15 But <as soon as [the dawn] had sprung up> the messengers hastened Lot, saying,— Arise! take thy wife, and thy two daughters that are at hand, lest thou be swept away in the punishment of the city.
16 And he lingered—so the men laid hold of his hand and of the hand of his wife, and of the hand of his two daughters, in the tenderness of Yahweh towards him,—and they brought him out, and led him forth outside the city.
17 And it came to pass, <when they had brought them forth outside> that they said,
Escape for thy life,
Look not behind thee, neither stand still in all the vale,—
<To the mountain> escape thou, lest thou be swept away.
18 And Lot said unto them,—
No, I pray thee, My Lord!
19 Behold, I pray thee, thy servant hath found favour in thine eyes, so that thou hast...
magnified thy lovingkindness which thou hast performed with me, in keeping alive my soul.
But I cannot escape to the mountain, lest calamity overtake me, so shall I die.
Behold, I pray thee, this city is near, for fleeing thither.
And it is a little one, let me, I pray thee, escape thither—is it not a little one?
That my soul may live!
And he said unto him, Behold! I have lifted up thy countenance, even to this thing, so that I will not overthrow the city, of which thou hast spoken.
Haste thee, escape thither, for I cannot do anything, until thou have come in thither.
For this cause was the name of the city called Zoar.
When the sun had come forth on the earth, Lot had entered into Zoar.
And Yahweh rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah, brimstone and fire, from Yahweh, out of the heavens: so he overthrew these cities, and all the circuit, and all the inhabitants of the cities, and the produce of the ground.
But his wife looked from behind him, and became a pillar of salt.
And Abraham gat up early in the morning, unto the place, where he had stood before Yahweh; and he looked out over the face of Sodom and Gomorrah, and over all the face of the land of the circuit, and beheld, and lo! the smoke of the land went up, like the smoke of a furnace.
And it came to pass, when God destroyed the cities of the circuit, that God remembered Abraham, and sent forth Lot out of the midst of the overthrow, when he overthrew the cities wherein Lot had dwelt.
And Lot went out of Zoar, and dwelt in the mountain, and his two daughters with him, for he feared to dwell in Zoar; so he dwelt in a cave, he, and his two daughters.
And the firstborn said unto the younger,
Our father is old, and a man there is not in the earth, to come in unto us, after the way of all the earth.
Come on! let us cause our father to drink wine, and let us lie with him, that we may keep alive from our father a seed.
So they caused their father to drink wine, that night, and the firstborn went in, and lay with her father, but he noticed not her lying down nor her rising up.
And it came to pass on the morrow, that the firstborn said unto the younger,
Lo! I lay, last night, with my father; let us cause him to drink wine this night also, and go thou in—lie with him, that we may keep alive from our father a seed.
So they caused their father on that night also to drink wine, and the younger arose, and lay with him, but he noticed not her lying down, nor her rising up.
Thus did the two daughters of Lot conceive' from their father.
And the firstborn bare a son, and called his name Moab, the same is the father of Moab, unto this day. And the younger—she also—bare a son, and called his name Ben-ammi, the same is the father of the sons of Ammon—unto this day.

§ 28. Abraham and Abimelech in Gerar.
1 And Abraham brake up from thence, towards the land of the South, and fixed his dwelling between Kadesh and Shur,—so he sojourned in Gerar. 2 And Abraham said of Sarah his wife: My <sister> is she—So Abimelech king of Gerar sent, and took Sarah.

And Abimelech said unto Abraham,—

What hadst thou seen, that thou shouldest have done this thing?

And Abraham said,

Because I thought, * Surely there is no fear of God, in this place,—therefore will they slay me for the sake of my wife. 12 Moreover also <in truth >

<my sister, daughter of my father> she is, only not daughter of my mother,—so she became my wife.

And so it came to pass <when the Gods b caused me to wander from my father’s house> that I said to her,

[This is thy loving-kindness, wherewith thou shalt deal with me,—<unto whatsoever place we enter> say of me,

<My brother> is he.

Then took Abimelech sheep and oxen, and maidservants and maid-servants, and gave to Abraham,—and restored to him Sarah his wife.

And Abimelech said,

Lo! my land is before thee,—<wherever it may seem good in thine eyes>, dwell.

And <to Sarah> he said,

Lo! I have given a thousand of silver unto thy brother:

Lo! <that> is for thee, as a covering of eyes,* to all who are with thee,—

And so <in every way> hath right been done.

And Abraham prayed unto God,—and God healed Abimelech, and his wife, and his maid-servants, so that they bare children. 13 For Yahweh had restrained from bearing every female of the house of Abimelech,—because of Sarah, wife of Abraham.

§29. Isaac is born; and Hagar and Ishmael are dismissed.

Now Yahweh visited Sarah, as he had said,—

And Yahweh did’ for Sarah, as he had spoken.

So [Sarah] conceived and bare [to Abraham] a son, for his old age,—at the set time, of which God had spoken with him. 2 And Abraham called the name of his son that was born to him, whom [Sarah] bare to him 3 Isaac. 4 And Abraham circumcised Isaac his son, when eight days old,—as God’ commanded him. 5 Now Abraham was a hundred years old,—when Isaac his son was born to him. 6 And Sarah said,

<A laughing> hath God made for me,—

If everyone that heareth will laugh with me!

And she said—

Who would have announced to Abraham,

Sarah hath suckled children? yet have I borne a son, for his old age! 8 And the child grew, and was weaned,—and Abraham made a great banquet, on the day of the weaning of Isaac. 9 And Sarah saw the son of Hagar, the Egyptian woman, whom she had borne to Abraham, [laughing]! 10 So she said to Abraham,

Cast out this bondwoman e and her son,—for the son of this bondwoman must not inherit [with my son] 11 with Isaac. 4

And the word was very grievous in the eyes of Abraham,—on account of his son. 12 And God said unto Abraham,

Let it not be grievous in thine eyes concerning the boy and concerning thy bondwoman,

<in all that Sarah may say unto thee> hearken to her voice,—

For <in Isaac> shall there be called to thee—a seed.

Yet <even the son of the bondwoman> will I appoint to become a nation, because <thy seed> he is;

So Abraham rose up early in the morning,—and took bread and a skin of water, and gave unto Hagar,—putting them on her shoulder, and the child,* and sent her forth,—so she went her way and wandered, in the desert of Beer-sheba.

And the water out of the skin was spent,—so she cast the child under one of the shrubs;

And went and sat down over against him, at a distance like as of such as draw the bow, for she said,

Let me not look upon the death of the child,—

So she sat down over against him, and the boy lifted up his voice, and wept. 17 And God heard the voice of the boy, and a messenger of God called unto Hagar out of the heavens, and said to her,

What aileth thee, Hagar! Do not fear, for God hath hearkened unto the voice of the boy where he is.

Arise, lift up the boy, and hold him up with thy hand,—for a great nation will I make him.

And God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water,—and went and filled the skin with water, and gave drink unto the boy. 19 And it came to pass, that

GENESIS XXI. 21—34; XXII. 1—14.

God was with the boy, and he grew,—and dwelt in the desert, and he became, as he grew up, an archer. And he dwelt in the desert of Paran,—and his mother took him a wife out of the land of Egypt.

§ 30. Abimelech obtains a Covenant with Abraham.

And it came to pass <at that time>, that Abimelech, with Phichol chieftain of his host, spake unto Abraham, saying,—

"God is with thee in all that thou art doing.

"Now: therefore, swear to me by God, here, that thou wilt not deal falsely by me, nor by mine offspring, nor by my descendants,—<according to the lovingkindness where-with I have dealt with thee> shalt thou deal with me, and with the land wherein thou hast sojourned.

And Abraham said,

"I will swear.

But Abraham reproved Abimelech,—on account of the well of water, which the servants of Abimelech had seized. And Abimelech said,

"I know not, who hath done this thing,—nor hast [even thou] ever told me, nor have [even I] ever heard, save to-day.

And Abraham took sheep and oxen, and gave to Abimelech,—and they two solemnised a covenant. So then Abraham set seven young shep of the flock, by themselves. And Abimelech said unto Abraham, What? then mean these seven young sheep here, which thou hast set by themselves?

And he said,

"The seven young sheep shalt thou take at my hand,—that they may serve as my witness, that I dig this well.

<On this account> was the name of that place called Beer-sheba [= oath well],—because <there> had they two sworn. And when they had solemnised a covenant in Beer-sheba,—then arose Abimelech, with Phichol chief of his host, and returned unto the land of the Philistines. Then planted he a tamarisk tree in Beer-sheba,—and called thereon the name of Yahweh, the age-abiding[1] God. So Abraham sojourned in the land of the Philistines many days.

§ 31. The Offering up of Isaac in the Land of Moriah.

And it came to pass <after these things> that "God[2] did prove Abraham,—and he said unto him, Abraham!

And he said,

Behold me!

And he said—

Take, I pray thee, thy son, thine only one.

[MI]: "cut," "because of the cutting up and distribution of the flesh of the victim for eating in the sacrifice of the covenant"—O.G. 5098, 4.

[8 Or]: "stationed."

whom thou lovest, even [Isaac], and get thee into the land of Moriah,—and cause him to ascend there, as an ascending-sacrifice, on one of the mountains, which I shall name unto thee.

So Abraham rose early in the morning, and saddled his ass, and took his two young men with him, and Isaac his son,—and clave the pieces of wood for an ascending-sacrifice, and mounted and went his way unto the place which God had named to him. It was <on the third day> that Abraham lifted up his eyes, and saw the place, afar off. And Abraham said unto his young men—

Tarry by yourselves here, with the ass, but [I and the young man] must go yonder,—that we may bow ourselves down, and return unto you.

So Abraham took the pieces of wood for the ascending-sacrifice, and laid them on Isaac his son, and took in his own hand, the fire and the knife,—and they went on their way [both of them, together]. Then said Isaac unto Abraham his father, then said he:

My father!

And he said,

Behold me, my son,—And he said,

Behold—the fire, and the pieces of wood,—but where is the lamb, for an ascending-sacrifice?

And Abraham said,

"[God] will provide[4] for himself the lamb, for an ascending-sacrifice, my son!

So they went on their way [both of them, together]. Then came they into the place which God had named to him, and Abraham built there the altar, and laid in order the pieces of wood,—and bound Isaac his son, and laid him on the altar, above the pieces of wood. And Abraham put forth his hand, and took the knife,—to slay his son.

Then called out unto him the messenger of Yahweh, out of the heavens, and said,

Abraham, Abraham!

And he said,

Behold me!

Then he said,

Do not put forth thy hand, unto the young man, neither do to him—anything at all,—for [now] I know that <one who reverest God> thou art, when thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only one, from me.

And Abraham lifted up his eyes, and looked, and lo! a ram, behind, caught in a thicket by his horns,—and Abraham went, and took the ram, and caused him to ascend as an ascending-sacrifice, instead of his son.

So Abraham called the name of that place,

* ["Probably, shown or provided by Jah . . . one of the hills of Jerusalem . . . on which Solomon built the temple"—Davies’ H.L., p. 380.]

[8 Or]: "laid."

4—2
And Abraham rose up, and bowed himself down to the people of the land, to the sons of Heth; and spake with them, saying,—

<If it is with the consent of your minds, 1 that I should bury my dead from before me> have me, and intercede for me, with Ephron son of Zohar:

That he would give me, the cave of Machpelah, which pertaineth unto him, which is within the bounds of his field,— <For full silver> let him give it me, in your midst.

For a possession of a buryingplace.

Now Ephron was sitting in the midst of the sons of Heth, so Ephron the Hittite responded to Abraham, in the ears of the sons of Heth, even all that were entering the gate of his city, saying:

Nay, my lord, hear me, —
<The field> have I given to thee, And — the cave that is therein! <to thee> have I given it,— <In the eyes of the sons of my people> have I given it thee, Bury thy dead.

So Abraham bowed himself down, before the people of the land: 13 and spake unto Ephron, in the ears of the people of the land, saying, — <Only> if thou wouldst > hear me,— I have given the silver of the field.
Take it of me, That I may bury my dead here.

And Ephron responded to Abraham, saying to him,

My lord, hear me,—
<Land worth four hundred shekels of silver—betcixt me and thee> what is that? And <thy dead,> bury thou.

And Abraham hearkened unto Ephron, and Abraham weighed out to Ephron the silver, of which he had spoken in the ears of the sons of Heth,—four hundred shekels of silver, current with the merchant.

So was confirmed the field of Ephron, which is in Machpelah, which is before Mamre,—<the field, and the cave which is therein, and all the timber which was in the field, which was in all the boundary thereof round about> 18 to Abraham as a purchase, in the eyes of the sons of Heth,— with all 20 who were entering the gate of his city.

And after this> did Abraham bury Sarah his wife, within the cave of the field of Machpelah, over against Mamre, <the same> is Hebron,—in the land of Canaan.

Now Abraham was old, far gone in days,— 24 and Yahweh had blessed Abraham, in all things. So Abraham said unto his servant, elder of his house, ruler of all that he had,—
Place, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh; that I may put thee on oath, by Yahweh God of the heavens, and God of the earth,—
That thou wilt not take a wife for my son, from among the daughters of the Canaanites, in the midst of whom I am dwelling: but unto my own land and unto my own kindred> wilt go,—So shalt thou take a wife, for my son— for Isaac.
And the servant said unto him, Peradventure the woman may not be willing to follow me into this land,—May I take back thy son, into the land from whence thou camest?
And Abraham said unto him,—Beware, that thou do not take back my son thither!
<Yahweh, God of the heavens, and God of the earth,> who took me out of the house of my father, and out of the land of my kindred, and who spake to me, and who swore to me, saying, —<To thy seed> will I give this land> ^he^ will send his messenger before thee, so shalt thou take a wife for my son, from thence.
But if unwill ing* be the woman to follow thee> then shalt thou be clear, from this mine oath,—Only <my son> shalt thou not take back thither!
So the servant placed his hand, under the thigh of Abraham, his lord,—and swore to him, over this thing.
Then took the servant ten camels, from among the camels of his lord, and went his way,—<all the goods of his master> being in his hand,—so he mounted, and went his way unto Mesopotamia, unto the city of Nahor.
And he made the camels kneel down outside the city, against the well of water,—at the time of evening, at the time of the coming forth of the women that drew water. Then he said,
O Yahweh, God of my lord Abraham! I pray thee, cause it to fall out before me today,—that thou deal in loving-kindness, with my lord Abraham.
Here am I: stationed by the fountain of water,—and >the daughters of the men of the city> are coming forth to draw water: so it shall come to pass that <the young woman> unto whom I shall say, Let down, pray, thy pitcher, that I may drink, and she shall say, Drink, and >to thy camels also> will I give to drink> that ^her^ hast thou appointed for thy servant, for Isaac.
And hereby I shall get to know, that thou hast dealt in loving-kindness with my lord! And it came to pass <ere yet the> had done speaking— that lo! [Rebekah] was coming forth, who had been born to Bethuel son of Milcah, wife of Nahor, brother of Abraham,—with her pitcher upon her shoulder.
Now she young woman was of very pleasing appearance, a virgin whom no man knew, —and she went down unto the fountain, and filled her pitcher, and came up. And the servant ran to meet her, and said,
I pray thee, let me drink a little water, out of thy pitcher.
And she said,
Drink, my lord,—And she hastened, and lowered her pitcher on her hand, and let him drink. And <when she had done giving him drink>, —she said,<For thy camels also> will I draw, until they have done drinking.
So she hastened, and emptied her pitcher into the drinking-trough, and ran again unto the well, to draw, —and she drew for all his camels.
Now the man was eagerly watching her,—keeping silence, to see—whether Yahweh had prospered his way, or not.
And it came to pass <when the camels had done drinking> that the man took a ring* of gold, half a shekel its weight,—and two bracelets, for her hands, ten of gold their weight: and said,
Whose daughter art thou? I pray thee, tell me. Is there, in the house of thy father, a place for us to tarry the night?
And she said unto him,<Daughter of Bethuel> am I—[Bethuel] son of Milcah, whom she bare to Nahor.
And she said unto him,<Both straw and fodder in plenty> have we,—also a place, to tarry the night.
Then the man bowed his head, and bent himself down unto Yahweh; and said,
Blessed be Yahweh, God of my lord Abraham, who hath not withdrawn his loving-kindness and his faithfulness, from my lord,—1<—being in the way>, Yahweh led me unto the house of the brethren of my lord!
And the young woman ran, and told the household of her mother,—according to these words. Now Rebekah had a brother, whose name was Laban,—so Laban ran unto the man, outside, unto the fountain.
And it came to pass, <when he saw the ring>, and the bracelets on the hands of his sister, and when he heard the words of Rebekah, his sister saying,
[Thus did the man speak unto me> that he came unto the man, and lo! he was standing by the camels, near the fountain; and he said,
Come in, thou blessed of Yahweh,—Wherefore shouldst thou stand outside, when II>> have made ready the house, and a place for the camels?

*a Ml: "a nose-ring" ("nasal-gem") —Horsley.
*b Cp. ver. 22.
*c Or: "by her II."
*Cp. ver. 3—G.n.
22 So the man came in to the house, and ungirded the camels, and there was given him straw and fodder for the camels, and water for bathing his own feet, and the feet of the men who were with him; and food was set before him to eat, but he said,

I cannot eat, until I have spoken my words.

And he said—

Speak!

34 Then said he,—

Servant of Abraham? am I;

Now, having blessed my lord exceedingly, and made him great, and given him flocks and herds, and silver and gold, and men-servants and maidservants, and camels, and asses, then did Sarah, wife of my lord, bear a son to my lord, after she had become old, so he gave him all that he had;

And my lord put me on oath, saying,—

Thou shalt not take a wife for my son, of the daughters of the Canaanites, in whose land I am dwelling; but unto the house of my father shalt thou go, and unto my family, and take a wife for my son.

So I said unto my lord,—

Peradventure the woman will not follow me.

And he said unto me,—

Yahweh, before whom I have walked to and fro, will send his messenger with thee, so shall he prosper thy way, and thou shalt take a wife for my son out of my kindred, and out of the house of my father.

Then shalt thou clear thyself from mine oath, for thou shalt go in unto my kindred, and if they will not grant her unto thee then shalt thou be clear from mine oath.

So I came in to-day, unto the fountain,—and I said,

O Yahweh, God of my lord Abraham! if I pray thee, thou art prospering my way whereon I am going; here am I stationed by the fountain of water, so then it shall come to pass that the maiden that is coming forth to draw, and I shall say unto her, Let me drink, I pray thee, a little water out of thy pitcher; and she shall say unto me, Both thou and I will draw. The same shall be the woman whom Yahweh hath appointed for the son of my lord.

Ere yet I could make an end of speaking unto mine own heart, lo! then Rebekah coming forth, with her pitcher on her shoulder, and she went down to the fountain, and drew, and I said unto her,

Let me drink, I pray thee! So she hastened, and lowered her pitcher from off her, and said,

Drink! and will I give to drink,—

So I drank, and she let drink.

Then I asked her, and said, Whose daughter art thou? And she said, Daughter of Bethuel, son of Nahor, whom Milcah bare to him,—Then put I the ring upon her nose, and the bracelets upon her hands; and bowed my head and bent myself down unto Yahweh, and I blessed Yahweh, God of my lord Abraham, who had led me, in a way of faithfulness, to take the daughter of the brother of my lord, for his son.

I therefore dealt in a loving-kindness and faithfulness with my lord, that I may turn unto the right hand, or unto the left.

Then answered Laban and Bethuel, and said,

From Yahweh hath come forth the word,—we cannot speak unto thee, ill or well.

Lo! Rebekah is before thee, Take [her] and go thy way,—And let her become wife unto the son of thy lord, as Yahweh hath spoken.

And it came to pass, when Abraham’s servant heard their words, that he bowed himself down towards the earth unto Yahweh. Then the servant brought forth jewels of silver and jewels of gold, and raiment, and gave unto Rebekah, and precious things gave he to her brother, and to her mother. And they did eat and drink, and the men who were with him, and they tarried the night, and when they arose in the morning, he said,

Let me go unto my lord!

Then said her brother and her mother,

Let the young woman remain with us some days, or rather ten,—After that she shall go.

And he said unto them,

Do not hinder me, when Yahweh hath prospered my journey,—Let me go, that I may take my journey unto my lord!

Then said they,

We must call the young woman, and ask at her mouth.

So they called Rebekah, and said unto her, Wilt thou go with this man? And she said, I will go.

So they let go Rebekah their sister, and her nuke, and Abraham's servant, and his men. 6. And they blessed Rebekah, and said to her,

"Our sister, I become thou thousands of ten thousands,—

And let thy seed take possession of the gate of them that hate them. 7. Then mounted Rebekah and her young woman, and they rode upon the camels, and followed the man,—so the servant took Rebekah, and went his way.

8. Now [Isaac] had come in at the entrance of Beer-lahai-roi,—for [he] was dwelling in the land of the South: 9 and Isaac came forth to meditate in the field, at the approach of evening,—so he lifted up his eyes, and looked, and lo! [camels] coming in. 10 And Rebekah lifted up her eyes, and saw Isaac,—so she alighted with haste 4 from off the camel; and said unto the servant.

Who is this man that is walking in the field, to meet us?

And the servant said,

"That is my lord, whom I have spoken to you about."

So she took the veil, and covered herself. 12 And the servant recounted to Isaac,—all the things which he had done. 13 And Isaac brought her into the tent of Sarah his mother; thus he took Rebekah, and she became his wife, and he loved her,—and Isaac consoled himself, for the loss of his mother.

§ 35. Abraham marries Keturah, by whom he has Sons: his Death and Burial: the Prosperity of Isaac.

1 And Abraham took another wife, and her name was Keturah; 2 and she bare to him Zimran, and Yokshan, and Medan, and Midian, 3 and Ishbak, and Shuah. 4 And [Yokshan begat] Sheba and Dedan,—and [the sons of Dedan were Ashurim and Letushim, and Leumim. 5 And the sons of Midian were Ephah and Epher, and Hanoch, and Abida, and Eldaah,—all these were the sons of Keturah.

6 And Abraham gave all that he had to Isaac; 7 but <to the sons of the concubines> whom Abraham had, Abraham gave gifts,—and then sent them away from Isaac his son, while he himself yet lived, eastward unto the land of the east.

8 Now [these] are the days of the years of the life of Abraham, which he lived,—a hundred and seventy-five years. 9 So Abraham breathed his last, and died, in a fine old age, old and satisfied,—and was gathered unto his people.

9 And Isaac and Ishmael his sons buried him, in the cave of Machpelah,—in the field of Ephron son of Zohar the Hittite, which is over against Mamre ; 10 [the field which Abraham purchased of the sons of Heth],—<there> was buried Abraham, with Sarah his wife.

11 And it came to pass <after the death of Abraham> that God blessed Isaac his son,—and Isaac dwelt by Beer-lahai-roi. 4 § 36. The Line of Ishmael.

12 Now [these] are the generations of Ishmael, son of Abraham,—whom Hagar the Egyptian woman, the handmaid of Sarah, bare to Abraham; 13 and [these] are the names of the sons of Ishmael, by their names, after their generations,—[the firstborn of Ishmael] Nebaioth, and Kedar and Ard, and Mibsam; 14 and Mishma, and Dumah, and Massa; 15 Hadad, and Tema, Jutim, Naphtal, and Kedemah:

16: these same are the sons of Ishmael, and these their names, by their villages, and by their encampments,—twelve princes, after their tribes. 17 And [these] are the years of the life of Ishmael, a hundred and thirty-seven years,—and he breathed his last and died, and was gathered unto his people. 18 And they stretched their tabernacles, from Havilah as far as Shur, which is over against Egypt, as thou goest in towards Assyria,—<over against all his brethren> he settled down.

§ 37. The further "Genesis" of the Covenant-Family, from Isaac: the Birth, and early Characters, of Jacob and Esau.

19 And [these] are the generations of Isaac, son of Abraham,—[Abraham begat] Isaac; 20 and it came to pass, that [Isaac] was forty years old, when he took Rebekah, daughter of Bethuel the Syrian, of the Plain of Syria,—sister of Laban the Syrian, to himself to wife. 21 So then Isaac made entreaty unto Yahweh, in behalf of his wife, for she was barren,—and Yahweh suffered himself to be entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 22 And the sons within her struggled together, so she said—

"If so be one of them hereafter is thy servant's wife, of whom I have spoken to thee, will she not then say, I have been entreated by me?"

And she went to seek Yahweh. 23 And Yahweh said to her,

[Two nations are in thy womb, and [two races] shall be parted,—

And [one race] shall be stronger than the other race,—

And [the elder] shall serve the younger."

24 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth,—and lo! twins, in her womb. 25 And the first came forth red, all over, as a mantle of hair,—so they called his name, Esau. 26 And <after that> came forth his brother, with his hand fast hold of the heel of Esau, so they called his name, Jacob. 27 And Isaac was fourscore years old when he blessed Jacob and Esau.

28 And Isaac said unto Jacob and Esau,

"Call me, I am thy father,"—<behold> thy two sons; 29 and Esau his older son came forth, and said,

"Father!"—"Here am I, my son,"—"Come near me, that I may bless thee."—"Behold, my life is near to the grave; I shall not come near thee; God has given thee in my stead a more abundant blessing than I gave unto Jacob."

30 And Isaac said to Jacob, "My son!"—"Here am I, my father,"—"Come near me, that I may bless thee."—"Behold, I am near to the grave; I shall not come near thee; God has given thee in my stead a more abundant blessing than I gave unto Jacob."

31 And Isaac said to Jacob and Esau, "Come near me, that I may bless you."—<one> answered, "Here am I, my father,"—<the other> answered, "Here am I, my father."
name, Jacob. — Now Isaac was sixty years old when she bare them.

And when the youths grew up it came to pass that Esau was a man skilled in game, a man of the field, but Jacob was a ready man, dwelling in tents. And Isaac loved Esau because of the game he put in his mouth, but Rebekah was a lover of Jacob. And Jacob had boiled pottage, when Esau came in from the field being famished. So Esau said unto Jacob,

Do let me devour some of the red — this red, for I am famished. For this cause was his name called Edom. And Jacob said, Come sell, just now, thy birthright, unto me.

And Esau said, Here am I, on the point of dying, — wherefore, then, should I have a birthright?

And Jacob said, Come swear to me, just now! And he swore to him, and sold his birthright to Jacob. And Jacob having given to Esau bread and a dish of lentils, he did eat and drink, and rose up, and went his way, — thus Esau despised his birthright!

§ 38. Another Famine: Isaac forbidden to go down to Egypt: Isaac and Abimelech: Esau’s Marriages grieve his Father and Mother.

And there came to be a famine in the land, besides the first famine, which happened in the days of Abraham, — so Isaac went his way unto Abimelech, king of the Philistines, towards Gerar; and Yahweh appeared unto him, and said, Do not go down towards Egypt, — Make thy habitation in the land, which I may name unto thee;

Sojourn in this land, that I may be with thee, and bless thee, — for to thee, and to thy seed, will I give all these lands, So will I establish the oath which I swore to Abraham, thy father; and will multiply thy seed as the stars of the heavens, and will give to thy seed all these lands,

And all the nations of the earth shall bless themselves in thy seed;

Because that Abraham hearkened unto my voice, — and so kept my charge, my commandments, my statutes and my laws.

So Isaac dwelt in Gerar. Then asked the men of the place, as to his wife, and he said,

My sister is she. For he feared to say My wife, lest [said he] the men of the place should slay me, on account of Rebekah, for [fair to look on] she is.

And it came to pass when the days had lengthened out to him there, that Abimelech, king of the Philistines, looked out through the lattice of a window, — and he beheld, and lo! Isaac laughing with Rebekah his wife. So Abimelech called for Isaac, and said,

But lo! she is thy wife! How, then, saidst thou, She is my sister? And Isaac said unto him, Because I said, Lest I die on her account.

Then said Abimelech,

What is this thou hast done to us? A little more, and one of the people might have lien with thy wife, so shouldst thou have brought upon us guilt.

And Abimelech commanded all the people, saying, — He that toucheth this man or his wife shall surely be put to death.

And Isaac sowed in that land, and found, in the same year, a hundredfold, — seeing that Yahweh had blessed him. So the man waxed great, — and went on and on waxing great, until that he had waxed exceeding great. So he came to have possessions of flocks, and possessions of herds, and a large body of servants, — and the Philistines envied him. And as for all the wells which the servants of his father dugged, in the days of Abraham his father, the Philistines stopped them up, and filled them with dust. And Abimelech said unto Isaac,

Get thee from us, for thou hast become far mightier than we.

So Isaac went from thence, — and encamped in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there. And Isaac again digged the wells of water which they had digged in the days of Abraham his father, and which the Philistines stopped up after the death of Abraham, — and he called their names, after the names which his father called them.

And Isaac’s servants digged in the valley, — and found there, a well of living water. And the herdmen of Gerar disputed with the herdmen of Isaac, saying, Ours is the water!

So he called the name of the well, El-ezer, — because they had stirred up a quarrel with him. And they digged another well, and they disputed over that also, — so he called the name thereof, Sitnah, — and he moved on from thence, and digged another well, and they disputed not for it, — so he called the name thereof, Rehoboam, — and said, For now hath Yahweh made room for us, and we shall be fruitful in the land.

And he went up from thence, to Beer-sheba.

And Yahweh appeared unto him the same night, and said, I am the God of Abraham thy father. Do not fear, for with thee am I,
And I will bless thee, and multiply thy seed,
For the sake of Abraham my servant.
9 So he built there an altar, and called on the name of Yahweh, and spread out before his tent,—and the servants of Isaac cut out there, a well.
10 And Abimelech came unto him from Gerar, —with Ahuzzath his friend, and Phicol, commander of his host. 27 And Isaac said unto them, Wherefore have ye come in unto me,—seeing that [eyes] hated me, and sent me away from you?
28 And they said:
We saw plainly that Yahweh was with thee,
so we said,
Let there be, we pray thee, an oath betwixt us both, [betwixt us and thee],— and let us solemnise a covenant with thee:— 29 That thou wilt not do wrong by us, according as we touched not thee, and according as we did by thee [nothing but good], and then sent thee away in peace, [thee]
who [now] art blessed of Yahweh!
30 So he made for them a banquet, and they did eat and drink,— 31 and rose up early in the morning, and took an oath, each man to his brother,—so Isaac let them go, and they depa-  nted from him, in peace.
32 And it came to pass, on the same day, that the servants of Isaac came in, and told him concerning the well, which they had digged,— and said to him,
We have found water!
33 So he called it, Shibah. * So for this cause hath the name of the city been Beer-sheba, unto this day.
34 And <when Esau was forty years old> he took to wife Judith, daughter of Beeri, the Hittite; and Basemath, daughter of Elon, the Hittite; 35 and they became a bitterness of spirit,—to Isaac and to Rebekah.
$ 39. Jacob, at Rebekah’s Instigation, defrauds Esau of the Birthright Blessing, leaving only an Inferior Blessing for his elder Brother.
27 1 And it came to pass that Isaac [was old], and his eyes became too dim to see, so he called Esau his elder son, and said unto him—
My son!
And he said unto him,
Behold me!
2 And he said,
Behold, I pray thee, I am old,—I know not the day of my death.
3 [Now] therefore, take, I pray thee, thy weapons, thy quiver, and thy bow, and go out to the field, and catch for me game; and make for me dainty meats, such as I love, and bring in to me, that I may eat,—
To the end my soul may bless thee, ere yet I die!
4 Now [Rebekah] was hearkening, when Isaac spake unto Esau his son,—and Esau went his way to the field, to catch game, to bring in.
6 [Rebekah] therefore, spake unto Jacob her son, saying,— Lo! I heard thy father, speaking unto Esau thy brother, saying:
7 Bring in for me game, and make for me dainty meats, that I may eat; and let me bless thee in the presence of Yahweh, before my death.
8 [Now] therefore, my son, hearken unto my voice,—in that which I am commanding thee:
9 Go, I pray thee, unto the flock, and fetch me from thence, two kids of the goats, fine ones,—that I may make of them dainty meats for thy father, such as he loveth;
10 Then shalt thou take them in unto thy father, and he shall eat,—
To the end he may bless thee, before his death.
11 And Jacob said unto Rebekah his mother,— Lo! [Esau my brother] is a hairy man, whereas [I] am a smooth man: 12 peradventure my father might feel me, then should I be in his eyes, as one that mocketh,—and should bring upon myself a reproach, and not a blessing!
13 And his mother said to him,
<Upon me> be thy reproach, my son,—only hearken unto my voice, and go fetch [them] for me.
14 So he went, and fetched [them], and brought them in to his mother,—and his mother made dainty meats, such as his father loved. 15 Then took Rebekah the garments of Esau her elder son, the costly ones, which were with her, in the house,—and put them on Jacob, her younger son; 16 and the <kins of the kids of the goats> put upon his hands,— on the smooth part of his neck; 17 then placed she the dainty meats and the bread, which she had made ready,—in the hand of Jacob her son.
18 So he went in unto his father, and said—
My father!
And he said,
Behold me! who’art thou, my son?
19 And Jacob said unto his father,
[II] am Esau thy firstborn, I have made ready,
as thou didst bid me.
Rise, I pray thee, sit up, and eat thou of my game,
To the end thy soul may bless me.
20 Then said Isaac unto him,
How is it thou hast been so quick in finding,
my son?
And he said,
Because Yahweh Thy God caused it so to fall out before me.
21 Then said Isaac unto Jacob,
Come near, I pray thee, that I may feel thee, my son,—whether [thou thyself] art’my son Esau, or not.
26 So Jacob came near unto Isaac his father, and he felt him; then said he,
' The voice[ ] is the voice of Jacob!'
But [the hands] are the hands of Esau.'
27 So he did not find him out, because [his hands] were [like the hands of Esau his brother], hairy, —so he blessed him. 28 And he said, Thou thyself art my son Esau?
And he said, I am!
29 So he said,
Bring it near to me, that I may eat of the game of my son,
To the end my soul may bless thee.
And he brought it near to him, and he did eat, and he brought in to him wine, and he drank;
Then Isaac his father said unto him,
Come thou near, I pray thee, and kiss me, my son.
28 So he came near, and kissed him, and he smelled the smell of his garments, and blessed him,—and said,
See! the smell of my son,
As the smell of a field, which Yahweh hath blessed;
Then, may God give thee of the dew of the heavens,
And of the fatness of the earth,—
And abundance of corn, and new wine:
Let peoples serve thee,
And races bow down to thee,
Become thon lord to thy brethren,
And let the sons of thy mother bow down to thee,—
He that curseth thee be accursed!
And he that blesseth thee, be blessed!
29 And it came to pass [as soon as Isaac had made an end of blessing Jacob]—yes, it came to pass [when Jacob had had only just gone forth from the presence of Isaac his father] that Esau his brother came in from his hunting.
Then he too made dainty meats, and brought in to his father,—and said to his father,
Let my father rise, that he may eat of the game of his son,
To the end thy soul may bless me!
30 And Isaac his father said to him,
Who's art thou?
And he said,
I am thy son, thy first-born, Esau:
31 Then did Isaac tremble with an exceeding great trembling, and said,
Who then was it that caught game and brought it to me, and I did eat of all ere yet thou didst come in, and I blessed him?
[Yes, blessed] shall he remain!
32 When Esau heard the words of his father> then cried he out with an outcry loud and bitter, exceedingly,—and said to his father, Bless me also, O my father!
33 Then he said,
Thy brother came in, with deceit,—and took away thy blessing.
34 And he said,
Is it because [his name] is called [Jacob] that he hath tricked me, now twice?
<My birthright> he took away,
And lo! [now] he hath taken away [my blessing]!
And he said,
Hast thou not reserved, for me, a blessing?
35 Then answered Isaac, and said to Esau,— Lo!  have I appointed him unto thee,
And <all his brethren> have I given to him [as servants],
And <with corn and new wine> have I sustained him,—
And <for thee—now> what can I do, my son?
36 And Esau said unto his father,
<But one blessing> hast thou, O my father! Bless me also, O my father!
And Esau lifted up his voice, and wept.
37 Then answered Isaac his father, and said unto him,— Lo! <of the fat parts of the earth> shall be thy dwelling,
And of the dew of the heavens, above;
And <on thy sword> shalt thou live,
And <thou brother> shalt thou serve:
But it shall come to pass <when thou shalt rove at large>
Then shalt thou break his yoke from off thy neck.
38 And Esau lay in wait for Jacob, on account of the blessing wherewith his father had blessed him,—and Esau said in his heart,
The days of mourning for my father draw near, when I can slay Jacob my brother.
39 Then were told to Rebekah, the words of Esau, her elder son,—so she sent and called for Jacob, her younger son, and said unto him—
Lo! Esau thy brother is consoling himself as touching thee, to slay thee.
40 [Now] therefore, my son, hearken to my voice,—and rise, flee thou to Laban my brother, to Haran;
And thou shalt dwell with him a few days,— until that the wrath of thy brother turn away; [until the turning away of the anger of thy brother from thee] and he forget what thou hast done to him, and I send and fetch thee from thence.
Wherefore should I lose (you both) in one day?
41 So then Rebekah said unto Isaac,
I am disgusted with my life, because of the daughters of Heth,— <Should Jacob be taking a wife of the daughters of Heth, like these, of the daughters of the land> wherefore could I wish for life?*
Then Isaac called Jacob, and blessed him,— and commanded him, and said to him,
Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan.
2 Rise, go thy way to Padan-aram* to the house of Bethuel, thy mother’s father,— and take thee from thence’s wife, of the daughters of Laban, thy mother’s brother.
3 And ‘God Almighty’ bless thee, and make thee fruitful, and multiply thee,—so shalt thou become a multitude of peoples.
4 And may he give thee the blessing of Abraham, [to thee] and to thy seed with thee,— that thou mayest possess the land of thy sojournings, which God gave to Abraham.
5 So Isaac sent away Jacob, and he took his journey to Padan-aram,—unto Laban son of Bethuel, the Syrian, brother of Rebekah, mother of Jacob and Esau.
6 And Esau beheld that Isaac <when he blessed Jacob, and sent him to Padan-aram,*> to take himself from thence, a wife,—[in blessing him] he laid command upon him, saying,
Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan ;
7 And that Jacob hearkened unto his father, and unto his mother,—and took his journey to Padan-aram. 8 So then Esau beheld that pleasing,—were the daughters of Canaan,— in the eyes of Isaac his father ; 9 Esau therefore went unto Ishmael,—and took Mahalath daughter of Ishmael, son of Abraham, sister of Nebaioth, to himself to wife, [in addition to the wives that he had].

§ 41. Jacob and Rachel meet: After seven Years’
Waiting—the Devourer is deceived.
1 Then Jacob lifted up his feet,—and went his way towards the land of the sons of the East. 2 And he looked, and lo: [a well] in the field, and lo: <there> three flocks of sheep, lying down near it, for <out of that well> do they water the flocks,—but [the stone] is great, on the mouth of the well; 3 so they gather together thither all the flocks, and roll away the stone from off the mouth of the well, and water the sheep,—and put back the stone upon the mouth of the well, to its place. 4 And Jacob said to them,
My brethren, whence are ye?
And they said:
<From Haran> are we'.
5 And he said to them,
Know ye Laban, son of Nahor?
And they said,
We know [him].
6 And he said to them,
Is it well with him?
And they said,
Well, but lo! [Rachel his daughter] coming in with the sheep.
7 And he said—
Lo! the day is yet ‘high’, it is not time for gathering together the cattle,—water the sheep, and go feed.
8 And they said,
‘We cannot, until that all the flocks are gathered together, and they roll away the

And Jacob did so, and fulfilled the week of this one,—and he gave him Rachel his daughter—to him * to wife. And Laban gave to Rachel his daughter Bilhah, his handmaid,—to be hers, as a handmaid. So he went in unto Rachel also,—and loved [Rachel also] more than Leah,—and he served with her [yet seven years more].

§ 42. There are born to Jacob eleven Sons and a Daughter.

And <=when Yahweh saw that Leah was hated;> he granted her to bear children,—whereas [Rachel] was barren. So Leah conceived, and bare a son, and called his name, "Reuben," for she said, "Because Yahweh hath looked upon my humiliation,

For [now] will my husband love me.

And she conceived again, and bare a son, and said,

Because Yahweh heard that [Rachel was hated]; he gave me this one also. So Leah conceived, and bare a son, and called his name [Simeon].

And she conceived again, and bare a son, and said, [This time] will I praise Yahweh,

For this cause she called his name [Levi].

And she conceived again, and bare a son, and said,

This time will I praise Yahweh,

For which cause she called his name [Judah].

And she left off bearing.

And Rachel saw she had borne no children 30 unto Jacob, so Rachel became envious of her sister,—and said unto Jacob, Come! give me children, or else I die.

Then kindled the anger of Jacob with Rachel,—and he said,

Am I in the place of God? who hath withheld from thee the fruit of the womb?

And she said,

Lo! my handmaid, Bilhah,

Go in unto her,—that she may bear upon my knees, so that [I also] may be builded up by her!

And she gave him Bilhah her handmaid, to wife,—and Jacob went in unto her; and Bilhah conceived, and bare unto Jacob a son; and Rachel said, God hath vindicated me.

Moreover also he hath hearkened unto my voice, and hath given me a son.
GENESIS XXX. 7—36.

So she called his name [Joseph],™ saying, Yahweh is adding unto me another son.

§ 43. Jacob again deposed by Laban; makes Repriences upon him.

and it came to pass when Rachel had borne Joseph,™ that Jacob said unto Laban,

Let me go, that I may take my journey, unto my place, and to my land.

Come, give me my wives and my children, for whom I have served thee, and let me take my journey,—for thou knowest my service, wherewith I have served thee.

And Laban said unto him,

If I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes,™ I have divined that Yahweh hath blessed me for thy sake.

and he said,—

Come, fix thy wages for me, that I may give it!

and he said unto him,

Thou knowest how I have served thee,™ and how thy cattle have fared with me.

For it was little that thou hadst before I came,™ and then it brake forth into a multitude, and Yahweh blessed thee at my every step.™

therefore, when am I also to do something for my own house?

And he said,

What shall I give thee?™

And Jacob said:

Thou shalt give me nothing at all,™

If thou wilt do for me this thing,™ I will return, I will shepherd thy flock, I will keep it:

Let me pass through all thy flock to-day,™ removing from thence—every young one that is speckled and spotted, and every young one that is dark-coloured,™ among the young sheep,™ and spotted and speckled among the goats,™ and they shall be my wages.

And my righteousness shall answer for me,™ on a future day, when thou shalt come in respecting my hire that is before thee,™

Every one that is not speckled and spotted among the goats,™ and dark-coloured among the young sheep,™ shall it be accounted, if found with me.

Then said Laban,

Lo!™ would it might be according to thy word!

So he removed, on that day, the he-goats that were striped and spotted, and all the she-goats that were speckled and spotted, every one™ that had white in it, and every dark-coloured one among the young sheep,™ and delivered them into the hand of his sons;™ then put he a journey of three days between himself and Jacob,™ but [Jacob himself] continued tending the flocks of Laban that were left.

14 Then said Laban,™

So he called his name [Issachar],™ and God hearkened unto Leah,™ and she conceived,™ and bare to Jacob a fifth son.™

And Jacob came in from the field,™ in the evening, so Leah went out to meet him,™ and said:

Unto me shall thou come in,™ for I have hired thee,™ even with the mandrakes of my son.

And he lay with her that night,™ and God hearkened unto Leah,™ and she conceived,™ and bare to Jacob a sixth son.™

Then said Leah,

God hath given my hire,™ in that I gave my handmaid™ to my husband.

So she called his name [Zebulon].™

And afterward™ she bare a daughter,™ so she called her name [Dinah].™

Then God remembered Rachel,™ and God hearkened unto her,™ and granted her to bear.™

Then said Leah,

God hath dowered me™ even™ with™ a hand™ some dowry,

Now™ will my husband dwell™ with™ me,™ for I have borne him™ six sons.

So she called his name [Zebulon].™

37 So then Jacob took him rods of young storax, and hazel and maple, and peeled in them white stripes, laying bare the white, which was on the rods. And he set the rods which he had peeled, in the channels in the troughs of water, where the flocks came in to drink, straight before the rods, and the females of the flock used to be in heat when they came in to drink; and the males of the flock were in heat before the rods, so the flocks brought forth ring-straked, speckled, and spotted. <The rams also> did Jacob separate, and then set the faces of the flocks towards the ring-straked and all the dark-coloured, among the flocks of Laban, and he put his own droves by themselves, and put them not with the flocks of Laban. So it came to pass, whomever the stronger of the flocks were in heat that Jacob set the rods before the eyes of the flocks in the channels, that the females might be in heat among the rods; but when the flocks were late in bearing he did not set them, and so the late-born were Laban’s, but the strong ones Jacob’s. Thus did the man break forth exceedingly, thus came he to have flocks in abundance, and maid-servants, and men-servants, and camels, and asses.

38 Then heard he the words of the sons of Laban, saying, Jacob hath taken away all that belonged to our father; Yea, out of what belonged to our father hath he made all this wealth. And Jacob looked upon the face of Laban, and said, Lo! it was not with me as a five-year time. Then said Yahweh unto Jacob, Return unto the land of thy fathers, and to thy kindred, that I may be with thee. So Jacob sent, and called for Rachel and for Leah, to the field, unto his flock; and said to them, Behold, am I the face of your father, that it is not to me as a five-year time; nevertheless the God of my father hath been with me; and, yea, know that with all my vigour have I served your father. But your father hath deceived me, and hath changed my wages ten times; yet God hath not suffered him to deal harmfully with me. If thus he saith, The speckled shall be thy wages; then do all the flock bring forth speckled, But if thus he saith, The ring-straked shall be thy wages, then do all the flock bring forth ring-straked.

9 So hath God stripped away the herds of your father, and given them to me. And it came to pass when the flock were in heat that I did lift mine eyes and beheld in a dream, and lo! the he-goats that were leaping upon the flock were ring-straked, speckled, and dappled. And the messenger of God said unto me in a dream, Jacob! and I said, Behold me! Then he said, Lift, I pray thee, thine eyes and behold. All the he-goats that are leaping upon the flock are ring-straked, speckled, and dappled, for I have seen all that Laban hath been doing to thee.

12 I am the God of Beth-el, where thou didst anoint a pillar, where thou didst vow to me a vow, now arise, go forth out of this land, and return unto the land of thy kindred.

14 Then responded Rachel and Leah, and said to him, Have we any longer a portion or an inheritance in the house of our father? Are we not accounted aliens to him, seeing that he hath then gone on devouring our silver? Surely all the riches which God hath stripped off from our father unto us, it belongeth, and unto our sons, unto us, therefore, whatsoever God hath said unto thee do.

16 So Jacob arose, and mounted his sons and his wives on the camels; and drave away all his herds, and all his goods which he had gathered, the gains he had gained, which he had gathered in Padan-aram; that he might go in unto Isaac his father, unto the land of Canaan. Now Laban had gone, to shear his sheep, so Rachel stole the household gods that belonged to her father. Thus Jacob stole away unawares to Laban, the Syrian, in that he had not told him that he was about to flee. So he fled, he and all that he had, and he arose and passed over the River, and set his face towards the mountain of Gilead. And it was told Laban, on the third day, that Jacob had fled. So he took his brethren with him, and pursued after him, a journey of seven days, and overtook him in the mountain of Gilead. And God went in unto Laban the Syrian, in a dream of the night, and said to him, Take heed to thyself, that thou speak not with Jacob, either good or bad.

23 So then Laban came up with Jacob, and Laban, having pitched his tent in the mountain, some cod. (w. Sam. and Syr.) "where also," or "every where." G. N. But if thus he saith, The ring-straked shall be thy wages, then do all the flock bring forth ring-straked.

9 Some cod. (w. Sam. and Syr.) "Now therefore," or "therefore," G. N.
Then said Laban to Jacob,
What hadst thou done, that thou shouldst steal away unawares to me,—and shouldst carry off my daughters, as captives of the sword? 27 Wherefore' didst thou secretly flee, and rob me,—and didst not tell me, that I might send thee away with rejoicing and with songs, with timbrels and with lyre; 28 and didst not suffer me to kiss my sons and my daughters?
But now, thou hast done [foolishly]. 29 It is in the power of my hand to deal with thee for harm,—but [the God of your father] last night] spake unto me, saying,
Take heed to thyself that thou speak not with Jacob, either good or bad.
And Jacob answered and said unto Laban,—Because I was afraid, for I said,
Lost thou take by force thy daughters from me!
He with whom thou find thy gods shall not live!
Before our brethren > note thou for thyself what is with me, and take what is thine. Neither did Jacob know that [Rachel] had stolen them.
Then entered Laban into the tent of Jacob and into the tent of Leah and into the tent of the two handmaids, and found nothing,—then went he forth out of the tent of Leah, and entered into the tent of Rachel. 34 Now [Rachel] had taken the household gods* and put them in the basket-saddle of the camel, and taken her seat upon them. And Laban felt about throughout all the tent, and found them not. 36 And she said unto her father,
Let it not be vexing in the eyes of my lord, that I cannot rise up at thy presence, for the way of women is upon me.
So he made search, but found not the household gods. 38 And it was vexing to Jacob, and he contended with Laban,—and Jacob responded, and said to Laban,
What was my trespass, what is my sin, that thou shouldst have come burning after me?
Now that thou hast felt among all my goods, what hast thou found of the goods of thine own house?
Set it out here, right before my brethren and thy brethren,—that they may give sentence betwixt us two.
This twenty years' time have I [been with thee—
Thy ewes and thy she-goats] have not cast their young,—
And the rams of thy flock> have I not eaten,
The torn> have I not brought in unto thee—
I bare the loss,
At my hand> didst thou require it,—
Stolen by day, or stolen by night.
Thus have I been—
By day> drought hath consumed me, And [frost] by [night],—
So that my sleep fled away from mine eyes.
This hath been my lot twenty years, in thy house,—
I served thee fourteen years for thy two daughters,
And six years, for thy sheep—
And thou didst change my wages ten times:—
But that the God of my father—
The God of Abraham, and the Dread of Isaac—Proved to be mine >
Surely' [even now] > 'empty] hadst thou let me go!
My humiliation and the wearying toil of my hands> God had seen,
And therefore gave sentence last night!
Then responded Laban and said unto Jacob—
The daughters are my daughters, And the sons are my sons, And the sheep are my sheep, And <all that thou] beholdest>
To me] doth it belong!
But <to my daughters> what can I do to these, this day, Or to their sons, whom they have borne?
Now] therefore, come on!
Let us solemnise a covenant || I and thou,—
So shall it be a witness betwixt me and thee.
So Jacob took a stone,—and set it up as a pillar.
And said Jacob to his brethren—
Gather stones. And they took stones, and made a heap,—and they did eat there, by the heap. 47 And Laban called it, Jegar-sahadutha;—but [Jacob] called it, Galeed.* 48 Then said Laban:
This heap shall be witness, betwixt me and thee, to-day.
For this cause] is the name thereof called, Galeed; 49 also The Watch Tower,* as to which it is said, Yahweh watch betwixt me and thee, when we are parted one from another.
If thou oppress my daughters, or if thou take wives besides my daughters,—there may be no man with us—see! || God] be witness betwixt me and thee!
And Laban said to Jacob—
Behold this heap, and behold this pillar, which I have set betwixt me and thee:

§ 45. Jacob prepares to meet Esau: his Arrangements, Prayer and Wrestling.

1 <When Jacob had gone on his way> there met him messengers of God. 2 And Jacob said, when he saw them,

The camp of God is this!
So he called the name of that place Mahanaim.b
Then did Jacob send messengers before him, unto Esau his brother,— to the land of Seir, the field of Edom. 4 And he commanded them, saying,

Thy shall ye say to my lord, to Esau,
<But> saith thy servant Jacob, <With Laban> have I sojourned, and terminated until now;
And I have oxen and asses, flocks and men-servants and maid-servants.
So I must needs send to tell my lord, that I might find favour in thine eyes.

And the messengers returned unto Jacob,
saying,—

We came in unto thy brother, unto Esau, moreover also he is on his way to meet thee, and four hundred men with him.

Then was Jacob greatly afraid, and in distress.
So he divided the people that were with him, and the flocks and the herds and the camels, into two camps. 8 And he said, Should Esau come upon the one camp, and smite it; yet shall the camp that is left escape.

And Jacob said,
God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Isaac,—Yahweh, who wast saying unto me,—
Return to thy land and to thy kindred, that I may deal well with thee;—
I am too small for all the lovingkindnesses, and for all the faithfulness, which thou hast done unto thy servant,—

For with my staff passed I over this Jordan,
But now! have I become two camps. 4
Deliver me, I pray thee, out of the hand of my brother, out of the hand of Esau,—for 13 But thou sayst,—

I will deal well with thee,—
So will I make thy seed as the sand of the sea, which is not to be counted, for multitude.

14 He carried there that night, and took of that which came to his hand, a present for Esaus brother:—
She-goats, two hundred:
Cows, forty:
And he-goats, twenty:
And bulls, ten:
Ewes, two hundred:
And young he-asses, ten:
Milch camels, with ten.

15 And he gave them into the hand of his servants, each drove by itself,—and said unto his servants—
Pass over before me, and a breathing-space shall ye put betwixt drove and drove.

17 And he commanded the first one, saying:

<When Esau my brother shall fall in with thee, and shall ask thee, saying, Whose art thou? and whither wouldst thou go? and to whom belong these before thee?>
Then shalt thou say,
To thy servant Jacob:
It is a present sent to my lord, to Esau;
And behold the himself also is behind us.

19 And he commanded the second also, and the third, ye that are going on behind the drives, saying,—

According to this word shall ye speak unto Esau, when ye find him. 20 Then shall ye say,
Also, lo! thy servant Jacob is behind us.

For he said:
I must pacify him with the present that goeth on before me,
And after that will I see his face:
Peradventure he will accept me.c

21 So the present passed over before him,— whereas he himself tarried that night in the camp.
And he arose in that night and took his two wives, and his two handmaids and his eleven sons,—and passed over the forcl of Jabok. 22 So he took them, and sent them over the brook,—and sent over that which he had.

24 And Jacob was alone,—and there wrestles a man with him, until the uprisings of the dawn.
And when he saw that he prevailed not against him, he touched the hollow of his thigh,—and the hollow of Jacob’s thigh was pout of joint, as he wrestled with him. 26 The said he—
Let me go, for uprisen hath the dawn.
And he said:
I will not let thee go, except thou ha blessed me.

For thou hast contended with God and with men, and hast prevailed.

Then asked Jacob and said—

Do, I pray thee, tell me thy name!

And he said—

Wherefore now, shouldst thou ask for my name?

And he blessed him there.

So Jacob called the name of the place Peniel;—

For I saw God, face to face; and my soul was delivered.

And the sun rose upon him as soon as he had passed over Peniel,—[he], moreover, was halting upon his thigh.

<For this cause> the sons of Israel eat not of the nether of the large hip-sinew, which is by the hollow of the thigh, until this day,—because he touched the hollow of the thigh of Jacob, in the nether of the hip-sinew.

§ 46. Jacob and Esau reconciled.

Then Jacob lifted up his eyes, and looked, and, lo! ||Esau|| coming in,—and <with him> four hundred men.

So he divided the children—unto Leah, and unto Rachel, and unto the two handmaids; and put the handmaids and their children first,—and Leah and her children next, and Rachel and Joseph next;—but [he himself] passed over before them, and bowed himself to the earth seven times, until he had come near unto his brother.

Then ran Esau to meet him, and embraced him, and fell on his neck,—and they wept.

Then lifted he up his eyes, and beheld the women and the children, and said—

What are these to thee?

And he said—

The children wherewith God hath favoured thy servant.

Then came near the handmaids, —their— and their children,—and they bowed themselves.

Then came near Leah also, with her children,—and they bowed themselves. And <afterwards> came near Joseph with Rachel, and they bowed themselves.

Then said he—

What to thee is all this camp, which I have fallen in with?

And he said,—

To find favour, in the eyes of my lord.

Then said Esau—

I have an abundance,—my brother, | be thou | what thou hast!

Then said Jacob—

Nay, I pray thee, <if> I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes> then thou wilt take my present at my hand,—

For <on this account> hath my seeing thy face been like seeing the face of God, | in that thou wast well-pleased with me|.

Take, I pray thee, my blessing which hath been brought in to thee,—because God hath shewed me favour, and because I have everything.

So he was urgent with him, and he took it.

Then he said—

Let us break up and go,—and let me go on before thee.

And he said unto him—

<My lord> is taking note, that [the children] are tender,—and <the flocks and the herds are giving suck with me,—and <should I> overdrive them a single day> then would all the flocks die.

Let my lord, I pray thee, pass over before his servant,—and let <me> lead on in my own easy way, at the pace of the cattle that are before me, and at the pace of the children, until that I come in unto my lord, towards Seir.

Then said Esau:

Let me leave, I pray thee, along with thee, some of the people who are with me! And he said—

Why so? let me find favour in the eyes of my lord!

So Esau returned, that day, to his journey towards Mount Seir. ||But ||Jacob|| brake up towards Succoth, and built for himself a house,—<for his cattle> made he places of shelter,<for which cause> the name of the place was called ||Succoth.| |

And Jacob came in peace to the city of Shechem, which is in the land of Canaan,—when he came in from Padan-aram,—and he encamped before the city. And he bought the portion of the field, where he had spread out his tent, at the hand of the sons of Hamor, father of Shechem,—for a hundred kensitha.| |

And he set up there an altar,—and called it, El-e-lohe-Israel.

§ 47. Dinah being defiled by Shechem, the Deed is avenged by her Brothers.

Then went forth Dinah, the daughter of Leah, ||whom she had borne to Jacob,—to see the daughters of the land. And Shechem, son of Hamor the Hirvite, prince of the land, saw her,—so he took her, and lay with her, and humbled her. 2 And his soul clave unto Dinah, daughter of Jacob,—and he loved the young woman, and spake to the heart of the young woman. 4 Then spake Shechem unto Hamor his father, saying,—

Take me this girl, to wife!

5 Now Jacob had heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter, but his sons happened to be with his cattle, in the field,—so Jacob kept quiet, until they came in. 7 Then came forth Hamor, father of Shechem, unto Jacob,—to speak with him. 7 Now the sons of Jacob came in from the field, as soon as they heard, and the men were griev'd, and it was vexing to them exceedingly,—for a disgraceful deed had he done with Israel, in lying with Jacob's daughter, seeing that it should not be done. 8 So then Hamor spake with them, saying—

<As for Shechem my son> his soul hath become attached to your daughter,—I pray you give her to him, to wife.

9 And exchange ye daughters with us in marriage,—<your daughters> shall ye give to us, and <our daughters> shall ye take to you.'

10 And <with us> shall ye dwell,—and [the land] shall be before you, tarry, and go through it, and get possessions therein.

11 Then said Shechem unto his father, and unto his brethren, Let me find favour in your eyes,—and <whatevery ye may say unto me> will I give:

12 Hap on me, exceedingly, dowry and gift, and I will give just as ye may say unto me,—but give me the young woman, to wife.

13 And the sons of Jacob answered Shechem, and Hamor his father, deceitfully, and spake (because he had defiled Dinah their sister)—

14 and said unto them—

We cannot do this thing, to give our sister to a man that is uncircumcised,—for  it would be to us.

15 <Only herein> can we consent to you,—

16 If ye will become like us, by circumcising to you every male> 16 then will we give our daughters to you, and <your daughters> will we take to you,—and we will dwell with you, and become one people.

17 But <if ye will not hearken unto us, to be circumcised> then will we take our daughter, and be gone.

18 And their words looked fair, in the eyes of Hamor,—and in the eyes of Shechem, Hamor's son; 18 and the young man deferred not to do the thing, because he had delight in Jacob's daughter,—<the> more so moreover being more honourable than all the house of his father.

20 So Hamor entered, with Shechem his son, into the gate of their city,—and they spake unto the men of their city, saying:

21 <As for these men> [in peace] they are with us,—let them therefore dwell in the land, and go through it, for [the land] is lo! it is roomy on both hands, before them,— 22 <their daughters> let us take to us for wives, and <our daughters> let us give to them.

23 <Only herein> will the men consent to us, to dwell with us, to become one people,—

24 If we circumcise to us every male, even as they are circumcised, 25 <Their herds, and their substance, and all their beasts> shall they not be our's? <Only> we must consent to them, that they may dwell with us.

26 And they hearkened unto Hamor, and unto Shechem his son, [even all that were going forth out of the gate of his city,]—and every male was circumcised, [all that were going forth out of the gate of his city]. 22 And it came to pass on the third day, [when they were in pain], that two of the sons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi, Dinah's brothers, took each man his sword, and came in upon the city, boldly,—and slew every male; 26 <Hamor also, and Shechem his son> slew they with the edge of the sword,—and took Dinah out of the house of Shechem, and came forth. 27 The sons of Jacob came in upon the slain, and plundered the city,—because they had defiled their sister: 27 <their flocks, and their herds, and their asses>—and that which was in the city, and that which was in the field they took; 27 and <all their wealth, and all their little ones, and their women> took they captive, and seized as plunder,—even all that was in their houses.

29 Then said Jacob unto Simeon and unto Levi—

Ye have troubled me, by making me odious among them that dwell in the land, among the Canaanites, and among the Perizzites,—

48. The Covenant renewed with Jacob at Beth-el. Death of Deborah; Birth of Benjamin; Death of Rachel and of Isaac.

1 Then said God unto Jacob,

Arise, go up to Beth-el, and dwell there,—and make there an altar, to the God who appeared unto thee, when thou fleddest from the face of Esau thy brother.

2 And Jacob said unto his house, and unto all who were with him,—

Put away the gods of the alien which are in your midst, and purify yourselves, and change your garments;

3 And let us arise, and go up to Beth-el,—that I may make there an altar, to the God who answered me in the day of my distress, and was with me, in the way that I went.

4 So they gave unto Jacob all the gods of the alien which were in their hand, and the earrings which were in their ears,—and Jacob hid them under the oak, which was by Shechem. 5 And they brake up, and it came to pass that the terror of God was on the cities which were round about them, so that they pursued not after the sons of Jacob.

6 And Jacob came in towards Luz, which was in the land of Canaan, [the same is Beth-El,—the' and all the people who were with him]. 7 And he built there an altar, and called the place El-Beth-el,—because [there] God revealed himself unto him, when he fled from the face of his brother. 8 And Deborah, Rebekah's nurse died, and was buried below Beth-el, under the oak,—so the name thereof was called, Allon-bacuth.

9 And God appeared unto Jacob again, when he came in from Padan-aram,—and blessed him. 10 And God said to him,—

11 And God said to him.—

| If | am God Almighty! |
| Be fruitful and multiply,— |
| A nation, and a multitude | of nations | shall spring from thee,— |
| And | kings | from thy loins | shall come forth; |
| And | the land which I gave to Abraham and to Isaac | will give it,— |
| And | thy seed after thee | will give | the land. |

12 And God went up from him, at the place where he had spoken with him. 13 And Jacob set up a pillar, in the place where he had spoken with him, [a pillar of stone],—and he poured out thereon, a drink-offering, and poured thereon, oil. 14 And Jacob called the name of the place, where God had spoken with him, [Beth-el].

15 Then brake they up from Beth-el, and it came to pass <when there was yet a stretch of country, to enter into Ephrath> that Rachel was in child-birth, and had hard-labour in her child-birth. 16 So it came to pass <when she was in hard-labour in her child-birth> that the midwife said to her—

| Do not fear, for this also | of thine, is | a son. |

17 And it came to pass <when her soul was going forth—she died> that she called his name, [Ben-oni],—but [his father] called him, [Benjamin].

18 So Rachel died,—and was buried on the way to Ephrath,—[the same is] Bethlehem. 19 And Jacob set up a pillar, over her grave,—[the same is]—The Pillar of the Grave of Rachel, unto this day.

21 Then Israel brake up,—and spread his tent at a distance from Migdal Eder. 22 And it came to pass <while Israel inhabited that land> that Reuben went and lay with Bilhah his father's concubine; and Israel heard of it.

And so the Sons of Israel came to be Twelve.

23 <The sons of Leah>—

| Dan, and Naphtali |

26 <And the sons of Zilpah, handmaid of Leah>—

| Gad and Asher |

| These | are the sons of Jacob, who were born to him, in Padan-aram. |

27 Then came Jacob, unto Isaac his father, to Mamre, the city of Arba,—[the same is Hebron, where had sojourned Abraham and Isaac. 28 And the days of Isaac came to be a hundred and eighty years. 29 And Isaac breathed his last, and died, and was added unto his people, old, and satisfied with days,—and Esau and Jacob, his sons, buried him. |

1 Now [these] are the generations of Esau, [the same is Edom. 2] [Esau] took his wives of the daughters of Canaan,—

| Even Adah, daughter of Elon, the Hittite, |
| And Oh-libamah, daughter of Anah, son of Zibeon, the Hivite; |
| And Basemath daughter of Ishmael, sister of Nebaioth. |

3 So Adah bare to Esau, Eliphaz, and [Basemath] bare Reuel; 5 and [Oholibamah] bare Jeush and Jalam and Korah. 4 These are the sons of Esau, who were born to him in the land of Canaan.

6 Then took Esau his wives, and his sons, and his daughters, and all the souls of his house, and his herds and all his beasts, and all his possessions whatsoever he had gathered in the land of Canaan,—and went into a land, away from the face of Jacob his brother. 7 For their substance had become too great, for them to dwell together,—neither could the land of their sojourning sustain them, because of their herds.

8 So Esau dwelt in Mount Seir, [Esau] is Edom. 9 And [these] are the generations of Esau, father of Edom,— in Mount Seir. 10 These are the names of the sons of Esau,— Eliphaz, son of Adah, wife of Esau,

Reuel, son of Basemath, wife of Esau.

Then came the sons of Eliphaz to be,— Teman, Omar, Zepho, and Gatam, and Kenaz.
Now Timna became the concubine of Eliphaz, son of Esau, and she bare, to Eliphaz, Amalek.
These are the sons of Adah, wife of Esau.

And these are the sons of Reuel, Nahath and Zerah, Shammah and Mizzah,—
These were the sons of Basemath, wife of Esau.

And these were the sons of Oholibamah, daughter of Anah, sister of Zibeon, wife of Esau,—she bare to Esau Jeush, Jalam, and Korah.

These are the chiefs of the sons of Esau:—
Chief Teman, chief Omar, chief Zepho, chief Kenaz; chief Korah, chief Gatam, chief Amalek.
These are the chiefs of Eliphaz, in the land of Edom, these the sons of Adah.

And these are the sons of Reuel, son of Seir,— Chief Nahath, chief Zerah, chief Shammah, chief Mizzah.
These are the chiefs of Reuel, in the land of Edom, these the sons of Basemath, wife of Esau.

And these are the sons of Oholibamah, wife of Esau,
Chief Jeush, chief Jalam, chief Korah,—
These are the chiefs of Oholibamah, daughter of Anah, wife of Esau.

These are the sons of Esau, and these their chiefs,—the same is Edom.

These are the sons of Seir, the Horite, who dwelt in the land,— Lotan and Shobal, and Zibeon and Anah; and Dishon and Ezer, and Dishan,—
These are the chiefs of the Horites, the sons of Seir, in the land of Edom.

Then came the sons of Lotan to be,
Hori and Hemam,—
And the sister of Lotan was Timna.

And these are the sons of Shobal,
Alvan and Manahath, and Ebal,—Shepho, and Onam.

And these are the sons of Zibeon:
Both Aiah and Anah,—
The same is the Anah that found the warm springs in the desert, as he fed the asses of Zibeon his father.

32 And these are the sons of Anah.
Dishon,—and Oholibamah is daughter of Anah.

36 And these are the sons of Dishon,— Hemdan and Eshban, and Ithran and Cheran.

27 These are the sons of Ezer,— Bilhan and Zaavan, and Akdan.

29 These are the sons of Dishan,— Uz and Aran.

30 These are the chiefs of the Horites,— Chief Lotan, chief Shobal, chief Zibeon; chief Anah; chief Dishon, chief Ezer, chief Dishan.

These are the chiefs of the Horites, after their chiefs, in the land of Seir.

31 And these are the kings, who reigned in the land of Edom,—before there reigned a king of the sons of Israel:—

32 There reigned in Edom, Bela, son of Beor,—and the name of his city was Dinhabah.
There died Bela,—and there reigned in his stead, Jobab son of Zerah, from Bozrah.
There died Jobab,—and there reigned in his stead, Husham, from the land of the Temanites.
There died Husham,—and there reigned in his stead, Hadad, son of Bedad, who smote Midian in the field of Moab, and the name of his city was Avith.
There died Hadad,—and there reigned in his stead, Samlah, from Masrekah.
There died Samlah,—and there reigned in his stead, Shaul, from Rohoboth of the River.
There died Shaul,—and there reigned in his stead, Baal-hanan, son of Achbor.
There died Baal-hanan son of Achbor, and there reigned in his stead, Hadar, and the name of his city was Pau,—and the name of his wife Mehetabel, daughter of Matred, daughter of Mezahab.

Then these are the names of the chiefs of Esau, after their families, after their places, by their names,— Chief Timnah, chief Alrah, chief Jeteth;
Chief Oholibamah, chief Elah, chief Pinon;
Chief Kenaz, chief Teman, chief Mibzar;
Chief Magdiel, chief Iram.

These are the chiefs of Edom—after their dwellings, in the land of their possession, the same is Esau, father of Edom.

his father,—so then Joseph brought in the talk about them,—something bad, unto their father.

3 Now [Israel] loved Joseph more than any of his sons, because he was to him [the son of his old age],—and he had made him a long tunic.

4 So his brethren saw that their father loved [him] more than any of his brethren, (*) and they hated him,—and could not bid him prosper.

5 And Joseph dreamt a dream, and told it to his brethren,—and they went on yet more' to hate him.

6 And he said unto them,—

Hear ye, I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed:

7 Lo! then, we'll were binding sheaves in the midst of the field, when lo! my sheaf rose up', yes and took its stand,—and lo! round about' came your sheaves, and bowed themselves down, to my sheaf.

8 And his brethren said to him,

Shalt thou [reign] over us, shalt thou [have dominion] over us? So they went on yet more' to hate him,' because of his dreams, and because of his words.

9 Then dreamed he [yet another] dream, and related it to his brethren,—and said—

Lo! I have dreamed a dream [yet again],

Lo! then, [the sun and the moon, and eleven stars] were bowing themselves down to me.

10 So he related it unto his father, and unto his brethren,—and his father rebuked him, and said unto him,

What is this dream which thou hast dreamed? Shall we [indeed come in] <I, and thy mother and thy brethren> to bow ourselves down to thee, to the earth?

11 Then were his brethren jealous of him,—but his father] marked the word.

12 Now his brethren went their way,—to feed their father's flock in Shechem.

13 So Israel said to Joseph, his son,—

Are not [thy brethren] feeding the flock in Shechem? Come on! and let me send thee among them.

14 And he said to him—

Behold me!

15 So he said to him—

Go, I pray thee, look after the welfare of thy brethren, and the welfare of the flock, and bring me back word.

And he sent him from the vale of Hebron, and he came in towards Shechem. And a man found him, and lo! he was wandering about, in the field,—so the man asked him, saying—

What seekest thou?

16 And he said,

<M> my brethren< > am I seeking,—do tell me, I pray thee, where they are feeding their flock.

17 And the man said,

They have broken up from hence, for I heard them saying—

Let us go our way towards Dothan.

So Joseph went after his brethren, and found them, in Dothan. And they saw him, afar off,—and <ere yet he drew near unto them> they conspired against him, to put him to death. And they said, each man unto his brother,—

Lo! [that master* of dreams yonder] coming in! [Now] therefore, come! let us slay him, and cast him into one of the pits, and we will say—

[A cruel beast] hath devoured him,—

And let us see what will become of his dreams.

21 And Reuben heard it, and rescued him out of their hand,—and said—

Let us not smite him, so as to take his life! (*)

22 And Reuben said unto them—

Do not shed blood! Cast him into this pit, which is in the wilderness, but put not forth [a hand] against him! that he might escape out of their hand, to restore him unto his father.

23 So it came to pass <when Joseph had come in unto his brethren> that they stripped Joseph of his tunic,—the long tunic which was upon him, and took him, and cast him into the pit,—but [the pit] was empty, there was in it no water. () And <when they had sat down to eat bread> they lifted up their eyes, and looked, and lo! [a caravan of Ishmaelites] coming in from Gilead,—and [their camels] were bearing tragacanth gum, and balsam and cistus-gum, they were going their way, to take them down to Egypt. ()

26 So Judah said unto his brethren,—

What profit, that we slay our brother, and conceal his blood?

27 Come, and let us sell him to the Ishmaelites; but let not [our own hand] be upon him, for [our own brother, our own flesh] is he. And his brethren hearkened. And there passed {by} certain Midianites, travelling merchants, so they drew forth and uplifted Joseph out of the pit, and sold Joseph to the Ishmaelites, for twenty pieces of silver,—and they brought Joseph into Egypt.

29 And Reuben returned unto the pit, and lo! Joseph was not' in the pit,—so he rent his clothes; and returned unto his brethren, and said,—

The [lad] is not! And [I] oh where can I go? (*)

31 And they took Joseph's tunic,—and slaughtered a buck of the goats, and dipped the tunic in the blood; and sent the long tunic and brought it in unto their father, and said—

This> have we found!

Examine, we pray thee, whether it is [the tunic of thy son], or not!

33 So he examined it, and said—
The tunic of my son! a cruel beast hath devoured him, <torn in pieces—torn in pieces> is Joseph!
34 And Jacob rent his garments, and put sack-cloth upon his loins, and mourned over his son many days. 35 And all his sons and all his daughters rose up to console him, but he refused to be consoled, and said—Surely I will go down unto my son, mourning to hades. 16 And his father wept for him.
36 Now the Midianites sold him into Egypt, —to Potiphar, courtier of Pharaoh, chief of the royal executioners.

§ 51. Judah, and his Family. Tamar bears Perez and Zerah.

38 1 And it came to pass <at that time> that Judah went down, away from his brethren,—and turned aside unto a certain Adullamite, whose [name] was Hirah. 2 And Judah saw there, a daughter of a certain Canaanite, whose [name] was Shua,—and he took her, and went in unto her; 3 and she conceived, and bare a son,—and he called his name, Er. 4 And she conceived again, and bare a son,—and she called his name Onan. 5 And she [yet again] bare a son, and called his name, Shelah,—and [she] was at Chezib, when she bare him. 6 And Judah took a wife, for Er his firstborn,—and [her name] was Tamar. 7 And it came to pass that Er, Judah's firstborn, was displeasing in the eyes of Yahweh,—so Yahweh put him to death. 8 Then said Judah to Onan, Go in unto thy brother's wife, and fulfil the duty of a brother-in-law unto her,—and raise up seed, to thy brother. 9 And Onan knew that the seed would not be his,—and so [although he did go in unto his brother's wife] yet made he waste upon the ground, so as not to give seed to his brother. 10 And it was displeasing in the eyes of Yahweh, what he had done,—so he put him also to death. 11 Then said Judah to Tamar his daughter-in-law—Remain a widow in the house of thy father, until Shelah my son grow up. For he said,

Lest he also die, like his brethren.
So Tamar went her way, and remained in the house of her father.
12 And <when the days were multiplied> then died Shua's daughter, Judah's wife,—and Judah consoled himself, and went up unto his sheep-shearers [he, and Hirah his friend the Adullamite], towards Timnah. 13 And it was told Tamar, saying,—

Lo! [thy father-in-law] is going up towards Timnah, to the shearing of his sheep.

14 So she put off from her the garments of her widowhood, and covered herself with a veil, and wrapped herself up, and sat down in the entrance of Enaim, a which is by the way towards Timnah,—for she saw that Shelah had grown up, and [she] had not been given him to wife. 15 And Judah, seeing her, reckoned her to be an unchaste woman,—for she had covered her face. 16 So he turned aside unto her, by the way, and said,

Grant it! I pray thee, let me come in unto thee!

For he knew not that she was [his daughter-in-law]. 17 And she said,

What wilt thou give me, if thou shouldst come in unto me?

18 And he said,—I will send a kid of the goats, from the flock.
And she said,

Wilt thou give a pledge, until thou send it?
19 And he said—

What is the pledge that I shall give thee?
And she said—

Thy signet-ring, and thy guard, and thy staff that is in thy hand.
So he gave them to her, and came in unto her, and she conceived by him. 20 Then she arose and went her way, and put off her veil from her,—and put on the garments of her widowhood. 21 And Judah sent the kid of the goats, by the hand of his friend the Adullamite, to receive the pledge, at the hand of the woman,—but he found her not. 22 So he asked the men of her place, saying,

Where is the devotee, [she] that was in Enaim, by the way?
And they said,—There hath been, here, no devotee.
23 Then returned he unto Judah, and said—

I found her not,—moreover also, [the men of the place] said,
There hath been, here, no devotee.
24 And Judah said:

Thou must take it to her, lest we become a contempt,—Lo! I sent this kid, and thou hast not found her.
25 And it came to pass that <about three months after> it was told Judah, saying—

Tamar thy daughter-in-law hath been guilty of unchastity, moreover also—Lo! [she hath conceived by unchastity].
Then said Judah,

Bring her forth, and let her be burnt.
26 <When she was about to be brought forth> then she herself sent unto her father-in-law, saying,

<By the man to whom these belong> have I conceived!
And she said—

Examine, I pray thee, to whom belong the signet-ring, and the guard, and the staff—[these]!

So Judah examined them and said—
More righteous than I! [forasmuch] as I had not given her to Shelah my son.
And he knew her again [no more].
And it came to pass [at the time of her travail] that lo! [twins] were in her womb.
And it came to pass [when she was in travail] that one put forth a hand,—so the midwife took and bound upon his hand a crimson thread, saying—[This] came first!
And so it was that <no sooner had he withdrawn his hand> than lo! his brother had come.
And she said, Wherefore hast thou made for thyself a breach?
So his name was called a Perez. b 30 And <afterwards> came his brother, on whose hand was the crimson thread,—so his name was called a Zerah. c § 52 Joseph, from Pharaoh's House, is cast into Prison.

Now [Joseph] was taken down to Egypt,—and Potiphar, courtier of Pharaoh, chief of the royal executioners, an Egyptian, bought him, at the hand of the Ishmaelites, who had brought him down thither. 3 And it came to pass that [Yahweh] was with Joseph, so that he became a prosperous man,—and was in the house of the lord the Egyptian. 3 And his lord saw, that [Yahweh] was with him,—and that <whatev'or he was doing> [Yahweh] was causing to prosper in his hand. 4 So Joseph found favour in his eyes, and waited upon him,—and he made him overseer over his house, and <all that he had> gave he into his hand. 5 And it came to pass [from the time that he made him overseer in his house, and over all that he had> that Yahweh blessed the house of the Egyptian, for Joseph's sake,—yec it came to pass, that [the blessing of Yahweh] was with all that he had, in the house, and in the field; 6 so that he left all that he had in the hand of Joseph, and took note with him [of nothing], [save only the bread which] he himself was eating. 7 And so it was, that Joseph was comely in form and comely in countenance.
7 And it came to pass [after these things] that his lord's wife lifted up her eyes unto Joseph,—and she said—
Come! lie with me.
And he refused, and said unto his lord's wife, Lo! [my lord] taketh no note with me, as to what is in the house,—but <all that pertaineth to him> hath he delivered into my hand: 9 There is no one greater in this house than I, neither hath he withheld from me, anything, save only thyself, in that "Though art his wife,—how, then, could I do this great wickedness, and sin against God?"

9 And it came to pass, that [although she spake unto Joseph day after day] yet hearkened he not unto her, to lie beside her, to be with her. 11 And it came to pass, <when, on a certain day, he went into the house to attend to his business,—and there was no man, of the household, there, in the house> that she caught him by his garment, saying—
Come! lie with me.
Then left he his garment in her hand, and fled, and gat forth outside. 13 And it came to pass <when she saw that he had left his garment in her hand,—and fled forth outside> that she cried out to the men of her house, and spake to them, saying,
Look ye! he hath brought in to us, a Hebrew man to insult us,—He came in unto me, to lie with me, so I cried out with a loud voice.
15 And it came to pass <when he heard that I lifted high my voice, and cried out> then left he his garment beside me, and fled, and gat forth outside.
16 So she laid by his garment, beside her,—until his lord should come into his house. 17 Then spake she unto him, according to these words, saying,—He hath been in unto me—the Hebrew servant whom thou didst bring in to us—to insult me.
18 And it came to pass <when I lifted high my voice, and cried out> then left he his garment beside me, and fled outside.
19 And it came to pass <when his lord heard the words of his wife, which she spake unto him, saying,
<According to these words> a hath thy servant done to me?>
Then was kindled his anger. 20 So Joseph's lord took him, and delivered him up to the prison, the place where [the prisoners of the king] were imprisoned,—so he was there, in the prison.
21 And it came to pass, that [Yahweh] was with Joseph, and extended unto him loving-kindness,—and gave him his favour in the eyes of the chief of the prison. 22 So the chief of the prison delivered up, into Joseph's hand, all the prisoners who were in the prison,—and <of all that was doing there> [he] was the doer.
23 [After nothing] was the chief of the prison looking, of whatever was in his hand,—in that [Yahweh] was with him, and <whatsoever he was doing> [Yahweh] was causing to prosper.

§ 53. Pharaoh's Butler and Baker, in Prison, are waited upon by Joseph; they dream, and Joseph interprets their Dreams.
1 And it came to pass [after these things] that the butler of the king of Egypt, and the baker, had sinned against their lord, the king of Egypt. Then fell the wrath of Pharaoh upon his two courtiers,—upon the chief of the butlers, and upon the chief of the bakers; so he delivered them up into the ward of the house of the chief of the royal executioners, into the prison,—the place where Joseph was imprisoned. And the chief of the royal executioners charged Joseph with them, and he waited upon them,—and they were some days in ward. And they dreamed a dream—they two, each man! his dream, in one night, each man! according to the interpretation of his dream,—the butler and the baker, who belonged to the king of Egypt, who were imprisoned in the prison. And Joseph came in unto them, in the morning,—and looked at them, and lo! they were sad. So he asked Pharaoh's courtiers, who were with him in the ward of his lord's house, saying,—

Why are your faces troubled to-day?

And they said unto him,

"A dream! have we dreamed, but there is none! to interpret it!"

Then said Joseph unto them—

"Is it not <unto God> that interpretations belong? Relate it, I pray you, to me.

And the chief of the butlers related his dream to Joseph,—and said to him,

"In my dream, then lo! a vine before me; and in the vine three shoots,—and the same, at sprouting time, had shot up her blossom, and her clusters had brought to perfection ripe grapes."

Now the cup of Pharaoh being in my hand, I took the ripe grapes, and pressed them out into the cup of Pharaoh, and set the cup upon Pharaoh's palm.

And Joseph said to him,

"This! is the interpretation thereof,—The threeshoots: are three days: <In three days more> will Pharaoh lift up thy head, and restore thee to thine office, and thou shalt set the cup of Pharaoh in his hand, according to the former custom, when thou wast his butler.

But if thou remember how I was with thee, when it shall go well with thee, then wilt thou, I pray thee, do me a loving-kindness,—and make mention of me unto Pharaoh, and bring me forth out of this house;"

For I was ≈ stolen ≈ out of the land of the Hebrews,—and <even here> had I done nothing, that they should have put me in the dungeon. Then the chief of the bakers, seeing that he had well! interpreted, said unto Joseph,

"I too! was in my dream, when lo! three wicker baskets of fine bread! were on my head; and in the uppermost basket! was some of every kind of food for Pharaoh, that a baker could make,—but the birds;"

kept eating them out of the basket from off my head.

And Joseph responded, and said, "This! is the interpretation thereof,—The three baskets are three days: <In three days more> will Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee, and hang thee upon a tree,—and the birds shall eat thy flesh from off thee.

And it came to pass <on the third day—the birthday of Pharaoh> that he made a banquet for all his servants,—and uplifted the head of the chief of the butlers, and the head of the chief of the bakers, in the midst of his servants; and restored the chief of the butlers to his butlership,—so that he set the cup upon the palm of Pharaoh; but <the chief of the bakers> he hanged, as Joseph had interpreted unto them. Yet the chief of the butlers made no mention of Joseph, but did forget him.

§54. Joseph interprets Pharaoh's Dreams; is made Ruler of Egypt; marries; and provides for the coming Famine.

And it came to pass <at the end of two years 41 of days> that Pharaoh was dreaming, when lo! he was standing by the river (Nile); and lo! <from the river> were coming up seven heifers, comely in appearance, and fat in flesh,—and they fed among the rushes. And lo! seven heifers more coming up after them, out of the river, unaesthetically in appearance, and lean in flesh,—and they came and stood beside the heifers by the lip of the river. Then did the heifers that were unaesthetically in appearance, and lean in flesh (<eat up>) the seven heifers that were comely in appearance, and fat.

So Pharaoh awoke.

And he fell asleep, and dreamed a second time,—when lo! seven ears! coming up on one stalk, fat and good; and lo! seven ears, lean and shrivelled by an east wind! coming up after them. Then did the seven ears climbers swallow up the seven fat and full ears.

So Pharaoh awoke, and lo! it was a dream.

And it came to pass <in the morning> that his spirit became restless, so he sent and called for all the sacred scribes of Egypt, and all her wise men,—and Pharaoh related to them his dreams, but there was no one that could interpret them, to Pharaoh. Then spake the chief of the butlers with Pharaoh, saying,—

"My faults! would I mention this day.

Pharaoh was wroth with his servants,—and put them in the ward of the house of the chief of the royal executioners, me, and the chief of the bakers;"

Then must we needs dream, a dream in one night; and he,—each man! according to the interpretation of his dream, did we dream.

So it shall be (pl.) (w. So it shall be (w. Sam., Sam.)—G.n. Sep.)—G.n.
And <there with us>, was a young man, a Hebrew, servant to the chief of the royal executioners, and we related to him, and he interpreted to us, our dreams,—<to each man—according to his dream> did he interpret.

And it came to pass <as he interpreted to us> [so] it happened,—<me> he restored to mine office, but <him> he hanged.

Then sent Pharaoh and summoned Joseph, and they hastened him out of the dungeon,—so he shaved himself, and changed his garments, and came in unto Pharaoh. And Pharaoh said unto Joseph,

<A dream> have I dreamed, but none can interpret it,—but I have heard say concerning thee, that <on hearing a dream> thou canst interpret it.

And Joseph answered Pharaoh, saying, [Not to me | doth it pertain! May [God] grant in answer, the prosperity of Pharaoh! Then spake Pharaoh unto Joseph,—

<In my dream> [there was I] standing on the lip of the river;

When lo! <out of the river> were coming up seven heifers, fat in flesh, and comely in form,—and they fed among the rushes.

And lo! <seven other heifers> coming up after them, poor, and very uncomely in form, and lean in flesh,—I had never seen such, in all the land of Egypt, [for uncomeliness].

Then did the lean and uncomely heifers [eat up] the first seven, fat heifers; and they passed into their stomach, yet could it not be known that they had passed into them, [their appearance] being uncomely, as at the beginning. So I awoke.

Then looked I in my dream,—And lo! <seven ears> coming up on one stalk, full and good;

And lo! <seven ears, withered, lean, shrivelled by an east wind> growing up after them.

Then did the lean ears [swallow up] the seven good ears.

So I told [these things] unto the sacred scribes, but there was none that could explain [them] to me.

Then said Joseph unto Pharaoh, [The dream of Pharaoh] is [one]. <What God is about to do hath he announced to Pharaoh.

[The seven good heifers] are [seven years], and "the seven good ears" are [seven years],—"the dream" is [one].

And "the seven lean and uncomely heifers that were coming up after them" are [seven years], and "the seven lean ears, shrivelled by an east wind," will turn out to be—seven years of famine.

* MI: "pt."

26 <The very word that I spake unto Pharaoh> <what [God] is about to do> hath he showed unto Pharaoh.

Lo! [seven years] coming in,—of great plenty, in all the land of Egypt.

Then shall arise seven years of famine, after them, so shall be forgotten all the plenty in the land of Egypt,—and the famine shall consume the land; and neither shall the plenty in the land be discernible, because of that famine [coming after],—for it shall be very severe.

And <for that there was a repeating of the dream unto Pharaoh [twice]> it is because the thing [is established] from God, and God is hastening to do it.

Now, therefore, let Pharaoh look out a man, discreet and wise,—and set him over the land of Egypt. Let Pharaoh do this, that he may appoint overseers over the land,—so shall he take up a fifth of the land of Egypt, during the seven years of plenty.

And let them gather up all the food of these seven good years that are coming in,—and let them heap up corn under the hand of Pharaoh, as food in cities, so shall they keep it.

So shall the food become a store for the land, for the seven years of famine, which shall come about in the land of Egypt,—and the land shall not be cut off in the famine.

And the thing was good in the eyes of Pharaoh,—and in the eyes of all his servants; and Pharaoh said unto his servants,—Can we find such a one, [a man in whom is the Spirit of God]?

So Pharaoh said unto Joseph,

<After God hath made known unto thee all this> there is no one discreet and wise like thee.

[Thou] shalt be over my house, and <on thy mouth> shall all my people kiss,—only as to the throne will I be greater than thou.

And Pharaoh said unto Joseph,—

See, I have set thee over all the land of Egypt.

So Pharaoh took his ring from off his hand, and put it upon Joseph's hand,—and clothed him in garments of fine linen, and put the chain of gold upon his neck; and made him ride in the second chariot which belonged to him, and they cried out before him.

Bow the knee!

thus setting him over all the land of Egypt.

And Pharaoh said unto Joseph,

[If he] am Pharaoh,

<Without thee> therefore, shall no man raise his hand or his foot, in all the land of Egypt.

And Pharaoh called Joseph's name Zaphennath-paneah, and gave him Asenath, daughter of Poti-pherah priest of On, to wife,— and Joseph went forth over the land of Egypt. 46 Now [Joseph] was thirty years old, when he took his station, before Pharaoh king of Egypt. So Joseph went forth from before Pharaoh, and passed along through all the land of Egypt.
47 And the land produced, <in the seven years of plenty> [by handfuls]. 48 And he gathered up all the food of the seven years in which there was plenty in the land of Egypt, and laid up food in cities,—<the food of the fields of the city, which were round about it> laid he up within it. 49 Thus did Joseph heap up corn like the sand of the sea, making it exceeding abundant,—until one hath left off reckoning, because it cannot be reckoned.
50 Now <to Joseph> were born, two sons, ere yet came in the year of famine,—whom Asenath, daughter of Poti-pherah priest of On, bare to him. 51 And Joseph called the name of the firstborn [Manasseh],—
For God hath made me forget all my trouble, and all the house of my father.
52 And <the name of the second> called he,
Ephraim. 53 For God hath made me fruitful in the land of my humiliation.
53 Then came to an end the seven years of the plenty,—which was in the land of Egypt; and the seven years of famine began to come in, according as Joseph had said,—and it came to pass that there was famine in all the lands, but <in all the land of Egypt> there was bread.
54 Yet was famine felt in all the land of Egypt, and the people made outcry unto Pharaoh, for bread,—and Pharaoh said to all Egypt,— Go ye unto Joseph, <that which he saith to you> shall ye do.
55 Now the famine was over all the face of the country, so Joseph opened all [places] wherein it was, and sold corn to the Egyptians, and the famine laid fast hold of the land of Egypt.
57 All the earth also, came in to Egypt to buy corn [unto Joseph],—because the famine had laid fast hold on all the earth.
1 5. Jacob's Son, sent down to Egypt to buy Corn, are examined by Joseph, and Simeon is detained.
Joseph's Kindness.
42: Then saw Jacob that there was corn, in Egypt,—and Jacob said to his sons,
Where be ye one at another?
2 And said he,
Lo! I have heard that there is corn in Egypt.—
Go therefore, and buy corn for us from there, that we may live, and not die.
3 So Joseph's ten brethren went down,—to buy corn from the Egyptians; 4 but <Benjamin, Joseph's own brother> Jacob sent not with his brother,—for he said,
Lest there befall him any mischief.
5 Thus came in the sons of Israel, to buy corn, in the midst of them that came,—for the famine was in the land of Canaan. 6 Now [Joseph —he ii] it was, that was in power over the land, his name was [Joseph]; 7 so he said unto them—<Spies> are [ye]! <to see the nakedness of the land> have ye come in!
8 And they said unto him,
Nay, my lord,—but [thy servants] are come to buy food. 9 [All of us] are [sons of one man],—[tho honest men] are [we]; [thy servants] are not [spies].
10 And he said unto him,— Nay! but* <the nakedness of the land> are ye come in to see.
11 And they said:
We, thy twelve servants, are [brethren], sons of one man, in the land of Canaan,— and lo! 'the youngest' is with our father, this day, and 'the one' is not! 12 And Joseph said unto them,—
'The very thing' that I spake unto you, saying—<Spies> are [ye]; 13 <Herewith> shall ye be proved,—
By the life of Pharaoh ye shall not go forth from hence, save only by the coming in of your youngest brother, hither.
16 Send—from among you—one, that he may fetch your brother, but be ye, held as prisoners, that your words may be proved, whether truth is with you,—and <if not>
'by the life of Pharaoh surely spies ye are'.
17 So he drew them all together into ward, for three days. 18 And Joseph said unto them,
'on the third day',
'This do, and live,—<God himself> do I reverence.
19 <If ye be honest men> one brother of you shall be kept as a prisoner in your house of ward,—but ye, go, take in corn for the famine of your houses; 20 and your youngest brother shall ye bring in unto me, that your words may be con-irmed, and ye die not.'

Some cod.: "buy corn in, Egyptian—Gn."

Cp. 09. 474. a. This is the end of the passage.
And they did so. 21 And they said, each man unto his brother—

<Verily guilty we are, respecting our brother, in that we saw the distress of his soul, when he appealed unto us for favour, and we hearkened not.>—[therefore] hath come in unto us this distress.

22 And Reuben answered them, saying—

Speak I not unto you, saying, Do not sin against the child! And ye hearkened not? <His very blood> therefore, lo! it is required.

23 But <they> knew not that Joseph was hearkening,—for <the interpreter> was between them. 24 So he turned away from them, and wept,—then came back unto them, and spake unto them, and took away from them, Simeon, and bound him prisoner before their eyes.

25 Then commanded Joseph that their bags should be filled with corn, and their silver be returned unto each man’s into his sack, and provision be given, for the journey,—and it was done to them thus. 26 So they lifted up their corn on their asses,—and went their way from thence. 27 And the first opened his sack, to give fodder to his ass, at the inn,—and beheld his silver, yea, there it was, in the mouth of his sack! 28 So he said unto his brethren, My silver hath been returned unto me verily, there it is, in my sack! Then went forth their heart, and they turned trembling—each man unto his brother, saying, What is this? that God hath done to us?

29 So they came in unto Jacob their father, to the land of Canaan,—and told him all that had befallen them, saying:

30 The man that is lord of the land, spake unto us harsh things,—and then delivered us up, as spies of the land. 31 And we said unto him, <Honest men> are we, —we are not spies!

32 <Twelve brethren> are we, sons of our father,—<the one> is not, and <the youngest> is this day with our father, in the land of Canaan.

33 Then said the man, the lord of the land, unto us, <Hereby> shall I get to know that <honest men> ye are,— 34 One brother of you> leave ye remaining with me, and <corn> for the famine of your houses> take ye and go your way; And bring ye in your youngest brother unto me,

So must I get to know that ye are <not spies>, but are <honest men>:

<Your brother> will I give up to you, and <with the land> shall ye traffic.

35 And it came to pass <when> they were emptying their sacks, then lo! <each man’s bundle of silver> was in his sack,—and <when> they beheld their bundles of silver—they and their father> they were afraid. 36 And Jacob their father said unto them,

<Me> have ye bereaved,—<Joseph> is not, and <Simeon> is not, and <Benjamin> ye would take! 37 Against me have happened all these things. 38 Then spake Reuben unto his father, saying,<My two sons> shalt thou put to death, if I bring him not unto thee,—Come, give him up upon my hand, and <I> will restore him unto thee.

39 And he said, My son shall not go down with you,—For <his brother> is dead, and <he alone> is left, and <as surely as there befall him any mischief by the way wherein ye go> so surely shall ye bring down my grey hairs with sorrow unto hades.

§ 56. Jacob’s Sons, with Benjamin, being sent to Egypt a second time, are entertained in Joseph’s House.

1 But <the famine> was severe in the land. 2 So it came to pass <when> they had made an end of eating the corn which they had brought in out of Egypt> that their father said unto them,—

Return, buy for us a little food.

3 Then spake Judah unto him, saying,—

The man <did protest> to us, saying—

Ye shall not see my face, except <your brother> is with you.

4 <If thou art sending our brother with us> we will certainly go down, and buy for thee food; 5 but <if thou art not sending him> we will not go down, for <the man> said unto us, Ye shall not see my face, except <your brother> is with you.

6 And Israel said, Wherefore did ye ill to me,—to tell the man, there yet remained to you, a brother?

7 And they said, The man <did ask> concerning ourselves and concerning our kindred, saying—

Is your father yet alive? Have ye a brother? So we told him according to the tenor of these words. Could we <at all know> that he would say, Bring down your brother?

8 Then said Judah unto Israel his father—

Come! send thou down the young man with me, that we may arise and go our way,—and live and not die, both <we and thou, and our little ones>.

9 <I> will be surety for him, <at my hand> shalt thou require him,—<as surely as I bring him not in unto thee, and set him down before thee> so surely will I be counted a sinner against thee, all the days,

For <if we had not lingered> surely <now> had we come back here a second time.

Then Israel their father said unto them—

<If so> |then| do |this| —

Take of the song* of the land in your vessels, and carry down to the man, a present,—

A little balsam, and a little honey, tragacanth gum and cistus gum, pistacia nuts, and almonds.

And <double silver> take in your hand,—also <the silver that was put back in the mouth of your sacks> carry ye back in your hand, peradventure it was an error;

Your brother also> take ye, and arise, go again unto the man.

And God Almighty> give you compassion before the man, so shall he send with you, your other brother, <and Benjamin>.

But as for me, <when I am bereaved> I am bereaved!

So the men took this present, <double silver also> took they in their hand, and Benjamin, and arose, and went down into Egypt, and stood before Joseph. And Joseph saw with them—Benjamin, so he said to him that was over his house.

Bring the men into the house, and slay meat, and make ready, for <with me> shall the men eat, at noon.

So the men did, as Joseph had said, and the man brought the men into Joseph’s house. Then were the men afraid, because they had been brought into the house of Joseph, and they said—

For the matter of the silver that came back in our sacks at the beginning> have we been brought in—that he may turn round upon us* and fall upon us, and take us for servants, and our asses.

So they drew near unto the man that was over Joseph’s house, and spake unto him, at the entrance of the house; and said,

May it please my lord! — We ||did indeed come down at the beginning to buy food.

And it came to pass <when we had entered into the inn> that we opened our sacks, and be! the silver of each man ||in the mouth of his sack,—our silver in its full weight,—so we have bought it back in our hand ||

And <more silver> have we brought down in our hand,* to buy food,—we know not what put our silver in our sacks.

And he said—

Peace to you, do not fear! ||Your God, and the God of your father> hath given you secret treasure, in your sacks, <as for your silver> it came in unto me.

And be brought forth unto them, Simeon.

§ 57. Joseph, returning his brethren’s money, and depositing his own silver cup in Benjamin’s sack, arranges his Brethren and brings them back.

Then commanded he him who was over his house saying—

Fill the sacks of the men, with food, as much as they can carry,—and put each man’s silver in the mouth of his sack; and <my cup—the cup of silver> shalt thou put in the mouth of the sack of the youngest, with his corn-silver.

So he did, according to the word of Joseph, which he had spoken.

city—they had not gone far, when [Joseph] said to him who was over his house,
Rise, chase after the men,—so shalt thou overtake them, and shalt say unto them,
Wherefore have ye required evil for good? 5
Is not [this] that in which my lord drinketh, and whereby [he himself] doth [divine]?
Ye have done evil, in what ye have done.
So he overtook them,—and spake unto them these words. 7 And they said unto him, Wherefore should my lord speak such words as these? Far be thy servants, from doing such a thing as this!
Lo! <the silver that we found in the mouth of our sacks> we brought back unto thee, out of the land of Canaan,—how then could we steal, out of the house of thy lord, silver or gold?
<With whosoever of thy servants it can be found> he shall die,—and [we also] will become thy lord's servants.
And he said,
[Yea, now!], <according to your words> [so] let it be,—[he with whom it is found] shall be my servant,
[Yea]! however, shall be clear.
So they hastened and took down each man his sack to the ground,—and opened, each man his sack. 12 Then made he thorough search,<with the eldest> he began, and <with the youngest> he ended,—and the cup was found in the sack of Benjamin! 13 And they rent their mantles,—and laded each man his ass, and returned to the city. 14 And Judah and his brethren came into the house of Joseph, [he] yet being there,—and fell down before him, to the earth. 15 And Joseph said to them,
What is this deed which ye have done? Know ye not that such a man as I [can even divine]?
Then said Judah—
What shall we say to my lord, how shall we speak, and how shall we justify ourselves,—when [God himself] hath found out the iniquity of thy servants? Behold us! my lord's servants, [both we, and he in whose hand the cup hath been found].
And he said,
Far be it from me, to do this thing! <The man in whose hand the cup hath been found> [he] shall be my servant, but <as for you> go ye up in peace, unto your father.

§ 58. Judah's Intercession for the Return of Benjamin.

Then Judah drew near unto him, and said—
Pardon, my lord! Pray let thy servant speak a word in the ears of my lord, and do not let thine anger be kindled against thy servant,—for [thus] art [thou], as Pharaoh!
It was [my lord] who asked his servants, saying,—
Have' ye a father, or a brother?
So we said unto our lord,
We have an aged father, and the child of his old age, a youth,—<his brother> being dead> [he alone] is left of his mother, and [his father] loveth him.
So then thou saidst unto thy servants,
Bring him down unto me,—that I may set mine eyes upon him.
And we said unto our lord,
The lad cannot leave his father,—<as surely as he leaveth his father> so surely will he die. 19
And thou saidst unto thy servants,
<Except your youngest brother do come down with you> ye shall not again behold my face.
So it came to pass, <when we had gone up unto thy servant, my father>, that we told him the words of my lord.
Then said our father,—
Go again, buy us a little food.
And we said,
We cannot go down,—<If our youngest brother be' with us> [then] will we go down, for we cannot see the face of the man, if [our youngest brother] is not' with us.
Then said thy servant my father, unto us,— [Ye yourselves] know, that [two] did my wife bear to me, 27 and the one went forth from me, and I said—
Certainly he hath been torn in pieces,—And I have never seen him since.
<As surely as ye take [this one also] away from before my face, and there befall him any mischief>, so surely shall ye bring down my grey hairs, with misfortune, to hades.

Now therefore, <as surely as I go in unto thy servant my father, and [the lad] is not' with us,—seeing that his soul is bound up with [the lad's] soul> 31 so surely shall it come to pass that <when he seeth that the lad is not' with us>, then will he die. So shall thy servants bring down the grey hairs of thy servant our father, with sorrow, to hades.
For [thy servant] became surety for the lad, while away from my father, saying,— <If I bring him not unto thee> then will I count myself a sinner against my father all the days.

Now therefore, I pray thee, let thy servant remain instead of the lad, as servant to my lord,—but <as for the lad> let him go up with his brethren. 34 For how can I go up unto my father, should [the lad] not' be with me? lest I look on the calamity, that shall find out my father.

§ 59. Joseph makes himself known to his Brethren, and sends for his Father.

45 And Joseph could not restrain himself, before all who were stationed near him, so he cried out—

Have forth every man from me!

And there stood no man with him, when Joseph made himself known unto his brethren. Then gave he forth his voice, in weeping,—and the Egyptians heard, and the house of Pharaoh heard. Then said Joseph unto his brethren:

‘I am Joseph, is my father yet alive?’

But his brethren could not answer him, for they were terrified because of him. Then said Joseph unto his brethren—

Draw near, I pray you, unto me.

And they drew near. And he said—

‘I am Joseph your brother, whom ye sold into Egypt.’

But now do not grieve, neither let it be vexing in your eyes, that ye sold me hither,—for to save life did God send me before you.

For these two years hath the famine been in the midst of the land,—and yet five years are there, in which there shall be neither ploughing, nor harvest.

So then God sent me before you, to plant for you a remainder in the earth,—and to save you alive, by a great deliverance. Therefore, it was not I ye who sent me hither, but God himself,—who also appointed me to be a father to Pharaoh, and a lord to all his house, and a ruler, over all the land of Egypt.

Haste ye, and go up unto my father, then shall ye say unto him—

‘Thus saith thy son Joseph, God hath appointed me lord to all Egypt,—come down unto me, do not delay; so shalt thou dwell in the land of Goshen, and shalt be near unto me, and thou and thy sons and thy sons’ sons, and thy flocks and thy herds, and all that is thine; will I sustain thee, there, for there are yet five years of famine,—lest thou come to poverty,—thou, and thy house, and all who are thine.’

Now lo! your own eyes do see, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin,—that it is my own mouth that doth speak unto you.

As soon as ye have told my father all my honour in Egypt, and all that ye have seen> so soon shall ye hasten, and bring down my father, hither.

Then fell he upon the neck of Benjamin his brother, and wept,—and Benjamin wept on his neck. Then kissed he all his brethren, and wept upon them,—and thereafter his brethren spake with him.

Now the report was heard by the house of Pharaoh, saying,

The brethren of Joseph have come in.

And it was good in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of all his servants.

Then Pharaoh said unto Joseph—

‘Say unto thy brethren,—

This do, —lade your asses, and go, enter into the land of Canaan; and fetch your father and your households, and come in unto me,—that I may give you the best of the land of Egypt, and eat ye the fat of the land.’

‘Thou therefore, command them,*

This do ye,—Take you, out of the land of Egypt, waggons for your little ones, and for your wives, so shall ye bring your father, and come in.

Your eyes, moreover, let it not look with pity upon your goods,—for the best of all the land of Egypt is yours.’

And the sons of Israel did so, and Joseph gave them waggons at the bidding of Pharaoh,— and gave them provisions for the way: <to all of them> gave he, to each man, changes of raiment,—but <to Benjamin> he gave three hundred pieces of silver, and five changes of raiment. Moreover <to his father> sent he as followeth:—ten he-asses, laden from the best of Egypt,—and ten she-asses, laden with corn and bread and nourishing food for his father, for the way. Thus sent he forth his brethren, and they departed,—and he said unto them,

Do not fall out, by the way.

And they went up out of Egypt,—and came into the land of Canaan, unto Jacob their father. And they told him, saying—

Joseph is yet alive, yea, indeed he is ruler in all the land of Egypt.

And his heart became faint, for he believed them not. So they spake unto him all the words of Joseph, which he had spoken unto them, then saw he the waggons, which Joseph had sent to carry him,—and the spirit of Jacob their father revived’. And Israel said, Enough! Joseph my son is yet alive. I must go and see him before I die!

§ 60. Jacob, encouraged by God, goes down into Egypt.

So Israel brake up, with all that he had, and came in to Beer-sheba,—and offered sacrifices to the God of his father Isaac. And God said to Israel, in the visions of the night, and he said—

‘Jacob! Jacob!’

And he said—

Behold me!

And he said:

‘I am God himself,* the God of thy father,—

Be not afraid of going down to Egypt, seeing that <for a great nation> will I plant thee there.

I will go down with thee, to Egypt, and I will bring thee up, yea wholly up,!

Caanan, and there they are in the land of Goshen.

Moreover out of the whole number of his brethren he took with him five men, and set them before Pharaoh. And Pharaoh said unto the brethren of Joseph,—

What is your occupation?

And they said unto Pharaoh—

<Feeders of flocks> are thy servants, both we and our fathers.

And they said unto Pharaoh—

<To sojourn in the land> are we come in, for there is no pasture for the flocks which pertain to thy servants, for the famine in the land of Caanan.

Now therefore, let thy servants dwell, we pray thee, in the land of Goshen.

Then spake Pharaoh unto Joseph, saying,—

If thy father and thy brethren are come in unto thee,

The land of Egypt is before thee; in the best of the land> cause thy father and thy brethren to dwell, let them dwell in the land of Goshen, and if thou knouwest that there are among them, men of ability> then shalt thou set them as chieftains of cattle, over mine.

So Joseph brought in Jacob his father, and caused him to stand before Pharaoh,— and Jacob blessed Pharaoh. And Pharaoh said unto Jacob:

About how many> have been the days of the years of thy life?

And Jacob said unto Pharaoh,

The days of the years of my sojournings> have been a hundred and thirty years,—

Few and evil> have been the days of the years of my life, neither have they attained unto the days of the years of the lives of my fathers, in the days of their sojournings.

And Jacob blessed Pharaoh,— and came forth from the presence of Pharaoh.

So then Joseph fixed the dwelling of his father, and his brethren, and gave them a possession in the land of Egypt, in the best of the land, in the land of Rameses, as Pharaoh had commanded. And Joseph nourished his father and his brethren, and all his father's house, with bread, according to the need of their little ones.

But there was none, in all the land, for the famine was very severe,—so that the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan, fainteth by reason of the famine. So Joseph gathered up all the silver that was found in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, for the corn which they were buying,—and Joseph brought the silver into the house of Pharaoh. And the silver was spent out of the land of Egypt, and out of the land of Caanan, so all the Egyptians came in unto Joseph, saying—

Do give us bread, for why should we die before thee, although silver hath failed?

Then said Joseph:

Give your cattle, and I will give you for your cattle,—if silver hath failed.

So they brought in their cattle unto Joseph, and Joseph gave them bread in exchange for the horses, and for the cattle of the flock, and for the cattle of the herd, and for the asses,—and he provided them with bread, for all their cattle, throughout that year.

When that year was ended, then came they unto him, in the second year, and said to him—

We will not hide from my lord, how that the silver, and the herds of beasts for my lord, are come to an end,—there is nothing left before my lord, save only our bodies, and our ground;

Wherefore should we die before thine eyes? Buy thou us and our ground, for bread,—and we and our ground will become servants to Pharaoh, and give seed, that we may live, and not die, and the ground not lie waste.

So Joseph bought all the ground of the Egyptians for Pharaoh, for the Egyptians sold every man his field, because the famine had laid fast hold upon them,—so the land became Pharaoh's. And <as for the people> he brought them into bondage as servants,—<from one end of the boundary of Egypt unto the other end thereof.>

Only, if <the ground of the priests> bought he not,—for the priests had a statutory-portion> from Pharaoh, and they had been eating their statutory-portion, which Pharaoh had given them, for which cause they had not sold their ground.

And Joseph said unto the people,

Lo! I have bought you this day, and your ground, for Pharaoh,—see, here is seed for you, so shall ye sow the ground; and it shall come to pass that, <of the yield ye shall give a fifth> to Pharaoh,—but <the four parts shall be your own> for seed for the field, and for your food, and for them who are in your households, and for food for your little ones.

And they said—

Thou hast saved our lives! let us find favour in the eyes of our lord, so will we become Pharaoh's servants.

And Joseph appointed it for a statute,—until this day, regarding the ground of Egypt, that <Pharaoh> should take a fifth,—<only> <the ground of the priests> was theirs alone, it had not become Pharaoh's.

Thus Israel dwelt in the land of Egypt, in the land of Goshen,—and gained possessions therein, and became fruitful and multiplied, exceedingly.
§ 62. Jacob blesses Ephraim and Manasseh.

28 And Jacob lived in the land of Egypt, seventeen years,—so it came to pass that the days of Jacob, the years of his life, were a hundred and forty-seven years. 29 And the days of Israel drew near that he must die, so he called for his son, for Joseph, and said to him—

If I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes > place, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh,—so shalt thou deal with me in loving-kindness and faithfulness—

Do not, I pray thee, bury me in Egypt.

When I shall lie down with my fathers > then shalt thou carry me out of Egypt, and bury me in their burying-place.

And he said:

I will do according to thy word.

Then he said:

Come, swear to me! And he sware to him. Then did Israel bow himself down on the head of the couch.*

And it came to pass <after these things> that one said to Joseph,

Lo! thy father is sick. So he took his two sons with him, Manasseh and Ephraim. * And one told Jacob, and said—

Lo! thy son Joseph coming in unto thee. So Israel strengthened himself, and sat up on the couch. Then said Jacob, unto Joseph,

God Almighty appeared unto me in Luz, in the land of Canaan,—and blessed me; and said unto me—

Behold me! about to make thee fruitful, so will I multiply thee, and give thee to become a multitude of peoples,—so will I give this land to thy seed after thee, as an everlasting possession.

Now therefore, thy two sons who were born to thee in the land of Egypt, before I came in unto thee in Egypt> are mine!  Ephraim and Manasseh! <like Reuben and Simeon>, shall be mine! But <thine offsprings which thou hast begotten after them> thine own shall they be,—<after the name of their brethren> shall they be called, in their inheritance.

But as for me <when I came in from Padan>* Rachel died by me, in the land of Canaan, in the way, while yet there was a stretch of country to come into Ephrath,—so I buried her there, in the way to Ephrath, the same is Bethlehem.

Then Israel saw Joseph's sons,—and said—

Who are these?

And Joseph said unto his father, <My sons> they are, whom God hath given me, in this place.

And he said—

Bring them, I pray thee, unto me, that I may bless them.

Now the eyes of Israel had become dim from old age,—he could not see,—so he drew them near unto him, and kissed them, and embraced them. And Israel said unto Joseph,< To see thine own face> had I not thought,—and lo! God hath caused me to see even thy seed!

And Joseph brought them out from beside his knees, and bowed himself down with his face towards the earth. And Joseph took them both,—Ephraim in his right hand, on Israel's left hand, and Manasseh in his left hand, on Israel's right hand,—and drew them near unto him. Then Israel put forth his right hand, and laid it upon the head of Ephraim, though he was the younger, and his left hand, upon the head of Manasseh,—crossing his hands, although Manasseh was the firstborn. Thus blessed he Joseph, and said,—

God himself—before whom walked b my fathers, Abraham and Isaac, God himself—who hath been my shepherd, since I came into being until this day;—

The Messenger—who hath been my redeemer from all evil—bless the lads! And may there be called upon them, my name, and the name of my fathers, Abraham and Isaac; And may they swarm into a multitude in the midst of the earth! c

And Joseph saw that his father had laid his right hand on the head of Ephraim, and it was displeasing in his eyes,—so he took hold of his father's hand, to remove it from off the head of Ephraim, on to the head of Manasseh. And Joseph said unto his father—

Not so, my father! for [this] is the firstborn, lay thy right hand upon his head.

And his father refused, and said—

I know—my son, I know! * He also shall become a people, and he also shall become great,—but nevertheless, his younger brother shall become greater than he, and his seed shall become a filling up of the nations.

And he blessed them on that day, saying—

In thee let Israel bless himself, saying, God set thee as Ephraim, and as Manasseh! So he set Ephraim before Manasseh.

And Israel said unto Joseph:

Lo! I am about to die,—but it shall come to pass that God will be with you, and will take you back into the land of your fathers.

But have given to thee one mountain-track, above thy brethren,—which I took out of the hand of the Amorite, with my sword and with my bow.

§ 63. Jacob's Prophecy of the Future of his Sons.

49 Then called Jacob unto his sons, and said—
Gather yourselves together, and let me tell you, that which shall befall you in the afterpart of the days.

2 Assemble yourselves and hear, ye sons of Jacob,—
And hearken, unto Israel your father!

3 Reuben, thou are the first-born thou; My vigour, and the first-fruit of my strength,— Pre-eminence of elevation, and pre-eminence of power:
Boiling over like water, thou mayest not have pre-eminence, Because thou didst mount the bed of thy father,—
Then wast thou profane—
My marriage-bed, he mounted!

4 Simeon and Levi are brethren,— Instruments of violence are their agreements:
Into their circle do not thou enter, my soul! In their convocation do not thou join mine honour!
For in their anger, they slew brave men, And in their wantonness, they ham-strung oxen.

5 Accursed be their anger, because fierce, And their wrath, because cruel,— I divide them in Jacob, And I disperse them in Israel.

6 Judah, as for thee thy brethren shall praise thee [when] thy hand is on the neck of thy foes,—
The sons of thy father shall bow themselves down to thee:

7 A lion's whelp is Judah,
From the prey, my son, hast thou come up! Lo hast stooped—hath crouched, As a lion—or as a lioness, Who shall rouse him?

The sceptre shall not depart from Judah, Nor the commander's staff from between his feet,—

9 Until that he come in as a Shiloh, And his pace be the obedience of the peoples:

21 Binding, to the vine, his ass, And, to the choice vine, his ass's colt, He hath washed, in wine, his raiment, And, in the blood of grapes, his mantle:

22 Darken—his eyes, than wine,— Whiter—his teeth, than milk!

13 Zebulun: by a haven of seas shall he settle down,—

14 Issachar, an ass of strength,—couching between the pens;
Then beholdeth he rest, that it is good, And the ground, that it is pleasant,— So he bendeth his shoulder, to bear, And becometh a tributary servant.

15 Dan shall vindicate his people,—as one of the tribes of Israel;
It cometh to pass that Dan is a serpent upon the way, A horned viper, upon the path,— That biteth the heels of the horse, And his rider falleth backwards:—

16 For thy salvation have I waited, O Yahweh!

17 Gad: a troop shall troop on him,— But the he shall troop on the rear.

18 Out of Asher fatness is his food,— So he setteth forth dainties for a king.

19 Naphtali is a slender hind,— That puttest forth antlers of beauty.

20 A fruitful bough is Joseph, A fruitful bough, over a fountain,— Branches, creeping over a wall.
So they attack him, and have shot,— So they enclose him, do the masters of arrows.

22 But abideth, as an enduring one, his bow, And supplie are the arms of his hands,— From the hands of the Mighty One of Jacob,
From thence is the Shepherd, the Stone of Israel:

24 From the God of thy father, who doth help thee, And God Almighty, who doth bless thee, Blessings of the heavens, above, Blessings of the abyss, couching beneath,— Blessings of breasts and womb:

25 The blessings of thy father have prevailed Over the blessings of the perpetual mountains,
The charm of the age-abiding hills,— They turn out to be, for the head of Joseph, And for the crown of the head, of him who was set apart from his brethren.

All the wealth of Jacob's love for Rachel is in it, together with the patriarch's well-known fondness for her elder boy.
Then commanded he them, and said unto them—

If I am about to be gathered unto my people,
Bury me among my fathers.—within the cave, that is in the field of Ephron the Hittite:

in the cave, that is in the field of Machpelah, which is over against Mamre, in the land of Canaan,—which Abraham bought, along with the field, from Ephron the Hittite, for a possession of a burying-place:

There buried they Abraham, and Sarah
his wife,
There buried they Isaac, and Rebekah
his wife, —
And there buried I Leah:

buying the field, and the cave that is there-in,
from the sons of Heth.

So Jacob made an end of commanding his sons, and gathered up his feet, into the couch,— and ceased to breathe, and was gathered unto his people.

And Joseph fell upon the face of his father, and wept upon him, and kissed him.
Then Joseph commanded his servants, the physicians, to embalm his father,— so the physicians embalm Israel. And they fulfilled for him forty days, for are they wont to fulfil the days of the embalmed,— and the Egyptians wept for him seventy days.
And when the days of weeping for him were passed Joseph spake unto the house of Pharaoh, saying:

If I pray you, I have found favour in your eyes—speak ye, I pray you, in the ears of Pharaoh, saying:

My father made me swear, saying,—
Lo! If I am about to die, — in my grave which I dugged for myself, in the land of Canaan — there shalt thou bury me.

Therefore, let me go up, I pray thee, and bury my father, and return.
And Pharaoh said,—

Go up, and bury thy father, according as he made thee swear.

So Joseph went up, to bury his father,—and there went up with him all the servants of Pharaoh, the elders of his house, and all the elders of the land of Egypt; and all the house of Joseph, and his brethren, and the house of his father,—only their little ones and their flocks and their herds — left they, in the land of Goshen.

And there went up with him, both chariots, and horsesmen,—so it came to pass that the company was exceeding great.

And they came in, as far as the threshing-floor of the Buckthorn, which is beyond the Jordan, then wailed they there—an exceeding great and grievous wailing,—and he made for his father a mourning, of seven days.

And when the dwellers in the land—the Canaanites — saw the mourning in the threshing-floor of the Buckthorn, — they said,—

A grievous mourning! — this! for the Egyptians.

For this cause was the name thereof called, Abel Mizraim,—which is beyond the Jordan.
And his sons did for him thus, as he had commanded them; so his sons carried him to the land of Canaan, and buried him in the cave of the field of Machpelah,—which Abraham bought—with the field — for a possession of a burying-place, from Ephron the Hittite, over against Mamre.

Then Joseph returned to Egypt, — the, and his brethren, and all who had been up with him to bury his father—after he had buried his father.

Joseph's Brethren are afraid, but reassured. Joseph dies and is embalmed.

Now when the brethren of Joseph saw that their father was dead, — they said—
Oh! if Joseph should lie in wait for us,—and should return to us, all the evil wherewith we requited him!

So they sent in charge unto Joseph, saying,—

Thy father gave command, before he died, saying:

Thus shall ye say to Joseph—

Ah now! do forgive, we pray thee, the transgression of thy brethren and their sin, in that with evil they requited thee.

Therefore, grant forgiveness, we pray thee, for the transgression of the servants of the God of thy father!
And Joseph wept, when they spake unto him. Then went his brethren also, and fell down before him,—and said, Behold us! thine, for servants.
And Joseph said unto them—

Do not fear,—although in place of God I am.

Ye ill indeed, planned against me evil,—

God planned it for good, for the sake of doing, as at this day, to save alive much people.

Therefore, do not fear! I will nourish you, and your little ones.
Thus he consol'd them, and spake unto their heart.

And Joseph abode in Egypt,—he, and his father's house, — and Joseph lived a hundred and ten years. And Joseph saw Ephraim's —

THE BOOK OF EXODUS.

§ 1. The Sons of Israel in Egypt become a numerous People, notwithstanding Oppression and Peril.

1 Now these are the names of the Sons of Israel, who came into Egypt.—<with Jacob> did each man and his household come in:—

2 Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah;

3 Issachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin;

4 Dan and Naphtali, Gad and Asher.

5 And it came to pass that all the persons who were descended from Jacob were seventy souls,—but Joseph was already in Egypt. So then Joseph died, and all his brethren, and all that generation. But the sons of Israel were fruitful, and swarmed and multiplied and waxed mighty, with exceeding vigour,—so that the land was filled with them.

6 Then arose a new king over Egypt,—who had not known Joseph. So he said unto his people,—

7 Lo! the people of the sons of Israel are too many and mighty for us!

8 Come on! let us shew ourselves wise with regard to them,—lest they so multiply that it shall come to pass <when war befalleth us>—that they also shall join themselves unto them who hate us, and shall make war upon us, and then go up out of the land.

9 So they set over them chiefs of tribute, to the end they might humble them with their burdens,—and they built store-cities for Pharaoh, even Pithom and Raamses. But the more they were humiliating them more were they multiplying, and the more were they breaking forth,—so they were filled with alarm, because of the sons of Israel. And the Egyptians rigorously made the sons of Israel serve; and embittered their lives with harsh service, in clay and in bricks, and in all manner of service in the field,—all their service, wherein they rigorously made them serve.

10 Then said the king of Egypt to the Hebrew midwives,—of whom the name of the one was Shiphrah and the name of the other Puah; then he said—

<When ye act as midwives unto the Hebrew women then shall ye look out for the sex,—but if it is a son then shall ye kill it, But if it is a daughter> then shall it live.

11 But the midwives feared God, and did not as the king of Egypt spake unto them,—but suffered the male children to live. Then called the king of Egypt for the midwives, and said to them—

Wherefore have ye done this thing,—that ye should let the male children live?

12 And the midwives said unto Pharaoh,

Because not like the Egyptian women are the Hebrew women,—for they are full of life, ere yet the midwife can come in unto them they have given birth.

13 So then God dealt well with the midwives,—and the people multiplied, and waxed exceeding mighty. And it came to pass, because the midwives feared God that he made for them households.

k "causing to live."
Then gave Pharaoh command to all his people, saying—
"Every son that is born to the Hebrews shall into the river ye cast him; but every daughter shall ye suffer to live."

\[\text{Section 2. Moses the Deliverer: his Birth, Rescue, Adoption by Pharaoh's Daughter. First Attempts to help his Kinmen, and sudden Departure to Midian, where he dwells thenceforth.}\]

And there went a man of the house of Levi,—and took a daughter of Levi. And the woman conceived, and bare a son,—and she saw him, that he was a goodly child, so she hid him three months. And when she could no longer hide him she took him for an ark of paper-reed, and covered it over with bitumen, and with pitch,—and put therein the child, and laid it among the rushes, upon the bank of the river. Then did his sister station herself at a distance,—to see what would be done to him.

So then the daughter of Pharaoh came down to bathe by the river, and her maidens were walking by the side of the river,—when she saw the ark in the midst of the rushes, and sent her handmaid and fetched it. And she opened, and beheld it—even the child, and lo! a boy weeping,—so she took pity on him, and said,

<Of the children of the Hebrews> is [this].

Then said his sister unto Pharaoh's daughter,
Shall I go and call thee a nurse, of the Hebrew women,—that she may nurse for thee, the child?

And Pharaoh's daughter said to her—Go.

So the maid went, and called the mother of the child. And Pharaoh's daughter said to her—
Take this child, and nurse it for me, and I will give thee thy wages. So the woman took the child, and nursed it. And the child grew, and she brought him in to Pharaoh's daughter, and he became her son. And she called his name Moses, and said—

For out of the water did I draw him.

And it came to pass in those days when Moses grew up that he went out unto his brethren, and looked on their burdens, and saw an Egyptian smiting a Hebrew of his brethren. So he turned this way and that, and <when he saw that there was no man> he smote the Egyptian, and hid him in the sand.

\[\text{Section 3. Moses commissioned from the Burning Bush to deliver Israel.}\]

And it came to pass during those many days that the king of Egypt died, and the sons of Israel sighed by reason of the servitude, and lamented,—and their cry for help went up to God, by reason of the servitude. And God heard their groaning,—and God remembered his covenant, with Abraham, with Isaac and with Jacob; so then, God looked upon the sons of Israel,—and God regarded.

Now Moses was shepherding the flock of Jethro his father-in-law, priest of Midian,—so he led forth the flock behind the desert, and came in unto the mountain of God, to Horeb. Then appeared the messenger of the Lord...
Yahweh unto him, in a flame of fire, from the midst of the thorn-bush;—so he looked, and lo! the thorn-bush burning with fire] and yet || the thorn-bush || was not consumed. 3 And Moses said, Let me turn aside, pray, and see this great sight,—why the thorn-bush [doth not burn up].

4 And Yahweh saw, that he turned aside to see, so God called unto him, out of the midst of the thorn-bush, and said—Moses! Moses! And he said—Behold me!

5 And he said—Do not draw nigh hither,—put off thy sandals from thy feet, for || the place whereon thou art standing || is holy ground.

6 And he said—|| I || am the God of thy father, God of Abraham, God of Isaac, and God of Jacob. And Moses hid his face, for he was afraid to look upon God.

7 Then said Yahweh, I have || seen || the humiliation of my people, who are in Egypt, and || their outcry || have I heard, by reason of their task-masters, for I know their pains; 8 therefore have I come down to deliver them from the hand of the Egyptians, and to take them up out of that land, into a land good and large, into a land flowing with milk and honey,—into the place of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Jebusites.

9 || Now therefore, lo! || the outcry of the sons of Israel hath come in unto me,—moreover also I have seen the oppression, wherewith the || Egyptians || are oppressing them.

10 || Now therefore, come thou! that I may send thee unto Pharaoh,—and bring thou forth my people—the sons of Israel—out of Egypt.

11 And Moses said unto God, Who am I, that I should go unto Pharaoh,—and that I should bring forth the sons of Israel out of Egypt?

12 And he said—I will be with thee, and || this || || [shall be] the sign, that || I || have sent thee,—<When thou bringest forth the people out of Egypt> ye shall do service unto God, upon this mountain.

13 And Moses said unto God—Lo! || as surely as || I || go in unto the sons of Israel, and say unto them, || The God of your fathers hath sent me unto you—

So surely will they say unto me—What is his name? What shall I say unto them?

14 And God said unto Moses, I Will Become whatsoever I please.* And he said—Thus shalt thou say to the sons of Israel, I Will Become hath sent me unto you.

15 And God said yet further unto Moses—|| Thus shalt thou say unto the sons of Israel, || Yahweh, God of your fathers, God of Abraham, God of Isaac, and God of Jacob hath sent me unto you.|| This || is my name to times-age-abiding, and || this || my memorial to generation after generation.

16 Go—and thou shalt gather together the elders of Israel, and shalt say unto them—|| Yahweh, God of your fathers || hath appeared unto me, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying,—I am || concerned || for you, and for what is done to you in Egypt; 17 therefore do I say—

I will bring you up out of the humiliation of Egypt, into the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites,—into a land flowing with milk and honey.

18 So will they hearken to thy voice,—and thou shalt go in—|| thou, and the elders of Israel, || unto the king of Egypt, and ye shall say unto him—|| Yahweh, God of the Hebrews || hath fallen in with us.

19 || Now therefore, let us go, we pray thee, a journey of three days, into the desert, that we may sacrifice to Yahweh, our God.

20 But || I || know, that the king of Egypt will not suffer you to go—not even by a firm hand.

21 So then I will put forth my hand, and smite Egypt, with all my wonders, which I will do in the midst thereof,—and || after that || he will send you forth.

22 Thus will I give favour to this people, in the eyes of the Egyptians,—so shall it come to pass that || when ye do go || ye shall not go || empty; 23 but every woman shall ask of

* To follow the weighty explanation subjoined, it should be borne in mind that the Hebrew in ver. 14 is, second line, ‹chayyā ‹asher ‹asher›, then in the fifth line ‹chayyâ only; then that ‹chayyâ takes up the strain in ver. 15. ‹chayyâ [the word rendered above ' become' ] does not mean ' to be essentially or ontologically, but phenomenally. . . . It seems evident that in the view of the writer ‹chayyâ and ‹chayyâ are the same: that God is ‹chayyâ. ' I will be,' when speaking of Himself, and ‹chayyâ. ' He will be,' when spoken of by others. What he will be is left unexpressed—He will be with them, helpful, strengthening, deliverer. —Professor A. B. Davidson, in Hastings' Bible Dictionary, Vol. II., 198. [It will be seen by the discriminating that the above brief exposition of the meaning of the Divine Name (Yahweh, is in essential accord with that offered in Chapter IV., of the Introduction to this Bible.]

b "He who becometh."— Cp. Intro., Chap. IV., p. 26
Then responded Moses, and said,
And lo! they will not believe me, neither hearken to my voice,—for they will say, Yahweh hath not appeared unto thee.

And Yahweh said unto him—
What is this in thy hand?
And he said—
A staff.

Then said he—
Cast it to the earth.
And he cast it to the earth, and it became a serpent,—and Moses fled from the face thereof.

And Yahweh said unto Moses,
Put forth thy hand, and take it by its tail:
So he put forth his hand, and laid hold of it, and it became a staff in his hand:—
that they may believe that Yahweh, God of their fathers,—God of Abraham, God of Isaac, and God of Jacob—hath appeared unto thee.

Then said Yahweh unto him, yet again—
Bring, I pray thee, thy hand, into thy bosom.
So he brought his hand, into his bosom,—and then took it out, and lo! this hand || was leprous.—like snow,
And he said—
Put back thy hand into thy bosom:
So he put back his hand, into his bosom,—and then took it out of his bosom, and lo! it had come again, like his own flesh: thus shall it come to pass, || if they will not believe thee, nor hearken to the voice of the first sign || then will they believe the voice of the next sign; and it shall come to pass || if they will not believe || even these two signs || nor hearken to thy voice, then shalt thou take of the water of the river, and pour it out on the dry land,—so shall the water which thou hast taken from the river, become yea, it shall become || blood, on the dry land.

And Moses said unto Yahweh—Pardon, O My Lord! <not a man of words> am I, neither heretofore, nor since thou hast spoken unto thy servant,—for || heavy of mouth, and heavy of tongue> I am.

Then Yahweh said unto him—
Who appointed a mouth || for man, or who appointeth him to be dumb, or deaf, or seeing || or blind? Is it not || [I] || Yahweh? ||

|| Now therefore, go,—and || I || will be || with thy mouth, so will I direct thee, what thou shalt speak.

And he said—
Pardon, O My Lord! send, I pray thee, by the hand of whom thou wilt send—

Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh against Moses, and he said—
Is there not Aaron, thy brother, the Levite? And I know that he can speak.

Moreover also, lo! the selfsame is coming forth to meet thee, so surely will he rejoice in his heart.

Then shalt thou speak unto him, and shalt put the words || in his mouth,—and || will be || with thy mouth, and with his mouth, so will I direct you what ye shall do.

And || shall speak for thee unto the people,—so shall it come to pass that || shall become thy mouth, and || shalt become to him as God.

And || this staff || take thou in thy hand,—wherewith thou shalt do the signs.

§ 4. The Return of Moses to Egypt.

So Moses went and returned unto Jethro, his father-in-law, and said to him—
Let me go, I pray thee, and return unto my brethren who are in Egypt, that I may see whether they are yet alive.

And Jethro said to Moses:
Go and prosper.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses in Midian,
Go, return to Egypt,—for all the men are dead || who were seeking thy life.

So Moses took his wife and his sons, and caused them to ride upon the ass, and he returned to the land of Egypt,—and Moses took the staff of God, in his hand.

And Yahweh said unto Moses,
When thou goest to return to Egypt || see || as touching all the wonders || which I have put in thy hand || that thou do them before Pharaoh—but || will let his heart wax bold,|| and he will not suffer the people to go.

Then shalt thou say unto Pharaoh,—
Thus saith Yahweh—
My son—my firstborn || is Israel;

Therefore I say unto thee,—
Let my son go, that he may serve me,
But if thou refuse to let him go—

And it came to pass <on the way, in the resting-place for the night> that Yahweh fell upon him, and sought to kill him. So Zipporah took a sharp stone, and cut off the foreskin of her son, and cast it down at his feet, — and said—

Surely,  art thou to me!

So he let him go. ||Then|| it was that she said,

And Yahweh said unto Aaron,

Go thy way to meet Moses, towards the desert. So he went his way, and fell in with him in the mountain of God, and kissed him. And Moses told Aaron, all the words of Yahweh, wherewith he had sent him, — and all the signs wherewith he had charged him. So Moses and Aaron went their way, — and gathered together all the elders of the sons of Israel. And Aaron spake all the words which Yahweh had spoken unto Moses, — and did the signs before the eyes of the people. And the people believed, — and when they heard that Yahweh had concerned himself for the sons of Israel, and that he had looked upon their humiliation > then bent they their heads and bowed themselves down.

§ 5. The First Interview with Pharaoh, and its Results.

1 And <afterwards> Moses and Aaron went in, and said unto Pharaoh,—

||Thus|| saith Yahweh, God of Israel,

Let my people go, that they may hold a festival to me, in the desert.

Then said Pharaoh,

Who is Yahweh, that I should hearken to his voice, to let Israel go?

I know not Yahweh, and <certainly, Israel> will I not let go!

And they said,

||The God of the Hebrews|| hath met with us, — let us go, we pray thee, a journey of three days into the desert, and sacrifice to Yahweh our God, lest he fall upon us, with pestilence or with sword.

And the king of Egypt said unto them,

Wherefore, O Moses and Aaron, should ye loose the people, from their works? Get you to your burdens.

And Pharaoh said,

Lo! <many—now> are the people of the land, — and are ye to make them rest from their burdens?

So then Pharaoh gave command, on that day, unto the taskmasters over the people, and unto their overseers — saying:

7 Ye shall no more give straw unto the people, for making the bricks, as heretofore: Let them go themselves, so shall they gather for themselves straw:

8 Nevertheless, <the fixed number of bricks, which they have been making heretofore> shall ye lay upon them, ye shall not diminish therefrom, — for <idle> they are, <on this account> it is that they are making an outcry, saying,

We must go our way, we must sacrifice to our God.

9 The service must be made heavy on the men, that they may labour on it, — and let them not pay regard to words of falsehood.

10 Then went forth the taskmasters of the people, and their overseers, and spoke unto the people, — saying,—

||Thus|| saith Pharaoh,

I am not going to give you straw,

11 Ye yourselves go fetch you straw, of any ye can find,—yet hath there not been diminished from your service a single thing.

12 So the people dispersed themselves throughout all the land of Egypt,—to gather stubble for straw: ||the taskmasters|| meanwhile, being urgent, saying,—

Complete your works, <The task of a day> in its day, as when the straw was provided.

14 Then were beaten the overseers of the sons of Israel, whom the taskmasters of Pharaoh had set over them, saying:

Wherefore have ye not completed your task for making bricks, <as heretofore> ||so also|| yesterday and to-day?

15 Then came in the overseers of the sons of Israel, and made outcry unto Pharaoh, saying, Wherefore shouldst thou do thus, to thy servants?

16 ||No straw|| is given to thy servants, yet <bricks>— they keep saying to us—make ye! And lo, ||thy servants|| are beaten—thou dost, therefore, wrong thy people.

But he said:

<Idle> ye are—||idle|| <on this account> are ||ye|| saying,

We must take our journey, we must sacrifice to Yahweh.

18 ||Now|| therefore, go labour, but ||straw|| shall not be given you, — yet <the tale of bricks> shall ye render.

19 Then did the overseers of the sons of Israel see themselves to be in an evil case, when it was said,—

Ye shall not diminish from your bricks— <the task of a day> in its day!

So they fell upon Moses and upon Aaron, stationing themselves to meet them, — as they came forth from Pharaoh; || and they said unto them,

Yahweh look' upon you, and judge,—in that ye have made us odious in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his servants, putting a sword into their hand to slay us.

22 And Moses returned unto Yahweh, and said,— O My Lord! therefore hast thou caused harm to this people! Wherefore now didst thou send me? seeing that from what time I came in unto Pharaoh to speak in thy name he hath done harm to this people, and thou hast not delivered thy people.®

6 1 Then said Yahweh unto Moses,
Now shalt thou see, what I will do to Pharaoh,—for with a strong hand shall be let them go, and with a strong hand shall he drive them out from his land.

§ 6. The Commission of Moses renewed.

3 And God® spake unto Moses,—and said unto him—

I am Yahweh:

1. I appeared, therefore, unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, as God Almighty,— although by my name Yahweh I was not made known to them;
Moreover also I established my covenant with them, to give them the land of Canaan,—even the land of their sojourn-ings wherein they sojourned;
Moreover also I heard the groaning of the sons of Israel, whom the Egyptians were holding in servitude,—
So then I remembered my covenant.

Therefore say thou to the sons of Israel—

I am Yahweh,
Therefore will I bring you forth from under the burdens of Egypt,
And will deliver you out of their service,—
And will redeem you with a stretched-out arm, and with great judgments;
And will take you to me, for a people,
And will become your God,—
And ye shall know, that I am Yahweh, am your God, who brought you forth from under the burdens of Egypt:
And I will bring you into the land’ as to which I uplifted my hand to give it to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob,—and will give it to you as an inheritance:

I am Yahweh.

9 And Moses spake thus, unto the sons of Israel,—but they hearkened not unto Moses, through shortness of spirit,® and through hard service.10 And Yahweh spake unto Moses—saying:

Go in, speak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt,— that he let the sons of Israel go out of his land.

12 And Moses spake before Yahweh, saying,— Lo! the sons of Israel have not hearkened unto me, how then shall I Pharaoh hear,
I also being of uncircumcised lips.

13 Thus then did Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, yea he gave them a charge unto the sons of Israel, and unto Pharaoh king of Egypt,— for the bringing forth of the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

Note here: first, the genealogies; and, second,

Thus came it to pass, that <on a certain day> Yahweh spake unto Moses in the land of Egypt.

So then Yahweh spake unto Moses saying—

"I am Yahweh:

Speak thou unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, all that I am speaking unto thee.

And Moses said before Yahweh,—

Lo! I am of uncircumcised lips, how then will Pharaoh hearken unto me?"

Then said Yahweh unto Moses—

See! I have appointed thee to be God unto Pharaoh,—and Aaron thy brother shall be thy prophet!

Thou shalt speak all that which I may command thee, and Aaron thy brother shall speak unto Pharaoh, and he shall let the sons of Israel go out of his land.

But I will smite Pharaoh to harden his heart,—so will I multiply my signs and my wonders, in the land of Egypt.

And Pharaoh will not hearken unto you, so will I lay my hand on Egypt,—and bring forth my hosts—my people, the sons of Israel, out of the land of Egypt, with great judgments.

And the Egyptians shall know that I am Yahweh, when I have stretched forth my hand over Egypt,—and brought forth the sons of Israel out of their midst.

And Moses and Aaron did so,—<as Yahweh commanded them> so did they. Now Moses was eighty years old, and Aaron eighty-three years old,—when they spake unto Pharaoh.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying:

"When Pharaoh shall speak unto you saying, Shew for yourselves a wonder;" then shalt thou say unto Aaron,

"Take thy staff, and cast it down before Pharaoh, let it become a sea-serpent."

So Moses and Aaron went in unto Pharaoh, and did so, as Yahweh had commanded,—and Aaron cast down his staff before Pharaoh and before his servants, and it became a sea-serpent.

Then called Pharaoh also for the wise men and for the magicians,—and <they too> <the sacred scribes of Egypt, with their secret arts> did in like manner; yea they cast down each man his staff, and they became sea-serpents,—but Aaron’s staff swallowed up their staves.

Then waxed bold the heart of Pharaoh, and he hearkened not unto them,—as spake Yahweh.

the change from "Aaron and Moses" at the beginning of the paragraph to "Moses and Aaron" at the end—reminding one of the change from "Barnabas and Saul" to "Paul and Barnabas" in Acts xiii.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses,

"Dull is the heart of Pharaoh,—he hath refused to let the people go.

Get thee unto Pharaoh in the morning—lo! he is coming out to the waters, therefore shalt thou station thyself to meet him on the bank of the river,—and <the staff which was turned into a serpent> shalt thou take in thy hand.

Then shalt thou say unto him—

"I am Yahweh, God of the Hebrews! hast sent me unto thee, saying,—

Let my people go, <that they may serve me in the desert,—

And lo! thou hast not hearkened, hitherto."

"Thus saith Yahweh, "Hereby shalt thou know that I am Yahweh,—

Lo! I am smiting with the staff that is in my hand upon the waters that are in the river, and they shall be turned to blood; and <the fish that was in the river> died, and the river shall be loathed, and the Egyptians shall disdain] to drink water out of the river.

And Yahweh said unto Moses,—

Saying unto Aaron—

Take thy staff, and stretch forth thy hand over the waters of Egypt, over their streams, over their rivers, and over their pools, and over all their collections of water—that they may become blood,—so shall there be blood, in all the land of Egypt, both in vessels of wood, and in vessels of stone.

And Moses and Aaron did so, as Yahweh commanded, and he lifted high the staff, and smote the waters which were in the river, before the eyes of Pharaoh, and before the eyes of his servants,—and all the waters which were in the river were turned to blood; and <the fish that was in the river> died, and the river became loathed, so that the Egyptians could not drink water out of the river, thus came it to pass that blood was in all the land of Egypt.

And the sacred scribes of Egypt did in like manner, with their secret arts,—so the heart of Pharaoh waxed bold, and he hearkened not unto them, as spake Yahweh.

Then Pharaoh turned away and entered into his house,—neither applied he his heart even to this.

And all the Egyptians digged round about the river, for water to drink,—for they could not drink of the water of the river.

And seven days were fulfilled,—after Yahweh had smitten the river.

§ 10. The Second Plague: Frogs.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses,

Go in unto Pharaoh,—then shalt thou say unto him—

Thus saith Yahweh,—
Let my people go, that they may serve me.

But if thou art refusing to let them go> lo! I am plaguing all thy boundaries with frogs; so shall the river swarm with frogs, and they shall come up, and enter into thy house, and into thy bedchamber, and upon thy couch,—and into the house of thy servants, and among thy people, and into thine ovens, and into thy kneading-troughs: <both against thee, and against thy people, and against all thy servants> shall come up the frogs.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Say unto Aaron—
Stretch forth thy hand, with thy staff, over the streams, over the rivers, and over the pools,—and bring up the frogs, over the land of Egypt.

So Aaron stretched forth his hand, over the waters of Egypt,—and the frogs came up, and covered the land of Egypt.

And the sacred scribes did in like manner, with their secret arts,—and brought up frogs over the land of Egypt. Then called Pharaoh for Moses and for Aaron, and said—
Make entreaty unto Yahweh, that he take away the frogs from me, and from my people,—and I must let the people go, that they may sacrifice to Yahweh.

And Moses said to Pharaoh—
Explain thyself unto me: <For what time> shall I make entreaty for thee, and for thy servants, and for thy people, to cause the frogs to be cut off, from thee, and from thy houses,—<only in the river> shall they remain?

And he said—
For to-morrow.
And he said—
According to thy word! that thou mayest know, that there is none like Yahweh, our God: so the frogs shall depart—from thee, and from thy houses, and from thy servants, and from thy people,—<only in the river> shall they remain.

Then went forth Moses and Aaron from Pharaoh,—and Moses made outcry unto Yahweh, over the matter of the frogs, which he had appointed for Pharaoh. And Yahweh did according to the word of Moses,—and the frogs died, out of the houses, and out of the yards, and out of the fields; and they piled them up, heaps—heaps,—and the land became lostsome.

But when Pharaoh saw that there had come a reprieve> then made he his heart dull, and hearkened not unto them,—as spake Yahweh,* § 11. The Third Plague: Gnats.

15 Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Say unto Aaron—
Stretch forth thy staff, and smite the dust of the land,—so shall it become gnats in all the land of Egypt.
16 And they did so, and Aaron stretched forth his hand with his staff, and smote the dust of the land, and there came to be gnats, among men, and among beasts,—all the dust of the land became gnats* in all the land of Egypt. And the sacred scribes did in like manner, with their secret arts, to bring forth the gnats, but they could not. So there came to be gnats, among men and among beasts. Then said the sacred scribes unto Pharaoh,—<The finger of God> it is! But the heart of Pharaoh waxed bold, and he hearkened not unto them, as spake Yahweh.*

20 Then said Yahweh unto Moses—
Rise thou early in the morning, and station thyself before Pharaoh, lo! he is coming forth to the waters,—then shalt thou say unto him—
Thus saith Yahweh: Let my people go, that they may serve me. But if thou art not letting my people go> behold me! sending forth—against thee, and against thy servants, and against thy people, and against thy houses, the gad-fly,—and the houses of the Egyptians shall be full of the gad-fly, moreover also the ground wherein they are: then will I make to differ on that day, the land of Goshen, wherein my people do dwell, so that there shall not be there a gad-fly! in order that thou mayest know, that I, Yahweh am in the midst of the land; so will I put a separation between my people and thy people.

And Yahweh did so, and brought a grievous gad-fly unto the house of Pharaoh, and the houses of his servants, and in all the land of Egypt, and the land was laid waste, by reason of the gad-fly.
22 Then did Pharaoh cry out—unto Moses, and to Aaron,—and said—
Go your way, sacrifice to your God in the land. And Moses said:
<Not meet> is it, to do thus, for <an abomination to the Egyptians> we should sacrifice to Yahweh our God.
Lo! could we sacrifice that which is an abomination to the Egyptians before their eyes, and they not stone us?*

27 Then said Pharaoh: ||I|| will let you go—so shall ye sacrifice to Yahweh your God, in the desert, only ye shall not go a ||very long|| journey, make ye entreaty for me.

28 And Moses said:

Lo! ||I|| am going out from thee, and will make entreaty unto Yahweh, so will he take away the gad-fly from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people, to-morrow,—only let not Pharaoh again deceive, in not letting the people go, to sacrifice to Yahweh.

29 So Moses went out from Pharaoh, and made entreaty unto Yahweh.

30 And Yahweh did; according to the word of Moses, and took away the gad-fly from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people, there remained not one.

31 And Pharaoh made his heart dull, in this time also, and did not let the people go.

9 Then said Yahweh unto Moses,

Go in unto Pharaoh, that shalt thou say unto him—

||Thus|| saith Yahweh, God of the Hebrews,

Let my people go, that they may serve me.

2 But ||refusing|| thou art to let them go, and still art holding them fast;*

3 Lo! ||the hand of Yahweh|| is coming on thy cattle, which are in the field, on the horses, on the asses, on the camels, on the herds, and on the flocks,—||a very grievous pestilence.||

* And Yahweh will make a difference between the cattle of Israel, and the cattle of the Egyptians, so that there shall not die from among all that pertaineth to the sons of Israel a thing!

6 And Yahweh appointed a set time—saying,

||To-morrow|| will Yahweh do this thing, in the land.

7 So Yahweh did this thing, on the morrow, and all the cattle of the Egyptians died, but of the cattle of the sons of Israel died not one.

7 And Pharaoh sent, and lo! there had not died of the cattle of Israel, so much as one.

But Pharaoh's heart became dull, and he did not let the people go.

8 Then said Yahweh, unto Moses and unto Aaron,

Take you your hands full of the ashes of an oven,—and Moses shall scatter them towards the heavens, before the eyes of Pharaoh;

9 then shall they become fine dust, over all the land of Egypt,—and shall become on man and on beast, a burning sore, breaking out in pustules, in all the land of Egypt.

10 So they took the ashes of an oven, and stood before Pharaoh, and Moses scattered them towards the heavens,—and it came to pass that there was a burning sore, in pustules breaking out, among men, and among beasts:

¹¹ and the sacred scribes could not stand before Moses, because of the burning sore,—for the burning sore had come on the sacred scribes, and on all the Egyptians.*

¹² But Yahweh let the heart of Pharaoh wax bold, and he hearkened not unto them,—as spake Yahweh unto Moses.

§ 15. The Seventh Plague: Hail.

13 Then said Yahweh unto Moses,

Rise thou early in the morning, and station thyself before Pharaoh,—then shalt thou say unto him—

||Thus|| saith Yahweh, God of the Hebrews,

Let my people go, that they may serve me;

for ||this time|| am ||I|| sending all my plagues unto thy heart, and amongst thy servants, and amongst thy people,—to the intent thou mayest get to know, that there is none like me, in all the earth.

15 For ||from this purpose|| have I let thee remain, for the purpose of showing thee my might,—and that my name may be celebrated in all the earth.

16 Even yet> art thou exalting thyself over my people,—in not letting them go?

17 Behold me! raining down ||about this time to-morrow|| an exceeding heavy hail,—such as hath not been in Egypt, from the day it was founded, even unto the present time.

18 ||Now|| therefore, send—bring into safety thy cattle, and all that thou hast in the field,—as touching all men and beasts which shall be found in the field, and shall not be withdrawn into shelter,—the hail shall come down upon them, and they shall die.

* Some cod. (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.), "the sons of Egypt"—G. n.

³ Cp. chap. iv. 21.

⁴ In evident contrast to cutting him off "secretly."

MI: "caused thee to stand," or, "let thee stand"; yet plainly in the above sense. A vastly different thing from creating him originally for an evil destiny.
Then said Yahweh unto Moses—

Streth forth thy hand over the heavens, that there may be hail, in all the land of Egypt,—on man and on beast, and on every herb of the field, in the land of Egypt. So Moses stretched forth his staff over the heavens, and Yahweh gave forth thunders and hail, and there came fire, towards the earth,—and Yahweh rained down hail, on the land of Egypt. So there came to be hail, and fire catching hold of itself, in the midst of the hail,—exceeding heavy, such as had not been in all the land of Egypt, from the very time it became a nation. And the hail smote, in all the land of Egypt, all that was in the field, both man and beast,—and every herb of the field, did the hail smite, and every tree of the field, did it shiver. Only in the land of Goshen, where were the sons of Israel, was there no hail. Then sent Pharaoh, and called for Moses and for Aaron, and said unto them—

I have sinned this time,—Yahweh is the righteous one, and I and my people are the wrong-doers. Make ye request unto Yahweh, and it shall be enough, without there being any more thunders of God, and hail,—and I must let you go, and not again, shall ye delay. And Moses said unto him,

As soon as I am gone out of the city, will I spread out my hands unto Yahweh,—the thunders shall cease, and the hail shall come no more,—that thou mayest know, that to Yahweh belongeth the earth. But as touching thee and thy servants, I know, that not yet will ye stand in awe of Yahweh Elohim.

Now the flax and the barley were smitten, for the barley was in ear, and the flax in flower; but the wheat and the spelt were not smitten, for they were not ripe. So Moses went away from Pharaoh, out of the city, and spread out his hands unto Yahweh,—then did the thunders and the hail cease, and the rain was not poured out on the earth. And when Pharaoh saw that the rain and the hail and the thunders had ceased, he again sinned, and made his heart dullest, and his servants. And the heart of Pharaoh waxed bold, and he did not let the sons of Israel go, as spake Yahweh by the hand of Moses.

§16. The Eighth Plague: Locusts.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Go in unto Pharaoh,—for I have suffered his heart to be dull, and the heart of his servants, that I may show these my signs, in their midst, and that thou mayest recount in the ears of thy son, and thy son's son, what I did in derision of the Egyptians, and my signs, which I displayed among them,—so shall ye know that I am Yahweh. And Moses and Aaron went in unto Pharaoh, and said unto him—Thus saith Yahweh, God of the Hebrews, How long hast thou refused to humble thyself before me? Let my people go, that they may serve me. But if thou art to let my people go, behold me bringing in to morrow, a locust, within thy bounds; and it shall cover the eye of the land, so that one shall not be able to see the land,—and it shall eat the residue that hath escaped, that is left from you from the hail, and shall eat up all the trees that sprout for you, out of the field; and they shall fill thy houses, and the houses of all thy servants, and the houses of all the Egyptians, such as thy fathers and thy fathers' fathers have never seen, from the day they came to be on the ground, until this day. And he turned away, and came out from the presence of Pharaoh. Then said the servants of Pharaoh unto him, How long shall this [man] become to us a snare? Let the men go, that they may serve Yahweh their God. Not yet knowest thou, that Egypt is ruined?

So Moses and Aaron were brought back unto Pharaoh, and he said unto them—Go, serve Yahweh your God, who are they that are going? And Moses said,

With our young and our old will we go,—with our sons and with our daughters, with our flocks and with our herds, will we go,—for the festival of Yahweh is ours. Then he said unto them: Let Yahweh be with you, when I let go you and your little ones! Look out, for harm is straight before your faces. Not so! Go, I pray you, ye grown men, and serve Yahweh, for that is what ye were seeking. And they were driven out from the presence of Pharaoh.
Pharaoh. Then said Yahweh unto Moses—

Stretche forth thy hand over the land of Egypt, for the locust, that it may come up over the land of Egypt,—and may eat up every herb of the land, all that the hail hath left.

And Moses stretched forth his staff over the land of Egypt, and Yahweh caused an east wind to drive through the land, all the day, and all the night,—<when the morning had come> <the east wind> had brought the locust. And the locust came up over all the land of Egypt, and settled in all the bounds of Egypt,—very grievous, <before it> had not been such a locust [as that], neither <after it> should be one like it. So it covered the eye of all the land, and the land was darkened, and it did eat every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees, which the hail had left remaining,—so that there was not left remaining any green sprout in the trees, or in the herb of the field, in all the land of Egypt.

Then hastened Pharaoh, to call for Moses and for Aaron,—and said—

I have sinned against Yahweh your God, and against you.

Now therefore, forgive me: I pray you, my sin—only this time, and make entreaty unto Yahweh your God,—that he may take away from me [at least, this death].

So he came out from Pharaoh,—and made entreaty unto Yahweh; and Yahweh turned back a west wind, strong exceedingly, and carried away the locust, and cast it into the Red Sea,—there was not left a single locust in all the bounds of Egypt. But Yahweh suffered the heart of Pharaoh to wax bold,—and he did not let the sons of Israel go.

§ 17. The Ninth Plague: Darkness.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses:

Stretche forth thy hand over the heavens, that there may be darkness, over the land of Egypt,—and that one may feel the darkness.

So Moses stretched forth his hand, over the heavens,—and there was thick darkness in all the land.—of Egypt, for three days; they saw not one another, neither rose any man from his couch, for three days,—but all the sons of Israel had light in their dwellings.

Then Pharaoh called out unto Moses, and said—

Go, serve Yahweh, only [your flocks and your herds] shall be left,—[even your little ones] shall go with you.

And Moses said,

Even thou thyself shalt give into our hands, sacrifices and ascending-offerings,—so shall we present offerings to Yahweh our God.

Moreover also' [our own cattle] shall go with us—there shall not be left behind [a hoof], for <thereof> must we take, to serve Yahweh our God,—[even we ourselves] cannot know wherewith we must serve Yahweh, until we have come in thither.

And Yahweh let the heart of Pharaoh wax bold,—and he was not willing to let them go. So Pharaoh said to him—

Get thee from me,—take heed to thyself—do not [any more] see my face, for <in the day thou dost see my face> thou shalt die.

And Moses said—

[Well] hast thou spoken,—[no more again] to see thy face.

§ 18. The Tenth Plague threatened: the Death of the Egyptian Firstborn.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses—

Yet one plague will I bring in upon Pharaoh, and upon Egypt, <after that> he will let you go from hence,—<when he doth let you go> he will [altogether drive] you out from hence.

Speak, I pray you, in the ears of the people,—and let them ask—every man of his neighbour, and every woman of her neighbour, articles of silver and articles of gold.

And Yahweh gave the people favour in the eyes of the Egyptians,—[even the man Moses himself] was exceeding great in the land of Egypt,—in the eyes of Pharaoh's servants, and in the eyes of the people. And Moses said,

[Thus saith Yahweh]:—

<About midnight> am I going forth in the midst of Egypt; and shall every firstborn in the land of Egypt die, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who is sitting on his throne, unto the firstborn of the handmaid who is behind the two millstones,—and every firstborn of beasts; then shall there be a great outcry, in all the land of Egypt,—such as never was and [such] as shall not be again.

But <against none of the sons of Israel> shall a dog sharpen his tongue, neither against man nor beast,—that ye may know that Yahweh maketh a difference between Egypt and Israel.

So shall all these thy servants come down unto me, and bow themselves down to me, saying—

Go forth, [thou, and all the people who are in thy footsteps], and <after that> will I go forth.

And he went forth from Pharaoh, in a heat of anger.

And Yahweh had said unto Moses, Pharaoh will not hearken unto you,—that my wonders may be multiplied in the land of Egypt.

10 Then Moses and Aaron did all these wonders before Pharaoh,—but Yahweh let Pharaoh's heart wax bold,* and he did not let the sons of Israel go, out of his land.

§ 19. The Passover commanded and observed.

12 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, in the land of Egypt, saying—

13 [This month] is [to you] a beginning of months,—<the first> it is [<to you> of the months of the year.

14 Speak ye unto all the assembly of Israel,* saying,

15 On the tenth of this month then let them take to them, each man a lamb for his ancestral household, a lamb for a household.

16 But <if the household be too small for a lamb> then shall he and his neighbour that is near unto his house take [one], according to the number of souls,—<each man according to his eating> shall ye number for the lamb.

17 A lamb without defect, a male a year old shall yours be,—<from the sheep, or from the goats> shall ye take it.

18 So shall it be yours, to keep, until the fourteenth day of this month,—then shall all the convocation of the assembly of Israel slay it, between the two evenings.

19 And they shall take of the blood, and put upon the two door-posts, and upon the upper-beam,—upon the houses wherein they are to eat it.

20 Then shall they eat the flesh, in the same night,—roast with fire, and with unleavened cakes;—<with* bitter herbs> shall they eat it.

21 Do not eat of it underdone, nor cooked by boiling in water,—but roast with fire, its head with its legs, and with its inward parts.

22 And ye shall let nothing thereof remain until morning,—but <that which is left remaining until morning> [in the fire] shall ye consume.

23 And [thus] shall ye eat it,—<your loins>* girded, [your sandals] on your feet, and [your staff] in your hand,—so shall ye eat it [in haste], it is Yahweh's passing over.

24 I will pass along, therefore, throughout the land of Egypt, this night, and will smite every first-born in the land of Egypt, from man even to beast,—and <against all the gods of Egypt> will I execute judgments—

25 I, Yahweh. *

12 Then shall the blood serve you for a sign, on the houses wherein ye' are, then will I behold the blood, and will pass over you,—and there shall be among you no plague to destroy, when I smite the land of Egypt.

14 So shall this day serve you for a memorial, and ye shall celebrate it, as a festival to Yahweh,—<to your generations>—<as an age-abiding statute> shall ye celebrate it.

15 Seven days] < unleavened cakes> shall ye eat, surely,—<on the first day> shall ye put away leaven, out of your houses.

16 But <who soever eateth what is leavened> then shall that soul be cut off out of Israel, [from the first day, unto the seventh day].

17 Both< on the first day> a holy convocation, and <on the seventh day> a holy convocation shall there be to you,—[no work] shall be done therein, [save only what must be eaten by every soul] that alone shall be done by you.

18 So then ye shall observe the unleavened cakes, because <on this self-same day> brought I forth your hosts out of the land of Egypt,—so then ye shall observe this day to your generations, as a statute age-abiding.

19 In the first [month], on the fourteenth day of the month, in the evening shall ye eat unleavened cakes,—until the one-and-twentith [day] of the month, in the evening. [For seven days] [leaven] shall not be found in your houses,—for <who soever eateth what is leavened> then shall that soul be cut off out of the assembly of Israel, [whether sojourner, or native of the land].

20 Nothing leavened> shall ye eat,—<in all your dwellings> shall ye eat unleavened cakes.

21 So then Moses called for all the elders of Israel, and said unto them,—

Proceed and take for yourselves one of the flock, according to your families, and slay the passover. 22 Then shall ye take a bunch of hyssop, and dip it in the blood which is in the basin, and strike the upper beam, and the two door-posts, with the blood which is in the basin,—and ye shall not go forth, any man out of the entrance of his house, until morning. 23 And Yahweh will pass along to plague the Egyptians, and <when he beholdeth the blood upon the upper beam, and upon the two door-posts> then will Yahweh pass over the entrance, and not suffer the destroyer to enter into your houses, to inflict on you the plague.

24 And ye shall observe this thing,—for a statute to thee and to thy sons, unto times age-abiding.

25 And so it shall come to pass <when ye shall enter into the land which Yahweh will give you, as he hath spoken,—and ye shall observe this service;> and it shall come to pass, that your sons shall say unto you,—
What is this your service?

Then shall ye say—

<A passover sacrifice> it is to Yahweh, who passed over the houses of the sons of Israel in Egypt, when he plagued the Egyptians, but <our houses> he delivered.

Then did the people bend their heads and bow themselves down.

And the sons of Israel went their way and did,—<as Yahweh had commanded Moses and Aaron> ||so|| did they.

§ 20. The Tenth Plague inflicted, and Israel urged forth.

And it came to pass [at midnight] that Yahweh smote every firstborn in the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who sat upon his throne, unto the firstborn of the captive who was in the pit of his prison,—and every firstborn of beasts.

Then rose up Pharaoh by night, ||he, and all his servants, and all the Egyptians||, and there arose a great outcry throughout Egypt,—for there was not a house, where' there was not one dead. ||So|| he called for Moses and for Aaron by night, and said—

Rise ye, go forth out of the midst of my people, ||both ye, and the sons of Israel,||— and go, serve Yahweh, according to your word; ||also|| <your flocks and your herds> take ye, as ye spake, and go your way,—so shall ye bless ||even me.||

And the Egyptians became urgent with the people, <to send them in haste out of the land,—for they said—>

||We all|| are dying.

So the people took up their dough, ere yet it was leavened,—<with their kneading-bowls bound up in their mantles, on their shoulders.>

And ||the sons of Israel|| did according to the word of Moses,—<and asked of the Egyptians, articles of silver and articles of gold and mantles.>

And ||Yahweh|| gave the people favour in the eyes of the Egyptians, and they gave them gladly,—<so they spoiled the Egyptians.>

§ 21. The Exodus begun, and the Passover confirmed.

Then did the sons of Israel break up from Rameses towards Succoth,—<about six hundred thousand foot, of men grown, besides little ones.>

Moreover also ||a mixed multitude|| came up with them,—<flocks also, and herds, exceeding much cattle.>

Then baked they the dough which they had brought out of Egypt—<into round unleavened cakes, for it had not been leavened,—for they had been driven out of Egypt, and could not tarry,—and indeed no provisions had they made ready for themselves.>

Now <the time during which the sons of Israel dwelt in Egypt> was four hundred and thirty years. ||And it came to pass <at the end of four hundred and thirty years> ||yes|| it came to pass <on this self-same day> <that all> the hosts of Yahweh had come forth out of the land of Egypt. ||<A night of solemn observances> it is unto Yahweh, for bringing them forth out of the land of Egypt,—<this same night> <pertaineth> to Yahweh, for solemn observances, <by all the sons of Israel, to their generations.>

And Yahweh said unto Moses and Aaron:

||This|| is the statute of the passover,— ||<No stranger> shall eat thereof; ||but every man's servant bought with silver,—<when thou hast circumcised him> ||then shall he eat thereof: ||<An alien> or ||a hirerling> ||shall not eat thereof. ||<In one house> shall it be eaten, thou shalt not take forth, <out of the house, any of the flesh; ||outside;> and a <bone thereof> shall thou not break. ||<All the assembly of Israel> shall keep it. ||And when there may sojourn with thee a sojourner who may wish to keep a passover to Yahweh> <there must be circumcised to him every male, and ||then|| may be draw near to keep it, so shall he be <as a native> of the land,—<but ||no uncircumcised male> shall eat thereof.>

<One law> shall there be for the native,—<and for the sojourner that sojourneth in your midst.>

Thus did all <the sons of Israel> ||<as Yahweh had commanded Moses and Aaron> ||so|| did they.

And it came to pass ||<on this self-same day> ||that Yahweh brought forth the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt, by their hosts.

§ 22. The Law of the Firstborn, and further Instructions as to the Passover.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

Hallow to me <every firstborn, that which any female first beareth, among the sons of Israel, among men and among beasts,—mine it is.>

And Moses said unto the people—

[Ye are] to remember this day, on which ye came forth out of Egypt, out of the house of slaves, that <<with strength of hand> did Yahweh bring you forth from hence,—<there shall not, therefore, be eaten anything leavened.> ||<To-day> are ye coming forth,—in the month Abib.>

And it shall be, <when Yahweh> shall bring thee into the land of the Canaanite, and the Amorite, and the Hivite... and the Jebusite, which he sware to thy fathers to give thee, a land flowing with milk and honey> then shalt thou serve with this service, in this month. 6 <Seven days> shalt thou eat unleavened cakes,—and <on the seventh day> [shall be] a festival to Yahweh. 7 |Unleavened cakes| shall be eaten for the seven days,—neither shall there be seen with thee anything leavened, nor shall there be seen with thee leaven, within any of thy bounds. 8 And thou shalt tell thy son, on that day, saying,— [This is] ||because| of that which Yahweh did for me, when he brought me forth out of Egypt.

9 And it shall be to thee for a sign upon thy hand, and for a memorial between thine eyes, in order that the law of Yahweh may be in thy mouth,—for <with a strong hand> did Yahweh bring thee forth out of Egypt. 10 So shalt thou observe this statute, in its appointed time,—from year to year. 11 And it shall be <when Yahweh> shall bring thee into the land of the Canaanite, as he sware to thee and to thy fathers,—and shall give it thee> 12 that thou shalt set apart whatsoever is born first, 4 to Yahweh; and <of all firstlings of beasts> which thou shalt have> ||the males| shall pertain to Yahweh. 13 But <every firstling of an ass> shalt thou redeem with a lamb* or <if thou wilt not redeem it> then thou shalt break its neck,—but <every firstborn of men among thy sons> shalt thou redeem.

14 And it shall be <when thy son shall ask thee, in time to come, saying, What is this?> Then shalt thou say unto him: <With strength of hand> did Yahweh bring us forth out of Egypt, out of the house of slaves. 15 And it came to pass <when Pharaoh had shown himself too hardened to let us go> then did Yahweh slay every firstborn in the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of men, even unto the firstborn of beasts. <For this cause> am ||I|| sacrificing to Yahweh whatsoever is born first, of the males, and <every firstborn of my sons> must I redeem. 16 And it shall be for a sign upon thy hand, and for frontlets between thine eyes,—that <with strength of hand> did Yahweh bring us forth out of Egypt.

§ 23. The Exodus completed; the Red Sea passed through; Pharaoh and his Host destroyed.

17 And it came to pass <when Pharaoh had let the people go> that God did not lead by the land-way of the Philistines, although it was near,—for God said—

Lost the people be dismayed when they see war, and turn back to Egypt.

18 So God took the people round the desert-way of the Red Sea,—and the sons of Israel went up ||armed| out of the land of Egypt.

19 And Moses took the bones of Joseph, with him,—for he had <taken an oath> of the sons of Israel, saying,

God will ||surely visit| you,* so then ye shall carry up my bones from hence, with you.

20 And they brake up from Succoth,—and encamped in Etham, at the edge of the desert.

21 Now ||Yahweh| was going before them,— <by day> in a pillar of cloud to lead them the way, and <by night> in a pillar of fire to give them light,—that they might journey day and night:

22 the pillar of cloud by day ceased not, nor the pillar of fire by night,—from before the people.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

3 Speak unto the sons of Israel, that they turn back and encamp before Pi-hahiroth, between Migdol and the sea,—before Baal-zephon, <over against it> shall ye encamp, by the sea.

3 Then will Pharaoh say, of the sons of Israel, <Entangled> they are in the land,—the desert hath closed in upon them.

4 So will I let the heart of Pharaoh wax bold, and he will pursue them, that I may get me honour over Pharaoh, and over all his forces, and the Egyptians shall know, that ||I|| am Yahweh.

And they did so.

5 And it was told the king of Egypt, that the people had fled,—and the heart of Pharaoh and his servants was turned against the people, and they said—

What is this we have done, that we have let Israel go from serving us?

6 So he yoked his chariot,—and <his people> took he with him. 7 And he took six hundred chosen chariots, and all the chariots of Egypt,—with warriors, in every one. 8 And Yahweh let the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt wax bold,* and he pursued the sons of Israel,—when ||the sons of Israel| were going out with a high hand.

9 So the Egyptians pursued them, and overtook them, encamping by the sea—all the horses and chariots of Pharaoh, and his horsemen, and his forces,—by Pi-hahiroth, before Baal-zephon.

10 Now <when ||Pharaoh| had drawn near> the sons of Israel lifted up their eyes, and lo! ||the Egyptians| moving along after them, and they feared greatly, and the sons of Israel made outcry unto Yahweh. 11 Then said they unto Moses,

Was it because there were no graves in Egypt, that thou didst fetch us to die in the desert? What is this thou hast done to us,* bringing us forth out of Egypt?
Is not this the word which we spake unto thee in Egypt, saying,
Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians,—for it is [better for us] to serve the Egyptians, than to die in the desert?

And Moses said unto the people—
Do not fear, stand still, and see the salvation of Yahweh, which he will work for you to-day,—for [as for the Egyptians whom ye have seen to-day] ye shall not again see them any more, to times age-abiding.

[Yahweh] will fight for you,—and [ye] shall [forbear].

And Yahweh said unto Moses,
What outcry wouldst thou make unto me? Speak unto the sons of Israel, that they go forward; and [thou] lift high thy staff, and stretch forth thy hand over the sea, and cleave it asunder,—that the sons of Israel may enter into the midst of the sea, on dry ground; 17 and [I] behold me, letting the heart of the Egyptians wax bold, that they may enter after them, that I may get me honour over Pharaoh, and over his forces, over his chariots, and over his horsemen. 18 And the Egyptians shall know, that [I] am Yahweh,—when I have gotten me honour over Pharaoh, and over his chariots, and over his horsemen.

And the messenger of God who was going on before the camp of Israel, removed, and came on behind them,—and the pillar of cloud removed from before them, and stood behind them; so it came in between the camp of the Egyptians, and the camp of Israel, so it became a cloud and darkness, and yet lighted up the night,—so that the one came not near unto the other, all the night.

And Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea, and Yahweh carried away the sea by a mighty east wind, all the night, and turned the sea into dry land,—and the waters were cloven asunder.

Then went the sons of Israel into the midst of the sea, on the dry ground,—and [the waters] [to them] were a wall, on their right hand, and on their left. 22 And the Egyptians pursued, and entered after them—all the horses of Pharaoh, his chariots and his horsemen,—into the midst of the sea.

And it came to pass [in the morning watch] that Yahweh looked down into the camp of the Egyptians, through the pillar of fire and cloud, and confused the camp of the Egyptians; 23 and he took off the wheels of their chariots, 4 and made them drive heavily,—so that the Egyptians said—

We must flee [from the face of Israel, for] [Yahweh] is fighting for them, against the Egyptians.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses,
Stretch forth thy hand over the sea,—that the waters may return upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots, and upon their horsemen.

So Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea, and the sea returned, towards morning, to its steady flow, when [the Egyptians] were fleeing to meet it,—thus Yahweh shook off the Egyptians into the midst of the sea; 25 thus the waters returned, and covered the chariots, and the horsemen, even all the forces of Pharaoh, that were entering after them into the sea,—there was not left remaining among them [so much as one]. 26 But [the sons of Israel] had gone their way on dry ground in the midst of the sea,—and [the waters] had been to them a wall, on their right hand and on their left.

Thus did Yahweh, on that day, save Israel, out of the hand of the Egyptians,—and Israel saw the Egyptians, dead on the shore 4 of the sea.

And [when Israel saw the mighty hand wherewith Yahweh had wrought against the Egyptians] then did the people revere Yahweh,—and they put their trust in Yahweh, and in Moses, his servant.

§ 24. Israel’s Song of Triumph.

1 [[Then]] sang Moses, and the sons of Israel, 15 this song unto Yahweh, and they spake, saying,—
I will sing to Yahweh, for he is exalted, exalted, 9—
<The horse and his rider> hath he cast into the sea.

3 [My might and] melody is Yah, And he became mine, by salvation, 4—
This is my God, and I will glorify him, The God of my father, and I will set him on high.

2 [Yahweh] is a warlike one,— <Yahweh> is his name.

4 [The chariots of Pharaoh and his train>] hath he cast into the sea,— Yea, [the choice of his warriors] were sunk in the Sod’ Sea.

5 [Roaring deeps] covered them,—
They went down, in the raging depths, like a stone.

6 [Thy right hand], O Yahweh, is splendid in power,— [Thy right hand], O Yahweh, dasheth in pieces a foe;
And [in the greatness of thine exaltation] dost thou tear down thine opposers,— Thou dost send forth thy wrath, it consumeth them, as straw;
And [with the blast of thy nostrils] heaped up are the waters,

§ 25. From the Red Sea to the Desert of Sin.

22 And Moses caused Israel to break up from the Red Sea, and they went out into the desert of Shur,—and journeyed three days in the desert, and found no water; 22 and, when they came in towards Marah, they could not drink the waters of Marah, for they were bitter,—<for this cause> was the name thereof called Marah.*

24 So the people murmured against Moses—saying,
What are we to drink?

25 And he made outcry unto Yahweh, and Yahweh pointed out a tree, and he cast it into the waters, and the waters became sweet,—
<There> he appointed him a statute and regulation,
And <there> he put him to the proof.

26 And he said:
<If thou wilt indeed hearken> to the voice of Yahweh thy God,
And <the thing that is right in his eyes> thou wilt do.
And so give ear to his commandments,
And keep all his statutes>
None of the sicknesses which I laid on the Egyptians will I lay upon thee,
For I will be Yahweh, thy physician.

27 Then came they in to Elim, and <there> were twelve fountains of water, and seventy palm-trees,—so they encamped there, by the waters.

1 Then moved they on from Elim, and all the assembly of the sons of Israel entered into the desert of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month, by their coming forth out of the land of Egypt.

2 Then did all the assembly of the sons of Israel murmur against Moses and against Aaron, in the desert; 3 and the sons of Israel said unto them—
Oh that we had died by the hand of Yahweh, in the land of Egypt, when we remained by the pot of flesh, when we did eat bread to the full,—for ye have brought us forth into this desert, to cause all this multitude to die by famine.

4 Then said Yahweh unto Moses,
Behold me! raining down for you bread out of heaven,—and the people shall go out and gather, <the portion> for a day> on its day, that I may prove them, whether they will walk in my law, or not.

5 And it shall come to pass <on the sixth day> that they shall settle what they shall bring in,—and it shall be twice as much as they gather day by day.

So Moses and Aaron said unto all the sons of Israel,---

At eventide then shall ye know that it was Yahweh who brought you forth, out of the land of Egypt; and in the morning shall ye see the glory of Yahweh, in that he hath heard your murmurings against Yahweh, what then are we that ye should murmur against us? And Moses said---

In that Yahweh giveth you in the evening flesh to eat, and bread in the morning, to the full, in that Yahweh heareth your murmurings, wherewith ye are murmuring against him what then are we? Not against us do ye murmur, but against Yahweh. And Moses said unto Aaron, Say unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, Draw near before Yahweh, for he hath heard your murmurings. And it came to pass, when Aaron spake unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, then turned they towards the desert, and lo! the glory of Yahweh had appeared in the cloud. Then spake Yahweh unto Moses saying, I have heard the murmurings of the sons of Israel, speak unto them saying---

Between the two evenings shall ye eat flesh, and in the morning shall ye be filled with bread, so shall ye know that I am your God. And it came to pass, in the evening, that there came up quail, and covered the camp, and in the morning was the outpouring of dew, round about the camp; and in the outpouring of dew went up then lo! on the face of the desert a thin flake, thin as hoar-frost, on the earth. And when the sons of Israel saw it, they said one to another, What is that? For they knew not what that was. Then said Moses unto them, That is the bread which Yahweh hath given you to eat. This is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded, Gather ye thereof, each man what he needeth for eating; an omer a head by the number of your souls, each man for them who are in his tent shall ye take. And the sons of Israel did so, and gathered, [some] more, and [some] less; and when they measured it with the omer he who had gathered more had nothing over, and he who had gathered less had no lack; each man, what he needed for eating did they gather. And Moses said unto them, Let no man leave thereof, until morning. But they hardened not unto Moses, but certain men left thereof until morning, and it swarmed with worms, and became loathsome, and Moses was wroth with them. Thus then they gathered it, morning by morning, each man what he needed for eating, and as soon as the sun waxed hot so soon it melted. And it came to pass, on the sixth day, that they gathered food twice as much, two omers for each one, so all the princes of the assembly came in, and told Moses. And he said unto them, That is what Yahweh spake. The observance of a holy sabbath to Yahweh is to morrow, what ye would bake, and what ye would boil, boil, and all that is left over put by you, to keep until the morning. So they put it by until the morning, as Moses had commanded, and it gave no unpleasant odour, neither was there a worm therein. Then said Moses, Eat ye it to day, for a sabbath is to day unto Yahweh, ye shall not find it in the field. Six days shall ye gather it, but on the seventh day a sabbath shall it not be therein. And it came to pass, on the seventh day, that there went forth some of the people to gather, but they found not. Then said Yahweh unto Moses, How long have ye refused to keep my commandments and my laws? See because Yahweh hath given you the sabbath for this cause is the giving you on the sixth day food for two days, abide ye every man in his place, let no man go forth from his dwelling, on the seventh day. So the people rested on the seventh day. And the house of Israel called the name thereof Manna, and the same was like coriander seed, white, and the taste thereof like flat-cake with honey. And Moses said, This is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded, Fill an omer therefrom, as a thing to be preserved, to your generations, that they may see the bread wherewith I fed you in the desert, when I brought you forth, out of the land of Egypt. So Moses said unto Aaron, Take a single basket, and put therein an omer-full of manna, and set it down before Yahweh, as a thing to be preserved, to your generations. As Yahweh gave command unto Moses, so did Aaron set it down before the testimony, as a thing to be preserved. And the sons of Israel did eat the manna forty years, until they entered into the land wherein they were to dwell, they did eat until they entered into the bounds of the land of Canaan. 36 Now [an omer] is the tenth of the ephah."

§ 27. Water from the Rock at Rephidim.

1 And all the assembly of the sons of Israel set forward out of the desert of Sin, by their re-movings, at the bidding of Yahweh,—and encamped in Rephidim, and there was no water for the people to drink. 2 And the people found fault with Moses, and said—

Give us water, that we may drink.
And Moses said to them,
Why should ye find fault with me? Why should ye put Yahweh to the proof?
3 So the people thirsted, there, for water, and the people murmured against Moses,—and said—
Wherefore is it that thou hast brought us up out of Egypt, to kill me and my sons, and my cattle, with thirst?
4 And Moses made outcry unto Yahweh, saying, What am I to do, with this people? <Yet a little> and they will stone me.
5 Then said Yahweh unto Moses—
Pass over before the people, and take, with thee, some of the elders of Israel,—<thy staff also, wherewith thou didst smite the river> take thou in thy hand, so shalt thou go thy way.
6 Behold me! standing before thee, there, upon the rock in Horeb, then shalt smite the rock, and there shall come forth therefrom water, and the people shall drink.
And Moses did so, in the sight of the elders of Israel.
7 So he called the name of the place, Massah 3 and Meribah, 4 because of the fault-finding of the sons of Israel, and because of their putting Yahweh to the proof, saying, Is Yahweh in our midst, or is he not?

§ 28. War with Amalek.

8 Then came in Amalek,—and fought with Israel, in Rephidim.
9 And Moses said unto Joshua—
Choose for us men, and go forth, fight with Amalek,—<to-morrow> am I stationing myself upon the top of the hill, with the staff of God in my hand.
10 So Joshua did, as Moses had said to him, to fight with Amalek,—and [Moses, Aaron and Hur] went up to the top of the hill.
11 And it shall be <when Moses shall lift up his hands> then shall Israel prevail.

12 But [the hands of Moses] were weary, 5 so they took a stone, and put under him, and he sat thereupon,—and [Aaron and Hur] upheld his hands—<on this side> one, and <on that side> one, and so his hands became steady, until the going in of the sun. 13 So Joshua overthrew Amalek and his people, with the edge of the sword.
14 Then said Yahweh unto Moses—
Write this as a remembrance in a book, 6 and rehearse it in the ears of Joshua,—that I will wipe out the remembrance of Amalek, from under the heavens.
15 And Moses built an altar,—and called the name thereof, Yahweh-nissi. 7 16 And he said—<Because of a hand against the throne of Yah> 8 Yahweh hath war with Amalek,—from generation to generation!

§ 29. The Visit of Jethro, Moses' Father-in-law.

1 And Jethro, priest of Midian, father-in-law of Moses, heard all that God had done for Moses, and for Israel his people,—in that Yahweh had brought forth Israel out of Egypt.
2 So Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, took Zipporah, Moses' wife,—after she had been sent home; 3 and her two sons,—of whom [the name of the one] was Gershom, 4 for, said he, 5 <An sojourner> am I in a strange land, and [the name of the other] Elizer, 5 for [The God of my father] was my help, and delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh.
3 And Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, came in, with his two sons and his wife, unto Moses,—into the desert where [he] was encamping, the mountain of God; 4 and said unto Moses, [I, thy father-in-law, Jethro,] am coming in unto thee,—and thy wife, and her two sons, with her.

7 So Moses went forth to meet his father-in-law, and bowed himself down to him, and kissed him, and they asked each other of their welfare,—and came into the tent. 8 Then Moses recounted to his father-in-law, all that Yahweh had done to Pharaoh, and to the Egyptians, for Israel's sake,—all the hardship which had befallen them by the way, and how Yahweh had delivered' them. 9 Then did Jethro rejoice, for all the good which Yahweh had done to Israel,—whom he had delivered out of the hand of the Egyptians. 10 And Jethro said—

Blessed be Yahweh, who hath delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of Pharaoh,—
Who hath delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians:
||Now I know, that ||greater|| is Yahweh than all the gods,—
||Even in the thing wherein they were arrogant over them||.
11 Then took Jethro, father-in-law of Moses, an ascending-offering and sacrifices* to God,—and Aaron and all the elders of Israel came in, to eat bread with the father-in-law of Moses before God.
12 Now it came to pass <on the morrow> that Moses sat, to judge the people,—and the people stood by Moses, from the morning until* the evening. 14 And <when Moses' father-in-law saw all that ||he|| was doing for the people> he said—
What is this thing which ||thou|| art doing for the people? Wherefore art ||thou|| sitting [alone], with ||all the people|| stationed by thee, from morning until* evening?
15 And Moses said to his father-in-law,—
Because the people come in unto me, to seek God:
16 <When they have a matter> they come in unto me, then do I judge between a man and his neighbour,—and make known the statutes of God, and his laws.
17 Then said Moses' father-in-law unto him,—
||Not good|| is the thing that thou' art doing.
Thou wilt get ||quite worn out|| both thou, and this people that is with thee,—for the thing is ||too heavy|| for thee; thou canst not do it, [alone].
19 ||Now|| hearken thou to my voice—let me counsel thee, and may God be with thee:—
Be ||thou|| for ||the people|| in front of God, so shalt ||thou|| bring the matters unto God; and shalt cause to shine upon them, the statutes and the laws,—and make known to them the way wherein they should go, and the work they should do.
21 ||Thou thyself|| therefore, shalt look out, from among all the people—men of ability, reverers of God, men of fidelity, haters of extortion,—and place [them] over them as rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens. 22 So shall they judge the people at any time, and it shall be, <all the great matters> shall they bring in unto thee, but <all the small matters> shall they themselves judge,—so, lighten thou the burden for thyself, and let them bear it with thee.
23 <If ||this thing|| thou wilt do, and God shall command' thee> then shalt thou be able to endure,—yes [moreover] all this people shall go in unto their dwellings contented.a 24 So Moses hearkened to the voice of his father-in-law, and did all that he had said;

and Moses chose men of ability out of all Israel, and set them to be heads over the people,—rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens.
25 And they shall judge the people, at any time,—<the hard matters> shall they bring in unto Moses, but <all the small matters> shall they themselves judge.b
27 And Moses sent forth his father-in-law,—and he went his way by himself, unto his own land.

§ 30. The Arrival at Sinai: Israel invited to enter into Covenant.
1 <In the third month, by the coming forth of the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt> ||on this day|| came they into the desert of Sinai:
2 then was it that they brake up out of Rephidim, and came into the desert of Sinai, and encamped in the desert,—yea Israel encamped there, before the mountain. 3 And <when Moses> had gone up unto God> then called Yahweh unto him, out of the mountain, saying,
||Thus|| shalt thou say to the house of Jacob, And tell the sons of Israel:
4 ||Ye|| have seen, what I did unto the Egyptians,—
And how I bare you upon wings of eagles, And brought you in, unto myself:—
5 ||Now||, therefore <if ye will> ||indeed hearken|| to my voice, And keep my covenant> Then shall ye be mine, as a treasure beyond all the peoples,
For <mine> is all the earth;c
6 But ||ye|| shall be mine, As a kingdom of priests, And a holy nation.
||These|| are the words, which thou shalt speak unto the sons of Israel.
7 Then came Moses, and called for the elders of the people,—and put before them all these words, which Yahweh had commanded him. 8 And all the people responded together, and said,
<All that Yahweh hath spoken> will we do. And Moses took back the words of the people, unto Yahweh.
9 Then said Yahweh unto Moses:
Lo! ||I|| am coming unto thee in the veiling of cloud, in order that the people may hear when I speak with thee,4 moreover also that ||in thee|| they may trust5 to times age-abiding.
Then told Moses the words of the people, unto *c A very beautiful testimony to God's regard for the whole world.

*d Hence an argument that verse 19 gives the responsible setting of the Ten Commandments.
*e John v. 45.
And Yahweh said unto Moses—

Go unto the people, and thou shalt hallow them to-day, and to-morrow, and they shall wash their clothes; and shall be ready, by the third day, when Yahweh shall show them in the sight of all the people, upon Mount Sinai. So then thou shalt set bounds for the people round about, saying, Take heed to yourselves—that ye go not up into the mountain, nor touch the boundary thereof;—[22] whosever toucheth the mountain shall surely die. No hand shall touch it, but he shall be surely stoned, or be surely shot through: whether of man or beast, he shall not live;—<When the ram's horn sounded> they themselves shall come up within the mount. Then Moses went down out of the mount unto the people, and hallowed the people, and they washed their clothes. And he said unto the people, Be ready, by the third day, do not approach a woman.

And it came to pass, when the morning had come, that there were thunberings and lightnings, and a heavy cloud upon the mount, and the sound of a horn, loud exceedingly, and all the people who were in the camp trembled. And Moses brought forth the people, to meet God, out of the camp, and they stationed themselves in the lower part of the mount. And Mount Sinai smoketh all over, because Yahweh had come down thereon; in fire, and the smoke thereof went up as the smoke of a furnace, and all the mountain trembled exceedingly. And <as oft as the sound of the horn went on and became exceeding loud> Moses spake and God responded to him with a voice. Thus came Yahweh down upon Mount Sinai unto the top of the mount, and Yahweh called Moses unto the top of the mount, and Moses went up! Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Go down, adjure the people, lest they press through unto Yahweh, to see, and so there fall among them a multitude.

Yea <even the priests> who do come approach unto Yahweh must hallow themselves, lest Yahweh break in upon them.

And Moses said unto Yahweh, The people cannot come up into Mount Sinai, for thou thyself hast adjured us, saying:

Set bounds to the mountain and hallow it.

Away, down! then shalt thou come up, thou and Aaron with thee, but <as for the priests> and the people let it not be that they press through to come up unto Yahweh, lest he break in upon them.

So Moses went down unto the people, and said [these things] unto them.

1 And God spake all these words, saying:—

2 I am Yahweh thy God, who have brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants:

3 Thou shalt not have other gods, besides me.

4 Thou shalt not make to thee an image, or any form, that is in the heavens above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the waters, beneath the earth: thou shalt not bow thyself down to them, nor be led to serve them. For I, Yahweh thy God, am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of fathers, upon sons, unto three generations and unto four, of them that hate me; but showing lovingkindness unto thousands of generations, of them who love me, and keep my commandments.

7 Thou shalt not utter the name of Yahweh thy God, for falsehood; for Yahweh will not let him go unpunished who uttereth his name for falsehood.

5 Remember the sabbath day, to hallow it:

Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work; but the seventh day is a sabbath unto Yahweh thy God; thou shalt do no work: [thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy handmaid, nor thy beast, nor thy sojourner who is within thy gates.]

11 For in six days did Yahweh make the heavens and the earth, [and] the sea—and all that is in them is, and rested on the seventh day, <for this cause> Yahweh blessed the sabbath day and hallowed it.

Honour thy father, and thy mother, that thy days may be prolonged upon the soil, which Yahweh thy God is about to give unto thee.

Thou shalt not commit murder.

Thou shalt not commit adultery.

Thou shalt not steal.
Thou shalt not testify* against thy neighbour, with a witness of falsehood.

Thou shalt not covet, thy neighbour's house,—thou shalt not covet, thy neighbour's wife, nor his servant,* nor his handmaid, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor anything which belongeth unto thy neighbour.

§ 32. The People are terrified, and prevail on Moses to hear God in their stead.

And [all the people] were witnessing the voices and the torches, 4 and the sound of the horn, and the mountain smoking,—so then the people were struck with awe 5 and shrank back, and stood afar off. 19 And they said unto Moses,

Speak thou with us, and we will hear,—but let not God speak' with us; lest we die.

And Moses said unto the people—

Do not fear, for <to the end he may prove you> hath God come,—and to the end the reverence of him may be upon your faces, that ye sin not.

So then the people stood afar off,—and [Moses] approached unto the thick gloom, where God was.

§ 33. Transitional Warnings against Idolatry, and Instructions as to Divine Worship.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses,

|| Thus| shalt thou say, unto the sons of Israel,—

|| Ye yourselves| have seen that <out of the heavens> have I spoken with you.

Ye shall not make [sought] beside me,— <neither gods of silver, nor gods of gold> shall ye make to yourselves.

<An altar of earth> shalt thou make to me, then shalt thou offer thereupon thine ascending-sacrifices, and thy peace-offerings, thy sheep, and thine oxen. 24

<In every place where I may mention my name> will I come in unto thee, and will bless thee.

But <if [an altar of stones]> thou wilt make to me—thou shalt not build them hewn,—for <as soon as thou hast lifted [thy sharp tool] thereupon> thou hast profaned it;* neither shalt thou go up <by steps> unto mine altar,—lest by any means thy shame be discovered thereupon.

Now ||these|| are the regulations which thou shalt put before them.

10 [When a man delivereth unto his neighbour, an ass, or an ox, or a sheep,* or any beast [to keep],—and it dieth, or is fractured, or is driven away, no one beholding> 11 "the oath of Yahweh" shall come between them both. That he hath not laid his hand on the property of his neighbour,—then shall the owner thereof accept it, and he shall not make restitution. 13 But if it be verily stolen from him he shall make restitution to the owner thereof. 14 If it be verily torn in pieces[he shall bring it in as a witness,—<for that which was torn> he shall not make restitution. 14 And when a man asketh aught of his neighbour, and it is fractured or dieth, [his owner] not being with it[he shall surely make restitution]. 15 If [his owner] was with it[he shall not make restitution,—<if it is hired> it cometh into its hire. 16 And when a man entioeth a virgin who is not betrothed, and lieth with her[he shall surely pay a purchase-price] that she may be his wife. 17 If her father utterly refuse to give her to him<silver> shall he weigh out, according to the purchase-price of virgins. 18 A sorceress shall thou not suffer to live. 19 Whosoever lieth with a beast[shall surely be put to death]. 20 He that sacrificeth to the gods shall be devoted to destruction,—except he sacrificeth to Yahweh alone. 21 And a sojourner shall thou not tread down, neither shall thou drive him away,—for sojourners ye became in the land of Egypt. 22 Neither widow nor fatherless shall thou humble: 23 if thou do humble him[when he in anywise crieth out unto me] I will surely hear his outcry; 24 so shall kindle mine anger, and I will slay you with the sword,—and your [wives] shall become [widows], and your [sons] [fatherless]. 25 If [silver] thou wilt lend unto my people—unto the humbled one by thee thou shalt not be to him like one that lendeth on interest,—thou shalt not lay upon him' interest. 26 If thou do take in pledge the mantle of thy neighbour> [by the going in of the sun] shalt thou restore it to him; 27 for that is his only covering, [that] is his mantle, for his skin,—wherein shall he sleep? and it shall come to pass, <when he maketh outcry unto me> then will I hear, because [gracious] I am. 28 God> shall thou not revile,—and a prince among thy people> shall thou not curse. 29 Thy fulness and thine outflow shall thou not delay,—<the firstborn of thy sons> shall thou give to me. 30 Thus shall thou do with thine ox, with thy sheep,—<seven days> shall it be with its dam, <on the eighth day> shall thou give it to me. 31 Holy men therefore, shall ye truly become to me,—and flesh in the field torn to pieces> shall ye not eat, <to the dogs> shall ye cast it. 1 Thou shalt not utter a false report. Do not lay thy hand with a lawless man, to become a witness helping forward violence and wrong. 2 Thou shalt not follow multitudes to commit wickedness,—neither shalt thou answer* in a quarrel, so as to turn away after multitudes, to mislead. 3 Even a poor man> shalt thou not prefer in his quarrel. 4 When thou meetest the ox of thine enemy, or his ass, going astray thou shalt surely bring it back to him. 5 When thou seest the ass of him that hateth thee, sinking down under his burden, and mightest have foreborne to unload him thou shalt surely help him to unload. 6 Thou shalt not pervert the vindication of thy needy one, in his quarrel. 7 From a matter of falsehood thou shalt keep far away,—and the innocent one and the righteous do not thou slay, for I will not justify a lawless man. 8 And a bribe shall thou not take,—for [the bribe] blindeth the clear-sighted, and perverteth the words of the righteous. 9 And a sojourner shall thou not drive away,—seeing that [ye yourselves] know the soul of a sojourner; for sojourners became ye in the land of Egypt. 10 And six years shalt thou sow thy land,—and shalt gather the yield thereof; but the seventh year shalt thou let it rest and be still, so shall the needy of thy people eat, and what they leave shall the wild-beast of the field eat,—<in like manner> shalt thou deal with thy vineyard, with thine oliveyard. 12 Six days shalt thou do thy work, but <on the seventh day> shalt thou keep sabbath,—that thine ox may rest, and thine ass, and that the son of thy handmaid, and the sojourner, may be refreshed. 13 And in all that I have said unto thee> shalt thou take heed to thyself,—and the name of other gods shall thou not mention, it shall not be heard upon thy mouth. 14 <Three times> shalt thou keep festival to me in the year. 15 The festival of unleavened cakes shall thou keep,—seven days shalt thou eat unleavened cakes, as I commanded thee, at the appointed time of the month Abib; for <therein> camest thou forth out of Egypt,—and they shall not see my face empty-handed. 15 And the festival of harvest, with the firstfruits of thy labours, which thou shalt sow in the field. And the festival of ingathering—at the out-going of the year, when thou hast gathered in thy labours, out of the field. 17 Three times in the year shall all thy males see the face of the Lord Yahweh. 18 Thou shalt not offer with anything leavened the blood of my sacrifice, neither shalt thou offer the fat of my festival-sacrifice remain until morning. 19 The beginning of the firstfruits of thy ground shalt thou bring into the house of Yahweh thy God. Thou shalt not boil a kid in the milk of its dam. 20

Lo! I am sending a messenger before thee, to guard thee in the way, and to bring thee into the place which I have prepared. 21 Take thou heed of his presence, and hearken to his voice—do not vex him, for he will not pardon thy transgression, for my name is within him. 22 But if thou wilt indeed hearken to his voice, and so wilt do all that I may speak then will I be an enemy to thine enemies, and an adversary to thine adversaries; 23 for my messenger shall go before thee, and bring thee in unto the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Canaanite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite, so will I destroy them. 24 Thou shalt not bow thine self down to their gods, neither shalt thou bow to serve them, neither shalt thou do according to their works, but thou shalt utterly overthrow them, and completely break in pieces their pillars. 25 So shall ye serve Yahweh your God, and he will bless thy bread, and thy water, and I will take away sickness out of thy midst. 26 There shall be nothing casting its young or barren, in thy land, the number of thy days will I make full. 27 My terror will I send before thee, and will confound all the people, amongst whom thou shalt come, and will deliver up all thine enemies unto thee as they flee. 28 And I will send the hornet, before thee,—and it shall drive out the Hivite, the Canaanite, and the Hittite, from before thee. 29 I will not drive them out from before thee, in one year, lest the land should become a desolation, so would the wild-beast of the field multiply over thee. 30 Little by little I will drive them out from before thee, until thou become fruitful, and shalt thou take possession of the land. 31 So will I set thy bounds from the Red Sea, even unto the sea of the Philistines, and from the desert unto the River (Euphrates), for I will deliver into your hand the inhabitants of the land, so shalt thou drive them out from before thee. 32 Thou shalt not make, with them or with their gods a covenant: they shall not dwell in thy land, lest they cause thee to sin against me, for thou mightiest serve their gods, verily! it would become to thee a snare! 33

§ 35. The Covenant finally ratified. 34 And unto Moses he said— Come up unto Yahweh—unto me, and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel—so ye shall bow yourselves down, from afar. And Moses alone shall draw near unto Yahweh, but they shall not draw near, and the people shall not come up with him. 35 So Moses came, and recounted to the people all the words of Yahweh, and all the regulations, and all the people responded with one voice, and said, All the words which Yahweh hath spoken will we do. 36 Then wrote Moses all the words of Yahweh, and rose up early in the morning, and builded an altar, under the mountain, and twelve pillars, for the twelve tribes of Israel; and he sent young men of the sons of Israel, and they caused to go up, ascending-sacrifices, and also peace-offerings to Yahweh, of oxen. Then took Moses half of the blood, and put it in basins, and half of the blood dashed he over the altar; then took he the book of the covenant, and read in the ears of the people. And they said, All the words which Yahweh hath spoken will we do, and will hearken. 37 Then Moses took the blood, and dashed over the people, and said, Lo! the blood of the covenant which Yahweh hath solemnised with you, over all these words. 38 Generally understood by the Heb. hândâdâ here used. Some cod. (w. J.m. and 1 earr. pr. edn.) "all the —G.h. Probably by the words here we should understand the ten commands and by the regulations the super-added body of fundamental legislation contained in chapters xxi—xxiii. And so, all Israel appears as yet in the character of a nation of priests. The sacrifices, too, are those alone of devotion and friendship. Or: "scroll." Or: "upon the basis of."
Then went up Moses and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel; and they saw the God of Israel, and under his feet was like a pavement of sapphire, and like the very heavens for brightness; and against the nobles of the sons of Israel put he not forth his hand, so then they had vision of God, and did eat and drink.

§ 36. By Divine Command, Moses, attended by Joshua only, ascends Mount Sinai to receive the Two Tables and further Laws; and remains in the Mountain forty Days and forty Nights.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses:
Come thou up unto me, in the mountain, and remain thou there, for I must give thee tables of stone, and the law, and the commandment, which I have written, to direct them.

And Moses rose up, and Joshua his attendant, and Moses went up into the mountain of God;
but unto the elders he said:
Tarry for us here, until we return unto you.
And lo! [Aaron and Hur] are with you, [he that hath a cause] let him draw near unto them.

So then Moses went up into the mountain, and the cloud covered the mountain. And the glory of Yahweh rested upon Mount Sinai, and the cloud covered it six days, then called he unto Moses, on the seventh day, out of the midst of the cloud. And the appearance of the glory of Yahweh was like a consuming fire on the top of the mountain, in the sight of the sons of Israel. And Moses entered into the midst of the cloud, and ascended into the mountain. And it came to pass that Moses was in the mountain forty days and forty nights.

§ 37. Moses is instructed to make a Sanctuary, and holy Garments; and to consecrate Aaron and his Sons to minister as Priests.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:
Speak unto the sons of Israel, that they take for me a heave-offering, of every man whose heart urgeth him shall ye take my heave-offering.

And this is the heave-offering which ye shall take of them, gold and silver, and bronze, and blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine linen, and goat’s hair; and rams’ skins dyed red, and badgers’ skins.

a Did they actually see more than what was under the feet of the God of Israel? The sacred reserve of the description is at once poetically grand and surprisingly impressive.

8 oil for giving light—perfumes for the anointing oil, and for fragrant incense; onyx stones, and setting stones, for the ephod and for the breastpiece:

So they shall make for me a sanctuary, and I will make my habitation in their midst:

And they shall make an ark of acacia wood, two cubits and a half: the length thereof, and a cubit and a half: the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half: the height thereof. And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold, within and without shalt thou overlay it, and thou shalt make thereon a rim of gold round about. And thou shalt cast for it four rings of gold, and shalt put them on the four feet thereof, even two rings on the one side thereof, and two rings on the other side thereof. And thou shalt make staves of acacia wood, and shalt overlay them, with gold. And thou shalt bring in the staves, into the rings, on the sides of the ark, to bear the ark therewith. In the rings of the ark shall remain the staves, they shall not be removed therefrom. And thou shalt put into the ark—the testimony of which I will give unto thee, and thou shalt make a propitiatory of pure gold, two cubits and a half: the length thereof, and a cubit and a half: the breadth thereof. And thou shalt make two cherubim, of gold, of beaten work shalt thou make them, out of the two ends of the propitiatory. And thou shalt put the propitiatory upon the ark, above, and in the ark shalt thou put the testimony, which I will give unto thee. And I will meet with thee there, and will speak with thee from off the propitiatory, from between the two cherubim, which are upon the ark of the testimony, whatsoever I may give thee in charge, for the sons of Israel.

And thou shalt make a table, of acacia wood,—

<adjoining the border> shall be the rings,—as receptacles for the staves, for lifting the table; 28 and thou shalt make the staves of acacia wood, and shall overlay them, with gold,—and the table shall be lifted therewith; 29 and thou shalt make its diaphes, and its pangs, and its basins, and its bowls, for pouring out therewith,—<of pure gold> shalt thou make them. 30 And thou shalt place upon the table—Presence-bread, before me continually.

And thou shalt make a lampstand of pure gold,—<of beaten work> shall the lampstand be made,* even its base and its shaft, its cups, its apples, and its blossoms, of the same shall be; 32 with six branches coming out of its sides,—three branches of the lampstand out the one's side thereof, and three branches of the lampstand out of the other's side thereof: 33 three cups like almond-flowers, in the one branch—apple and blossoms, and three cups like almond-flowers, in the other branch—apple and blossoms. 34 And in the lampstand itself four cups,—like almond-flowers—its apples, and its blossoms; 35 and an apple] under two branches, of the same, and another apple] under two other branches, of the same, and another apple] under two other branches, of the same,—for the six branches, coming out of the lampstand: 36 their apples and their branches of the same shall be,—<all of it> of one beaten work, of pure gold. 37 And thou shalt make the lamps thereof, seven,—and one shall light up 4 its lamps, and it shall give light, over against the face thereof. 38 And its snuffers, and its snuff-trays of pure gold. 39 With a talent* of pure gold shall he* make it,—with all these vessels. 40 And see thou, and make them,—by the pattern of them, which thou wast caused to behold in the mount.

A weight equal to 8,000 shekels of the sanctuary.

1 Also || the habitation shall thou make, with 36 ten curtains,—of twined linen, and blue, and purple, and crimson, <with cherubim, the work of a skilful weaver> shalt thou make them. 2 || The length of each' curtain twenty-eight cubits, and || the breadth four cubits, of each' curtain,—<one measure, for all the curtains>. 3 || The five curtains shall be joined, one to another,—<and || the other five curtains joined, one to another. And thou shalt make loops of blue, on the border of each curtain, at the edge of the set,—<and thus> shalt thou do in the border of the curtain, that is outmost in the second set: 5 <fifty loops> shalt thou make, in the one curtain, and <fifty loops> shalt thou make, in the edge of the curtain which is in the second set,—the loops being opposite, one to another. 6 And thou shalt make, fifty clasps of gold, to shalt thou join the curtains, one to another, with the clasps, and thus shall the habitation be || one.

And thou shalt make curtains of goat's hair, for a tent, over the habitation. 7 ||eleven curtains> shalt thou make them. 8 || The length of each' curtain thirty cubits, and || the breadth four cubits, of each' curtain,—<one measure> to the eleven curtains. 9 And thou shalt join the five curtains by themselves, and the six curtains by themselves,—and thou shalt fold back the sixth curtain, in the forefront of the tent. 10 And thou shalt make fifty loops on the border of the one' curtain, that is outmost in the set,—and fifty loops on the border of the curtain, of the second set. 11 And thou shalt make fifty clasps of bronze,—<and bring> the clasps into the loops, so shalt thou join the tent, and it shall be || one. 12 And <the uppermost part of the curtains of the tent,—the half curtain that remaineth> shall hang over at the back of the habitation. 13 And || the curtain on the one side, and the curtain on the other side, of that which remaineth, in the length of the curtains of the tent shall be hung over the sides of the habitation, on this side and on that side, to make a covering.

And thou shalt make a covering, for the tent, of rams' skins dyed red,—and a covering of badgers' skins [above]. 14 And thou shalt make boards, for the habitation,—of acacia wood, to stand up: 15 ten cubits] the length of the board,—<and || a cubit and a half cubit> the breadth of each' board; 17 two tenons] to each' board, united one to another,—<and thus> shalt thou make, for all the boards of the habitation. 19 So then thou shalt make the boards for the habitation,—twenty boards, on the south side, southwards. 19 And <forty sockets> shall thou make, under the twenty
And thou shalt make the altar of acacia wood, of five cubits length, and five cubits breadth, four square. Shall the altar be, and three cubits the height thereof. And thou shalt make its horns upon its four corners, of the same shall it be its horns, and thou shalt overlay it with copper.

And thou shalt make its pans for removing its ashes, and its shovels, and its sprinkling bowls, and its flesh-hooks, and its fire-pans, shall thou make of bronze. And thou shalt make to it a grating, a network of bronze, and thou shalt make, upon the network, four rings of bronze, upon the four corners thereof. And thou shalt place it under the margin of the altar, beneath, so shall the network reach unto the midst of the altar. And thou shalt make staves for the altar, staves of acacia wood, and shall overlay them with copper.

And the staves shall be brought into the rings, so shall the staves be on the two sides of the altar, in lifting it. Hollow, with boards shalt thou make it, as it was showed thee in the mount.

And thou shalt make the court of the habitation, of the south side southward hangings for the court, of fine-twined linen, a hundred cubits in length, on the one side; and the pillars thereof, twenty, with their sockets twenty, of bronze; and the hooks of the pillars and their cross-rod's of silver. And for the north side, in length, hangings, a hundred cubits, and the pillars thereof twenty, and their sockets twenty, of bronze, and the hooks of the pillars and their cross-rod's of silver. And the breadth of the court, on the west side, hangings, fifty cubits, their pillars ten, and their sockets ten. And the breadth of the court, on the east side eastward, fifty cubits; and fifteen cubits the hangings for the side-piece, their pillars three, and their sockets three; and for the second side-piece fifteen hangings, their pillars three, and their sockets three. And for the gate of the court a screen of twenty cubits, of blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine-twined linen, the work of an embroiderer. And thou shalt make, for the screen, five pillars of acacia, and shall overlay them with gold, and their hooks shall be of gold, and thou shalt cast for them, five sockets of bronze.

And thou shalt make the altar of acacia wood, of five cubits length, and five cubits breadth, four square. Shall the altar be, and three cubits the height thereof. And thou shalt make its horns upon its four corners, of the same shall it be its horns, and thou shalt overlay it with copper. And thou shalt make its pans for removing its ashes, and its shovels, and its sprinkling bowls, and its flesh-hooks, and its fire-pans, shall thou make of bronze. And thou shalt make to it a grating, a network of bronze, and thou shalt make, upon the network, four rings of bronze, upon the four corners thereof. And thou shalt place it under the margin of the altar, beneath, so shall the network reach unto the midst of the altar. And thou shalt make staves for the altar, staves of acacia wood, and shall overlay them with copper. And the staves shall be brought into the rings, so shall the staves be on the two sides of the altar, in lifting it: Hollow, with boards shalt thou make it, as it was showed thee in the mount.

five cubits, of fine-twined linen,—and their sockets, of bronze. 19 All the utensils of the habitation, throughout all the service thereof,—and all the pins thereof, and all the pins of the court> of bronze.

20 [Thou thyself]| therefore, shalt command the sons of Israel, that they bring unto thee—pure, beaten olive-oil, for giving light,—that the lamp may lift up its flame |continually|. 21 [In the tent of meeting, outside the veil which is by the testimony| shalt Aaron and his sons order it, from evening until morning, before Yahweh,—a statute age-abiding, to their generations, from the sons of Israel.

28 1 [Thou thyself]| therefore, bring near unto thee—Aaron thy brother, and his sons with him, out of the midst of the sons of Israel, that they may minister as priests unto me,—Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar, sons of Aaron. 2 And thou shalt make holy garments for Aaron thy brother,—for glory and for beauty. 3 [Thou thyself]| therefore, shalt speak unto all the wise-hearted, whom I have filled with the spirit of wisdom,—and they shall make Aaron’s garments, to hallow him for ministering as priest unto me. 4 [These]| therefore, are the garments which they shall make—a breastpiece, and an ephod, and a robe, and a tunic of checker work, a turban and a girdle,—so shall they make holy garments, for Aaron thy brother, and for his sons, for ministering as priests unto me. 5 [They themselves]| therefore, shall take the gold, and the blue, and the purple,—and the crimson, and the fine linen.

6 And they shall make the ephod,—of gold, blue and purple, crimson and fine-twined linen, the work of a skilful weaver. 7 Two joining shoulderpieces shall there be to it, upon the two extremities thereof, that it may be joined together. 8 And the curious band for fastening it, that is upon it, <like the work thereof, of the same> shall it be,—of gold, blue and purple and crimson, and fine-twined linen. 9 And thou shalt take two onyx stones,—and engrave upon them, the names of the sons of Israel; 10 six of their names| on the one stone, and the names of the six that remain| on the second stone, according to their births: 11 <with the work of a stone engraver, like seal-rim engravings> shalt thou engrave the two stones, after the names of the sons of Israel,—<to be encircled with settings of gold> shalt thou make them. 12 And thou shalt put the two stones, upon the shoulderpieces of the ephod, as stones of memorial, for the sons of Israel,—so shall Aaron bear their names before Yahweh, upon his two shoulders, for a memorial. 13 And thou shalt make ouches| of gold; 14 and two chains of pure gold, <like cord> shalt thou make them, |of reed work;|—and thou shalt put the reed chains on the ouches.

15 And thou shalt make a breastpiece for giving sentence, the work of a skilful weaver, <like the work of the ephod> shalt thou make it,—<of gold, blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine-twined linen> shalt thou make it. 16 Four-square shall it be, double,—a span the length thereof, and a span the breadth thereof. 17 And thou shalt set therein, a setting of stones; ||four rows of stones, ||one row—a sardius, a topaz, and an emerald, ||the first row; 18 and ||the second row—a carbuncle, a sapphire, and a diamond; 19 and ||the third row—an opal, an agate, and an amethyst; 20 and ||the fourth row—a Tarashish stone, a sardonyx, and a jasper,—<enclosed with gold> shall they be when they are set. 21 And ||the stones shall be, after the names of the sons of Israel—||Twelve, after their names,—<as the engravings of a seal ring—every one, after his name> shall they be, ||for the twelve tribes. 22 And thou shalt make, upon the breastpiece, chains like cords, of reed work,—of pure gold.

23 And thou shalt make, upon the breastpiece, two rings of gold,—and thou shalt place the two rings, upon the two ends of the breastpiece. 24 And thou shalt hang the two reed chains of gold upon the two rings,—upon the ends of the breastpiece; and <the other two ends of the two reed chains> shalt thou fasten upon the two ouches,—so shalt thou hang them upon the shoulderpieces of the ephod, in the forefront thereof. 25 And thou shalt make two rings of gold, and put them on the two ends of the breastpiece—upon the border thereof, which is on the side of the ephod, inwards. 26 And thou shalt make two rings of gold, and place them upon the two shoulderpieces of the ephod, beneath, on the front of the face thereof, over against its joining,—above the curious band of the ephod; 27 that they may bind the breastpiece, by the rings thereof, unto the rings of the ephod, with a cord of blue, so that it may remain upon the curious band of the ephod,—and the breastpiece not be removed from off the ephod. 28 So shall Aaron bear the names of the sons of Israel, in the breastpiece for giving sentence, upon his heart, when he goeth into the holy place,—for a memorial before Yahweh, continually.

1 And [this] is the thing which thou shalt do to them, to hallow them, that they may minister as priests unto me. — Take one young bullock, and two rams, without defect; and bread unleavened, and cakes unleavened with oil poured over, and wafers unleavened, anointed with oil, — of fine wheaten meal shalt thou make them; and thou shalt place them in one basket, and bring them near in the basket, — and the bullock, and the two rams. And <Aaron and his sons> shalt thou bring near, unto the opening of the tent of meeting, — and shalt bathe them in water. And thou shalt take the garments, and clothe Aaron — with the tunic, and with the robe of the ephod, and with the ephod, and with the breastpiece, — and shalt gird him with the curious band of the ephod; and shalt put the turban upon his head, — and place the holy crown upon the turban. Then shalt thou take the anointing oil, and pour upon his head, — so shalt thou anoint him.

8 <His sons also> shalt thou bring near, — and clothe them with tunics; — and thou shalt gird them with girdles. Aaron and his sons, and twist round for them caps, so shall they have priesthood, by a statute age-abiding, — so shalt thou install Aaron and his sons.

10 And thou shalt bring near the bullock, before the tent of meeting; — and Aaron and his sons shall lean their hands upon the head of the bullock; — then shalt thou slay the bullock before Yahweh, — at the opening of the tent of meeting; — and thou shalt take of the blood of the bullock, and place upon the horns of the altar, with thy finger, — and all the remaining blood shalt thou pour out at the foundation of the altar; — and thou shalt take all the fat that covereth the inner part, and the caul upon the liver, and the two kidneys, with the fat which is upon them, and burn as incense on the altar; — but the flesh of the bullock, and its skin, and its dung shalt thou burn up with fire, outside the camp; — is a sin-bearer it is.

14 <One ram also> shalt thou take, — and Aaron and his sons shall lean their hands upon the head of the ram; — then shalt thou slay the ram, — and take its blood, and dash upon the altar, round about; — but the ram itself shalt thou cut up into its pieces, — and shalt bathe its inner part, and its legs, and lay upon its pieces, and upon its head; — and shalt burn the whole ram as incense on the altar; <an ascending-sacrifice> it is to Yahweh, — a satisfying odour, an altar-flame to Yahweh; — it is'.

Then shalt thou take the second ram, — and Aaron and his sons shall lean their hands upon the head of the ram; — then shalt 20 Thus shalt thou place, in the breastpiece for giving sentence, the lights and the perfections, so shall they be upon the heart of Aaron, when he goeth in before Yahweh, — so shall Aaron bear the sentence of the sons of Israel, upon his heart, before Yahweh, continually.

21 And thou shalt make the robe of the ephod, wholly of blue; and the head for his head shall be in the midst thereof; — sash shall there be to the opening thereof round about, the work of a weaver, like the opening of a coat of mail shall there be to it, must not be rent. And thou shalt make upon the skirts thereof, pomegranates of blue and purple and crimson, upon the skirts thereof, round about, — and bells of gold in the midst of them, round about:

24 a bell of gold, and a pomegranate, a bell of gold, and a pomegranate, — upon the skirts of the robe, round about. And it shall be upon Aaron, for ministering, — so shall be heard the sound of him when he goeth into the holy place, before Yahweh, and cometh out, and dieth not.

26 And thou shalt make a burnished plate, of pure gold, — and shalt engrave thereupon, like the engravings of a seal-ring, Holiness to Yahweh. And thou shalt put it upon a cord of blue, so shall it be upon the turban, — upon the forehead of Aaron, and shall bear the iniquity of the hallowed things, which the sons of Israel shall hallow, for all their holy gifts, and it shall be upon his forehead continually, that there may be acceptance for them, before Yahweh.

29 And thou shalt weave, in checker work, the tunic of fine linen, and shalt make a turban of fine linen, — and a girdle shalt thou make, the work of an embroiderer.

30 And <for the sons of Aaron> shalt thou make tunics, and shalt make for them girdles, — and caps shalt thou make for them, for glory and for beauty.

31 And thou shalt clothe therewith Aaron thy brother, and his sons, with him, — and shalt anoint them, and install them, — and hallow them, so shall they minister as priests unto me.

32 And thou shalt make for them breeches of linen, to cover their unseemliness, — from the loins even to the thighs shall they be; — so shall they be upon Aaron and upon his sons, when they go into the tent of meeting, or when they approach unto the altar, to minister in the holy place, lest they bear iniquity, and die, — a statute age-abiding, to him, and to his seed after him.

thou slay the ram, and take of its blood, and place upon the tip of the ear of Aaron, and upon the tip of the ear of his sons—the right ear, and upon the thumb of their right hand, and upon the great toe of their right foot,—and shalt dash the blood upon the altar, round about. Then shalt thou take of the blood that is upon the altar, and of the anointing oil, and sprinkle upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his sons, and upon the garments of his sons, with him,—so shall he be hallowed—the, and his garments, and his sons, and the garments of his sons, with him. Then shalt thou take from the ram—the fat and the fat-tail, and the fat that covereth the inner part, and the caul of the liver and the two kidneys, with the fat that is upon them, and the right shoulder,—for  it is, and one round-cope of bread, and one cake of oiled bread, and one wafer,—out of the basket of unleavened cakes, which is before Yahweh; and shalt lay the whole, upon the hands of Aaron, and upon the hands of his sons,—then shalt thou wave them to and fro, as a wave-offering, before Yahweh; and shalt take them from their hand, and burn them as incense on the altar, upon the ascending-sacrifice, as a satisfying odour, before Yahweh, <an altar-flame> it is to Yahweh. Then shalt thou take the breast from the ram of installation, which is for Aaron, and shalt wave it as a wave-offering, before Yahweh,—so shall it be thy share. And thou shalt hallow the breast of the wave-offering, and the shoulder of the heave-offering, which is waved to and fro, and which is heaved up,—from the ram of installation, from that which is for Aaron, and from that which is for his sons; so shall it belong to Aaron and to his sons, for an age-abiding statute, from the sons of Israel, for  it is,—and  shall it remain, from the sons of Israel, out of their peace-offerings, their heave-offering to Yahweh.

And <the holy> garments which belong to Aaron shall belong to his sons after him,—to be anointed therein, and to be installed therein. <Seven days> shall they be put on by him from among his sons who is priest in his stead,—by him who goeth into the tent of meeting, to minister in the holy place.

And <the ram of installation> shalt thou take,—and shalt boil its flesh, in a holy place; and Aaron and his sons shall eat the flesh of the ram, and the bread that is in the basket,—at the opening of the tent of meeting; thus shall they eat those things whereewith a propitiatory-covering hath been made, to install them, to hallow them,—but  shall not eat, for <holy> they are. And <if there be left over of the flesh of installation, or of the bread, until the morning> then shalt thou burn up what is left over, in the fire, it shall not be eaten, for <holy> it is.

So then thou shalt do for Aaron and for his sons in this manner, according to all which I have commanded thee, <seven days> shalt thou install them. And  shalt thou offer daily, for them who are to be covered by propitiation, and shalt make a sin-cleansing for the altar, when thou puttest a propitiatory-covering thereon,—and shalt anoint it, to hallow it. <Seven days> shalt thou put a propitiatory-covering over the altar, and so shalt hallow it,—thus shall the altar become most holy; whosoever toucheth the altar must be holy.

This moreover, is what thou shalt offer upon the altar, two lambs of a year old, daily by day, continually: <The one lamb> shalt thou offer in the morning, and <the second lamb> shalt thou offer between the evenings; and a tenth part of fine meal mingled with a fourth part of the hin of beaten oil, and  a fourth part of the hin of wine,—with the one lamb. And <the second lamb> shalt thou offer between the evenings, according to the meal-offering of the morning, and according to the drink-offering thereof shalt thou offer with it, for a satisfying odour, an altar-flame, to Yahweh: a continual ascending-sacrifice, to your generations, at the opening of the tent of meeting, before Yahweh, where I will meet with you, to speak unto thee there. So will I meet there with the sons of Israel,—and it shall be hallowed by my glory. Thus will I hallow the tent of meeting, and the altar,—and <Aaron and his sons> will I hallow, to minister as priests unto me. Thus will I make my habitation in the midst of the sons of Israel, and will be their God; and they shall know that I am their God, who brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, that I might make my habitation in their midst,—I am Yahweh their God.

And thou shalt make an altar, for burning incense, of <cacia wood> shalt thou make it: a cubit, the length thereof, and a cubit, the breadth thereof, shall it be,—and two cubits, the height thereof, of the same shall be the horns thereof. And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold, the top thereof, and the sides.

thereof round about, and the horns thereof,— and thou shalt make to it a border of gold, round about. 4 And <two rings of gold> shalt thou make to it, <under the border thereof, upon the two corners thereof> shalt thou make [them] on the two sides thereof,— so shall they become receptacles* for the staves, to lift it therewith. 5 And thou shalt make the staves, of acacia wood,—and overlay them with gold. 6 And thou shalt place it before the veil, which is by the ark of the testimony,—before the propitiatory which is upon the testimony, where I will meet thee. 7 And Aaron shall burn thereon fragrant incense,—<morning by morning, when he trimmeth the lamps> shall he burn it; 8 and <when Aaron lighteth the lamps, between the evenings> shall he burn it,—a continual incense before Yahweh, to your generations. 9 Ye shall not cause to ascend thereupon strange incense, nor an ascending-sacrifice, nor a meal-offering,—and  shall ye not pour out thereupon. 10 But Aaron shall put a propitiatory-covering upon the horns thereof, once in the year: <of the blood of the sin-bearer for propitiatory-coverings, once in the year> shall he put a propitiatory-covering thereupon, to your generations, <most holy> it is to Yahweh.

11 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying—12 <When thou takest the sum of the sons of Israel, by their numberings> then shall they give, every man a propitiatory-covering* for his soul* to Yahweh, when they are numbered,—that there may be among them no plague, when they are numbered.
13 ||This shall they give—everyone that passeth over to them that have been numbered—a half-shekel, by the shekel of the sanctuary,—the shekel is twenty gerahs, ||the halfshekel|| shall be a heave-offering to Yahweh.
14 ||All who pass over to the numbered, from twenty years old and upwards|| shall give the heave-offering of Yahweh. 15 ||The rich|| shall not give more, and ||the poor|| shall not give less, than the half-shekel,—when they give the heave-offering of Yahweh, to put a propitiatory-covering over your souls.* 16 So then thou shalt take the silver for the propitiatory-coverings, from the sons of Israel, and shalt expend it upon the service of the tent of meeting,—thus shall it be for the sons of Israel, as a memorial before Yahweh, to put a propitiatory-coverings over your souls.*

17 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying—18 And thou shalt make a laver of bronze, and its stand of bronze; for bathing,—and thou shall place it between the tent of meeting and the altar, and shalt put therein water.

19 So shall Aaron and his sons bathe thereat,— their hands, and their feet. 20 <When they enter the tent of meeting> they shall bathe with water, so shall they not die,—or when they approach unto the altar to minister, to burn as incense an altar-flame to Yahweh:
so then they shall bathe their hands and their feet, and shall not die,—and it shall be to them an age-abiding statute, ||to him and to his seed, to their generations.||
22 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying—
23 ||Thou therefore, take to thee—principal spices,—<self-flowing myrrh> five hundred, and <fragrant cinnamon> half as much, two hundred and fifty, and <fragrant cane> two hundred and fifty; 24 and <acacia> five hundred, by the shekel of the sanctuary,— and <oil olive> a hin. 25 And thou shalt make it an oil for holy anointing, a compound perfume, the work of a perfumer,— <an oil for holy anointing> shall it be.
And thou shalt anoint therewith, the tent of meeting,—and the ark of the testimony; and the table, and all its utensils, and the lampstand, and its* utensils,—and the incense’ altar, 26 and the altar for the ascending-sacrifice, and all its utensils,— and the laver, and its stand. 27 So shall thou hallow them, and they shall be most holy,—||whosoever toucheth them|| shall be holy.
28 <Aaron also, and his sons> shalt thou anoint,—so shalt thou hallow them, to minister as priests unto me. 29 And <unto the sons of Israel> shalt thou speak,
saying,
<An oil for holy anointing> shall this be to me, to your generations. 30 <Upon the flesh of a common man> shall it not be poured, and <according to the proportions thereof> shall ye not make any like it,—<holy> it is, ||holy|| shall it be to you. 31 Whosesoever compoundeth any like it, and whosoever beastoth thereof upon a stranger|| shall be cut off from among his people.||

34 Then said Yahweh unto Moses—Take to thee aromatic spices, stacte, and onycha, and galbanum,—aromatic spices, and pure frankincense,—<weight for weight> shall it be. 35 And thou shalt make of it an incense, a perfume, the work of a perfumer,—salted, pure, holy. 36 And thou shalt beat some of it to powder, and place thereof before the testimony, in the tent of meeting, where I am to meet with thee,—<most holy> shall it be to you. 37 And <the incense which thou shalt make> <according to the proportions thereof> ye shall not make for yourselves,—<holy> shall it be to thee, to Yahweh. 38 ||Whososoever shall make like it, to smell of it||
shall be cut off, from among his people.||

31. Then spake Yahweh unto Moses saying:

32. See, I have called by name—Bezaleel, son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah; and have filled him with the Spirit of God,—in wisdom, and in understanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship; 4 to devise skilful designs,—to work in gold, and in silver, and in bronze; 5 and in the cutting of stones for setting, and in the carving of wood,—to work in all manner of workmanship. 6 I myself therefore, lo! I have given with him—Oholiab, son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, and in the heart of every one that is wise-hearted—have I put wisdom,—so shall they make all that I have commanded thee: 7 the tent of meeting, and the ark of the testimony; and the propitiatory which is thereupon,—and all the utensils of the tent; 8 the table, and its utensils, and the pure lampstand, and all its utensils,—and the incense-altar; 9 and the altar for the ascending-sacrifice, and all its utensils,—and the laver, and its stand; 10 and the cloth of variegated stuff, and the holy garments, for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, for ministering as priests; 11 and the anointing oil and the fragrant incense, for the holy place,—according to all which I have commanded thee shall they do.

13 Thou thyself, therefore, speak unto the sons of Israel, saying—

Surely my sabbaths shall ye keep,—for I am the Lord between you and your generations, that ye may know that I am Yahweh do hallow you. Thereupon shall ye observe the sabbath, for it is unto you,—that ye shall profaneth it shall be surely put to death; verily whosoever doeth work upon it shall be cut off from among his people; 12 in six days shall work be done, but upon the seventh day is a holy sabbath-keeping of rest unto Yahweh,—whosoever doeth work upon the sabbath day shall be surely put to death. 13 Therefore shall the sons of Israel keep the sabbath,—by making it a Day of Rest to your generations, as an age-abiding covenant: 14 between me and the sons of Israel; 15 a sign it is unto times age-abiding,—for in six days did Yahweh make the heavens and the earth, and upon the seventh day he rested, and was refreshed.

18 Then gave he unto Moses, as he finished speaking with him in Mount Sinai> the two tables of the testimony,—tables of stone, written with the finger of God.

§ 38. Israel's Revolt into Idolatry, and their Restoration. Remarkable Episodes:—Breaking the Tables; Pitching a Temporary Tent outside the Camp; Yahweh’s Proclamation of all his Goodness; Moses’ Face shineth.

1 And <when the people saw that Moses delayed to come down out of the mount>, the people gathered themselves together unto Aaron, and said unto him—

Up, make for us gods 2 who shall go before us, for <as for this Moses—the man who brought us up out of the land of Egypt> we know not what hath befallen him.

3 And Aaron said unto them, Break off the rings of gold, which are in the ears of your wives, of your sons, and of your daughters,—and bring them unto me. 4 And all the people of themselves brake off the rings of gold which were in their ears,—and brought them unto Aaron. 4 And he received [the gold] at their hand, and fashioned it with a graving tool, and made it a molten calf,—and they said—

These are thy gods, O Israel, who brought thee up, out of the land of Egypt.

5 And, when Aaron saw it, he built an altar before it. And Aaron made proclamation, and said, <A festival to Yahweh> to-morrow!

6 So they rose up early, on the morrow, and offered ascending-sacrifices, and brought near peace-offerings,—and the people sat down, to eat and to drink, and then rose up—to make sport! 7 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses—

Go, get thee down, for thy people whom thou hast brought up out of the land of Egypt have corrupted themselves; 8 They have turned aside quickly out of the way which I commanded them, they have made for themselves—a molten calf,—and have bowed themselves down thereto, and have sacrificed thereto, and have said—

These are thy gods, O Israel, who have brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

9 So then Yahweh said unto Moses,—

I have looked on this people, and lo!  it is.'

10 Therefore, let me alone, that mine anger may kindle upon them, and that I may consume them, and make of thee a great nation.

8-2
11 And Moses besought the face of Yahweh his God,—and said—
Wherefore, O Yahweh, should thine anger kindle upon thy people, whom thou hast brought forth out of the land of Egypt, with great might, and with a firm hand?
12 Wherefore should the Egyptians speak, saying—
<For mischief> hath he taken them forth, to slay them among the mountains, and to make an end of them from off the face of the ground?
Turn thou from the kindling of thine anger, and be grieved over the calamity to thy people. 13 Have remembrance of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Israel, thy servants, to whom thou didst swear by thyself, and didst speak unto them [saying],
I will multiply your seed, as the stars of the heavens,—and <all this land of which I have spoken> will I give to your seed, and they shall inherit it to times age-abiding.
14 So then Yahweh was grieved,—over the calamity,—which he had spoken of inflicting on his people.

15 And Moses turned, and went down out of the mount, with the two tables of testimony in his hand,—tables written upon, on both sides of them, <on this and on that> were they written.
16 Now as for [the tables] <the work of God> they were,—and as for the writing] <the writing of God> it was, graven upon the tables.
17 And Joshua heard the noise of the people, as they shouted,—so he said unto Moses—
The noise of war, in the camp!
18 But he said—
<Not the noise of the cry of heroism, nor yet the noise of the cry of defeat,—the noise of alternate song> do I hear.
19 And it came to pass <when he drew near unto the camp, and saw the calf, and the dancings>, that the anger of Moses kindled, and he cast out of his hands the tables, and brake them in pieces, at the foot of the mountain.
20 Then took he the calf which they had made, and burned it in the fire, and ground it till it became powder,—and strewed it on the face of the waters, and made the sons of Israel drink. 21 And Moses said unto Aaron,
What had this people done to thee,—that thou shouldst have brought upon them a great sin?
22 And Aaron said,
Let not the anger of my lord kindle,—<thou thyself knowest the people, that <ready for mischief> they are'. 22 So they said to me—

Make for us gods, who shall go before us,—for <as for this Moses—the man who brought us up out of the land of Egypt> we know not what hath befallen him.
24 And I said to them—
<Whosoever hath gold> let them break it off,
So they gave it to me,—and I cast it into the fire, and there came out—this calf.
25 And Moses saw the people, that <unbridled> they were,—for Aaron had given them the rein, for a whispering, among their enemies. 26 So Moses took his stand in the gate of the camp, and said—
Who is for Yahweh? . . . To me!
Then gathered unto him all the sons of Levi.
27 And he said to them—
<Thus> saith Yahweh, God of Israel,
Put ye every man his sword upon his thigh, —pass through and return from gate to gate, in the camp, and slay ye every man his brother, and every man his friend, and every man his neighbour.
28 So the sons of Levi did', according to the word of Moses,—and there fell, from among the people, on that day, about three thousand men.
29 And Moses said—
Install yourselves, to-day, unto Yahweh, yea every man for his son, and for his brother,—so will he bestow upon you, to-day, a blessing.
30 And it came to pass, on the morrow, that Moses said unto the people, <Ye> have sinned a great sin,—
<Now> therefore, I must go up unto Yahweh, a Peradventure I may make a propitiatory-covering for your sin.
31 So Moses returned unto Yahweh, and said,—
Oh now! this people hath sinned a great sin, and they have made for themselves—gods of gold. 32 <Now> therefore, <if thou wilt forgive their sin> . . . . but <if not> blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book, which thou hast written.'
33 And Yahweh said unto Moses,—
<Him who hath sinned against me> must I blot out of my book.
34 <Now> therefore, go lead the people to the place of which I spoke to thee, lo! 35 my messenger shall go before thee,— But <in the day when I do visit> I then will visit upon them, their sin.
35 And Yahweh plagued the people,—for what they had done with the calf, which Aaron made.
Then said Moses unto Yahweh,

See! thou art saying unto me—

Take up this people, and yet thou hast not let me know, whom thou wilt send with me,—though thou thyself didst say—

I acknowledge thee by name, Yea, moreover, thou hast found favour in mine eyes.

Now therefore, if, I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes, let me know, that I may acknowledge thee, to the intent I may find favour in thine eyes,—see thou therefore, that this nation is thine own people.

So then he said,—

Mine own presence shall go on, thus will I give thee rest.\

And he said unto him,—

If thy presence is not going on do not take us up from hence. Whereby, indeed, shall it be known, then, that I have found favour in thine eyes, and thy people? Shall it not be by thy going on with us? So shall we be more distinguished, and thou and thy people, than any people that are on the face of the ground.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses:—

Even this thing, which thou hast spoken will I do,—

For thou hast found favour in mine eyes, and I have acknowledged thee by name.

And he said,—

Show me, I pray thee, thy glory.

And he said—

I will cause all my goodness to pass before thee, and will proclaim myself by the name Yahweh, before thee,— and will shew favour, unto whom I may show favour, and will have compassion on whom I may have compassion.

But he said—

Thou canst not see my face,—

For no son of earth can see me, and live.

And Yahweh said,

Lo! a place near me,—

So then shalt thou station thyself upon the rock; and it shall be, while my glory passeth by, I will put thee in the cleft of the rock, and will cover thee with my hand, while I pass by:

Then will I take away my hand, and thou shalt see behind me,—

But my face must not be seen.

N.B.: that Yahweh's way makes known His character.

Clearly implying that the Divine Messenger shall now resume his leadership.
And he said—

Lo! I am about to solemnise a covenant,—

<in presence of all thy people> will I do marvellous things, which have not been created in any part of the earth, nor among any of the nations,—so shall all the people in whose midst thou art, see the work of Yahweh, for  it is, which I am doing with thee.

Take thou heed what I am commanding thee this day,—behold me! driving out from before thee—the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite.

Take heed to thyself.

Lest thou solemnise a covenant with the inhabitant of the land, whereupon thou art about to enter,—

Lest he become a snare in thy midst;

For <their altars> shall ye smash, and <their pillars> shall ye shiver,—

And <their sacred-stems> shall ye fell.

For thou shalt not bow thyself down to another God,—

For <as for Yahweh>—

Jealous> is his name.

A jealous God he is:

Lest thou solemnise a covenant with the inhabitant of the land,—

And then <as surely as they go unchastely after their gods, and sacrifice to their gods> So surely will he invite thee,

And thou wilt eat of his sacrifice;

And thou wilt take of his daughters, for thy sons,—

And his daughters will go unchastely after their gods,

And will cause thy sons to go unchastely after their gods.

<Molten gods> shalt thou not make to thee.

The festival of unleavened cakes shalt thou keep, <seven days> shalt thou eat unleavened cakes, which I commanded thee, at the set time, in the month Abib,—for <in the month Abib> camest thou forth out of Egypt.

Every one that is the first to be born is mine,—and every one of thy cattle that is born a male, firstling of oxen or sheep. 30 But <the firstling of an ass> thou mayest redeem with a lamb, and <if thou wilt not redeem it> then shalt thou break its neck.

Every firstborn of thy sons shalt thou redeem, and he must not see my face <with empty hand>.

Six days shalt thou labour, but <on the seventh day> shalt thou rest,— <in plowing time and in harvest> shalt thou rest.

And <the festival of weeks> shalt thou gradually within three or four generations; lest the individual, crushed by the weight of the punishments, perish. And this is indeed an act of divine mercy,—But the sons to the third or fourth generation can the more bear a part of the guilt, as the blessing of [a] thousand, that is, innumerable generations is promised to them, so that this circumstance also is a testimony of the love of God.” Cp. on Exo. xx. 6; cp. also: Num. xiv. 18; Deut. v. 10; Neh. xi. 17; Ps. cxii. 8; Jer. x. 31; xxxvi. 11; xiv. 29; xlix. 12; Dan. ix. 4; No. i. 3.

O: “keep sabbath.”
make to thee, the firstfruits of the wheat harvest,—and the festival of ingathering, at the closing in of the year: 30 three times in the year you shall bring every one of thy males to see the face of the Lord, Yahweh, the God of Israel. 31 For I will root out nations from before thee, and will enlarge thy borders, and no man shall covet thy land, when thou goest up to see the face of Yahweh 32 thy God, three times in the year.

Thou shalt not slay, along with anything leavened, the blood of my sacrifice,—neither shall remain to the morning, the sacrifice of the festival of the passover.

The beginning of the firstfruits of thy ground shalt thou bring into the house of Yahweh, thy God. Thou shalt not boil a kid in the milk of its dam.

And Yahweh said unto Moses,

Write for thyself these words,—for according to the tenor of these words have I solemnized with thee, a covenant, and with Israel.

So then he was there, with Yahweh, forty days and forty nights, <bread> did he not eat, and <water> did he not drink,—and He wrote upon the tables, the words of the covenant, [the ten words] .

And it came to pass <when Moses came down out of Mount Sinai, with the two tables of testimony in the hand of Moses, when he came down out of the mount> that Moses knew not that the skin of his face shone, through his having spoken with him. 30 And Aaron and all the sons of Israel saw Moses, and lo! the skin of his face shone,—and they stood in awe of drawing nigh unto him. 31 So then Moses called unto them, and Aaron and all the princes in the assembly returned unto him,—and Moses spake unto them. 32 And <afterwards> came nigh, all the sons of Israel,—and he gave them in commandment all that Yahweh had spoken with him, in Mount Sinai. 33 And <when Moses had made an end of speaking with them> he put over his face a veil; 34 but <as often as Moses went in before Yahweh> to speak with him> he put aside the veil, until he came out,—and <as often as he came out and spake unto the sons of Israel, that which he had been commanded> the sons of Israel saw the face of Moses, that the skin of Moses’ face shone,—so Moses again put the veil over his face, until he went in to speak with him.

And Moses called together all the assembly of the sons of Israel, and said unto them,—

'These are the things which Yahweh hath commanded, to do them.

Six days shall work be done, but on the seventh day shall there be to you a holy sabbath-keeping, unto Yahweh,—whosoever doeth work therein shall be put to death. Ye shall not kindle a fire, in any of your dwellings,—on the sabbath day.

And Moses spake unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, saying,—

'This is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded, saying,—

Take ye from among you, a heave-offering to Yahweh, every one whose heart is willing shall bring it in, even the heave-offering of Yahweh—gold and silver, and bronze; and blue and purple, and crimson, and fine linen and goat’s-hair; 7 and rams’ skins dyed red, and badgers’ skins, and acacia wood; 8 and oil for giving light,—and aromatic spices for the anointing oil, and for fragrant incense; and onyx stones, and setting stones,—for the ephod, and for the breastpiece.

And all the wise-hearted among you shall come in, that they may make, all that which Yahweh hath commanded:—the habitation, its tent, and its covering,—its chasps, its boards, and its bars, its sockets; 12 the ark with its staves, the propitiatory,—and the screening veil; the table with its staves, and all its utensils, and the Presence’-bread; the lampstand for giving light, with its utensils, and its lamps,—and the oil for giving light; 15 and the incense’ altar, with its staves, and the anointing oil, and the fragrant’ incense,—and the entrance’ screen, for the entrance of the habitations; the altar for the ascending-sacrifice, and the bronze’ grating which pertaineth thereto, its staves, and all its utensils,—the laver, and its stand; the hangings for the court, its pillars, and its sockets,—and the screen for the gate of the court; the pins of the habitation, and the pins of the court, and their cords; the cloth of variegated stuff, for ministering in the sanctuary,—the sacred’ garments for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, for ministering as priests.

So all the assembly of the sons of Israel went forth from the presence of Moses; and they brought in—every man whose heart lifted him up, and they brought in—bracelets and nose-ornaments, and rings, and buckles, all manner of jewels of gold, even every man who waved a wave-offering of gold unto Yahweh. And every man with whom was found—purple and crimson, and fine linen and goat’s-hair, and rams’ skins dyed red, and badgers’ skins brought them in. Every one who would heave a heave-offering of silver, or bronze, brought in the heave-offering of Yahweh, and every one with whom was found acacia wood for any construction for the service brought it in. And all the women who were wise-hearted did spin, and brought in that which they had spun—the blue, and the purple, and the crimson, and the fine linen. And all the women whose hearts lifted them up with wisdom spun the goat’s-hair. And the princes brought in the onyx stones and the setting stones—for the ephod, and for the breastpiece; and the aromatic spices, and the oil, for giving light, and for anointing oil, and for the fragrant incense. [In the case of] every man and woman, whose heart made them willing, to bring in for any construction which Yahweh had commanded them to make by the hand of Moses, did the sons of Israel bring in a free-will offering unto Yahweh. And Moses said unto the sons of Israel—

See! Yahweh hath called by name—Bezaleel, son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah; and filled him with the spirit of God—in wisdom, in understanding and in knowledge, and in all manner of execution; to devise skilful designs—to work in gold and in silver, and in bronze; and in the cutting of stones for setting, and in the cutting of wood—to work in any manner of skilful workmanship. To teach also hath he put in his heart, the heart of him, and of Oholiab—son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan; hath filled them with wisdom of heart, to work all manner of workmanship—of cutter, and carver, and engraver, and embroiderer, in blue and in purple, in crimson and in fine linen, and of the weaver, workers of any manner of workmanship, and devisers of skilful designs. Thus shall Bezaleel and Oholiab work, and every man that is wise-hearted, in whom Yahweh hath put wisdom and understanding, to know how to work any manner of workmanship for the holy service, according to all that Yahweh hath commanded.

§ 40. The Sanctuary is prepared.

So then Moses called upon Bezaleel, and upon Oholiab, and upon every man that was wise-hearted, in whose heart Yahweh had put wisdom, every one whose heart lifted him up, to draw near unto the work, to do it. And they took, from the presence of Moses, all the heave-offering which the sons of Israel had brought in, for the work of the holy service, to do it, howbeit they brought in unto him yet more free-will offerings, morning by morning. Then came in all the wise men who were doing all the holy work—men by man, from his work which they were doing; and spake unto Moses, saying, More than enough are the people bringing in,—[more than] is needed for the service pertaining to the work, which Yahweh hath commanded to be done.

So Moses gave commandment, and they passed a proclamation throughout the camp, saying, Let neither man nor woman make any more material for the holy heave-offering.

So the people were restrained from bringing in. For the material was enough for all the work, to make it, and to spare.

Then did all the wise-hearted among the workers of the material, make the habitation, of ten curtains,—of fine-twinned linen, and blue and purple and crimson, with churphen, the work of the skilful weaver; did he make them. The length of each curtain was twenty-eight cubits, and the breadth four cubits, for each curtain. And he joined the first five curtains, one to another, and the other five curtains joined he one to another. And he made loops of blue, upon the border of the first curtain, at the edge of the set. And he made the borders of the other curtain, at the edge of the second set. And the loops were opposite one to another. And he made fifty clasps of gold, and joined the curtains one to another with the clasps, and so the habitation became one.

And he made curtains of goat’s-hair, for the tent, over the habitation,—did he make them: the length of each curtain was thirty curtains, and the breadth of each curtain, one measure, had the eleven curtains. And he joined five of the curtains by themselves, and the six curtains, by themselves. And he made fifty loops upon the border of the curtain that was most outmost in the set; and fifty loops made he upon the border of the curtain of the second set. And he made fifty clasps of...
And he made a covering for the tent, of rams’ skins, dyed red, and a covering of badgers’ skins [above].

And he made the boards for the habitation, of acacia wood, standing up: two cubits [length of each board], and a cubit and a half the breadth of each board: two tenons to each board, united one to another, thus made he for all the boards of the habitation.

And he made the boards for the habitation, twenty boards for the south side southward; and forty sockets of silver made he under the twenty boards, twenty sockets under the first board, for its two tenons, and two sockets under the next board, for its two tenons. And for the second side of the habitation, the north quarter, made he twenty boards; and their sockets of silver, two sockets under the first board, and two sockets under the next board. And for the hinder part of the habitation, westward, made he six boards; and two boards made he for the corners of the habitation, in the hinderpart. Thus were they to be double beneath, and at the same time should they be entire, at the top thereof, into each ring, thus did he for them both, for the two corners. Thus there were to be eight boards, and their sockets of silver were sixteen sockets, two sockets apiece under each board.

And he made bars of acacia wood, five bars for the boards of the first side of the habitation, and five bars for the boards of the other side of the habitation, and five bars for the boards of the habitation, at the hinderpart westward. And he made the middle bar, to run along in the midst of the boards, from end to end. And the over laid it with pure gold, within and without, and made for it a rim of gold, round about; and he cast for it four rings of gold, upon the four feet thereof, even two rings on the one side thereof and two rings on the other side thereof; and he made staves of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold; and he brought the staves into the rings, upon the sides of the ark, for lifting the ark.

And he made a propitiatory of pure gold, two cubits and a half the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof; and he made two cherubim of gold, of beaten work, did he make them, out of the two ends of the propitiatory; one cherub out of this end, and one cherub out of that end, out of the propitiatory itself, he made the cherubim, out of the two ends thereof; and the cherubim were spreading out their wings on high, making a shelter with their wings over the propitiatory, with their faces one towards the other, towards the propitiatory were the faces of the cherubim.

And he made the table of acacia wood, two cubits the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof. And he overlaid it with pure gold, and made theテーブルの長さを2 cubits、幅を1 cubit、高さを1 and a half cubitsとしました。そして、それに純金で塗装しました。そして、雲がパリピティアリーから飛び出しました。そして、その翼を広げて上の空まで、etableの上から、雲の翼で覆われて、テーブルの上に座っています。そして、それの上に、銘板がついていました。そして、銘板は純金で、そこに創りれた2 cubits、1 cubit、1 and a half cubitsの長さと、幅と、高さが示されています。そして、銘板は、純金で塗装されていました。そして、銘板の上に、雲が広がり、テーブルの上から、雲の翼で覆われて、テーブルの上に座っています。そして、銘板の上に、銘板がついていました。そして、銘板は純金で、そこに創りれた2 cubits、1 cubit、1 and a half cubitsの長さと、幅と、高さが示されています。そして、銘板は、純金で塗装されていました。そして、銘板の上に、雲が広がり、テーブルの上から、雲の翼で覆われて、テーブルの上に座っています。そして、銘板の上に、銘板がついていました。そして、銘板は純金で、そこに創りれた2 cubits、1 cubit、1 and a half cubitsの長さと、幅と、高さが示されています。そして、銘板は、純金で塗装されていました。そして、銘板の上に、雲が広がり、テーブルの上から、雲の翼で覆われて、テーブルの上に座っています。そして、銘板の上に、銘板がついていました。そして、銘板は純金で、そこに創りれた2 cubits、1 cubit、1 and a half cubitsの長さと、幅と、高さが示されています。そして、銘板は、純金で塗装されていました。そして、銘板の上に、雲が広がり、テーブルの上から、雲の翼で覆われて、テーブルの上に座っています。そして、銘板の上に、銘板がついていました。そして、銘板は純金で、そこに創りれた2 cubits、1 cubit、1 and a half cubitsの長さと、幅と、高さが示されています。そして、銘板は、純金で塗装されていました。そして、銘板の上に、雲が広がり、テーブルの上から、雲の翼で覆われて、テーブルの上に座っています。そして、銘板の上に、銘板がついていました。そして、銘板は純金で、そこに創りれた2 cubits、1 cubit、1 and a half cubitsの長さと、幅と、高さが示されています。そして、銘板は、純金で塗装されていました。そして、銘板の上に、雲が広がり、テーブルの上から、雲の翼で覆われて、テーブルの上に座っています。そして、銘板の上に、銘板がついていました。そして、銘板は純金で、そこに創りれた2 cubits、1 cubit、1 and a half cubitsの長さと、幅と、高さが示されています。そして、銘板は、純金で塗装されていました。そして、銘板の上に、雲が広がり、テーブルの上から、雲の翼で覆われて、テーブルの上に座っています。そして、銘板の上に、銘板がついていました。そして、銘板は純金で、そこに創りれた2 cubits、1 cubit、1 and a half cubitsの長さと、幅と、高さが示されています。そして、銘板は、純金で塗装されていました。そして、銘板の上に、雲が広がり、テーブルの上から、雲の翼で覆われて、テーブルの上に座っています。そして、銘板の上に、銘板がついていました。そして、銘板は純金で、そこに創りれた2 cubits、1 cubit、1 and a half cubitsの長さと、幅と、高さが示されています。そして、銘板は、純金で塗装されていました。そして、銘板の上に、雲が広がり、テーブルの上から、雲の翼で覆われて、テーブルの上に座っています。そして、銘板の上に、銘板がついていました。そして、銘板は純金で、そこに創りれた2 cubits、1 cubit、1 and a half cubitsの長さと、幅と、高さが示されています。そして、銘板は、純金で塗装されていました。そして、銘板の上に、雲が広がり、テーブルの上から、雲の翼で覆われて、テーブルの上に座っています。そして、銘板の上に、銘板がついていました。そして、銘板は純金で、そこに創りれた2 cubits、1 cubit、1 and a half cubitsの長さと、幅と、高さが示されています。そして、銘板は、純金で塗装されていました。そして、銘板の上に、雲が広がり、テーブルの上から、雲の翼で覆われて、テーブルの上に座っています。そして、銘板の上に、銘板がついていました。そして、銘板は純金で、そこに創りれた2 cubits、1 cubit、1 and a half cubitsの長さと、幅と、高さが示されています。そして、銘板は、純金で塗装されていました。そして、銘板の上に、雲が広がり、テーブルの上から、雲の翼で覆われて、テーブルの上に座っています。そして、銘板の上に、銘板がついていました。そして、銘板は純金で、そこに創りれた2 cubits、1 cubit、1 and a half cubitsの長さと、幅と、高さが示され
And he made the laver thereof, seven,—with its snuffers and its snuff-trays, of pure gold. 24 Of a talent of pure gold made he the images, and all the utensils of the sanctuary. 25 And he made the incense altar of acacia wood,—[a cubit] the length thereof, and [a cubit] the breadth thereof, [four cubits], and [two cubits] the height thereof, <of the same> were the horns thereof. 26 And he overlaid it with pure gold—the top thereof and the sides thereof round about, and the horns thereof,—and he made thereto a rim 7 of gold, round about. 27 And <two rings of gold> made he thereto—beneath the rim thereof, upon the two corners thereof, upon the two sides thereof,—as receptacles for the staves, to lift it therewith. 28 And he made the staves of acacia wood,—and overlaid them with gold.

1 And he made the altar for the ascending-sacrifice 3 of acacia wood,—[five cubits] the length thereof, and [five cubits] the breadth thereof, [four cubits], and [three cubits] the height thereof. 2 And he made the horns thereof, upon the four corners thereof, <of the same> were the horns thereof,—and he overlaid it with bronze. 3 And he made all the utensils of the altar—the pans and the shovels and the sprinkling bowls, the flesh-hooks 4 and the fire-pans,—<all the utensils thereof> made he of bronze. 4 And he made to the altar a grating, of network of bronze,—under the margin thereof beneath, as far as the midst thereof. 5 And he cast four rings in the four corners, to the grating of bronze,—as receptacles for the staves. 6 And he made the staves of acacia wood,—and overlaid them with bronze. 7 And he brought the staves into the rings, upon the sides of the altar, to lift it therewith,—<hollow with boards> did he make it.

8 And he made the laver of bronze, and the stand thereof of bronze,—with the mirrors of the female hosts who did service at the opening of the tent of meeting. 9 And he made the court,—<on the south side southward> the hangings of the court, of fine twined linen,—[a hundred cubits]; 10 their pillars twenty, and their sockets twenty, of bronze,—the hooks of the pillars and their connecting-rods 8 of silver; 11 and <on the north side> a hundred cubits, [their pillars] twenty, and [their sockets] twenty, of bronze,—the hooks of the pillars and their connecting-rods 8 of silver. 12 And <on the west side> [hangings] fifty cubits, [their pillars] ten, and [their sockets] ten,—and the hooks of the pillars and their connecting-rods 8 of silver. 13 And <on the east side towards the dawn> fifty cubits; 14 [hangings] fifteen cubits, for the side-piece,—[their pillars] three, and [their sockets] three;

15 and <for the second> side-piece, on this side and on that, of the gate of the court> [hangings] fifteen cubits,—[their pillars] three, and [their sockets] three. 16 All the hangings of the court, round about, were of fine twined linen. 17 And [the sockets for the pillars] were of bronze, [the hooks of the pillars, and their connecting-rods] 8 of silver,—and [the overlying of their capitals] was silver,—and [they themselves] were filleted with silver, even all the pillars of the court. 18 And [the screen of the gate of the court] was the work of an embroiderer, blue and purple and crimson, and fine twined linen,—and [twenty cubits] in length, and [the height, according to the breadth], of five cubits, to match the curtains of the court; 19 and [their pillars] were four, and [their sockets] four, [of bronze]; [their hooks] of silver, and [the overlying of their capitals, and their connecting-rods] 8 of silver. 20 And [all the pins for the habitations, and for the court round about] were of bronze.

21 [These] are the details of the habitations—the habituation of testimony, 2 which were detailed at the bidding of Moses,—the service of the Levites, by the hand of Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest. 22 So then [Bezaleel, son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah] made all that Yahweh had commanded Moses. 23 And <with him> was Oholiab, son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, an artificer and skilful weaver,—and an embroiderer—in blue, and in purple, and in crimson, and in fine linen.

24 <As for all the gold that was used for the work, in all the construction of the sanctuary> it came to pass that <the gold of the wave-offering> was nine-and-twenty talents, and seven hundred and thirty shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary. 25 And <the silver of them who were numbered of the assembly> was one hundred talents,—and one thousand, seven hundred, and seventy-five shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary; 26 and a shekel per head, that is a half shekel, by the shekel of the sanctuary, for all that passed over to them who had been numbered, from twenty years old, and upwards, for six hundred and three thousand, and five hundred and fifty. 27 And it came to pass, that <the hundred talents of silver> were used for casting the sockets of the sanctuary, and the sockets of the veil—one hundred sockets with the hundred talents, a talent for a socket. 28 And <with the thousand, seven hundred and seventy-five> made the hooks for the pillars, and overlaid their capitals, and united them with connecting-rods.

29 [The bronze of the wave-offering] was seventy talents,—and two thousand and four hundred shekels. 30 And he made therewith, the sockets for the opening of the tent of meeting, and the altar of bronze, and the grating of bronze which pertained thereto,—and all the utensils of the altar, 31 and the sockets for the court round about, and the sockets for the gate of the court,—and all the pins for the habitation, and all the pins for the court, round about.

39 And <of the blue, and the purple, and the crimson> made they cloths of variegated stuff, for ministering in the sanctuary,—and they made the holy garments which were for Aaron,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

3 So he made the ephod,—of gold, blue, and purple, and fine twined linen, 4 And they did beat out the plates of gold, and he proceeded to cut them into threads, 5 to work into the midst of the blue, and into the midst of the purple, and into the midst of the crimson, and into the midst of the fine linen,—with the work of a skilful weaver. 6 <Shoulder-pieces> made they thereto for joining,—<at its two edges> was it joined. 7 And <as for the curious fastening girdle which was thereon> <of the same> it was according to the working thereof, gold, blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine twined linen,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

6 And they wrought the onyx stones, enclosed inouches of gold,—graven with the engravings of a seal-ring, after the names of the sons of Israel. 7 And he put them on the shoulder-pieces of the ephod, as stones of memorial, for the sons of Israel,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

8 And he made the breastpiece, the work of a skilful weaver, like the work of the ephod,—of gold, blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine twined linen. 9 <Squares> it was, <doubled> made they the breastpiece,— was the length thereof, and  the breadth thereof, <doubled>. 10 And they set therein, four rows of stones,—<one row> a sardius, a topaz, and an emerald, the first'row; and <the second row>, a carbuncle, a sapphire, and a diamond; <the third row>, an opal, an agate, and an amethyst; 12 and <the fourth row>, a Thorahish stone, a sardonyx, and a jasper,—enclosed inouches of gold, when they were set 14 And <as for the stones> <after the names of the sons of Israel> they were, <twelve>, after their names,—with the engravings of a seal-ring, <each one> after his name, [for the twelve tribes]. 15 And they made, upon the breastpiece, chains like cords, of wreathe work,—of pure gold. 16 And they made two ouches of gold, and two rings of gold,—and they placed the two rings, upon the two ends of the breastpiece; 17 and they placed the two wreathe chains of gold, upon the two ends, upon the ends of the breastpiece; 18 and <the other two ends of the two wreathe chains> placed they upon the two ouches,—and placed them upon the shoulder-pieces of the ephod, in the forefront thereof. 19 And they made two rings of gold, and put on the two ends of the breastpiece,—upon the border thereof, which is towards the ephod, inwards. 20 And they made two other rings of gold, and placed them upon the two shoulder-pieces of the ephod, below, on the front of the face thereof, to match the joining thereof,—above the curious girdle of the ephod. 21 And they bound the breastpiece by the rings thereof, into the rings of the ephod, with a cord of blue, that it might remain upon the curious girdle of the ephod, and the breastpiece not be removed from upon the ephod,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

22 And he made the robe of the ephod,—wholly of blue; 23 with the opening of the robe in the midst thereof, like the opening of a coat of mail,—a border to the opening thereof round about—it might not be rent open. 24 And they made, upon the skirts of the robe, pomegranates—of blue and purple and crimson, twined. 25 And they made bals of pure gold,—and placed the bells in the midst of the pomegranates, upon the skirts of the robe, round about, [in the midst of the pomegranates]: 26 a bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate, upon the skirts of the robe, round about,—to minister in—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

27 And they made the tunic of fine linen, the work of a weaver,—for Aaron, and for his sons; 28 and the turban of fine linen, and the ornamental cap of fine linen,—and the linen' drawers, of fine twined linen; 29 and the girdle of fine twined linen, and blue and purple and crimson, the work of an embroiderer,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

30 And they made the burnished plate of the holy crown, of pure gold,—and wrote thereupon a writing, with the engravings of a seal-ring Holy unto Yahweh. 31 And they placed thereupon a cord of blue, to fasten it upon the turban up above,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

32 Thus was finished all the work of the habitation of the tent of meeting,—thus did the sons of Israel, according to all that Yahweh commanded Moses: so did they.

§ 41. The Work is brought in to Moses.

33 And they brought in the habitation, unto Moses, the tent, and all its furniture,—its claps, its boards, its bars, and its pillars and its sockets; 34 and the covering of rams' skins dyed red, and the covering of badgers' skins,—and the screening' veil; the ark of the testimony, with its staves, and the propitiatory; the table, all its utensils, and the Presence-bread; the pure lampstand, the lamps thereof, the lamps to be put in order, and all the utensils thereof, and the oil for giving light; and the altar of gold, and the oil of anointing, and the fragrant incense, and the screen for the opening of the tent; the altar of bronze, and the grating of bronze which pertaineth thereto, the staves thereof, and all the utensils thereof, the laver, and its stand, the hangings of the court, its pillars and its sockets, and the screen for the gate of the court, its cords and its pins, and all the utensils for the service of the habitation, for the tent of meeting; the cloths of variegated stuff, for ministering in the sanctuary, the holy garments for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, for ministering as priests. According to all that Yahweh commanded Moses did the sons of Israel make all the work.

And Moses looked upon all the structure, and lo! they had made it; as Yahweh had commanded had they made it, and Moses blessed them.

§ 42. By express Divine Command the Holy Habitation is of length set up, and is filled with Yahweh’s Glory; yet not so as to deprive Israel of the Guiding Pillar of Cloud and Fire by Day and Night in all their Journeys.

40 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying—
1 On the first day of the month, in the first month shalt thou rear the habitation, of the tent of meeting; and thou shalt put therein, the ark of the testimony, and shalt screen the ark, with the veil; and thou shalt bring in the table, and set in order what is to be arranged thereupon, and thou shalt bring in the lampstand, and mount the lamps thereof; and thou shalt place the altar of gold, for incense, before the ark of the testimony, and put up the screen for the opening of the habitation; and thou shalt place the altar for the ascending-sacrifice, before the opening of the tent of meeting; and thou shalt place the laver between the tent of meeting, and the altar, and shalt put therein, water. And thou shalt put up the court, round about, and hang up the screen of the gate of the court. And thou shalt take the oil of anointing, and anoint the habitation, and all that is therein, and shalt hallow it, and all the furniture thereof, so shall it be holy. And thou shalt anoint the altar of ascending sacrifice, and all its utensils, and hallow the altar, so shall the altar be most holy; and thou shalt anoint the laver, and its stand, and shalt hallow it. And thou shalt bring near Aaron, and his sons, unto the opening of the tent of meeting, and shalt bathe them in the water; and thou shalt clothe Aaron with the holy garments, and shalt anoint him, and hallow him, so shall he minister as priest unto me. His sons also shalt thou bring near, and shalt clothe them with tunics; and shalt anoint them, as thou didst anoint their father, and they shall minister as priests unto me, so shall their anointing remain to them, for an age-abiding priesthood, to their generations.

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

20 And he took and placed the testimony, within the ark, and put the staves upon the ark, and the propitiatory upon the ark, and brought in the ark into the habitation, and put up the screening’ veil, and screened over the ark of the testimony,

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

22 And he placed the table, in the tent of meeting, on the side of the habitation northward, outside the veil; and set in order thereupon the arrangement of bread, before Yahweh,

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

24 And he put the lampstand, in the tent of meeting, over against the table, on the side of the habitation southward; and mounted the lamps, before Yahweh,

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

26 And he put the altar of gold, in the tent of meeting, before the veil; and burned thereupon the fragrant incense,

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

28 And he put up the screen of the entrance pertaining to the habitation; and the altar.
§ 1. Of various kinds of Offering.

1 Then called he unto Moses,—and Yahweh spake unto him, out of the tent of meeting, saying:
2 Speak thou unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them—
3 If an ascending-sacrifice be his oblation—of the herd—shall he bring near,—unto the entrance of the tent of meeting—shall he bring it, for its acceptance, before Yahweh. Then shall he lean his hand, upon the head of the ascending-sacrifice,—and it shall be accepted for him, to put a prophylactic covering over him; and he shall slay the young bullock before Yahweh,—and the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall bring near the blood, and shall dash the blood against the altar, round about, [even the altar] that is at the entrance of the tent of meeting. Then shall he flay the ascending-sacrifice,—and cut it up into its pieces. And the sons of Aaron the priest shall place fire, upon the altar,—and arrange wood, upon the fire. And the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall arrange the pieces, the head and the fat,—upon the wood, that is on the fire, that is on the altar. But the inwards and its legs, shall they bathe with water,—then shall the priest make, of the whole, a perfume at the altar, an ascending-sacrifice, an altar-flame of a satisfying' odour unto Yahweh.

b. Of the Flock (Sheep or Goat).

10 But if of the flock be his oblation,—of the sheep or of the goats, for an ascending-sacrifice—shall he bring near. And he shall slay it on the side of the altar, northward, of ascending-sacrifice> put he at the entrance of the habitation of the tent of meeting,—and he caused to ascend thereupon, the ascending-sacrifice, and the meal-offering,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

30 And he put the laver, between the tent of meeting and the altar,—and put therein water, for bathing; and Moses, and Aaron, and his sons, thenceforth bathed therewith,—their hands and their feet; when they were entering into the tent of meeting, and when they were drawing near unto the altar then used they to bathe,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

32 And he reared the court, round about, to the habitation and to the altar, and put up the screen of the gate of the court,—and Moses finished the work.

That is “in” the cloud, before Yahweh,—and the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall dash its blood against the altar, round about. And he shall cut it up into pieces, and its head, and its fat,—and the priest shall arrange them upon the wood, that is on the fire, that is on the altar. But the inwards and the legs shall he bathe in water,—then shall the priest bring near the whole, and make a perfume at the altar; it is, an altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh.

c. Of Birds.

14 But be the ascending-sacrifice of his obligation unto Yahweh then shall he bring near, of the turtle-doves or of the young pigeons, its obligation. And the priest shall bring it near unto the altar, shall nip off its head, and make a perfume at the altar,—and its blood shall be drained out upon the wall of the altar. Then shall he take away its crop with its plumage,—and cast it beside the altar eastward, into the place of fat ashes; and he shall cleave it in its wings—he shall not divide it asunder, so shall the priest make a perfume therewith, at the altar, upon the wood, that is on the fire,—an ascending-sacrifice; it is, an altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh.

ii. The Meal-offering (A.V. "Meat-offering"; Heb. mimmah.)

a. Of Fine Meal.

2 1 But when any person would bring near as an oblation, a meal-offering unto Yahweh <of fine meal> shall be his obligation,—and he shall pour thereon, oil, and place thereon, frankincense; so shall he bring it in unto the sons of Aaron, the priests, and he shall grasp therefrom a handful of the fine meal thereof, and of the oil thereof, besides all the frankincense thereof,—and the priest shall make a perfume with the memorial thereof, at the altar, an altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh. 3 But ||the remainder of the meal-offering|| pertaineth unto Aaron, and unto his sons,—||most holy, from among the altar-flames of Yahweh||.

b. From the Oven.

Moreover <when thou wouldst bring near, as an oblation of a meal-offering, something baked in an oven> <round, unleavened cakes of fine meal, overflowed with oil> [shall it be], or unleavened wafers anointed with oil.

c. From the Girdle.

5 But <if a meal-offering on a girdle> be thine obligation <of fine meal, overflowed with oil, unleavened> shall it be;

6 <parting it into pieces> then shall thou pour thereon oil,— it is.

d. From the Boiler.

7 But <if a meal-offering of the boiler> be thine oblation <of fine meal, with oil> shall it be made. Then shall thou bring in the meal-offering that is made of these, unto Yahweh,—and one shall bring it near unto the priest, and he shall take it near unto the altar. Then shall the priest uplift, out of the meal-offering, a memorial thereof, and make a perfume at the altar,—an altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh. 8 But ||the remainder of the meal-offering|| pertaineth of the altar, unto Yahweh.

11 ||None of the meal-offerings which ye bring near unto Yahweh|| shall be made into anything leavened,—for <of no leaven, and of no syrup> may ye make a perfume, as an altar-flame unto Yahweh.

e. Of First-fruits.

12 <As for an oblation of first-fruits> ye shall bring them near, unto Yahweh,—but <unto the altar> they shall not take them up, as a satisfying odour.

And <every meal-offering oblation of thine> <with salt> shalt thou season, and thou shalt not suffer to be lacking the salt of the covenant of thy God, from upon thy meal-offering,—<upon every oblation of thine> shalt thou offer salt.

f. Of First-ripe Corn.

14 But <if thou wouldst bring near a meal-offering of first-ripe corn, unto Yahweh> <of green ears, roasted in fire, crushed grain of garden-land> shalt thou bring near thy meal-offering of first-ripe corn. And thou shalt place thereon, oil, and shalt put thereon, frankincense,— it is. Then shall the priest make a perfume, with the memorial thereof,—from the crushed grain thereof, and from the oil thereof, besides all the frankincense thereof,—an altar-flame, unto Yahweh.

iii. The Peace-offering.

a. Of the Herd.

1 But <if a peace-offering> be his obligation 3 <if of the herd> ||he himself|| be bringing near,—whether male or female> <without defect> shall he bring it near before Yahweh. 2 Then shall he lean his hand upon the head of his obligation, and slay it at the entrance of the tent of meeting,—and the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall dash the blood against the altar, round about. Then shall he bring near, out of the peace-offering, an altar-flame unto Yahweh,—the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards; and the two kidneys, and the fat which is upon them, which is upon the loins,—and the caul upon the liver, upon the kidneys shall he remove it. Then shall the sons of Aaron make thereof a perfume, at the altar, upon the ascending-sacrifice, which is on the wood, which is on the fire,—an altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh.]

b. Of the Flock.
6 But <if out of the flock> be his oblation, for a peace-offering unto Yahweh, <whether male or female—without defect> shall he bring it near. 7 <If a young sheep> [he himself] be bringing near as his oblation> then shall he bring it near before Yahweh. 8 And he shall lean his hand upon the head of his oblation, and shall slay it, before the tent of meeting, and the sons of Aaron shall dash* its blood thereof against the altar, round about. Then shall he bring near, out of the peace-offering, an altar-flame unto Yahweh, the fat thereof, the fat-tail thereof entire [close to the backbone] shall he remove it,—and the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards; and the two kidneys, with the fat that is on them, which is on the loins,—and the caul that is on the liver, upon the kidneys shall he remove it. 11 Then shall the priest make a perfume, at the altar,—[the food of an altar-flame, unto Yahweh].
12 But <if a goat> be his oblation> then shall he bring it near before Yahweh. And he shall lean his hand upon its head, and shall slay it, before the tent of meeting,—and the sons of Aaron shall dash* its blood against the altar, round about. 14 Then shall he bring therefrom, as his oblation, an altar-flame unto Yahweh,—the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards; and the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is on the loins,—the caul upon the liver, upon the kidneys shall he remove it. 16 Then shall the priest make a perfume at the altar,—[the food of an altar-flame, for a satisfying odour,—all the fat—unto Yahweh].

15 And <if the whole assembly of Israel> shall make a mistake, and a matter be hidden from the eyes of the convocation,—and so they do something, whereby they depart from any of the commandments of Yahweh, as to things which should not be done, and become guilty; and the sin shall become known, which they have committed therein> then shall the convocation bring near a choice young bullock, as a sin-bearer,* yea they shall bring it in, before the tent of meeting; 13 and the elders of the assembly shall lean their hands upon the head of the bullock, before Yahweh,—and shall slay the bullock, before Yahweh; 14 and the anointed priest shall bring in of the blood of the bullock,—into the tent of meeting; 15 and the priest shall dip his finger into the blood, and shall sprinkle of the blood seven times, before Yahweh, upon the face of the veil; 16 and <some of the blood> shall he put upon the horns of the altar which is before Yahweh, which is in the tent of meeting; and <all the remainder of the blood> shall he pour out at the base of the altar of ascending-sacrifice, which is at the entrance of the tent of meeting; 17 and <as for all the fat thereof> he shall heave up therefrom, and make a perfume at the altar. 18 And he shall do to the bullock, as he did to the [first] sin-bearing bullock; 19 so shall he do with this,—and the priest shall put a propitiatory-covering over them, and it shall be forgiven them. 20 And he shall take forth the bullock unto the outside of the camp, and burn it up, just as he burned up the first bullock,—<the sin-bearer of the convocation> it is.

iii. Offences by a Ruler.

<When a prince shall sin,—and shall do something, departing from any of the commandments of Yahweh his God, as to things which should not be done, by mistake* and shall become aware of his guilt; 22 or his sin wherein he hath sinned be made known unto him> then shall he bring in, as his oblation, a he-goat, a male without defect; 23 and shall lean his hand upon the head of the goat, and shall slay it in the place where they slay the ascending-sacrifice before Yahweh,— it is. 24 And the priest shall take of the blood of the sin-bearer with his finger, and put upon the horns of the altar of ascending-sacrifice; and <the remainder of the blood thereof> shall he pour out at the base of the altar of ascending-sacrifice; and <with all the fat thereof> shall he make a perfume at the altar, as with the fat of the peace-offering,—so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him, because of his sin, and it shall be forgiven him.

14 And Jehovah spake unto Moses, saying—
15 <Whensoever any person shall commit a trespass, and shall take away by mistake, from the holy things of Jehovah> then shall he bring in as his guilt-bearer unto Jehovah, a ram without defect out of the flock, with thine estimate in silver by shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary, for a guilt-bearer: <that, moreover, which he took away from the sanctuary> shall he make good, and <the fifth part thereof> shall he add thereunto, and shall give it to the priest,—and <the priest> shall put a propitiatory-covering over him with the guilt-bearing' ram, and it shall be forgiven him.

17 And <if any person> when he shall sin, and do something, departing from any of the commandments of Jehovah, as to things which should not be done,—though he knew it not, shall so become guilty, and shall bear his iniquity> shall then he bring in a ram without defect out of the flock, by thine estimate as a guilt-bearer, unto the priest,—and the priest shall put a propitiatory-covering over him, on account of his mistake which he made, though [he] knew it not, and it shall be forgiven him:  it is';—he was verily guilty against Jehovah.

1 And Jehovah spake unto Moses, saying—
2 <When any person> shall sin, and shall commit a trespass against Jehovah,—and shall withhold something of the truth from his neighbour, in respect of a deposit, or a pledge or anything plundered, or shall use extortion with his neighbour; or shall find something lost and shall withhold something of the truth therein, and shall swear to a falsehood,—as regardeth a single thing of all that a son of earth may do, to commit sin thereby; and so it shall come about that he shall commit sin and then become aware of his guilt> then shall he return the plunder which he had plundered, or the extortion which he had extorted, or the deposit that was deposited with him,—or the lost thing which he hath found: or <in anything as to which he hath been swearing to a falsehood> then shall he make it good in the principal thereof, and <the fifth part thereof> shall he add thereunto, <to whomsoever it belongeth> <to him> shall he give it, in the day he becometh aware of his guilt; but <his guilt-bearer itself> shall he bring in unto Jehovah,—a ram without defect, out of the flock, by thine estimate as a guilt-bearer, unto the priest. So shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him before Jehovah, and it shall be forgiven him,—on account of any one thing, of all which one might do, so as to become guilty therein.

§ 3. Instructions for the Priests as to the Offerings.

8 And Jehovah spake unto Moses, saying:
9 Command Aaron and his sons, saying,
 This is the law of the ascending-sacrifice,— the same is the ascending-sacrifice, which is upon the hearth, upon the altar, all the night until the morning,—and the fire of the altar. shall be kept burning therein.

So then the priest shall put on his upper garment of linen, and <breaches of linen> shall be put on over his flesh, then shall he take up the fat-ashes, whereto the fire consumeth the ascending-sacrifice on the altar,—and shall put them beside the altar. Then shall he put off his garments, and put on other garments,—and shall carry forth the fat-ashes, unto the outside of the camp, unto a clean place.

And the fire on the altar shall be kept burning therein, it shall not be suffered to go out, but the priest shall kindle up thereon pieces of wood, morning by morning, —and shall set in order thereupon the ascending-sacrifice, and shall make a perfume thereon, with the fat-pieces of the peace-offerings: and the fire shall continually be kept burning on the altar, it shall not be suffered to go out.

And this is the law of the meal-offering,—the sons of Aaron shall bring it near before Yahweh unto the front of the altar. Then shall one lift up therefrom a handful of the fine meal of the meal-offering, and of the oil thereof, and all the frankincense which is upon the meal-offering,—and shall make a perfume at the altar, an altar-flame of a satisfying odour shall the memorial thereof be, unto Yahweh. And the remainder thereof shall Aaron and his sons eat, —<as unleavened cakes> shall it be eaten in a holy place, within the court of the tent of meeting; shall they eat it. It shall not be baked into anything leavened, —<as their portion> have I given it, from among the altar-flames of Yahweh,—<most holy> it is, like the sin-bearer, and like the guilt-bearer. Any male among the sons of Aaron] may eat it, an age-abiding statute to your generations, from among the altar-flames of Yahweh,—<every one that toucheth them> shall be hallowed.

[This] is the law of the guilt-bearing: <In the place where the ascending-sacrifice is slain> shall the sin-bearer be slain, before Yahweh, <most holy> it is. The priest who maketh it a sin-bearer shall eat it,—<in a holy place> shall it be eaten, in the court of the tent of meeting. Every one who toucheth the flesh thereof shall be hallowed; and when one sprinkleth some of the blood thereof upon a garment that whereon it was sprinkled> shall thou wash in a holy place. But the earthen vessel wherein it is boiled; shall be broken, —<if> in a vessel of bronze it hath been boiled> then shall [the vessel] be scoured and rinsed in water. Any male among the priests] may eat thereof,—<most holy> it is. But [no sin-bearer whereof any of the blood is taken into the tent of meeting to make a propitiatory-covering in the sanctuary] shall be eaten,—<with fire> shall it be consumed.

And [this] is the law of the guilt-bearer,—<most holy> it is. In the place where they slay the ascending-sacrifice shall they slay the guilt-bearer: and <the blood thereof> shall one dash against the altar, round about; and as for all the fat thereof one shall bring near therefrom,—the fat-tail, and the fat that covereth the inwards; and the two kidneys, with the fat that is upon them, which is upon the loins,—and the caul upon the liver, <up to the kidneys> shall he remove it. And the priest shall make a perfume with them at the altar, an altar-flame unto Yahweh—a guilt-bearer it is. Any male among the priests] may eat thereof,—<in a holy place> shall it be eaten, <most holy> it is. As the sin-bearer> so the guilt-bearer,—<one law> for them,—<the priest who maketh a propitiatory-covering therewith> <to him> shall it belong. And <as for the priest who bringeth near the ascending-sacrifice of any man> <the skin of the ascending-sacrifice which he hath brought near> <to the priest himself> shall it belong. And <as for any meal-offering that may be baked in an oven, or anything that hath been prepared in a boiler or on a girdle> <to the priest that bringeth it near—to him> shall it belong. And <as for any meal-offering overflowed with oil, or dry> <to all the sons of Aaron> shall it belong, to one as much as to another.

And [this] is the law of the peace-offering which one may bring unto Yahweh—

* Or: "thereby.
* Or: "heave.
* Cp. chap. ii. ii. n.
* Heb. xiii. 11.
And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying—

Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying,—

He that offereth his peace-offering unto Yahweh shall bring in his own oblation unto Yahweh, out of his peace-offering:

his own hands shall bring in the altar-flames of Yahweh,—<the fat with the breast> shall he bring it in, the breast to wave it as a wave-offering before Yahweh. Then shall the priest make a perfume with the fat at the altar, and the breast shall be for Aaron and for his sons.

But <the right shoulder> shall ye give as a heave-offering unto the priest, from among your peace-offerings, and have given them unto Aaron the priest, and unto his sons, as an age-abiding statute, from the sons of Israel.

This is what pertaineth to the anointing of Aaron, and to the anointing of his sons out of the altar-flames of Yahweh,—<granted> in the day when he brought them near, to minister as priests unto Yahweh: which Yahweh commanded to give them in the day when he anointed them, from among the sons of Israel,—<an age-abiding statute, to their generations>.

This is the law—

for the ascending-sacrifice, for the meal-offering,

and for the sin-bearer,

and for the guilt-bearer,— for the installation-offerings, and for the peace-offering:

which Yahweh commanded Moses, in Mount Sinai,—in the day when he commanded the sons of Israel to bring near their oblations unto Yahweh, in the desert of Sinai.

§ 4. The Installation of Aaron and His Sons in the Priesthood.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

Take thou Aaron, and his sons with him, and the garments, and the anointing oil, and the sin-bearing bullock, and the two rams, and the basket of unleavened cakes; and all the assembly call thou together,—unto the entrance of the tent of meeting.

4 And Moses did, as Jehovah commanded him,—and the assembly was called together, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting.

5 Then said Moses unto the assembly,—This! is the thing, which Jehovah hath commanded to be done.

6 So Moses brought near Aaron and his sons,—and bathed them with water, and put upon him the tunic, and girded him with the band, and clothed him with the robe, and put upon him the ephod, and girded him with the curiously-woven band of the ephod, and bound it to him therewith; and he put upon him the breastpiece,—and placed, in the breastpiece, the Lights and the Perfections; and he put the turban upon his head,—and put upon the turban, on the forefront thereof, the burnished plate of gold—the holy crown,

As Jehovah commanded Moses.

10 And Moses took the anointing oil, and anointed the tabernacle, and all that was therein,—and hallowed them; 11 and he sprinkled thereof upon the altar, seven times,—and anointed the altar, and all the utensils thereof, and the laver and its stand, to hallow them; 12 and he poured of the anointing oil, upon the head of Aaron,—and anointed him, to hallow him.

13 And Moses brought near the sons of Aaron, and clothed them with tunics, and girded them with bands, and wrapped round for them turbans,—

As Jehovah commanded Moses.

14 Then was led near the sin-bearing bullock,—and Aaron and his sons leaned their hands upon the head of the sin-bearing bullock.

15 Then it was slain, and Moses took the blood, and put [thereof] upon the horns of the altar round about, with his finger, and cleansed the altar from sin,—and the [remainder of the] blood poured he forth at the base of the altar, and hallowed it, putting a propitiatory-covering thereupon. 16 And he took all the fat that was on the inwards, and the caul of the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat,—and Moses made a perfume at the altar. 17 But the bullock itself, and its skin, and its flesh and its dung; consumed he with fire, outside the camp,—

As Jehovah commanded Moses.

18 Then was brought near the ram for the ascending sacrifice,—and Aaron and his sons leaned their hands upon the head of the ram; 19 and it was slain,—and Moses dashed the blood against the altar, round about; 20 and [the ram itself] was cut up into its pieces,—and Moses made a perfume with the head and with the pieces, and with the fat; 21 but the inwards and the legs were bathed in water,—and Moses made a perfume with the whole ram at the altar. 22 An ascending-sacrifice, it was,—for a satisfying odour. 23 An altar-flame, it wasunto Jehovah.

As Jehovah commanded Moses.

24 Then was brought near the second ram, the ram of installation,—and Aaron and his sons leaned their hands upon the head of the ram; 25 and it was slain, and Moses took of the blood thereof, and put upon the tip of Aaron's right ear,—and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot. 24 Then were brought near the sons of Aaron, and Moses put of the blood upon the tip of their right ear, and upon the thumb of their right hand, and upon the great toe of their right foot,—and Moses dashed the blood against the altar, round about. 26 And he took the fat and the fat-tail, and all the fat that was on the inwards, and the caul of the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat,—and the right shoulder; 27 and out of the basket of unleavened cakes that was before Jehovah, took he one round unleavened cake, and one round oil-cake, and one wafer,—and put them upon the fat portions, and upon the right shoulder; 28 and placed the whole upon the opened palms of Aaron, and upon the opened palms of his sons,—and waved them as a wave-offering, before Jehovah. 29 And Moses took them from off their opened palms, and made a perfume at the altar upon the ascending sacrifice,—an installation they were, for a satisfying odour. 30 An altar-flame, it wasunto Jehovah. 31 And Moses took the breast, and waved it as a wave-offering, before Jehovah,—of the ram of installationunto Moses; it belonged, as a portion,

As Jehovah commanded Moses.

30 And Moses took of the anointing oil, and of the blood that was upon the altar, and sprinkled upon Aaron, upon his garments, and upon his sons, and upon the garments of his sons with him,—and hallowed Aaron, his garments, and his sons, and the garments of his sons, with him.

31 And Moses said unto Aaron and unto his sons,

Boil ye the flesh, at the entrance of the tent of meeting, and there shall ye eat it, and the bread which is in the basket of installation, as I have been commanded saying,

I Aaron and his sons, shall eat it.

32 But that which is left of the flesh, and of the bread, shall ye consume.

33 And from the entrance of the tent of... meeting> shall ye not go forth, for seven days, until the day that filleth up the days of your installation,—because <for seven days> will he install you; 24 <as hath been done this day> so hath Yahweh commanded to be done, to put a propitiatory-covering over you. 25 <Even at the entrance of the tent of meeting> shall ye abide, day and night, for seven days, and shall keep the watch of Yahweh, and shall not die,—for [so] am I commanded.

And Aaron and his sons did all the things which Yahweh had commanded through the mediation of Moses.

§ 5. Aaron begins to officiate in the Priesthood, and the Glory of Yahweh appears.

1 And it came to pass, <on the eighth day> that Moses called for Aaron, and for his sons,—and for the elders of Israel; 2 and said unto Aaron—Take for thyself a choice calf, as a sin-bearer, 3 and a ram for an ascending-sacrifice, each without defect,—and bring them near before Yahweh; 4 and <unto the sons of Israel> shalt thou speak, saying,—Take ye a he-goat, as a sin-bearer, and a calf and a young sheep, each a year old, without defect, for an ascending-sacrifice; and an ox and a ram for peace-offerings, to sacrifice before Yahweh, and a meal-offering overflowed with oil,—for <to-day> doth Yahweh appear unto you. 5 So they brought that which Moses commanded, before the tent of meeting,—and all the assembly drew near, and stood before Yahweh. 6 And Moses said—

"This> is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded that ye shall do,—that the glory of Yahweh may appear unto you.

And Moses said unto Aaron—Draw near unto the altar, and offer thy sin-bearer, 7 and thine ascending-sacrifice, and put a propitiatory-covering about thyself, and about the people,—and offer the oblation of the people, and put a propitiatory-covering about them,

As Yahweh hath commanded.

So Aaron drew near unto the altar,—and slew the sin'-bearing calf, which was for himself; 8 and the sons of Aaron brought the blood unto him, and he dipped his finger in the blood, and put [thereof] upon the horns of the altar,—and <the [remainder of the] blood> poured he out at the base of the altar; 9 and <with the fat and the kidneys, and the caul> from the liver, of the sin-bearer> made he a perfume at the altar,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

But <the flesh and the skin> consumed he with fire, outside the camp. 12 Then slew he the ascending-sacrifice,—and the sons of Aaron presented unto him the blood, and he dashed > it against the altar, round about. 13 And <the ascending-sacrifice> presented they unto him, piece by piece thereof, also the head,—and he made a perfume upon the altar:

and he bathed the inwards, and the legs,—and made a perfume upon the ascending-sacrifice, at the altar. 15 Then brought he near the oblation of the people,—and took the sin-bearing goat which pertained to the people, and slew it and made therewith a sin-bearer, like the first. 16 Then brought he near the ascending-sacrifice,—and offered it, according to the regulation. 17 Then brought he near the meal-offering, and filled his hand therefrom, and made a perfume upon the altar,—in addition to the ascending sacrifice of the morning. 18 Then slew he the ox, and the ram, as a peace-offering, which pertained unto the people,—and the sons of Aaron presented the blood unto him, and he dashed > it against the altar, round about; 19 and the portions of fat, from the ox,—and from the ram, the fat-tail, and the covering, and the kidneys, and the caul 14 of the liver; 20 and they put the portions of fat upon the breasts,—and he made a perfume with the fat at the altar; 21 but <the breasts and the right shoulder> did Aaron wave as a wave-offering, before Yahweh,—as Moses commanded.

Then Aaron lifted up his hands 22 towards the people, and blessed them,—and he came down from offering the sin-bearer, and the ascending-sacrifice, and the peace-offering.

And <when Moses and Aaron had entered into the tent of meeting,—and had come forth and blessed the people> then appeared the glory of Yahweh unto all the people; 24 yea, there came forth fire from before Yahweh, and consumed, upon the altar, the ascending-sacrifice, and the portions of fat,—and all the people beheld, and shouted, and fell down upon their faces.

§ 6. Aaron’s Sons, Nadab and Abihu, offer Strange Fire and are consumed.

1 Then Aaron’s sons, Nadab and Abihu, took each man his censer, and placed therein fire, and put thereon incense,—and brought near before Yahweh, strange fire, which he had not commanded them. 2 Then came there forth fire from before Yahweh, and consumed them,—and they died before Yahweh. 3 Then said Moses unto Aaron—

"The very thing> that Yahweh spake, saying—

<In them that draw near to me> must I be hallowed,
And <before the faces of all the people> must I get myself honour,—
And Aaron, was dumb.4 Then called Moses unto Michael and unto Elzaphan, sons of Uzziel, uncle of Aaron,—and said unto them—

Draw near, bear away your brethren from before the sanctuary, unto the outside of the camp.
6 So they drew near and bare them away, in their tunics, unto the outside of the camp,—as spake Moses.
6 Then said Moses unto Aaron, and to Eleazar and to Ithamar, his sons—

<Your heads> ye may not bare* and <your garments> ye shall not rend, so shall ye not die, neither <against all the assembly> will he be wroth,—but let <your brethren>, the whole house of Israel] bewail the consuming fire wherewith Yahweh hath consumed.7 But <from the entrance of the tent of meeting> shall ye not go forth, lest ye die, for the anointing oil of Yahweh is upon you.

And they did according to the word of Moses.

§ 7. Further Instructions for the Priests.

8 Then spake Yahweh unto Aaron, saying:
9 <Wine and strong drink> thou mayest not drink,—<thou nor thy sons with thee> when ye enter into the tent of meeting, so shall ye not die,—an age-abiding statute, to your generations;
10 That ye may make a difference, between the sacred and the common,—and between the unclean and the clean;
11 And may teach the sons of Israel,—all the statutes which Yahweh hath spoken unto them, by the mediation of Moses.
12 Then spake Moses unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar and unto Ithamar his sons, that were left,

Take ye the meal-offering that is left, of the altar-flames of Yahweh, and eat it un-leavened, beside the altar,—for <most holy> it is;10 therefore shall ye eat it in a holy place, for <thine by statute, and thy sons> by statute it is, from among the altar-flames of Yahweh,—for so I am commanded.14 And <the wave-breast, and the heave-shoulder> shall ye eat in a clean place, <thou, and thy sons and thy daughters with thee>—<as thine by statute, and thy sons by statute> have they been given, from among the peace-offerings of the sons of Israel.15 <The heave-shoulder and the wave-breast, upon the altar-flames of the fat portions> shall they bring in, to wave as a wave-offering, before Yahweh,—so shall they be thine, and thy sons with thee, by an age-abiding statute, as Yahweh hath commanded.

§ 8. Aaron's Justification for not eating the Sin-offering.

14 Now <as for the sin-bearing' goat> Moses diligently sought it, but lo! it had been burnt up,—then was he wroth against Eleazar and against Ithamar, the sons of Aaron that were left, saying:
17 Wherefore did ye not eat the sin-bearer in the holy place? for <most holy> it is,—and <the same> hath he given you, that ye may bear the iniquity of the assembly, to put a propitiatory-covering over them, before Yahweh.19 Lo! the blood thereof had not been taken into the holy place, [within],—ye should have indeed eaten it, in a holy place, as I commanded.
19 Then spake Aaron unto Moses—
Lo! <this very day, when they had brought near their own sin-bearer, and their own ascending-sacrifice> there befell me such things as these,—<if, then, I had eaten of the sin-bearer this day> would it have been well-pleasing in the eyes of Yahweh?20 And <when Moses heard that> then was it well-pleasing in his eyes.

§ 9. Concerning Clean and Unclean Beasts.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying unto them:
2 Speak ye unto the sons of Israel, saying,—
3 These are the living things which ye may eat, of all the beasts which are upon the earth: <Whatsoever parteth the hoof, and is cloven-footed, and cheweth the cud, among beasts> [that] may ye eat.4 Nevertheless [these] shall ye not eat, of them that chew the cud, and of them that part the hoof,—
3 The camel] because <though he cheweth the cud> he parteth not, <unclean> he is to you;
5 And <the coney> because <though he cheweth the cud> yet <the hoof> he parteth not, <unclean> he is to you;
6 And <the hare] because <though she cheweth the cud> yet <the hoof> she parteth not,— <unclean> she is to you;
7 And <the swine] because <though he parteth the hoof and is cloven-footed> yet <the cud> he cheweth not,— <unclean> he is to you;
8 <Of their flesh> shall ye not eat, and <their carcass> shall ye not touch,— <unclean> they are to you.
9 <These> may ye eat, of all that are in the waters,— <all that have fins and scales, in the waters, in the seas and in the rivers> [them] may ye eat.10 But <all that have not fins and scales in the seas and in the rivers, of all that swarm in the waters, and of all the living souls that are in the waters: an abomination are they unto you; 11 and an abomination shall they remain to you, — of their flesh ye shall not eat, and their carcases shall ye abhor. 12 Whosoever hath not fins and scales in the waters: an abomination it is unto you.

13 And these shall ye abhor of birds, they shall not be eaten: an abomination are they, — the eagle, and the ossifrage, and the osprey; 14 and the vulture, and the falcon, after its kind; 15 every raven, after its kind; 16 and the female ostrich, and the male ostrich, and the sea-gull, and the hawk, after its kind; 17 and the pelican, and the gannet, and the bittern; 18 and the swan and the amusing pelecanus, and the little pelican; 19 and the stork, and the parrot, after its kind, — and the mountain-cock, and the bat.

30 Every creeping thing that lieth, that goeth on all-fours: an abomination it is unto you. 31 Nevertheless these may ye eat, of all creeping things that fly, that go on all-fours: — such as have legs above their feet, to leap therewith, upon the earth: 32 these of them may ye eat: the swarming-locust after its kind, and the devouring locust after its kind, and the chargol-locust after its kind, and the chagab-locust after its kind.

32 But every other creeping thing that lieth, which hath four feet: an abomination is it unto you: 33 and for these shall ye count yourselves unclean: — whosoever toucheth the carcase of them: shall be unclean until the evening: 34 and whosoever beareth away the carcase of them: shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening.

36 As for every kind of beast which though it parteth the hoof: yet is not cloven-footed, nor cheweth the cud: unclean they are unto you, — every one who toucheth them: shall be unclean. 37 And all that go upon their paws, among all the living things that go on all-fours: unclean they are unto you: — whoso toucheth the carcase of them: shall be unclean until the evening. 38 And he that beareth away the carcase of them: shall wash his clothes, and shall be unclean until the evening: — unclean they are unto you.

39 And these: unto you shall be unclean, among the creeping things that creep upon the earth, — the weasel and the mouse, and the lizard after its kind; 30 and the ferret and the chameleon, and the wall-lizard, — and the winding lizard, and the mole. 40 These: are they which are unclean to you, among all that creep: — whosoever toucheth them when they are dead: shall be unclean until the evening; 32 and all (whereon any of them shall fall when they are dead) shall be unclean: — of any article of wood, or cloth, or skin, or sack-cloth, any article wherewith any work is done: — shall be put in water and shall be unclean until the evening, and then be clean. 33 And for any earthen vessel wherewith any of them may fall: — everything therein shall be unclean, and the vessel itself: shall ye break in pieces.

34 Of all the food that may be eaten, that wherewith shall come water: shall be unclean, — and all drink which shall be drunk in any vessel: shall be unclean. 35 And everything wherewith shall fall any part of the carcase of them: shall be unclean, — even firebreak, it shall be destroyed, unclean they are, — and unclean shall they remain to you. Notwithstanding a fountain or cistern wherein is a gathering of waters: shall be clean, — but he that toucheth the carcase of them: shall be unclean. 37 And when any part of the carcase of them shall fall upon seed for sowing, which is to be sown: the same is clean. 38 But when water shall be put upon seed, and there shall fall thereon any part of the carcase of them: unclean it is to you.

39 And when any of the beasts which are yours for food shall die: — the that toucheth the carcase of it: shall be unclean until the evening. 40 And he that eateth of the carcase of it: shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening: — also he that carrieth away the carcase thereof: shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening.

41 And any creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth: an abomination it is: — it shall not be eaten. 42 Everything that goeth upon the belly, and everything that goeth upon all-fours, even to everything having many feet, as regardeth any creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth: ye shall not eat them, for an abomination they are. Do not make your persons abominable, with any thing that creepeth, — neither shall ye make yourselves unclean with them, that ye should become unclean thereby. 44 For I—Yahweh: am your God, therefore shall ye hallow yourselves and remain holy; for holy am I: — therefore shall I not make your persons unclean, with any creeping thing that crawleth upon the earth: for I—Yahweh: am he that brought you out of the land of Egypt, that I might become your God, — therefore shall ye be holy, for holy am I.
§ 10. Laws for Women after Childbirth.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:
2 Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying:
3 "A woman when she conceiveth seed, and giveth birth to a male child, then shall she be unclean seven days, according to the days of her removal in her sickness shall she be unclean. And on the eighth day shall the flesh of her foreskin be circumcised. And for thirty-three days shall she continue in the blood of purification, no hallowed thing shall she touch, and into the sanctuary shall she not enter, until her days of purification are fulfilled. But if a female child she bear, then shall she be unclean two weeks, as in her removal, and for sixty-six days shall she continue in the blood of purification. And when she of her purification are fulfilled, whether for a son or for a daughter, shall bring in a lamb, the choice of its year, as an ascending-sacrifice, and a young pigeon or a turtle-dove, as a sin-offering, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, unto the priest; and he shall bring it near before Yahweh, so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over her, and she shall be clean from her fountain of blood. This is the law for her that hath given birth, to a male child or to a female. But if her hand findeth not sufficiency for a lamb then shall she take two turtle doves or two young pigeons, one for an ascending-sacrifice, and one for a sin-offering, so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over her, and she shall be clean."

13 And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying:

14 When any man shall have in the skin of his flesh—a rising, or a scab, or a bright spot, and it shall become in the skin of his flesh the plague-spot of leprosy, then shall he be brought in unto Aaron the priest, or unto one of his sons the priests; and the priest shall view the spot in the skin of his flesh if the hair in the plague-spot have turned white and the appearance of the spot be deeper than the skin of his flesh, then shall the priest shut up the plucked one, seven days. And the priest shall view him on the seventh day, and lo! if the spot hath stayed to his sight, and the spot hath not spread in the skin then shall the priest shut him up seven days, more. Then shall the priest view him on the seventh day, a second time, and lo! if the spot is faint, and the spot hath not spread in the skin then shall the priest pronounce him clean—it is a scab; and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean. But if the scab shall have verily spread in the skin, since he was shown to the priest that he might be cleansed, then shall he himself again unto the priest; and the priest shall take a view, and lo! if the scab hath spread in the skin then shall the priest pronounce him unclean—leprosy it is. When the plague of leprosy cometh to be in any human being then shall he be brought in unto the priest; and the priest shall take a view, and lo! if there is a white rising in the skin and the same hath turned the hair white, and there be a wound of raw flesh, in the rising, old leprosy it is, if in the skin of his flesh, and the priest shall pronounce him unclean, he shall not shut him up, for unclean he is. But if the leprosy cometh quite out in the skin, and the leprosy coveth all the skin of him that is plagued, from his head even unto his feet, so far as appeareth to the eyes of the priest then shall the priest take a view, and lo! if the leprosy hath covered all his flesh then shall he pronounce clean him that was plagued, all of it hath turned white, clean he is. But the very day there appeareth in him raw flesh he shall be unclean; so then the priest shall view the raw flesh, and pronounce him unclean, as for the raw flesh unclean leprosy it is. Or if the 11 And when any one's flesh hath in the skin thereof, a boil, and then it is healed; but if in the place of the boil is a white rising, or a bright spot, reddish white, then shall it be shown unto the priest. And the priest shall take a view, and lo! if the appearance thereof is lower than the skin, and the hair thereof hath turned white, then shall the priest pronounce him unclean — the plague-spot of leprosy — it is, broken out. But if the priest shall view it, and lo! there is no white hair therein, and it is not deeper than the skin, and in itself is faint, then shall the priest shut him up seven days; and if it clearly spreadeth in the skin, then shall the priest pronounce him unclean — a plague-spot — it is. But if in its place, the bright spot stayeth, hath not spread, nor boil it is, and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

21 Or, when any one's flesh hath in the skin thereof, a fiery burning, and the burning wound becometh a bright spot, reddish white, or white, then shall the priest view it, and lo! if the hair is turned white in the bright spot, and the appearance thereof is deeper than the skin, then leprosy is broken out. In the burning — so the priest shall pronounce him unclean, the plague-spot of leprosy, it is. But if the priest shall view it, and lo! there is not, in the bright spot, white hair, and it is not deeper than the skin, and in itself is faint, then shall the priest shut him up seven days; and the priest shall view him on the seventh day, — if it hath plainly spread in the skin, then shall the priest pronounce him unclean, the plague-spot of leprosy, it is. But if in its place, the bright spot hath stayed, and hath not spread in the skin, but in itself is faint, then the rising of a burning, it is, and the priest shall pronounce him clean, for only the inflaming of the burning is it.

26 And when there cometh to be in any man or woman a spot, in the head, or in the beard, then shall the priest view the spot, and lo! if the appearance thereof is deeper than the skin, and therein is yellow, thin hair, then shall the priest pronounce him unclean, a scab, it is, a leprosy of the head or of the beard, it is. But when the priest vieweth the spot, and lo! there is no appearance of it deeper than the skin, and no dark hair is therein, then shall the priest shut him up that hath the plague-spot of scab, seven days; and the priest shall view the spot on the seventh day, and lo! if the scab hath not spread, and there hath not come to be therein yellow hair, — and the appearance of the scab is not deeper than the skin, then shall he shave himself, but if the scab be not in the skin, — after he hath been pronounced clean, then shall the priest take a view, and lo! if the scab spreadeth in the skin, the priest shall not search for the yellow hair, then the scab is healed, then the priest shall pronounce him clean, and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean. But if the scab do indeed spread in the skin, — after he hath been pronounced clean, then shall the priest take a view, and lo! if the scab spreadeth in the skin, the priest shall not search for the yellow hair, then the scab is healed, then the priest shall pronounce him clean.

28 And when either man or woman hath in the skin of their flesh, bright spots, bright spots that are white, then shall the priest take a view, and lo! if in the skin of their flesh are bright spots, that are dull white, dead white spot, it is, that hath broken through in the skin, then is it.

36 And when any man's head loseth its hair, though bald, he is clean. And if in front his head loseth its hair, though bald in the forehead, he is clean. But should there be in the baldness behind, or in the baldness in front, a spot, that is reddish white, leprosy broken out, it is, in his baldness behind, or in his baldness in front. So the priest shall view it, and lo! if the rising-spot be reddish white in his baldness behind, or in his baldness in front, like the appearance of leprosy in the skin of the flesh, a leprorous man is he, unclean, he is, unclean shall the priest pronounce him, in his head is his plague.

45 Now as for the leper in whom is the plague —
His clothes shall be rent,
And his head shall be bare,
And his beard shall he cover,
And unclean! unclean! shall he cry.

46 All the days that the plague is in him shall he continue unclean.
Unclean is he, — a "in its appearance," as in ver. 5.

b "A harmless eruption on the skin"— O.G. "A harmless eruption on the skin"—P.B.
And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying—1 And let the law of the leper, in the day when he is declared clean,—He shall be brought in unto the priest; and he shall be brought forth unto the outside of the camp,—and the priest shall take a view, and lo! if the plague of leprosy hath been healed out of the leper; then shall the priest give command,—and there shall be taken—for him that is to be cleansed—two living clean birds,—and cedar wood, and crimson, and hyssop; and the priest shall give command, and one bird shall be slain,—within an earthen vessel, over living water: if for the living bird he shall take it, and the cedar wood, and the crimson, and the hyssop,—and shall dip them, and the living bird, in the blood of the bird that hath been slain over the living water; and shall sprinkle upon him that is to be cleansed from the leprosy, seven times,—and shall pronounce him clean, and shall let go the living bird, over the face of the field.
And he that is to be declared clean shall wash his clothes, and shave off all his hair, and bathe in water, and be clean, and afterwards shall he come into the camp,—and dwell outside his tent, seven days; and it shall be on the seventh day that he shall shave off all the hair of his head, and his beard, and his eyebrows, and all his hair shall he shave off,—and shall wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water, so shall he be clean. And on the eighth day he shall take two he-lambs, without defect, and one ewe-lamb, the choice of its year, without defect,—and three-tenths of fine meal for a meal-offering, overflowed with oil, and one log of oil. And the priest that is cleansing him shall cause the man that is to be cleansed, and those things, to stand before Yahweh, at the opening of the tent of meeting. And the priest shall take one he-lamb, and bring him near as a guilt-bearer, and the log of oil,—and shall wave them as a wave-offering, before Yahweh; and shall slay the lamb in the place where the sin-bearer and the ascending-sacrifice are slain, in the holy place,—for like the sin-bearer, the guilt-bearer is the priest's, most holy; it is. Then shall the priest take the blood of the guilt-bearing, and shall put it upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed,—and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot; and the priest shall take of the log of oil,—and shall pour it upon the palm of the priest's left hand, and the priest shall dip his right finger [and take] of the oil that is on the palm of his left hand, and shall sprinkle the oil with his finger seven times, before Yahweh: and <of the remainder of the oil which is on the palm of his hand> shall the priest put upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot,—upon the blood of the guilt-bearer; and <that which remaineth of the oil that is on the palm of the priest's hand> he shall put upon the head of him that is to be cleansed,—so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him, before Yahweh. Then shall the priest offer the sin-bearer, and shall put a propitiatory-covering over him that is to be cleansed, because of his uncleanness,—and <afterwards> shall he slay the ascending-sacrifice. And the priest shall cause the ascending-sacrifice, and the meal-offering to ascend at the altar,—so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him, and he shall be clean.

But <if he be poor> and his hand hath not enough> then shall he take one he-lamb as a guilt-bearer to be waved, to put a propitiatory-covering over him,—and one-tenth of fine meal, overflowed with oil for a meal-offering, and a log of oil, and two turtle-doves or two young pigeons, for which his hand hath enough,—so shall one' be a sin-bearer, and the other an ascending-sacrifice. And he shall bring them in, on the eighth day, for his cleansing, unto the priest,—unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, before Yahweh. Then shall the priest take the guilt-bearing lamb and the log of oil,—and the priest shall wave them as a wave-offering, before Yahweh. Then shall the guilt-bearing lamb be slain, and the priest shall take of the blood of the guilt-bearer, and put upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed,—and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot; also <of the oil> shall the priest pour out,—on the palm of his own left hand; and the priest shall sprinkle, with his right finger, of the oil that is on the palm of his left hand,—seven times, before Yahweh; then shall the priest put, of the oil that is on the palm of his hand, upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot,—upon the place of the blood of the guilt-offering; and <that which remaineth of the oil which is on the palm of the priest's hand> shall he put upon the head of him that is to be cleansed,—to put a propitiatory-covering over him, before Yahweh. Then shall he offer one' of the turtle-doves, or of the young pigeons,—of that for which his hand hath enough; even that for which his hand hath enough,—the one as a sin-bearer and the other as an ascending-sacrifice, upon the meal-offering,—so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him that is to be cleansed, before Yahweh. This is the law for him in whom hath been the plague of leprosy,—whose hand hath not enough, for that which pertaineth to his cleansing.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying:

<When ye enter into the land of Canaan which I am about to give you, for a possession,—and I put a plague-mark of leprosy in a house, of the land of your possession>, then shall he that owneth the house come in, and tell the priest, saying,—

"A kind of plague-mark" appeareth to me, in the house; and the priest shall give command, and they shall empty the house, ere yet the priest cometh in to view the mark, so that he do not pronounce unclean all that is in the house,—and <after this> shall the priest come in, to view the house; then shall he view the mark, and lo! <if the mark is in the walls of the house, with sunken places, greenish yellow, or reddish,—and they appear to be lower than the surface of the wall>, then shall the priest come forth out of the house, unto the entrance of the house,—and shall shut up the house, seven days; and the priest shall return on the seventh day,—and take a view, and lo! <if the mark hath spread in the walls of the house>, then shall the priest give command, and they shall pull out the stones, wherein is the mark,—and cast them forth outside the city, into an unclean place; and <the house itself> shall he cause to be scraped on the inside, round about,—and they shall pour out the mortar which they have scraped off, outside the city, into an unclean place; and shall take other stones, and put in the place of the stones,—and <other mortar> shall he take, and plaster the house. But <if the mark again breaketh out in the house, after the taking out of the stones,—and after the scraping of the house, and after the plastering>; then shall the priest come in, and take a view, and lo! <if the mark hath spread in the house>  it is in the house, <unclean it is>, and he shall pull down the house,—the stones thereof, and the timber thereof, and all the mortar of the house,—and shall carry them forth outside the city, into an unclean place. And

Cp. chap. ii. 1. n.
And when he that hath the flux sitteth on that whereon he that hath the flux hath sat, shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening.

And the priest that toucheth the flesh of him that hath the flux shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening.

And when he that hath a flux spitteth on him that is clean, then shall he wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening.

And every sable whereon he that hath the flux rideth shall be unclean.

And whosoever toucheth anything that was under him shall be unclean, until the evening; and the carrieth them shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening.

And whosoever he that hath the flux toucheth, not having rinsed his hands in water, then shall he wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening.

And the earthen vessel which he that hath the flux toucheth shall be broken in pieces, and every vessel of wood shall be rinsed in water.

And when he that hath the flux becometh clean from his flux, then shall he number to himself seven days for his cleansing, and wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in living water, and be clean. And on the eighth day he shall take for himself two turtledoves or two young pigeons, and come in before Yahweh, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, and give them to the priest; and the priest shall offer them, one as a sin-offering, and the other as an ascending-sacrifice; and so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him, before Yahweh, because of his flux.

And when there goeth out from any man an outflow of seed then shall he bathe all his flesh in water, and be unclean until the evening. And in the case of any garment or any skin whereupon there shall come to be an outflow of seed, then shall it be washed in water, and be unclean until the evening.

Also a woman with whom man lieth carnally then shall they bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening.

And when a woman hath a flux, and her flow in her flesh is blood seven days shall she continue in her removal, and whosoever toucheth her shall be unclean until the evening; and whosoever she lieth upon in her removal shall be unclean, and whatsoever she sitteth upon shall be unclean; and whosoever toucheth her bed shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening.
LEVITICUS XV. 22—33; XVI. 1—15.

Speak unto Aaron thy brother, that he do not come at all times* into the holy place, within the veil,—into the presence of the propitiatory, which is upon the ark, so shall he not die, for in the cloud will I appear upon the propitiatory.

<Herewith>* shall Aaron come into the holy place,—With a bullock, the choice of the herd, as a sin-bearer, and a ram as an ascending-sacrifice.

* A holy tunic of linen* shall he put on, and [drawers of linen] shall be upon his flesh, and [with a band of linen] shall he gird himself, and [with a turban of linen] shall his head be wrapped about,—holy garments they are', therefore shall he bathe in water his flesh, and so put them on.

And <from the assembly of the sons of Israel> shall he receive two he-goats, for bearing sin,—and one ram, as an ascending-sacrifice.

Then shall Aaron bring near the sin-bearing bullock which is for himself,—and put a propitiatory-covering about himself, and about his household.

Then shall he take the two goats,—and cause them to stand, before Yahweh, at the entrance of the tent of meeting. *And Aaron shall cast lots over the two goats,—one lot for Yahweh, and one lot for Azazel. *Then shall Aaron bring near the goat over which came up the lot for Yahweh,—and shall make of him a sin-bearer; but <the goat over which came up the lot for Azazel> shall he cause to stand alive,—before Yahweh, to put a propitiatory-covering over him,—to send him away unto Azazel, towards the desert.

So Aaron shall bring near the sin-bearing bullock which is for himself, and shall put a propitiatory-covering about himself, and about his household,—and shall slay the sin-bearing bullock which is for himself; and shall take the censer-full of burning coals of fire from off the altar, from before Yahweh, and his hands full of fragrant incense, beaten small,—and bring within the veil; and shall put the incense upon the fire, before Yahweh,—and the cloud of incense shall cover the propitiatory which is over the testimony, and he shall not die, Then shall he take of the blood of the bullock, and shall sprinkle with his finger upon the face of the propitiatory eastwards,—and <before the propitiatory>: shall he sprinkle seven times of the blood, with his finger.

Then shall he slay the sin-bearing goat which is for the people, and bring in its blood, within the veil, and do with its blood, as he did to the blood of the bullock, and shall sprinkle it, upon the propitiatory, and before the propitiatory: so shall he put a propitiatory-covering over the holy place, because of the uncleanness of the sons of Israel, and because of their transgressions, to the extent of all their sins, and so shall he do for the tent of meeting, which abideth with them, in the midst of their uncleanness.

17 And no human being shall be in the tent of meeting, when he cometh in to make a covering by propitiation in the holy place, until he goeth out, so shall he put a propitiatory-covering about himself and about his household, and about all the convocation of Israel. Then shall he go out unto the altar which is before Yahweh, and shall put a propitiatory-covering thereupon, and shall take of the blood of the bullock, and of the blood of the goat, and put upon the horns of the altar, round about; and shall sprinkle upon it, of the blood, with his finger, seven times; and shall cleanse it and hallow it, from the uncleannesses of the sons of Israel.

20 And when he hath made an end of covering by propitiation the holy place, and the tent of meeting, and the altar then shall he bring near the living goat.

21 And Aaron shall lean his two hands, upon the head of the living goat, and confess over him, all the iniquities of the sons of Israel, and all their transgressions, to the extent of all their sins, and shall put them upon the head of the goat, and then send him away, by the hand of a man appointed, towards the desert: so shall the goat bear upon him all their iniquities, into a lone land; and he shall set the goat free, in the desert.

23 Then shall Aaron come into the tent of meeting, and put off the linen garments which he put on when he came into the holy place, and shall leave them there; and shall bathe his flesh in water, in a holy place, and put on his [other] garments, and go forth, and offer his own ascending-sacrifice, and the ascending-sacrifice of the people, so shall he put a propitiatory-covering about himself, and about the people; and with the fat of the sin-bearing shall he make a perfume at the altar.

25 And he that sent away the goat unto Azazel shall wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water, and after that shall he come into the camp.

27 And the sin-bearing bullock, and the sin-bearing goat, whose blood was brought in to make a propitiatory-covering in the holy place shall be carried forth, outside the camp, and they shall burn up in fire, their skins and their flesh, and their dung; and he that hath burned them shall wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water, and after that shall he come into the camp.

29 And it shall become unto you, a statute age-abiding,

<In the seventh month, on the tenth of the month>
Shall ye humble your souls, and no work shall ye do,
The homeborn, or the sojourner that sojourneth in your midst.

30 For on this day shall a propitiatory-covering be put over you, to cleanse you,
From all your sins before Yahweh shall ye be clean.

31 A sabbath of sacred rest: it is unto you, Therefore shall ye humble your souls.
A statute age-abiding.

32 Therefore shall the priest who shall be anointed, and installed, to minister as priest in the stead of his father, make propitiation,
So then shall he put on the linen garments, the holy garments;
And make propitiation for the holy sanctuary,
And for the tent of meeting, and for the altar shall he make propitiation,
Over the priests also, and over all the people of the convocation shall he put a covering by propitiation.

34 So shall this become unto you an age-abiding statute, to put a propitiatory-covering over the sons of Israel, because of all their sins, once in the year.

And he did As Yahweh commanded Moses.

§ 14. Sacrifices to be offered unto Yahweh, not unto Demons: Blood not to be eaten.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

2 Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and unto all the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,

This is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded, saying:

3 What man soever there be of the house of Israel, who slayeth an ox or lamb or goat, in the camp, or whoso slayeth it outside the camp; and unto the entrance of the tent of meeting bringeth it not in, to present it as an oblation unto Yahweh, before the habitation of Yahweh, shall he be put to death, and his blood shall be imputed to that man.

that man be cut off from the midst of his people: 9 to the end that the sons of Israel may bring in their sacrifices which they are offering upon the face of the field, that they may bring them into Yahweh—unto the entrance of the tent of meeting—unto the priest,—and that so <as peace-offerings unto Yahweh> they may offer them. 10 Then shall the priest dash the blood against the altar of Yahweh, at the entrance of the tent of meeting,—and shall make a perfume of the fat, as a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh; so shall they no more offer their sacrifices unto demons, after whom they are unchastely going away,— shall this be to them, unto their generations. 11 Wherefore <unto them> shalt thou say:

What man soever: there may be of the house of Israel, or of the sojourners that sojourn in their midst, who cause to go up an ascending-offering, or a sacrifice; and <unto the entrance of the tent of meeting> doth not bring it in, to offer it unto Yahweh> then shall that man be cut off among his kinsfolk. And <what man soever: there may be of the house of Israel or of the sojourners that sojourn in their midst, that partaketh of any manner of blood> then will I set my face against the person that partaketh of the blood, and will cut him off from the midst of his people. 11 For <as for the life of the flesh> <the blood> it is, therefore have <I> given it unto you upon the altar, to put a propitiatory-covering over your lives,—for <the blood> it is, which <by virtue of the life> maketh propitiation. 12 For this cause> have I said unto the sons of Israel, "Not a person from among you shall partake of blood,—

Even <the sojourn that sojourneth in your midst> shall not partake of blood. And <what man soever: there may be of the sons of Israel, or of the sojourners that sojourn in their midst, who taketh by hunting any wild-beast or bird that may be eaten> then shall he pour out the blood thereof, and cover it with dust; 14 for <as for the life of all flesh> <the blood thereof> <the life thereof> standeth, therefore have I said unto the sons of Israel:

Of the blood of no manner of flesh> shall ye partake.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

1 Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—

I—Yahweh am your God:—
2 After the doings of the land of Egypt wherein ye dwelt> shall ye not do,—
And <after the doings of the land of Canaan, whither I am bringing you in> shall ye not do,
And <in their statutes> shall ye not walk:
My regulations shall ye do,
And <my statutes> shall ye observe, to walk therein,—

I—Yahweh am your God.

Therefore shall ye observe my statutes, and my regulations,
Which <if the son of earth shall do them> Then shall he live in them,—

I am Yahweh.

No person whatsoever: <unto any of the near kin of his own flesh> shall approach, to uncover the parts of shame,—

I am Yahweh.

The shame of thy father, even the shame of thy mother shalt thou not uncover,—thy mother> she is', thou shalt not uncover her shame.

The shame of thy father's wife shalt thou not uncover,—thy father's shame it is'.

The shame of thy sister, daughter of thy father, or daughter of thy mother, born at home or born abroad> thou shalt not uncover their shame.

The shame of the daughter of thy son, or the daughter of thy daughter> thou shalt not uncover their shame,—for thine own shame they are'.

The shame of the daughter of thy father's wife, born to thy father, she being thy sister> thou shalt not uncover her shame.

The shame of the daughter of thy father's wife> thou shalt not uncover,—thy father's near of kin> she is'.

The shame of thy mother's sister> shalt

15. The shame of thy father's brother shalt thou not uncover; unto his wife shalt thou not approach; thine aunt she is.

16. The shame of thy brother's wife shalt thou not uncover; the shame of thy brother; it is.

17. The shame of a woman, and of her daughter shalt thou not uncover; neither the daughter of her son nor the daughter of her daughter shall thou take, to uncover her shame, near of kin; they are, wickedness it is.

18. And a woman unto her sister shalt thou not take, to cause rivalry, by uncovering her shame, besides her own, while she is living.

19. And a woman, during her removal for uncleanness, shall thou not approach, to uncover her shame.

20. And of the wife of thy neighbour shalt thou not have carnal knowledge; to commit uncleanness with her.

21. And none of thy seed shall deliver up, to cause to pass through to Molech; that thou profane not the name of thy God, I am Yahweh.

22. And with mankind shall thou not lie, as with womankind; an abomination it is.

23. And of no beast shall thou have carnal knowledge, to commit uncleanness therewith, neither shall a woman present herself to a beast to touch down thereto; confusion it is.

24. Do not make yourselves unclean, in any of these things; For in all these things have the nations made themselves unclean, whom I am sending out from before you.

25. Therefore hath the land become unclean, and I have visited the iniquity thereof upon it, and the land hath vomited her inhabitants.

26. Ye therefore, shall observe my statutes and my regulations, and have nothing to do with any of these abominations; whether the home-born, or the sojourner that sojourneth in your midst;

For all these abominations have the men of the land done, who were before you; And so the land hath become unclean:

28. So shall the land not vomit you; through your making it unclean; as it vomited the nation which was before you.

29. For whosoever shall have anything to do with any of these abominations the persons who have them shall be cut off out of the midst of their people.

30. Therefore shall ye keep my charge. So that ye may have nothing to do with any of the abominable statutes with which they have had to do before you, So shall ye not make yourselves unclean thereby:

1. I am Yahweh.

§ 16. Holiness enforced upon all the Assembly by a Variety of detailed Commanda.

1. And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

2. Speak unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them—

3. Holy shall ye be; For holy am I, your God.

4. Ye shall keep every one his father and his mother.

5. And my sabbath shall ye observe; I, Yahweh am your God.

6. Do not turn unto things of nought.

7. And molten gods shall ye not make to yourselves.

8. I am Yahweh.

9. And when ye would offer a peace-offering unto Yahweh ye shall offer it that ye may be accepted.

10. On the day ye offer it shall it be eaten; and on the morrow shall it be consumed. But if ye eat of it on the third day it is, it shall not be accepted.

11. And ye shall not steal, nor deceive nor lie, one man to another; Nor swear by my name falsely; And so profane the name of thy God; I am Yahweh.

12. Thou shalt not oppress thy neighbour nor rob him; The wages of him that is hired shall not tarry with thee, until the morning. 14  Thou shalt not curse the deaf, Nor <before the blind> place a stumbling-block.—

So shalt thou stand in awe of thy God, ¶I am Yahweh. 15  Ye shall not act perversely in giving judgment,
Thou shalt neither respect the person of the poor,
Nor prefer the person of the great.—
<In righteousness> shalt thou judge thy neighbour.
Thou shalt not go about telebearing, among thy people,²
Thou shalt not b stand by, over the blood of thy neighbour: c  ¶I am Yahweh. 16  Thou shalt not hate thy brother, in thy heart,—
Thou shalt faithfully reprove thy neighbour, and not countenance him, in sin: ³
Thou shalt not take vengeance, neither shall thou cherish anger against the sons of thy people,
So shalt thou love thy neighbour, as thyself,—  ¶I am Yahweh. 17  ¶My statutes> shall ye observe,
<Thy beast> shalt thou not cause to breed in two kinds,
<Thy field> shalt thou not sow with two sorts of seed,—
And  shalt thou not suffer to come upon thee.
And <whosoever lieth carnally with a woman, she being a bondmaid, acquired for a husband, and neither redeemed nor freed; given her inquisition shall be made, they shall not be put to death, because she was not free; but he shall bring in his guilt-bearer unto Yahweh, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting,—even a ram as a guilt-bearer; and the priest shall put a propitiatory-covering over him, with the guilt-bearing ram, before Yahweh, on account of his sin which he hath committed,—so shall he have forgiveness, from his sin which he hath committed. 18  And <when ye come into the land, and plant any manner of fruit-tree; then shall ye count as uncircumcised the fruit thereof, <three years> shall it be to you as if unclean, it shall not be eaten. But <in the fourth year> all the fruit thereof shall be hallowed for a festival of thanksgivings unto Yahweh. ²⁰ And <in the fifth year> shall ye eat the fruit thereof, that it may enrich you with its increase,—
¶I—Yahweh ¶ am your God. 19  Ye shall eat nothing with b the blood thereof,— Ye shall not practise divination, neither shall ye use magic.
Ye shall not shave in a circle around your head, —nor shalt thou disfigure the fringe of thy board.
<Cuttings for a dead person> d shall ye not make in your flesh.
And <punctures in your persons> shall ye not print,—  ¶I am Yahweh. 20  Do not profane thy daughter, by causing her to be unchaste,—lest the land fall to unchastity, and so the land be filled with wickedness. ²⁰
<My sabbaths> shall ye observe, And <my sanctuary> shall ye revere,—  ¶I am Yahweh. 21  Do not turn unto mediums,²
Nor <for oracles> make search,
To render yourselves unclean with them,—  ¶I—Yahweh ¶ am your God. 22  ¶Before a hoary head> shalt thou rise up, And shalt honour the presence of an elder,—
So shalt thou stand in awe of thy God—  ¶I am Yahweh. 23  And <when there sojourneth with thee> a sojourner in your land> ye shall not oppress him:
<As one home born from among yourselves> shall be unto you the sojourner who sojourneth with you,
So shalt thou love him as thyself, For <sojourners> become ye, in the land of Egypt,—  ¶I—Yahweh ¶ am your God. 24  ¶Ye shall not act perversely in giving judgment,—in measures of extent, in weights, in measures of capacity:
<Just balances, just weights, a just ephah, and a just hin> shall ye have,—  ¶I—Yahweh ¶ am your God, who brought you forth out of the land of Egypt.
Therefore shall ye observe all my statutes and all my regulations, and do them,—

||I || am Yahweh.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

<Unto the sons of Israel> therefore, shalt thou say,

5 ||[What man soever] there may be of the sons of Israel, or of the sojourners that sojourn in Israel, that giveth of his seed unto Molech,> he shall surely be put to death;—

6 ||the people of the land> shall stone him with stones;—

7 ||I, also> will set my face against that man, and will cut him off out of the midst of his people,—because <of his seed> hath he given unto Molech, seeing that he hath made unclean my sanctuary, even to the extent of profaning my holy name.

But <if the people of the land> do even hide their eyes from that man, when he giveth of his seed unto Molech, so as not to put him to death;—

then will ||I myself> set my face against that man, and against his family,— and will cut him off, and all that follow unchastely after him—in going unchastely after Molech—out of the midst of their people.

8 <The person also that turneth unto mediums and unto oracles, in going unchastely after them> then will ||I my self> set my face against that person, and will cut him off out of the midst of his people.

9 Therefore shall ye hallow yourselves and be holy,—

Because ||I || am Yahweh> am he that is hallowing you.

10 <When any man whatsoever> curseth his father or his mother> he shall surely be put to death;—<his father or his mother> hath he cursed, this blood shall be upon himself.

And <any man> who committeth adultery with the wife of any other man> shall surely be put to death;—

11 <the adulterer, and the adulteress>.

And <any man> who lieth with his father's wife> shall be put to death;—<his father> hath he uncovered,— 12 <his blood> shall be upon themselves.

13 And <any man> who lieth with his daughter-in-law> they both shall surely be put to death;—<confusion> have they wrought—<their blood> shall be upon themselves.

14 And <any man> who lieth with mankind> as with womankind> <an abomination> have both of them wronged,—they shall surely be put to death;—<their blood> shall be upon themselves.

15 And <any man> who taketh a woman and her mother> <wickedness> it is,—<in fire> shall both he and they be consumed, that wickedness be not in your midst.

16 And <any man> who hath carnal knowledge of a beast> shall surely be put to death;—

17 And <any man> who taketh his sister—his father's daughter or his mother's daughter, and vieweth her shame, and ||she> vieweth his shame>  it is,—they shall therefore be cut off in the sight of the sons of their people,—<the shame of his sister> hath he uncovered—<his iniquity> shall he bear.

18 And <any man> who lieth with a woman—having her sickness, and uncovereth her shame> <her fountain> hath he exposed, ||she> also hath uncovered her fountain of blood,—they shall therefore both be cut off, out of the midst of their people.

19 <The shame of thy mother's sister, or of thy father's sister> shalt thou not uncover,—<for his near of kin> hath he exposed—<their iniquity> shall they bear.

20 And <any man> who lieth with his uncle's wife> <the shame of his uncle> hath he uncovered,—<their sin> shall they bear—

21 <childless> shall they die.

22 And <any man> who taketh his brother's wife> <impurity> it is,—<the shame of his brother> hath he uncovered—

23 <childless> shall they remain.

Therefore shall ye observe all my statutes, and all my regulations, and do them,—

So shall the land, whereinto I am bringing you to dwell therein, <not vomit you forth>.

So shall ye not walk in the statutes of the nation which I am casting out from before you,—

For <all these things> had they done, Therefore I abhorred them;

And said unto you—

||Ye || shall possess their soil,

Yea ||I myself> will give it you to possess it,
A land flowing with milk and honey,—

11—Yahweh I am your God, who have distinguished you from the peoples:
Therefore shall ye make a distinction—
Between the clean beasts, and the unclean,—
And between the unclean birds, and the clean,—
So shall ye not make your persons abominable with beast, or with bird, or with anything which creepeth upon the ground, which I have distinguished for you [as unclean].
Therefore shall ye be unto me, holy persons, for <holy> am I—Yahweh,— Therefore have I distinguished you from the peoples, that ye may be mine.
And [as touching man or woman] <when there shall be in them a familiar spirit, or the spirit of an oracle> they shall surely be put to death,—<with stones> shall they be stoned—[their blood] shall be upon themselves.

§17. Especial Sanctity enjoined on the Priests.

And Yahweh said unto Moses,

1 Say unto the priests, the sons of Aaron,—yea thou shalt say unto them,
<For a dead person> shall no one make himself unclean, among his people:
2 Saving for his kin, that are near unto him, for his mother or for his father, or for his son or for his daughter, or for his brother; or for his sister, a virgin who is near unto him, who belongeth not unto a husband,—<for her> he may make himself unclean:
3 He shall not make himself unclean, being a chief among his people,—by profaning himself:
4 They shall not make a baldness behind in their head, And <the border of their beard> shall they not cut off,—
And <in their flesh> shall they not make incisions.
5 <Holy persons> shall they be unto their God, and not profane the name of their God,—for <the altar-flames of Yahweh, the food of their God> do they bring near—Therefore shall they be holy.
6 <A woman that is unchaste or dishonoured> shall they not take,
And  shall they not take,—
For <holy> he is unto his God.
Therefore shalt thou hold him as holy, for <the food of thy God> doth he bring near,— <holy> shall he be to thee,
For <holy> am I—Yahweh who am making you holy.
And <the daughter of any> priest, when she profaneth herself by unchastity—
Her father shall she doth profane, <with fire> shall she be consumed.
And <as for the high priest from among his brethren, upon whose head is poured the anointing oil, and who is installed, by putting on the garments> <His head> shall he not bare;—
And <his garments> shall he not rend;
And <unto no persons of the dead> shall he go in,—
For his father or for his mother shall he not make himself unclean;
And <out of the sanctuary> shall he not go forth, so shall he not profane the sanctuary of his God,—for the consecration of the anointing oil of his God is upon him—

§18. Jollity in the presence of God.

But [as I am Yahweh] shall take a woman in her virginity:

13 <A widow, or a divorced woman, or one dishonoured — an unchaste woman> in these shall he not take,
But  shall he take to wife;
15 So shall he not profane his seed, among his kinsfolk,—
For I—Yahweh do hallow him.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

16 Speak unto Aaron, saying,—
[No man of thy seed, unto their generations, in whom shall be any blemish] shall come near, to present the food of his God.
Surely, [no man in whom is any blemish] shall come near,—
No man who is blind or lame, or hath a flat nose, or is lanky; nor any man who hath a broken foot,—or a broken hand; or is hump-backed or a dwarf, or hath defective vision,—or hath scurvy or scab, or is crushed in the stones:
18 No [man in whom is a blemish, of the seed of Aaron the priest] shall approach, to bring near the altar-flames of Yahweh,—[a blemish] is in him, <the food of his God> shall he not approach' to bring near:
19 <Of the food of his God, both of the most holy,—and the holy> may he eat:
Only' <unto the veil> shall he not come in, and <unto the altar> shall he not approach—because [a blemish] is in him, so shall he not profane my sanctuaries.

For II—Yahweh am hallowing them.

And Moses spake [these things] unto Aaron and unto his sons,—and unto all the sons of Israel.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

2 Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons.

That they hold sacredly aloof from the holy things of the sons of Israel, so as not to profane my holy' name,—in the things which they are hallowing unto me—

II I am Yahweh.

Say unto them—

<Unto your generations, as touching any man who cometh near from among any of your seed, unto the hallowed things which the sons of Israel may hallow unto Yahweh, while his uncleanness is upon him> then shall that person be cut off from before me—

II I am Yahweh.

4 No man soever of the seed of Aaron, who is a leper, or hath a flux shall eat of the holy things until he be clean,—

And <as for him who toucheth anything that is unclean by the dead, or a man whose seed goeth from him ; or a man who toucheth any creming thing, which is unclean to him,—or [toucheth] any human being who hath uncleanness, to the extent of anything that maketh him unclean> that any person who toucheth any such] shall then be unclean until the evening,—and shall not eat of the hallowed things, unless he bathe his flesh in water. 7 <When the sun goeth in> then is he clean,—and <thereafter> he may eat of the hallowed things, for <his food> it is'. 6 <That which dieth of itself, or is torn in pieces> shall he not eat, to make himself unclean thereby,—

II I am Yahweh.

Therefore shall they keep my charge, and shall not bear, for it, sin, and die therein, when they profane it,—

II I—Yahweh am hallowing them.

And <no stranger> shall eat what is hallowed,—neither one who dwelleth with a priest, nor a hirer[y] shall eat what is hallowed.

But <when a priest> buyleth any person, as the purchase of his silver> [he] may eat thereof,—and <the children of his household> they may eat of his food.

And <when a priest's daughter> belongeth to a husband who is a stranger> [she]

<of the heave-offering of the hallowed things> may not eat.

But <when a priest's daughter> cometh to be a widow or divorced, and hath no seed], and so she returneth unto the house of her father, as in her youth> <of the food of her father> she may eat,—but <no stranger> shall eat thereof.

And <when any man eateth what is hallowed by mistake> then shall he add the fifth part of it thereunto, and give, unto the priest, the hallowed thing:

So shall they not profane the hallowed things of the sons of Israel,—which they heave up unto Yahweh; nor cause them to bear guilty' iniquity, when they eat their hallowed things.—

For II—Yahweh am hallowing them.

§ 18. Holiness further enforced on both Priests and People by Demand for Perfect Offerings.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and unto all the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them—

<What man soever> of the house of Israel, or of the sojourners [i.e.,] in Israel, may bring near his oblation, as regardeth any of their vows, or any of their freewill offerings which they may bring near unto Yahweh, as an ascending-sacrifice> [<that ye may be accepted> [it must be] a male without defect, of the beeches, or of the sheep, or of the goats: <whosoever hath in it a blemish> shall ye not bring near,—for it shall not be accepted for you.

And <whosoever would bring near a peace-offering unto Yahweh, to consecrate a vow, or as a freewill-offering with a bullock or a sheep> [without defect] shall it be, to be accepted, no [blemish] shall be therein. Blind, or broken, or rent, or having a running sore, or scurvy, or scab> ye shall not bring these near unto Yahweh,—and no [altar-flame] shall ye present therefrom upon the altar unto Yahweh.

<Whether an ox or a lamb, long or short in limb> <as a freewill offering> thou mayest offer it, but <for a vow> it shall not be accepted. But <that which is bruised in the stones, or broken therein, or torn or cut> shall ye neither bring near unto Yahweh, nor <on your own land> shall ye offer. <Even at the hand of the son of a stranger> shall ye not bring near the food of your God, of any of these,—for [their damage] is in them, [a blemish] is in them, they shall not be accepted for you.

Syr. and Vul. add:
And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

When a beec or a sheep or a goat is brought forth, then shall it be seven days under its dam; and from the eighth day and onwards, it shall be accepted as an oblation of an altar-flame, unto Yahweh. Whether cow or ewe, and its young, shall ye not slaughter on one day.

And when ye would offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving unto Yahweh, for your acceptance, shall ye offer it. On the same day shall it be eaten, ye shall not leave thereof until morning.

I am Yahweh.

So then ye shall observe my commandments, and do them:

I am Yahweh.

So shall ye not profane my holy name, which ye shall hallow in the midst of the sons of Israel.

I am Yahweh, who am hallowing you; Who brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, that I might become your God.

I am Yahweh.

§ 19. Appointed Seasons.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them:

As for the appointed seasons of Yahweh, which ye shall proclaim as holy convocations, these are they — my appointed seasons:

Six days shall work be done, but on the seventh day shall there be a sabbath of sacred rest, a holy convocation, no work shall ye do. In six days shall it be unto Yahweh, in all your dwellings.

These are the appointed seasons of Yahweh, holy convocations, which ye shall proclaim in their appointed season:

In the first month, on the fourteenth of the month, between the evenings, is a Passover unto Yahweh; and on the fifteenth day of this month is the festival of unleavened cakes unto Yahweh.

Seven days — unleavened cakes shall ye eat. On the first day — a holy convocation shall there be to you; no laborious work shall ye do. So then ye shall bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh, seven days, on the seventh day [shall there be] a holy convocation, no laborious work shall ye do.

Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them:

When ye enter into the land which I am giving you, and ye reap the harvest thereof, then shall ye bring in a sheaf of the first-ripe corn of your harvest, unto the priest; and he shall wave the sheaf before Yahweh, that ye may be accepted.

On the morrow of the sabbath shall the priest wave it. And ye shall offer on the day when ye wave the sheaf, a he-lamb without defect, the finest of its year, for an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh; and the meal-offering thereof shall be two-tenth parts of fine meal, overflowed with oil, as an altar-flame unto Yahweh, a satisfying odour, and the drink-offering thereof shall be: mine, the fourth of a hin.

Neither bread nor roasted corn, nor garden-land grain, shall ye eat, until this same day, until ye have brought in the oblation of your God, an age-abiding statute unto your generations, in all your dwellings.

Then shall ye keep count to yourselves from the morrow of the sabbath, from the day ye brought in the wave sheaf, seven sabbaths, until there be: seven sabbaths complete shall there be, until on the morrow of the seventh sabbath ye count fifty days, then shall ye bring near a new meal-offering unto Yahweh. Out of your dwellings shall ye bring in two wave loaves of two-tenths of an ephah, of fine meal, shall they be, with a he-lamb shall they be baked, first-fruits unto Yahweh.

Then shall ye bring near, with the bread, seven he-lambs without defect, of the first year, and one young bullock, and two rams, — they shall be an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, with their meal-offering, and their drink-offerings, an altar-flame of satisfying odour unto Yahweh. Then shall ye offer one he-goat, as a sin-bearer, and two he-lambs, of the first year, as a peace-offering. And the priest shall wave them, with the firstfruits bread, as a wave-offering before Yahweh, with the two he-lambs, — holy shall they be unto Yahweh, for the priest.

And ye shall make proclamation on this selfsame day — a holy convocation shall it be unto you; no laborious work shall ye do, — an age-abiding statute, in all your dwellings, unto your generations.

And when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly clear the border of thy field, when thou reapest, and the gleanings of thy field; but thou shalt leave them for the poor and for the stranger.
And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

In the seventh month, on the first of the month, shall there be unto you a sacred rest, a holy convocation: no laborious work shall ye do, but ye shall bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh.

Surely on the tenth of this seventh month is the Day of Propitiation: a holy convocation shall it be to you, therefore shall ye humble your souls, and bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh. And no work shall ye do on this selfsame day:

No work shall ye do, on this selfsame day, for a day of propitiation; it is to put a propitiatory-covering over you before Yahweh your God. For whosoever be the person that shall not be humbled on this selfsame day shall he be cut off from among his kinsfolk. And whosoever be the person that shall do any work on this selfsame day, then will I destroy that person from the midst of his people.

No work shall ye do, on this selfsame day: seven days shall ye bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh:

A sabbath of sacred rest shall it be unto you, so shall ye humble your souls, on the ninth of the month, in the evening, from evening to evening shall ye keep your sabbath.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

On the fifteenth day of this seventh month shall be the feast of booths, for seven days, unto Yahweh. On the first day shall be a holy convocation, no laborious work shall ye do.

Seven days shall ye bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh: on the eighth day—sabbath day shall there be unto you, so shall ye bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh. The closing of the feasts it is, no laborious work shall ye do.

These are the appointed seasons of Yahweh, which ye shall proclaim as holy convocations: for bringing near as an altar-flame unto Yahweh, an ascending-sacrifice, and a meal-offering, a sacrifice and a drink-offering, each day's appointment on its own day:

1. And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

Command the sons of Israel, that they bring unto thee pure oil, olive, beaten for giving light, to cause the lamp to burn up continually. Outside the veil of the testimony, in the tent of meeting, shall Aaron order it, from evening until morning, before Yahweh, continually— a statute, age-abiding, to your generations.

Upon the pure lampstand shall he order the lamps, before Yahweh, continually.

And thou shalt take fine meal, and bake it, in twelve cakes, of fine flour, without leaven, every cake of ten Hyperborean talents. And thou shalt put, upon each row, pure frankincense, so shall it be before the Lord, a memorial, an altar-flame unto Yahweh.

A sabbath day by sabbath day shall he order it, before Yahweh, continually, from the sons of Israel as an age-abiding covenant: so shall it be for Aaron and for his sons, and they shall eat it, in a holy place, for the most holy shall it be unto him, from among the altar-flames of Yahweh, a statute age-abiding.

20 And forth went the son of a woman of Israel—[he] being the son of a man of Egypt—in the midst of the sons of Israel; 21 and the son of the woman of Israel, and a man of Israel, reviled one another in the camp. And the son of the Israelitish woman uttered contemptuously the Name, and reviled. So they brought him in unto Moses, now [the name of his mother] was Shelomith, daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan; 22 and they put him in ward,—that a clear answer might be given to them, at the mouth of Yahweh. 23 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

14 Bring forth him that reviled, unto the outside of the camp, then shall all that heard [him] lean their hands upon his head,—and all the assembly shall stone him. 15 And [unto the sons of Israel] shalt thou speak, saying,—

What man soever curseth his God shall bear his sin. 16 And [the] contemptuously uttereth the name of Yahweh, he shall be stoned to death. All the assembly shall stone him. 17 And [the] sojourner, so the home-born, when he contemptuously uttereth the Name, shall be stoned to death.

8 And [when] any man by smiting taketh the life of any human being, he shall be stoned to death. 18 And [he that] by smiting taketh away the life of a beast shall make it good,—life for life. 19 And [when] any man inflicteth a blemish upon his neighbour, (as he hath done,) [so] shall it be done to him: 20 [for] fracture for fracture, eye for eye, tooth for tooth. 21 And [he that] killeth a beast, shall make it good,—and [he that] killeth a human being, shall be put to death. 22 One rule shall ye have, as the sojourner and the home-born: For [I—Yahweh] am your God.

23 So then Moses spake unto the sons of Israel, and they took forth the reviler, unto the outside of the camp, and stoned him with stones. Thus the sons of Israel did, as Yahweh commanded Moses.

25 And Yahweh spake unto Moses in Mount Sinai, saying—

2 Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them:—

When ye enter into the land which I am giving you then shall the land keep a sabbath unto Yahweh. 3 [Six years] shalt thou sow thy field, and [six years] shalt thou prune thy vineyard,—and gather the increase thereof; 4 but [in the seventh year] a sabbath of sacred rest shall there be unto the land, a sabbath unto Yahweh: [thy field] shalt thou not sow, and [thy vineyard] shalt thou not prune; 5 [that which growth of itself of thy harvest] shalt thou not reap; and [the grapes of thine unpruned vines] shalt thou not cut off: [a year of sacred rest] shall there be to the land. 6 So shall the sabbath of the land be unto you for food: [unto thee, and unto thy servant, and unto thy handmaid,—and unto thy hireling, and unto thy sojourner that is sojourning with thee; and unto thy tame-beasts, and unto the wild-beasts that are in thy land] shall belong all the increase thereof, for food.

And thou shalt count to thee seven weeks of years, seven years, seven times,—so shalt the days of the seven weeks of years come to thee, forty-nine years. 9 Then shalt thou cause a signal-horn to pass through, in the seventh month, on the tenth of the month: [on the Day of Propitiation] shall ye cause a horn to pass throughout all your land. 10 So shall ye hallow the fiftieth year, and proclaim freedom throughout the land, to all the dwellers thereof, —[a jubilee] shall it be unto you, and ye shall return, every man unto his possession, and [every man, unto his family] shall ye return. 11 A jubilee shall that fiftieth year be unto you,—ye shall not sow, neither shall ye reap the self-grown corn thereof, nor cut off the grapes of the unpruned vines thereof. 12 For [a jubilee] it is, [holy] shall it be unto you,—[out of the field] shall ye eat her increase. 13 [In this same jubilee year] shall ye return, every man unto his possession.

And [when ye sell anything to thy neighbour, or buy aught at thy neighbour's hand] do not overreach one another. 14 By the number of years after the jubilee shalt thou buy of thy neighbour,—by the number of the years of increase shall he sell unto thee; 15 [according to the multitude of the years] shall thou increase the price thereof, and [according to the farness of the years] shall thou diminish the price thereof,—because [the sum of the increase] it is' that he selleth thee. 17 So then ye shall not overreach one another; but thou shalt stand in awe of thy God,—for [I—Yahweh] am your God.

Wherefore ye shall do my statutes, and [my regulations] shall ye observe, and do them,—so shall ye dwell upon the land with confidence; and the land shall yield her fruit; and ye shall eat to the full, and shall dwell with confidence thereupon.

20 And 2 since ye may say, What shall we eat in the seventh year? Lo! we are not to sow, neither are we to gather our increase! >

21 Therefore will I command my blessing upon you, in the sixth year, — and it shall make the increase of three years; 22 and ye shall sow, the eighth year, and eat of old store, — until the ninth year, until the coming in of the increase thereof, shall ye eat old store.

23 The land moreover, shall not be sold beyond recovery, for <mine> is the land, —for <sojourners and settlers> ye are with me. 24 And <in all the land of your possession> a <right of redemption> shall ye give to the land. 25 When thy brother waxeth poor, and soseloth of his possession then may his kinsman that is near unto him come in, and redeem that which was sold by his brother. 26 And <when any man> hath no kinsman,—but his own hand geteth enough, so that he findeth what is needed to redeem it, then shall he reckon the years since he sold it, and restore the overplus, to the man to whom he sold it,—and shall return to his possession. 27 But <if his hand have not found enough to get it back unto him> then shall that which he sold remain in the hand of him that bought it, until the year of the jubilee, —and shall go out in the jubilee, and lie shall return unto his possession.

28 And <when any man selleth a dwelling-house in a walled city> then shall his right of redemption remain, until the completion of a year after he sold it,—<for a year of days> shall his right of redemption remain. 29 But <if it be not redeemed before the end of a full year> then shall the house that is in the city that hath walls be confirmed [beyond recovery], to him who bought it, unto his generations,—it shall not go out in the jubilee. 30 But <as for the houses of villages which have no wall round about them> <with the fields of redemption> shall it be reckoned,— shall belong to it, and <in the jubilee> shall it go out. 31 And <as for the cities of the Levites, the houses of the cities of their possession> <an age-abiding right of redemption> shall pertain unto the Levites. 32 And <if one of the Levites should not redeem> then shall the sale of the house and the city of his possession go out in the jubilee; for <the houses of the cities of the Levites> are their possession, in the midst of the sons of Israel. 33 But <the field of the pasture-land of their cities> shall not be sold,—for <an age-abiding possession> it is unto them. 34 And <when thy brother waxeth poor, and his hand becometh feeble> with thee then shalt thou strengthen him, <as a sojourner and a settler> so shall he live with thee. 35 Do not accept from him interest or profit, but stand thou in awe of thy God,—so shall thy brother live with thee. 36 Thy silver shalt thou not give him on interest, — neither <for profit> shalt thou give him thy food. 37 I — Yahweh am your God, who brought you forth out of the land of Egypt,—to give unto you the land of Canaan, <to become your> God. 38 And <when thy brother waxeth poor with thee, and so selloth himself unto thee> thou shalt not bind him with the bondage of a bondman: <as a hired servant, as a settler> shall he remain with thee,—<until the year of the jubilee> shall he serve with thee; 41 then shall he go forth from thee, the and his sons with him,—and shall return unto his family, and <unto the possession of his fathers> shall he return. 42 For <my bondmen> they are, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt,—they shall not sell themselves with the sale of a bondman. 43 Thou shalt not rule over him with rigour,—so shalt thou stand in awe of thy God. And <as for thy bondman and thy bondmaid which thou shalt have> <of the nations that are round about you—from them> may ye buy bondman and bondmaid. 44 Moreover also, <of the sons of the settlers who are sojourning with you> —of them> may ye buy, and of their families that are with you, which they have begotten in your land,—so shall they become yours, as a possession; 45 and ye may take them as an inheritance, for your sons after you, to inherit as a possession, <unto times age-abiding> <of them>, may ye take to be bondmen,—but <cover your brethren the sons of Israel—a man over his brother> ye shall not rule over him with rigour.

Then shall your threshing reach unto the vintage,
And the vintage shall reach unto the seedtime.—
And ye shall eat your food to the full;
And shall dwell securely in your land.
And I will give peace in the land,
And ye shall lie down, and nothing shall make you afraid;
And I will take away violent beasts out of the land;
And the sword shall not go through your land.
And ye shall chase your foes,—
And they shall fall before you, by the sword;
And five, of you shall chase a hundred,
And a hundred of you shall put ten thousand to flight,—
So shall your foes fall before you, by the sword.
And I will turn unto you,
And make you fruitful,—
And multiply you,
And will establish my covenant with you.
And ye shall eat old store, well seasoned,—
And the old from before the new shall ye put forth.
And I will set my habitation in your midst,—
And my soul shall not abhor you;
But I will walk to and fro in your midst,
And will be unto you a God,—
And ye shall be unto me a people.
I—Yahweh—am your God, who brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, that ye should not be their bondmen; so I brake in pieces the staves of your yoke, and caused you to walk [in] recta.

But if ye will not hearken unto me,
And will not do all these commandments;
And if <my statutes> ye refuse,
And <my regulations> your souls shall abhor,—
So that ye will not do all my commandments,
But shall break my covenant>
I also will do this unto you—
I will set over you <for terror> consumption and fever,
Causing the eyes to fail, and the soul* to pine away,—
And ye shall sow, in vain, your seed, for it shall be eaten by your foes.*
And I will set my face against you,
And ye shall be smitten before your foes,—
And be trodden down by them who hate you,
And shall flee, when no one is pursuing you.
And ye shall hear me. Then will ye seven times, for your sins.

21. And ye shall destroy the flesh of your sons, and shall ye eat.

22. And I will destroy your high places, and cut down your sun-pillars, and cast your carcases upon the carcases of your manufactured gods, Thus shall my soul abhor you.

23. And I will give your cities unto desolation, and make your holy places dumb, and will find no fragrance in your satisfying odour; And I will make the land dumb, and your foes that dwell therein shall regard it with dumb amazement:

24. <When even you> shall scatter among the nations, and make bare, after you, a sword. Then shall your land become an astonishment, and your cities become a desolation.

25. And I will make the land dumb, while I set my face against it, and scatter among the nations, and they shall possess it;

26. And you shall be delivered into the hand of an enemy. Then shall ten women bake your bread in one oven, and give back your bread by weight, and ye shall eat, and not be filled.

27. And ye shall be delivered into the hand of an enemy. Then shall ten women bake your bread in one oven, and give back your bread by weight, and ye shall eat, and not be filled.

LEUTICUS XXVI. 43—46; XXVII. 1—24.

Yea moreover <my covenant with Isaac>,
Yea moreover <my covenant with Abraham> will I remember;
And <the land> will I remember.
4 For <the land> shall be left of them,
And shall be paid her sabbaths, while she lieth desolate without them,
They also accepting as a payment the punishment of their iniquity,
Because, [yea because] <my regulations>
they refused,
And <my statutes> their soul abhorred.
And yet [even so, when they are in the land of their foes]
I have not refused them,
Neither have I abhorred them,
To make an end of them,
To break my covenant with them,—
For [I—Yahweh] am their God.
Therefore will I remember in their behalf,
the covenant of their ancestors,— Whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt, in the sight of the nations, that I might be their God—
[I—Yahweh].

46 [These] are the statutes and the regulations and the laws, which Yahweh granted between himself, and the sons of Israel,—

Moses.

§ 24. Concerning Vows, Things Devoted, and Tithes.

27 1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:
2 Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them—
3 When [any man] would consecrate and pay a vow by thine estimate of lives* unto Yahweh:—
 Then shall <thine estimate be [for the male:] from twenty years of age even to sixty years of age> yea thine estimate shall be—fifty shekels of silver, by the shekel of the sanctuary; 4 but if it be [a female:] then shall thine estimate be, thirty shekels. 5 And if it be from five years of age, even unto twenty years of age then shall thine estimate be [for the male:] twenty shekels,—and [for the demale:] ten shekels.
6 And,
If it be from a month old, even unto five years old then shall thine estimate be—[for the male:] five shekels of silver,— and [for the female:] thine estimate [shall be] three shekels of silver. 7 And If it be from sixty years of age and upwards [for a male:] then shall thine estimate be fifteen shekels,—and [for the dfemale:] ten shekels.
8 But
If he be [too poor] for thine estimate then shall he present himself before the priest, and the priest shall estimate him,—

* Note the tense—the prophetic perfect.

b Lit. "hand."

9 Or: "persons."

According to that which the hand of him who would vow can attain to> shall the priest estimate him. 9 And If it be a beast whereof men* may bring near an obligation unto Yahweh> all that whereof aught is given to Yahweh shall be holy. 10 He shall not alter it, nor change it,—good for bad, or bad for good,—< if he [do] change beast for beast> then shall [both it and what was given in exchange for it] be holy. 11 And <if it be any unclean beast, whereof men may not bring near an obligation to Yahweh> then shall he present the beast before the priest: 12 and the priest shall estimate it, whether it is good or bad, —< according to thine estimate, O priest> shall it be.
But if he [should please to redeem] it> then shall he add the fifth part thereof unto thine estimate.

14 And <when [any man] would hallow his house to be holy unto Yahweh> then shall the priest estimate it, whether it is good or bad,—< as the priest shall estimate it> shall it stand. 15 But if he [that hallowed it] would redeem his house> then shall he add the fifth part of the silver of thine estimate thereunto, and it shall be his.

16 And <if of the field of his possession> any man would hallow unto Yahweh> then shall thine estimate be according to the seed thereof,—<the seed of a homer of barley> at fifty shekels of silver.
17 <If> from the year of jubilee he would hallow his field> <according to thine estimate> shall it stand. 18 But If after the jubilee he would hallow his field> then shall the priest reckon to him the silver, according to the years that remain, until the year of the jubilee,—and it shall be abated from thine estimate. 19 But <if he that hath hallowed it> should be pleased to redeem the field> then shall he add the fifth part of the silver of thine estimate thereunto, and it shall be assured to him. 20 But If he will not redeem the field, but have sold the field to another man> it shall be redeemable no longer; 21 so shall the field, when it goeth out in the jubilee, be holy unto Yahweh, as a devoted field, <to the priest> shall belong the possession thereof. 22 <If, however, a field that he hath bought, which is not of the fields of his possession> he would hallow unto Yahweh> then shall the priest reckon to him the amount of thine estimate, until the year of the jubilee,—and he shall give thine estimate, in that day, as holy unto Yahweh. 24 In the year of the jubilee> shall the field return unto him from whom he bought it, to him whose it was, as a possession in the land.

25 And every estimate of thine shall be by the holy shekel,—twenty gerahs make the shekel.

26 Only the firstling which is born a firstling to Yahweh, among beasts no man shall hallow it,—whether ox or sheep—unto Yahweh, it belongeth. 27 But if it be among the beasts that are unclean then shall he ransom it by thine estimate, and add the fifth part of it thereunto, but if it is not redeemed then shall it be sold by thine estimate.

28 Only no devoted thing which any man shall devote unto Yahweh, of all that belongeth to him,—of man or beast, or of the field of his possession shall be either sold or redeemed,—as to every devoted thing most holy it is unto Yahweh.

29 As touching any one devoted, who may be devoted from among men he shall not be ransomed,—he must be surely put to death.

And as for all the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land, (or) of the fruit of the trees—unto Yahweh it belongeth,—as something holy unto Yahweh. 21 But if any man should be pleased to redeem aught of his tithes the fifth part thereof he shall add thereunto. 22 And as for all the tithe of herd and flock, all that passeth under the rod shall be holy unto Yahweh. 23 He shall not examine whether it be good or bad, neither shall he change it,—or if he shall do in any wise change it then shall both it and what is given in exchange for it be holy, it shall not be redeemed.

24 These are the commandments which Yahweh commanded Moses, for the sons of Israel, in Mount Sinai.

THE BOOK OF NUMBERS

§ 1. The Numbering of the Hosts of Israel.

(Cp. § 22).

1 Then spoke Yahweh unto Moses, in the desert of Sinai, in the tent of meeting,—on the first of the second month, in the second year, by their coming forth out of the land of Egypt, saying:

2 Reckon ye up the sum of all the assembly of the sons of Israel, by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, every male, by their polls; 2 from twenty years old and upwards, every one able to go forth to war, in Israel,—ye shall number them by their hosts, thou and Aaron; 4 and with you shall be one man for each tribe,—each man head of his ancestral house shall be.

5 These, then, are the names of the men who shall stand with you,—Of Reuben Elizur, son of Shedeur;

6 Of Simeon Shelumiel, son of Zuri-shaddai;

7 Of Judah Nahshon, son of Amminadab;

8 Of Issachar Nethanel, son of Zuar;

9 Of Zebulun Eliab, son of Helon;

10 Of the sons of Joseph—

11 Of Ephraim Elishama, son of Ammihud;

12 Of Manasseh Gamaliel, son of Pedahzur;

13 Of Benjamin Abidan, son of Gideoni;

14 Of Dan Ahiezer, son of Ammishaddai;

15 Of Asher Pagiel, son of Ochran;

16 Of Gad Eliassaph, son of Deuel;

17 Of Naphtali Ahira, son of Enan.

These are they who had been summoned by the assembly, being princes of the tribes of their fathers,—heads of the thousands of Israel.

So then Moses and Aaron took these men, who were distinguished by name; 19 all the assembly also called they together, on the first of the second month,—and they declared their pedigree according to their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old and upwards, by their polls.

19 As Yahweh commanded Moses so he mustered them in the desert of Sinai.

20 And they were [as followeth—

Some cod. while writing this name as one word, preserve it in a v.r. as two—G.n.
The sons of Reuben, the firstborn of Israel, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, by their polls, every male, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; 21 such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Reuben, forty-six thousand, and five hundred.

Of the sons of Simeon, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—such as were numbered of him, in the counting of names, by their polls, every male, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; 22 such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Simeon, fifty-nine thousand, and three hundred.

Of the sons of Gad, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; 23 such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Gad, forty-five thousand, and six hundred and fifty.

Of the sons of Judah, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; 24 such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Judah, seventy-four thousand, and six hundred.

Of the sons of Issachar, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; 25 such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Issachar, fifty-four thousand, and four hundred.

Of the sons of Zebulun, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; 26 such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Zebulun, fifty-seven thousand, and four hundred.

Of the sons of Joseph—b Of the sons of Ephraim, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; 27 such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Ephraim, forty thousand, and five hundred.

Of the sons of Manasseh, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; 28 such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Manasseh, thirty-two thousand, and two hundred.

Of the sons of Benjamin, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; 29 such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Benjamin, thirty-five thousand and four hundred.

Of the sons of Dan, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; 30 such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Dan, sixty-two thousand, and seven hundred.

Of the sons of Asher, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; 31 such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Asher, forty-one thousand, and five hundred.

Of the sons of Naphtali, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; 32 such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Naphtali, fifty-three thousand, and four hundred.

These are they who were numbered, whom Moses and Aaron, and the twelve princes of Israel did number, the princes acting each one for his ancestral house. 33 So then all they who were numbered of the sons of Israel, by their ancestral houses,—from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war in Israel; so then all they who were numbered were six hundred and three thousand, and five hundred and fifty.

But the Levites, by the tribe of their fathers, were not numbered in their midst. 34 For Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

Only the tribe of Levi shalt thou not number, nor the sum of them shalt thou reckon up,—in the midst of the sons of Israel. But do thou thyself, put the Levites in charge over the habitation of the testimony, and over all the furniture thereof, and over all that pertaineth thereto, they shall bear the habitation, and all the furniture thereof, and they shall attend thereupon; and round about the habitation shall they encamp. And when the habitation is to set forward, the Levites shall take it down, and when the habitation is to be pitched, the Levites shall set it up,—but the stranger that draweth near shall be put to death. So then the sons of Israel shall pitch their tents,—every man near his own camp, and every man near his own standard, by their hosts; †54 but the Levites shall pitch their tents round about the habitation of the testimony, that there be no wrath upon the assembly of the sons of Israel, -so shall the Levites keep the watch of the habitation of the testimony.

§ 2. The Order of March—in Five Camps.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying:

<Every man—near his standard, with the ensigns belonging to their ancestral houses> shall the sons of Israel encamp,—<at a distance round about the tent of meeting> shall they encamp.

† And they who encamp eastwards, towards sunrise, shall be the standard of the camp of Judah, by their hosts,—even the prince of the sons of Judah, Nashón, son of Ammihud; † and his host, even they who are numbered of them, seventy-four thousand, and six hundred.

† Then who encamp by him, the tribe of Issachar, Nethanel, son of Zuar; † and his host, even they who are numbered of them, fifty-four thousand, and four hundred.

† The tribe of Zebulun even the prince of the sons of Zebulun, Eliab, son of Helón; † and his host, even they who are numbered of him, fifty-seven thousand, and four hundred.

† All they who are numbered to the camp of Judah, a hundred and eighty-six thousand, four hundred, by their hosts—shall first set forward.

† The standard of the camp of Reuben southwards, by their hosts,—even the prince of the sons of Reuben, Eliasar, son of Shimeur; and his host, even they who are numbered of him, forty-six thousand, and five hundred.

† Then they who encamp by him, the tribe of Simeon, even the prince of the sons of Simeon, Shelumiel, son of Zurishaddai; † and his host, even they who are numbered of them, fifty-nine thousand, and three hundred.

† Then the tribe of Gad, even the prince of the sons of Gad, Eliasaph, son of Reuel; † and his host, even they who are numbered of them, forty-five thousand, and six hundred and fifty.

† All they who are numbered to the camp of Reuben, a hundred and fifty-one thousand, and four hundred and fifty, by their hosts and they <in the second rank> shall set forward.

† Then shall set forward the tent of meeting—the camp of the Levites, in the midst of the camps,—<as they encamp> [so] shall they set forward, every man at the side thereof, by their standards.

† The standard of the camp of Ephraim, by their hosts, westwards,—even the prince of the sons of Ephraim, Eliashama son of Ammihud; † and his host, even they who are numbered of them, forty thousand, and five hundred.

† Then by him, the tribe of Manasseh, even the prince of the sons of Manasseh, Gamaliel, son of Pedahzur; † and his host, even they who are numbered of them, thirty-two thousand, and two hundred.

† Then the tribe of Benjamin, even the prince of the sons of Benjamin, Abidan, son of Gideoni; † and his host, even they who are numbered of them, thirty-five thousand, and four hundred.

† All they who are numbered to the camp of Ephraim, a hundred and eight thousand, and one hundred, by their hosts and they <in the third rank> shall set forward.

† The standard of the camp of Dan, northwards, by their hosts,—even the prince of the sons of Dan, Ahiezer, son of Ammishaddai; † and his host, even they who are numbered of them, sixty-two thousand, and seven hundred.

† Then they who encamp by him, the tribe of Asher, even the prince of the sons of Asher, Pagiel, son of Ochran; † and his host, even they who are numbered of them, forty-one thousand, and five hundred.

† Then the tribe of Naphtali, even the prince of the sons of Naphtali, Ahira, son of Enán; † and his host, even they who are numbered of them, fifty-three thousand, and four hundred.

† All they who are numbered to the camp of Dan, a hundred and fifty-seven thousand, and six hundred—<in the hindmost rank> shall they set forward, by their standards.

† These are they who were numbered of the sons of Israel, by their ancestral houses,—all they who were numbered of the camps, by their hosts were six hundred and three thousand, and five hundred, and fifty.

But the Levites were not numbered in the midst of the sons of Israel,—As Yahweh commanded Moses.

Thus did the sons of Israel,—<according to all that Yahweh commanded Moses> [so] did they encamp by their standards, and [so] did they set forward, every one by his families, near his ancestral house.

§ 3. The Numbering of the Levites as the Substituted Tribe.

Now these were the pedigrees of Aaron, and Moses,—in the day when Yahweh spake... with Moses, in Mount Sinai.

And these are the names of the sons of Aaron—the firstborn Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

These are the names of the sons of Aaron, the priests that were anointed, who were installed to minister as priests.

But Nadab and Abihu died before Yahweh, when they brought near strange fire before Yahweh, in the desert of Sinai, and they were not numbered among the princes, in the presence of Aaron their father.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying—

Bring near the tribe of Levi, and thou shalt cause it to stand before the tent of meeting, so shall they keep the charge and the charge of all the assembly, before the tent of meeting, to do the laborious work of the habitation; so shall they have charge of all the furniture of the tent of meeting, even the charge of the sons of Israel, to do the laborious work of the habitation.

Thus shalt thou give the Levites unto Aaron, and unto his sons, given, they are unto him, from among the sons of Israel; but unto Aaron, and unto his sons, shalt thou give oversight, so shall they keep charge of their priesthood, and the stranger that cometh near shall be put to death.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying—

Therefore, lo! I have taken the Levites out of the midst of the sons of Israel, instead of every firstborn that a mother beareth, from among the sons of Israel, so shall the Levites be mine; for every firstborn, in the day when I smote every firstborn in the land of Egypt, I hallowed unto myself, every firstborn in Israel, both of man and of beast, did they become; and belong unto me, Yahweh.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, in the desert of Sinai, saying:

Number thou the sons of Levi, by their ancestral houses, by their families, every male, from one month old and upwards shalt thou number them.

And these were the sons of Levi, by their names, Gershon, and Kohath, and Merari.

And these are the names of the sons of Gershon, by their families, Libni, and Shimei.

Some cod. (w. one pr. edn.)—Sam. MS, Onk. M., and Syr. have: "and these"—G.n.

Lev. x. 1-7. The accounts of this tribe will repay careful study.

And the sons of Kohath, by their families, Amram, and Ishar, Hebron, and Uzziel.

And the sons of Merari, by their families, Mahli and Mush. These are they—the families of the Levites, by their ancestral houses.

To Gershon belonged the family of the Libnites, and the family of the Shimmites,—these are they—the families of the Gershonites. They who were numbered of them, in the counting of every male, from one month old and upwards, they who were numbered of them, were seven thousand, and five hundred.

The families of the Gershonites to the rear of the habitation were to encamp, westward. And the prince of the ancestral house of the Gershonites was Eliasaph, son of Lael.

The charge of the sons of Gershon was over the tent of meeting, the habitation, and the tent—the coverings thereof, and the screens for the entrance of the tent of meeting; and the hangings of the court, and the screen for the entrance of the court which was near the habitation, and near the altar, round about, and the cords thereof, as to all the laborious work thereof.

To Kohath belonged the family of the Amranites, and the family of the Izharites, and the family of the Hebronites, and the family of the Uzzielites,—these are they—the families of the Kohathites. In the counting of every male, from one month old and upwards, there were eight thousand, and six hundred, to keep the charge of the sanctuary.

The families of the sons of Kohath were to encamp, on the side of the habitation, southward. And the prince of the ancestral house of the families of the Kohathites was Elizaphan, son of Uzziel.

And their charge was—the ark, and the table, and the lampstand and the altars, and the utensils of the sanctuary wherewith they were to minister, and the screen, as to all the laborious work thereof.

And the princes of the Levites was Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, to have the oversight of them, that were to keep the charge of the sanctuary.

To Merari belonged the family of the Mahlites, and the family of the Mushites,—these are they—the families of Merari. And they who were numbered of them, in the counting of every male, from one month old and upwards, were six thousand, and two hundred.

And the prince of the ancestral house of the families of Merari was Zuriel, son of Abihail.

On the side of the habitation, were they to encamp, northward. And the oversight of the charge of the sons of Merari was—the boards of the habitation, and the bars thereof, and the pillars thereof and the sockets thereof, and all the furniture thereof, as to all the...
§ 4. The Numeration of the Levites for Active Service, under the Priests.

1 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying:

2 Reckon up the sum of the sons of Kohath, out of the midst of the sons of Levi,—by their families, by their ancestral house:

3 from thirty years old, and upwards, even unto fifty years,—every one that can enter into the host, to do service in the tent of meeting.

4 This shall be the labour of the sons of Kohath, in the tent of meeting,—the most holy things. 5 So then Aaron and his sons shall enter, when the camp is to set forward, and take down the screening’ veil,—and enwrap therein the ark of the testimony; 6 and put thereon a covering of badgers’ skin, and spread a complete wrapper of blue, over above,—and put in the staves thereof. 7 And the Presence’ table shall they spread a wrapper of blue, and put thereon the dishes and the pans and the bowls and the libation cups; the perpetual bread also shall remain; 8 and they shall spread over them a wrapper of crimson, and cover the same with a covering of badgers’ skin,—and shall put in the staves thereof.

9 Then shall they take a wrapper of blue, and cover the light’ giving lampstand, and the lamps thereof, and the snuffers thereof, and all the oil’ vessels thereof, wherewith they minister thereunto; 10 and shall put the same, and all the vessels thereof, within a covering of badgers’ skin,—and shall put it upon a frame. 11 And upon the altar of gold shall they spread a wrapper of blue, and shall cover the same in a covering of badgers’ skin,—and shall put in the staves thereof. 12 And they shall take all the utensils of attendance wherewith they attend in the sanctuary, and put them within a wrapper of blue, and cover the same in a covering of badgers’ skin,—and put them on a frame. 13 Then shall they remove the fat-sashes from the altar,—and spread over it a wrapper of purple; 14 and put thereupon all the utensils thereof, wherewith they minister thereupon—the fire-pans, the flesh-hooks, and the shovels and the tongs-bowls, all the utensils of the altar,—and shall spread over it a covering of badgers’ skin, and put in the staves thereof.

15 So shall Aaron and his sons make an end of covering the sanctuary, and all the utensils of the sanctuary, when the camp is to set forward, then shall they shall the sons of Kohath enter to bear it, but they... must not put forth a touch unto that which is holy; else should they die. 17 These shall be the burden of the sons of Kohath in the tent of meeting.

18 But the care of Eleazar son of Aaron the priest shall be—the light-giving oil, and the fragrant incense, and the perpetual meal-offering, and the anointing oil, the care of all the habitation, and all that is therein, both as to the sanctuary, and as to the furniture thereof.

19 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying:

20 Do not let the tribe of the families of the Kohathites be cut off out of the midst of the Levites. 21 Therefore, do ye for them, so shall they live, and not die, when they approach the most holy place; 22 and Aaron and his sons shall enter and set them, man by man, over his labour, and unto his burden; 23 but they shall not enter to see, for a moment, that which is holy, else should they die.

24 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

25 Reckon up the sum of the sons of Gershon, even of them also, by their ancestral house, by their families; 26 from thirty years old and upwards, even unto fifty years, shalt thou number them, all that may enter to take rank in the host, to do laborious work in the tent of meeting. 27 This shall be the labour of the families of the Gershonites, in labouring and in bearing: 28 they shall bear the curtains of the habitation, and the tent of meeting, the covering thereof, and the covering of badgers’ skin which is over above it, and the screen, at the entrance of the tent of meeting; 29 and the hangings of the court, and the screen for the entrance of the gate of the court which is near the habitation, and near the altar, round about, and their cords, and all their articles of service, and all that is to be done to them, when they shall do their labour. 30 At the bidding of Aaron and his sons shall be all the labour of the sons of the Gershonites, to the extent of their every burden, and to the extent of all their labour, so shall ye appoint unto them in charge their every burden. 31 This shall be the labour of the families of the sons of the Gershonites, in the tent of meeting, and the charge of them shall be in the hand of Ithamar, son of Aaron, the priest.

32 As for the sons of Merari,—by their families, by their ancestral house, shall ye number them; 33 from thirty years old and upwards, even unto fifty years, shall ye number them, all that enter into the host, to do laborious work in the tent of meeting. 34 And this shall be their charge of the burdens, to the extent of all their labour in the tent of meeting, the boards of the habitation, and the bars thereof, and the pillars thereof and the sockets thereof; 35 and the pillars of the court round about, and their sockets and their pins and their cords, to the extent of all their articles, to the extent of all their labour, and by names shall ye put under their care the articles of their charge of burdens. 36 This shall be the labour of the families of the sons of Merari, to the extent of all their labour in the tent of meeting, in the hand of Ithamar, son of Aaron, the priest.

37 Then did Moses and Aaron, and the princes of the assembly, number the sons of the Kohathites, by their families, and by their ancestral house; 38 from thirty years old and upwards, even unto fifty years old, all that might enter the host, to labour in the tent of meeting; 39 and they who were numbered of them, by their families, were found to be—two thousand, seven hundred, and fifty. 40 These were they who were numbered of the families of the Kohathites, all that might labour in the tent of meeting, whom Moses and Aaron did number, at the bidding of Yahweh by the mediation of Moses.

41 And they who were numbered of the sons of Gershon, by their families, and by their ancestral house; 42 from thirty years old and upwards, even unto fifty years old, all that might enter the host, to labour in the tent of meeting; 43 yea they who were numbered of them, by their families, were found to be—two thousand, and six hundred, and thirty. 44 These are they who were numbered of the families of the sons of Gershon, all who might labour in the tent of meeting, whom Moses and Aaron did number, at the bidding of Yahweh.

45 And they who were numbered of the sons of Merari, by their families, and by their ancestral house; 46 from thirty years old and upwards, even unto fifty years old, all that might enter the host to labour in the tent of meeting; 47 yea they who were numbered of them, by their families, were found to be—three thousand and two hundred. 48 These are they who were numbered of the families of the sons of Merari, whom Moses and Aaron did number, at the bidding of Yahweh, by the mediation of Moses.

49 All they who were numbered, whom Moses and Aaron and the princes of Israel did number, even the Levites, by their families, and the sons of Levi, by their ancestral house; 50 from thirty years old and upwards, even unto fifty years old, all that might enter, to toil in the work of labouring and in the work of bearing burdens, in the tent of meeting; 51 yea, they who were numbered of them were found to be—eight thousand, and five hundred, and eighty. 46 <At the bidding of Yahweh> were they put in charge, by the mediation of Moses, [man by man] over his labour, and over his burden,—yes, [they who were put in charge by him] were they [whom] Yahweh commanded Moses].

§ 5. Sundry Laws.

5 1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:
2 Command the sons of Israel, that they send forth out of the camp, every leper, and every one that hath a flux,—and every one that is unclean by the dead; 3 <whether male or female> ye shall send them forth, <unto the outside of the camp> shall ye send them,—that they make not their camps unclean, in the midst whereof [I] have my habitation.

And the sons of Israel [did so], and sent them forth unto the outside of the camp, — <as Yahweh spake unto Moses> [so] did the sons of Israel.

6 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:
7 Speak unto the sons of Israel: <When [any man or woman] shall do sooth of any human sin, in acting unfaithfully against Yahweh,—and that person shall become aware of his guilt> 8 then shall they confess their sin which they have done, and he shall make good that wherein he is guilty, in the principal thereof, and <the fifth part thereof> shall he add thereunto,—and give to him against whom he is guilty. 9 But <if one have no kinsman unto whom he may make good that wherein he is guilty> then [that wherein he is guilty, which is to be restored to Yahweh] shall be the priest's,—besides the ram of propitiation, wherewith a propitiatory-covering is to be put over him. 10 And <every heave-offering, of all the hallowed things of the sons of Israel, which they bring near to the priest> [unto him] shall it belong. 11 And [every man's hallowed things] shall be [his own],—[what any man giveth to the priest] shall be [his].

11 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:
12 Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—
13 When [any man's wife] shall turn aside, and commit against him an act of unfaithfulness; 14 and a man shall lie with her carnally, and it shall be concealed from the eyes of her husband, and be kept close, but she hath committed uncleanness,—though <witness> there is none against her, and [she] hath not been caught; but there shall pass over him a spirit of jealousy, and he shall become jealous of his wife, [she having committed uncleanness], —or there shall pass over him a spirit of jealousy, and he shall become jealous of his wife, [she not having committed uncleanness]> 15 then shall the man bring in his wife unto the priest, and shall bring in her offering for her, the tenth of an ephah of the meal of barley,—he shall not pour thereon oil, nor put thereon frankincense, for , it is a reminding gift, bringing to mind iniquity. Then shall the priest bring her near,—and cause her to stand before Yahweh: and the priest shall take hallowed water in an earthen vessel,—and <of the dust which shall be upon the floor of the habitation> shall the priest take, and put into the water; 18 and the priest shall cause the woman to stand before Yahweh, and shall bare the head of the woman, and shall place upon her hands the reminding' gift, it being [a jealousy' gift],—and <in the hand of the priest> shall be the deadly water, that bringeth a curse; and the priest shall put her on oath, and shall say unto the woman:—
19 <If no man hath lain with thee, and if thou hast not turned aside, in uncleanness, [unto another] instead of thy husband> be thou clear from this deadly water that causeth a curse. But <if thou hast turned aside [to another] instead of thy husband, and if thou hast made thyself unclean, —in that a man hath known thee carnally, other' than thy husband> then shall the priest put the woman on oath, with an oath of cursing, and the priest shall say unto the woman, Yahweh give' thee up for a curse and for an oath, in the midst of thy people,—in that Yahweh shall give up thy thigh to fall away, and thy womb to swell: 22 so shall this' water that causeth a curse, enter into thy body, causing womb to swell and thigh to fall away.

And the woman shall say.

Amen, Amen.

Then shall the priest write these curses in a scroll,—and wipe them out into the Deadly water; 24 and shall cause the woman to drink the deadly water that causeth a curse,—and the deadly water that causeth a curse shall enter into her. 25 Then shall the priest take from the hand of the woman the jealousy' meal-offering,—and shall wave the meal-offering before Yahweh, and bring it near unto the altar; 26 and the priest shall take a handful from the meal-offering, a remembrancer thereof, and make a perfume at the altar,—and <afterwards> shall cause the woman to drink the water.

And <as soon as he causeth her to drink the water> then shall it be, that, <if she have fallen into uncleanness, and committed unfaithfulness against her husband> <as soon as the deadly water that causeth a curse hath entered into her> so soon shall her womb swell and her thigh fall away,—thus shall the woman become a curse, in the midst of her people. 20 But <if the woman have not fallen into uncleanness, but is pure> then shall she be clear, and shall bear seed. 21 This is the law of jealousies,—when a wife shall turn aside [to another] instead of her husband, and fall into uncleanness; 20 or <if when she passeth over [her husband] a spirit of jealousy, and he becometh jealous of his wife> then shall he cause the woman to stand before Yahweh, and the priest shall execute upon her all this law: 21 thus shall the man be clear of iniquity; but that woman shall bear her iniquity.

8 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:
9 Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—
10 When any man or woman would make the special vow of One Separate, 4 by separating himself unto Yahweh, 4 <from wine and strong drink> shall he separate himself, 4 <neither vinegar of wine, nor vinegar of strong drink> shall he drink, 4 and <no liquor of grapes> shall he drink, 4 <no grapes fresh or dried> shall he eat. 5 <All the days of his vow of separation> <no razor shall pass over his head, > until the days are fulfilled for which he shall separate himself unto Yahweh, 4 <hallowed> shall he be, letting the locks of the hair of his head grow long. 6 <All the days for which he hath separated himself unto Yahweh> <to no dead person> shall he go in. 7 <Neither for his father nor for his mother, nor for his brother, nor for his sister> shall he make himself unclean—<not even for [them], should they die>, —because [his separation unto God] is upon his head. 8 <All his days of separation> <hallowed> is he unto Yahweh. 9 But <if one that is dying should die by him in a moment, suddenly> then shall he be count unclean his head of separation,— and shall shave his head, on the day he cleanseth himself, <on the seventh day> shall he shave it. 10 And <on the eighth day> shall he bring in, two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons,—unto the priest, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting; and the priest shall make, of one a sin-bearer, and of one an ascending-sacrifice, and so put a propitiatory-covering over him, for that he sinned in respect of the dead person, 5 thus shall he hallow his head on that day. 13 Then shall he separate unto Yahweh his days of separation, and shall bring in a he-lamb a year old, as a guilt-bearer,—and [the first days] shall be lost because his separation was made unclean.

13 And <this> is the law of the Separate One, 4 on the day when he fulfilleth his days of separation, he shall be brought in unto the entrance of the tent of meeting: 14 then shall he bring near, as his offering unto Yahweh, one he-lamb a year old, without defect, for an ascending-sacrifice, and one ewe-lamb a year old, without defect, for a sin-bearer,—and one ram, without defect, for a peace-offering; 15 and a basket of unleavened cakes—fine meal in round cakes overflowed with oil, and thin cakes of unleavened bread, anointed with oil,—with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings. 16 Then shall the priest bring [them] near before Yahweh, and offer his sin-bearer, and his ascending-sacrifice, and <the ram> shall he offer as a peace-offering unto Yahweh, besides the basket of unleavened cakes,—and the priest shall offer the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof. 17 Then shall the Separate One 4 shave, at the entrance of the tent of meeting, his head of separation,—and take the hair of his head of separation, and put upon the fire, which is under the peace-offering. 18 Then shall the priest take the shoulder for boiling from the ram, and one unleavened round cake from the basket, and one unleavened thin cake,—and place them on the hands of the Separate One after he hath shaven off his [hair of] separation; 19 and the priest shall wave them as a wave-offering before Yahweh, <hallowed> it is for the priest, besides the wave breast, and besides the heave' leg,—and <afterwards> may the Separate One 4 drink wine. 20 This is the law of One Separate, 4 what he shall vow, his offering unto Yahweh with respect to his separation, besides what his hand may obtain: <as required by the vow> that he shall vow: 10 <so> must he do, with respect to the law of his separation.

§ 7. The Priestly Benediction.

23 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

24 Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, saying, ||Thus|| shall ye bless the sons of Israel,—saying unto them:

25 Yahweh bless thee, and keep thee:

26 Yahweh cause his face to shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee:

27 Yahweh lift up his face unto thee, and appoint unto thee peace.

28 Thus shall they put my name upon the sons of Israel,—and ||I myself|| will bless them.

§ 8. The Dedication of the Altar, and the Offerings of the Priests.

7 1 And it came to pass ||on the day when Moses made an end of rearing up the habitation, and anointing it, and hallowing it, and all the furniture thereof, and the altar, and all the utensils thereof,—both of anointing them, and hallowing them> that the princes of Israel, the heads of their ancestral houses, ||made an offering||,—they being princes of the tribes, they being the men who stood over them who were numbered; 2 yes, then brought they in, as their offering, before Yahweh—six covered waggons, and twelve oxen, a wagggon for every two of the princes, and an ox for each one,—yes they brought them near before the habitation. 4 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

5 Take [them] of them, so shall they be for doing the laborious work of the tent of meeting,—and thou shalt give them unto the Levites, to every man according to the need of his laborious work.

6 So Moses took the waggons, and the oxen,—and gave them unto the Levites: 7 <two of the waggons and four of the oxen> gave he unto the sons of Gershon,—according to the need of their laborious work; 8 and <four of the waggons, and eight of the oxen> gave he unto the sons of Merari,—according to the need of their laborious work, in the hand of Ithamar son of Aaron the priest; 9 but <unto the sons of Kohath> gave he none,—because ||as to the laborious work of the sanctuary [which] pertained unto them ||upon their shoulders|| were they to carry it.

10 So then the princes offered for the dedication of the altar, on the day it was anointed,—yes the princes offered their obligation before the altar. 11 And Yahweh said unto Moses:

12 Each prince on his appointed day> thus shall they offer their obligation, for the dedication of the altar.

13 And so it was, that ||he who <on the first day> offered his obligation>—was Nashôn son of Amminadab, of the tribe of Judah; 13 and ||his offering was—one charger of silver,  the weight thereof, one tossing bowl, of silver, seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary,—||both of them|| full of fine meal overflowed with oil, for a meal-offering; 14 one spoon of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; 15 one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; 16 one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; 17 and <as a peace-offering> two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—||this|| was the offering of Nashôn, son of Amminadab.

18 <On the second day> Nethanel, son of Zuar, prince of Issachar, brought his offering.

19 He offered as his obligation—one charger of silver,  the weight thereof, one tossing bowl, of silver, seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary,—||both of them|| full of fine meal overflowed with oil, as a meal-offering; 20 one spoon of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; 21 one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; 22 one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; 23 and <as a peace-offering> two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—||this|| was the offering of Nethanel, son of Zuar.

24 <On the third day> the prince of the sons of Zebulun,—Eliab, son of Hólan: 25 his offering—<one charger of silver  the weight thereof, one tossing bowl, of silver, seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary,—||both of them|| full of fine meal overflowed with oil, as a meal-offering; 26 one spoon of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; 27 one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; 28 one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; 29 and <as a peace-offering> two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—||this|| was the offering of Eliab, son of Hólan.

30 <On the fourth day> the prince of the sons of Reuben,—Elizur, son of Shedeur: 31 his offering—one charger of silver,  the weight thereof, one tossing bowl, of silver, seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary,—||both of them|| full of fine meal overflowed with oil, as a meal-offering; 32 one spoon of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; 33 one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; 34 one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; 35 and <as a peace-offering> two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—||this|| was the offering of Elizur, son of Shedeur.

36 <On the fifth day> the prince of the sons of Simeon,—Shelumiel, son of Zuriashaddai: 37 his offering, one charger of silver, a hundred and thirty [shekels]; the weight thereof, one toasting bowl of silver, seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them; full of fine meal overwhelmed with oil, as a meal-offering; one spoon of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year, this was the offering of Shelumiel, son of Zurishaddai.

42 <On the sixth day> the prince of the sons of Gad, Eliashaph, son of Deuel: his offering, one charger of silver, a hundred and thirty [shekels]; the weight thereof, one toasting bowl of silver, seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them; full of fine meal overwhelmed with oil, as a meal-offering; one spoon of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year, this was the offering of Eliashaph, son of Deuel.

43 <On the seventh day> the prince of the sons of Ephraim, Elisaphan, son of Ammihud: his offering, one charger of silver, a hundred and thirty [shekels]; the weight thereof, one toasting bowl of silver, seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them; full of fine meal overwhelmed with oil, as a meal-offering; one spoon of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year, this was the offering of Elisaphan, son of Ammihud.

44 <On the eighth day> the prince of the sons of Manasseh, Gamaliel, son of Pedahzur: his offering, one charger of silver, a hundred and thirty [shekels]; the weight thereof, one toasting bowl of silver, seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them; full of fine meal overwhelmed with oil, as a meal-offering; one spoon of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year, this was the offering of Gamaliel, son of Pedahzur.

45 <On the ninth day> the prince of the sons of Benjamin, Abidan, son of Gideoni: his offering, one charger of silver, a hundred and thirty [shekels]; the weight thereof, one toasting bowl of silver, seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them; full of fine meal overwhelmed with oil, as a meal-offering; one spoon of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year, this was the offering of Abidan, son of Gideoni.

46 <On the tenth day> the prince of the sons of Dan, Ahizezer, son of Ammishaddai: his offering, one charger of silver, a hundred and thirty [shekels]; the weight thereof, one toasting bowl of silver, seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them; full of fine meal overwhelmed with oil, as a meal-offering; one spoon of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year, this was the offering of Ahizezer, son of Ammishaddai.

47 <On the eleventh day> the prince of the sons of Asher, Pagiel, son of Ocran: his offering, one charger of silver, a hundred and thirty [shekels]; the weight thereof, one toasting bowl of silver, seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them; full of fine meal overwhelmed with oil, as a meal-offering; one spoon of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year, this was the offering of Pagiel, son of Ocran.

48 <On the twelfth day> the prince of the sons of Naphtali, Ahirah, son of Enan: his offering, one charger of silver, a hundred and thirty [shekels]; the weight thereof, one toasting bowl of silver, seventy shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them; full of fine meal overwhelmed with oil, as a meal-offering; one spoon of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; and as a peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year, this was the offering of Ahirah, son of Enan.

49 This was the offering for the dedication of the altar in the day when it was anointed, from the princes of Israel, twelve chargers of silver, twelve toasting bowls of silver, twelve spoons of gold; each charger of silver, and each toasting bowl, all the silver of the vessels: two thousand and four hundred [shekels], by the shekel of the sanctuary; [g] twelve spoons of gold, full of incense; [h] ten' shekels each' spoon, by the shekel of the sanctuary; [i] all the gold of the spoons a hundred and twenty [shekels]. [j] All the herd for the ascending-sacrifice; [k] twelve bullocks, twelve rams, twelve he-lambs of the first year, with their meal-offerings, twelve young he-goats for the bearing of sin; and [l] all the herd for the peace-offering; twenty-four bullocks, sixty rams, sixty he-goats, sixty he-lambs of the first year, [m] this was the offering for the dedication of the altar, after it was anointed.

And <when Moses entered into the tent of meeting, that He might speak with him> then heard he the Voice speaking unto him from off the propitiatory that was upon the ark of the testimony, from between the two cherubim, — so He spake unto him.

§ 9. The Priests are to light the Lamps. The Levites are consecrated in the place of all Israel.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

2 Speak unto Aaron, and thou shalt say unto him, —
<When thou lightest up the lamps> <over against the front of the lampstand> shall the seven lamps give light.

3 And Aaron did so, <over against the front of the lampstand> lighted he up the lamps thereof, —

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

4 Now ||this || was the work of the lampstand — beaten work of gold <both in the shaft thereof and in> the flowers thereof > was it ||beaten work > <according to the appearance which Yahweh caused to appear unto Moses> [||so] made he the lampstand.

5 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

6 Take the Levites, out of the midst of the sons of Israel, — and thou shalt purify them.

7 And ||thus shalt thou do unto them, to purify them, sprinkle upon them sin-cleansing water, — then shall they cause a razor to pass over all their flesh, and shall wash their clothes, and so make themselves pure. [n] Then shall they take a choice young bullock, with the meal-offering thereof, even fine meal overflowed with oil, — and  shalt thou take, as a sin-bearer. [o] Then shalt thou bring the Levites near, before the tent of meeting, — and shall call together all the assembly of the sons of Israel; [p] and shalt bring the Levites near before Yahweh, — and the sons of Israel shall lean their hands upon the Levites; [q] and Aaron shall offer the Levites, as a wave-offering before Yahweh, from among the sons of Israel, — so shall they be for performing the laborious work of Yahweh. [r] And <the Levites> shall lean their hands upon the head of the bullocks; then make thou of the one a sin-bearer, and of the other an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, to put a propitiatory-covering over the Levites. [s] Thus shalt thou cause the Levites to stand before Aaron, and before his sons, — thus shalt thou offer them as a wave-offering unto Yahweh; thus shalt thou separate the Levites out of the midst of the sons of Israel, — thus shall the Levites become mine. [t] And <after that> shall the Levites enter to do the labour of the tent of meeting, — so shalt thou purify them, and offer them as a wave-offering. [u] For <given, given> they are unto me, out of the midst of the sons of Israel, — <instead of every firstborn that a mother beareth> from among the sons of Israel> have I taken them unto me. [v] For <mine> is every firstborn, among the sons of Israel, among men, and among beasts, — <on the day when I smote every firstborn in the land of Egypt> did I hallow them unto me. [w] Therefore have I taken the Levites, — instead of every firstborn among the sons of Israel; [x] therefore have I given the Levites, as a gift unto Aaron and unto his sons, out of the midst of the sons of Israel, — to do the laborious work of the sons of Israel, in the tent of meeting, and to put a propitiatory-covering over the sons of Israel, — so shall there be, among the sons of Israel, no plague, by the coming nigh of the sons of Israel unto the sanctuary.

20 And Moses and Aaron and all the assembly of the sons of Israel did thus unto the Levites, — <according to all that Yahweh commanded Moses as touching the Levites> [||so] did the sons of Israel unto them. [21 And the Levites accepted the cleansing from sin, and washed their clothes, and Aaron offered them as a wave-offering before Yahweh, — and Aaron put a propitiatory-covering over them, to make them pure. [22 And <after that> went the Levites in, to do their laborious work in the tent of meeting, before Aaron, and before his sons, — <as Yahweh commanded Moses concerning the Levites> [||so] did they unto them.

§ 10. The First Commemorative Passover.

9 And Jehovah spake unto Moses in the desert of Sinai, in the second year by their coming forth out of the land of Egypt, in the first month, saying:

Let the sons of Israel therefore keep the passover, in its appointed season: 2 on the fourteenth day of this month, between the two evenings, shall ye keep it, in its appointed season, according to all the statutes thereof, and according to all the regulations thereof shall ye keep it.

Then spake Moses unto the sons of Israel, that they should keep the passover. 3 So they kept the passover, in the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, between the two evenings, in the desert of Sinai, according to all that Jehovah commanded Moses. 4 5 Did the sons of Israel. 6 But so it was, that there were certain men who had become unclean, by a dead person, and could not keep the passover on that day, therefore came they near, before Moses and before Aaron, on that day. Then said those men unto him, We are unclean by a dead person, wherefore should we become of least esteem, for want of offering the oblation of Jehovah in its appointed season, in the midst of the sons of Israel?

And Moses said unto them, Stay, and let me hear, what Jehovah shall command concerning you.

Then spake Jehovah unto Moses, saying:

Though any man be unclean by a dead person, or be on a journey afar off, whether in the case of yourselves or of your generations ye shall keep a passover unto Jehovah. 11 In the second month, on the fourteenth day between the two evenings they shall keep it, with unleavened cakes and bitter herbs shall they eat. 12 They shall not leave thereof until morning, and no bone shall they break therein — according to all the statutes of the passover shall they keep it. 13 But

<as for the man who |is| clean, and <no journey> doth not chance to be, and yet faileth to keep the passover that person shall be cut off from among his kinsfolk, for the oblation of Jehovah hath he not offered in its appointed season, <his own sin> shall that man bear. 14 When moreover, there may sojourn with you a sojourner, who would keep a passover unto Jehovah according to the statute of the passover, and according to the regulations thereof must he keep it: <one statute> shall there be for you, both for the sojourner, and for the native of the land.

15 Now on the day the habitation was raised the cloud covered the habitation, even the tent of the testimony, and in the evening it was over the habitation like an appearance of fire, until morning. 16 Thus came it to pass continually, the cloud covered it, and an appearance of fire, by night; but at the bidding of the upgoings of the cloud from off the tent then after that the sons of Israel set forward, and in the place where the cloud abode were there the sons of Israel encamped: <at the bidding of Jehovah> the sons of Israel set forward, and <at the bidding of Jehovah> they encamped, <at the bidding of Jehovah> they remained encamped. 18 And when the cloud lengthened out its stay upon the habitation, many days then would the sons of Israel keep the watch of Jehovah, and would not set forward. 19 And <so it was> when the cloud would be a few days upon the habitation: <at the bidding of Jehovah> they remained encamped, and <at the bidding of Jehovah> they set forward. 21 And <so it was> when the cloud would be from evening until morning: <so soon as the cloud went up in the morning> so soon did they set forward: whether by day or by night: <so soon as the cloud went up> so soon did they set forward. 23 <Whether for two days, or a month, or a year, the cloud lengthened out its stay upon the habitation, abiding thereupon the sons of Israel remained encamped, and set not forward, but when the upgoings thereof they set forward. 25 <At the bidding of Jehovah> they encamped, and <at the bidding of Jehovah> they set forward, <the watch of Jehovah> they kept, at the bidding of Jehovah, by the hand of Moses.

§ 12. The Ordinance of the Silver Trumpets.

1 And Jehovah spake unto Moses, saying:

2 Make thee two trumpets of silver, of beaten work: shalt thou make them, and they shall be unto thee for calling the assembly, and for setting forward the camps. 3 As soon as they blow therewith so soon shall all the assembly assemble themselves unto thee, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting. 4 And if they blow only once, then shall the princes, the heads of the thousands of Israel, gather themselves unto thee. 5 But if they blow three times, then shall set forward the camps that are encamped eastwards an alarm shall they blow for setting them forward. 6 But if in calling together the convocation ye shall blow, but shall not sound an alarm. 7 And the sons of Aaron the priests shall blow with the trumpets, and it shall be unto you for a statute age-abiding, unto your generations. 8 And when ye go into war in your land, against an accursed that assaileth you, then shall ye blow an alarm with the trumpets, and bring yourselves to mind before Yahweh your God, and be saved from your enemies. 9 And in your day of rejoicing and in your appointed seasons, and in the beginnings of your months, then shall ye blow with the trumpets, over your ascending-sacrifices, and over your peace-offerings, so shall they be unto you for a memorial before your God.

The sons of Gershon and the sons of Merari set forward, bearing the habitation.

Then set forward the standard of the camp of Reuben, by their hosts, and over his own host Elizur, son of Shedeur; 19 and over the host of the tribe of the sons of Simeon, Shelumiel, son of Zurishaddai; 20 and over the host of the tribe of the sons of Gad, Eliasaph, son of Deuel.

Then set forward the Kohathites, bearing the sanctuary, and so the habitation was reared by the time they came in.

Then set forward the standard of the sons of Ephraim, by their hosts, and over his own host was Elizaphan, son of Ammihud; 21 and over the host of the tribe of the sons of Manasseh, Gamaliel, son of Pedahzur; 22 and over the host of the tribe of the sons of Benjamin, Abidan, son of Gideoni.

Then set forward the standard of the camp of the sons of Dan, bringing up the rear of all the camps, by their hosts, and over his own host Ahiezer, son of Ammishaddai; 23 and over the host of the tribe of the sons of Asher, Pagiel, son of Ochran; 24 and over the host of the tribe of the sons of Naphtali, Ahira, son of Enak.

These were the settings-forward of the sons of Israel, by their hosts, thus did they set forward.

Then said Moses to Hobab, son of Raguel the Midianite, father-in-law of Moses:

Setting forward are we unto the place of which Yahweh hath said,

The same will I give unto you,

Oh come with us, and we will do thee good, for Yahweh hath spoken good concerning Israel.

And he said unto him,

I will not go, but unto my own land, and unto my own kindred will I go.

Then said he:

I beseech thee, do not forsake us, for on this account hast thou come to know of our encamping in the desert, so shalt thou be unto us an eyesi: 22 and it shall be if thou wilt go with us, yea it shall be that with the very good wherewith Yahweh shall do us good will we do good unto thee.

So then they went forward, from the mountain of Yahweh, a journey of three days, and the ark of the covenant of Yahweh was going before them, a journey of three days, to search out for them a resting-place. 24 And the cloud of Yahweh was over them by day, when they set forward out of the camp.

And it came to pass when the ark set forward that Moses said:

* Heb. 'ish, which seems a protracted or repeated blowing.
* Or: "a."
* This is the "convocation" that of the "princes" named in verse 4.
* Or: "a."
* Then would be (or, "used to be") taken down." So, according to Driver, "Tenses in Hebrew," p. 148. But see rather Dav. Hdb. Syn., p. 85, c.
* V.r. in some ed.: "Ammi Shaddai" (2 words) be thus named.
12 Did I, conceive all this people, or bring the burden of this people?—that thou shouldst say unto me,
Carry them in thy bosom, as a nursing father carrieth a suckling, unto the soil which thou didst swear unto their fathers?

13 Whence should I carry this people, for they are too heavy for me.

14 But if in this way thou art going to deal with me, I will but speak, I will but slay me, I beseech thee, I slay, if I have found favour in thine eyes, and let me not see my grief.

15 Then said Yahweh unto Moses—
Gather thou unto me seventy men, from among the elders of Israel, of whom thou knowest that they are elders of the people, and their overseers,—then shalt thou take them unto the tent of meeting, and they shall station themselves there, with thee.

16 Then will I come down, and speak with thee there, and will take of the spirit that is upon thee, and put it upon them,—and they shall carry, with thee, the burden of the people, and [thou shalt not carry it by thyself].

17 And unto the people shalt thou say:
Hallow yourselves by to-morrow, and ye shall eat flesh, for ye have wept in the ears of Yahweh, saying—Who will grant us to eat flesh? for it was well with us in Egypt,—so then Yahweh will give you flesh, and ye shall eat.

18 Not one day shall ye eat, nor two days, nor five days, nor ten days, nor twenty days: for a month of days until it cometh forth out of your nostrils, so shall it become to you a loathsome thing, because ye have refused Yahweh who is in your midst, and have wept before him, saying,
Wherefore, now, came we forth out of Egypt?

§ 14. The Murmuring of the People occasions the Satisfying (and the Slitting) of the Flesh, and the wider Gift of the Spirit.

11 And it came to pass, that when the people were giving themselves up to murmuring: it was grievous in the ears of Yahweh,—so Yahweh hearkened, and kindled was his anger, and the fire of Yahweh burned among them, and consumed the uttermost part of the camp.

2 Then did the people make outcry unto Moses,—and Moses prayed unto Yahweh, and the fire sank down.

3 So he called the name of that place, Taberah [i.e. “A Burning”]—because there burned among them the fire of Yahweh.

4 Moreover the mixed multitude [that was in their midst] concealed not their lustings,—and so even the sons of Israel [fell away and wept], and said:
Who will grant us to eat flesh? We remember the fish that we did eat in Egypt, without money,—the cucumbers, and the water-melons, and the leeks, and the onions, and the garlic.

5 But [now] our soul is dried up, there is nothing at all,—unless unto the manna [we turn] our eyes.

6 Now the manna was like coriander seed, and the appearance thereof like the appearance of bdellium. The people used to go about and pick it up, and grind it with a pair of millstones, or pound it in a mortar, and boil it in a pot, and make it into round cakes,—then was the taste thereof like the taste of a sweet cake made with oil.

7 When the dew came down upon the camp by night—then the manna came down thereupon.

8 So then Moses heard the people weeping by their families, every one at the entrance of his tent,—then kindled the anger of Yahweh fiercely, and [in the eyes of Moses] it was grievous.

9 And Moses said unto Yahweh—Wherefore hast thou let thy servant come to grief, and wherefore have I not found favour in thine eyes,—that thou shouldest lay the burden of all this people upon me?

10 Lit.: “him” — which, though rather strange in English, is easy in Hebrew, and lends itself well to the figure employed by Moses.

11 This is attested to be an alteration made by the Sopherim = editorial scribes. Some authorities state that the text originally was “kill me, I pray Thee, out of hand, that I may not see Thy evil.”

12 To this might be so constrained us to ascribe evil to the Lord, the Sopherim altered it into “that I may not see my evil.”

13 From the Jerusalem Targum it is evident that in some Schools the textual reading was “the evil of the people,” or “their evil” — Condensed from Gen. Intro. p. 353.

14 Lit.: “Withdraw,” “retract,” “steal away.” What can be the meaning of this? Must Moses needs be a channel through which the Spirit might be imparted to the Seventy; as if in abdication of the mediatorial position of the Messiah in reference to the same gift? Comp. (Ps. lxxviii 18), Eph. iv. 7, 8; Acts ii. 33.

21 And Moses said,

-Six hundred thousand footmen> are the people in whose midst am || I: yet || thou hast said—

-Flesh> will I give unto them, and they shall eat for a month of days. 22 Shall || the flocks and herds> be slaughtered for them, that it may suffice for them? Shall || all the fishes of the sea> be gathered together unto them, that it may suffice for them?

23 Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Shall || the hand of Yahweh> fail? || Now shalt thou see whether my word come to pass unto thee, or not.

24 And Moses went forth, and spake unto the people the words of Yahweh,—and gathered together seventy men from among the elders of the people, and caused them to stand, round about the tent. 25 Then Yahweh came down in the cloud, and spake unto him, and took of the spirit that was upon him, and gave unto the seventy men—the elders. And it came to pass, that when the spirit rested upon them, they prophesied, and then did so no more. 26 Now there were two men left behind in the camp—|| the name of the one was Eldad, and || the name of the other was Medad, so then the spirit rested on them—|| they being among them who were written, though they had not gone forth unto the tent,—but they prophesied in the camp. 27 And there ran a young man, and told Moses, and said,—

|| Eldad and Medad || are prophesying in the camp!

28 Then responded Joshua, son of Nun, the attendant of Moses from his youth, and said,—

My lord Moses, forbid them!

29 But Moses said unto him, Art || thou> jealous for || me? Oh would that || all the people of Yahweh> were prophets! Yea, let Yahweh put his spirit upon them!

30 Then was Moses received back into the camp,—|| be, and the elders of Israel.

31 Now || a wind> had sprung up from Yahweh, and cut off quails from the sea, and let them lie over the camp—as it were a day's journey here, and a day's journey there, round about the camp,—and as it were two cubits, on the face of the land. 32 And the people rose up all that day and all the night and all the next day, and gathered the quails, || he that did least gathered ten homers,—and they spread them out for themselves, spreading away, round about the camp. 33 || The flesh> was yet between their teeth, not yet chewed,—when || the anger of Yahweh> had kindled upon the people, and Yahweh smote the people, with an exceeding great plague. 34 And the name of that place was called, Kibroth-hattaavah,—because || there> they buried the people who had lusted. 35 || From Kibroth-hattaavah> the people set forward to Hazeroth,—and they remained in Hazeroth.

§15. Miriam and Aaron jealous of Moses.

1 And Miriam and Aaron spake against Moses, 12 on account of the Cushite woman whom he had taken,—for || a Cushite woman> had he taken. 2 And they said:

Is it || only> and solely> with Moses> that Yahweh hath spoken?

<With us also> hath he not spoken?

And Yahweh heard it. 3 Now || the man Moses> was patient exceedingly,—above all the sons of earth, who were on the face of the ground. 4 Then said Yahweh, suddenly, unto Moses, and unto Aaron, and unto Miriam,

Come out, ye three, unto the tent of meeting. And they three went out. 5 Then Yahweh came down, in a pillar of cloud, and stood at the entrance of the tent,—and called Aaron and Miriam, and they both went forth. 6 Then said he,

Hear, I beseech you, my words.

<When ye have your prophet>—

<As Yahweh, in a vision> will I make myself known || unto him;—

<In a dream> will I speak with him.

<Not so> my servant Moses,—

<In all my house> || trust> is he;

<Mouth to mouth> do I speak with him, And plainly—not in dark sayings. And || the form of Yahweh> doth he discern,—Wherefore, then, were ye not afraid to speak against my servant—against Moses?

9 And the anger of Yahweh kindled upon them, and he departed.

10 And <when the cloud> removed from off the tent>—lo! || Miriam> leprous, like snow! And Aaron turned unto Miriam, and lo! || leprous! 11 Then said Aaron unto Moses,—

Oh my lord, do not, I beseech thee, lay upon us sin, although we have made ourselves foolish, and although we have sinned.

12 Let her not, I beseech thee, remain like the still-born,—which <when it is born of its mother> the half of its flesh is consumed. 13 || I.e., "The graves of lust."

<Or: "tried."

Then Moses made outcry unto Yahweh, saying,— O God, I beseech thee, grant healing. I beseech thee, unto her.*

And Yahweh said unto Moses:
If her own father had but spat in her face would she not have acknowledged the shame for seven days?
Let her shut herself up for seven days, outside the camp, and let her be received back.

Then <afterwards> did the people set forward from Hazeroth, and encamped in the desert of Paran.

So Miriam shut herself up, outside the camp, for seven days,—and the people set not forward, until Miriam had been received back.

Then the people set forward from Hazeroth, and encamped in the desert of Paran.

(Comp. Deu. i. 22—36.)

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:
Send for thee men, and let them spy out the land of Canaan, which I am giving unto the sons of Israel,—one man each, for the tribes of his fathers shalt thou send, each one a prince among them.

So then Moses sent them out of the desert of Paran, at the bidding of Yahweh,—all of them, great men, heads of the sons of Israel,—were they. And these are their names,—

Of the tribe of Reuben: Shamma, son of Zaccor;
Of the tribe of Simeon: Shaphat, son of Hori;
Of the tribe of Judah: Caleb, son of Jephunneh;
Of the tribe of Issachar: Igal, son of Joseph;
Of the tribe of Ephraim: Hoshea, son of Nun;
Of the tribe of Benjamin: Palti, son of Raphu;
Of the tribe of Zebulun: Gaddiel, son of Sodi;
Of the tribe of Joseph: Gaddi, son of Sodi;
Of the tribe of Dan: Ammiel, son of Gemall;
Of the tribe of Asher: Sethur, son of Michael;
Of the tribe of Naphtali: Nahbi, son of Vophai;
Of the tribe of Gad: Geuel, son of Machi.

These are the names of the men, whom Moses sent, to spy out the land, but Moses called Hosea,* son of Nun, Joshua.†

So Moses sent them, to spy out the land of Canaan,—and said unto them—
Go up, here, in the South, Yea ye shall go up the mountain;
And shall see the land, what it is,—
And the people that dwell thereupon, whether they are strong or weak, Whether they be few or many;
And what the land is, wherein they dwell, Whether it is good or bad
And the cities within which they dwell, Whether in camps, or in strongholds;
And what the land is,
Whether fat or lean,
Whether there is timber therein, or is not,

Then shall ye pluck up courage, and take of the fruit of the land.

Now these were the days of the first-fruits of grapes.

So they went up, and spied out the land,—from the wilderness of Zin unto Rehob, at the entering in of Hamath. Yea they went up in the South, and entered as far as Hebron, and were Ahiman, Sheshai and Talmai, descendants of the Anak.† Now Hebron was built seven years before Zoan of Egypt.

And they entered as far as the ravine of Eschol, and cut down from thence, a branch with one cluster of grapes, and bare it on a pole, between two,—also of the pomegranates and of the figs.

That place was called, The Ravine of Eschol [cluster-ravine],—on account of the cluster, which was cut down from thence by the sons of Israel.

And they returned from spying out the land,—at the end of forty days.

So they took their journey, and came in unto Moses and unto Aaron, and unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, into the wilderness of Paran, towards Kadesh,—and brought back word unto them, and unto all the assembly, and showed them the fruit of the land.

And they recounted unto him, and said,

We entered into the land whither thou didst send us,—and surely it doth flow with milk and honey, and this is the fruit thereof. Nevertheless surely <mighty> are the people that dwell in the land,—and <the cities> walled in, exceeding great, moreover also, <the descendants of the Anak> saw we there.

And [the Hittite and the Jebusite and the Amorite] dwell in the mountain, And [the Canaanite] dwelleth by the sea, and by the side of the Jordan.

30 And Caleb stilled the people unto Moses,—and said unto them—

Let us go [straight up] and possess it, for we shall surely prevail] against it.

31 But [the men who went up with him] said,
We cannot go up against the people,—for [stronger than we are] they are there.

So they sent forth a rumour of the land which they had spied out, <among the sons of Israel> saying,—

<As touching the land through which we passed, to spy it out> it is a land that eateth up them who dwell therein; And [all the people that we saw in the midst thereof] were men of great stature.

And [there] saw we the giants, sons of Anak, [descended of the giants],—
And we were <in our own eyes> as grasshoppers, And [so] were we in their eyes.

14 Then did all the assembly lift up, and give forth their voice,—and the people went throughout that night. And all the sons of Israel [murmured against Moses and against Aaron],—and all the assembly said unto them—

Oh that we had died in the land of Egypt! Or <in this wilderness> oh that we had died!

Wherefore, then, is Yahweh bringing us into this land, to fall by the sword? [Our wives and little ones] will become a prey;
Would it not be well for us to go back towards Egypt?

And they said, one to another,—

Let us appoint a head, and let us go back towards Egypt.

Then did Moses and Aaron fall upon their faces,—before all the convolution of the assembly of the sons of Israel.

But [Joshua son of Nun, and Caleb son of Jephunneh, of them who spied out the land] rent their clothes; and spake unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, saying,—

<As for the land through which we passed to spy it out>—

[Good! is the land, exceedingly] 4 <If Yahweh delight in us> then will he bring us into this land, and give it unto us,—

A land which doth' flow with milk and honey.

Only <against Yahweh> do not rebel. Do not [ye] fear the people of the land, For [our food] they are,—
Their shade hath departed from over them.

And [Yahweh] is with us. Do not fear them!

10 But <when all the assembly bade stone them, with stones> [the glory of Yahweh appeared, in the tent of meeting, unto all the sons of Israel].

Then said Yahweh unto Moses,

[How long] must this people [despise me]? And [how long], can they not believe in me, in view of all the signs which I have done in their midst?

Let me smite them with pestilence, and disinherit them,—
And make them into a nation greater and more mighty than they!

Then said Moses unto Yahweh,—

So shall the Egyptians hear.
For thou hast brought up, in thy might, this people, out of their midst;
And will tell it unto the inhabitants of this land:
They have heard That [thou, Yahweh] art in the midst of this people,—
That [eye to eye] is he seen—[thou, Yahweh],
And [thy cloud] is standing over them,
And [in a pillar of cloud] [thou thyself] art going on before them by day,
And [in a pillar of fire] by night.

<As soon, therefore, as thou hast put to death this people, as one man> so soon will the nations who have heard thy fame speak, saying:

Because Yahweh was not able] to bring in this people into the land which he had sworn unto them therefore did he slay them in the desert.

Now, therefore, I beseech thee, let the might of My Lord] be magnified,—according as thou didst speak, saying:

Yahweh—slow to anger and great in lovingkindness; Forgiving iniquity and transgression: Though he will not leave [wholly unpunished]

Visiting the iniquity of fathers upon sons, Upon a third generation, and upon a fourth.

Pardon, I beseech thee, the iniquity of this people, According to the greatness of thy lovingkindness,—
And according as thou hast forgiven this people, from Egypt, even thus far.

And Yahweh said,—
I have pardoned, according to thy word;

10 See note on Exo. xxxiv. 7.
Nevertheless <as I live>,—and that all the earth may be filled with the glory of Yahweh>

Verily, none of the men who have been beholding my glory and my signs, which I have done in Egypt, and in the desert,—and have put me to the proof these ten times, and have not hearkened unto my voice! 23 shall see the land, which I swore to their fathers,—yes, none of my desire it.

But my servant Caleb,—<because there was another spirit with him, and he followed me fully> therefore will I bring him into the land whereto he entered, and his seed shall possess it. 24 Now <the Amalekites and the Canaanites> are dwelling in the valley,—<to-morrow> turn ye away; and set yourselves forward towards the desert, by the way of the Red Sea.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying:

How long, <as regardeth this evil assembly> are they to be murmuring against me? 25 The murmuring of the sons of Israel, which they have been murmuring against me, have I heard. 26 Say unto them:

<As I live> is the oracle of Yahweh: Surely <as ye have spoken in mine ears> will I do unto you:

<In this desert> shall your dead bodies fall.

And <none of you who were numbered, in all your counting, from twenty years old and upwards,—who have murmured against me> shall enter into the land, as to which I uplifted my hand, to give you an abode therein,—save Caleb son of Jephunneh, and Joshua, son of Nun: whereas <your little ones, of whom ye said, they should become a prey> I will bring them in, and they shall acknowledge the land which ye refused.

But <your own dead bodies> shall fall in this desert; 28 and <your sons> shall be shepherds in the desert forty years, and shall bear your unfaith-30ilities,—until your dead bodies are consumed in the desert.

<By the number of the days, wherein ye spied out the land,—forty days> shall they bear your iniquities,—forty years,—so shall ye know my opposition.

I—Yahweh! have spoken,

Verily <this> will I do to all this evil assembly, who have conspired against me,—<In this desert> shall they be consumed. And <there> shall they die.

Now <as for the men whom Moses sent to spy out the land,—who returned and caused all the assembly to murmur against him, by giving out a rumour against the land> they died—the men who gave out an evil rumour of the land,—by the plague, before Yahweh.

But <Joshua son of Nun, and Caleb son of Jephunneh> remained alive—of those men who went to spy out the land.

And Moses spake these words unto all the sons of Israel,—and the people were greatly depressed. They arose early in the morning, and went up into the top of the mountain, saying,—We are here—therefore will we go up into the place as to which Yahweh hath said, that we have sinned.

But Moses said,

Wherefore is it that <ye> are going beyond the bidding of Yahweh,—since <that> cannot prosper?

Do not go up,

For Yahweh is not in your midst,—Lest ye be smitten down before your enemies.

For <the Amalekites and the Canaanites> are there before you, So shall ye fall by the sword,—For <inasmuch> as ye have turned back from following Yahweh>

Therefore will Yahweh not be with you.

But they presumptuously ascended into the top of the mountain,—though neither the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, nor Moses moved out of the midst of the camp. 34 So then the Amalekites and the Canaanites, that dwelt in that mountain, came down,—and smote them and routed them, even unto Hormah.

§ 17. Legislation again.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—

<When ye shall enter into the land of your dwelling-places, which I am giving unto you; and ye would offer as an altar-flame unto Yahweh, an ascending-offering or a sacrifice, for celebrating a vow or as a freewill-offering, or in your appointed seasons,—by way of offering a satisfying odour unto Yahweh, from the herd or from the flock; then shall he bring his oblation near unto Yahweh a meal-offering, of fine meal a tenth part (of an ephah) overflown with the fourth part of a hin of oil; \( ^5 \) wine also for a drink-offering, the fourth part of a hin shall thou offer with the ascending-offering or with the sacrifice, \( ^* \) — for each he-lamb. \( ^6 \) Or with a ram thou shalt offer a meal-offering, of fine meal, ten tenths, overflown with oil, the third of a hin; \( ^7 \) wine also, for a drink-offering, the third of a hin shall thou bring near as a satisfying odour unto Yahweh.

And \( ^8 \) when thou wouldest offer a choice young bullock, as an ascending-offering or sacrifice,—for celebrating a vow, or as a peace-offering unto Yahweh, \( ^9 \) then shall he bring near, with his choice young bullock, a meal-offering, of fine meal, three tenths, overflown with half a hin of oil; \( ^10 \) wine also shalt thou bring near for a drink-offering, half a hin,—for an altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh. \( ^11 \) Thus and thus shall it be done, for each ox, and for each ram,—and for each young one among the sheep, or among the goats; \( ^12 \) according to the number which ye shall offer. \( ^13 \) Thus and thus shall ye do for each one, according to their number. Every one born in the land shall offer these things,—when bringing near an altar-flame of a satisfying odour unto Yahweh.

And \( ^14 \) when there shall sojourn with you a sojourner, or one who is in your midst to your generations, and he would offer an altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh, \( ^15 \) as ye offer, \( ^16 \) shall he offer. \( ^17 \) In the convocation, \( ^18 \) one statute shall there be, for you and for the sojourner who sojourneth,—an age-international statute, unto your generations. \( ^19 \) As ye are, so shall the sojourner be, before Yahweh: \( ^20 \) one law and one regulation shall there be, for yourselves and for the sojourner that sojourneth with you.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—

When ye enter into the land whereinto \( ^21 \) I am bringing you, then shall it be, when ye eat the bread of the land that ye shall heave up a heave-offering unto Yahweh. \( ^22 \) Of the first of your meal ye shall heave up \( ^23 \) as a heave-offering, as a heave-offering, like the heave-offering of grain shall ye heave it. \( ^24 \) Of the first of your meal ye shall give unto Yahweh, a heave-offering, unto your generations.

And Moses said unto Korah,—

Hear, I pray you, ye sons of Levi! Is it too small a thing for you, that the God of Israel hath separated you from the assembly of Israel, to bring you near unto himself,—to do the laborious work of the habitation of Yahweh, and to stand before the assembly, to wait upon them? But having brought thee near, and all thy brethren the sons of Levi with thee> must ye seekpriesthood also? Wherefore> thou and all thine assembly> are conspiring against Yahweh, But <Aaron> what is he, that ye should murmur against him?

Then sent Moses, to call for Dathan and for Abiram, sons of Eliab,—and they said, We will not come up: Was it a small thing> that thou didst bring us up out of a land flowing with milk and honey, to put us to death> in the desert, but thou must continue even to lord it> over us? Certainly <not into a land flowing with milk and honey> hast thou brought us, nor given unto us an inheritance of field and vineyard,—<The eyes of those men> wilt thou dig out? We will not come up.

Then was Moses very angry, and he said unto Yahweh, Do not thou have respect unto their meal-offering, <Not one ass, from them> have I taken, neither have I wronged one of them. And Moses said unto Korah, <Thou, and all thine assembly> come ye before Yahweh,—<thou, and they, and Aaron> to-morrow. And take ye each man his censer, and put thereon incense, then shall ye bring near before Yahweh, each man his censer, two hundred and fifty censers,—and <thou and Aaron> each man his censer. So they took each man his censer, and put thereon incense, and placed thereon incense,—and took their stand at the entrance of the tent of meeting with Moses and Aaron. And Korah gathered together against them all the assembly, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting,—then appeared the glory of Yahweh, unto all the assembly. Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying:

Separate yourselves out of the midst of this assembly,—that I may consume them in a moment.

And they fell upon their faces, and said, O God, the God of the spirits of all flesh,—"Wings." Or: "remain." Cp. chap. xxxvi. 12. "Then rose up"—G.N. You rose up "—G.N. Some cod. (w. shall one man sin, and against all the assembly wilt thou be wroth? And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the assembly, saying,— Get ye up from round about the habitation of Korah, Dathan and Abiram. So Moses rose up, and went unto Dathan and Abiram,—then went after him, the elders of Israel. And he spake unto the assembly, saying,— Remove, I pray you, from beside the tents of these lawless men, and do not touch aught that pertaineth unto them, lest ye be carried off, in all their sins.

So they went up from beside the habitation of Korah, Dathan and Abiram, on every side,—and Dathan and Abiram came out and stationed themselves, at the entrance of their tents, with their wives and their sons, and their little ones. Then said Moses, Hereby shall ye know, that Yahweh hath sent me, to do all these works, verily not out of my own heart:— If all human beings die these do die, and the visitation of all human beings be visited upon them> Yahweh hath not sent me.

But if creation Yahweh create, and the ground open wide her mouth, and swallow them up, with all that pertain unto them, and so they go down, alive, unto hades> then shall ye know, that these men have despised Yahweh.

And it came to pass, as he made an end of speaking all these words> that the ground which was under them clave asunder; and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up, and their households,—and all the human beings who pertained unto Korah, with all their goods: so all they, and all that pertained unto them, went down, alive, unto hades,—and the earth closed upon them, and they perished out of the midst of the convocation. And all Israel who were round about them fled at their cry,—for they said, Lest the earth swallow us up:—

Fire also came forth from Yahweh, and consumed the two hundred and fifty men, who offered the incense.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: Say unto Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, that he take up the censers out of the midst of the burning, and the fire scatter thou yonder,—for they have been hallowed.

As for the censers of these sinners against their own persons> they shall be made into beaten-out plates, as an overlay for the altar, for they had brought them near before Yahweh, and hallowed them,—so shall they become a sign, unto the sons of Israel.

And Eleazar the priest took the censers of bronze, which the consumed men had brought near,—and beat them out into plates for over-saying the altar: a memorial unto the sons of Israel.

That no stranger, who is not of the seed of Aaron, shall draw near to offer incense before Yahweh,—lest he become like Korah and like his assembly.

As spake Yahweh by the hand of Moses, with regard thereto.

And all the assembly of the sons of Israel murmured on the morrow, against Moses and against Aaron, saying,— Ye have caused the death of the people of Yahweh.

And it came to pass, when the assembly gathered themselves together against Moses and against Aaron> that they turned towards the tent of meeting, and lo! the cloud had covered it: and the glory of Yahweh appeared.

And Moses and Aaron came in, before the tent of meeting. Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

Lift yourselves up out of the midst of this assembly, that I may consume them, as in a moment,—And they fell upon their faces: Then said Moses unto Aaron—

Take the censer and place thereon fire, from off the altar, and put incense [thereon], and, going quickly into the assembly, put a propitiatory-covering over them,—for wrath hath gone forth from before Yahweh, the plague hath begun:—

Then took Aaron, as Moses spake, and ran into the midst of the convocation, and lo! the plague had begun among the people,—so he placed the incense, and put a propitiatory-covering over the people: thus did he take his stand between the dead and the living,—and the plague was restrained:— And so it was, that they who died in the plague were fourteen thousand, and seven hundred,—besides them who died over the matter of Korah.

And Aaron returned unto Moses, unto the tent of meeting,—when the plague had been restrained.

§ 19. Aaron's Budding Staff.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto the sons of Israel, and take of them, one staff each for an ancestral house, of all their princes, by their ancestral houses, twelve staves,—<each man's name> shalt thou write upon his staff; and <Aaron's name> shalt thou write upon the staff of Levi,—for <one staff>—

Or: "were had been called together."
shall there be for the head of their ancestral house. 4 Then shalt thou lay them up in the tent of meeting,—before the testimony, where I meet with you.* 5 So shall it come to pass, that <the man whom I shall choose>, his staff, shall bud,—so will I cause to cease from against me the murmuring of the sons of Israel, wherewith they are murmuring against you.

And Moses spake unto the sons of Israel, and every one of their princes gave unto him a staff apiece, for each prince, by their ancestral houses: twelve staves,—and the staff of Aaron was in the midst of their staves. 7 So Moses laid up the staves before Yahweh,—in the tent of the testimony.

And it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses entered into the tent of the testimony; and lo! the staff of Aaron for the house of Levi had budded,—yea it had brought forth buds, and bloomed blossoms, and bore ripe almonds. 8 So then Moses brought forth all the staves, from before Yahweh, unto all the sons of Israel,—and they saw and took, each man his own staff.

And Yahweh said unto Moses,—

Put back the rod of Aaron, before the testimony, to be kept as a sign unto such as are perverse,—that thou mayest bring to an end their murmuring against me, that they die not.

Thus did Moses,—<as Yahweh commanded him> (so) did he.

Then spake the sons of Israel unto Moses, saying:

Lo, we have breathed our last—we are lost, we are [all] lost; 13 whoever draweth near—draweth near unto the habitation of Yahweh dieth,—are we ever to have made an end of breathing our last?

§ 20. Provision for Priests and Levites.

1 And Yahweh said unto Aaron, 2 Thou, and thy sons, and the house of thy father with thee; 3 shall bear the iniquity of the sanctuary,—and thou, and thy sons with thee; 4 shall bear the iniquity of your priesthood. 5 Therefore also <thy brethren of the tribe of Levi, the stem of thy father> bring thou near with thee, and let them be joined unto thee, and let them wait upon thee,—both on thee and on thy sons with thee, 6 before the tent of the testimony. 7 So shall they keep thy charge, and the charge of all the tent,— only' <unto the vessels* of the sanctuary, and unto the altar> shall they not come near, lest they die.—both they, and ye. 4 So shall they be joined unto thee, and shall keep the charge of the tent of meeting, as to all the laborious work of the tent,—but [is a stranger] shall not come near unto you. 5 So shall ye keep the charge of the sanctuary, and the charge of the altar,—that there no more' be wrath against the sons of Israel. 6 And therefore, lo! I have taken your brethren the Levites, out of the midst of the sons of Israel,—<unto you> as a gift' are they given, unto Yahweh, to do the laborious work of the tent of meeting. 7 But thou and thy sons with thee; shall keep the charge of your priesthood, as to every matter of the altar, and as to the interior of the veil, and shall do the laborious work,—<as a laborious service of gifts> do I give your priesthood, and [is a stranger who cometh near] shall be put to death.

8 And Yahweh spake unto Aaron, 9 I, therefore, lo! I have given unto thee the charge of my heave-offerings,—as to all the hallowed things of the sons of Israel—<unto thee> have I given them, pertaining to the anointing, and unto thy sons, for a statute age-abiding. 10 [This] shall be thine, out of the things most holy, out of the fire,—their every oblation—to the extent of their every meal-offering, and their every sin-bearer, and their every guilt-bearer wherewith they make amends unto me, <most holy unto thee> shall it be, and unto thy sons. 11 <As something most holy> shall ye eat it,—<every male> shall eat it, <holy> shall it be unto thee. 12 This, therefore, shall be thine—the heave-offering of their gift, even all the wave-offerings of the sons of Israel, <unto thee> have I given them, and unto thy sons and unto thy daughters with thee, by a statute age-abiding,—<every one that is clean in thy house> shall eat it. 13 <All the best of oil, and all the best of new-wine and corn,—the firstfruits thereof, which they shall give unto Yahweh> <unto thee> have I given them. 14 <The firstfruits of all that is in their land, which they shall bring in unto Yahweh> <thine> shall it be,—<every one that is clean in thy house> shall eat it: <every devoted thing in Israel> <thine> shall it be; 15 <every thing that is born first,—of all flesh that may be offered unto Yahweh, among men and among beasts> shall be thine,—only thou shalt redeem the firstborn of men, and <the firstborn of unclean beasts> shalt thou redeem.

And <as to the redemption price thereof> <from a month old> shalt thou redeem, by thine estimate, five shekels of silver, by

Then said Yahweh unto Aaron: <In their land> thou shalt have no inheritance, and no <allotted portion> shalt thou have, in their midst,—I am thine allotted portion and thine inheritance, in the midst of the sons of Israel. And <unto the sons of Levi> lo! I have given all the tenth in Israel, for an inheritance,—the allotted portion for their laborious work which they are performing, the laborious work of the tent of meeting: that the sons of Israel may come near no more, unto the tent of meeting,—to bear sin, to die. So shall the Levites themselves perform the laborious work of the tent of meeting, and [they] shall bear their iniquity, a statute age-abiding unto your generations, and <in the midst of the sons of Israel> shall they take no inheritance. Because <the tenth of the sons of Israel>, which they shall offer up unto Yahweh as a heave-offering—have I given unto the Levites, as an inheritance,—<for this cause> said I regarding them,

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

<Unto the Levites> therefore, shalt thou speak, and shalt say unto them, <When ye shall take of the sons of Israel the tenth which I have given unto you from them, as your inheritance> then shall ye offer up therefrom the heave-offering of Yahweh, a tenth of the tenth. So shall your heave-offering be reckoned your own,—as corn out of the threshing-floor, and as the abundance, out of the wine-press. Thus shall ye also offer up the heave-offering of Yahweh, out of all your tithes which ye shall take from the sons of Israel,—and give therefrom the heave-offering of Yahweh, unto Aaron, the priest. <Out of all your gifts> shall ye offer up every heave-offering of Yahweh,—out of all the best thereof, the hallowed part thereof, out of it.

And thou shalt say unto them,—<When ye offer the best thereof, out of it> then it shall be reckoned to belong unto the Levites, as the increase of the threshing-floor, and as the increase of the wine-press. And ye shall eat it in any place, <ye, and your household>;—for  it is, unto you, the allotted portion for your laborious work in the tent of meeting. And ye shall not, by reason of it, bear sin, when ye offer up the best thereof, out of it; and <the hallowed things of the sons of Israel> shall ye not profane, neither shall ye die.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying:

1 ||This|| is the statute of the law, which Yahweh hath commanded, saying,—

Speak unto the sons of Israel—That they bring unto thee a red heifer, without defect, wherein is no blemish, and wherein upon hath come no yoke; Then shall ye give her unto Eleazar the priest, and he shall take her forth unto the outside of the camp, and she shall be slain before him; and Eleazar the priest shall take of her blood, with his finger,—and shall sprinkle, towards the front of the tent of meeting, of her blood, seven times; and the heifer shall be burned up before his eyes,—her skin, and her flesh, and her blood, with her dung shall be burned up. Then shall the priest take cedar-wood, and hyssop and crimson,—and cast into the midst of the burning up of the heifer. And the priest shall wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water, and afterwards come into the camp,—but the priest shall be unclean until the evening. And the man that burneth her; shall wash his clothes in water, and bathe his flesh in water,—and be unclean until the evening. Then shall a man that is clean gather up the ashes of the heifer, and put them by, outside the camp, in a clean place,—so shall they be for the assembly of the sons of Israel, to keep for water of separation, it is . Then shall he that gathered up the ashes wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening,—so shall it be for the sons of Israel, and for the sojourner that sojourneth in your midst, by a statute age-abiding.

11 <He that toucheth the dead, even any human person> shall be unclean seven days. 12 ||He|| shall cleanse himself from sin therewith, on the third day, then <on the seventh day> shall he be clean,—but if he cleanse not himself from sin on the third day> then <on the seventh day> shall he not be clean. 13 <Whosoever toucheth the dead, the person of the human being that dieth, and doth not cleanse himself from sin> <the habitation of Yahweh> hath made unclean; that person, therefore, shall be cut off out of Israel,—<because ||the water of separation|| was not dashed upon him> <unclean> shall he be, his uncleanness is yet' upon him. 14 ||This is the law—<When ||a human being|| shall die in a tent> <every one who goeth into the tent, and every one who is in the tent> shall be unclean, seven days. And ||in the case of every open vessel, on which no' cover is fastened ||unclean> it is'. 15 And ||whosoever toucheth, on the face of the field, one slain with a sword, or one who hath died, or a human bone, or a grave> shall be unclean, seven days. And they shall take, for him that is unclean, of the ashes of the burning of the sin-bearer,—and living water shall be put thereon, in a vessel. 18 Then shall a man that is clean take hyssop, and dip in the water', and sprinkle upon the tent, and upon all the vessels, and upon the persons who were there,—and upon him that touched the bone, or him who had been slain, or him who had died of himself, or the grave, and the clean person shall sprinkle upon the unclean, on the third day, and on the seventh day, so shall he cleanse himself from sin, on the seventh day, and shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be clean in the evening. 20 But <in the case of the man who shall be unclean and shall not cleanse himself from sin> that person ||shall be cut off||, out of the midst of the convocation,—for <the sanctuary of Yahweh> hath he made unclean, ||the water of separation|| hath not been dashed upon him, <unclean> he is'. So shall it be unto them 4 for a statute age-abiding,—and ||he that sprinkleth the water of separation|| shall wash his clothes, and ||he that toucheth the water of separation|| shall be unclean until the evening; 22 and ||whatever the unclean person toucheth|| shall be unclean,—and ||the person who toucheth it|| shall be unclean until the evening.

§ 22. The Waters of Meribah (= "Contention").

1 Then came the sons of Israel, the whole 20 assembly, into the desert of Zin, in the first month, and the people dwelt in Kadesh,—and Miriam died there, and was buried there.

2 And there was no water for the assembly,—so they gathered together against Moses, and against Aaron. 3 And the people contended with Moses, and spake saying,

Would then we had died* when our brethren died* before Yahweh!

4 Wherefore' then, hast thou* brought the convocation of Yahweh into this desert,—to die there, ||we, and our cattle||?

5 And wherefore' did ye* cause us to come up out of Egypt, to bring us into this wretched place?—not a place of seeds, and figs, and vines, and pomegranates! ||even water|| is there none' to drink.

6 And Moses and Aaron went in, from the presence of the multitude* unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, and fell upon their faces,—and the glory of Yahweh appeared' unto them. 7 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

8 Take the staff, and gather together the assembly, ||thou, and Aaron thy brother||, then shall ye speak unto the cliff, before their eyes, and it shall give forth its waters.—so shalt thou bring forth unto them water, out of the cliff, and shalt cause the assembly, and their cattle, to drink.

9 And Moses took the staff, from before Yahweh,—as he commanded him. 10 And Moses and Aaron gathered together the convocation, before the cliff,—and he said unto them:

Hear, I pray you, ye rebels!

9 Out of this cliff> must we bring forth for you, water! 11 And Moses lifted high his hand, and smote the cliff, with his staff, twice,—and there came forth water in abundance, and the assembly and their cattle 4 did drink. 12 Then said Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron,

<Because ye believed not in me, to hallow me in the eyes of the sons of Israel> ||therefore|| shall ye not bring in this convocation into the land which I have given unto them.

13 ||The same|| were the waters of Meribah [that is "Contention"] in that the sons of Israel contended with Yahweh,—and so he hallowed himself among them.

§ 23. Edom Refuses Israel a Passage.

And Moses sent messengers from Kadesh, unto the king of Edom. —

Thou shalt not pass through my land, lest I come out to meet thee. —
The sons of Israel said unto him—

By the highway will we go up; and if we drink the waters of a well, then would I give the price thereof; only— it is nothing! — with my feet would I pass through. —

And he said—

Thou shalt not pass through. And Edom came out to meet him, with a strong people, and with a firm hand. Thus did Edom refuse to give Israel passage through his boundary, and Israel turned away from him.

§ 24. The Death of Aaron on Mount Hor.

Then set they forward from Kadesh, and the sons of Israel, all the assembly, came in to Mount Hor. Then spoke Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, in Mount Hor, near the boundary of the land of Edom, saying—

Aaron shall be withdrawn unto his kinsfolk, for he shall not enter into the land, which I have given unto the sons of Israel, because ye spurned my bidding, at the waters of Meribah. —

Take thou Aaron, and Eleazar his son, and bring them up Mount Hor; and strip thou Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his son, and Aaron shall be withdrawn, and shall die there. —

And Moses did as Yahweh commanded, and they went up into Mount Hor, in sight of all the assembly. And Moses stripped Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his son, and Aaron died there, in the top of the mount, and Moses and Eleazar came down out of the mount. —

And all the assembly saw that Aaron was dead; and they bewailed Aaron thirty days, even all the house of Israel.

§ 25. The Seraph Serpents.

And the Canaanite, the king of Arad, who dwelt in the South, heard that Israel had entered by the way of Atharim, so he made war with Israel, and took some of them captive. Then Israel vowed a vow unto Yahweh, and said—

<If thou wilt surely deliver up this people into my hand> then will I utterly destroy their cities. —

And Yahweh hearkened unto the voice of Israel, and delivered up the Canaanite into his hand, so he utterly destroyed them, and their cities, and called the name of the place Hormah [that is, "Utter Destruction"].

Then brake they up from Mount Hor, by way of the Red Sea, to go round the land of Edom, and the soul of the people became impatient because of the way. —

So then the people spake against God, and against Moses, Wherefore have ye brought us up out of Egypt, to die in the desert? for there is neither bread, nor water; and our soul doth loathe this contemptible bread! —

And Yahweh sent among the people the poisonous serpents, and they bit the people, and much people of Israel died. Then came the people of Israel unto Moses, and said—

We have sinned, in that we spake against Yahweh, and against thee. Pray thou unto Yahweh, that he may take from us the serpent. —

So Moses prayed for the people. —

Then said Yahweh unto Moses—

Make thee a like serpent, and put it upon a standard; and it shall come to pass, that any one who is bitten shall live. —

So Moses made a serpent of bronze, and put it upon the standard, and it came to pass that if the serpent had bitten any man, as soon as he directed his look unto the serpent of bronze, he lived.

§ 26. From Edom to Moab.

And the sons of Israel brake up, and encamped in Oboth. —

And they brake up from Oboth, and encamped in Ije-Abarim, in the desert which is over against Moab, towards the rising of the sun. From thence brake they up, and encamped in the ravine of Zered. — is in the desert, that cometh forth out of the boundary of the Amorites,—for Arnon is the boundary of Moab, between Moab and the Amorites. 14 For this cause is it said, in the Book of the Wars of Yahweh,— 15 Waheb* with a hurricane, And the ravines of Arnon; 16 And the bottom of the ravines, that extendeth toward the dwelling of Ar,— And adjoineth to the boundary of Moab, 17 And <from thence> towards Beer,—||the same|| is the well, whereof Yahweh said unto Moses, Gather together the people, that I may give them water. 18 ||Then|| sang Israel this song,— 19 Spring thou up, O well! Resound ye thereunto; 20 A well!—princes digged it, ||Nobles of the people|| delived it, With a sceptre, With their staves. 21 And <from the desert> to Mattanathah; 22 and <from Mattanathah> to Nahaliel; 23 and <from Nahaliel> to Bamoth; 24 and <from Bamoth of the valley, which is in the field-country of Moab> to the top of Pisgah,—which overlooketh Jeshimon. 25 Then sent Israel, messengers, unto Sihon king of the Amorites, saying: 26 Let me pass through thy land—we will not turn aside into field or into vineyard, nor will we drink the water of a well,—<by the king's road> will we go, until we get through thy boundary. 27 And Sihon suffered not Israel to pass through his boundary, but Sihon gathered together all his people, and came forth to meet Israel, towards the desert, and entered Jahaz,—and fought with Israel. 28 And Israel smote him with the edge of the sword,—and took possession of his land, from Arnon unto Jabok, unto the sons of Ammon, for ||strong|| was the boundary of the sons of Ammon. 29 So Israel took all these cities,—and Israel dwelt in all the cities of the Amorites, in Heshbon, and in all her villages; 30 for ||as for Heshbon|| <the city of Sihon king of the Amorites> it was;—||he|| having fought with the former king of Moab, and taken all his land out of his hand, unto Arnon. 31 <For this cause> say the poets— Enter ye Heshbon,— 32 Built and prepared be the city of Sihon; 33 For  hath come forth out of Heshbon, ||A flame|| out of the stronghold of Sihon; It hath consumed Ar of Moab,

The lords* of the high places* of Arnon. 29 Woe to thee, Moab, Thou art lost, O people of Chemosh,— He hath given up his sons as fugitives And his daughters into captivity, Unto the king of the Amorites, Sihon. 30 Then we shot them— Heshbon is destroyed, as far as Dibon,— Then laid we waste as far as Nophah, A fire* reacheth unto Medeba. 31 So then Israel dwelt in the land of the Amorites. 32 And Moses sent to spy out Jazer, and they captured the villages thereof,—and dispossessed the Amorites that were there. 33 Then turned they, and went up by the way of Bashan,—and Og, king of Bashan, came forth to meet them—||he, and all his people||, to give battle at Edrei. 34 Then said Yahweh unto Moses— Do not fear him, for <into thy hand> have I delivered him, and all his people, and his land,— Therefore shalt thou do unto him, as thou didst unto Sihon, king of the Amorites, who was dwelling in Heshbon. 35 So then they smote him, and his sons, and all his people, until there was not left him, a remnant,—and took possession of his land. 36 Then did the sons of Israel break up,—and encamp in the waste plains of Moab, on the other side of the Jordan by Jericho.

§ 27. Balak King of Moab sends for Balaam.

2 And Balak son of Zippar saw* all that Israel had done unto the Amorites; 2 and Moab abhorred with great fear from the presence of the people, because <many> they were,—and Moab was alarmed at the presence of the sons of Israel. 4 So Moab said unto the elders of Midian— ||Now|| shall the gathered host* lick up all that are round about us, as the ox doth lick up the verdurie of the field. But ||Balak son of Zippar|| was king unto Moab at that time. 5 So he sent messengers unto Balaam son of Beor, to Pethor, which was by the river of the land of the sons of his people, to call him,—saying— Lo! ||a people|| hath come forth out of Egypt Lo! ||he|| hath covered the eye of the land, Yea ||he|| is tarrying over against me. 6 ||Now|| therefore, do come, I pray thee, curse me this people. For <stronger> he is than I,

And the elders of Moab and the elders of Midian went their way, with the rewards of divination in their hand, —so they came in unto Balaam, and spake unto him the words of Balak.
8 And he said unto them —
9 Tarry ye here for the night, and I will bring you back word, as Yahweh shall speak unto me.
10 So the princes of Moab abode with Balaam.
11 And God came in unto Balaam, and said,
12 Who are these men, with thee?
13 Then said Balaam unto God,
14 So Balaam arose in the morning, and saddled his ass, —and went with the princes of Moab.
15 Then kindled the anger of God, because he || was going, || and the messenger of Yahweh stationed himself in the way, to withstand him, —|| as he was riding upon his ass, his two young men being with him.||
16 And the ass saw the messenger of Yahweh, stationed in the road, with his drawn sword in his hand, so the ass turned aside out of the road, and went into the field, —and Balaam smote the ass, to make her turn back into the road.
17 But the messenger of Yahweh took his stand, in a hollow pass of the vineyards, —with a fence on this side, and a fence on that side.
18 And <when the ass saw the messenger of Yahweh> she squeezed herself against the wall, and squeezed the foot of Balaam, against the wall, —and again she smote her.
19 And the messenger of Yahweh went on further, and took his stand in a narrow place, where there was no way to turn, to the right hand or to the left.
20 And <when the ass saw the messenger of Yahweh> she sank down under Balaam, —then was Balaam’s anger kindled, and he smote the ass with the staff.
21 And Yahweh opened the mouth of the ass, —and she said unto Balaam — 22 What have I done to thee, that thou hast smitten me these three times?
23 And Balaam said unto the ass,
24 Surely thou hast been making sport of me, —
25 Would there had been a sword in my hand, for <now> would I have slain thee.
26 Then said the ass unto Balaam —
27 Am not I thine own ass, on which thou hast ridden all thy life, until this day? || Have I been wont to do unto thee? || Thus? |
28 And he said, Nay!
29 Then did Yahweh unveil the eyes of Balaam, and he saw the messenger of Yahweh stationed in the road, with his sword drawn in his hand, —so he bent his head and bowed down before him.
30 And the messenger of Yahweh said unto him,
31 Wherefore hast thou smitten thine ass, these three times?
32 Lo! || I myself am come forth to withstand thee, because headlong’ was thy way before me.
33 And the ass hath seen me, and hath turned aside at my presence, these three times: <Unless she had turned aside from my Then said Balaam unto the messenger of Yahweh—
I have sinned, for I knew not that thou wast stationed to meet me in the road,— [Now], therefore, if it be displeasing in thine eyes] I must get me back again.

And the messenger of Yahweh said unto Balaam—
Go with the men:
Only, [the word that I shall speak unto thee] shall thou speak.

So Balaam went with the princes of Balak.

And Balak heard that Balaam was coming, so he went forth to meet him unto a city of Moab which was upon the boundary of Arnon, which was in the utmost part of the boundary. And Balak said unto Balaam:

Did I not say unto thee, Go not with them, lest I smite thee with a plague?

Am I not [in very deed] able to honour thee?

And Balaam said unto Balak—
Lo! I am come unto thee,
[Now] promise anything:
[The word that God shall put in my mouth] must I speak.

So Balaam went with Balak, and they entered Kirath-buzoth. And Balak sacrificed and sent unto Balaam, and unto the princes that were with him. And it came to pass in the morning, that Balak took Balaam, and brought him up the high places of Baal, and he saw from thence the utmost part of the people.

§ 28. Balaam’s First Prophecy.

Then said Balaam unto Balak:
Build me here seven altars, and prepare me here, seven bullocks and seven rams.

And Balak did as Balaam had spoken, and Balak and Balaam caused to ascend a bullock and a ram on each altar.

Then said Balaam unto Balak:
Station thyself by thine ascending-sacrifice, and let me go my way; peradventure Yahweh may come and meet me, and [what]soever he may shew me I will tell thee.

So he went his way to a bare height. And God came unto Balaam, so he said unto him—
[The seven altars] have I built in a row, and have caused to ascend, a bullock and a ram on each altar.

And Yahweh put a word into the mouth of Balaam, and said:
Return unto Balak, and [thus] shalt thou speak.

So he returned unto him, and lo! he was stationed by his ascending-sacrifice. So he took up his parable and said,—

<From Aram> doth Balak conduct me, [The king of Moab] from the mountains of the East, Come thou! curse me Jacob,
Yea, come thou! rage on Israel.

How can I revile one whom God hath not reviled?
Yea, how can I rage on one whom Yahweh hath not enraged?

Surely [from the head of the rocks] do I see him,
Yea, [from the hills] do I observe him,
Lo! [a people] who alone doth dwell,
And [among the nations] he doth not reckon himself.

Who hath counted the dust of Jacob?
Or who hath numbered the fourth part of Israel?
Let me die the death of the upright,
And let me die hereafter be like his.

Then said Balak unto Balaam,
What hast thou done for me?
[To revile mine enemies] I summoned thee, and lo! thou hast kept on blessing.

And he answered and said,—
Was it not [to be so] that <whatever Yahweh should put into my mouth> [the same] should I take heed to speak?

§ 29. Balaam’s Second Prophecy.

Then said Balak unto him—
Come, I pray thee, with me, unto another place, from whence thou mayest see him, [nothing but his utmost part] shalt thou see, but [all of him] shalt thou not see,—and so revile me him from thence.

And he took him to the field of Zophim, unto the head of Pisgah,—and built seven altars, and caused to ascend a bullock and a ram on each altar. Then said he to Balak, Station thyself here, by thine ascending-sacrifice,—while I meet him yonder.

And Yahweh met Balaam, and put a word into his mouth,—and said—
Return unto Balak, and [thus] shalt thou speak.

So he came in unto him, and [there he was] stationed by his ascending-sacrifice, and the princes of Moab, with him. And Balak said unto him,
What hath Yahweh spoken?

Then took he up his parable, and said,—
Rise, Balak, and hear,
Give ear unto me, son of Zippor!

19 God is not a man, that he should lie,
Nor is son of Adam; that he should repent,—
Hath he said, and will not perform?
Yea spoken, and will not make it stand fast?

20 Lo! <to bless> have I received [command],—
And I will bless, nor will I take it back.

21 He hath not discovered trouble, in Jacob,
Neither hath he seen wretchedness in Israel,— Yahweh, his God, is with him,
And the acclam of a king in his midst:

22 <God> having brought them forth out of Egypt;
The very horns of the buffalo are his:

23 Surely, there is no enchantment against Jacob,
Nor divination against Israel,—
Now shall it be said—
Of Jacob, and of Israel,
What hath God wrought!

24 Lo, a people, like a lioness, shall rise,
And like a strong lion shall rouse himself up;
He will not lie down, till he eat the torn,
And the blood of the slain he drink.

25 Then said Balak unto Balaam,
Thou shalt neither revile him,—nor bless him.

26 And Balaam responded, and said unto Balak,— Speak I not unto thee saying,
All that Yahweh shall speak must I do?

§ 30. Balaam’s Third and Fourth Prophecies.

27 And Balak said unto Balaam,
Come, I pray thee! let me take thee unto another place,—peradventure <it may be right in the eyes of God> that thou revile me, from thence.

28 So Balak took Balaam,—unto the head of Peor, that looketh over the face of the Jeshimon.

29 And Balaam said unto Balak,
Build me here, seven altars, and prepare me here, seven bullocksin and seven rams.

30 And Balak did as Balaam said,—and caused to ascend a bullock and a ram on each altar.

And when Balaam saw that it was good in the eyes of Yahweh, to bless Israel> he went not at other times, to invoke enchantments,—

But set towards the desert> his face.

So Balaam lifted up his eyes, and saw Israel, dwelling, according to his tribes,—then came upon him, the Spirit of God; and he took up his parable, and said,—

The oracle of Balaam; son of Beor,
Yea the oracle of the man, of opened eye;

The oracle of one hearing sayings of God,
Who <the sight of the Almighty> receiveth in vision,
Who, falleth down, but hath unveiled eyes:

How pleasing are thy tents, O Jacob,— Thy* habitations, O Israel:

Like ravines extended,*
Like gardens by a river,—
Like aloe-trees Yahweh hath planted,*
Like cedars by waters:

He poureth forth water from his buckets;* And <his seed> is among many waters,—
And taller than Agag is his King,
And exalted is his kingdom.

<God having brought him forth out of Egypt;>
The very horns of the buffalo are his,—
He eateth up nations that assail him,
And the bones of them he breaketh,
And the loins of him he crusheth:

He hath knelt—hath lain down,
Like a strong lion, yea like a lioness,
Who shall rouse him up?

Such as bless thee* are each one blessed,
But such as curse thee* are each one cursed.

Then kindled the anger of Balak against Balaam, and he smote together his hands,—and Balak said unto Balaam—

To revile my foes> I called thee,
And lo! thou hast kept on blessing,* these three times.

Now therefore, flee thou unto thy place,—
I said, I will highly honour thee; but lo! Yahweh hath kept thee back from honour.

And Balaam said unto Balak,—Was it not so, that <even unto thy messengers whom thou didst send unto me> I spake, saying—

Though Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold> yet could I not go beyond the bidding of Yahweh, to do good or ill, out of my own heart,—

What shall speak must I speak?

Now therefore, behold me! going to my own people,—

Come now! let me advise thee, what this people shall do unto thy people, in the after-part of the days.
So he took up his parable, and said,—

The oracle of Balaam, son of Beor,
Yea, the oracle of the man, opened eye;

The oracle of one hearing sayings of God,
And knowing the knowledge of the Most High,

Who <the sight of the Almighty> receiveth in vision,
Who falleth down, but hath unveiled eyes:—

I see One, who is not now,
I observe One, who is not nigh,—

There hath marched forth a Star out of Jacob,
And arisen a Sceptre out of Israel,
That hath discerned the heard of Moab,
Yea, the crown of the head of all of the tumultuous:

So Edom hath become a possession,
Yea, a possession is Seir to his foes,—

But <Israel> is doing valiantly;

Yea One wieldeth dominion out of Jacob,—
Who hath destroyed the remnant out of the fortress.

And <when he saw Amalek> he took up his parable, and said—

<The beginning of nations> —Amalek,
But <his latter end> is even to perish.

And <when he saw the Kenite> he took up his parable, and said,—

Enduring thy dwelling-place,
Set thou, then, <in the crag> thy nest:—

Yet shall it be for destruction, O Cain,—
How long shall Assyria hold thee captive?

And he took up his parable, and said,—

Alas! who shall survive its fulfilment by God;

When ||ships|| come from the coast of the isles,

And humble Assyria, and humble the Hebrew,—

And ||the sea|| is even to perish?

Then Balaam arose, and went, and returned unto his place,—and ||Balak|| also went his way.

§ 31. Israel and the Daughters of Moab: Phinehas jealous for his God.

1 And Israel remained among the accases,— and the people began to go away unchastely unto the daughters of Moab; 2 who invited the people unto the sacrifices of their gods,—so the people did eat, and did bow themselves down unto their gods. 3 Thus Israel let himself be bound unto Baal-peor, 4 and the anger of Yahweh kindled upon Israel.

4 And Yahweh said unto Moses—

Take all the heads of the people, and crucify them unto Yahweh, in the face of the sun,—that the host of the anger of Yahweh may turn away' from Israel.

5 And Moses said unto the judges of Israel,—

Slay ye each one his men, who have let themselves be bound unto Baal-peor.

6 And lo!  who brought near unto his brethren a Midianite woman, before the eyes of Moses, and before the eyes of all the assembly of the sons of Israel,— 7 when they were weeping at the entrance of the tent of meeting.

7 And Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, saw it,—so he rose up out of the midst of the assembly, and took a spear in his hand; and went in after the man of Israel, into the pleasure-tent, and thrust both of them through, the man of Israel, and the woman, in her parts of shame,—so the plague was restrained, from against the sons of Israel. 9 Then was it found that they who had died by the plague were four and twenty thousand.

10 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

|Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest|| hath turned back my wrath from against the sons of Israel, in that he was jealous with my jealousy, in their midst,—so that I made not an end of the sons of Israel, in my jealousy. 12 Wherefore say,—

Behold me! giving unto him my covenant of peace; 13 so shall it prove to be unto him, and unto his seed after him, the covenant of our age-abiding priesthood,—because he was jealous for his God, and did put a propitiatory-covering over the sons of Israel.

14 Now ||the name of the man of Israel that was smitten, who was smitten with the Midianitish woman|| was Zimri, son of Salu,—prince of an ancestral house of the Simeonites; 15 and ||the name of the woman who was smitten, the Midianitess|| was Cozi, daughter of Zuri,— <the head of his kindred, of an ancestral house in Midian> was he.

16 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

Besiege the Midianites,—and ye shall smite them: 18 for ||besiegers|| were they unto you', with their wiles wherewith they besought you, over the matter of Peor,—and over the matter of Cozi, daughter of a prince of Midian, ||their sister||, who was smitten in the day of the plague, over the matter of Peor.

26 And it came to pass <after the plague> that Yahweh spake unto Moses, and unto Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, saying:

2 Reckon ye up the sum of all the assembly of the sons of Israel, from twenty years old and upwards, by their ancestral houses,—every one able to go forth to war, in Israel.

3 So then Moses and Eleazar the priest spake with them, in the waste plains of Moab,—by the Jordan near Jericho, saying:

4 From twenty years old and upwards,

As Yahweh commanded Moses, and the sons of Israel, who had come forth out of the land of Egypt.

5 Reuben, the firstborn of Israel,— the sons of Reuben,

6 <To Hanoch> [pertained] the family of the Hanochites;

7 <To Pallu> the family of the Palluites;

8 <To Hezon> the family of the Hezonrites,— <To Carmi> the family of the Carmites.

These] are the families of the Reubenites,—and they who were numbered of them were found to be—forty-three thousand, and seven hundred, and thirty.

9 Now the sons of Pallu were Eliab; and the sons of Eliab: Nemuel, and Danath and Abraham,—

10 So then the same Danath and Abraham, notable men of the assembly, who contended against Moses, and against Aaron, in the assembly of Korah, when they contended against Yahweh; and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up—with Korah also, when the assembly died,—when the fire consumed two hundred and fifty men, and they became a warning.

11 But the sons of Korah: died not.

12 <To Jamin> pertained the family of the Nemuelites,

13 <To Jachin> the family of the Jaminites,— <To Zara> the family of the Zaraithes,— 14 <To Shaul> the family of the Shaulites.

These] are the families of the Simeonites,—two and twenty thousand, and two hundred.

16 <To Hagggi> the family of the Hagggites,— <To Shuni> the family of the Shunites;

17 <To Ozni> the family of the Oznites,— <To Er> the family of the Erites:

18 These] are the families of the sons of Gad, as to them who were numbered of them,—forty thousand, and five hundred.

19 The sons of Judah,

Ez and Onan,—but Ez and Onan died in the land of Canaan.

20 And so, as to the sons of Judah, by their families, it was found that—

21 <To Shelah> pertained the family of the Shelainites,

22 <To Perez> the family of the Perezites,—

23 <To Zerah> the family of the Zerahites;

24 And, as to the sons of Perez, it was found that—

25 <To Hezron> pertained the family of the Hezronites,—

26 <To Hamul> the family of the Hamulites:

27 These] are the families of Judah, as to them who were numbered of them,—seventy-six thousand, and five hundred.

28 The sons of Issachar, by their families,

29 <To Tola> [pertained] the family of the Tolaites,—

30 <To Puah> the family of the Puahites;

31 <To Jashub> the family of the Jashubites,— <To Shimron> the family of the Shimonites:

These] are the families of Issachar, as to them who were numbered of them,—sixty-four thousand, and three hundred.

32 The sons of Zebulun, by their families,

33 <To Sered> pertained the family of the Seredites,

34 <To Elon> the family of the Elonites,—

35 <To Mahell> the family of the Mahellites:

These] are the families of the Zebulunites, as to them who were numbered of them,—sixty thousand, and five hundred.

36 The sons of Joseph, by their families,—

37 Manasseh, and Ephraim.

38 The sons of Manasseh,

39 <To Machir> pertained the family of the Machirites, and <To Machir> begat Gilead,— <To Gilead> pertained the family of the Gileadites;

40 These] are the families of Gilead:

41 <To Izhar> the family of the Izharites,—

42 <To Heleq> the family of the Helekites;

43 And <To Asriel> the family of the Asrielites;

But Nadab and Abihu died,—when they brought near strange fire before Yahweh;

And they who were numbered of them were found to be—twenty-three thousand; [all the males, from one month old and upwards],—for they had not numbered themselves in the midst of the sons of Israel, because there was given unto them no inheritance, in the midst of the sons of Israel.

These are they who were numbered by Moses, and Eleazar, the priest,—when they numbered the sons of Israel, in the waste plains of Moab, by Jordan, near Jericho. And was there not found a man of them who had been numbered by Moses, and Aaron the priest,—when they numbered the sons of Israel, in the desert of Sinai. For Yahweh had said of them,

They shall surely die, in the desert.

And there was not left of them a man, save only Caleb son of Jephunneh, and Joshua son of Nun.

§ 33. The Daughters of Zelophehad.

Then came near the daughters of Zelophehad, son of Hepher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, pertaining to the families of Manasseh, son of Joseph,—these being the names of his daughters, Mahlah, Noah, and Hoglah and Milcah, and Tirzah. So they stood before Moses, and before Eleazar the priest, and before the princes, and all the assembly,—at the entrance of the tent of meeting, saying:

Our father died in the desert, although he was not among the assembly that conspired against Yahweh, in the assembly of Korah,—but in his own sin died he; and had he none.

Wherefore should the name of our father be withdrawn, out of the midst of his family, because he had no son?

Give ye unto us a possession, in the midst of the brethren of our father.

And Moses brought near their cause, before Yahweh.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

A right thing are the daughters of Zelophehad speaking: Thou shalt surely give them a possession for an inheritance, in the midst of the brethren of their father,—and shalt cause the inheritance of their father to pass over unto them.

And unto the sons of Israel shalt thou speak, saying:

When any man shall die, having no son then shall ye cause his inheritance to pass over to his daughter.

And if he hath no daughter then ye shall give his inheritance unto his brethren.

And if his father hath no brethren then shall ye give his inheritance unto the brethren of his father.

And if his father hath no brethren then shall ye give his inheritance unto his blood-relation that is near unto him of his family, and he shall possess it.

So shall it serve the sons of Israel as a regulative statute.

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

§ 34. Moses warned of his Death, and Joshua appointed.

And Yahweh said unto Moses,

Go up into this mount of Abarim,—and see the land which I have given unto the sons of Israel;

And when thou hast seen it then shalt thou return and be withdrawn unto thy kinsfolk,—as Aaron thy brother was withdrawn; because ye resisted my bidding in the desert of Zin, when the assembly contended,—that ye should hallow me regarding the waters, before their eyes,—the same were the waters of Meribah, of Kadesh, in the desert of Zin.

Then spake Moses unto Yahweh, saying:

Let Yahweh, God of the spirits of all flesh, appoint a man over the assembly; who may go out before them, and who may come in before them, and who may take them out, and who may bring them in,—that the assembly of Yahweh become not as sheep that have no shepherd.

And Yahweh said unto Moses:

Take thee Joshua son of Nun, a man in whom is spirit,—then shalt thou lean thy hand upon him; and shalt cause him to stand, before Eleazar the priest, and before all the assembly,—and shalt charge him, before their eyes; and shalt put some of thine honour upon him,—that all the assembly of the sons of Israel may hearken.

And before Eleazar the priest shall he stand, and shall ask by him for the decision of the Light, before Yahweh,—at the bidding thereof shall they go out, and at the bidding thereof they shall come in—the, and all the sons of Israel with him, even all the assembly.

§ 35. The Appointed Festivals.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

1 Command the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—

My offering, my food, for my altar-flame, my satisfying odour shall ye take heed to offer unto me, in its season. Therefore shalt thou say to them.

This is the altar-flame, which ye shall offer unto Yahweh;—he-lams a year old, without defect, two daily, as a continual ascending-sacrifice.

4 The one lamb shall thou offer in the morning; and the other lamb shall thou offer between the two evenings; also the tenth of an ephah of fine meal, for a meal-offering, overflowed with oil. The fourth of a hin; a continual ascending-sacrifice, which was offered in Mount Sinai, as a satisfying odour, an altar-flame unto Yahweh. Also the drink-offering thereof, the fourth of a hin for each lamb;—in a holy place shall it be poured out, as a libation of strong drink unto Yahweh. And the other lamb shall thou offer, between the two evenings; like the meal-offering of the morning, and like the drink-offering thereof shall thou offer, an altar flame, a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh.

But on the sabbath day two he-lams a year old, without defect, and two-tenths of fine meal as a meal-offering, overflowed with oil, and the drink-offering thereof: the ascending-sacrifice of a sabbath, on its own sabbath, besides the continual ascending-sacrifice, and the drink-offering thereof.

And in the beginnings of your months shall ye bring near an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh;—two choice bullocks, and one ram, seven he-lams a year old, without defect; and three-tenths of fine meal, as a meal-offering, overflowed with oil, to each bullock, and two-tenths of fine-meal, as a meal-offering, overflowed with oil, to each ram; and a tenth, severally, of fine meal, as a meal-offering, overflowed with oil, to each lamb; an ascending-sacrifice, a satisfying odour, an altar-flame unto Yahweh. And as their drink-offerings.

half a hin shall be to a bullock, and the third of a hin to a ram, and the fourth of a hin to a lamb, of wine;—This is the ascending-sacrifice of a month, in its month, for the months of the year. Also one he-goat, as a sin-offering unto Yahweh, besides the continual ascending-sacrifice shall it be offered, with the drink-offering thereof.

And, on the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month shall be a passover unto Yahweh; and on the fifteenth day of this month shall be a festival;—seven days shall unleavened cakes be eaten. On the first day a holy convocation,—no laborious work shall ye do; but ye shall bring near—sanctuary;—an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, two choice bullocks, and one ram, and seven he-lams a year old, without defect must they be for you; and for their meal-offering fine meal, overflowed with oil, three-tenths for a bullock, and two-tenths for a ram shall ye offer; in a tenth, severally shall thou offer, for each lamb, for the seven lambs. Also one he-goat for bearing sin, to put a propitiatory-covering over you; in addition to the ascending-sacrifice of the morning, which is for the continual ascending-sacrifice shall ye offer these. Like these shall ye offer, daily, for seven days, as the food of the altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh, besides the continual ascending-sacrifice shall it be offered, with the drink-offering thereof. And on the seventh day shall ye have a holy convocation,—no laborious work shall ye do.

And on the day of first-fruits, when ye bring near a new mea-offering unto Yahweh, in your weeks;—a holy convocation shall there be unto you, no laborious work shall ye do; but ye shall bring near as an ascending-sacrifice, for a satisfying odour unto Yahweh, two choice bullocks, one ram, seven he-lams a year old; also their meal-offering, fine meal, overflowed with oil, three-tenths for each bullock, two-tenths for the one ram; a tenth, severally for each lamb, of the seven lambs; one young he-goat, for putting a propitiatory-covering over you; in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with the meal-offering thereof shall ye offer them, without defect they shall be for you, with their drink-offerings.

And in the seventh month, on the first of the month, a holy convocation shall there be unto you, no laborious work... shall ye do,—a day of loud acclamation—shall it be unto you. 2 Therefore shall ye offer, as an ascending-sacrifice, for a satisfying odour unto Yahweh, one choice bullock, one ram,—seven he-lambs a year old, without defect; and as their meal-offering, fine meal, overflowed with oil,—three-tenths to a bullock, two-tenths to a ram; 4 and one-tenth to each lamb,—of the seven lambs; 5 and one young he-goat as a sin-offering—for putting a propitiatory-covering over you: 6 in addition to the monthly ascending-sacrifice, with the meal-offering thereof, and the continual ascending sacrifice with the meal-offering thereof and the drink-offering thereof, according to their regulation,—for a satisfying odour, an altar-flame unto Yahweh.

7 And <on the tenth of this seventh month> ||a holy convocation|| shall there be unto you,—when ye shall humble your souls,—<no work> shall ye do; 8 but ye shall bring near, as an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, a satisfying odour, one choice bullock, one ram,—seven he-lambs a year old, <without defect> shall they be for you; 9 and, as their meal-offering, fine meal overflowed with oil,—three-tenths to a bullock, two-tenths to the one ram; 10 a tenth severally to each lamb,—of the seven lambs; 11 one young he-goat as a sin-offering,—in addition to the propitiatory sin-bearer, 12 and the continual ascending sacrifice, with their meal-offerings and their drink-offerings.

12 And <on the fifteenth day of the seventh month> ||a holy convocation|| shall there be unto you, <no laborious work> shall ye do,—but ye shall celebrate a festival unto Yahweh, seven days. 13 Then shall ye bring near as an ascending-sacrifice,—an altar-flame of a satisfying odour unto Yahweh,—thirteen choice bullocks, two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old, <without defect> shall they be; 14 and <as their meal-offering> fine-meal overflowed with oil,—three-tenths to each bullock, of the thirteen bullocks, two-tenths to each ram, of the two rams; and a tenth severally, to each lamb,—of the fourteen lambs; 15 also one young he-goat, as a sin-offering,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof.

17 And <on the second day> twelve choice bullocks, two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old, without defect; 18 with their meal-offerings and their drink-offerings—to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; 19 also one young he-goat as a sin-offering,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with its meal-offering, and their drink-offerings.

20 And <on the third day> eleven bullocks, two rams,—and fourteen he-lambs a year old, <without defect>; 21 with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; 22 also one young he-goat as a sin-offering,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof.

23 And <on the fourth day> ten bullocks, two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old, <without defect>; their meal-offering, and their drink-offerings, to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; 24 also one young he-goat as a sin-offering,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof.

25 And <on the fifth day> nine bullocks, two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old, without defect; 26 with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings, to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; 27 also one young he-goat as a sin-offering,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof.

28 And <on the sixth day> eight bullocks, two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old, without defect; 29 with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings—to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; 30 also one young he-goat as a sin-offering,—in addition to the continual ascending sacrifice, the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offerings thereof.

31 And <on the seventh day> seven bullocks, two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old, without defect; 32 with their meal-offering and their drink-offering, to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs—by their number, according to their regulation; 33 also one young he-goat as a sin-offering,—in addition to the continual ascending sacrifice, the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof.

34 [And] <on the eighth day> ||a closing feast|| shall there be unto you,—<no laborious work> shall ye do;
28 but ye shall bring near—as an ascending-sacrifice, an altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh—one bullock, one ram,—seven he-lambs a year old, without defect: 29 with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings—to the bullock, to the ram, and to the lambs—by their number, according to the regulation; 30 also one young he-goat as a sin-offering, in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof.

31 |These| shall ye offer unto Yahweh, in your appointed seasons,—besides your worship-offerings and your freewill offerings—as your ascending-sacrifices, and as your meal-offerings, and as your drink-offerings, and as your peace-offerings.

So Moses told the sons of Israel,—

According to all that Yahweh commanded Moses.

§ 36. The Vows of Wives and Daughters.

30 1 And Moses spake unto the heads of the tribes of the sons of Israel, saying:
||This|| is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded—

2 When a man shall vow a vow unto Yahweh, or swear an oath to bind a bond upon his soul, he shall not break his word, —according to all that proceedeth out of his mouth: shall he do.

3 And when a woman shall vow a vow unto Yahweh, and bind a bond, in the house of her father, in her youth; 4 and her father shall hear her vow or her bond which she bindeth upon her soul, and her father shall hold his peace at her > then shall all her vows stand, and every bond which she hath bound upon her soul shall stand. 5 But if her father forbade her, in the day when he heard > none of her vows or her bonds which she hath bound upon her soul shall stand, and Yahweh will pardon her, because her father forbade her. 6 But if she belonged to a husband, when her vows were taken upon her,—or a rash utterance fell from her lips, whereby she put a bond upon her soul; 7 and her husband heard it, and <on the day that he heard > he held his peace at her > then shall her vows stand, and her bonds which she hath bound upon her soul shall stand. 8 But if on the day her husband heard, he forbade her, then shall he have made of none effect her vow that is upon her, or the rash utterance of her lips, wherewith she put a bond upon her soul,—and Yahweh will pardon her.

but <as for the vow of a widow, or of a woman divorced> if whatsoever she hath bound on her soul shall stand against her. 10 But <if in the house of her husband> she vowed,—or bound a bond upon her soul, with an oath; 11 and her husband heard, and held his peace at her, did not forbid her, then shall all her vows stand, and every bond which she hath bound upon her soul shall stand. 12 But if her husband did make them of none effect on the day he heard > nothing which came forth out of her lips—of her vows, or of the bond of her soul—shall stand, —||her husband|| made it of none effect, and ||Yahweh|| will pardon her. 13 <As for any vow, or any oath of binding, to humble one's soul > ||her husband|| may make it stand, or ||her husband|| may make it of none effect. 14 But <if her husband ||do hold his peace|| at her, from day to day > then shall he cause all her vows to stand, or all her bonds which are upon her,—cause them to stand > because he held his peace at her, on the day when he heard. 15 And <if he ||do make them of none effect|| after that he hath heard them > then shall he bear her iniquity.

§ 37. The Avenging of Israel on the Midianites.

1 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

2 Exact thou, the avenging of the sons of Israel, from the Midianites,—and afterwards* shalt thou be withdrawn unto thy kinsfolk.

3 So Moses spake unto the people, saying,

Arm ye from among you men, for the war,—and let them go against Midian, to render the avenging of Yahweh upon Midian. 4 <A thousand from each tribe,—of all the tribes of Israel > shall ye send forth unto the war.

5 And there volunteered out of the thousands of Israel, a thousand of each tribe,—twelve thousand, armeda for war. 6 And Moses sent them, a thousand of each tribe, to the war,—them, and Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest to the war, with the vessels of the sanctuary, and the alarm trumpetsb in his hand. 7 So they made war upon Midian, as Yahweh had commanded Moses,— and slew every male: 8 and <the kings of Midian> slew they besides their other slain—namely, Evi, and Rekem, and Zir, and Hur, and Reba, five kings of Midian,— <Balaam also, son of Beor > slew they with the sword. 9 And the sons of Israel took

§ 37. The Avenging of Israel on the Midianites.

1 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

2 Exact thou, the avenging of the sons of Israel, from the Midianites,—and afterwards* shalt thou be withdrawn unto thy kinsfolk.

3 So Moses spake unto the people, saying,

Arm ye from among you men, for the war,—and let them go against Midian, to render the avenging of Yahweh upon Midian. 4 <A thousand from each tribe,—of all the tribes of Israel > shall ye send forth unto the war.

5 And there volunteered out of the thousands of Israel, a thousand of each tribe,—twelve thousand, armeda for war. 6 And Moses sent them, a thousand of each tribe, to the war,—them, and Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest to the war, with the vessels of the sanctuary, and the alarm trumpetsb in his hand. 7 So they made war upon Midian, as Yahweh had commanded Moses,— and slew every male: 8 and <the kings of Midian> slew they besides their other slain—namely, Evi, and Rekem, and Zir, and Hur, and Reba, five kings of Midian,— <Balaam also, son of Beor > slew they with the sword. 9 And the sons of Israel took captive the women of Midian, and their little ones, all their cattle also, and all their flocks, and all their substance carried they off as a prey: and all their cities also, in their sites, and all their encampments burned they up with fire. Then took they all the spoil, and all the booty, both of man and beast; and brought in unto Moses, and unto Eleazar the priest, and unto the assembly of the sons of Israel—the captives, and the booty, and the spoil, unto the camp, unto the waste plains of Moab, which are by Jordan, near Jericho. Then was Moses sore displeased with the officers of the force, the princes of thousands, and the princes of hundreds, who were coming in from the warring host. And Moses said unto them,—Have ye saved alive every female? Lo! they became unto the sons of Israel, by the advice of Balaam, the cause of treachery against Yahweh, over the affairs of Peor, and then came the plague against the assembly of Yahweh! Now therefore, slay ye every male among the young, every woman also that hath cohabited with man, slay ye. But all the young of womankind that have not cohabited with man preserve alive for yourselves.

Ye then, pitch outside the camp, for seven days, whosoever hath killed a person, and whoever hath touched the slain, cleanse yourselves (from sin) on the third day, and on the seventh day, ye, and your captives.

Every garment also, and every article of skin, and every thing made of goats' hair, and every article of wood shall ye cleanse (from sin).

Then said Eleazar the priest unto the men of the host, who had been to the war: This is the statute of the law, which Yahweh hath commanded Moses:

Surely the gold, and the silver, and the copper, the iron, the brass, and the lead, whatsoever thing can go into fire ye shall pass through fire, and it shall be clean, only with the water of separation shall ye cleanse it (from sin). But whatsoever cannot go into fire ye shall pass through water.

And ye shall wash your clothes, on the seventh day, and be clean, and afterwards shall ye come into the camp.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: Reckon thou up the sum of the booty that was captured, both of man and of beast, thou, and Eleazar the priest, and the ancestral heads of the assembly; and divide the booty into two parts, between them who took upon them the war, who went out in the host, and all the rest of the assembly.

Then shalt thou levy a tribute unto Yahweh from the men of war, who went forth in the host, one living thing, out of five hundred, of the human beings, and of the herd, and of the asses, and of the flock; out of their half shall ye take [them], and thou shalt give [them] unto Eleazar the priest, as a heave-offering unto Yahweh.

And out of the half allotted to the sons of Israel shalt thou take one allotted portion out of fifty of the human beings, of the herd, of the asses and of the flock, all the cattle, and shall give them unto the Levites, who keep the charge of the habitation of Yahweh.

And Moses and Eleazar the priest did,—As Yahweh commanded Moses.

And it came to pass that the booty, over and above the prey which the people of the host had seized was, of the flock six hundred and seventy-five thousand; and of the herd seventy-two thousand; and of the asses sixty-one thousand; and of the human persons, even of the woman-kind who had not cohabited with man, all the persons, thirty-two thousand.

And the half, the share of them who had gone forth in the host, was, the number of the flock three hundred and thirty-seven thousand, and five hundred; and so, the tribute unto Yahweh, out of the flock, was six hundred and seventy-five; and the herd, thirty-six thousand, and the tribute of them unto Yahweh, seventy-two; and the asses thirty thousand, and five hundred, and the tribute of them unto Yahweh, sixty-one; and the human persons sixteen thousand, and the tribute of them unto Yahweh, thirty-two.

And Moses gave the tribute—the heave-offering of Yahweh, unto Eleazar the priest,—As Yahweh commanded Moses.

And of the half allotted unto the sons of Israel, which Moses halved away from the men who had gone out in the host, the half allotted unto the assembly was, of the flock three hundred and thirty-seven thousand, and five hundred; and of the herd six and thirty thousand; and of the asses thirty thousand and five hundred; and of the human persons, sixteen thousand. So then Moses NUMBERS XXXI. 48—54; XXXII. 1—24.

8 Then came near unto Moses, the officers who belonged unto the thousands of the host,—the princes of thousands, and the princes of hundreds; 30 and said unto Moses,

"Thy servants have reckoned up the sum of the men of war who are in our hand,—and there is not missed from among us a man."

Therefore have we brought near an offering unto Yahweh, what each man hath found—articles of gold, ankle chains and bracelets, rings, earrings and buckles,—to put a propitiatory-covering over our souls, 30 before Yahweh.

So Moses and Eleazar the priest took the gold of them,—all the wrought articles. 32 And all the gold of the heave-offering which they offered up unto Yahweh, was—sixteen thousand, seven hundred and fifty shekels,—of the princes of thousands, and of the princes of hundreds.

The men of the host had taken prey, each man for himself. 34 So then Moses and Eleazar the priest took the gold of the princes, and hundreds, and brought it into the tent of meeting, as a memorial for the sons of Israel, before Yahweh.

§ 38. The Trans-Jordanic Inheritance of the Two-and-a-Half Tribes.

32 Now much cattle had come into the possession of the sons of Reuben, and of the sons of Gad, an exceeding mighty number. And when they saw the land of Jazer and the land of Gilead—lo! the place was a place for cattle.

So the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben came in, and spoke unto Moses, and unto Eleazar the priest, and unto the princes of assembly, saying:

"As touching Aroth and Dibon, and Jazer and Nimrah, and Heshbon, and Elealeh,—and Sehem and Nebo, and Boon—the land which Yahweh smote before the assembly of Israel— it is,—and thy servants have cattle.

And they said—<If we have found favour in thine eyes, let this land be given unto thy servants, for a possession,—do not take us over the Jordan.

Then said Moses unto the sons of Gad and unto the sons of Reuben,—Shall thy brethren go into the war, and ye settle down here? 7 Wherefore, then, should ye dissipate the heart of the sons of Israel,—from passing over into the land which Yahweh hath given to them?"

8 Thus did your fathers,—when I sent them from Kades-barnea, to view the land,—and they went up as far as the ravine of Eshcol; 8 and viewed the land, and they dissuaded the heart of the sons of Israel from entering into the land, which Yahweh had given them. 10 Then was the anger of Yahweh kindled, on that day,—and ye were aware, saying:

Surely none of the men that came up out of Egypt, from twenty years old and upwards, shall see the soil, which I sware unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob,—because they have not followed after me fully; 12 save Caleb son of Jephunneh, the Kenizite, and Joshua, son of Nun,—for they followed after Yahweh fully.

So the anger of Yahweh kindled upon Israel, and he made them wander in the desert, forty years,—until all the generation which had done the evil in the eyes of Yahweh had wasted away.

Lo! therefore, ye have arisen in the room of your fathers, a brood of sinful men,—to heap up yet more upon the heat of the anger of Yahweh towards Israel.

If ye do turn away from following him then will ye yet again leave them behind in the desert,—so shall ye bring destruction upon all this people.

Then came they near unto him, and said,

"Fold for flocks would we build for our cattle [here],—and cities for our little ones; but we would arm ourselves promptly, before the sons of Israel, until that we have brought them into their place,—so should our little ones remain in the fortified cities, because of the inhabitants of the land. 18 We would not return unto our houses,—until the sons of Israel have possessed themselves each man of his inheritance. 19 For we would not inherit with them, over the Jordan, and onwards,—because our inheritance hath come unto us on this side the Jordan, towards sunrise.

And Moses said unto them,

"If ye will indeed do this thing,—if ye will arm yourselves, before Yahweh, for the war; 21 and every armed man of you pass over the Jordan before Yahweh,—until he hath disposessed his enemies, from before him; 22 and the land be subdued before Yahweh then <afterwards> shall ye return, and shall be acquitted by Yahweh and by Israel,—and this land shall be yours for a possession before Yahweh.

But if ye shall not do this> lo! ye will have sinned against Yahweh,—and take note of your sin, that it will find you out.

Build you cities for your little ones, and folds for your flocks,—and then <that which hath gone forth from your mouth> ye shall do.

Or: "persons."

* Cp. chap. xiii. 23, 24. 8 G. n.

a Sp. v. r. (litter): "then"

13
Then spake the sons of Gad, and the sons of Reuben, unto Moses, saying—

Thy servants will do, as my lord is giving command. & Our little ones, our wives, our cattle, and all our beasts shall remain there, in the cities of Gilead; and thy servants will pass over, every one armed for war, before Yahweh, to battle, as my lord is speaking.

So Moses gave command concerning them, unto Elithai, the priest, and unto Joshua son of Nun,—and unto the heads of the fathers of the tribes, of the sons of Israel; and Moses said unto them—

If the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben will pass with you over the Jordan, every one armed for the war, before Yahweh, and the land be subdued before you, then shall ye give unto them the land of Gilead, for a possession.

But if they will not pass over armed, with you, then shall they accept a possession in your midst, in the land of Canaan.

Then responded the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben, saying,—

That which Yahweh had spoken unto thy servants, we will do.

We will pass over armed, before Yahweh, into the land of Canaan,—then shall be our possession the inheritance across the Jordan.

So then Moses gave unto them—even unto the sons of Gad, and unto the sons of Reuben, and unto the half tribe of Manasseh son of Joseph—the kingdom of Sihon, king of the Amorites, and the kingdom of Og, the king of Bashan, the land, by her cities, with boundaries, even the cities of the land round about.

And the sons of Gad built Dibon, and Ataroth, and Aroer; and Atroth-shophan and Jazer, and Jogbehah; and Beth-nimrah, and Beth-haram, fortified cities, and folds for flocks. And the sons of Reuben built Heshbon, and Elealeh, and Kiriataim, and Nebo and Baal-meon—their names being changed, and Sibmah,—and they gave names to the cities which they built.

Then went the sons of Machir, son of Manasseh, to Gilead, and captured it, and dispossessed the Amorites who were therein. So Moses gave Gilead unto Machir, son of Manasseh,—and he dwelt therein. And Jair, son of Manasseh, went, and captured their encampments, and called them Havvoth-jair (= "The encampments of Jair").

And Noah went, and captured Kenath, with the villages thereof,—and called it Nobah, after his own name.

§ 39. The Itinerary of the Israelites.

These are the departures of the sons of Israel, whereby they came forth out of the land of Egypt, by their hosts,—in the hand of Moses and Aaron. And Moses wrote their comings forth, by their departures, at the bidding of Yahweh,—and these are their departures, by their comings forth.

So then they brake up from Rameses, in the first month, on the fifteenth day of the first month,—on the morrow of the passover—came forth the sons of Israel, with an uplifted hand, in the sight of all the Egyptians; when the Egyptians were burying them whom Yahweh had smitten among them, every first-born,—when upon their gods—Yahweh had executed judgments.

Thus then the sons of Israel brake up from Rameses,—and encamped in Succoth.

And they brake up from Succoth,—and encamped in Etham, which is at the edge of the desert.

And they brake up from Etham, and turned upon Pi-hahiroth, which is over against Baal-zephon,—and encamped before Migdol.

And they brake up from Hahiroth, and passed through the midst of the sea, towards the desert,—and went their way a journey of three days, in the desert of Etham, and encamped in Marah.

And they brake up from Marah, and came in towards Elim; there being in Elim twelve fountains of water, and seventy palm-trees, so they encamped there.

And they brake up from Elim,—and encamped by the Red Sea.

And they brake up from the Red Sea,—and encamped in the desert of Sin.

And they brake up from the desert of Sin,—and encamped in Dophkah.

And they brake up from Dophkah,—and encamped in Alush.

And they brake up from Alush,—and encamped in Rephidim, where was no water, for the people to drink.

And they brake up from Rephidim,—and encamped in the desert of Sinai.

And they brake up from the desert of Sinai,—and encamped in Kibroth-hattaavah.

And they brake up from Kibroth-hattaavah,—and encamped in Hazeroth.

And they brake up from Hazeroth,—and encamped in Rithmah.

And they brake up from Rithmah,—and encamped in Rimmon-peres.

And they brake up from Rimmon-peres,—and encamped in Libnah.

And they brake up from Libnah,—and encamped in Rissah.

And they brake up from Rissah,—and encamped in Kehelathah.

And they brake up from Kehelathah,—and encamped in Mount Shepher.

And they brake up from Mount Shepher,—and encamped in Haradah.

And they brake up from Haradah,—and encamped in Makeloth.

And they brake up from Makeloth.
And ye shall take your inheritance in the land by lot, by your families— <for the large one> ye shall make large his inheritance, and <for the small one> make small his inheritance, <whithersoever the lot cometh out to him> [[be]] shall it be,— <by the tribes of your fathers> shall ye take your inheritance.

But <if ye do not dispossess the inhabitants of the land from before you> then shall it be, that <they whom ye leave remaining of them> will become pricks in your eyes, and thorns in your sides,— and will harass you, concerning the land, wherein ye are settling down. And it shall be,—that <as I thought to do unto them> I will do unto you.

§ 40. The Boundaries of the Land.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: 34

Command the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,

<When [[ye]] are coming into the land of Canaan> this is the land which shall fall unto you, as an inheritance, even the land of Canaan, by the boundaries thereof.

3 Ye shall therefore have a south corner, from the desert of Zin, on the side of Edom,—so shall ye have a south boundary, from the end of the salt sea, eastward; and the boundary shall go round for you from the south towards the cliffs of Akraebim, then cross over towards Zin, and the extension thereof shall be from the south to Kadesh-barnim,—then shall it reach out to Hazar-addar, and cross over towards Amon; then shall the boundary turn round from Amon towards the ravine of Egypt,—and the extension thereof shall be towards the sea.

6 And <for a west' boundary>—ye shall have the great sea, even a boundary,—[[this]] shall serve you as a west' boundary.

7 And [[this]] shall serve you as a north' boundary,—<From the great sea> ye shall draw a line for you, to Mount Hor: * From Mount Hor > ye shall draw a line to the entering in of Hamath,—and the extension of the boundary shall be towards Zedad; then shall the boundary reach out towards Ziphron, and the extension thereof, be to Hazar-enan. [[This]] shall serve you as a north' boundary.

10 Then shall ye draw for yourselves a line, for an east boundary,—from Hazar-enan towards Shephaim; and the boundary shall go down from Shephaim towards Riblah, on the east of Ain,—then shall the boundary go down, and strike on the side of the Sea of Chinnereth, eastward; then shall the boundary go down towards the Jordan, and the extension thereof be to the salt sea. [[This]] shall be your land, by the boundaries thereof, round about.

* A spur of the Lebanon.
And Moses commanded the sons of Israel, saying,—

This is the land, which ye shall inherit by lot, which Yahweh had commanded to be given to the nine tribes, and the half tribe.

For the tribe of the sons of the Reubenites, by their ancestral house, and the tribe of the sons of Gad, by their ancestral house, have received,—and the half tribe of Manasseh have received, their inheritance:

the two tribes, and the half tribe have received their inheritance—on this side Jordan near Jericho, eastwards, towards sunrise.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

These are the names of the men who shall receive for you the land, as an inheritance,—Eleazar, the priest, and Joshua, son of Nun.

Also one prince from each tribe shall ye take to receive the land as an inheritance.

These therefore, are the names of the men—

For the tribe of Judah> Caleb, son of Jephunneh;
And for the tribe of the sons of Simeon> Shemuel, son of Ammiuhud;
And for the tribe of Benjamin> Elidad, son of Chilion;
And for the tribe of the sons of Dan> a prince—Bukki, son of Jogli:
And for the tribe of Joseph>
For the tribe of the sons of Manasseh> a prince,—Hammil, son of Ephod;
And for the tribe of the sons of Ephraim> a prince,—Kemuel, son of Shiphthah;
And for the tribe of the sons of Zebulun> a prince,—Elizaphan, son of Parnach;
And for the tribe of the sons of Issachar> a prince,—Pauliul, son of Azolland;
And for the tribe of the sons of Asher> a prince,—Alhid, son of Shelom;
And for the tribe of the sons of Naphtali> a prince,—Pedael,* son of Ammiuhud.

These are they whom Yahweh hath commanded, to receive—for the sons of Israel—their inheritance, in the land of Canaan.

§ 41. The Cities of the Levites and the Cities of Refuge.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses in the waste plains of Moab,—by Jordan, near Jericho, saying:

Command the sons of Israel, that they give unto the Levites—out of the inheritance which they possess—six cities to dwell in,—pasture land also unto the cities, round about them> shall ye give unto the Levites.

So shall the cities be theirs, to dwell in,—and their pasture lands shall be for their cattle and for their goods, and for all their beasts.

And the pasture lands of the cities which ye shall give unto the Levites shall be,—from the wall of the city, and outwards, a thousand cubits round about. So ye shall measure—the outside of the city—the eastward quarter two thousand by the cubit, and the south quarter two thousand by the cubit, and the west quarter two thousand by the cubit, and the north quarter two thousand by the cubit, with the city in the midst. This shall be unto them the pasture lands of the cities.

And among the cities which ye shall give unto the Levites> shall be the six cities of refuge, which ye shall give, that the manslayer may flee thither—and besides them> ye shall give, forty-two cities.

All the cities which ye shall give unto the Levites shall be forty-eight cities,—them, and their pasture lands.

And as touching the cities which ye shall give out of the possession of the sons of Israel> from the many shall ye take many, and from the few ye shall take few,—each, according to his inheritance, which they shall inherit shall give of his cities unto the Levites.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—

When ye are passing over the Jordan unto the land of Canaan> then shall ye find for you convenient cities, cities of refuge, shall they be unto you,—and the manslayer, who hath slain a person by mistake, shall flee thither.

So shall the cities serve you for places of refuge from the redeemer,—that the manslayer may not die, until he has stood before the assembly, for judgment.

And as touching the cities which ye shall give> six cities of refuge shall there be unto you. Three of the cities> shall ye give, on this side the Jordan, and three of the cities shall ye give in the land of Canaan,—cities of refuge shall they be.

For the sons of Israel, and for the sojourner, and for the settler in your midst> shall these six cities serve, as places of refuge,—that any one may flee thither who hath slain a person by mistake.

If then, with an instrument of iron> he smote him, and he died> a manslayer he is,—a manslayer [shall surely die].

Sp. v.r. (םֵעָר) and some edd. (v. Sam., Jon., Sep., Syr., and one ear. pr. edn.) have: "unto you"—v.r.

Or: "靖 smitten a soul."
<if <with a stone thrown by hand, where-by one might die> he smote him, and he died> . 18 Or if <with hand-weapon of wood, wherewith one might die> he smote him, and he died> . 19 <The blood-redeemer> shall put to death the manslayer, when he lighteth upon him; he shall put him to death.

Or <if <with hate> he shall thrust at him, or hurl at him designedly, and he have died> 21 or <if <with enmity> he hath smitten him with his hand, and he is dead> then shall he that smote the blow that put to death .

But <if suddenly, without enmity> he shall thrust him, or hurl upon him any missile, without design; 23 or with any stone whereby one might die, without seeing [him], and it fall upon him, and he dieth; he not being at enmity with him, nor seeking to harm him> 24 then shall the assembly judge, between him that smote and the blood-redeemer, according to these regulations; 22 and the assembly shall rescue the manslayer out of the hand of the blood-redeemer, and the assembly shall restore him unto his city of refuge, whither he had fled, and he shall dwell therein, until the death of the high priest, who hath been anointed with the hallowing oil. 26 But <if the manslayer> go out of the bounds of his city of refuge, whereto he hath fled; and the blood-redeemer [find him]; outside the bounds of his city of refuge then may the blood-redeemer slay the slayer, without being guilty of blood; 28 for <in his city of refuge> should he have remained, until the death of the high priest, and <after the death of the high priest> might he have returned into the land which he doth possess.

So shall these serve you as a regulative statute unto your generations,—wheresoever ye may dwell. 29 <Whosoever taketh away life> 4 <at the mouth of witnesses> shall the slayer be slain,—but [one witness] shall not testify against a person, to put [him] to death.

And ye shall accept no ransom for the life of him that slayeth, if he have unlawfully caused death,—but he must surely be put to death. 32 And ye shall accept no ransom for him that hath fled to his city of refuge, if he should return to dwell in the land before the death of the priest. 35

So shall ye not pollute the land wherein ye are, 36 for [the blood] doth pollute the land, and [for the land] no propitiatory-covering can be made, as touching blood, that is shed therein, [save with the blood of him that shed it]; 34 thou must not then make unclean the land wherein ye are dwelling, in the midst of which I have my habitation; for [I—Yahweh] am making my habitation in the midst of the sons of Israel.

§ 42. The Marriage of Heiresses circumscribed.

1 Then came near the heads of fathers, belonging 36 to the family of the sons of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, out of the families of the sons of Joseph,—and spake before Moses, and before the princes, heads of fathers, belonging to the sons of Israel; 2 and they said— Unto my lord> did Yahweh give command, to bestow the land as an inheritance, by lot, unto the sons of Israel,—[my lord]; therefore, was commanded by Yahweh, to give the inheritance of Zelophehad unto his brethren, unto his daughters. 3 When therefore, <unto any one from among the sons of the [other] tribes of the sons of Israel> they become wives> their inheritance shall disappear out of the inheritance of our fathers, and be added to the inheritance of the tribe to which they shall be received, and so <out of the lot of our inheritance> shall it disappear. 4 And <when the jubilee shall come to the sons of Israel> then shall their inheritance be added unto the inheritance of the tribe to which they shall be received, and <out of the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers> shall their inheritance disappear.

5 Then Moses commanded the sons of Israel, at the bidding of Yahweh, saying,— A right thing are the tribe of the sons of Joseph speaking.

6 This is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded, as to the daughters of Zelophehad, saying: Unto whosoever it may be good in their eyes let them become wives, save only unto the family of the tribe of their father> let them become wives. 7 So shall no inheritance belonging to the sons of Israel go round from tribe to tribe,—for the sons of Israel shall [each one] cleave unto the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers. 8 And [every daughter possessing an inheritance, from among the tribes of the sons of Israel] unto one of the family of the tribe of her father> shall become wife,—to the intent that the sons of...
Israel may possess, each one the inheritance of his fathers; and no inheritance go round from one tribe to another tribe,—for the tribes of the sons of Israel shall cleave each one unto his own inheritance.

<As Yahweh commanded Moses> did the daughters of Zelophehad. Thus then did Mahlah, Tirzah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad, become wives unto the sons of their father's brethren.

<Unto men from among the families of the sons of Manasseh, son of Joseph> became they wives, and so their inheritance remained with the tribe of the family of their father.

These are the commandments and the regulations which Yahweh gave in charge by the hand of Moses, unto the sons of Israel,—in the waste plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho.

THE BOOK OF DEUTERONOMY.

§ 1. Historical Introduction.— Editorial, written West of the Jordan; cp. vers. 1 and 5.

1 These are the words, which Moses spake unto all Israel, over the Jordan, in the wilderness, in the waste plain over against Suph, between Paran and Tophel, and Laban and Hazeroth, and Di-zahab: eleven days from Horeb, by way of Mount Seir,—as far as Kadesh-barnes.

And it came to pass, in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the first of the month, that Moses spake unto the sons of Israel, according to all that Yahweh had given him in charge, for them; after he had smitten Sihon, king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon,—and Og, king of Bashan, who dwelt in Ashtaroth, in Edrei: <over the Jordan, in the land of Moab> did Moses take in hand to expound this law, saying:

§ 2. A Retrospect.—Spoken by Moses, with an Occasional Editorial Explanation thrown in.

6 Yahweh our God spoke unto us in Horeb,
saying,—

<Long enough> have ye dwelt in this mountain;

Turn ye and set yourselves forward, and enter into the hill country of the Amorites, and into all the places near, in the plain, in the mountain, and in the lowland, and in the south, and in the coast of the sea,—the land of Canaan, and the Lebanon, as far as the great river, the river Euphrates. See! I have set before you the land, enter, and possess the land, which Yahweh sworn unto your fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give unto them, and unto their seed after them.

9 So I spake unto you, at that time, saying,—
I am unable by myself, to carry b you.

10 Yahweh your God hath multiplied you,—and here ye are; to-day, like the stars of the heavens, for multitude. Yahweh, the God of your fathers, be adding unto you the like of ye, a thousand times,—and bless you, as he hath spoken unto you! 12 How should I carry b by myself] the fatigue of you and the burden of you, and your controversies?

13 Set forth, for you,—men wise and discerning, and known to your tribes,—that I may appoint them to be heads over you.

14 And ye answered me,—and said,
"Good is the word which thou hast spoken, to be done'.

15 So I took heads for your tribes, wise men and known, and placed them as heads over you,—captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds, and captains of fifties, and captains of tens, and overseers for your tribes.

16 And I charged your judges, at that time, saying,— Yc are to hear, between your brethren.

16 Note this outburst; so natural on the lips of the real Moses.
and shall judge righteously, between each man and his brother, and his sojourner. 17 Ye shall not take note of faces, in judgment—<so the small, as' the great> shall ye hear, ye shall not shrink from the face of any man, for <judgment> unto God belongeth,—<the thing which is too hard for you> shall ye bring near unto me, and I will hear it.

18 So I commanded you, at that time, all the things which ye should do.

19 And when we brake up from Horeb we came through all that great and terrible desert which ye saw, by way of the hill-country of the Amorites, as Yahweh our God commanded us, and we entered in, as far as Kadesh-barnaa. 20 Then said I unto you,—Ye are come in as far as the hill-country of the Amorites, which Yahweh our God is giving unto us.

21 See thou—Yahweh thy God hath set before thee, the land,—go up—take possession, as Yahweh the God of thy fathers hath spoken unto thee, do not fear, neither be dismayed.

22 And ye came near unto me, all of you, and said—Let us send men before us, that they may search out for us, the land,—and bring us back word, the way by which we must go up, and the cities wherein we must enter.

23 And the thing was good in mine eyes,—so I took from among you twelve men, one man for each tribe. 24 And they turned and went up the hill-country, and entered in as far as the ravine of Eshcol, and explored it.

25 And they took in their hand of the fruit of the country, and bare it down unto us,—and brought us back word, and said, Good is the land, which Yahweh our God is giving unto us.

26 Nevertheless ye were not willing to go up,—but rebelled against the bidding of Yahweh, your God; 27 and murmured in your tents, and said, <Because Yahweh hated us> hath he brought us forth out of the land of Egypt,—to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us.

28 Whither are we to go up? Our own brethren> have made our heart melt, saying—<A people greater and taller than we, cities large and walled-up into the heavens,—yes, moreover>, sons of Anakim> have we seen there.

29 Then I said unto you,—Ye must not tremble, nor be afraid of them:

<Yahweh your God, who is going before you> will fight for you,—according to all that he did with you in Egypt, before your eyes; 30 also in the desert which thou hast seen, where Yahweh thy God carried thee as a man will carry his son, throughout all the way that ye journeyed, until ye entered as far as this place.

31 But ye were putting no trust in Yahweh your God; 32 who was going before you in the way—to search out for you a place, where ye might encamp,—in the fire by night, that ye might get sight of the way wherein ye should go, and in the cloud, by day.

33 And Yahweh heard the voice of your words,—and was wroth, and said—Surely, not one of these men, this wicked generation, shall see the good land, which I swore to give unto your fathers: saving Caleb, son of Jephunneh, 35 he shall see it, and <unto him> will I give the land through which he hath trodden, and unto his sons,—because he hath wholly followed Yahweh.

36 <Even with me> did Yahweh show himself angry, for your sakes, saying,— <Even thou> shall not enter therein.

37 <Joshua son of Nun, who standeth before thee> shall enter in thither,—<him> shall strengthen thou, for he shall cause Israel to inherit it.

38 And <your little ones, of whom ye said> they should become a prey, and your sons, who to-day know not good and evil> shall enter in thither,—and <unto them> will I give it, and they shall possess it.

39 But <as for you> turn ye, for your part,—and set forward towards the desert, by way of the Red Sea.

40 Then responded ye and said unto me—We have sinned against Yahweh, 41 [We, ourselves] will go up, and fight, according to all that Yahweh our God hath commanded us.

And <when ye had girded on every man his weapons of war> ye foolishly' went up towards the hill-country. 42 Then said Yahweh unto me—Say unto them, Ye shall not go up, nor fight, for I am not in your midst,—lest ye should be smitten before your enemies!.

43 So I spake unto you, howbeit ye hearkened not,—but rebelled against the bidding of unto the land of his own possession, which Yahweh had given unto them.

13 ||Now|| arise, and pass ye over the ravine of Zered.
So we passed over the ravine of Zered.

14 ||Now|| the days in which we journeyed from Kadesh-barnaa, as far as where we crossed the ravine of Zered, were thirty-eight years,||—until all the generation of the men of war were consumed||—out of the midst of the camp, as Yahweh had sworn unto them.

15 Yea ||even the hand of Yahweh|| was against them, to destroy them out of the midst of the camp,—until they were consumed.

16 So it came to pass ||when all the men of war were consumed, by dying, out of the midst of the people||—then spake Yahweh unto me, saying:

17 ||Thou|| art passing to-day, the boundary of Moab, even Ar; ||‘‘so wilt thou draw near over against the sons of Ammon, do not thou besiege them, neither engage in strife with them,—for I will not give of the land of the sons of Ammon unto thee, as a possession, for ||unto the sons of Lot|| I have given it as a possession.

18 ||A land of giants|| used ||that also|| to be accounted, ||‘‘giants’’ dwelt therein aforetime, but ||the Ammonites|| called them Zamzummim:

19 a people great and many and tall, like the Anakim,—but Yahweh destroyed them from before them, and they took their possessions, and dwelt in their stead; ||‘‘as he did for the sons of Esau, who are dwelling in Seir,—when he destroyed the Horim from before them, and they took their possessions, and have dwelt in their stead, ||‘‘even unto this day’’ ‘‘||‘‘The Avvim also, who dwelt in settlements, as far as Gaza, ||‘‘Caphtorim, whom were coming forth out of Caphtor, destroyed them, and dwelt in their stead.

20 Arose ye, set forward, and cross over the ravine of Arnon, see! I have given unto thy hand—Sihon king of Heshbon, the Amorite, and his land, begin—take possession,—and engage in strife with him in battle.

21 This day ||will I begin to extend the dread of thee, and the fear of thee, over the face of the peoples under all the heavens,—who will hear the report of thee, then will they quake, and write in pain because of thee.

22 So I sent messengers out of the desert of Kedemoth unto Sihon, king of Heshbon,—with words of peace saying:

23 I would pass along through thy land, ||by the road, by the road> will I go,—I will not turn aside, to the right hand or to the left: 29 <Food for silver> shalt thou sell me, so will I eat, and <water for silver> shalt thou let me have, so will I drink,—only I would pass through on my feet:— as the sons of Esau, who are dwelling in Seir, did to me, and the Moabites, who are dwelling in Ar,—until that I pass over the Jordan, into the land which Yahweh our God is giving unto us.

But Sihon king of Heshbon was not willing, to let us pass along through it,—for Yahweh thy God had suffered him to make his spirit harsh, and his heart bold, that he might give him into thy hand,—as [appeared] this day.

Then said Yahweh unto me,

Soe I have begun to deliver before thee, Sihon and his land,—begin, take possession, that thou mayest make a possession of his land.

So then Sihon came out to meet us, [he, and all his people], to give battle at Jahaz.

And Yahweh our God delivered him up before us,—and we smote him, and his sons, and all his people. 24 And we captured all his cities, at that time, and devoted to destruction every city of males, with the women, and the little ones,—we left not remaining a survivor: 25 only <the cattle> made our prey,—and the spoil of the cities which we captured. 26 From Aroer, which is on the edge of the ravine of Arnon, and the city that is in the ravine, even as far as Gilgal > there was not a fortress that proved too high for us,— <the whole> did Yahweh our God deliver up before us.

Only <unto the land of the sons of Ammon> didst thou not come near,—all the side of the Jablak ravine, nor the cities of the hill country, nor any which Yahweh our God had forbidden to us.

Then turned we, and went up, the way of Bashan; 2 and Og king of Bashan <came out> to meet us, [he, and all his people] to give battle at Edrei. 3 And Yahweh said unto me:

Do not fear him, for <unto that land> have I delivered him, and all his people, and his land,—so then thou shalt do unto him, as thou didst unto Sihon king of the Amorites, who was dwelling in Heshbon.

Then did Yahweh our God deliver into our hand, 4 Og also, king of Bashan, and all his people,—so we smote him, until there was not left remaining to him a survivor.

And we captured all his cities, at that time, there was no fortress, which we took not from them,—sixty cities, all the region of Argob, a [the kingdom of Og in Bashan].

All these were fortified cities, each with a high wall, folding gates and a bar,—besides country towns exceeding many.

And we devoted them to destruction, [doing unto them] as we did unto Sihon king of Heshbon,—devoting to destruction every city of males, the women, and the little ones. 7 But <all the cattle, and the spoil of the cities> made we our prey.

Thus did we, at that time, take the land out of the hand of the two kings of the Amorites (which was over the Jordan),—from the ravine of Arnon as far as Mount Hermon.

Sidonians call Hermon, Sirion,—but the Amorites call it Senir.

All the cities of the table-land, and all Gilead, 8 and all Bashan,—unto Salecah, and Edrei,—cities of the kingdom of Og, in Bashan.

For <only Og, king of Bashan> was left remaining of the remnant of the giants, lo! his bedstead was a bedstead of iron, is not the same] in Rabbath, of the sons of Ammon: <nine cubits> the length thereof, and <four cubits> the breadth thereof, by the fore-arm of a man.

And <this land> took we in possession at that time,—<from Aroer which is by the ravine of Arnon, and half the hill-country of Gilead and the cities thereof> gave I unto the Reubenites, and unto the Gadites; but <the remainder of Gilead, and all Bashan, the kingdom of Og> gave I unto the half tribe of Manasseh, —all the region of the Argob, with all Bashan.

The same is called, A land of giants. 14 Jair, son of Manasses] took all the region of Argob, as far as the boundary of the Geshurites, and the Maachathites,—and called them, after his own name, The Bashan of Havoth-Jair unto this day.

And unto Machir, gave I Gilead;

And unto the Reubenites and unto the Gadites gave I—unto Gilead, even as far as the ravine of Arnon, the middle of the ravine, and boundary,—even as far as the Jablak ravine, the boundary of the sons of

The above text is a portion of Deuteronomy II. 28-37; III. 1-16. It describes the conquest of Bashan and Gilead by the Israelites, including the fate of the king of Bashan and the spoils taken from them. The text also mentions the length and breadth of a bedstead said to belong to Og, king of Bashan, which was 9 cubits long and 4 cubits broad. The Israelites are described as devoting the cities of the Amorites to destruction, and taking possession of the land of Bashan. The text concludes with the account of the division of Bashan among the tribes of Israel, with Jair and Machir each receiving portions of the region. The text is rich in historical and geographical details, providing insight into the conquests of the Israelites in Canaan.
Ammon; the Waste Plain also, and the Jordan and boundary,—from Chinnereth, even as far as the sea of the Waste Plain, the Salt Sea, under the slopes of Pisgah, on the east.

18 So I commanded you, at that time, saying,— Yahweh your God hath given unto you this land to possess it, armed ye shall pass over before your brethren the sons of Israel, all the sons of vale.

19 Only thy wife and your little ones and your cattle— I know that ye have much cattle— shall abide in your cities, which I have given unto you; until that Yahweh shall give rest unto your brethren, as well as you, so shall they also possess the land which Yahweh your God is giving unto them, over the Jordan,—then shall ye return, every man unto his possession, which I have given unto you.

20 <Joshua> also commanded I, at that time, saying,— Thine are the eyes that have seen all that Yahweh your God hath done unto these two kings, thus will Yahweh do unto all the kingdoms, whereunto thou art passing over; ye shall not fear them,—for Yahweh your God is it that is fighting for you.

21 Then sought I Yahweh, at that time, for a favour, saying:
My Lord Yahweh, thou thyself hast begun to shew thy servant thy greatness, and thy firm hand,—as to which, what God is there, in the heavens or in the earth, that can do according to thy doings, and according to thy mighty deeds?

22 Let me pass over, I pray thee, that I may see the good land that is over the Jordan,—this good mountain, and the Lebanon.

23 But Yahweh had been provoked with me, for your sakes, and hearkened not unto me,—and Yahweh said unto me, Enough for thee! do not add a word unto me further, in this matter. Ascend the top of the Pisgah, and lift up thine eyes westward, and northward, and southward and eastward,—and see with thine own eyes,—for thou shalt not pass over this Jordan. But command thou Joshua, and conform him and embolden him,—for he shall pass over before this people, and shall cause them to inherit the land, which thou shalt see.

25 So we abide in the valley, over against Beth-peor.

§ 3. A Charge based upon the Retrospect and upon further Reminiscences—spoken by Moses.

1 Now therefore, O Israel, hearken thou unto the statutes, and unto the regulations, which I am teaching you, to do them,—to the end ye may live, and enter, and possess the land, which Yahweh, the God of your fathers, is giving unto you. Ye shall not add unto the word which I am commanding you, neither shall ye take away* thereof,—that ye may keep the commandments of Yahweh your God, which I am commanding you. Yours are the eyes that have seen what Yahweh did in Baal-peor, for every man who went after Baal-peor did Yahweh thy God destroy out of thy midst; but ye who kept on cleaving unto Yahweh your God, alive are ye all to-day.

5 See! I have taught you statutes, and regulations, as Yahweh my God commanded me,—that ye should do so, in the midst of the land whereunto ye are entering to possess it. Therefore shall ye observe, and do [them], for that will be your wisdom, and discernment, in the eyes of the peoples,—who will hear all these statutes, and will say—

Nevertheless <a people wise and discerning is this great nation.

7 For what great nation is there which hath gods nigh unto it,—like Yahweh our God, whosoever we have cried out unto him? Or what great nation which hath righteous statutes and regulations, like all this law, which I am setting before you, to-day?

9 Only take thou heed to thyself, and keep thy soul diligently, so that thou forget not the things which thine own eyes have seen, and so that they go not out of thy heart, all the days of thy life,—but thou shalt make them known unto thy sons, and unto thy sons' sons:

10 What day thou didst stand before Yahweh thy God, in Horeb, when Yahweh said unto me, Gather unto me the people, that I may let them hear my words,—which they must learn, that they may revere me all the days which they are living upon the soil, <their children also> must they teach.

11 So ye drew near and stood, under the mountain. Now the mountain was burning with fire, up to the midst of

* Observe that before Moses cites the Ten Commandments (chap. v.) he enlarges upon the awe-inspiring manner in which they were spoken, herein following the general method of Exo. xix. and xx. an. Cp. also chaps. xxi. and xxii. of this Book in illustration of the same anticipatory style.
Then spake Yahweh unto you, out of the midst of the fire, — a voice of words — ye' were hearing. [there was] only a voice. 12 Then declared he unto you his covenant, which he commanded you to do; the ten words, — and wrote them upon two tablets of stone.

And [unto me] gave Yahweh commandment at that time, to teach you statutes and regulations, — that ye should do them, in the land whereinto ye’ are passing over, to possess it.

Ye must [be] diligent heed, therefore, unto your own souls, — for ye saw no manner of form, on the day Yahweh spake unto you in Horeb, out of the midst of the fire; lest ye should break faith, and make you an image, — a form of any likeness, — a model of male or female; a model of any beast, — that is in the earth, — a model of any winged bird, — that flieth in the heavens; a model of any thing that creepeth on the ground, — a model of any fish that is in the waters beneath the earth; lest thou shouldest lift thine eyes towards the heavens, and see the sun, and the moon, and the stars — all the host of the heavens, — and shouldest bow thyself down to them, and be led to serve them, — the which Yahweh thy God hath assigned unto all the peoples under all the heavens; whereas [you] hath Yahweh taken, and brought you forth out of a smelting-pot of iron, — out of Egypt, — that ye might become his own’ inherited’ people, as at this day.

But Yahweh shewed himself angry with me, for your sakes, — and aware that I should not pass over the Jordan, and that I should not enter into the good land, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, as an inheritance; for I am about to die in this land, I’ am not to pass over the Jordan, — but ye’ are to pass over, and possess this good land.

Take heed to yourselves, lest ye forget the covenant of Yahweh your God, which he hath solemnized with you, — and so make for yourselves an image, — the form of anything, — the which Yahweh thy God hath forbidden thee; — seeing that [as for] Yahweh thy God — a consuming fire — he is, — a jealous God.

When thou shalt beget sons and sons’ sons, and become careless in the land, and break faith, and make an image, — the form of any thing, and shalt do the thing that is wicked in the eyes of Yahweh thy God, provoking him to anger; — I take both the heavens and the earth to witness against you, today, that ye shall perish speedily from off the land which ye’ are passing over the Jordan to possess; — ye shall not prolong your days thereupon; for ye shall surely be laid waste; — and Yahweh will scatter you among the peoples, — and ye shall have left remaining of you, men easily counted, — among the nations whither Yahweh will drive you; — and ye will serve, there, gods made by the hands of man, — wood or stone, which neither see, nor hear, nor eat, nor smell.

If thou shalt seek from hence, Yahweh thy God, — then shalt thou find him, — when thou shalt search after him with all thy heart, and with all thy soul.

In thy distress, when all these things have found thee out — in the afterpart of the days — thou wilt return unto Yahweh thy God, and wilt hearken to his voice. For a God of compassion is Yahweh thy God, he will not forsake thee, neither will he destroy thee, — nor forget the covenant of thy fathers which he sware unto them.

For ask, I pray you, of the former days which were before thee, even from the day when God created man upon the earth, yea from one end of the heavens even to the other end of the heavens, — whether any tought was ever brought to pass, like this great thing, or was ever heard of like it; Did a people ever hear the voice of a god speaking out of the midst of fire, — as thou? [didst hear], — and yet live? — Or did a god ever make trial of entering in, to take unto him a nation, out of the midst of a nation, — by provings, by signs and by wonders, and by fighting, — and by a firm hand and by a stretched-out arm, and by great terrors, — according to all that Yahweh your God did for you in Egypt, before your eyes.

Thus was allowed to see, that thou mightest know, that Yahweh: he is God, there is’ none other than [he alone].

Out of the heavens he let thee hear his voice, to instruct thee, — and upon the earth he let thee see his great fire, and <his own words> thou didst hear, out of the midst of the fire. And because that he loved thy fathers, — therefore chose he his seed after him, — and brought thee forth, with his presence, with his great might, out of Egypt; — to dispossess nations, greater and stronger than thou, from before thee, — to bring thee in, to give unto thee their land for an inheritance: — As at this day.

§ 4. Appointment of Three Cities of Refuge in the Newly-Conquered Provinces—Editorial.

41 Then did Moses set apart three cities, over the Jordan, towards the rising of the sun; that the manslayer might flee thither, who should slay his neighbour, unaware, not having hated him aforetime, and might flee unto one of these cities, and live: namely, Bezer, in the desert of the table-land, for the Reubenites; and Ramoth in Gilgal, for the Gadites; and Golan in Bashan, for the Manassites.

§ 5. An Editorial Introduction leads up to Moses’ Recapitulation of the Ten Commandments and his further Description of the Circumstances under which the Divine Voice uttered them.

44 This then is the law which Moses set before the sons of Israel: These are the testimonies, and the statutes, and the regulations, which Moses spake unto the sons of Israel, when they came forth out of Egypt: over the Jordan, in the valley over against Beth-peor, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon, whom Moses and the sons of Israel smote, when they came forth out of Egypt: so they took possession of his land, and the land of Og king of Bashan, the two kings of the Amorites, who were over the Jordan, towards the rising of the sun; from Aroer which is on the edge of the ravine of Arnon, even unto Mount Siyon, the same is Hermon; and all the waste plain over the Jordan, towards sunrise, even unto the sea of the waste plain,—under the slopes of the Pisgah.

Then called Moses unto all Israel, and said unto them—
Hear, O Israel, the statutes and the regulations, which I am speaking in your ears to-day,—so shall ye learn them, and observe, to do.' 2 covenant in Horeb; 3 not with our fathers,* did Yahweh solemnise this covenant,—but with us, ourselves,—[these here to-day, all of us living]. <Face to face> spoke Yahweh with you, in the mount out of the midst of the fire, (I was standing between Yahweh and you, at that time, to declare unto you the word of Yahweh,—for ye shrank with fear from the presence of the fire, and went not up in the mount)

saying:—

brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants.— Thou shalt not have other gods, besides me:
Thou shalt not make unto thee an image, any form that is in the heavens above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the waters beneath the earth: thou shalt not bow thyself down to them, nor be led to serve them,—for I Yahweh thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of fathers upon sons, even unto three generations and unto four, unto them that hate me; but shewing loving-kindness unto a thousand generations,—unto them who love me, and keep my commandments:

Thou shalt not utter the name of Yahweh thy God falsely;—for Yahweh will not let him go unpunished who uttereth his name falsely:
Observe the sabbath’ day, to hallow it,—as Yahweh thy God hath commanded thee: 12 six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work; 14 but the seventh day is a sabbath unto Yahweh thy God,—thou shalt do no work—thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy servant nor thy handmaid, nor thy ox nor thy ass, nor any of thy cattle, nor thy sojourner who is within thy gates, that thy servant and thy handmaid may rest as well as thou. 15 So shalt thou remember that a servant was thy father in the land of Egypt, and that Yahweh thy God brought these forth from thence, with a firm hand, and with a stretched-out arm,—for this cause hast Yahweh thy God commanded thee to keep the sabbath’ day:
Honour thy father, and thy mother, as Yahweh thy God hath commanded thee,—that thy days may be prolonged, and that it may go well with thee, upon 22 <These words> spake Yahweh, unto all the congregation of Israel, at Mount Sinai.

23 And it came to pass, when ye heard the voice, out of the midst of the darkness, the mountain also burning with fire, then drew ye near unto me, even all the heads of your tribes, and your elders, and ye said—

Lo! Yahweh our God hath let us see his glory and his greatness, <his voice also> have we heard out of the midst of the fire, <this day> have we seen, that God may speak with man, yet men live.

25 Now therefore, why should we die, if for this great fire, will consume us,—<if> we ourselves, hear the voice of Yahweh our God any more, we shall die. 26 For who is there of all flesh, that ever heard the voice of a Living God, speaking out of the midst of fire, as we, and yet lived?

27 Go thou near, and hear, all that Yahweh our God shall say, so shalt thou speak unto us, all that Yahweh our God shall speak unto thee, and we will hear and do.

28 And Yahweh heard the voice of your words, when ye spake unto me, and Yahweh said unto me—

I have heard the voice of the words of this people, which they have spoken unto me, they have well said all which they have spoken. 29 Oh that this their heart might be well with them, to revere me, and to keep all my commandments, all the days, that it might be well with them, and with their sons, unto times age-abiding. 30 Go, say unto them,—

Return ye to your tents.

1 || This then is the commandment, || namely || the statutes and the regulations, which Yahweh your God hath commanded to teach you,—that ye may do them in the land which I am giving unto them, to possess it.

2 || In all the way which Ye'ahweh your God hath commanded you, ye must not turn aside, to the right hand or to the left. || || in the intervening forty years' experience of Divine warning (cp. chap. i. 31) to intensify this feeling in the bosom of the real Moses! || || 32 So then ye must observe to do, as Yahweh your God hath commanded you, ye must not turn aside, to the right hand or to the left. || In all the way which Ye'ahweh your God hath commanded you, ye must walk,—that ye may live, and it be well with you, and that ye may prolong your days in the land, which ye shall possess.

33 § 6. Further Exhortations—spoken by Moses. ||

1 || This then is the commandment, || namely || the statutes and the regulations, which Yahweh your God hath commanded to teach you,—that ye may do them in the land which I am giving unto them, to possess it.

2 || In all the way which Ye'ahweh your God hath commanded you, ye must not turn aside, to the right hand or to the left. || Ye'ahweh your God hath commanded you, ye must walk,—that ye may live, and it be well with you, and that ye may prolong your days in the land, which ye shall possess.

3 Therefore shall thou hear, O Israel, and shalt observe to do, that it may be well with thee, and that ye may multiply greatly, as Yahweh the God of thy fathers hath spoken to thee, in a land flowing with milk and honey.

4 Hear, O Israel:

Yahweh || is our God,—Yahweh alone.

5 Thou shalt therefore love Yahweh thy God,—with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might; 6 so shall these words, which I am commanding thee to-day, be upon thy heart; 7 and thou shalt impress them upon thy sons, and shalt speak of them,—when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up; 8 and thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thy hand,—and they shall serve for bands, between thine eyes; 9 and thou shalt write them upon the posts of thy house, and within thy gates.

10 So shall it be, when Yahweh thy God shall bring thee into the land, which he sware to thy fathers—Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, to give unto thee,—into cities great and goodly, which thou didst not build; and houses full of all good things, which thou filledst not, and eunuchs whom thou beguiledst not, vineyards and oliveyards which thou plantedst not,—and shalt eat and be full; 12—|| || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || || forget Yahweh,—who brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants.

13 <Yahweh thy God> shalt thou revere, And <him> shalt thou serve,—And <by his name> shalt thou swear.

14 Ye shall not go after other gods,—of the gods of the peoples who are surrounding you; for  is Yahweh thy God, in thy midst,—lest the anger of Yahweh thy God kindle upon thee, and so he destroy thee from off the face of the ground.

15 Ye shall not put Yahweh your God to the proof,—as ye put him to the proof in Massah (that is, "The place of proving").

16 Ye shall [keep] the commandments of Yahweh your God and his testimonies and his statutes, which he hath commanded thee; so shalt thou do what is right and what is pleasing in the eyes of Yahweh,—that it may be well with thee, and thou mayest enter in and possess the good land, which Yahweh swore unto thy fathers; to thrust out all thine enemies from before thee,—As spake Yahweh.

§ 7. The Children to be instructed in the National History.

20 <When thy son shall ask thee in time to come,* saying,—What mean the testimonies, and the statutes and the regulations, which Yahweh our God commanded you?>

21 Then shalt thou say unto thy son, <Servants> were we unto Pharaoh, in Egypt,—and Yahweh brought us forth out of Egypt, with a firm hand; and Yahweh put forth signs and wonders, great and sore, upon Egypt, upon Pharaoh and upon all his household, before our eyes; but he brought us forth from thence,—that he might bring us in to give unto us the land, which he sware unto our fathers. So then Yahweh commanded us to do all these statutes, to revere* Yahweh our God,—for our good, all the days, to preserve us alive, (as at this day); and righteousness shall it be to us,—when we take heed to do all this commandment before Yahweh our God, (as he commanded us).

7 <When Yahweh thy God shall bring thee into the land which thou art going in to possess, and shall clear away many nations from before thee — the Hittites and the Gergashites and the Amorites, and the Canaanites and the Perizzites, and the Hivites and the Jebusites — seven nations greater in number and stronger than thou; and Yahweh thy God shall deliver them up before thee, and thou shalt smite them> [thou shalt devote them to destruction, thou shalt not solemnize with them a covenant, neither shalt thou shew them favour; neither shalt thou intermarry with them,—<thy daughter> shalt thou not give unto his son, nor <his daughter> shalt thou take for thy son; for he will turn aside thy son from following me, and they shall serve other gods—so shall the anger of Yahweh kindle upon you, and he will destroy thee speedily.

Verily <thus> shall ye do unto them:<Their altars> shall ye tear down, And <their pillars> shall ye break in pieces,—And <their sacred stems> shall ye burn down, And <their carved images> shall ye burn up in the fire.

For  art thou unto Yahweh thy God: <of thee>* hath Yahweh thy God [made choice], that thou shouldst become his people as a treasure,* above all the peoples that are on the face of the ground: not because ye were more in number than any of the peoples did Yahweh become attached to you, and make choice of you,—for ye were fewer than any of the peoples; but because Yahweh loved you, and because he would keep the oath which he sware unto your fathers did Yahweh bring you forth with a firm hand,—and redeem thee out of the house of servants,* out of the hand of Pharaoh, king of Egypt. So then, thou must know that Yahweh thy God [is he] is God,—the faithful God, keeping his covenant and his lovingkindness with them that love him, and keep his commandments, to a thousand generations1 but requiring them who hate him unto his face, to destroy them,—he will not be slack towards him that hateth him, <unto his face> will he requite him. So shalt thou keep the commandment, and the statutes and the regulations, which I am commanding thee to-day, to do them.

Then shall it come to pass <if ye will hearken unto these regulations, and keep and do them> then will Yahweh thy God keep with thee, the covenant and the loving-kindness which he sware unto thy fathers; and will love thee, and bless thee, and multiply thee,—and bless the fruit of thy body and the fruit of thy ground, thy corn, and thy new wine and thy olive oil, the young of thy kine and the ewes of thy flock, upon the soil which he sware unto thy fathers to give unto thee. 14 Blessed shalt thou be beyond all the peoples,—there shall not be in thee a barren male or female, nor among thy cattle; 15 and Yahweh will turn away from thee, all disease,—and <as for all the sore sicknesses> of Egypt which thou knowest 16 he will not lay them upon thee, but will put them upon all who hate thee; 17 and thou shalt devour all the peoples whom [Yahweh thy God] is delivering up unto thee, thine eye shall not look with pity upon them,—neither shalt thou serve their gods, for  would it be unto thee.

<Although thou mightest say in thy heart: "More in number are these nations than I,—[how can I dispossess them]? thou must not be afraid of them,—thou must [remember] what Yahweh thy God did, unto Pharaoh, and unto all Egypt: the great provings which thine own eyes saw, and the signs and the wonders, and the firm hand, and the stretched-out arm, wherebyaheth [Yahweh thy God] brought thee forth,—<so> will Yahweh thy God do unto all the peoples, before whom thou art afraid. 19 Moreover also <the hornet> will Yahweh thy God send among them,—until they are destroyed who are left remaining, and who are hiding themselves from thy face. 20 Thou shalt not be affrighted at their presence,—for [Yahweh thy God in thy midst] is a God great and to be revered. So will Yahweh thy God [clear away] these nations from before thee, [little by little],—thou mayest not consume them [at once], lest the wild beasts of the field should multiply over thee. 22 But Yahweh thy God will deliver them up before thee,—and discomfit them with a great discomfiture, until they are destroyed; 24 and will deliver their kings into thy hand and thou shalt destroy their name, from under the heavens,—not a man shall stand before thee, until thou hast destroyed them. 25 The carved images* of their gods shall thou consume with fire,—thou shalt not covet the silver and gold upon them, to take unto thee, lest thou be ensnared thereby; for <the abomination of Yahweh thy God> it is; 26 and thou shalt not bring an abomination into thy house, and so become devoted to destruction, [like it],—thou shalt abhor it, and thou shalt loathe it, because  it is.

<All the commandments> which I am com- manding thee to-day shall thou [observe] to do,—that ye may [live], and multiply, and enter in and possess the land, which Yahweh sware unto your fathers.

So then, thou shalt remember all the way* in which Yahweh thy God caused thee to journey these forty years in the desert,—that he might humble thee, to put thee to the proof, to know what was in thy heart,—whether thou wouldst keep his commandments or not. 3 So he humbled thee, and suffered thee to hunger, and fed thee with manna which thou hadst not known, neither had thy fathers' known,—that he might lead thee to consider that <not on bread alone> shall the son of earth live, but <con whatsoever cometh from the bidding of Yahweh> shall the son of earth live. 4 Thy mantle* hath not fallen with age from off thee, and [thy foot] hath not become swollen,—these forty years. 5 Thou must consider, then, with thy heart,—that <as a man chasteneth his son> 6 Yahweh thy God* hath been chastening thee.

Thou shalt therefore keep the commandments of Yahweh thy God,—to walk in his ways, and to revere him.

For [Yahweh thy God] is bringing thee into a good land; a land* of ravines of waters of fountains and depths, coming forth in valley, and in mountain: 8 a land* of wheat and barley, and vine and fig-tree, and pomegranate,—a land* of olive oil, and honey: 9 a land* wherein <not in scarcity> shalt thou eat food, thou shalt lack nothing therein,—a land* whose stones are iron, and out of whose hills* thou mayest hew copper.

So then thou shalt eat, and be satisfied,— and bless Yahweh thy God, for the good land which he hath given unto thee.

11 Take heed to thyself, lest thou forget Yahweh thy God,—so as not to keep his commandments, and his statutes, and his judgments which I command thee this day; lest thou eat and be satisfied, and make thy soul fat, and-say in thine heart, And my soul is exalted, and I am become greater than Yahweh thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants; which Yahweh thy God brought forth out of the land of Egypt, by a mighty hand and an outstretched arm; and before thy face did he make them perish, by the way which ye went to wander in the wilderness forty years, until thy soul was exalted, and until thine eye was turned away, and thine heart hardened; so that he might establish his covenant which he sware unto thy fathers, unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob.

15 And it shall be if thou forget Yahweh thy God, and follow other gods, and worship them, and serve them; and shouldst turn thy heart away from him, and curse his name; then shall he turn and do thee good and thy seed for ever; because his anger shall turn away from thee, when thou return unto him with all thy heart, and with all thy soul.

16 But as for thee, and thy children after thee, ye shall not so.

17 But thou shalt remember Yahweh thy God, for it is he that giveth thee power over thy works, and over all that thou puttest thine hand unto; only if thou wilt hearken unto his voice, and keep his commandments, which I command thee this day.

Do not speak in thy heart, when Yahweh thy God casteth thee out from before thee, saying, For mine own righteousness have I brought thee in, to possess this land,—whereas it is for the lawlessness of these nations that Yahweh is dispossessing them from before thee. Not for thine own righteousness, nor for the uprightness of thine own heart art thou going in to possess their land,—but for the lawlessness of these nations is Yahweh thy God driving them out from before thee, and that he may establish the word which Yahweh sware unto thy fathers, unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob.

19 So then, thou shalt remember and take heed, that thou forget not the covenant of Yahweh thy God, which he made with thee; lest thou make a covenant with the king, whom Yahweh shall cast out from before thee;

20 Even in Horeb ye provoked Yahweh to wrath, and ye tested him, ye and your fathers; and he said unto you, Let me not go on with them; for they are a stiff-necked people; but let me have a king, and let us also have a ruler, over us; and Yahweh answered, Your voice is heard, and I will give a king unto you, and I will take away your king whom I have given you; and I will bring a king over you, whom I have not known, and you have not known; that he may make your days bitter, and bring you into a land of wilderness, a land of rock, and of drought, and of barrenness, where there is no water; that he may bring you into a land, wherein ye shall eat bread without seed, and wherein ye shall eat bread without wine and without strong drink; that he may give thee bread of thistles, and water of the rock.

21 Hear, O Israel! the Lord our God is one Lord; and thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself.

22 A great and noble nation is this people, such as is not, nor came to be, since the sons of men came upon the earth; great kings have ruled over them, and fierce people have been stamped out of the earth before them; but the Lord thy God brought them out, and destroyed them, and brought upon them the fierceness of his anger, and war, and wrath, and tempest, and pestilence, and he delivered them into thy hand, and thou didst destroy them, and didst destroy their kings without mercy; and their nations were given unto thee, and ye did destroy them, and didst cast their king and the kingdom into the lowest hell.

23 When thy sons shall say unto thee, What mean these stones which I see in the cereon? Then shalt thou tell them, That the Lord came from out of Egypt, from the sea of reeds:

24 And then went the Lord into Egypt, and brought them out thence; and in every thing that they did he destroyed them, until he brought them out into this place: and he destroyed all the kings of the land whom thy fathers did smite, even unto this day.

25 And the Lord took you out of the house of bondmen, out of the land of Egypt, with a mighty hand, and with an outstretched arm, and with great terror, and with signs, and with wonders:

26 And thou wentest and sawest a tree burning of itself, and the place thereof was not moved, and the fire therein was not consumed:

27 Then he looked upon thee, and loved thee, and did keep his covenant with thee, to perform his oath which he sware unto thy fathers:

28 And He brought you forth out of the land of Egypt with great power and with a stretched out arm, and smote the gods of those lands, and their idols; and He delivered you from them; and He brought you unto this place.

29 And I have brought you to this good land, a land of wells and of rivers of water, a land of wheat, and barley, and vines, and fig trees, and pomegranates, a land of oil, and honey, a land wherein thou shalt eat bread without let, without mercies, and without a care; a land wherein all thy soul shall be satisfied; a land of which the heaven above thee, and the earth beneath thee, is full.

30 Therefore cast out of thy heart all the wickedness of your eyes, the desiring of your heart.

31 Ye shall remember, and take heed, lest thou forget the covenant of Yahweh thy God, which he made with thee; and make thee a covenant with thy soul, and with thine eyes.

32 Ye shall not go after other gods, the gods of the nations that are round about you; (for they serve other gods, and their gods do evil in the sight of the Lord, and provoke him to anger;)

33 But the Lord thy God brought thee into rest, and delivered into thine hand cities which your eyes did not see, and your ears did not hear, and your heart did not know, even unto this day:

34 From heaven did he give thee a law, the Ten Commandments, which I commanded thee, and delivered them out of a fire, out of the midst of the fire, before your eyes, as was recorded in the sight of all the congregation.

35 There is no other nation on earth that doth such things as thine eyes have seen; which God did in a moment, in these great things, which are before your eyes:

36 Which have been are not, and which have never been, and which shall never be, cannot be imitated: wherefore shall ye go and serve other gods of your own imagination, whose gods ye have not known, and have not heard, and concerning whom the Lord hath said, I will not go over, neither know I of them; and amongst whom the Lord hath dwelt on your behalf, lest that thou shouldst go among them, and take their gods into thy soul, and the thing that is detestable among them, and consecrate yourselves to the Lord thy God.

37 For who is there among the gods of the nations that can do such things? or can deliver his people out of the hand of the one as the Lord your God hath delivered you from the hand of all your enemies, and from all your oppressors.

38 But remember and take heed, lest thou forget the covenant of Yahweh thy God, which he made with thee; and make thee a covenant with the Lord thy God, and with thine eyes:

39 For if ye shall go back, and forsake the Lord, and serve other gods, I will send them against you, and they shall take you away out of this good land, which the Lord thy God hath given thee, and shall drive you out (and) destroy you in a farther place, which ye are not able to come near to in your days, neither ye, nor your children after you.

40 Only take heed, and hear my voice; do not let it depart out of your mouth, but hold fast my commandments: for this is your wisdom and understanding in the sight of the Lord your God, so that you may be wise and careful:

41 For it is not in heaven, that the Lord should say, I will not hear; nor are the heavens so far from thee, that the Lord should say, I will not hear: for he is able to hear thee, being in heaven; and he will hear thee if thou doest the good that he liketh, and causeth the rain to come down upon thy land, in his season, and bountifully, that thou mayest gather in the vintage as the wine and the oil.

42 And I will go down, and I will cast my hand upon thee, and deliver thee out of all thine enemies, and I will exceedingly bless thee, and I will make thee a great nation, and I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee:

43 And thou shalt hang up this word in thy heart and in thy soul, and it shall be a sign and a token upon thy hand, and between thy feet, and it shall be a warning to thy children, that they may not depart from the way of the Lord, to make idols, each one, according to his own imagination, and to profane the name of Yahweh, and to incense him in a thing which he hateth: and Yahweh will not suffer him to live; because he hath profaned the name of the Lord, and Yahweh shall smite him with a deadly stroke:

44 And I call heaven and earth to witness against you, that I set before you the life, and the death; the blessing and the curse. As I have set before you; therefore choose ye life, that ye may live, and not death; that ye may love the Lord your God, and hearken unto his voice, and cleave unto him; for he is your life, and he will lengthen your days in the land, which the Lord thy God giveth thee, a land of inheritance, as he sware unto thy fathers.
DEUTERONOMY IX. 15—29 ; X. 1—9. 209 nation stronger and more in number than they.

15 So I turned, and came down out of the mountain, now [the mountain] was burning with fire,—and the two tables of the covenant were upon my two hands. 16 Then looked I, and lo! ye had sinned against Yahweh your God, ye had made you a molten calf,—ye had turned aside quickly, out of the way which Yahweh had commanded you. 17 So I seized the two tables, and cast them from off my two hands,—and brake them in pieces before your eyes.

18 Then lay I prostrate before Yahweh, as at the first, forty days and forty nights, <food> did I not eat, and <water> did I not drink,—because of all your sin which ye had sinned in doing the thing that was wicked 3 in the eyes of Yahweh, to provoke him to anger. 19 For I shrank with fear, from the face of the anger and the hot displeasure, wherewith Yahweh was provoked against you, to destroy you,—but Yahweh hearkened unto me, even at that time. 20 And <with Aaron> did Yahweh show himself exceedingly angry, to destroy him,—so I prostrated myself, even in behalf of Aaron, at that time. 21 And <your sin which ye had made, even the calf> took I, and burned it up with fire, and pounded it very small, until it was fine as dust,—then cast I the dust thereof into the torrent, that descended out of the mountain. 4

22 Also <at Taberah> and at Massah, and at Kibroth-hattaavah,  became ye, unto Yahweh. 23 Also <when Yahweh sent you out of Kadesh-barnea, saying, Go up and possess the land, which I have given unto you> then quarrelled ye with the bidding of Yahweh your God, and trusted him not, neither hearkened unto his voice. 24 Ye have been <quarrelling> with Yahweh,—from the day that I first knew you. 5

25 Thus, then, lay I prostrate before Yahweh, the forty days and the forty nights that I did prostrate,—because Yahweh spake of destroying you. 26 Therefore I prostrated myself unto Yahweh, and said, My Lord Yahweh! Do not destroy thy people, even thine inheritance, which thou hast redeemed in thy greatness,—which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt with a firm hand. 7 Have remembrance of thy servants, of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob,—do not regard the obduracy 8 of this people, or their lawlessness, or their sin: 28 lest the land out of which thou hast brought us forth say,'<Because Yahweh was not able to bring them into the land of which he had spoken to them,—and because he hated them> took he them forth, to put them to death in the desert.

29 Yet if they are thy people, and thine inheritance,—whom thou hast brought forth with thy great strength, and with thy stretched-out arm.

1 <At that time> said Yahweh unto me— 10 Cut thee out two tables of stone, like the first, and come up unto me, into the mountain,—and make thee an ark of wood; 2 that I may write, upon the tables, the words which were on the first tables, which thou brakest in pieces,—then shalt thou put them in the ark.

3 So I made an ark, of acacia wood, 4 and cut out two tables of stone, like the first,—and went up the mountain, having the two tables in my hand. 4 And he wrote upon the tables, according to the first writing—the ten words, which Yahweh had spoken unto 9 you in the mountain, out of the midst of the fire, in the day of the convocation,—and Yahweh delivered them unto me. 5 Then turned I, and came down out of the mountain, and put the tables in the ark which I had made,—and they have remained there, as Yahweh commanded me.

6 And ||the sons of Israel|| set forward out of Beeroth Bene-jaakan to Moserah,—<there> died Aaron, and was buried there, and Eleazar, his son, became priest in his stead. 7 From thence> set they forward unto the Gudgodah,—and from the Gudgodah to Jotbathah, a land of torrents of water.

8 <At that time> did Yahweh separate the tribe of Levi, to bear the ark of the covenant of Yahweh,—to stand before Yahweh, to wait upon him, and to bless in his name (until this day). 9 <For this cause> hath Levi neither portion nor inheritance, with his brethren,—||Yahweh|| is his inheritance, as Yahweh thy God spake' unto him.

9 If this account, compared with Ex. xxxv. 1; and xxxvii. 1, points to the immediate construction of a temporary ark, there is nothing strange in that: we have already met with a temporary tent of meeting, Exo. xxxiii. 7-11.

10 But I stayed in the mountain, according to the former days, forty days, and forty nights,—and Yahweh hearkened unto me, at that time also, Yahweh was not willing that I destroy thee. 11 So then Yahweh said unto me,
Up with thee—to break away onward, before the people,—that they may enter in, and possess the land, which I sware unto their fathers, to give unto them.

§ 12. Further Exhortations.

12 ||Therefore|| therefore, O Israel, what is Yahweh thy God asking of thee,—but to revere Yahweh thy God, to walk in all his ways, and to love him, and to serve Yahweh thy God, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul: 13 to keep the commandments of Yahweh, and his statutes, which I am commanding thee to-day,—||for thy good!||

14 Lo! ||unto Yahweh thy God|| belong the heavens, even the highest heavens—the earth, with all that is therein. 15 Only ||unto thy fathers|| Yahweh became attached, so as to love them,—therefore he made his choice of their seed after them—(of you—out of all the peoples!), (as at this day). 16 Therefore must ye circumcise the foreskin of your hearts,—and ||your manners|| must ye stiffe no more. 17 For ||as touching Yahweh your God|| ||he|| is God of gods, and Lord of lords; the great, the mighty, and the fearful God, who respecteth not persons, nor accepteth a bribe; 18 executing the vindication of the orphan, and the widow, and loving a sojourner, ||giving him food and raiment||.

19 Therefore shall ye love the sojourner,—for ||sojourners|| became ye, in the land of Egypt.

20 ||Yahweh thy God|| shalt thou revere, ||Him|| shalt thou serve,—
And ||unto him|| shalt thou cleave, And ||in his name|| shalt thou awear.

21 ||He|| is thy song of praise, 22 ||He|| thy God,—who hath done with thee these great and fearful things, which thine own eyes have seen.

23 ||As seventy souls|| went thy fathers down to Egypt,—and ||now|| Yahweh thy God hath made thee like the stars of the heavens, for multitude.

1 Therefore shalt thou love Yahweh thy God, and keep his observance, and his statutes, and his regulations, and his commandments, all the days. ||And ye must know to-day, (for not with your sons [do I speak] who know not, neither have they seen) the discipline of Yahweh your God,—his greatness, his—firm hand, and his stretched-out arm; and his signs, and his doings, which he did in the midst of Egypt,—unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and unto all his land: 4 and what he did unto the forces of Egypt—unto his horses and unto his chariots, in that he caused the waters of the Red Sea to flow over their faces, when they were pursuing after you,—and so Yahweh destroyed them (unto this day):

5 And what he did unto you, in the desert,—until ye came in as far as this place; 6 and what he did to Dathan and to Abiram, sons of Eliab, son of Reuben, in that the earth opened wide her mouth, and swallowed-up them and their households, and their tents,—and all the living things that attended them, in the midst of all Israel.

7 ||For|| yours are the eyes that have seen every great deed of Yahweh,—which he hath done.

8 Therefore shall ye keep all the commandment which I am commanding thee to-day,—that ye may be strong, and so enter and possess the land, whither ye are passing over to possess it; 9 and that ye may prolong your days upon the soil which Yahweh sware unto your fathers, to give unto them and unto their seed,—a land flowing with milk and honey.

9 ||The land which thou art entering to possess|| ||not like the land of Egypt||, it is', from whence ye came out,—where thou didst sow thy seed, and then water it with thy foot, like a garden of herbs; 10 but ||the land whereinto ye are passing over to possess it|| is a land of hills, and valleys,—which ||of the rain of the heavens|| doth drink water: 11 a land which Yahweh thy God careth for,—continually are the eyes of Yahweh thy God upon it, from the beginning of the year, even unto the end of the year.

12 And it shall come to pass ||if ye will hearken unto my commandments, which I am commanding you, to-day,—to love Yahweh your God, and to serve him, with all your heart, and with all your soul||, then [saith he] I will give the rain of your land in its season, the early rain, and the latter rain promised as a blessing.

rain;* so shalt thou gather in thy corn, and thy new wine, and thine oil; and I will give grass in thy field for thy cattle, and thou shalt eat and be satisfied.

Take heed to yourselves, lest your heart be befooled,—and ye turn aside, and serve other gods, and bow down to them. 17 So would the anger of Yahweh kindle upon you, and he would shut up the heavens, that there should be no rain, and the ground would not yield her increase,—so should ye perish speedily, from off the good land, which Yahweh is giving unto you.

Therefore shall ye lay these my words upon your heart, and upon your soul,—and bind them for a sign upon your hand, and they shall serve as bands between your eyes; and ye shall teach them unto your children, by speaking of them,—when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up; 20 and thou shalt write them upon the door-posts of thy house, and within thy gates: 21 that your days may multiply, and the days of your children, upon the soil which Yahweh sware unto your fathers, to give unto them,—like the days of the heavens upon the earth. 22 For if ye do indeed keep all this commandment, which I am commanding you to do, to love Yahweh your God, to walk in all his ways, and to cleave unto him; then will Yahweh dispossess all these nations from before you,—and ye shall dispossess nations greater and stronger than ye: 24 every place whereon the sole of your foot shall tread shall it be, from the desert and the Lebanon, from the river—{the river Euphrates, even to the hinder sea}—shall be your boundary. 25 No man shall stand before you; —the dread of you, and the fear of you—will Yahweh your God put forth over the face of all the land, whereon ye shall tread, let he spake unto you.

§ 13. The Blessing and the Curse: Mounts Gerizim and Ebal.

See! I am setting before you, to-day,—a blessing, and a curse: 27 the blessing, when ye shall have hearkened unto the commandments of Yahweh your God, which I am commanding you, to-day; 28 and [the curse] if ye shall not hearkened unto the commandments of Yahweh your God, but shall turn aside out of the way which I am commanding you, to-day,—to go after other gods, which ye know not.*

And it shall come to pass when Yahweh thy God shall bring thee into the land, which thou art entering to possess, then shalt thou put the blessing, upon Mount Gerizim, and the curse, upon Mount Ebal. Are they not over the Jordan, on the way towards the entering in of the sun, in the land of the Canaanite, who dwelleth in the plain over against Gilgal, beside the Teacher’s Terebinths? 29 For ye are passing over the Jordan, to enter to possess the land which Yahweh your God is giving unto you,—so shall ye possess it, and dwell therein. 30 Therefore shall ye observe to do all the statutes and the regulations, which I am setting before you, to-day.

§ 14. All Traces of Idolatry to be removed, and Yahweh’s Worship to be centralised.

1 These are the statutes and the regulations 12 which ye must observe to do, in the land which Yahweh the God of thy fathers hath given unto thee, to possess it,—all the days that ye are living upon the soil:

2 Ye must utterly destroy all the places, where the nations whom ye are dispossessing have served their gods,—Upon the high mountains, And upon the hills, And under every green tree;

3 And ye must tear down their altars, And break in pieces their pillars, And [their] sacred stems—must ye consume with fire, And [the carved images] of their gods—must ye fell to the ground,—And destroy their name out of that place.

4 Ye must not do thus unto Yahweh your God; 4 but unto the place which Yahweh your God shall choose, out of all your tribes, to put his name there,—as his habitation—shall ye ask your way, and come in thither; 6 and bring in thither your ascending-offerings, and your sacrifices, and your tithes, and the heave-offering of your hand,—and your vow-offerings, and your freewill-offerings, and the firstlings of your herd, and of your flock; 7 and shall eat there, before Yahweh your God, and rejoice in all whereunto ye are putting your hand, [i.e., and your households,—wherewith Yahweh thy God hath blessed thee].

8 Ye must not do according to all that we are doing here, to-day,—[every man, whatsoever is right in his own eyes]. 9 Because ye have not entered, as yet,—into the resting-place and into the inheritance, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee. 10 But when ye shall pass over the Jordan, and settle down in the land which Yahweh your God is giving unto thee, and he shall give you rest from all your enemies round about, and ye shall dwell securely, 11 then shall it be, that unto the place which Yahweh your God shall choose to make a habitation for his name there shall ye bring in all that I command you, —your ascending-offerings and your sacrifices, your tithes, and the heave-offering of your hand, and all your chosen vow-offerings which ye shall vow unto Yahweh. 12 So shall ye rejoice before Yahweh your God, ye, and your sons, and your daughters, and your manservants, and your maidservants, and the Levite that is within your gates, 13 as much as he hath neither portion nor inheritance with you.

Take heed to thyself, lest thou cause thine ascending-sacrifice to go up in just any place which thou shalt see; 14 but in the place which Yahweh shall choose in one of thy tribes, 15 there shall thou cause thine ascending-sacrifice to go up, and there shalt thou do all that I am commanding thee.

Howbeit 16 of anything thy soul desireth mayest thou sacrifice, and so eat flesh—according to the blessing of Yahweh thy God which he hath bestowed upon thee, in all thy gates, 17 the unclean and the clean may eat thereof, 18 as the gazelle and as the hart. 19 Howbeit 20 the blood shall ye not eat,— upon the earth shalt thou pour it out, like water.

Thou mayest not eat within thy gates, the tithe of thy corn, of thy new wine or of thine oil, or the firstlings of thy herd, or of thy flock,— nor any of thy vow-offerings which thou shalt vow, nor thy freewill-offerings, nor the heave-offering of thy hand; 21 but before Yahweh thy God shalt thou eat it, in the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy servant and thy maidservant and the Levite who is within your gates, 22 so shalt thou rejoice before Yahweh thy God, in all whereunto thou puttest thine hand. 23 Take heed to thyself, lest thou forsake the Levite,—all thy days, upon thy soil.

<When Yahweh thy God shall enlarge thy boundary—as he hath spoken unto thee—and thou shalt say,

I would eat flesh because thy soul desireth to eat flesh; 21 of whatsoever thy soul desireth mayest thou eat flesh.

<When the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose to put his name there, shall be too far for thee> then shalt thou sacrifice of thy herd or of thy flock which Yahweh hath given unto thee, 22 as I have commanded thee,—and shalt eat, within thine own gates, of whatsoever thy soul desireth. 23 Even as the gazelle and the hart is eaten, 24 shalt thou eat it,—the unclean and the clean alike shall eat it.

Howbeit firmly refrain from eating the blood; 25 for the blood is the life,—therefore must thou not eat the life with the flesh. Thou shalt not eat it,— upon the earth shalt thou pour it out, like water. 26 Thou shalt not eat it,—that it may be well with thee, and with thy children after thee, when thou shalt do that which is right in the eyes of Yahweh.

Howbeit 27 thy holy things which thou shalt have, and thy vow-offerings shalt thou take and come in, unto the place which Yahweh shall choose; 27 and shalt offer thine ascending-sacrifice, the flesh and the blood, upon the altar of Yahweh thy God,—and the blood of thine [other] sacrifices shall be poured upon the altar of Yahweh thy God, and then the flesh shalt thou eat. 28 Observe and hear all those things which I am commanding thee, that it may be well with thee, and with thy children after thee,—unto times age-abiding, so long as thou shalt do that which is pleasing and right in the eyes of Yahweh thy God.

<When Yahweh thy God shall cut off from before thee, the nations whom thou shalt going in to dispossess,—and thou do dispossesses them, and dwellest in their land> take heed to thyself, lest thou be thrust after them, after they have been destroyed from before thee,—and lest thou enquire after their gods, saying—

<In what manner> did these nations serve their gods, that I too may do likewise?

Thou shalt not do likewise unto Yahweh thy God,—for everything that is an abomination unto Yahweh, which he doth hate have they done unto their gods, for even their sons and their daughters do they consume with fire unto their § 15. Signs and Wonders not to tempt to Idolatry.

18 When there shall arise in thy midst—a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams,—and he shall give unto thee a sign or a wonder; and the sign or the wonder shall come in, whereof he spake unto thee, saying,—

Let us go after other gods, which ye know not, and let us serve them

3 then shall not hearken unto the words of that prophet, or unto that dreamer of dreams,—for Yahweh your God is putting you to the proof, to know whether ye do love Yahweh your God, with all your heart and with all your soul.

4 After Yahweh your God shall ye walk, And (him) shall ye revere,— And (his commandments) shall ye observe, And (unto his voice) shall ye hearken, And (him) shall ye serve,

5 And (unto him) shall ye cleave, And (that) prophet, or (that) dreamer of dreams shall be put to death, because he hath spoken revolt against Yahweh your God,—who brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed thee out of the house of servants, to seduce thee out of the way whereunto Yahweh thy God hath commanded thee to walk,—so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst.

6 When thy brother—son of thine own mother, or thine own son or thine own daughter, or the wife of thy bosom, or thy friend who is as thine own soul,—shall entice thee secretly, saying,—

Let us go and serve other gods, whom thou hast not known; for the gods of the peoples who are round about you, who are near unto thee, or who are far off from thee,—I from one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth, thou shalt not consent unto him, neither shalt thou hearken unto him,—neither shalt thine eye look with pity upon him, neither shalt thou spare—neither shalt thou conceal him; but thou shalt slay him, thine own hand shall be upon him first, to put him to death,—and the hand of all the people, afterwards. And thou shalt stone him with stones, that he die,—for he hath sought to seduce thee from Yahweh thy God, who brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants. And all Israel shall hear and fear, and shall not again do according to this wickedness, in thy midst.

When thou shalt hear—in one of thy cities, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee to dwell there—saying:

There have gone forth men, sons of the Abandoned One, out of thy midst, and have seduced the inhabitants of their city, saying,—Let us go, and serve other gods which ye have not known; and thou shalt enquire, and search out, and ask diligently,—and let it be the thing, this abomination has been done in thy midst, then shalt thou smite the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, devoting it to destruction, and all that is therein, and the cattle thereof, with the edge of the sword, and all the spoil thereof shall thou gather together into the midst of the broadway thereof, and shalt consume with fire the city and all the spoil thereof, every whit unto Yahweh thy God,—and it shall be a heap unto times age-abiding, it shall be built no more. So shall there not cleave to thy hand aught of the devoted thing,—that Yahweh may turn away from the glow of his anger, and grant thee compassion, and have compassion upon thee and multiply thee, as he sware unto thy fathers:

so long as thou shalt hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to keep all his commandments, which I command thee to-day, to do what is right in the eyes of Yahweh thy God.

§ 16. Israelites neither to Disfigure nor to Defile themselves.

1 Sons are ye unto Yahweh your God,—ye shall not cut yourselves, neither shall ye put lappets between your eyes, for the dead. For a holy people thou art unto Yahweh thy God,—and <of thee> did Yahweh make choice, that thou shouldst become his people as a precious treasure, above all the peoples that are on the face of the ground.

Thou shalt not eat any abominable thing.

These are the beasts which ye may eat,—the ox, the young of sheep, and the young of goats; the hart and the gazelle, and the roebuck,—and the wild goat and the mountain goat, and the wild ox, and the mountain sheep.

And every beast that parteth the hoof and cleaveth the cleft into two claws, chewing the cud, among beasts>

Nevertheless shall ye eat. 7 Nevertheless shall ye not eat, of that which cheweth the cud, and of them that divide the cloven hoof,—the camel, and the hare, and the rabbit, for though they do chew the cud, yet do they not part, unclean they are unto you. 8 And the swine because though he doth divide the hoof yet he cheweth not the cud, unclean he is unto you,—of their flesh shall ye not eat, and their carcases shall ye not touch.

§ 17. Tithes to be taken to Yahweh's Habitation—Triennially.

Thou shalt surely titheth all the increase of thy seed, which the field bringeth forth year by year. 23 And thou shalt eat before Yahweh thy God—in the place which he shall choose, to make a habitation for his name there—he, the tenth of thy corn, thy new wine and thine oil, and the firstlings of thy herd, and of thy flock,—that thou mayest learn to reverence Yahweh thy God, all the days. 24 But when the way becometh too long for thee, because thou canst not carry it, because the place is too far for thee, which Yahweh thy God shall choose to put his name there,—because Yahweh thy God blesseth thee 25 then shalt thou turn it into silver, and shalt bind up the silver in thy hand, and shalt journey unto the place, which Yahweh thy God shall choose; 26 and shalt turn the silver into whatsoever thy soul desireth—of the herd or of the flock, or of wine, or of strong drink, or of whatsoever thy soul shall ask thee for,—and shalt eat it there, before Yahweh thy God, and shalt rejoice, [thou and thy household] 27 and the Levite who is within thy gates thou shalt not forsake him,—for he hath neither portion nor inheritance with thee.

At the end of seven years shalt thou make 15 a release. 2 And this shall be the manner of the release, 1 Every creditor who lendeth ought to his neighbour his hand shall release it,—he shall not exact it of his neighbour or his brother, because there hath been proclaimed a release, unto Yahweh.

1 Of a foreigner thou mayest exact it,— 3 but what thou hast with thy brother thy hand shall release; 4 save  when there shall be among you 5 a needy person, 5 for Yahweh 6 will 7 indeed bless thee, in the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee as an inheritance, to possess it: only' if thou [do hearken] unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to observe to do—all this commandment 8 which I am commanding thee to-day. 9 When 10 Yahweh thy God hath blessed thee, as he spake unto thee then shalt thou lend unto many nations, but thou shall not borrow, and thou shalt rule over many nations, but over thee shall they not rule.

§ 19. Needy and Enslaved to be well cared for.

7 When there cometh to be among you 8 a needy person, any one 9 of thy brethren, within any one of thy gates, in thy land, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee 10 thou shalt not harden thy heart, nor shut thy hand from thy needy brother;
DEUTERONOMY XV. 8–23; XVI. 1–9.

but thou shalt [open] thy hand unto him, — and [ lend] him, enough to meet the poverty which doth impoverish him. 9 Take thou heed to thyself, lest there be something near thine abandoned’ heart, * saying—

Drawing nigh is the seventh year, the year of release, and so thine eye be [evil] against thy needy’ brother, and thou give not unto him,—and he cry out against thee, unto Yahweh, and it become in thee, a sin! 10 Thou shalt [give] unto him, and thy heart [shall not be evil] when thou givest unto him,—for <on account of this very thing> will Yahweh thy God bless thee, in all that thou doest, and in all whereunto thou puttest thy hand. 11 For the needy will not cease out of the midst of the land. —<for this cause> am I commanding thee, saying,

Thou shalt [open] thy hand unto thy brother, to thy poor and to thy needy, in thy land.

13 When thy brother, a Hebrew man (or a Hebrew woman) selleth himself unto thee> then shall he serve thee six years,—and <in the seventh year> shalt thou let him go out free, from thee; 13 and <when thou lettest him go out free, from thee> shalt thou not let him go out <empty>; 14 thou shalt [richly load] him out of thy flock, and out of thy threshing-floor, and out of thy wine-press,—<of that wherewith Yahweh thy God hath blessed thee> shalt thou give unto him; and thou shalt remember, that  thou wast, in the land of Egypt, and that Yahweh thy God [redeemed thee],—<for this cause> am I commanding thee this thing, to-day. 16 And it shall be <if he shall say unto thee, I will not go away from thee,—because he loveth thee, and thy household, because he is well off with thee> then shalt thou take an awl, and thrust it through his ear unto the door, so shall he be thy servant all his life. 16 And <unto thine handmaid also> shalt thou do thus. 16 It shall not be hard in thine eyes, when thou lettest him go out free, from thee; for <to the double of the hire of a hireling> hast he served thee; six years,—so wilt Yahweh thy God bless thee, in all that thou doest.

§ 20. Firstlings to be devoted to Yahweh.

10 <Every firstling that is brought forth in thy herd and in thy flock, that is a male> shalt thou hallow unto Yahweh thy God,—thou shalt not work with a firstling of thine oxen, neither shalt thou shear a firstling of thy flock: 10 <before Yahweh thy God> shalt thou eat it, year by year, in the place which Yahweh shall choose,—thou, and thy households. 11 But <when there is in it any blemish, lameness or blindness, any ill blemish> thou shalt not sacrifice it unto Yahweh thy God: 12 <within thine own gates> mayest thou eat it,—the unclean [of you] and the clean, alike, [as the gazelle and as the hart]. 13 Only <the blood thereof> shalt thou not eat,—<on the earth> shalt thou pour it out, like water.

§ 21. The Passover to be Kept.

Observe the month of Abib,* when thou shalt keep a passover unto Yahweh thy God,—for <in the month of Abib> did Yahweh thy God bring thee forth out of Egypt, by night: therefore shalt thou sacrifice a passover unto Yahweh thy God, of flock or of herd,—in the place which Yahweh shall choose, to make a habitation for his name there. 2 Thou shalt not eat therewith, any thing leavened, <seven days> shalt thou eat therewith unleavened cakes, the bread of humiliation,—<in haste> canst thou forth out of the land of Egypt, that thou mayest remember the day when thou camest forth out of the land of Egypt, all the days of thy life. 4 And there shall not be seen with thee leaven, in any of thy bounds, seven days,—neither shall there remain all night of the flesh which thou shalt sacrifice in the evening, on the first day, unto the morning. 5 Thou mayest not sacrifice the passover,—within any of thine own gates, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee; but <in the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose> to make a habitation for his name> shall thou sacrifice the passover, in the evening,—at the going in of the sun,* at the very time thou camest forth out of Egypt. 7 Therefore shalt thou cook and eat it in the place which Yahweh thy God <shall choose>,—and shalt turn away in the morning, and go thy way unto thy tents. 8 <Six days> shalt thou eat unleavened cakes,—and <on the seventh day> shall be a closing feast, unto Yahweh thy God, thou shalt do no work.*

§ 22. The Festival of Weeks.

9 <Seven weeks> shalt thou count unto thee,—<from the beginning of thrusting in the sickle into the standing corn> shalt thou begin to count, seven weeks. So shalt thou keep the festival of weeks unto Yahweh thy God, in the measure of the freewill offering of thy hand, which thou shalt give, as Yahweh thy God shall bless thee. So shalt thou rejoice before Yahweh thy God: thou, and thy son and thy daughter, and thy servant and thy handmaid, and the Levite which is within thy gates, and the sojourner, and the fatherless and the widow, who are in thy midst, in the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose, to make a habitation for his name there. So shalt thou remember that a servant thou wast in Egypt; and shalt observe and do these statutes.

§ 23. The Festival of Booths.
(Cp. chap. xxxi. 10.)

13 The festival of booths shalt thou keep for thyself, seven days, when thou hast gathered in of thy threshing-floor, and out of thy wine-vat. And thou shalt rejoice in thy festival, thou, and thy son and thy daughter, and thy servant and thy handmaid, and the Levite and the sojourner, and the fatherless and the widow, who are within thy gates. Seven days shalt thou keep festival unto Yahweh thy God, in the place which Yahweh shall choose, for Yahweh thy God will bless thee in all thine increase, and in all the work of thy hands, therefore shalt thou do nothing but rejoice.

§ 24. Three Annual Festivals.

16 Times in the year shalt each one of thy males see the face of Yahweh thy God, in the place which he shall choose, at the festival of unleavened cakes, and at the festival of weeks, and at the festival of booths, and none shall see the face of Yahweh empty-handed: every man according as his hand can give, according to the blessing of Yahweh thy God, which he hath bestowed upon thee.

§ 25. Concerning Petty Judges and Officers (and the Evils they are to suppress).

18 Judges and officers shalt thou appoint thee, in all thy gates, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, by thy tribes, and they shall judge the people, with righteous judgment. Thou shalt not wrest judgment, thou shalt not take note of faces, nor shalt thou accept a bribe, for the bribe blindeth the eyes of wise men, and perverteth the words of righteous men.

§ 26. Difficult Cases to be referred to Superior Judges.

8 When any matter of judgment shall be too difficult for thee, between blood and blood, between plagues and pleads, or between stroke and stroke, matters of contention within thy gates then shalt thou arise and go up unto the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose; and shall come in unto the priests, the Levites, and unto the judge, who shall be in those days, and shalt enquire, and they shall declare unto thee.

Some cod. (w. Sam. Sep. have: "in the land of E."
Or: "be altogether rejoicing" — V. 26. This climax of rejoicing is noteworthy.

[Note: The text is a fragment and contains references to biblical passages and legal regulations. It discusses the observance of festivals, judicial proceedings, and the obligation to observe a certain number of days as a festive event.]
the sentence of judgment; 10 and thou shalt do, according to the sentence which they shall declare unto thee, out of that place, which Yahweh [shall choose],—yes thou shalt observe to do, according to all which they shall direct thee: 11 according to the direction wherewith they direct thee, and after the judgment which they shall announce to thee> shalt thou do,—thou shalt not turn aside from the sentence which they shall declare unto thee, to the right hand or to the left. 12 And <the man> who shall do presumptuously, by not hearkening unto the priest that standeth to minister there, to Yahweh thy God, or unto the judge> that man [shall die], and so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of Israel. 13 And <all the people> shall hear and fear,—and shall not act presumptuously any more.

§ 27. Concerning Kings.

14 <When thou shalt enter into the land, which Yahweh thy God' is giving unto thee, and shalt possess it, and dwell therein,—and shalt say—

I will set over me a king, like all the nations that are round about me> thou shalt [set] over thee, as king, whom Yahweh thy God [shall choose],—<out of the midst of thy brethren> shalt thou set over thee a king, thou mayest not appoint over thee a man that is a foreigner, who is [not thy brother].

15 Moreover he shall not multiply to himself horses, neither shall he cause the people to return to Egypt, that he may multiply horses,—when [Yahweh] hath said unto you,

Ye shall not again return this way any more'.

16 Neither shall he multiply to himself wives, that his heart turn not aside,—nor [silver and gold] shall he multiply to himself [greatly].

17 But it shall be, <when he sitteth upon the throne of his kingdom> then shall he write for himself a copy of this law, upon a scroll, out of [that which is] before the priests, the Levites:% 18 so shall it be with him, and he shall read therein all the days of his life,—that he may learn to revere Yahweh his God, to observe all the words of this law, and these statutes, to do them: 19 that his heart may not be lifted up above his brethren, and he may not turn aside from the commandment, to the right hand or to the left,—that he may prolong his days over his kingdom—[he, and his sons], in the midst of Israel.

§ 28. Levites to be honoured and cared for.

1 Neither the priests, the Levites, [nor] any of 18 the tribe of Levi, shall have either portion or inheritance with Israel,—<the altar-fames of Yahweh, and his inheritance> shall they eat. 2 But <inheritance> shall he not have, in the midst of his brethren,—<Yahweh> is his inheritance, as he spake unto him. 3 This therefore, shall be the due of the priests, from the people, from them who offer the sacrifice, whether ox or lamb,—there shall be given unto the priest, the shoulder, and the two cheeks, and the maw: 4 <the firstfruit of thy corn, thy new wine, and thine oil, and the first of the fleece of thy flock> shalt thou give unto him. 5 For <of him> hath Yahweh thy God made choice, out of all thy tribes, —to stand to minister in the name of Yahweh, <of him> and his sons, all the days. 6 And <when the Levite shall come in, out of any of thy gates, out of any part of Israel, where he is sojourning,—yes, shall come in with all the desire of his soul, into the place which Yahweh shall choose> then may he minister in the name of Yahweh his God,—like any of his brethren the Levites, who are standing there before Yahweh. 7 <Portion for portion> shall they eat,—apart from his possessions, upon his patrimony.

§ 29. Canaanite Abominations specified and warned against: A Prophet like Moses to be expected: False Prophets not to be feared.

9 <When thou art' coming into the land which Yahweh thy God' is giving unto thee> thou shalt not learn to do, according to the abominable doings of those nations. 10 There shall not be found in thy midst—

One who causeth his son or his daughter to pass through fire,—

Or who useth divination, hidden arts or enchantments,

Or who mutileth incantations;

Or who bindeth with spells,—

Or who asketh of a familiar spirit, or an oracle,

Or who seeketh unto the dead.

12 For <an abomination unto Yahweh, is everyone who doeth these things,—and <on account of these abominations> is Yahweh thy God' dispossessing them from before thee. 13 <Blameless> shalt thou be, with Yahweh thy God; 14 for [these nations whom thou' art dispossessing shall unto them who use hidden arts and unto diviners> do hearken, but <as for thee> not so] doth Yahweh thy God] suffer thee. 15 <A prophet out of thy midst, of thy brethren, like unto me> will Yahweh thy God raise up unto thee:"—unto him> shall ye hearken:—according to all thou didst ask of Yahweh thy God, in Horeb, in the day of the convocation, saying,— Let me no further hearken unto the voice of Yahweh my God, and <this great fire> let me see any more, lest I die.

17 And Yahweh said unto me:
They have well said what they have spoken. 18 <A prophet> will I raise up unto them, out of the midst of their brethren, like unto thee;—and I will put my words in his mouth, so shall he speak unto them whatsoever I shall command him. 19 And it shall come to pass, that <the man who will not hearken unto my words> which he shall speak in my name> [I, myself] will require it of him. 20 Howbeit <the prophet who shall presume to speak a word in my name, which I have not commanded him to speak, or who shall speak in the name of other gods> [that prophet shall die].

21 And <when thou shalt say in thy heart,>—
In what manner shall we know the word which Yahweh hath not spoken?>

22 <When the prophet shall speak in the name of Yahweh, and the word shall not come to pass>, neither shall it come in; <that word> is the word which Yahweh hath not spoken, <presumptuously> hath the prophet spoken it, thou shalt not be in dread of him.

§ 30. Three Cities of Refuge West of the Jordan—The Mainslayer. (1 P. § 4.)

19 1 <When Yahweh thy God shall cut off the nations, whose land Yahweh thy God is giving thee,>—and thou shalt dispossess them, and dwell in their cities, and in their houses> 2 <three cities> shalt thou set apart for thee,—in the midst of thy land> which Yahweh thy God is giving thee to possess. 3 Thou shalt prepare for thee a way, and shalt divide into three parts the boundary of thy land which Yahweh thy God shall cause thee to inherit,—and it shall be, that every mainslayer [shall flee thither]. 4 And this is the case of the mainslayer, who shall flee thither and live, —<Whoso shall smite his neighbour unwittingly,> [he! not having hated him aforetime,] 5 as when one entereth with his neighbour into a forest, to fell trees, and his hand fetcheth a stroke with the axe, to cut down the tree, and the head fieth off from the handle, and lighteth upon his neighbour, that he die> —the shall flee into one of these cities, and live; lest the blood's redeemer pursue the mainslayer, because his heart is hot, and overtaketh him, because the way is long, and he smiteth him so as to take away his life,<—he not being worthy of death, seeing that he had not been hating him, aforetime. 6 <For this cause> am I commanding thee, saying,—<Three cities> shalt thou set apart for thee. 7 <But if Yahweh thy God should enlarge thy bounds, as he spake unto thy fathers,—and should give thee all the land, which he spake of giving unto thy fathers;> because thou dost observe all this commandment, to do it which I am commanding thee to-day, to love Yahweh thy God, and to walk in his paths all the days> then shalt thou add unto thee yet three cities, unto three these; that innocent blood may not be shed, in the midst of thy land, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, as an inheritance,—and so shed blood be upon thee. 8 <When any man shall be hating his neighbour, and shall lie in wait for him, and rise up against him, and smite him so as to take away his life,> that he dieth,—and shall then flee into one of these cities> 9 then shall the elders of his city send and fetch him from thence,—and deliver him into the hand of the blood's redeemer, that he die; 10 thine eye shall not look with pity upon him,—so shalt thou consume the shedding of innocent blood out of Israel, and it shall go well with thee.

§ 31. Concerning Boundaries and Witnesses.

Thou shalt not move back the boundary of thy neighbour, by which they set bounds at first,—in thine inheritance which thou shalt receive, in the land which Yahweh thy God is giving thee to possess.

One's witness shall not rise up against a man for any iniquity, or for any sin, with regard to any sin that he may commit,—<at the mouth of two witnesses, or at the mouth of three witnesses> must a matter be established. 16 <When there shall rise up a wrongful witness against a man,—to answer—> against him, perversely. Then shall the two men who are at variance stand before Yahweh, before the priests and the judges, who shall be in those days; and the judges shall make diligent inquisition, and lo! if the witness be a false witness, and if falsely have answered against his brother, then shall ye do unto him as he had thought to do unto his brother, so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst; and they who remain shall hear and fear, and not go on to do again according to this wicked thing, in thy midst: neither shall thine eye pity, life for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

§ 32. As to Making War: Canaanite Cities only to be necessarily Destroyed.

When thou shalt go out to wage war against thine enemy, and shalt see the horses and chariots of a people more in number than thou, thou shalt not be afraid of them, for Yahweh thy God is with thee, who brought thee out of the land of Egypt. And it shall be, when ye are coming nigh unto the battle, that the priest shall approach and speak unto the people; and shall say unto them, Hear, O Israel, ye are coming near to-day, unto battle, against your enemies, let not your heart faint, do not fear, nor start, nor quake, because of them. For Yahweh your God is he that is going with you, to fight for you against your enemies, to save you.

Then shall the officers speak unto the people, saying, Who is the man that hath built a new house, and hath not dedicated it? let him go, and return unto his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man dedicate it. And who is the man that hath planted a vineyard, and hath not thrown it open? let him go, and return unto his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man throw it open. And who is the man that hath betrothed a wife, and hath not taken her? let him go, and return unto his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man take her.

Then shall the officers further speak unto the people, and say—Who is the man that is fearful and faint-hearted? let him go, and return unto his house.

And it shall be when the officers have made an end of speaking unto the people, then shall they appoint captains of hosts at the head of the people.

When thou shalt come nigh unto a city, to fight against it, then shalt thou proclaim unto it peace. And it shall be if peace be the answer it giveth thee, and it open unto thee, then shall it be, that all the people who are found therein shall become thy tributaries, and shall serve thee. But if it will not make peace with thee, but will make war with thee, then shalt thou lay siege to it; and Yahweh thy God will deliver it into thy hand, and thou shalt smite every male thereof, with the edge of the sword; but the women and the little ones and the cattle, and all that shall be in the city—all the spoil thereof shalt thou take as thy prey, so shalt thou eat the spoil of thine enemies, whom Yahweh thy God hath delivered unto thee.

Thus shalt thou do unto all the cities, that are very far away from thee, which are not of the cities of those nations.

But of the cities of these peoples, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee as an inheritance, shalt thou not save alive any breathing thing. But thou shalt devote them to destruction—the Hittites and the Amorites, the Canaanites and the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites, as Yahweh thy God hath commanded thee; lest they teach you to do, according to all their abominations which they have done unto their gods, and so ye sin against Yahweh your God.

When thou shalt besiege a city for many days, to fight against it, to take it thou shalt not destroy the trees thereof, by wounding against them an axe, when thou mightest eat, therefore shalt thou not cut down, for Is the tree of the field [a man], that it should enter, because of thee, into the siege? Nevertheless the tree of which thou knowest that it is not a tree yielding food, the same mayest thou destroy, and cut down, and so build up a siege-work against the city which is making war with thee, until thou hast subdued it.
§ 33. Purging the Land from Innocent Blood.

When there shall be found one slain, on the soil which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee to possess, lying prostrate in the field,—it not being known who smote him—then shall thine elders and thy judges go forth,—and measure unto the cities that are round about the slain; 2 and it shall be that <the city that is nearest unto the slain> the elders of that city shall take a heifer of the herd, which hath not been wrought with, which hath not drawn in a yoke; 4 and the elders of that city shall take down the heifer into a ravine with an everflowing stream, which is neither tilled nor sown,—and shall behead there, the heifer, in the ravine. 5 Then shall the priests, the sons of Levi, come near, for [of them] hath Yahweh thy God made choice, to wait upon him, and to bless, in the name of Yahweh,—and <at their bidding> shall be settled, every controversy and every punishment; 6 and [all the elders of that city who are nearest unto the slain] shall bathe their hands over the heifer that hath been beheaded in the ravine, 7 and shall respond, and say,—

Our hands shed not this blood, neither did [our eyes] see [the deed]. 8 Be propitious unto thy people Israel, whom thou hast redeemed, O Yahweh, and do not impute innocent blood in the midst of thy people Israel.

So shall they obtain propitiation for the guilt of shedding blood. 9 Thou therefore shalt consume the guilt of shedding innocent blood out of thy midst,—when thou shalt do that which is right in the eyes of Yahweh.

§ 34. Concerning the Marriage of Female Captives.

When thou shalt go forth to war, against thine enemies,—and Yahweh thy God shall deliver them into thy hand, 10 and thou shalt take them captive; 11 and shalt see among the captives a woman of beautiful figure,—and shalt have a desire unto her, and wouldst take [her] 12 to thee to wife—then shalt thou bring her into the midst of thy house,—and she shall shave her head and pare her nails; 13 and put away the raiment of her captivity from off her, and shall remain in thy house, and bewail her father and her mother, for the space of a month,—and <after that> mayest thou go in unto her, and be her husband, and she shall be thy wife. 14 And it shall be, <if thou hast no pleasure in her> then shalt thou let her go whither she will, 4 but thou shalt not sell her for silver,—thou shalt not make merchandise of her, because thou hast humbled her.

§ 35. The Right of the Firstborn guarded: Obedience to Parents enforced.

When a man shall have two wives—the one beloved and the other hated,—and they have borne him sons, both she that is beloved, and she that is hated, 15 then shall it be that the firstborn son belongeth to her that is hated 16 then shall he treat as firstborn, by giving him double, out of all that is found to be his,—for [hath] is the beginning of his strength, [his] is the right of the firstborn.

When a man hath a son, rebellious and insulting, who will not hearken to the voice of his father, and to the voice of his mother,—though they chastise him yet will not hearken unto them—then shall his father and his mother [lay hold of him], and bring him forth unto the elders of his city, and unto the gate of his place; and shall say unto the elders of his city:

This our son is rebellious and insulting,—he will not hearken unto our voice,—is a glutton 4 and a tippler.

Then shall all the men of his city stone him with stones, that he die, so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst,—and 'all Israel' shall hear and fear.

§ 36. Concerning the Hanged (Crucified).

But when there shall be in any man a sin worthy of death, and he is to be put to death,—and thou shalt hang him on a tree 22 his dead body shall not remain all night upon the tree, but thou shalt bury him on the same day, for  23 is he that is hanged,—so shalt thou not make unclean thy soul which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee for an inheritance.

§ 37. Sunday Laws.

from them, thou shalt bring them back unto thy brother.

5 And if thy brother be not nigh unto thee, or thou know him not; then shalt thou make room for it within thine own shed; and it shall be with thee, until thy brother seek after it, when thou shalt return it unto him.

6 And he shall make thee see his ass, or his ox, or his sheep fallen, and turn away from them, thou shalt raise them with him.

A woman shall not have on the wearing apparel of a man, nor shall a man put on the apparel of a woman; for an abomination to Yahweh thy God is any one who doeth these things.

When a bird's nest chancest to be before thee, in the way, in any tree or upon the ground, whether with nestlings or eggs, and the mother be sitting upon the nestlings or upon the eggs, thou shalt not take the mother upon the young; thou shalt let go the mother, and then mayest thou take for thyself, that it may go well with thee, and that thou mayest prolong thy days.

When thou buildest a new house, then shalt thou make a parapet to thy roof, so shalt thou not trespass up blood-guiltiness against thy house, for he that is in danger of falling might fall therefrom.

Thou shalt sow thy vineyard with two sorts of seed, lest the fulness of the seed which thou sowest, and the increase of thy vineyard be profaned. Thou shalt not plough with an ox and an ass together. Thou shalt not put on linen-woolsey, of wool and flax, together.

When a man taketh a wife, and goeth in unto her, and hateth her; and raiseth against her, occasions of speech, and bringeth upon her an evil name, and saith—This woman I took, and approached her, and found not that she had the tokens of virginity—then shall the father of the damsel and her mother take and bring forth the tokens of the virginity of the damsel, unto the elders of the city, in the gate; and the father of the damsel shall say unto the elders,—My daughter gave I unto this man to wife, and he hated her; and lo! he hath raised occasions of speech, saying—

I found not that thy daughter had the tokens of virginity; and yet these are the tokens of the virginity of my daughter. And they shall spread out the garment before the elders of the city. Then shall the elders of that city take the man, and chastise him; and fine him a hundred shekels of silver, and give unto the father of the damsel, because he hath brought an evil name upon a virgin of Israel, and she shall remain his wife, he may not put her away, all his days.

But if this thing be true, and the tokens of virginity be not found with the damsel, then shall they bring forth the damsel into the entrance of her father's house, and the men of the city shall stone her with stones, that she die, because she hath wrought wickedness in Israel, by committing unchastity in her father's house; so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst.

When a man is found lying with a woman married to a husband, then shall both of them die, the man that lay with the woman, and the woman, so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of Israel.

When a damsel that is a virgin is betrothed to a husband, and a man findeth her in the city, and lieth with her then shall ye bring them both out unto the gate of that city, and stone them with stones, that they die; because she made not an outcry in the city, and the man because he hath humbled his neighbour's wife, so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst.

But if in the field the man find the betrothed damsel, and the man force her and lie with her then shall the man that lay with her live alone; but unto the damsel shalt thou do nothing; the damsel is not guilty of a sin worthy of death, for as when a man riseth up against his neighbour, and smiteth him so as to take away life, is this matter; for in the field he found her, the betrothed damsel made an outcry, and there was none to save her.

When a man findeth a damsel that is a virgin who is not betrothed, and layeth hold of her, and lieth with her, and they are found then shall the man who lay with her give unto the damsel's father, fifty shekels of silver; and she shall be his wife, because he hath humbled her, he may not put her away, all his days.
A man shall not take his father's wife,— nor shall he turn aside his father's coverlet.

DEUTEROBRYM XXYIV. 4—22; XXV. 1—7.  223

<if the latter husband hate' her, and write her a scroll of divorcement, and put it into her hand, and send her away out of his house>,—or<if the latter husband die, who had taken her to him to wife> 4 then may her first husband who sent her away not again' take her to become his wife, after that she hath been defiled, for that were an abomination 5 before Yahweh, lest thou bring sin upon the land 6 which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee for an inheritance.

<When a man taketh a new wife> he shall not go forth to war, neither shall he be charged with any business, 7 <free> shall he be for his own house one year, and shall rejoice with his wife whom he hath taken.

No man shall take in pledge a handmill, or an upper millstone,—for he' would be taking 8 life in pledge.

When a man is found stealing any person' from among his brethren, of the sons of Israel, and making merchandise of him, or selling him> then shall that thief die', so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst.

Take heed, in the plague of leprosy, that thou observe diligently, and do,—according to all that the priests the Levites shall direct you, 9 as I have commanded them> so shall ye observe to do. 9 Remember that which Yahweh thy God did to Miriam,—by the way, as ye came forth out of Egypt.

<When thou lendest thy neighbour a loan of anything> thou shalt not enter into his house, to secure his pledge: 10 <outside> shalt thou stand, and 10 the man to whom thou' art lending shall bring forth unto thee his pledge, outside. 10 And if thou be a poor man, thou shalt not sleep in his pledge: 10 thou shalt restore' unto him' the pledge, at the going in of the sun, so shall he sleep in his own mantle, and bless thee,—and <unto thee> shall it be righteousness, before Yahweh thy God.

Thou shalt not oppress a hired servant, that is poor and needy,—of thy brethren or of thy sojourners that are in thy land, within thy gates: 15 <for his day> shalt thou give his hire, neither shall the sun go upon it], for <poor> he' is', and <unto it> is he' lifting up his soul,—lest he cry out against thee, unto Yahweh, and it be, in thee, .

Fathers' shall not be put to death for sons', nor shall <sons> be put to death for fathers, 16

17 Thou shalt not pervert the judgment of the sojourner or the fatherless, 17 neither shalt thou take in pledge' the garment of a widow; so shall thou remember that  becamest thou in Egypt, 18 and that Yahweh thy God| may bless thee}, in all the work of thy hands. 19 <When thou bearest thine olive-tree> thou shalt not glean after thee, —<to the sojourner, to the fatherless, and to the widow> shalt it belong,—that Yahweh thy God' may bless thee}, I therefore am I' commanding thee to do this thing.

19 <When thou cuttest down thy harvest in thy field, and forgettest a sheaf in the field> thou shalt not turn back to fetch it, <to the sojourner, to the fatherless, and to the widow> shall it belong,—that Yahweh thy God' may bless thee], in all the work of thy hands. 20 <When thou bearest thine olive-tree> thou shalt not glean after thee,— <to the sojourner, to the fatherless, and to the widow> shall it belong: 21 so shalt thou remember that  becamest thou in the land of Egypt,—I therefore am I' commanding thee to do this thing.

1 When there ariseth a controversy between men, and they come nigh unto judgment, and judgment is granted them> then shall they justify the righteous man, and condemn the lawless. 2 And it shall be —<if the lawless man be worthy of stripes>: 3 then shall the judge cause him to lie down, and be beaten before him, according to the measure of his lawlessness, by number: <forty stripes> may he give him, not going beyond,—lest <if he do go beyond, to smite him above these, with many stripes> then should thy brother be of no account in thine eyes.

Thou shalt not muzzle an ox when he is treading out the corn.

<When brethren dwell together, and one of them dieth, having <no son>> the wife of the dead shall not marry outside, to a stranger,—<her husband's brother> shall go in unto her, and take her unto him to wife, and do for her as a husband's brother.

And it shall be, that <the firstborn which she beareth> shall succeed in the name of his brother, who is dead,—so shall his name not be wiped out from Israel. 7 But <if the man like not to take his sister-in-law> then shall his sister-in-law go up unto the gate, unto the elders, and say—

My husband's brother hath refused, to

raise up unto his brother a name in Israel, he is not willing to do as a husband’s brother unto me.

9 Then shall the elders of his city call him, and speak unto him,—and he shall stand and say, I like not to take her.

10 Then shall his brother’s wife come near unto him, in the presence of the elders, and draw his shoe * from off his foot, and spit in his face,—and respond and say, [Thus] shall it be done unto the man who will not build up the house of his brother.

11 And his name shall be called in Israel,—The house of him who had his shoe drawn off.

12 When men strive together one with another, and the wife of the one draweth near to deliver her husband out of the hand of him that smiteth him,—and she putteth forth her hand, and seizeth him by his parts of shame,—then shalt thou cut off her hand, thine eye shall not pity.

13 Thou shalt not have, in thy bag, divers weights,—a great and a small. 14 Thou shalt not have, in thy house, divers measures,—a great and a small. * A weight, full and just shalt thou have,  shalt thou have,—that thy days may be prolonged upon the soil which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee.

15 For <an abomination unto Yahweh thy God> is every one that doeth these things, —[every one that doeth unjustly].

§ 38. Amalek to be Destroyed.

17 Remember that which Amalek did unto thee by the way, when ye came forth out of Egypt; 18 how he encountered thee by the way, and cut off, in thy rear, all the wounded behind thee, [thou thyself] being weary and worn,—how he feared not God.

19 Therefore shall it be, <when Yahweh thy God hath given thee rest from all thine enemies round about, in the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee for an inheritance to possess it> then shalt thou wipe out the remembrance of Amalek from under the heavens, —[thou shalt not forget].

§ 39. Concerning the Offering of Firstfruits and Tithes: Prayers for these Occasions.

26 And it shall be, <when thou shalt enter into the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, for an inheritance,—and shalt possess it, and dwell therein> 2 then shalt thou take,—of the first of all the fruit of the soil which thou shalt bring in from thy

261 land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, and shalt put it in a basket,—and go thy way unto the place which Yahweh thy God [shall choose], to make a habitation for his name, there. 3 And thou shalt come in unto the priest who shall be in those days,—and shalt say unto him—

I declare, to-day, unto Yahweh thy God, that I am come into the land which Yahweh sware unto our fathers, that he would give unto us.

Then shall the priest take the basket, out of thy hand, —and set it down before the altar of Yahweh thy God. 5 And thou shalt respond and say, before Yahweh thy God—

< A Syrian' ready to perish > was my father, * so he went down to Egypt, and became a sojourner there, with men only few; but he became there, a nation great, mighty, and numerous; * and the Egyptians badly treated us, and humiliating us,—and put upon us harsh service; 7 so we made outcry unto Yahweh, God of our fathers,—and Yahweh hearkened unto our voice, and looked upon our humiliation, and our toil, and our oppression; * and Yahweh brought us forth out of Egypt, with a firm hand, and with a stretched-out arm, and with great terror,—and with signs, and with wonders; 10 and brought us into this place,—and gave unto us this land, a land flowing with milk and honey. 10 [Now therefore, lo! I have brought in the first of the fruit of the soil' which thou hast given unto me, O Yahweh.

Thus shalt thou set it down before Yahweh thy God, and shalt bow thyself down, before Yahweh thy God; 11 and shalt rejoice in all the good things which Yahweh thy God hath given unto thee, and unto thy house, [thou, and the Levite, and the sojourner who is in thy midst].

< When thou shalt make an end of tithing all the tithe of thine increase, in the third year* the year of tithing,—and shalt give unto the Levite, unto the sojourner, unto the fatherless and unto the widow, and they shall eat within thy gates, and be satisfied > then shalt thou say,—before Yahweh thy God:—

I have carefully removed that which was hallowed out of the house, moreover also' I have given it unto the Levite, and unto the sojourner, unto the fatherless and * unto the widow, according to all thy commandment which thou hast commanded me,—I have not transgressed any of thy commandments, neither have I forgotten. 14 I have not eaten in my sorrow therefrom, neither have I removed therefrom when unclean, neither have I given thereof unto the dead, 15— I have hearkened unto the voice of Yahweh my God, I have done according to all which thou hast commanded me.

Look thou down out of thy holy habitation, out of the heavens, and bless thy people Israel, and the soil which thou hast given unto us, as thou didst swear unto our fathers, a land flowing with milk and honey.

§ 40. Commanding Avoesed.

16 This day is Yahweh thy God commanding thee to do these statutes, and the regulations, thou shalt therefore observe and do them, with all thy heart and with all thy soul.

Thou hast avowed, to-day, that Yahweh shall be thy God, and that thou wilt walk in his ways, and keep his statutes and his commandments and his regulations, and wilt hearken unto his voice.

And Yahweh hath avowed to-day, that thou shalt be a holy people unto Yahweh thy God, as he hath spoken.

§ 41. Great Stones to be inscribed and an Altar to be reared in Mount Ebal.

17 And Moses, with the elders of Israel, commanded the people, saying,— Observe all the commandment which I am commanding you, to-day.

So then it shall be, when ye shall pass over the Jordan into the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee,—that thou shalt rear thee up great stones, and plaster them with plaster; and shalt write upon them the words of this law, when thou shalt pass over,—to the end that thou mayest enter upon the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, a land flowing with milk and honey, as Yahweh the God of thy fathers hath spoken unto thee. 4 So then it shall be, when ye shall pass over the Jordan; that ye shall rear up these stones, which I am commanding you to-day, in Mount Ebal, 5— and thou shalt plaster them with plaster. And thou shalt build there, an altar unto Yahweh thy God,—an altar of stones, thou shalt not wield thereof any tool of iron.

6 Of whole stones shalt thou build the altar of Yahweh thy God,—then shalt thou cause to go up thereon ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh thy God; 7 and thou shalt sacrifice peace-offerings, and shalt eat there,—and rejoice before Yahweh thy God. 8 And thou shalt write upon the stones, all the words of this law, doing it plainly and well.

§ 42. Provision for National Solemnisation of Blessings and Curses on Mounts Gerizim and Ebal: the Discourse passing over into a Sustained Prediction.

9 And Moses, and the priests the Levites, spake unto all Israel, saying,—

Keep silence and hear, O Israel. This day hast thou been made a people unto Yahweh thy God. 10 Thou shalt therefore hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God,—and do his commandments, and his statutes, which I am commanding thee, to-day.

And Moses commanded the people on that day, saying:

11 These shall stand, to bless the people, upon Mount Gerizim, when ye have passed over the Jordan,—Simeon and Levi and Judah, and Issachar, and Joseph and Benjamin; 12 and these shall stand by the curse, in Mount Ebal,—Reuben, Gad and Asher, and Zebulun, Dan and Naphtali. 13 Then shall the Levites respond and say unto every man of Israel, with voice uplifted:—

14 Cursed be the man that maketh an image, or a molten image,—an abomination unto Yahweh, the work of the hands of the craftsman, and putteth it in a secret place.

And all the people shall respond, and say—Amen.

15 Cursed be he that holdeth in light esteem his father or his mother.

And all the people shall say—Amen.

16 Cursed be he that moveth back the boundary of his neighbour.

And all the people shall say—Amen.
whereunto thou settest thy hand, and will bless thee in the land, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee:

9 Yahweh will confirm thee unto himself for a holy people, as he sware unto thee, because thou dost keep the commandments of Yahweh thy God, and dost walk in his ways. And all the peoples of the earth shall see that the name of Yahweh hath been called upon thee, and shall be afraid of thee.

10 And Yahweh will cause thee to abound in that which is good, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy soil, upon the soil which Yahweh sware unto thy fathers, to give unto thee:

11 Yahweh will open unto thee his rich storehouse—the heavens, to give the rain of thy land in its season, and to bless every work of thy hand; so shalt thou lend unto many nations, but shalt not borrow:

12 And Yahweh will give thee to be the head, and not the tail, and thou shalt be only above, and shalt not be beneath, because thou dost hearken unto the commandments of Yahweh thy God, which I am commanding thee, to-day, to observe and to do; and dost not turn aside from any of the words which I am commanding you to-day, to the right hand or to the left, to go after other gods, to serve them.

13 But it shall be, if thou do not hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to observe to do all his commandments which I am commanding thee, then will Yahweh set thee high, above all the nations of the earth: and all these blessings shall come upon in thee, and reach thee, because thou dost hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God:

14 Blessed shalt thou be in the city, and blessed shalt thou be in the field:

15 Blessed shalt thou be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the young of thy kine, and the eggs of thy flock:

16 Blessed shalt thou be thy basket, and thy kneading-trough:

17 Blessed shalt thou be when thou comest in, and blessed shalt thou be when thou goest out:

18 Yahweh will deliver thine enemies who rise up against thee, to be routed before thee, one way shall they come out against thee, and seven ways shall they flee before thee:

19 Yahweh will command to be with thee, the blessing, in thy storehouses, and in all

Deuteronomy XXVIII. 22—31.

22 Yahweh will smite thee with consumption and with fever, and with inflammation and with violent heat, and with the sword, and with blight, and with mildew,—and they shall pursue thee, until thou perish. 23 And thy heave offerings which are over thy head, shall become bronze,—and the earth which is under thee iron.

24 Yahweh will cause the rain of thy land to be powder and dust,—<out of the heavens> shall it come down upon thee, until thou be destroyed.

25 Yahweh will give thee up to be routed before thine enemies, <one way> shalt thou go out against them, and <seven ways> shalt thou flee before them,—and thou shalt become a terror unto all the kingdoms of the earth. 26 And thy dead body shall become food for every beast of the heave offerings, and for the beast of the earth,—with none to fright them away.

27 Yahweh will smite thee with burning sores of Egypt, and with the hemorrhoids, and with scab, and with itch,—of which thou canst not be healed.

28 Yahweh will smite thee with madness, and with blindness,—and with terror of heart: 29 and thou shalt grope about in noonday brightness, as the blind man gropeth in thick darkness, and thou shalt not make thy ways prosper,—but shalt be only oppressed and spoiled, all the days, with none to save.

30 <A wife> shalt thou betroth, and <another man> shall lie with her; 31 <A house> shalt thou build, and shalt not dwell therein,— 32 <A vineyard> shalt thou plant, and shalt not throw it open; 33 <Thine ox> shalt be slaughtered before thine eyes, and thou shalt not eat thereof, 34 <Thine ass> shalt be taken from before thee,—and thou shalt have none to save.

35 <Thy sons and thy daughters> given to another people> thine eyes looking on, and failing for them all the day,—thine own hands being powerless.

36 <The fruit of thy soil, and all thy toil> shall be a people whom thou knowest not, <eat up>,—and thou shalt be only oppressed and crushed, all the days; 37 so that thou shalt be mad,—for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see.

38 Yahweh will smite thee with a grievous boil, upon the knees and upon the legs, of which thou canst not be healed,—from the sole of thy foot, even unto the crown of thy head.

39 Yahweh will bring thee, and thy king whom thou wilt set up over thee, unto a nation which thou hast not known, <unto thou, nor thy fathers>;—and thou shalt serve, there, other gods of wood and of stone.

40 Thus shalt thou become a horror, a byword, and a mockery,—among all the peoples' whither Yahweh thy God will drive thee.

41 <Much seed> shalt thou take out into the field,—and <little> shalt thou gather in, for the locust shall consume it.

42 <Thine vineyards> shalt thou plant, and dress,—but <wine> shalt thou not drink, neither shalt thou gather the grapes, for the worm shall eat them.

43 <Thine olive trees> shalt thou have in all thy bounds,—but <oil> shall drop off from thy olive trees,—and thou shalt not anoint thyself therewith, for thine olive shall drop off.

44 <Thy sons and daughters> shalt thou beget,—and they shall not be thine, for they shall go into captivity.

45 <All thy trees, and the fruit of thy ground> shalt the grasshopper devour. 46 The sojourner who is in thy midst shall mount up above thee, higher and higher,—whereas thou shalt come down lower and lower: 47 <Thou> shalt not lend to him,—he shall become head, and <thou> shalt become tail.

Moreover, all these curses shall come in upon thee, and pursue thee and overtake thee, until thou be destroyed,—because thou didst not hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to keep his commandments and his statutes, which he hath commanded thee; 48 and they shall be upon thee, for a sign, and for a wonder,—and upon thy seed, unto times age-abiding.

49 <Because thou servedst not Yahweh thy God, with rejoicing, and with gladness of heart, for abundance of all things> therefore shalt thou serve thine enemies, whom Yahweh will send against thee, with hunger, and with thirst, and with nakedness, and with want of all things,—and he will put a yoke of iron upon thy neck, until he hath destroyed thee.

50 Yahweh will bring against thee a nation from afar, from the end of the earth, as darteth a bird of prey,—a nation whose tongue thou canst not understand; a nation of fierce countenance,—who will not respect an elder, 51 nor to the young> show favour: 52 then shall he eat the young of thy cattle and the fruit of thy ground, until thou art destroyed, who will not leave for thee corn, new wine or oil, the young of thy kine, or the ewes of thy flock, until he hath caused thee to perish. 33 And he shall lay siege to thee in all thy gates, until thy high and fortified walls come down, wherein thou wast trusting, in all thy land,—yes he will lay siege to thee in all thy gates, in all thy land, which [Yahweh thy God] hath given unto thee. 34 And thou wilt eat the fruit of thy body, the flesh of thy sons and of thy daughters, whom Yahweh thy God hath given unto thee,—in the siege and in the straitness wherewith thine enemies will straiten thee. 35 The man that is tender among you, and exceedingly delicate, his eye shall be jealous of his brother, and of the wife of his bosom, and of the remnant of his sons, whom he might leave behind; 36 so that he will not give to any one of them, of the flesh of his sons which he will eat, because he hath nothing at all left himself, in the siege and in the straitness wherewith thine enemies will straiten thee, within all thy gates. 37 The tender and delicate woman among you, who hath never adventured the sole of her foot, to set it upon the ground, through delicateness and through tenderness, her eye shall be jealous of the husband of her bosom, and of her own son, and of her own daughter, both as to her afterbirth that cometh forth from between her foot, and as to her children which she shall bear, for she will eat them, for want of all things, secretly,—in the siege and in the straitness wherewith thine enemies will straiten thee, within thine gates. 38 If thou wilt not take heed to do all the words of this law, which are written in this scroll, to revere this glorious and reverend name, Yahweh thy God, then will Yahweh make thy plagues wonderful, and the plagues of thy seed, plagues great and lasting, and diseases grievous and lasting; 39 and he will bring back on thee all the sickness of Egypt, because of which thou wast afraid, and they shall cleave unto thee; 40 even every disease and every plague, which are not written in this scroll of the law, will Yahweh bring up against thee, until thou art destroyed. 41 And ye shall be left, men few in number, whereas ye had become as the stars of the heavens, for multitude,—because thou hast not hearkened unto the voice of Yahweh thy God. And it shall come to pass, that as Yahweh rejoiced over you, to do you good, and to multiply you, so will Yahweh rejoice over you, to cause you to perish and to destroy you,—and ye shall be torn away from off the soil, whither thou art going in to possess it; 44 and Yahweh will scatter thee among all the peoples, from one end of the earth, even unto the other end of the earth,—and thou wilt serve there, other gods, whom thou hast not known—[thou, nor thy fathers]—of wood and of stone. 45 And <among those nations> shalt thou find no case, neither shall there be a place of rest for the sole of thy foot,—but Yahweh will give unto thee, there, a trembling heart, and a failing of eyes, and faintness of soul. And thy life shall be hung up for thee in front,—and thou wilt be in dread by night and by day, and wilt not trust in thy life. 47 In the morning thou wilt say—Oh that it were evening! and in the evening thou wilt say—Oh that it were morning! because of the dread of thy heart, which thou wilt dread, and because of the sight of thine eyes, which thou wilt see. 48 And Yahweh will take thee back again to Egypt, in ships, by the way whereof I said unto thee, Thou shalt not again any more see it. And ye will offer yourselves there for sale unto thine enemies, as servants and as handmaids, with no one to buy. 49 These are the words of the covenant which Yahweh commanded Moses to solemnise with the sons of Israel, in the land of Moab,—besides the covenant, which he solemnised with them, in Horeb. § 43. Renewed Exhortations: Hope in the End. 2 And Moses called unto all Israel, and said unto them,—Ye yourselves saw all that Yahweh did before your eyes in the land of Egypt, unto Pharaoh and unto all his servants, and unto all his land: 3 the great provings which thine own eyes saw,—those great signs and wonders: 4 yet hath Yahweh not given unto you a heart to know, or eyes to see, or ears to hear,—until this day. 4 I led you, therefore, forty years in the desert,—your mantles [fell not with age] from off you, even thy sandals: fell not with age from off thy foot: 5 <Bread> ye did not eat, and <wine> and strong drink ye did not drink,—that ye might know that I, Yahweh, was your God. 7 And <when ye entered into this place> then came forth Sihon king of...
Heshbon and Og king of Bashan, to meet us in battle, and we smote them; 8 and we took their land, and gave it for an inheritance unto the Reubenites, and unto the Gadites, and unto the half tribe of Manasseh. 9 Ye must, therefore, keep the words of this covenant, and do them, that ye may prosper in all that ye do.

Ye' are stationed, to-day, all of you, before Yahweh your God, your heads, your tribes, and your elders, and your officers, every man of Israel; 11 your little ones, your wives, and thy sojourner that is in the midst of thy camp, from him that heweth thy wood, unto him that draweth thy water: that thou mayest pass through into the covenant of Yahweh thy God, and into his oath, which Yahweh thy God is solemnising with thee, to-day: 12 that he may confirm thee to-day as his own people, while he becometh thine own God, as he spake unto thee, and as he sware unto thy fathers, unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob.

And /&quot;now&lt;/&quot; saith I, solemnising this covenant and this oath; 15 but with him who is here, with us, standing to-day before Yahweh our God, and with him who is not here, with us to-day. 16 (For ye know, how we dwelt in the land of Egypt,—and how we passed through the midst of the nations which ye did pass through; and ye saw their disgusting images, and their manufactured gods, —the wood and the stone, the silver and the gold that are with them.) 17 Lest there be among you a man or a woman, or a family or a tribe, whose heart is turning to-day, from Yahweh our God, to go and serve the gods of those nations,—lest there be among you, a root fruitful of poison and wormwood; 18 and so it come to pass while he is hearing the words of this oath, that he will bless himself in his heart—saying, /&quot;Prosperity shall I have, although in the stubbornness of my heart I go on,—so that the drunkenness addeth to the thirst; 20 Yahweh will not be willing to forgive him, but I will anger of Yahweh and his jealousy smoke against that man, and all the oath that is written in this scroll shall settle down upon him,—and Yahweh wipe out his name from under the heavens; 21 and Yahweh single him out for calamity, out of all the tribes of Israel,—according to all the oaths of the covenant that is written in this scroll of the law.

So that the generation coming after—your sons who shall rise up after you, and the foreigner who shall come in from a far-off land, will say,—when they see the plagues of that land, and the sicknesses thereof wherewith Yahweh hath made it sick: brimstone and salt, burning up all the land thereof, it shall not be sown, neither shall it shoot forth, neither shall there come up thereon any herbage,—like the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboim, which Yahweh overthrew in his anger and in his wrath: 24 yea all the nations will say, &lt;For what cause &gt; hast Yahweh done it thus unto this land? what meaneth this great heat of anger?

Then will men say,

Because they forsook the covenant of Yahweh, the God of their fathers,—which he solemnised with them, when he brought them forth, out of the land of Egypt; 26 and went and served other gods, and bowed down to them,—gods which they had not known, and in which he had given them no share: 27 therefore did the anger of Yahweh kindle upon that land,—to bring in upon it all the curse that is written in this scroll; and therefore hath Yahweh rooted them out from off their own soil, in anger and in wrath, and in great indignation, and cast them into another land, as at this day.

The secret things belong unto Yahweh our God; and the things that are revealed shall belong to us and to our children, unto times age-abiding, that we may do all the words of this law.

And it shall come to pass, when all these things shall come in upon thee—the blessing and the curse, which I have set before thee,—and thou shalt bring them back unto thy heart, 30 among all the nations' whither Yahweh thy God hath driven thee; and thou shalt return unto Yahweh thy God, and shalt hearken unto his voice, according to all that I am commanding thee to-day,—unto thy soul; with all thy heart, and with all thy soul shall then will Yahweh thy DEUTERONOMY XXX. 4—20; XXXI. 1—8.

God bring back thy captivity, and have compassion upon thee, and return and gather thee, from among all the peoples whither Yahweh thy God hath scattered thee. <Though thou be driven out unto the utmost part of the heavens> will Yahweh thy God gather thee, and [from thence] will he fetch thee; and Yahweh thy God will bring thee into the land which thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt possess it, and he will do thee good and multiply thee, beyond thy fathers.

And Yahweh thy God will circumcise thy heart, and the heart of thy seed, to love Yahweh thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, that thou mayest live. And Yahweh thy God will put all these oaths upon thine enemies and upon them who hated thee, who persecuted thee.

But thou wilt return, and hearken unto the voice of Yahweh, and wilt do all his commandments, which I am commanding thee, to-day. And Yahweh thy God will make thee pre-eminent, in every work of thy hand— in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, for good— for Yahweh will again rejoice over thee for good, as he rejoiced over thy fathers: if thou hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to keep his commandments, and his statutes, which are written in this scroll of the law— if thou return unto Yahweh thy God, with all thy heart and with all thy soul.

For I am commanding thee to-day: it is not too wonderful for thee, neither is it far off. It is not in the heavens, that thou shouldst say— Who shall ascend for us into the heavens, that he may fetch it for us, that we may hear it, and do it?

Neither is it over the sea, that thou shouldst say— Who shall pass over for us, to the other side of the sea, that he may fetch it for us, that we may hear it, and do it?

But near unto thee is the word, exceedingly: in thy mouth and in thy heart, that thou mayest do it.

See! I have set before thee, to-day, life and prosperity, and death and calamity; for thou must keep the commandments of Yahweh thy God which I am commanding thee, to-day, to love Yahweh thy God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments and his statutes, and his regulations— so shalt thou live and multiply, and Yahweh thy God will bless thee, in the land which thou art entering to possess. But if thy heart shall turn away, and thou wilt not hearken, but shalt be drawn away, and shalt bow thyself down to other gods, and serve them> I declare unto you, to-day, that ye shall perish, ye shall not prolong your days upon the soil which thou art passing over the Jordan to enter and possess. I call to witness against you to-day, the heavens and the earth, that life and death have I set before thee, the blessing and the curse, therefore shouldst thou choose life, that thou mayest live, and the soil which Yahweh thy God, to hearken unto his voice, and to cleave unto him, for the life is thy life, and thy length of days, that thou mayest abide upon the soil which Yahweh swore to thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac and to Jacob, to give unto them.

§ 44. Moses, preparing to depart, commends Joshua, writes and gives in charge the Law, prepares and teaches his Witnessing Son.

And Moses went, and spake these words unto all Israel: and said unto them—<A hundred and twenty years old am I to-day, I can no more go out and come in,—Yahweh indeed hath said unto me, Thou shalt not pass over this Jordan.

Yahweh thy God is passing over before thee, he will destroy these nations from before thee, so shalt thou dispossess them,—Joshua is passing over before thee, as Yahweh hath spoken. So will Yahweh do unto them as he did unto Sihon and unto Og, kings of the Amorites, and unto the land of them whom he destroyed. So will Yahweh deliver them up before you,—and ye shall do unto them—according to all the commandment which I have commanded you. Be firm and bold, do not fear nor tremble, because of them, for Yahweh thy God it is who is going with thee, he will not fail thee nor forsake thee.

And Moses called for Joshua, and said unto him, in the sight of all Israel, Be firm and bold, for thou shalt go with this people, into the land of which Yahweh is going with thee, and thou shalt cause them to inherit it.

But Yahweh it is who is going before thee, he will be with thee, he will not fail thee nor forsake thee, thou must not fear, nor be dismayed.

* [Note: Citations and footnotes are not translated into the natural text.]
And Moses wrote this law, and delivered it unto the priests, the sons of Levi, who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, and unto all the elders of Israel. And Moses commanded them, saying—

At the end of seven years, in the appointed season of the year of release, during the festival of booths; when all Israel cometh in to see the face of Yahweh thy God, in the place which he shall choose; thou shalt read this law before all Israel, in their hearing; Call together the people—the men, and the women, and the little ones, and thy sojourner, who is within thy gates, that they may hear, and that they may learn, so shall they revere Yahweh your God, and observe to do all the words of this law; and that their children who know not may hear and learn, that they may revere Yahweh your God— all the days that ye are living upon the soil, which ye are passing over the Jordan, to possess.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses: Lo! thy days have drawn near, that thou must die. Call Joshua, and station yourselves in the tent of meeting, that I may command him. So Moses went, with Joshua, and they took their station in the tent of meeting. And Yahweh appeared in the tent, in a pillar of cloud, and the pillar of cloud stood at the entrance of the tent. Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Lo! thou art about to sleep with thy fathers, and this people will rise up, and go away unfaithfully after the gods of the foreigners of the land, into the midst of whom they are entering, and will forsake me, and break my covenant which I have solemnised with them. Then will mine anger kindle upon them in that day, and I will forsake them, and will hide my face from them, and they shall be consumed, and many calamities and misfortunes shall fall upon them, and they will say, in that day— Is it not because my God is not in my midst, that these calamities have found me out?

But [I] will utterly hide my face, in that day, because of all the wickedness which they have done, in that they have turned away unto other gods.

Now therefore, write ye for me this Song, and teach it unto the sons of Israel, put it in their mouths, that this Song may become for me, a witness, against the sons of Israel. When I bring them upon the soil which I sware unto their fathers, flowing with milk and honey, and they shall eat and be filled, and wax fat; then will they turn away unto other gods and serve them, and despise me, and break my covenant. And it shall come to pass when many calamities and misfortunes shall find them out; then shall this Song respond to their face, as a witness, for it shall not be forgotten out of the mouth of their seed, for I know their imagination, which they are forming to-day, ere yet I bring them into the land of which I sware unto their fathers.

Moses therefore wrote this Song on that day, and taught it unto the sons of Israel. And he commanded Joshua, son of Nun, and said—

Be firm and bold, for [thou] shalt bring the sons of Israel into the land which I have sworn to them, and [I] will be with thee.

And it came to pass when Moses had made an end of writing the words of this law, upon a scroll, until he had finished them, then Moses commanded the Levites, who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, saying:

Take this scroll of the law, and put it at the side of the ark of the covenant of Yahweh your God, so shall it be there in thy midst as a witness. For [I] know thy perverseness, and thy stiff neck. While I am yet alive with you to-day ye are quarrelling with Yahweh, and how much more after my death?

Call together unto me, all the elders of your tribes, and your officers, and let me speak in their hearing these words, and let me take to witness against them the heavens and the earth. For I know that after my death ye will [break faith], and turn aside out of the way which I have commanded you, and calamity will befall you, in the afterpart of the days, because ye will do the thing that is wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, to provoke him with the work of your own hands.

So Moses spake in the hearing of all the convocation of Israel the words of this Song, until they were ended:

§ 45. The Song.

1 Give ear, O ye heavens, and I will speak, —
And let the earth hear the sayings of my mouth:

2 Let my teaching drop as the rain,
Let my speech distil as the dew, —
As fountains of waters on tender grass.
As myriad drops on seeding plants.

3 <When I the name of Yahweh proclaim>
Adore ye greatness unto our God: —

4 A Rock ! faultless' his work,
For [all his ways] are just, —
A God of faithfulness, and without' perversity, <Right and fair> is he !

5 They have broken faith with him, to be no son of his — their fault, —
A generation twisted and crooked.

6 Is it <Yahweh> ye thus requite,
O impious people and unwise? —
Is not [the] thy father who begat thee?
[YHWH], that made thee, and established thee?

7 Remember the days of age-past times, a Remain the years of many generations, —
Ask thy father, and he will tell thee,
Thine elders, and they will say to thee: —

8 <When the Most High gave inheritances unto the nations,
When he spread abroad the sons of Adam>
He set the bounds of the peoples, b
According to the number of the sons of Israel.

9 For [Yahweh's portion] is his people, —
[Israel] his inheritor possession.

10 He met him, f in a desert land,
And in the howling waste of a wilderness,—
He encompassed him, watched over him,
Shielded him, as the pupil of his own eye, d

11 <As an eagle stirreth up his nest,>
<Over his young ones: fluttereth, —> Sparrelth abroad his wings, taketh one,"
Beareth it up on his pinions>

12 Yahweh alone did lead him,
And there was with him, no God of a stranger.

13 He made him ride on the high places of the land, —
Caused him to eat the increase of the fields,—
And gave him to suck honey out of the cliff,
And oil out of the rock of flint; —

14 Curds of kine, and milk of sheep, —

With fat of well-fed lambs,
Yes rams bred in Bashan, a and he-goats,
With the white of the kernels b of what, —
And the blood of the grape thou didst drink as it foamed, c

15 Then Jeshurun d waxed fat, and kicked: — Thou wast fat,
Thou wast thick.
Thou wast gorged, —
So he forsook the God who made him,
And treated as foolish his Rock of salvation.

16 They moved him to jealousy with foreign [gods], —
<With abominations> angered they him:

17 They sacrificed to malicious demons, a to a
No-God, Gods whom they knew not,—
New ones lately come in, —
Your fathers never shuddered at them!

18 <Of the Rock who had begotten thee> thou wast unmindful, —
And didst forget God who had given thee birth.

19 <When Yahweh saw> he derided, —
Because his sons and his daughters gave provocation.

20 So he said: —
I will hide my face from them,
I will see, what will be their hereafter, —
For  they are',
[Sons] whom there is no trusting; —
[They] have moved me to jealousy with a No-God,
They have angered me with their vanities: —
I, therefore, will move them to jealousy with a No-people, — <With an impious nation> will I anger them.

21 For a fire is kindled in mine anger,
And shall burn as far as hades beneath,—
And consume the earth with her produce,
And set ablaze the foundations of the mountains:

22 I will heap them on calamities, —
Mine arrows > will I spend upon them:

The meltings of hunger, The devourings of fever,
And the dangerous pestilence, —

a Or: "the days of long age." Heb. "the days of c 'ad."
b Or, possibly, "tribes"; but, in view of the immediately following words, it seems more natural to take the Hebrew word in its ordinary application, as synonymous with "nations."
c Probably in the cloud first mentioned in Exo. xiii, 21, 22.
d Notably when passing through the Red Sea.
M'L. "it"; query, the falling eaglet.
e Possibly when Israel came into the mountainous region east of the Jordan.
It so it ab be (w. Sam., Sep.) — G.m. M.'T.: "and he did eat."

These "addes" are very abrupt, but very telling.
Heb., "stock."
Or: "foreigners."
"Evil spirits"—Leeser.
Note the fine sarcasm in this.
I.e., with an unorganised horde—O.G. 810.
Or: "catch up against them"—O.G.
So Ps. H.L.: but, "sucked out"—O.G.; "exhausted by"—David's H.L.
"Eaten up with the firebol, fig. of pestilence"—H.L.
These then are the "arrows."
And <the tooth of beasts> will I send among them,
With the poison of crawlers of the dust:
<Without> shall the sword bereave,
<In the inmost recesses> terror,—
[To] both young man and virgin,
Suckling, with man of grey hairs.
23 I said,
I would puff them away,—
I would destroy from mortals, their memory;
Were it not that <the taunt of the foe> I feared,
Lest their adversaries should mistake,—
Lost they should say—
"Our hand is exalted,"
It is <not Yahweh; therefore, who hath wrought all this>!
27 For  they are,—
And there is in them no understanding.
28 <If they had been wise> they would have understood this,—
They would have given heed to their hereafter!
29 Oh, how would [one] have chased a thousand;
And [two] put ten thousand to flight,—
Were it not that <their Rock> had sold them,
And <Yahweh> had abandoned them:
30 For <not like our Rock> is their rock,—
Their enemies themselves being judges;
31 For <of the vine of Sodom> is their vine,
And of the vineyards of Gomorrah,—
Their grapes are grapes of gall,
<Clusters of bitter things> are theirs:
32 The poison of large serpents is their wine,—
Yea the fierce venom of serpents.
33 Is not that [thologist] stored up with me,—
Sealed up amongst my treasures;
Unto the days of vengeance and requital;
Unto the time their foot shall totter?—
For <near> is the day of their fate,
And their destiny speedeth on.
36 For Yahweh will vindicate his people,
And <upon his servants> will have compassion,
<When he seeth that strength is exhausted,
And there is no one, shut up at large>.
37 Then will he say,
Where are their gods,
The rock, in whom they have trusted;
Who used to eat, <the fat of their sacrifices>,
To drink the wine of their libations?
38 Let them rise up, and help you,
Let them* be over you for a covering!"[b]
39 See: now, that [I,] I am <he that is>,
And there are <no> gods with me,—
[I] kill—and make alive.
I wound, and [I] heal,
And there is none at *<from my hand> can deliver."
40 For I lift up, unto the heavens, my hand,—
And say,
Living am I; unto times age-abiding:
<If I woe> my flashing sword,
And my hand take hold on justice> [c]
I will return vengeance unto mine adversaries,
And <them who hate me> will I requite:
I will make mine arrows drunk with blood,
And <my sword> shall devour flesh,—
With the blood of the slain, and the captive,
With [the flesh of] the chief leader* of the foe:
42 Shout for joy, O ye nations, [with] his people,
For <the blood of his servants> he avengeth,—
And <vengeance> he returneth unto his adversaries,
And is propitious unto the soil of *his people.

44 So Moses came in, and spake all the words of this Song in the hearing of the people, and of Hoshea, son of Nun;[d]
And <when Moses made an end of speaking all these words unto all Israel> he said unto them—

Apply your hearts unto all the words which I am witnessing against you! to-day,— how that ye must command your sons to observe to do all the words of this law; for it is not too small a thing for you, for it is your life,—and hereby shall ye prolong your days upon the soil whereunto ye are passing over the Jordan to possess it.

§ 46. Moses further prepared for His Death.

46 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, on this self-same day, saying:

47 Get thee up into this mountain of the Abarim, Mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, which is over against Jericho, and behold the land of Canaan which I am giving unto the sons of Israel, for a possession; and die thou in the mount whither thou art going up, and be withdrawn unto thy kinsfolk, as Aaron thy brother died, in Mount Hor, and was withdrawn unto his kinsfolk; for that ye acted unfaithfully against me, in the midst of the sons of Israel, regarding the waters of Meribah-Kadesh, in the desert of Zin, for that ye hallowed me not in the midst of the sons of Israel. Yet <over against thee> shalt thou behold the land, but <thereunto> shalt thou not enter, into the land which I am giving unto the sons of Israel.

§ 47. Moses' Blessing on the Tribes and on All Israel.

38 Now this is the blessing wherein Moses, the man of God, blessed the sons of Israel, before his death.

2 And he said—

Yahweh, <from Sinai> came near,—
Yea he dwelt out of Seir, upon them,
He shone forth out of Mount Paran,
Yea he came out of holy myriads,— Out of his right hand [proceeded] fire to guide them.

3 Yea he loved the tribes,—
All his holy ones were in thy hand,—
Yea they were encompassed at thy feet,
Each one bare away some of thy words.

4 <A law> did Moses' command us,—
<A possession> for the convocation of Jacob.

5 Thus became he <in Jeshurun> a king,—
When the heads of the people gathered themselves together,
<As one man> the tribes of Israel.

[Reuben]—

6 Let Reuben live' and not die,—
Nor his men be easily counted.

7 And <this> is for Judah, when he said,
Hear, O Yahweh, the voice of Judah,
That <unto his own people> thou wouldst bring him home,—

§ 48. Moses thus blessed the twelve tribes of Israel.

8 And <of Levi> he said:

Let thy perfection and thy light, <unto thy man of loving-kindness>,— Whom thou didst put to the proof at Massah, With whom thou didst contend over the waters of Meribah;

9 Who saith, of his father and of his mother,
I behold them not,
And <of his own brethren> regardeth he not,
And <of his own sons> observeth he not,—
Because they watch thy speech,
That <thy covenant> they may preserve;

May teach thy regulations unto Jacob,
And thy law unto Israel,—
May put inness in thy nostrils,—
And a whole-offering upon thine altar.

11 Bless, O Yahweh, his substance,
And <with the work of his hands> wilt thou be well pleased,— Crush thou the loins of them who rise up against him,
And of them who hate him, that they rise not again.

12 <Of Benjamin> he said,

The beloved of Yahweh shall settle down securely,—
With one to throw a shade over him all the day long,
Yea <between his shoulders> hath he found rest.

13 And <of Joseph> he said,

Blessed of Yahweh be his land,—
With the precious things of the heavens, with the dew,
And with the abyss, couching beneath;

14 With the precious fruit of the sun,—
And with the precious yield of the moons;

15 And with the chief of the ancient mountains,—
And with the precious things of the age-abiding hills;

16 And with the precious things of the earth and its fulness,
And with the goodwill of One who dwelt in a thorn-bush,—

Let it come on the head of Joseph,
And on the crown of the head of him who was consecrated among his brethren.

17 His firstborn ox be an honour to him,<
And the horns of a buffalo> be his horns,<
With them> let him thrust <peoples>,
All at once unto the ends of the earth,—

* I.e.: "the crossings," or "passages."
* Some cod. w. 1 ear. pr. S.
* "the singular = "thy people."
* This "Blessing" differs widely from the "Witnessing Song" of the previous chapter. These Moses' worst fears, here his fondest wishes and idealisations find expression.

† I.e.: "fire of a law, or fire was a law, but ditch, law, is pers. and late;
† rd. pers. = "fire of torches" cf. Exo. xx. 18 or "becoming fire" cf. Is. lv. 5."—O.G.

‡ Or: "peoples." "Dillman reads 'his people.'"—O.G.

§ Or: "remain."
‡ Exo. xxviii. 30.
‡ The high priest, who was the "mountains of aforetime," cp. ver. 27.

∥ Or: "remainder."
∥ Exo. iii. 2. "Perh. blackberry bush."—O.G.

∥ Or: "land."
DEUTERONOMY XXXIII. 18—29; XXXIV. 1—12.

And [of Zebulun] he said,
Rejoice, Zebulun, in thy going out,—
And [thou] Issachar, in thy tents:
The peoples, <unto the mountain> will they call,
<There> will they offer the sacrifices of righteousness,—
For <the abundance of the seas> will they suck,
Hidden treasures of the sand.

29 And <of Gad> he said:
Blessed be he that hath made room for Gad,—
<As a lioness> hath he laid himself down,
And hath torn an arm, likewise the crown of the head;
And hath provided a first part for himself,
For <there> a commander's portion hath been hid,—
So he cometh with the heads of the people,
<The righteousness of Yahweh> he executeth,
And his regulations, with Israel.

27 And <of Dan> he said,
Dan is a lion's whelp,—
He leapt out of Bashan.

28 And <of Naphtali> he said,
O Naphtali! satisfied with favour,
And full with the blessing of Yahweh,—
<The west and the sunny south> do thou possess.

24 And <of Asher> he said,
Most blessed of sons! be Asher,—
Let him have the goodwill of his brethren,
And let him dip, in oil, his foot:
<Iron and bronze> be thy sandals,
And <as thy days> be thy strength.

30 There is none like God, O Jeshurun,— Riding upon the heavens to thy help,—
And <for his own majesty> on the skies;
<Abode> is the God of aforesome,
And <beneath> are the Arms of the ages,—
So he driveth before thee the foe,
And doth say— Destroy!

Thus hath Israel settled down securely,
< Alone > the fountain of Jacob,
Within a land both of corn and new wine,—
His heaven also dropeth down dew.

29 How happy art thou, O Israel!
Who is like unto thee,
O people victorious in Yahweh?
Thy helpful shield, who also is thy majestic sword,—
So that thy foes come cringing unto thee,
And [thou] <upon their heights> dost march along.

§ 48. Moses views the Land: His Death, Burial, Character, and Successor.

1 So then Moses went up, from the waste plains of Moab, into Mount Nebo, the head of Pisgah, which is over against Jericho,—and Yahweh showed him all the land—even Gilead as far as Dan; and all Naphtali, and the land of Ephraim and Manasseh,—and all the land of Judah, as far as the hinder sea; and the South,—and the circuit of the valley of Jericho, the city of palm trees as far as Zoa. And Yahweh said unto him—
'This is the land which I sware to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, saying,
<Unto thy seed> will I give it.
I have let thee see with thine own eyes,
But <thither> shalt thou not pass o'er.

6 So Moses, the servant of Yahweh, died there, in the land of Moab, at the bidding of Yahweh; and he buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, over against Beth-peor,—but no man hath known his burying-place, until this day.

7 Now Moses was a hundred and twenty years old, when he died,—his eye had not dimmed, nor had his freshness fled.

8 And the sons of Israel bewailed Moses in the waste plains of Moab, thirty days,—then were completed the waiting-days of the mourning for Moses.

9 But Joshua, son of Nun, was full of the spirit of wisdom, for Moses had laid his hands upon him,—so the sons of Israel hearkened unto him, and did' 'as Yahweh commanded Moses).

10 And there arose not a prophet any more in Israel, like unto Moses,— whom Yahweh acknowledged, face to face; by all the signs, and the wonders, which Yahweh sent him to do, in the land of Egypt,—unto Pharaoh, and unto all his servants, and unto all his land; and by all the firm hand, and by all the great terror which Moses wrought in the sight of all Israel.
§ 1. Preparations for Entering Canaan.

1 And it came to pass, after the death of Moses, the servant of Yahweh,—that Yahweh spake unto Joshua son of Nun, the attendant of Moses, saying:

2 "Moses my servant is dead,—
   Now therefore, arise, pass over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, into the land which I am giving unto them,—unto the sons of Israel.

3 <Every place whereon the sole of your foot shall tread shall be yours,> unto you have I given it,— as I spake unto Moses. 4 <From the desert and this Lebanon, even unto the great river,—the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and unto the great sea, toward the going in of the sun, shall be your boundary.>

5 No man shall stand before thee, all the days of thy life,—<as I was with Moses> so I will be with thee, I will not fail thee, neither will I forsake thee.

6 Be firm and bold,—for I will make this people to inherit the land which I swear unto their fathers,—to give unto them.

7 Only be very firm and bold, taking heed to do all the law which Moses my servant commanded thee, do not turn aside from it to the right hand or to the left,—that thou mayest prosper, withithersoever thou goest. 2 This scroll of the law must not cease out of thy mouth, but thou must muse over it day and night, that thou mayest take heed to do all that is written therein,—for [then] shalt thou make thy way prosperous, and [then] shalt thou have good success.

8 Have I not commanded thee? Be firm and bold, start nor be dismayed,— for <with thee> is Yahweh thy God, withithersoever thou goest. 3

9 So then Joshua commanded the officers of the people, saying:

10 Pass ye through the midst of the camp, and command the people, saying:

Make ready for yourselves, provisions,— for <in three days> are ye to pass over this Jordan, to go in and possess the land which Yahweh your God is giving you, to possess.

12 And <unto the Reubenites, and unto the Gadites, and unto the half tribe of Manasseh> spake Joshua, saying:

13 Remember the word which Moses the servant of Yahweh commanded you, saying,— "Yahweh your God is granting you rest, and doth give you this land.

14 <Your wives, your little ones, and your cattle shall remain in the land which Moses hath given you over the Jordan,—but ye shall pass over, armed, before your brethren,—all ye mighty men of valour, and shall help them;> until that Yahweh shall grant rest unto your brethren, as unto you, so shall they also possess the land which Yahweh your God giveth them, 4 then shall ye return unto the land of your possession, and possess it, which Moses the servant of Yahweh hath given you over the Jordan, towards the rising of the sun.

16 Then responded they to Joshua, saying,—
   <All that thou hast commanded us will we do, and withithersoever thou shalt send us will we go;> 17 <As in every thing we hearkened unto Moses> so, will we hearkened unto thee,—only let Yahweh thy God be with thee, as he was with Moses. 4
   <Any man who shall rebel against thy bidding, and not hearkened unto thy words in all that thou shalt command him shall be put to death,—only be firm and bold.>

§ 2. Spies sent to Jericho.

1 Then did Joshua son of Nun, send cut from The Assiotes, two men to spy out silently, saying,— Go view the land, and Jericho.

2 So they came, and entered the house of a harlot, whose name was Rahab, and lay there. 2 And it was told the king of Jericho, saying,—

JOSHUA II. 3-24: III. 1-4.

Lo! men have come in hither, to-night, of the sons of Israel, to search out the land. 3 So the king of Jericho sent unto Rahab, saying,—

Bring forth the men that are come in unto thee, who have entered thy house, for to search out all the land> have they come.

And the woman took the two men, and hid them,—and said:

Even so, the men did come in unto me, but I knew not from whence they were; and it came to pass, as the gate was about to be shut in the darkness> that the men went out, I knew not whither the men went,—pursue them quickly, for ye shall overtake them.

But she had taken them up to the roof,—and concealed them with the stalks of flax> which she had laid in order for herself, upon the roof. So the men pursued them, by way of the Jordan, unto the fords,—the gate being shut as soon as they who pursued them had gone forth. 6 And ere yet they slept> she went up unto them, upon the roof; and said unto the men,

I know that Yahweh hath given> unto you the land,—and that the terror of you hath fallen> upon us, and that all the inhabitants of the land have melted away> from before you.

For we have heard how Yahweh |dried up> the waters of the Red Sea, from before you, when ye came forth out of Egypt,—and what ye did unto the two kings of the Amorites, whom were over the Jordan unto Sihon and unto Og, whom ye devoted to destruction; 11 and when we heard> then did our heart melt, and there rose up no longer any spirit in any man, because of you,—for as for Yahweh your God> he is God—in the heavens above, and upon the earth beneath.

Therefore, I pray you, swear unto me, by Yahweh, <since I have dealt with you in lovingkindness> that ye also will deal with the house of my father, in lovingkindness, and will give me a token of faithfulness: and will save alive my father and my mother, and my brethren, and my sisters, and all that they have,—and will deliver our souls> from death.

And the men said> unto her,

Our souls, in your stead, unto death> if ye> utter not this our business,—so shall it be> when Yahweh shall give> us the land> that we will deal with thee in lovingkindness and in faithfulness.

And she let them down through a cord through the window,—for her house> was within the wall of the rampart, and within the rampart> she was dwelling. 16 And she said unto them—

To the mountain> get you, lest the pursuers fall in> with you,—and hide yourselves there, three days, until the pursuers return, and afterwards shall ye go your way.

And the men said> unto her,—

Free> will we be> from this thine oath' which thou hast made us swear: 18 Lo! when we are coming into the land> <this cord of crimson thread> must thou bind in the window, by which thou didst let us down, and thy father and thy mother, and thy brethren and all the household of thy father> must thou gather together unto thee, unto the house. 19 And it shall be <whosoever shall go forth out of the doors of thy house, into the street> his blood> shall be on his own head, and we shall be free,—but whosoever shall be with thee in the house> his blood> shall be on our heads, if a hand> be upon him.

Or if thou utter this our business> then shall we be free> from this thine oath, which thou hast made us swear.

And she said—

According to your words> I will> shall it be. Thus sent she them away, and they departed,—and she bound the crimson cord in the window. 22 And they went, and came into the mountain, and abode there, three days, until the pursuers had returned,—so the pursuers made search throughout the land, but found them not. 23 And the two men returned> and came down out of the mountain, and crossed over> and came unto Joshua, son of Nun,—and recounted to him all that had befallen them; and they said unto Joshua, Yahweh> hath delivered> into our hand, all the land,—moreover also> all the inhabitants of the land> have melted away> from before us.

§ 3. The Crossing of the Jordan.

So then Joshua rose early in the morning, and they brake up from The Acacias, and came as far as the Jordan, the and all the sons of Israel>—and they lodged there, before they passed over. 2 And it came to pass <after three days> that the officers went through the midst of the camp, and commanded the people, saying,

When ye see the ark of the covenant of Yahweh your God, and the priests of the Levites> bearing it, ye also shall break up> out of your places, and come after it. Yet shall there be [a distance] between you and it, about two thousand cubits by measure,—do not come near unto it, that ye may get to know the way by which ye must pass over.
Then said Joshua unto the people,

Hallow yourselves,—for <to-morrow> will Yahweh do in your midst, wonderful things.

And Joshua spake unto the priests, saying,
Take ye up the ark of the covenant, and pass on before the people.

So they took up the ark of the covenant, and went on before the people.

Then said Yahweh unto Joshua:

<This day> will I begin to magnify thee in the eyes of all Israel,—who shall know, that <as I was with Moses> I will be with thee.

Thou therefore, shalt command the priests, who are bearing the ark of the covenant, saying,—

<When ye are come as far as the edge of the waters of the Jordan> <in the Jordan> shall ye stand.

Then said Joshua, unto the sons of Israel,—

Draw near hither, and hear ye the words of Yahweh your God.

And Joshua said,

Hereby shall ye know, that a Living God is in your midst,—and that he will certainly dispossess: from before you, the Canaanite and the Hittite, and the Hivite and the Perizzite, and the Girgasite, and the Amorite, and the Jebusite.

Lo! the ark of the covenant of the Lord of all the earth, is about to pass before you into the Jordan.

Now therefore, take you twelve men, out of the tribes of Israel,—one man severally for each tribe; and it shall be, <when the soles of the feet of the priests who are bearing the ark of Yahweh, Lord of all the earth, do rest> in the waters of the Jordan,—the waters of the Jordan shall be cut off, the waters that are coming down from above;—and shall stand in one mound.

And it came to pass, <when the people set out from their tents, to cross the Jordan,—with the priests, bearing the ark of the covenant before the people> then <as the bearers of the ark came as far as the Jordan, and <the feet of the priests who were bearing the ark>, were dipped in the edge of the waters,—> the Jordan being full over all his banks, all the days of harvest;> that the waters which were coming down from above, stood,—rose up in one mound, a great way off, by the city Adam, which is beside Zarethan, and they which were going down to the sea of the waste plain, the salt sea;—were cut off,—and <the people> passed over, right against Jericho. And the priests who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, stood on dry ground, in the midst of the Jordan, with firm footing,—while all Israel were passing over on dry ground, until all the nation had made an end of passing over the Jordan.

And it came to pass, <when all the nation had made an end of passing over the Jordan>, that Yahweh spake unto Joshua, saying:

Take unto you, from among the people, twelve men, one man severally from each tribe; and command ye them, saying,

Take you up hence, out of the midst of the Jordan, from the place where stood the feet of the priests with firm footing, twelve stones,—and carry them over with you, and lay them down in the lodging-place where ye shall lodge, to-night.

So Joshua called unto the twelve men whom he had made ready, from among the sons of Israel,—one man severally out of each tribe; and Joshua said unto them:

Pass ye over, before the ark of Yahweh your God, into the midst of the Jordan,—and lift ye up, each man one stone upon his shoulder, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Israel: that this may be a sign in your midst,—for your sons will ask in time to come, saying,

What mean these stones to you?

Then shall ye say unto them—

That the waters of the Jordan were cut off from before the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, <when it passed into the Jordan> the waters of the Jordan were cut off.

So shall these stones become a memorial unto the sons of Israel, unto times age-abiding.

And the sons of Israel did so, as Joshua commanded, and took up twelve stones out of the midst of the Jordan, as spake Yahweh unto Joshua, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Israel,—and carried them with them unto the place where they lodged, and laid them down there. <Twelve stones also> did Joshua set up in the midst of the Jordan, in the place where stood the feet of the priests who were bearing the ark of the covenant,—and they have remained there until this day.

Now the priests who were bearing the ark continued standing in the midst of the Jordan, until everything was finished which Yahweh commanded Joshua, to speak unto the people, according to all that Moses commanded Joshua,—the people therefore hasted, and passed over. And so it was, <as soon as all the people had made an end of passing over>,—then passed over the ark of Yahweh, and the priests, in presence of the people.

Also the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh, passed over... joseph armad; before the sons of israel, as moses had spoken unto them: about forty thousand, equipped for the war; passed over before yahweh, to battle, into the waste plains of jericho.

14 <on that day> did yahweh magnify joshua in the eyes of all israel, and they revered him, as they revered moses, all the days of his life.

15 then spake yahweh unto joshua, saying:

command the priests who are bearing the ark of testimony, that they come up out of the jordan.

16 so joshua commanded the priests, saying,

"come ye up out of the jordan.

and it came to pass when the priests who were bearing the ark of the covenant of yahweh came up out of the midst of the jordan, and the soles of the feet of the priests were withdrawn unto the dry ground, then returned the waters of the jordan unto their place, and went, as before, over all his banks.

19 so the people came up out of the jordan, on the tenth of the first month, and encamped in gilgal, at the eastern end of jericho.

20 and these twelve stones which they took out of the jordan did joshua set up in gilgal.

21 then spake he unto the sons of israel, saying,

"when your sons shall ask, in time to come, of their fathers, saying, 'what mean these stones?'

then shall ye let your sons know, saying, '<on dry ground> came israel over this jordan; in that yahweh your god dried up the waters of the jordan, from before you, until ye had passed over, as yahweh your god had done unto the red sea, which he dried up from before us, until we had passed over: for all the peoples of the earth might know the hand of yahweh, that <firm> it is; that they might revere yahweh your god, all the days.

5 and it came to pass when all the kings of the amorites who were over the jordan westward, and all the kings of the canaanites who were by the sea, heard how that yahweh had dried up the waters of the jordan, from before the sons of israel, until they had passed over, that their heart melted, and there was no spirit in them any more, because of the sons of israel.

5. the prince of yahweh's host appears to joshua.

7 <at that time> said yahweh unto joshua,

"make thee knives of flint, and again circumcise the sons of israel a second time.

so joshua made him knives of flint, and circumcised the sons of israel, at the hill of foreskins.

now this is the cause why joshua did circumcise, — all the people who came forth out of egypt, who were males, all the men of war died in the desert, by the way, after they came forth out of egypt. for though all the people who came forth had been circumcised yet all the people who were born in the desert by the way, after they came forth out of egypt, had they not circumcised.

4 because <for forty years> did the sons of israel journey in the desert, until all the nation who were men of war, who came forth out of egypt, were consumed, because they hearkened not unto the voice of yahweh, unto whom yahweh aware that he would not let them see the land, which yahweh aware unto their fathers, that he would give unto us, a land flowing with milk and honey.

7 <their sons, therefore, whom he had raised up in their stead> did joshua circumcise, for uncircumcised they were, in that they had not circumcised them by the way.

8 and so it came to pass, when they had made an end of circumcising all the nation, they remained in their place, in the camp, until they were healed.

9 then said yahweh unto joshua,

"to-day have i rolled away the reproach of egypt from off you.

wherefore the name of that place is called gilgal [i.e. a rolling away] unto this day.

10 thus then the sons of israel encamped in gilgal, and kept the passover on the fourteenth day of the month, in the evening, in the waste plains of jericho.

11 and they did eat of the corn of the land, on the morrow of the passover, unleavened cakes and parched ears of corn, on this selfsame day.

12 and the manna ceased on the morrow, when they had eaten of the corn of the land, neither had the sons of israel manna any more, — so they did eat of the yield of the land of canaan throughout that year.

§ 5. the prince of yahweh's host appears to joshua.

13 and it came to pass while joshua was at jericho> that he lifted up his eyes, and looked, and lo! a man, standing over against him, with his sword drawn, in his hand, — so joshua went unto him, and said to him,

"for us art thou, or for our adversaries?"

14 and he said—

"nay, but i am prince of the host of yahweh> have i come.

so joshua fell on his face to the earth, and worshipped, and said unto him, what is my lord speaking unto his servant?

9 how impressive this circumstantial account of the ceasing of the manna!
Then said the prince of the host of Yahweh unto Joshua—Slip off thy sandals from thy feet, for as far as the place whereon thou art standing; <holy> it is.*
And Joshua did so.

§ 6. Jericho Shut up and Barred because of the Sons of Israel.—None came out and none went in.
Then said Yahweh unto Joshua,
See, I have delivered, into thy hand, Jericho, and her king,—the mighty men of valour.
So then ye shall compass the city, all ye men of war, going round the city, once,—thus shalt thou do, six days.
And seven priests shall bear the seven rams' horns, before the ark, and on the seventh day shall ye compass the city, seven times,—and the priests shall blow with the horns.<sup>2</sup>
And it shall come to pass, when the ram's horn soundeth, when ye hear the sound of the horn, that all the people shall shout with a great shout,—and then shall the wall of the city fall down under it,<sup>3</sup> and the people shall go up, every man straight before him.

Then called Joshua son of Nun unto the priests, and said unto them, Bear ye the ark of the covenant,—and let seven priests bear seven rams' horns, before the ark of Yahweh.
Then said he unto the people,
Pass on, and compass the city,—and let the armed host pass on before the ark of Yahweh.
And it was so, when Joshua had spoken unto the people that the seven priests who were bearing the seven rams' horns before Yahweh passed on, and blew with the horns,—the ark of the covenant of Yahweh also coming after them.<sup>4</sup> And the armed host went on before the priests who blew with the horns,—and the rear-guard came after the ark, going on and blowing with the horns.<sup>5</sup>
Now unto the people had Joshua given command, saying—
Ye shall not shout, nor let your voice be heard, neither shall there go out of your mouth a word,—until the day when I say unto you Shout! then shall ye shout.

So he caused the ark of Yahweh to compass the city, going round once,—and they came into the camp, and lodged in the camp.

And Joshua rose early in the morning,—and the priests bare the ark of Yahweh; and the seven priests who bare the seven rams' horns before the ark of Yahweh went on and on, and blew with the horns,—with the armed host going on before them, and the rear-guard coming after the ark of Yahweh, going on and blowing with the horns. So they compassed the city on the second day once, and returned into the camp,—thus did they, six days.

And it came to pass on the seventh day that they rose early, at the uprisings of the dawn, and compassed the city after this manner, seven times,—only, on that day, they compassed the city seven times. And it came to pass at the seventh time,—when the priests blew with the horns then did Joshua say unto the people—
Shout, for Yahweh hath delivered unto you the city.
And it shall be, that as for the city, devoted shall it be and all that is therein, unto Yahweh,—nevertheless, Rahab the harlot shall live, she, and all who are with her in the house; because she hid the messengers whom we sent.
But in any wise do ye [ hesitate] of what is devoted, lest ye should covet; and then take of what is devoted,—and so cause the camp of Israel to be devoted, and bring trouble upon it. But as for all silver and gold and vessels of bronze and iron, hallowed it is unto Yahweh,—unto the treasury of Yahweh shall it come.

So the people shouted, when the horns were blown,—yes it came to pass when the people heard the sound of the horn,—that the people shouted with a great shout, and the wall fell down under it, and the people went up into the city, every man straight before him, and so they captured the city. And they devoted all that were in the city,—both man and woman, both young and old,—and ox and sheep and ass, with the edge of the sword.<sup>2</sup> But unto the two men who spied out the land Joshua said, Go into the house of the woman, the harlot,—and bring out thence the woman, and all that she hath, as ye saw her unto her.
So the young men, the spies, went in, and brought out Rahab and her father and her mother and her brethren, and all that she had, yes all her kindred brought they out,—and set them outside the camp of Israel. But the city burned they with fire, and all that was therein,—save only the silver and the gold, and the vessels of bronze and iron put they into the treasury of the house of Yahweh. And Rahab the harlot, and the household of her father, and all that she had did Joshua save alive, so she sate dwelt in the midst of Israel' until this day,—because she hid the messengers' whom Joshua sent to spy out Jericho.

26 And Joshua imposed an oath, at that time, saying,— Cursed be the man before Yahweh, who shall raise up and build this city—Jericho,

<At the price of his firstborn> shall he lay its foundation,

And <at the price of his youngest> shall he set up its doors.

27 And so it was, that Yahweh was with Joshua,—and his fame was in all the land.

1 But the sons of Israel had committed an act of unfaithfulness, in respect of what was devoted.—for Achan, son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, had taken of what was devoted, and the anger of Yahweh had kindled against the sons of Israel.

2 And Joshua sent men from Jericho, to Ai, which was beside Beth-aven, on the east side of Bethel, and spake unto them saying,

Go up and spy out the land.

So the men went up, and spied out Ai. 3 And they returned unto Joshua, and said unto him—

Let not all the people go up, [about two thousand men or three thousand men] can go up, and smite Ai,—do not weary the whole people to go thither, for <but few> they are.

4 There went up thither of the people, therefore, about three thousand men,—but they fled before the men of Ai. 5 And the men of Ai smote of them, about thirty-six men, and pursued them before the gate, as far as the Shebarim, and smote them on the slope,—so that the heart of the people melted, and became as water.

6 Then Joshua rent his clothes, and fell upon his face to the earth, before the ark of Yahweh, until the evening, ||he, and the elders of Israel,||—and they lifted up dust upon their heads. 7 And Joshua said—

Alas! My Lord Yahweh!

Wherefore hast thou [brought] this people over the Jordan, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorite, to destroy us?

Would, then, we had been content to dwell on the other side of the Jordan?

8 Oh, My Lord,—what shall I say, after Israel have turned their backs before their enemies?

<Only let the Canaanite and all the inhabitants of the land hear> and they will surround us, and cut off our name out of the earth,—what then will thou do, for thy great name?

10 And Yahweh said unto Joshua—

Get thee up! wherefore is it that thou art lying upon thy face! 11 Israel hath sinned, yea moreover they have transgressed my covenant which I commanded them,—yea moreover they have taken of what was devoted, yea moreover they have stolen, yea moreover they have dissembled, yea moreover* they have put it among their own goods. 12 Therefore cannot the sons of Israel stand before their enemies, <their back> do they turn before their enemies, because they have become devoted,—I will no more be with you, except ye destroy the devoted thing out of your midst.

13 Up! hallow the people, and thou shalt say,

Hallow yourselves by to-morrow,—for

||Thus|| saith Yahweh,

God of Israel:

||A devoted thing|| is in the midst of thee,

O Israel,

Thou canst not stand before thine enemies, until ye have put away the devoted thing, out of your midst.

14 Therefore shall ye be brought near, in the morning, by your tribes,—and it shall be that—

||The tribe which Yahweh shall seize|| shall come near ||by families||, and

||The family which Yahweh shall seize|| shall come near ||by households||, and

||The household which Yahweh shall seize|| shall come near ||man by man||; and it shall be, that—

||He that is seized with the devoted thing|| shall be burned with fire, ||he, and all that he hath||,— because he hath transgressed the covenant of Yahweh, and because he hath wrought impiety in Israel.

15 So Joshua rose up early in the morning, and brought Israel near by their tribes,—and ||the tribe of Judah|| was seized; 17 and he brought near the family 16 of Judah, and ||the family of the Zarthites|| was seized,—and he brought near the family of the Zarthites [man by man] 1 and [Zabdi] was seized; 18 and he brought near his household, [man by man],—and ||Achan, son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah|| was seized. 19 And Joshua said unto Achan—

My son, give, I pray thee, glory unto Yahweh,

God of Israel, and make to him confession,— and tell me, I pray thee, what thou hast done, do not hide it from me.

20 And Achan answered Joshua, and said,—

<Of a truth> ||I have sinned against Yahweh,

God of Israel, and <thus and thence> have I done:

21 <When I saw among the spoil, a certain goodly mantle of Babylon, and two hundred shekels of silver, and a certain wedge of gold—fifty shekels the weight thereof—then I covered them, then I took them,—and there they are—hid in the earth, in the midst of my tent, and the silver under it. 22 So Joshua sent messengers, and they ran unto the tent,—and there it was—hid in his tent, and the silver—under it. 23 And they took them out of the midst of the tent, and brought them in unto Joshua, and unto all the sons of Israel, —and poured them out before Yahweh. 24 And Joshua, and all Israel with him, took Achan—son of Zerah, and the silver and the mantle and the wedge of gold, and his sons and his daughters, and his oxen and his asses and his sheep and his tent, and all that he had, and brought them up the valley of Achor. 25 And Joshua said—Why hast thou troubled us? Yahweh will trouble thee this day. And all Israel stoned him with stones, and burned them up with fire, and covered them with stones; 26 ye shall see what a great heap of stones [which remaineth] until this day. And Yahweh turned from the fierceness of his anger,—<for which cause> hath the name of that place been called—The Valley of Achor, until this day.

§ 8. Ai Captured.

1 Then said Yahweh unto Joshua—Do not fear nor be dismayed, take w h thee all the army,—and arise, go up to Ai,—see! I have given into thy hand, the king of Ai and his people, and his city, and his land; so shalt thou do unto Ai and to her king, as thou didst unto Jericho and unto her king, save only—the spoil thereof and the cattle thereof—shall ye take as your own prey,—set thee an ambush for the city, behind it.

2 So Joshua arose, and all the people of war, to go up to Ai,—and Joshua chose out thirty thousand men, the mighty men of valour, and sent them forth by night. 4 And he commanded them, saying—

See! ye shall be lying in ambush against the city, behind the city, do not go very far from the city,—so shall ye all be ready. But I, and all the people who are with me, will draw near unto the city,—and it shall be—when they come out to meet us, as at the first—then will we flee before them; and will they come out after us, until we have drawn them away from the city, for they will say, Fleeing before us, as at the first! therefore will we flee before them. 7 Then ye shall rise up out of the ambush, and take possession of the city,—and Yahweh your God will deliver it into your hand.

8 And it shall be—when ye have seized the city—then shall ye burn the city with fire, <according to the word of Yahweh> shall ye do,—see! I have commanded you. 9 So Joshua sent them forth, and they went into ambush, and abode between Bethel and Ai, on the west of Ai, —but Joshua lodged that night in the midst of the people. 10 And Joshua rose early in the morning, and mustered the people,—and went up—the elders of Israel—before the people, to Ai. And all the people of war who were with him—went up, and drew near, and came in, right before the city,—and pitched on the north of Ai, with a valley—between them and Ai. 12 And he took about five thousand men,—and set them in ambush between Bethel and Ai, on the west of the city. 12 And <when the people had set all the host that was on the north of the city, with the rear thereof on the west of the city>—then went Joshua, during the night, into the midst of the valley. 14 And it came to pass—when the king of Ai—saw it—that they hasted, and rose up early, and the men of the city came out to meet Israel for battle, and all his people at an appointed time, before the waste plain,—he not knowing; that there was an ambush lying in wait for him, behind the city. 14 Then Joshua and all Israel suffered themselves to be smitten before them,—and fled, by the way of the wilderness; and all the people who were in the city were called out to pursue them,—and they pursued Joshua, and so were drawn out away from the city. 17 And there remained not a man, in Ai or Bethel, who had not gone out after Israel,—and they left the city [open], and pursued Israel. 18 Then said Yahweh unto Joshua—Stretch out with the javelin which is in thy hand, towards Ai, for into thy hand will I deliver it. So Joshua stretched out with the javelin which was in his hand, towards the city. 19 And the ambush rose up quickly, out of their place, and ran, when he stretched out his hand, and entered the city, and captured it,—and hasted, and set the city on fire. And the men of Ai turned behind them, and looked, and lo! the smoke of the city had risen up towards the heavens, and there was in them no strength, to flee this way or that way,—moreover the people that were fleeing to the wilderness turned back upon the pursuers. 21 Yes—when Joshua and all Israel—saw that the ambush had captured the city, and that the smoke of the city had risen up to then returned they, and smote the men of Ai. And the others came forth out of the city to meet them, so they were in the midst of Israel, some on this side, and some on that side, and they smote them, until there was left them none to remain or to escape. And the king of A'ï they caught alive, and brought him near unto Joshua. And it came to pass, when Israel had made an end of slaying all the inhabitants of A'ï in the field, in the wilderness whither they had pursued them, and all of them had fallen by the edge of the sword until they were consumed, then all Israel returned to Aï, and smote it with the edge of the sword. And so it was, that all who fell that day, both of men and of women, were twelve thousand, -[all people of Aï].

Now [Joshua] drew not back his hand [which he had stretched out with the javelin], until he had utterly destroyed all the inhabitants of A'ï. Nevertheless, [the cattle and the spoil of that city] Israel took as their own prey, -[according to the word of Yahweh, which he commanded Joshua]. So then Joshua burned Aï, and made of it an age-abiding heap, -[a desolation], [as it remained] until this day. And [the king of Aï] hanged he on the tree until eventide, but at the going in of the sun, Joshua gave command and they took down his dead body from the tree, and cast it in at the opening of the gate of the city, and raised up over it a great heap of stones, [which remained] until this day.

§ 9. The Blessings and Curses of the Law, written on Altar-Stones, Read aloud, and Confirmed by all the People.

Then built Joshua, an altar, unto Yahweh, God of Israel, -[in Mount Ebal]; as Moses, the servant of Yahweh, commanded the sons of Israel, as it is written in the scroll of the law of Moses, an altar of whole stones, wherein had not been wielded any tool of iron, -and they caused to go up thereon, ascending sacrifices unto Yahweh, and sacrificed peace-offerings. Then wrote he there, upon the stones, a copy of the law of Moses, which he wrote, in the presence of the sons of Israel. And [all Israel, and their elders and officers, and their judges] were standing on this side and on that side of the ark, before the priests the Levites, who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, as well the sojourner as the home-born, half of them over against Mount Gerizim, and half of them over against Mount Ebal, as Moses the servant of Yahweh commanded to bless the sons of Israel, first of all. And after that read he all the words of the law, the blessing and the cursing, -according to all that was written in the scroll of the law. There was not a word of all that Moses commanded, -which Joshua read not before all the convocation of Israel, with the women and the little ones, and the sojourner who was going on in their midst.

§ 10. The Gibeonites by Craft secure a Covenant with Israel.

And it came to pass, when they heard, -namely, all the kings who were over the Jordan, in the hill country and in the lowland, and in all the coast of the great sea, over against the Lebanon, -the Hittite, and the Amorite, the Canaanite, the Perizzite, -the Hivite, and the Jebusite; -then gathered they themselves together as one man, to fight with Joshua, and with Israel, -[with one accord].

Now [the inhabitants of Gibeon] heard that which Joshua had done unto Jericho and unto A'ï; -they, however, acted craftily, and went and started, -and took old sacks for their asses, and leathern wine bottles, old, and rent, and bound up; and sandals, old and patched, upon their feet, and worn-out mantles upon them, -and [all the bread of their provision] was dry and broken. So they took their journey unto Joshua, unto the camp, at Gilgal, -and said unto him, and unto the men of Israel, -From a far country are we come, -[Now] therefore, solemnise with us a covenant. And the men of Israel said unto the Hivites, -Peraadventure, -[in our midst] ye are dwelling, how then can we solemnise with you a covenant?

And they said unto Joshua: -[Thy servants] we are. And Joshua said unto them: -[Who] are ye? And [from whence] come ye?

And they said unto him:
-From a very far country have thy servants come, because of the name of Yahweh thy God, -because we had heard his fame, and all that he had done in Egypt; and all that he had done unto the two kings of the Amorites who were over the Jordan, -unto Sihon, king of Heshbon, and unto Og, king of Bashan, who was in Ashtaroth. So our elders and all the inhabitants of our land spake unto us, saying:
Take ye, in your hand, provision for the journey, and go your way to meet them, -then shall ye say unto them, -[Your servants] we are. -[Now] therefore, solemnise with us a covenant.

-This our bread, took we [hot] for our provision, out of our houses, on the day we came forth to journey unto you, -but § 11. The Conquests of Joshua described and summed up.

1 And it came to pass <when Adonizedec, king of Jerusalem, heard> that Joshua had captured Ai, and devoted it to destruction, <as he had done unto Jericho and her king> [so had he done unto Ai and her king,—and that the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace with Israel and had come into their midst> 2 then feared they greatly, because Gibeon was a great city, as one of the royal cities,—and because it was greater than Ai, and all the men thereof were mighty; 3 therefore sent Adonizedec, king of Jerusalem, unto Ho-ham, king of Hebron, and unto Piram, king of Jarmuth, and unto Japhia, king of Lachish, and unto Debir, king of Eglon, saying: 4 Come up unto me and help me, that we may smite Gibeon,—for it hath made peace with Joshua, and with the sons of Israel. 5 So they gathered themselves together and came up, even the five kings of the Amorites—the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon,—[they, and all their hosts],—and encamped near Gibeon, and made war against it. 6 So the men of Gibeon sent unto Joshua, unto the camp at Gilgal, saying, Do not withhold thy hand* from thy servants,—Come up unto us quickly, and save us, and help us, for all the kings of the Amorites that dwell in the hill-country, are gathered together against us. 7 So Joshua went up from Gilgal, [the and all the people of war with him, even all the mighty men of valor]. 8 And Yahweh said unto Joshua: Do not fear because of them, 4 for <into thy hand> 6 have I delivered them,—not a man of them shall stand before thee. 9 Then Joshua came in unto them, suddenly,—<all the night> came he up from Gilgal. 10 And Yahweh confused them before Israel, and smote them with a great slaughter at Beth-horon, and smote them as far as Azekah and as far as Makkedah. 11 And it came to pass, when they fled from before Israel, [they being on the slope of Beth-horon, that [Yahweh] cast down upon them great stones out of the heavens, as far as Asekah, and they died,— <more> were they who died by the hailstones, than they whom the sons of Israel slew with the sword.

22 Then spoke Joshua unto Yahweh, on the day when Yahweh delivered up the Amorites before the sons of Israel,—yes he said, in the presence of Israel—
Thou Sun! <in Gibbon> be still,
And thou Moon! in the vale of Aijalon.
So the sun was still and [the moon] stayed, until a nation should be avenged on its fees. Is not [that] written in the Book of the Upright? So then the sun stayed in the middle of the heavens, and hastened not to go in, about a whole day.
And there was no day like that—before it or after it, when Yahweh hearkened unto the voice of a man,—in that [Joshua] himself fought for Israel.
So Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp at Gilgal.

10 So these five kings fled,—and hid themselves in a cave, at Makkedah. And it was told Joshua, saying,—
The five kings are found, hid in a cave at Makkedah.

15 And Joshua said,
Roll ye great stones against the mouth of the cave, and set over it men, to watch them; out do not [let] stay, chase after your enemies, so shall ye attack them in the rear,—do not suffer them to enter into their cities, for Yahweh your God hath delivered them into your hand.
And it came to pass when Joshua and the sons of Israel had made an end of smiting them with a very great slaughter, until they were spent,—then did [the remainder that were left of them] enter into the fortified cities.
And all the people returned unto the camp, unto Joshua at Makkedah, in peace,—none sharpened his tongue at any man of the sons of Israel.
Then said Joshua,
Open ye the mouth of the cave,—and bring out unto me, these five kings, out of the cave.
And they did so, and brought out unto him, these five kings, out of the cave,—namely,
the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon.
And it came to pass when they brought out these kings unto Joshua that Joshua called for all the men of Israel, and said unto the captains of the men of war who had been with him,

Come, near, put your feet upon the necks of these kings.
So they came near, and put their feet upon the necks of them.
Then said Joshua unto them:
Do not fear, nor be alarmed,—be firm and bold, for <thus and thus> will Yahweh do unto all your enemies, against whom ye' do fight.

26 And Joshua smote them after this, and put them to death, and hanged them upon five trees,—and they remained hung on the trees, until the evening.
And it came to pass <at the time of the going in of the sun> that Joshua gave command, and they took them down off the trees, and cast them into the cave, where they had hid themselves,—and put great stones upon the mouth of the cave, [which remain] until this very day.

28 And Joshua captured [Makkedah] on that day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and <the king thereof> devoted he to destruction,
them and all the souls that were therein,
(but) left no survivor,—but did unto the king of Makkedah, as he had done unto the king of Jericho.

29 And Joshua passed over, and all Israel with him, from Makkedah unto Libnah,—and fought against Libnah; 29 and Yahweh delivered [it also] into the hand of Israel, with the king thereof, and he smote it with the edge of the sword, with all the souls that were therein, he left therein no survivor,—but did unto the king of Libnah
as he had done unto the king of Jericho.

And Joshua passed over, and all Israel with him, from Libnah unto Lachish,—and encamped against it, and fought against it; 28 and Yahweh delivered Lachish into the hand of Israel, and he captured it on the second day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, with all the souls that were therein,—according to all that he had done unto Libnah.

31 And Joshua passed over, and all Israel with him, from Lachish unto Eglon,—and they encamped against it, and fought against it;
and captured it on the same day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and <all the souls that were therein, on that day> devoted him to destruction,—according to all that he had done to Lachish.

And Joshua went up, and all Israel with him, from Eglon unto Hebron,—and they fought against it; 27 and captured it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof, with all the souls that were therein—he left not a survivor, according to all that he had done to Eglion,—he devoted it to destruction, and all the souls that were therein.

Then Joshua turned back, and all Israel with him, unto Debir,—and fought against it; and captured it, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof, and smote them with the edge of the sword, and devoted to destruction every soul that was therein, he left not a survivor,—<as he had done unto Hebron>||iso|| did he unto Debir, and unto the king thereof, as also he had done unto Libnah, and unto her king.

So Joshua smote all the land—the hill country, and the south, and the lowland, and the slopes, and all their kings, he left not a survivor, but <every breathing thing> devoted he to destruction, as Yahweh, God of Israel, had commanded’. 44 Yea Joshua smote them, from Kadesh-barnes, even as far as Gaza,—and all the land of Gothen, even as far as Gibeon.

Yea <all these kings and their land> did Joshua capture at one time,—because ||Yahweh, God of Israel|| fought for Israel.*

And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp at Gilgal.

11 And it came to pass <when Jabin king of Hazor heard> that he sent unto Jobah king of Madon, and unto the king of Shimron, and unto the king of Achshaph; 2 and unto the kings who were on the north in the hill country and in the waste plain south of Chinneroth, and in the lowland,—and in the heights of Dor, on the west: 3 the Canaanite on the east and on the west, and the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite and the Jebusite, in the hill country,—and the Hivite, under Hormon, in the land of Mirzap; 4 and they came out—'they, and all their hosts with them, much people, like the sand that is upon the seashore for multitude,—with horses and chariots very many'. 5 And <when all these kings were gathered together> they came in, and encamped as one man, at the waters of Merom> to fight with Israel. 6 Then said Yahweh unto Joshua—

Do not fear because of them, for <to-morrow>, about this time> am I going to deliver up all of them, slain, before Israel,—<their horses> shalt thou ham-string, and <their chariots> shalt thou burn up with fire.

So Joshua, and all the army* with him, came in upon them, by the waters of Merom, suddenly, and fell upon them. 8 And Yahweh delivered them up into the hand of Israel, and they smote them, and chased them as far as great Zidon, and as far as Misrehphoth-maim,—and as far as the valley of Mizpeh, eastward,—<and> they smote them until they left them not a survivor. 9 And Joshua did turn unto them, as Yahweh had said unto him,—<their horses> he ham-strung, and <their chariots> burned he up with fire.

Then Joshua turned back, at that time, and captured Hazor, and <the king thereof> smote he with the sword,—for ||Hazor, aforetime|| was the head of* all these kingdoms. 11 And they smote all the souls that were therein, with the edge of the sword, devoting them to destruction, there was left no breathing thing,—and <Hazor> burned he up with fire. 12 And <all the cities of these kings, and all the kings thereof> did Joshua capture, and he smote them with the edge of the sword, devoting them to destruction,—as Moses, the servant of Yahweh, commanded.

Yet <none of the cities that were still standing upon their mound> did Israel burn <none but Hazor alone> did Joshua burn. 14 But <all the spoil of these cities, and the cattle> did the sons of Israel take as their prey,—nevertheless’ <all the human beings> smote they with the edge of the sword, until they had destroyed them’, they left remaining no breathing thing.

So Joshua took all this land—the hill country, and all the south, and all the land of Gothen, and the lowland, and the waste plain,—and the hill country of Israel, and the lowland thereof: 17 from Mount Halak, that goeth up to Seir, even as far as Baal-gad, in the valley of the Lebanon, under Mount Hermon,—<and all their kings> he captured, and smote them, and put them to death. 18 <Many days> did Joshua <with all these kings> make war.

There was not a city that made peace with the people of Israel, save the Hivite, dwelling in Gibeon,—the whole took they in battle. 20 For <from Yahweh> came it to pass, that their heart was emboldened 4 to come out to war with Israel, that he might devote them to destruction, that they might find no favour,—but that he might destroy them,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

And Joshua came in, at that time, and cut off the Anakim from the hill country—from Hebron, from Debir, from Anah, and from all the hill country of Judah, and from all the hill country of Israel,—<with their cities> did Joshua devote them to destruction. 22 There was left remaining none of the Anakim, in the land of the sons of Israel,—save only <in Gaza>, in Gath, and in Ashdod > did some remain.

So Joshua took the whole land, according to all that Yahweh had spoken unto Moses, and Joshua gave it for an inheritance unto Israel, according to their portions* by their tribes,—and ||the land|| had rest from war.

JOSHUA XII. 1—24; XIII. 1—12.

19 Now these are the kings of the land, whom the sons of Israel had smitten, and of whose land they had taken possession, over the Jordan, towards the rising of the sun,—from the ravine of Arnon as far as Mount Hermon, and all the waste plain, on the east: 2 Sihon, king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon,—ruling from Arroer, which is on the edge of the ravine of Arnon, and the middle of the ravine, and half Gilead, even as far as the ravine Jabok, the boundary of the sons of Ammon; 3 and the waste plain as far as the sea of Chinneroth, on the east, even as far as the sea of the waste plain, the salt sea, on the east, the way to Beth-jeshimoth,—and, on the south, under the slopes of Pisgah; 4 and the boundary of Og, king of Bashan, of the remnant of the giants,—him who dwelt in Ashtaroth and in Edrei; 5 ruling also in Mount Hermon, and in Salcah, and in all Bashan, as far as the boundary of the Geshurites, and the Maacathites,—and half Gilead, the boundary of Sihon king of Heshbon:—6 [Moses the servant of Yahweh, and the sons of Israel] had smitten them,—and Moses the servant of Yahweh, had given it, as a possession, unto the Reubenites, and unto the Gadites, and unto the half tribe of Manasseh.

§ 12. The Apportioning of the Land.

1 Now [Joshua] was old, advanced in days,—

2 [Thou] art old, advanced in days, and much the larger part of the land] remaineth to be possessed.

3 [This] is the land that remaineth,—all the regions of the Philistines, and all the Geshuri; 4 from the Shihor which faceth Egypt, even as far as the boundary of Ekron, northward, <to the Canaanites> is it counted,—five princes of Philistines—

4 The Gazites, and the Ashdodites, the Ashkelonites, the Zitites, and the Ekronites, also the Avvim 5 on the south:— 6 all the land of the Canaanites, and E Gerah which belongeth to the Zidonians, as far as Aphik,—as far as the boundary of the Amorites; 8 and the land of the Geshurites, and all the Lebanon, to the rising of the sun, from Baal-gad, under Mount Hermon,—as far as the entering in of Hamath: 9 <all the inhabitants of the hill country,> from the Lebanon as far as Misrephoth-maim—

10 all the Zidonians, [I myself] will dispossess them from before the sons of Israel,—nevertheless, assign thou it by lot unto Israel, for an inheritance, as I have commanded thee.

11 Therefore, therefore, apportion this land as an inheritance, unto the nine tribes,—and the half tribe of Manasseh. 12

13 [With them] the Reubenites and the Gadites received their inheritance,—which Moses gave them beyond the Jordan, eastward, as Moses the servant of Yahweh gave unto them: 9 from Arroer, which is on the edge of the ravine of Arnon, and the city, which is in the midst of the ravine, and all the table-land of Medeba, as far as Dibon; 10 and all the cities of Sihon, king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon,—as far as the boundary of the sons of Ammon; 11 and Gilead, and the boundary of the Geshurites and the Maacathites, and all Mount Hermon, and all Bashan, as far as Salcah:—12 all the kingdom of Og, in Bashan, who reigned in Ashtaroth, and in Edrei,—<[he] being left of the remnant of the giants]; and Moses smote them and dispossessed them; 12 the sons of Israel, however, did not dispossess the Geshurites, or the Maacathites,—but Geshur and Maacath have remained in the midst of Israel, until this day.

13 Howbeit <unto the tribe of Levi> gave he no inheritance,—<the altar-place of Yahweh God of Israel> are his inheritance, as he spake unto him.

14 Thus then Moses gave [an inheritance] unto the tribe of the sons of Reuben, by their families; 15 and their boundary was from Arar, that is on the edge of the ravine of Arnon, and the city which is in the midst of the ravine, and all the table-land by a Medeba; 17 Heshbon and all her cities, which are on the table-land,—Dibon, and Bamoth-baal, and Beth-baal-meeon; 18 and Jahaz, and Kedemoth, and Mephaath;

19 and Kiriataim and Sibmah, and Zareath-shahar b on the mount of the vale; 20 and Beth-peor, and the slopes of Pisgah, and Beth-joeshima; 21 and all the cities of the table-land, and all the kingdom of Sihon, king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon,—whom Moses smote—with the princes of Midian, Evi and Rekem and Zir and Hur and Reba, the five kings of Sihon dwelling in the land: 22 <Balaam also son of Beor, the diviner> did the sons of Israel slay with the sword, unto avenge their slain. 23 And so the boundary of the sons of Reuben was the Jordan and district. 24 This is the inheritance of the sons of Reuben, by their families, the cities and the villages thereof.

25 And Moses gave [an inheritance] unto the tribe of Gad, unto the sons of Gad, by their families; 26 and their boundary was—Jazer, and all the cities of Gilead, and half the land of the sons of Ammon,—as far as Aror, which faceth Rabbah;

27 and from Heshbon as far as Ramath-mizpeh, and Botonim,—and from Mahanaim, as far as the boundary of Debir; 28 and in the valley—Beth-haram and Beth-nimrah, and Socoott and Zaphon, the rest of the kingdom of Sihon, king of Heshbon, the Jordan, district, as far as the end of the sea of Chinnereth, beyond the Jordan, eastward. 29 This is the inheritance of the sons of Gad, by their families,—the cities and the villages thereof.

30 And Moses gave [an inheritance] unto the half tribe of Manasseh,—so it belonged to the half tribe of the sons of Manasseh, by their families; 31 and their boundary was—from Mahanaim, all 4 Bashan, all the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, and all the Encampments of Jair* which are in Bashan, three-score cities:

32 and ||half Gilead, and Ashtaroth and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan|| pertained to the sons of Machir, son of Manasseh, to half the sons of Machir, by their families.

33 ||These are [the portions] which Moses gave for inheritance, in the west plains of Moab,—over the Jordan by Jericho, eastward. 34 But <unto the tribe of Levi> Moses gave no inheritance,—<Yahweh, God of Israel> [he] was their inheritance, as he spake unto them.

1 And ||these are the inheritances which the 14 sons of Israel received in the land of Canaan,—which Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the ancestral heads of the tribes of the sons of Israel gave them to inherit.

2 <By lot> was their inheritance divided,—as Yahweh commanded by the hand of Moses, unto the nine tribes and unto the half tribe.

3 For Moses had given the two tribes and the half tribe their inheritance over the Jordan,—but <unto the Levites> gave he no inheritance in their midst; 4 for the sons of Joseph became two tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim,—so they gave no portion to the Levites in the land, save only cities to dwell in, with the pasture lands thereof, for their cattle and for their substance.

5 <As Yahweh commanded Moses> <so> did the sons of Israel,—when they apportioned the land.

6 Then came near the sons of Judah unto Joshua, in Gilgal, and Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, the Kenizzite, said unto him,—

7 Thou knowest the word which Yahweh spake unto Moses the man of God, in my behalf and in thine, in Kadesh-barnea.

8 <Forty years old> was I when Moses the servant of Yahweh sent me, from Kadesh-barnea, to spy out the land,—so I brought him back word, as was in my heart. 9 But ||my brethren who had been up with me|| made the heart of the people melt,—whereas ||I|| wholly followed Yahweh my God.

10 So then Moses aware, on that day, saying—Surely ||the land on which thy foot hath trodden|| <unto thee> shall belong, for an inheritance, and unto thy sons, unto times age-abiding,—because thou hast wholly followed Yahweh my God.

11 ||Now therefore, lo! Yahweh hath kept me alive, as he spake, those forty and five years, from the time Yahweh spake this word unto Moses, while Israel journeyed in the desert.

12 ||Now therefore, lo! ||[I—to-day]| am eighty and five years old: 11 I remain, to-day, as courageous as on the day when Moses sent me <as my strength was then>; so also my strength is now,—for war, both to go out and to come in.

13 ||Now therefore, give me this mountain, whereof Yahweh spake, on that day,—for thou thyself didst hear, on that day, that Anakim were there, and great cities fortified, if so be Yahweh be with me—then shall I dispossess them.

As spake Yahweh. 13 So Joshua blessed him, and gave Hebron unto Caleb son of Jephunneh, for an inheritance. 14 For this cause hath Hebron belonged unto Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite, for an inheritance, unto this day,—because he wholly followed Yahweh, God of Israel. 15 Now the name of Hebron was formerly, City of Arba, the greatest man among the Anakim was he. And the land had rest from war.

15 So then the boundary of the tribe of the sons of Judah, by their families,—reached unto the boundary of Edom, the desert of Zin southward, on the extreme south; 2 and their southern boundary began at the end of the Salt Sea,—from the bay that turneth to the south; 3 and goeth forth on the south of the cliffs of Akrabbim, and cometh forth to Zin, and goeth up on the south of Kadesh-barnean,—and passeth over by Hebron, and goeth up to Addar, and turneth round to Karka; 4 and passeth over to Azmon, and goeth forth at the ravine of Egypt, and so the extensions of the boundary are to the sea. 5 And this shall be your southern boundary.

And [a boundary eastward] is the Salt Sea, as far as the end of the Jordan. And the boundary on the north side is from the bay of the sea, from the end of the Jordan. 6 And the boundary goeth up Beth-hoglah, and passeth over, on the north, by Beth-arabah,—and the boundary goeth up by the Stone of Bohan, son of Reuben; 7 and the boundary goeth up towards Debir, out of the vale of Achor, then northward, turning unto Gilgal, which is over against the ascent of Adummim, which is on the south side of the ravine,—then the boundary passeth over unto the waters of En-shemesh; 8 and so the extensions thereof are unto En-rogel: 9 then ascendeth the boundary by the valley of the son of Hinnom, to the side of the Jebusite, on the south, the same is Jerusalem,—and the boundary goeth up unto the top of the mountain which faeth the valley of Hinnom to the west, which is at the end of the Vale of Giants, northward; 10 and the boundary turneth round, from the top of the mountain, unto the fountain of the waters of Nephtoah, and goeth out unto the cities of Mount Ephron,—then the boundary turneth round to Bealaah, the same is Kiriat-jearim; 11 then the boundary goeth round from Bealaah westward, unto Mount Seir, and passeth over unto the slope of Mount Ye'ir on the north, the same is Cheesalon,—and descendeth Beth-shemesh, and passeth over Tinnah; 12 then the boundary goeth forth unto the side of Ekron, northward, then the boundary turneth round towards Shikkeron, and cometh forth over Mount Baalah, and goeth out at Jabneel,—and the extensions of the boundary are to the sea. 13 And the western boundary are the great sea and coast. 14 This is the boundary of the sons of Judah, round about, by their families.

And to Caleb, son of Jephunneh, gave he a portion, in the midst of the sons of Judah, at the bidding of Yahweh, by Joshua,—even the City of Arba, father of Anak, the same is Hebron. 15 And Caleb dispossessed from thence, the three sons of Anak,—Sheeshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai, the descendants of Anak. 16 And he went up from thence, against the inhabitants of Debir,—now the name of Debir, formerly was Kiriat-sepher. 17 Then said Caleb,—He that smiteth Kiriat-sepher, and captureth it, I will give unto him Achsa, my daughter, to wife. 18 And Othniel son of Kenaz, brother of Caleb captured it,—so he gave unto him Achsa, his daughter, to wife. 19 And it came to pass, when she came, that she moved him to ask of her father a field, and when she alighted from off the ass Caleb said unto her—

What aileth thee? 20 And she said—

Give me a present, for (dry land) hast thou given me, therefore must thou give me (pools of water).

And he gave her upper pools and lower pools.

21 And this is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Judah, by their families. 22 And the uttermost cities of the tribe of the sons of Judah, towards the boundary of Edom in the south, were,—Kabessel and Eder, and Jager, and Kinah and Dimonah, and Adadah,—Kedesh and Hazor, and Ihban, Ziph and Talem, and Bealoth, and Hazor-hadattah and Kerioth-hexam, the same is Hazor; 23 and Amam and Shema, and Moladah, and Hazar-gadath and Hevehmon, and Beth-pelet, and Hazarsual and Beer-sheva, with the hamlets thereof, 24 Baalah and Iyyim, and Ezem, and Etail and Chosiel, and Hormah, and Ziklag, and Madmannah, and Sansannah, and Leboth and Shillum, and En-rimmon,—all the cities are twenty-nine, with their villages. 25 In the lowland,—Eshtoel and Zarah, and Ashnah, and Zanoah and En-gannim, Tappush, and Enam; 26 and Jarmuth, and Adullam, Booch, and Azekah; 27 and Shaaraim, and Adithaim, and Gederah, and Gederothaim,—fourteen cities, with their villages].

37 Zenan and Hadashah, and Migdal-gad, 38 and Dilan and Mizpeh, and Jokthethel, 39 and Lachish and Borkath, and Eglon, 40 and Cabbon and Lehman, 41 and Chithlish, 42 and Gederoth, Beth-dagon and Naamah, and Makkedah,—sixteen cities, with their villages].

42 Libnah and Ether and Ashan, 43 and Iphath and Ashnah, and Nizzib, 44 and Keilah and Achzib, and Mareshah.—Nine cities, with their villages].

46 Ekron with her towns, and her villages. 47 From 48 Ekron, even unto the sea, —all that were by the side of Ashdod with their villages].

49 Ashdod, her towns and her villages, Gaza, her towns and her villages, as far as the ravine of Egypt,—and the great sea and coast.

51 And in the hill-country,—Shamar and Jattir, and Socoh, 52 and Yannah and Kiriath-sannah, [the same] is Debir, 53 and Anab and Eshtemoh, and ANIN, 54 and Goshen and Holon, and Giloh,—eleven cities, with their villages].

55 Arab and Ramah 56 and Esban, 57 and Janim 58 and Beth-tappuah, and Aphekah, 59 and Humtah, and Kiriath-arba, [the same] is Hebron, and Zior,—nine cities, with their villages].

60 Maon Carmel, and Ziph and Jutah, 61 and Jezreel and Jokdeam, and Zanoah, 62 Kain, Gibeah and Timnah,—ten cities, with their villages].

65 Halhul Beth-zur, and Gedor, 66 and Maarah and Beth-anoth, and Eltekon,—six cities, with their villages].

69 Kiriathbaal, [the same] is Kiriath-jearim, and Rabbah, —two cities, with their villages].

71 In the desert,—Beth-arabah, Middin, and Sebron, 72 and Nibshan and the City of Salt, and Kinged, —six cities, with their villages].

But as for the Jebusites, the inhabitants of Jerusalem: the sons of Judah could not dispossess them,—so the Jebusites have dwelt with the sons of Judah, in Jerusalem, until this day.

16 1 Then came out the lot, for the sons of Joseph, from the Jordan by Jericho, at the waters of Jericho, eastward,—the desert, going up from Jericho, through the hill country to Bethel; 2 and it goeth out from Bethel towards Luz,—and passeth over unto the boundary of the Archites at Arathon; 3 and descendeth westward unto the boundary of the Japhletites, as far as the boundary of Bethhoron the nether, and as far as Gezer,—and the extensions thereof are to the sea. 4 So the sons of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim, received their inheritance.

5 And the boundary of the sons of Ephraim, by their families, was,—yea the boundary of their inheritance on the east, was Atharoth-Addar, as far as Beth-horon the upper; 6 and the boundary goeth westward at Michmethath, on the north, then the boundary bendeth round eastward, to Taanath-shiloh,—and passeth by it on the east to Janoah; 7 and goeth down from Janoah to Arathoth and to Naarah,—and toucheth upon Jericho, and goeth out at the Jordan. 8 From Tappuah runneth the boundary along westward, to the ravine of Kanah, and the extensions thereof are to the sea,—this is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Ephraim, by their families; 9 together with the cities which were separated for the sons of Ephraim, in the midst of the inheritance of the sons of Manasseh,—all the cities, with their villages]. 10 But they did not dispossess the Canaanites who dwelled in Gezer;—so the Canaanites have dwelt in the midst of Ephraim unto this day, and have become tributary servants.

1 And the lot for the tribe of Manasseh was, 17 for [the] was the firstborn of Joseph,—for [he] was the firstborn of Joseph,—for [he] was the firstborn of Joseph,—as for Machir, the firstborn of Manasseh, the father of Gilead: 18 because [he] was a man of war; therefore he Gilead and Bashan. 19 So the lot pertained to the rest of the sons of Manasseh, by their families, to the sons of Abiezer, and to the sons of Helek, and to the sons of Asriel, and to the sons of Shechem, and to the sons of Hepher, and to the sons of Shemidah,—these were the sons of Manasseh, son of Joseph, even the male descendants, by their families.

3 But Zelophehad, son of Hepher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, had no sons, but only daughters,—and these are the names of his daughters, Mahlah and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. 4 And they had come near, before Eleazar the priest, and before Joshua son of Nun, and before the princes, saying, 5 Yahweh commanded Moses, to give us an inheritance in the midst of our brethren,—And he had given them, according to the bidding of Yahweh, an inheritance, in the midst of the brethren of their father. 6 Thus there fell ten portions to Manasseh, besides the land of Gilead, and Bashan, which is beyond the Jordan; 7 because the daughters of Manasseh received an inheritance in his midst of his sons,—and the land of Gilead became the possession of the sons of Manasseh that remained. 8 So then the boundary of Manasseh was from Asher, Michmethath, which faceth Shechem,—and the boundary goeth along unto the right hand, unto the inhabitants of En-tappuah. 9 Manasseh had the land of Tappuah,—but Tappuah itself towards the boundary of Manasseh, pertained unto the sons and take possession of the land, which Yahweh God of your fathers hath given unto you.

4 Set forth for you three men for each tribe,—that I may send them, that they may arise—and go up and down in the land—and map it out as required for their inheritance, and come in unto me.

5 So shall they apportion it for themselves into seven parts,—Let †Judah| stay upon his boundary | on the south, and †the house of Joseph| stay upon their boundary | on the north | but †ye| shall map out the |rest of the| land, into seven parts,—and bring in (your descriptions | unto me | here),—then will I cast lots for you here, before Yahweh our God.

6 For Levi hath no portion in your midst, for †the priesthood of Yahweh| is his inheritance,—and †Gad, and Reuben, and the half tribe of Manasseh| have received their inheritance, beyond the Jordan on the east, which Moses the servant of Yahweh gave unto them.

7 So the men arose, and went,—and Joshua commanded them who were going, to map out the land, saying—

Take your journey and go up and down in the land, and map it out, and return unto me, and †here| will I cast lots for you before Yahweh, in Shiloh.

8 So the men went, and passed through the land, and mapped it out by cities, into seven parts, upon a scroll,—and came in unto Joshua, unto the camp, in Shiloh. 10 And Joshua cast for them lots, in Shiloh, before Yahweh,—and Joshua there apportioned the land unto the sons of Israel, †according to their portions.|" goeth out unto the fountain of the waters of Nephtoah; 16 and the boundary goeth down to the uttermost part of the mountain which faeth the valley of the son of Hinnom, which is in the Vale of Giants, northward,— and descendeth the valley of Hinnom, unto the side 5 of the Jebusite, southward, and then descendeth to En-rogel; 17 and it turneth on the north, and goeth out at En-shemesh, and goeth unto Geiloah, which is over against the ascent of Adummim,— and goeth down by the Stone of Bochim, son of Reuben; 18 and it passeth along unto the side 6 over against the Arabah, northward,— and goeth down toward the Arabah; 19 and the boundary passeth along unto the side 6 of Beth-hoglah, northward, and so the extensions of the boundary are unto the bay of the Salt’ Sea, northward, unto the end of the Jordan southward,— This is the south boundary.

20 And [the Israel itself] boundeth it as an eastward border. [This] is the inheritance of the sons of Benjamin, by the boundaries thereof round about, by their families. 21 So then the cities of the tribe of the sons of Benjamin, by their families, are,— Jericho and Beth-hoglah, and Emek-keznah, 22 and Beth-arabah and Zemarinim, and Bethel, 23 and Avvim and Parah and Ophrah, and Chephar-ammoni 4 and Ophi, and Geba,— twelve cities, with their villages: 24 Gibeon and Ramah, and Beeroth, 25 and Mirpah and Chephirah, and Mozah, 26 and Rekem and Ippal, and Parah, 27 and Zealah, Eleph, and the Jebusite [the same] is Jerusalem, Gibeah [and] Kiriaeth, fourteen cities with their villages. [This] is the inheritance of the sons of Benjamin, by their families.

19 And the second lot came out, for Simeon, for the tribe of the sons of Simeon, by their families, —and their inheritance was in the midst of the inheritance of the sons of Judah. 2 And they had for their inheritance,—Beer-sheba or Sheba, and Moladah, 3 and Hazar-shual, and Balah, and Ezem, 4 and Eglon and Bethul, and Hormah, 5 and Ziklag and Beth-marchoth, and Hazar-susah, 6 and Beth-leboath and Sharuhen, thirteen cities, with their villages: 7 Ain, Rimmon, and Ether and Asan,— four cities, with their villages, 8 and all the villages that were round about these cities, as far as Beala-theer, Ramah of the South. [This] is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Simeon, by their families: 9 Out of the portion of the sons of Judah> is the inheritance of the sons of Simeon,— for it came to pass that what was allotted to the sons of Judah, was too much for them, therefore did the sons of Simeon receive an inheritance in the midst of their inheritance.

Then came up the third lot, for the sons of Zebulun, by their families,— and the boundary of their inheritance was as far as Sarid. 11 And their boundary goeth up westward, even towards Maralah, and toucheth Dabbosbeth,— and reacheth unto the ravine that faeth Jokneam; 12 and turneth back from Sarid, eastward, toward the rising of the sun, upon the boundary of Chisloth-tabor,— and goeth out unto Daberath, and ascendeth Japhim; 13 and from thence> it passeth along on the east, towards Gath-hepher, towards Eth-kamn; — and goeth on as Rimmon which turneth about towards Neak; 14 and the boundary goeth round it, on the north to Hannathon,— and so the extensions thereof are the valley of Iphtahiel; 15 and Kattath and Nahalah, and Shimron, and Idalah and Beth-lehem,— twelve cities, with their villages. 16 [This] is the inheritance of the sons 8 of Zebulun, by their families,— twelve cities, with their villages.

17 For Issachar 8 came out the fourth lot,— for the sons of Issachar, by their families. 18 And their boundary was,— Jezreel and Chesolith, and Shunem, 19 and Hapharaim and Shicon and Anaharath, 20 and Rabbith and Kishion, 21 and Ebes, 22 and Remeth, and En-gannim and En-haddah, and Beth-pazes; 23 and the boundary toucheth Tabor and Shaharsaim, 24 and Beth-shemesh, and so the extensions of their boundary are to the Jordan,— sixteen cities, with their villages. 25 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Issachar, by their families,— the cities, with their villages.

24 Then came out the fifth lot, for the tribe of the sons of Asher, by their families. 26 And their boundary was,— Helkath and Hali, and Beten and Achushaph, 27 and Allam-mekech and Amud, and Mishal,— and it toucheth Carmel to the west, and Shibor-limath; 28 and it turneth toward sun-rise— to Beth-dagon, and toucheth Zebulun and the valley of Iphthal-el northward, and Beth-emek, and Neiel; 29 and goeth out unto Cabul, on the left, 30 and Ebrom 9 and Rehob, and Hammon and Kanah,— as far as Zidon the populous; 31 and the boundary turneth to Ramah, and as far as the city of the fortress of Tyre,— then the boundary turneth to Hoash, and so the extensions thereof are, on the west, from Hebel to Achzib; 32 Ummah also and Aphek, and Rehob,— twenty-two cities, with their villages. 33 [This] is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Asher, by their families,— these cities, with their villages.

25 For the sons of Naphtali 8 came out the sixth lot,— for the sons of Naphtali, by their families. 26 And their boundary was from Heleph, from the terebinth of Bazzanam, 8 8 Heb. : Yiph's. 9 Some cod. (w. 5 Sar. pr. edns.) have: "Ireland"—O.n. 10 Some cod. have: "Abdon"—G.n. 11 Some cod. (w. Sep. and Vul.) have: "tribe of the sons"—G.n. 12 Heb. : tskhms. & So O.G. 130.
and Adani-nekeb, and Jabneel, as far as Lakkum; and so the extensions thereof were to the Jordan; and the boundary turneth westward, to Ammoth-tabor, and goeth out from thence, toward Hukkok, and toucheth Zebulun on the south, and Jesher it toucheth on the west, and Judah, at the Jordan towards sunrise.

29. And the fortified cities are, Ziddim, Zer, and Hammath, Rakkaht, and Chinnereth, and Adamah and Ramah, and Hazor, and Kedesh and Edrei, and En-hazor, and Iron and Migdal-el, Horem, and Beth-anath, and Beth-shemesh, the nineteen cities, with their villages.

30. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Naphtali, by their families, the cities, with their villages.

31. And for the tribe of the sons of Dan, by their families, came out the seventh lot. And the boundary of their inheritance was, Zorah and Eshtaol, and Ir-shemaeb, and Shaalabbin and Ajalon, and Ithlah, and Elon and Timnah, and Ekron, and Eltekeb and Gibbethon, and Bealath, and Jehud and Beneberak, and Bet-cenec and Manasseh, and Rakkon, with the boundary over against Joppa. And when the boundary of the sons of Dan went out beyond these, then they went up the sons of Dan and fought against Leshem, and captured it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and took possession thereof, and dwelt therein, and they called Leshem—Dan, after the name of Dan their father. This is the inheritance of the sons of Dan, by their families, the cities, with their villages.

32. When they had made an end of distributing the land by the boundaries thereof, then gave the sons of Israel an inheritance unto Joshua son of Nun, in their midst, at the bidding of Yahweh, gave they unto him the city which he asked, even Timnath-serah, in the hill country of Ephraim, and he built the city and dwelt therein.

33. These are the inheritances which Eleazar the priest and Joshua son of Nun and the ancestral heads' distributed for inheritance to the tribes of the sons of Israel, by lot, in Shiloah, before Yahweh, at the entrance of the tent of meeting, so they made an end of apportioning the land.

20. And Yahweh spake unto Joshua, saying:

1. Speak out for you the cities of refuge, whereof I spake unto you, by the hand of Moses:

2. that the manslayer who slayeth a person by mistake, unwittingly, may flee thither, so shall they be unto you for refuge from the blood-redeemer, and he shall flee unto one of these cities and present himself at the entrance of the gate of the city, and shall speak in the ears of the elders of that city, his defence, and they shall take him for protection into the city unto them, and shall give him a place, so shall he dwell with them. And when the blood-redeemer purneweth after him then shall they not deliver up the manslayer, into his hand, because it was that he slew his neighbour, and had not been unwittingly towards him, a foretime; so shall he remain in that city, until he standeth before the assembly, for judgment, until the death of the high-priest who shall be in those days, then shall the manslayer return, and enter into his own city, and into his own house, within the city from whence he fled.

2. Then they set apart Kadesh in Galilee, in the hill country of Naphtali, and Shechem, in the hill country of Ephraim, and Kiria-tharbas, in the hill country of Judah. And beyond the Jordan, by Jericho eastward, they appointed Bezer in the wilderness, in the table-land, out of the tribe of Reuben, and Ramoth in Gilead, out of the tribe of Gad, and Golan in Bashan, out of the tribe of Manasseh. These were the cities appointed for all the sons of Israel, and for the sojourner who sojourneth in their midst, that whosoever should slay a person by mistake might flee thither, and not die by the hand of the blood-redeemer, until he should stand before the assembly.

1. Then came near the ancestral heads of the Levites, unto Eleazar, the priest, and unto Joshua son of Nun, and unto the ancestral heads of the tribes, of the sons of Israel; and spake unto them in Shiloah in the land of Canaan, saying:

Yahweh himself commanded, by the hand of Moses, that there should be given unto us cities to dwell in, with their pasture-lands for our cattle.

3. So the sons of Israel gave unto the Levites, out of their own inheritance, at the bidding of Yahweh, these cities, with their pasture-lands.

4. And when the lot came out for the families of the Kohathites then had the sons of Aaron the priest, from among the Levites—out of the tribe of Judah and out of the tribe of the Simeonites and out of the tribe of Benjamin—by lot thirteen

And the sons of Kohath that remained had—<out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim and out of the tribe of Dan and out of the half tribe of Manasseh—by lot>—<ten cities>.

And the sons of Gershon had—<out of families of the tribe of Issachar and out of the tribe of Asher and out of the tribe of Naphtali and out of the half tribe of Manasseh in Bashan—by lot>—<thirteen cities>.

The sons of Merari, by their families had—<out of the tribe of Reuben and out of the tribe of Gad and out of the tribe of Zebulun—<twelve cities>.

So the sons of Israel gave unto the Levites these cities, with their pasturage lands, as Yahweh commanded, by the hand of Moses, by lot.

Thus they gave—out of the tribe of the sons of Judah and out of the tribe of the sons of Simeon—those cities which are mentioned by name. And the sons of Aaron, from among the sons of Kohath, from among the sons of Levi, had them, because their lot was the first lot;

yes there was given unto them, the city of Arba, the father of Anak, the seven sons of Hebron, in the families of the tribe of Judah, with their pasturage lands, round about it;

whereas <the fields of the city, and the villages thereof> gave them unto Caleb son of Jephunneh, as his possession.

But unto the sons of Aaron the priest gave they the city of refuge for the manslayer, even Hebron, with the pasturage lands thereof,—Libnah also, with her pasturage lands; and Jattir with her pasturage land, and Eballs with her pasturage land; and Holon, with her pasturage land, and Debir, with her pasturage land; and Ain, with her pasturage land, and Juttah, with her pasturage land, Beth-shemesh, with her pasturage land,—<nine cities, out of these two tribes>.

And <out of the tribe of Benjamin> Gibon, with her pasturage land,—Geba, with her pasturage land;

Anathoth, with her pasturage land, and Almon, with her pasturage land,—<four cities>.

All the cities of the sons of Aaron, the priests, were thirteen cities, with their pasturage lands,—<four cities>.

And <out of the tribe of Dan> Elleke, with her pasturage land,—Gibbethon, with her pasturage land; Aijalon, with her pasturage land, Gath-rimmon, with her pasturage land,—<four cities>.

And <out of the half tribe of Manasseh> Taanach, with her pasturage land, and Gath-rimmon, with her pasturage land,—<two cities>.

All the cities were ten with their pasturage lands, for the families of the sons of Kohath which remained.

And the sons of Gershon, of the families of the Levites, had, <out of the half tribe of Manasseh>, a city of refuge for the manslayer, even Golan in Bashan, with her pasturage land, and Be-eshterah, with her pasturage land,—<two cities>.

And <out of the tribe of Issachar> Kishion, with her pasturage land,—Daberath, with her pasturage land; Jarmuth, with her pasturage land, En-gannim, with her pasturage land,—<four cities>.

And <out of the tribe of Asher> Mishal, with her pasturage land, Abdon, with her pasturage land; Helkath, with her pasturage land, and Rehob, with her pasturage land,—<four cities>.

And <out of the tribe of Naphtali> a city of refuge for the manslayer—even Kedesh in Galilee, with her pasturage land, and Hammoth-dor, with her pasturage land, and Kartan, with her pasturage land,—<three cities>.

All the cities of the Gershonites, by their families, were thirteen cities, with their pasturage lands.

And <unto the families of the sons of Merari, the Levites> that remained <out of the tribe of Zebulun> Jokneam, with her pasturage land,—Kartah, with her pasturage land;

And <out of the tribe of Reuben> Bezer, with her pasturage land,—<six cities>.

Kedemoth, with her pasturage land and Mephaath, with her pasturage land,—<four cities>.

And <out of the tribe of Gad> a city of refuge for the manslayer—even Ramoth in Galil, with her pasturage land, and Mahanaim, with her pasturage land; Heshbon, with her pasturage land, Jazer, with her pasturage land,—<in all, four cities>.

All the cities for the sons of Merari, by their families, who remained of the families of the Levites, ye knew their lot was <twelve> cities.

All the cities of the Levites, in the midst of the possession of the sons of Israel were forty-eight cities with their pasturage lands; these cities passed, each severally, with its pasturage lands round about it; thus was it with all these cities.

So Yahweh gave unto Israel, all the land.
which he had sworn to give unto their fathers,— and they took possession thereof, and dwelt therein. 44 And Yahweh gave them rest round about, according to all that he had sworn unto their fathers,—and there stood not a man before them, of all their enemies, <all their enemies> did Yahweh deliver into their hand. 45 There failed not a thing, out of all the good things, whereof Yahweh had spoken unto the house of Israel,—<the whole> came to pass. 6 § 15. The Two and Half Tribes Dismissed: their Altar of Witness.

22* Then① called Joshua—for the Reubenites, and for the Gadites,—and for the half tribe of Manasseh; 2 and said unto them, 11 Yes,* have observed all that Moses the servant of Yahweh commanded you,—and have hearkened unto my voice, in all that I commanded you: 3 ye have not forsaken your brethren, these many days, unto this day,—but have kept the charge of the commandment of Yahweh your God.

4 Now, therefore, that Yahweh your God hath given rest unto your brethren, according as he spake unto them, 5—<now, therefore>, turn ye and get you to your homes* within the land of your possession, which Moses the servant of Yahweh gave unto you, over the Jordan.

6 Only* take ye diligent heed, to do the commandment and the law, which Moses the servant of Yahweh commanded you—to love Yahweh your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and to cleave unto him,—and to serve him—with all your heart, and with all your soul.

So Joshua blessed them,—and sent them away, and they took their journey unto their homes. 7 Now <unto the one> half tribe of Manasseh had Moses given a possession in Bashan, and <unto the other> half did Joshua give possession with their brethren, over the Jordan, westward,—moreover also <when Joshua sent them away unto their homes> he blessed them, and spake unto them, saying:

<With much wealth> return ye unto your homes,* even with very much cattle, with silver and with gold, and with copper* and with iron, and with very much raiment,—divide ye the spoil of your enemies with your brethren.

9 So the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh, returned and departed from the sons of Israel, from Shiloh, which was in the land of Canaan,—to go unto the land of Gilead, unto the land of their possession, wherein they had received their possessions, at the bidding of Yahweh by the hand of Moses.

10 And <when they came into the circles of the Jordan, which were in the land of Canaan>,—then did the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh build ’there’ an altar by the Jordan, [an altar of large dimensions], 11 And the sons of Israel heard say,—

Lo! the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh have built an altar in front of the land of Canaan, in the circles of the Jordan, in the region opposite* the sons of Israel.

12 And <when the sons of Israel heard> all the assembly of the sons of Israel gathered themselves together at Shiloh, to go up against them to war. 13 And the sons of Israel sent unto the sons of Reuben and unto the sons of Gad and unto the half tribe of Manasseh, within the land of Gilead,—Phinehas, son of Eleazar the priest; 14 and ten princes with him, one prince of an ancestral house for each of the tribes of Israel,—they being several heads of their ancestral houses* among the thousands of Israel.

15 So they came in unto the sons of Reuben and unto the sons of Gad and unto the half tribe of Manasseh, within the land of Gilead,—and spake with them, saying:

<<Thus say all the assembly of Yahweh—

What is this act of treachery which ye have committed against the God of Israel, that ye should turn back, to-day, from following Yahweh,—in that ye have builded you an altar, that ye might rebel, to-day, against Yahweh? 16 Too little for us was the iniquity of Peor, from which we have not cleansed ourselves, unto this day,—although the plague came upon the assembly of Yahweh; 17 but that <ye> must turn back to-day from following Yahweh,—though it must needs be that <if ye> rebel to-day against Yahweh then shall to-morrow <with all the assembly of Israel> will he be wroth!

Howbeit <if unclean> be the land of your possession, do ye on your part come over into the land of the possession of Yahweh, where abideth the habitation of Yahweh, and take your possession in our midst,—but <against Yahweh> do not rebel, nor <against us> rebel, by building yourselves an altar apart from the altar of Yahweh our God.

Did not Achan son of Zerah* commit an act of treachery, with a devoted thing, and <upon all the assembly of Israel> came wrath,—so that not <he—one man alone> died in his iniquity?

Then responded the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh,—and spake unto the heads of the thousands of Israel:

<<El-Elohim-Yahweh, El-Elohim-Yahweh> 20 Hebrew one knowseth, and <Israel> he shall know,—if in rebellion, or if in treachery, against Yahweh do not save us this day: that we should build for ourselves an altar, to turn back from following Yahweh,—or if that we might cause to go up thereon ascending-sacrifice or meal-offering, or if that we might offer thereon peace-offerings let Yahweh himself require it; if, indeed, we have not rather, out of anxiety and of purpose done this thing, saying,—

<In time to come> your sons might speak to our sons, saying,

What have ye to do with Yahweh, a God of Israel; seeing that a boundary hath Yahweh put between us and you, ye sons of Reuben and ye sons of Gad—ye have no portion in Yahweh,—so might your sons cause our sons, to cease from revering Yahweh. We said, therefore,

Let us prepare, we pray you, to build us an altar,—not for ascending-offering nor for sacrifice; but that a witness may be between us and you, and between our generations after us, that we are to do the service of Yahweh, before him, with our ascending-offerings and with our sacrifices, and with our peace-offerings,—that your sons may not say, in time to come, to our sons, Ye have no portion in Yahweh.

Therefore said we,

And it shall be, when they [so] say to us, or to our generations, in time to come,—that we will say—Behold ye the pattern of the altar of Yahweh, which our fathers made, not for ascending-offerings nor for sacrifice, but that a witness it might be between us and you.

Far be it from us—that we should rebel against Yahweh, or turn back, to-day, from following Yahweh, by building an altar, for ascending-offering, or meal-offering or for sacrifice,—other than the altar of Yahweh our God, which is before his habitation.

And Phinehas the priest, and the princes of the assembly, even the heads of the thousands of Israel who were with him, heard the words which the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the sons of Manasseh spake; then was it well-pleasing in their eyes. And Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest said unto the sons of Reuben and unto the sons of Gad and unto the sons of Manasseh—

To-day we know that in our midst is Yahweh, in that ye have not committed, against Yahweh, this act of treachery,—now have ye rescued the sons of Israel out of the hand of Yahweh.

So Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest and the princes returned from the sons of Reuben and from the sons of Gad, out of the land of Gilead, unto the land of Canaan, unto the sons of Israel,—and brought them back word. And the thing was well-pleasing in the eyes of the sons of Israel, and the sons of Israel blessed God,—and spake not of going up against them, to war, to lay waste the land, wherein the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad dwelt.

So the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad named the altar [a Witness];

<A witness it is' between us,

That ||Yahweh|| is God.\]

§ 16. Joshua's End drawing near, he exhorts the People.

1 And it came to pass after many days, when Yahweh had given rest unto Israel, from all their enemies round about,—and ||Joshua|| had become old, advanced in days> that Joshua called for all Israel, for their elders, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers,—and said unto them,

[||I|| am old, advanced in days; but ||ye|| have seen—all that Yahweh your God hath done unto all these nations, because of you,—for ||Yahweh your God|| is he that hath fought for you.

Behold, I have allotted to you these nations which remain, as an inheritance, for your tribes,—from the Jordan, and all the nations which I have cut off, even unto the great sea, at the going in of the sun.

But ||Yahweh your God|| he will thrust them out from before you, and drive them away out of your sight,—so shall ye possess their land, ||as Yahweh your God spake unto you||.

Therefore must ye be very firm to observe and to do all that is written in the scroll of the law of Moses,—so as not to turn aside therefrom, to the right hand or to the left; so as not to go in among these nations, these which remain with you,—and with the name of their gods; shall ye neither make memorial nor put on oath, and neither serve them, nor bow down to them. But ||unto Yahweh your God|| must ye cleave,—as ye have done until this day; therefore hath Yahweh disposed of, from before you, nations great and strong,—but ||as for you|| not a man hath stood before you, ||until this day||.

One man of you] can chase a thousand,—for ||Yahweh your God|| is he that fighteth for you, ||as he spake to you||.

Take diligent heed, therefore, unto your souls,—to love Yahweh your God.

JOSHUA XXIII. 12—16; XXIV. 1—17.

11 But if ye turn back and cleave unto the remnant of these nations, and intermarry with them, and go in with them, and they will work wickedness against you—and then I will not drive out these nations out of the land. 12 Know that Yahweh your God will no longer drive out these nations from before you, but they will become unto you a snare and a hook, and a snare in your eyes, until ye have perished from off this good land, which Yahweh your God hath given unto you.

14 But lo! I am going to-day, in the way of all the earth, ye must acknowledge therefore, with all your heart and with all your soul, that there hath not failed a single thing, out of all the good things which Yahweh your God spake concerning you, [the whole] hath come to pass to you, there hath not failed thereof, a single thing.

15 But it shall be that all the good things which have come unto you, which Yahweh your God spake unto you, will Yahweh bring upon you all the evil things, until he hath destroyed you from off this good land, which Yahweh your God hath given unto you. 16 When ye transgress the covenant of Yahweh your God, which he hath commanded you, and go and serve other gods, and bow yourselves down unto them, then will the anger of Yahweh kindle upon you, and ye will perish quickly, from off the good land which he hath given unto you.

§ 17. Joshua’s Final Admonitions: his Death and Burial.

24 And Joshua gathered together all the tribes of Israel, unto Shechem, and called for the elders of Israel, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers, and they presented themselves before God. 2 Then said Joshua unto all the people—Thus saith Yahweh, God of Israel, beyond the Jordan—dwell ye in the land which your fathers dwelt in from old times, unto the place which Yahweh shall choose. 3 So I took your fathers, Abraham, from beyond the Jordan, and led him through all the land of Canaan, and multiplied his seed, and gave unto him Isaac; 4 and gave unto Isaac Jacob and Esau; they were two nations. 5 Then sent I Moses and Aaron, and plagued Egypt, according to what I did in their midst, and afterwards brought you forth. 6 Ye brought forth your fathers, out of Egypt, and ye came unto the sea, and the Egyptians pursued after your fathers, with chariots and with horsemen, unto the Red Sea. 7 So they made outcry unto Yahweh, and he put darkness between you and the Egyptians, and brought in upon them the sea, and covered them—and your eyes beheld what I did with the Egyptians, and when ye had remained in the desert many days, I brought you into the land of the Amorites, who were dwelling over the Jordan, and they fought with you, and I delivered I them into your hand, and ye took possession of their land, so I destroyed them from before you. 9 Then rose up Balak, son of Zippor, king of Moab, and made war with Israel, and sent and called for Balaam son of Beor, to curse you; but I was not willing to hearken unto Balaam, so I kept on blessing you, and I rescued you out of his hand. Then passed ye over the Jordan, and came in unto Jericho, and when they would have made war with you—even the lords of Jericho—the Amorite and the Perizzite and the Canaanite and the Hittite and the Girgashite, the Hivite and the Jebusite—then delivered I them into your hand. 11 And I sent before you the hornet, which drove them out from before you, the two kings of the Amorites—not with thy sword, nor with thy bow. 12 Thus I gave unto you a land on which thou hadst not laboured, and cities which ye had not built, and ye proceeded to dwell therein,—of vineyards and oliveyards, which ye planted not ye are eating. 14 Now therefore, revere ye Yahweh, and serve him, in sincerity and in truth,—and put away the gods which your fathers served beyond the River, and in Egypt, and serve ye Yahweh. 15 But if it be a vacation in your eyes, serve Yahweh> choose ye for yourselves, to-day, whom ye will serve, whether the gods which your fathers served, that were beyond the River, or the gods of the Amorites in whose land ye are dwelling, but I and my house will serve [Yahweh]. Then responded the people, and said, Far be it from us, that we should forsake Yahweh—to serve other gods; 17 for <as for Yahweh our God> he will brought up both us and our fathers, out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants,—and who did before our eyes, these great signs, and preserved us throughout all the way.
wherein we journeyed, and among all the peoples through the midst of whom we passed; and did Yahweh drive out all the peoples, even the Amorites who were dwelling in the land, from before us. We will serve Yahweh, for he is our God.

Then said Joshua unto the people—
Ye cannot serve Yahweh, for he is jealous of you; he will not forgive your transgression, nor your sins. When ye forsake Yahweh, and serve the gods of a stranger, then will He turn, and inflict on you calamity, and consume you. If after that He hath dealt well with you.

But the people said unto Joshua,— Nay! but we will serve.

Then said Joshua unto the people—
Witnesses! are ye against yourselves, that have chosen you Yahweh, to serve him.

And they said:
Witnesses!

22 Now therefore, put ye away the gods of the stranger, that are in your midst, and incline your heart unto Yahweh, God of Israel.

23 And the people said unto Joshua,— Yahweh our God, will we serve, and unto his voice, will we hearken.

24 So then Joshua solemnised a covenant for the people, on that day, and set for them a statute and a regulation, in Shechem.

25 And Joshua wrote these words in the scroll of the law of God, and took a great stone, and set it up there, under the oak that was by the sanctuary of Yahweh.

26 And Joshua said unto all the people—
Lo! this stone shall serve as a witness, for it hath heard all the sayings of Yahweh, which he hath spoken with us, so shall it serve against you as a witness, lest ye should act deceptively against your God.

27 And Joshua sent the people away, every man unto his inheritance.

28 And it came to pass after these things, that Joshua son of Nun, servant of Yahweh, died, being a hundred and ten years old. And they buried him within the bounds of his own inheritance, in Timnath-serah, which is in the hill country of Ephraim, on the north of Mount Gaash.

29 So then Israel served Yahweh all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders who prolonged their days after Joshua, and who had known all the work of Yahweh, which he had wrought for Israel.

30 And the bones of Joseph—which the sons of Israel had brought up out of Egypt—were buried in Shechem, in the portion of field, which Jacob bought of the sons of Hamor, father of Shechem, for a hundred pieces of money, and they belonged unto the sons of Joseph, as an inheritance.

31 And Eleazar son of Aaron died, and they buried him in the hill of Phinehas his son, which was given to him, in the hill country of Ephraim.

I.e.: "seem to acknowledge, but not really do so." O.B. 471.

The Sep. here adds: "And they placed with him, in the grave wherein they buried him, the knives of flint whereby he circumcised the sons of Israel in Gilgal, when he brought them forth out of Egypt, as Yahweh commanded them; and there they are until this day." Cp. chap. v. 3, 8—G.n.

In the Sep. are found these verses: "And on that day the sons of Israel took the ark of Yahweh, and bare it in their midst; and Phinehas ministered as priest instead of Eleazar his father until his death, and was buried in the hill which belonged to him. And the sons of Israel went every man to his own place and to his own city; and the sons of Israel served the Ashteroth and the Asheres, and the gods of the nations which were round about them; and God sold them into the hand of Eglon king of Moab, and he ruled over them eighteen years." Cp. Judg. ii. 13-14—G.n.
SPECIAL NOTE ON THE DESTRUCTION OF THE CANAANITE NATIONS.

In reviewing the destruction of the nations of Canaan, it is most important to bear in mind the terrible nature of the crimes for which they were exterminated. Their very worship was grossly sensual and revoltingly cruel. In honour of their deities women surrendered their virtue. Their sacred places were brothels. The generative organs were openly represented by disgusting symbols. The peoples had holy (!) prostitutes, male and female.—עַרְבֵּיתָה and עַרְבֵּיתָת. Lustful gods are cruel, and demand to be worshipped with human blood. Hence, to the king-idol Molech, the Canaanites, with some contiguous nations, immolated their sons and daughters. At such crimes as these nature shudders; and Palestine was fain, in abhorrence, to eject her inhabitants. Who shall say that the Most High has not the right to extinguish such polluters of the earth and contaminators of mankind as these? Doubtless the world has been made permanently the sweeter and the more habitable by reason of the occasional Divine use of the beam of destruction. Let us remember that there was long waiting before these nations were destroyed. Not till their iniquity was "full" did the stroke of vengeance fall. It was doubtless both safe and kind that the extermination was to be made ruthlessly complete. And let us not forget that Joshua's commission was divine, direct, positive, explicit and repeated; and therefore no example for generals destitute of such sanction. How far other commanders may volunteer, or be lawfully commissioned, to follow Joshua's example—is, for us, a question of casuistry into which we are not here called upon to enter. Moreover, Divine Mercy drew a line around the devoted nations, and outside that line peoples might be spared—unless, indeed, the interdict went forth against them;* while, on the other hand, Divine Equity warned the Hebrews that, if they fell into the same sins, they should receive a like punishment. For their fathers' sake, indeed, they were not to be utterly annihilated; but short of that, if they would sin, they must suffer. Their land would vomit them forth. We know the sad sequel: they fell into sensual and cruel idol-worship; and God kept His word, as the captivities of Assyria and Babylon attest. We have yet to trace the long and painful story of Israel's sin and punishment: let us be thankful that we shall also have the privilege of turning over to a brighter leaf and dwelling on glowing prophetic songs of redemption, deliverance and salvation.

So much by way of general statement. If the inquiry be urged whether there is sufficient evidence to justify the sweeping statements made at the outset of this Note, the answer can only be in the affirmative, due allowance being made for the circumstantial character of the testimony. It is just as well that the proof should, in a sense, run between the lines. In fact, it is only when some adequate knowledge is possessed of the really obscene and blood-thirsty nature of idol-worship in Western Asia that the mind is prepared to feel the full force of allusions scattered throughout the Old Testament. Many, indeed, are the allegations against Israel for going unchastely after other gods; but even the needlessly coarse terms of our public versions (in speaking of it as "going a-whoring" after idols) have probably failed to suggest to the majority of even educated minds the awful and undoubted fact that such worship was accompanied by rites (to use the guarded language of the Oxford Gesenius) "sometimes involving actual prostitution."* Hence there would appear to be something like a moral necessity to lift a little the veil which hides from view the true character of the worship of the Baals, the Asherahs and the Ashitaroths of Canaan.

As to the worship of the local Baals it is attested that "it was debased by repulsive immorality."* Further, "when Israel entered Canaan the worship of the Baalim was everywhere present. As it was especially associated with agriculture, which the Israelites learned from the Canaanites, there was danger lest they should take over also the religious festivals connected with the various agricultural seasons, and thus succumb to the deadly fascination of the sensual nature-worship of the older inhabitants. That this actually happened we learn from the history."

* O.G. p. 275.

As to the Asherahs, there is a doubt which does not in any way affect the main issue. The doubt is merely whether Asherah is the name of a distinct goddess, as well as the name of the "pole," "stump," or "stems" which represented her; or whether the notorious "Ashthoreth" (Astarte) was herself worshipped under these obscene images. In any case the rites associated with the "Asherahs" were immoral.

The "Encyclopedia Britannica" unhesitatingly designates "Asherah" an impure goddess. But even if, as some think, the two names became confused, so that even when Asherah is named Astarte is ultimately intended, we have only to pass on and give a moment's attention to the latter to reach the fearful conclusion already indicated.

As to Astarte then: "She must have been pre-eminently the goddess of sexual passion. By Greeks and Phoenicians alike she is habitually identified with 'Aphrodite,' and there are sufficiently definite allusions to the unchaste character of the rites with which she was worshipped."" Her devotees were initiated with impure rites.""4

From the point of view thus obtained, the passages referred to below slowly unfold their terrible significance."

To complete, once the needful reference to this painful and admonitory subject, the student has only to connect the worship of the Golden Calf (Exodus xxxii.) with the Egyptian worship ofApis, as briefly disclosed by the "Encyclopedia Britannica," to apprehend why, on that occasion, the sedate Moses was driven frantic with consternation; and has only to conceive, in the light of the facts indicated in Numbers xxv. and in this Note, the real nature of the awful snare into which Israel fell at Baal-peor, to apprehend that instant excision alone could be trusted to prevent national extermination.

§ 1. Israel, only in part driving out the Canaanites, fall into their Idolatry.

1 And it came to pass, after the death of Joshua, that the sons of Israel asked of Yahweh, saying, —

Who shall go up for us against the Canaanites, first, to make war upon them?

2 And Yahweh said —

[Judah] shall go, —lo! 3 I have delivered the land into his power.

3 Then said Judah, unto Simeon his brother —

Come up with me into the territory allotted me, and let us make war on the Canaanites, then will I also go with thee, into thy territory.

So Simeon went with him. 4 And Judah went up, and Yahweh delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand, —and they smote them in Bezek, ten thousand men. 5 And they found Adoni-bezek 6 in Bezek, and fought with him, —and smote the Canaanites and the Perizzites. 6 But Adoni-bezek fled, and they pursued him, —and took him, and cut off his thumbs, and his great toes. 7 Then said Adoni-bezek —

[Seventy kings, with their thumbs and great toes cut off]! have been picking up crumbs under my table, —as I have done! 80] hath God required me.

And they brought him into Jerusalem, and he died there. 8 And the sons of Judah made war upon Jerusalem, and captured it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, —and (the city) they set on fire. 9 And (afterwards) the sons of Judah went down to make war upon the Canaanites, —dwelling in the hill country, and in the south, and in the lowland.

10 And Judah went against the Canaanites who were dwelling in Hebron, now [the name of Hebron, formerly] was Kiriat-arba, —and they smote Sheshai and Ahiman, and Talmai. 11 And he went from thence, against the inhabitants of Debir, —now [the name of Debir, formerly] was Kiriat-sepher. 12 And Caleb said,

<He that smiteth Kiriat-sepher, and captures it> I will give unto him Achashah my daughter, to wife.

13 Then Othniel, son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother, captured it, —and he gave him Achashah his daughter, to wife.

14 And it came to pass <when she came> that she moved him to ask of her father a field, 6 and, when she slighted from off the ass, Caleb said unto her —

What aileth thee? 7

15 And she said unto him —

Give me a present; for <south land> hast thou given me, give me therefore pools of water.

So Caleb gave her Upper-pools, and Lower-pools. 8

16 Now [the sons of the Kenite, father-in-law of Moses] had come up from the city of palm-trees, 4 with the sons of Judah, into the wilderness of Judah, which is in the south of Arad, —so they went and dwelt with the people.

17 Then went Judah, with Simeon his brother, and they smote the Canaanites dwelling in Zephanah, —and devoted them to destruction, and the name of the city was called Hormah. 6

18 And Judah captured Gaza with the boundaries thereof, and Ashkelon, with the boundaries thereof, —and Ekron, with the boundaries thereof. 10 And it came to pass that Yahweh was with Judah, and he took possession of the hill country, —but did not dispossess the inhabitants of the vale, because they had [chariots of iron]. 12

20 So they gave unto Caleb' Hebron, as spake Moses, —and he drew out from thence the three sons of Anak. 21 But <the Jebusites dwelling in Jerusalem> the sons of Benjamin did not drive out, but the Jebusites have dwelt with the sons of Benjamin, 8 in Jerusalem, unto this day.

22 Then went up the house of Joseph —[they also] —unto Bethel, —and [Yahweh] was with them. 22 And the house of Joseph sent to spy out Bethel, —now [the name of the city, formerly] was [Luz]. 24 So the watchmen saw a man coming forth from the city, —and they said unto him —

Shew us, we pray thee, the way to get into the city, and we will deal with thee, in lovingkindness.

10 Deut. xxxiv. 3.
11 = "utter destruction"; cp. Num. xxi. 3.
And he shewed them the way to get into the city, and they smote the city, with the edge of the sword,—but <the man and all his family> they let go. And the man went into the land of the Hittites, and built a city, and called the name thereof Luz, that is the name thereof, unto this day.

But Manasseh took not possession of Bethshean and her towns, nor of Taanach and her towns, nor dispossessed the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Ibleam, and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Megiddo, and her towns,—but the Canaanites were determined to remain in this land; <when Israel, however, had waxed strong> they put the Canaanites under tribute,—though they <dispossessed> them not.

And <Ephraim> dispossessed not the Canaanites who were dwelling in Gezer,—so the Canaanites remained in their midst, in Gezer.

Zebulun dispossessed not the inhabitants of Kitron, nor the inhabitants of Nahalal,—but the Canaanites remained in their midst, and came under tribute.

Acco, nor the inhabitants of Zidon,—nor of Ahlab, nor of Achzib, nor of Helbah, nor of Aphik, nor of Rehob; but the Asherites dwelt in the midst of the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land,—for they dispossessed them not.

Naphtali dispossessed not the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh nor the inhabitants of Beth-anath, but they dwelt in the midst of the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land,—and the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh, and of Beth-anath became theirs, under tribute.

And the Amorites forced the sons of Dan into the hill country,—for they suffered them not to come down into the vale; and <though the Amorites were determined to remain in the hill country of Heres, in Aijalon, and in Shaalbim> yet was the hand of the house of Joseph heavy, so that they came under tribute. And the boundary of the Amorites was from the ascent of Akrabbim, from Sela and upwards.

1 And the messenger of Yahweh came up from Gilgal unto Bochim. And he said—
I led you up out of Egypt, and brought you into the land, which I had sworn unto your fathers, and I said—
I will not break my covenant with you, to times age-abiding;
But ye must not solemnise a covenant with the inhabitants of this land, <their altars> must ye tear down,—But ye have not hearkened unto my voice, what is this ye have done?

Wherefore also I said, I will not drive them out from before you,—but they shall be your adversaries, and their gods shall become unto you a snare.

And it came to pass, <when the messenger of Yahweh had spoken these words> unto all the sons of Israel> that the people lifted up their voice, and wept. So they called the name of that place Bochim, and offered sacrifice there, unto Yahweh.

Now <when Joshua had let the people go> the sons of Israel went away, every man to his inheritance, to take possession of the land. <And the people served Yahweh all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders who outlived Joshua> who had seen all the great work of Yahweh which he had wrought for Israel. So then Joshua, the son of Nun, the servant of Yahweh, died,—being a hundred and ten years old.

And they buried him within the bounds of his inheritance, in Timnath-serah, in the hill country of Ephraim,—on the north of Mount Gaash.

All that generation also were gathered unto their fathers; and there arose a generation after them, after them, who had not known Yahweh, nor even the works which he had wrought for Israel.

So the sons of Israel did the thing that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh,—and served the Baals; and forsook Yahweh, the God of their fathers, who brought them up out of the land of Egypt, and went after other gods, from among the gods of the peoples who were round about them, and bowed themselves down unto them,—and angered Yahweh. Yet, they forsook Yahweh,—and did service unto the Baal and unto Ashtaroth.

Then kindled the anger of Yahweh upon Israel, and he delivered them into the hand of spoilers, who plundered them,—and he sold them into the hand of their enemies round about, so that they could no longer stand before their enemies. <Whithersoever they went out> the hand of Yahweh was found to be against them for misfortune, as spake Yahweh, and as spake Yahweh unto them,—and they were distressed exceedingly.

And <though Yahweh raised up judges, who saved them out of the hand of them that plundered them> yet <even unto their judges> did they not hearken, for they went unchastely astray after other gods, and bowed themselves down to them,—they turned aside speedily out of the way wherein their fathers who hearkened unto the commandments of Yahweh, walked, <they did not so>.

And <when Yahweh raised them up judges> then was Yahweh with the judges, and saved them out of the hand of their enemies, all the days of the judge,—for Yahweh was grieved at their outcry, because of them who oppressed them, and ill-treated them. But <when the judge was dead> they again broke faith more than their fathers, by going their way after other gods, by serving them, and bowing themselves down to them,—they ceased not from their doings nor from their stubborn way.

So then the anger of Yahweh kindled upon Israel, and he said—<Forasmuch as this nation have transgressed my covenant, which I commanded their fathers, and have not hearkened unto my voice>.

[II. Ehud.]

And the sons of Israel again' did the thing that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh,—and Yahweh emboldened Eglon, king of Moab, against Israel, because they did the thing that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh; and he gathered unto him, the sons of Ammon, and Amalek,—and came and smote Israel, and took possession of the city of palm-trees.

So the sons of Israel served Eglon king of Moab, eighteen years.

And the sons of Israel made outcry unto Yahweh, and Yahweh raised up unto them a saviour, Ehud son of Gera, a Benjamite, a man left-handed,—and the sons of Israel sent, by his hand, a present, unto Eglon king of Moab.

So Ehud made himself a sword which had two edges, a cubit in length,—and girded it under his raiment, upon his right thigh.

And so it was <when he had made an end of offering the present> that he sent away the people who had been bearing the present; but the himself turned back from the images that were by Gilgal, and said,

<A secret word> have I, unto thee, O king! And he said—

Silence! * Thereupon went out from his presence all who had been standing near him. And Ehud came in unto him [he] having been sitting in a summer parlour, which he had for himself alone, and Ehud said, <A divine word> have I, unto thee.

So he arose from off his seat. * And Ehud put forth his left hand, and took the sword from off his right thigh,—and thrust it into his body; and the handle also went in after the blade, and the flesh closed upon the blade, for he withdrew not the sword out of his body,—and he came out into the ante-chamber. And <when Ehud came out> his servante went in, and looked, and lo! the doors of the parlour were bolted,—so they said,

Surely he covereth his feet, in the summer chamber.

But <though they tarried a long time> yet lo! he opened not the doors of the parlour,—so they took the key, and opened [them], when lo! their lord[, fallen to the ground dead'.

But {Ehud} escaped while they delayed,—yes [he] passed the images, and escaped into Seirah.

And so it was <when he came> that he blew with a horn throughout the hill country of Ephraim,—and the sons of Israel came down with him, out of the hill country. [he] being before them. 30 And he said unto them—

Come down after me, for Yahweh hath delivered your enemies, the Moabites into your hand.
So they came down after him, and captured the fords of the Jordan, towards Moab, and suffered not a man to pass over. 30 And they smote of Moab, at that time, about ten thousand men, every one a mighty man, and every one a man of valour, —and [there escaped not a man]. 30 And Moab was subdued on that day, under the hand of Israel. And the land had rest eighty years, and Ehud judged them until his death.

[III. Shamgar.]

And <after him> was Shamgar, son of Anath, who smote of the Philistines, six hundred men, with an ox-goad,—and [he also] saved Israel.

[IV. Deborah.]

1 And the sons of Israel again' did the thing that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh,—when {Ehud} was dead. 3 So Yahweh sold them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan, who reigned in Hazor,—now [the prince of his host] was Sisera, and [he] dwelt in Harosheth of the nations. 3 And the sons of Israel made outcry unto Yahweh,—for he had nine hundred chariots of iron, and [he] oppressed the sons of Israel heavily, twenty years.

And {Deborah, a woman who was a prophetess, wife of Lapidoth} [she] was judging Israel, at that time: 5 she' used to sit, therefore, under the palm-tree of Deborah, between Ramah and Bethel, in the hill country of Ephraim,—and the sons of Israel came up to her, for justice. 6 And she sent and called for Barak son of Abinoam, out of Kadesh-naphtali,—and said unto him—

Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, commanded,—

Come and draw towards Mount Tabor, and bring with thee—ten thousand men, of the sons of Naphtali, and of the sons of Zebulun; 7 and I will draw unto thee, unto the torrent of Kishon, Sisera, prince of the host of Jabin, with his chariots, and with his multitude,—and will deliver him into thy hand. 8

And Barak said unto her,

—if thou wilt go with me> then will I go—but —if thou wilt not go with me> I will not go.

And she said—

I will [go] with thee; [only] it shall not be [thine own honour; that shall arise from the journey which thou' art about to take, for [into the hand of a woman] will Yahweh sell Sisera.

So Deborah arose, and went with Barak towards Kadesh. 10 And Barak called together Zebulun and Naphtali, towards Kadesh, and there went up at his feet—ten thousand men,—and Deborah went up with him. 11 Now [Heber the Kenite] had separated himself from the Kenites, even from the sons of Hobab, father-in-law of Moses, 4 —and moved his tent as far as the oak of Zaanan, which is near Kadesh. 12 And they told Sisera that Barak, son of Abinoam, had gone up to Mount Tabor. 13 So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron,—and all the people that were with him,—from Harosheth of the nations, unto the torrent of Kishon. 14 Then said Deborah unto Barak—

Up! for this day is the day on which Yahweh hath delivered Sisera into thy hand, hath not [Yahweh] gone forth before thee? 7 So Barak went down from Mount Tabor, with ten thousand men after him. 19 And Yahweh put to flight Sisera and all the chariots and all the host, with the edge of the sword, before Barak,—so Sisera alighted from his chariot, and fled on foot. 18 Now [Barak] pursued the chariots, and the host, as far as Harosheth of the nations,—and all the host of Sisera fell by the edge of the sword, [there was not left so much as one]. 18 Now [Sisera] had fled on foot, unto the tent of Jael, wife of Heber the Kenite, for there was peace between Jabin, king of Hazor, and the house of Heber the Kenite. 18 Then And Jael went out to meet Sisera, and said unto him—

Turn aside, my lord, turn aside with me, do not fear.
So he turned aside with her into the tent, and she threw him over a coverlet. 19 And he said unto her—

Let me drink, I pray thee, a little water, for I am thirsty.
So she opened the bottle of milk, and gave him drink, and spread over him the coverlet. 20 And he said unto her,

Stand at the entrance of the tent,—and it shall be <if any man come> and ask thee and say—Is there here a man?—that thou shalt say, There is not.

Then took Jael, wife of Heber, the tent-pin, and put the mallet in her hand, and went in unto him, softly, and smote the tent-pin into his temples, and it pierced through into the ground, — he being fast asleep and shrouded in darkness, and he died.

And lo! Barak — in pursuit of Sisera! So Jael went forth to meet him, and said unto him, Come and let me shew thee — the man whom thou' art seeking.

And he came in with her, and lo! Sisera — lying dead, with the tent-pin in his temples.

Thus God subdued, on that day, Jabin king of Canaan, — before the sons of Israel. And the hand of the sons of Israel went on, waxing more and more heavy upon Jabin king of Canaan, — until they had cut off Jabin king of Canaan.

Then sang Deborah, and Barak, son of Abinoam, — on that day, saying:

For the leadership of leaders in Israel,
For the volunteering of the people, —
Bless ye Yahweh!

Hear, ye kings!
Give ear, ye princes!
I will sing,
Will make melody* to Yahweh, God of Israel.

O Yahweh!
When thou didst come forth out of Seir,
When thou didst march along out of the field of Edom,
Earth trembled,
Heaven also poured forth, —
Yea, dark clouds poured forth* waters;
From mountains came down streams
In presence of Yahweh, —
From this Sinai,
In presence of Yahweh, God of Israel.

In the days of Shamgar son of Anath,
In the days of Jael,
The roads were forsaken,—
And the frequenters of highways* betook themselves to roundabout paths:
There was a failure of rulers,
In Israel, a failure,—
Until I arose, a Deborah,
Arose, a mother in Israel: —
They chose gods that were new,*
— war at the gates!
Was there a shield* to be seen?
Or a spear?
Among forty thousand in Israel?*

My heart [asith]—
For the governors of Israel,
For the volunteers among the people—
Bless ye Yahweh!

Ye that ride on whiteasses, —
Ye that sit on carpets, —
Speak!
And ye that walk upon the road, —
In the place of the noise of bowmen among the wells>
There— laud ye—
The righteous acts of Yahweh,
The righteous acts of his rule over Israel.

Then had come down to the gates the people of Yahweh.
Awake! awake! Deborah,
Awake! awake! utter words of song,—
Arise! Barak,
And bindfast thy captives, O son of Abinoam! —

Then came down a remnant to the nobles —
a people,* —
Yahweh came down with me against the mighty.

Out of Ephraim] [came down] they whose root was in Amalek?
After thee, Benjamin, among thy tribes,—
Out of Machir had come down governors,
Out of Zebulun such as bear aloft the staff of the marshal;
And my princes in Issachar were with Deborah,
Yea, Issachar was the support of Barak,
Into the vale rushed they forth at his feet.

Among the divisions of Reuben great were the resolves of the heart:
Wherefore abodest thou among the folds?
To hear the mocking of the flocks?
The divisions of Reuben had great counsellings of heart.

Gilead] [beyond the Jordan] took his rest,
But Dan wherefore remained he with the ships?
Asher abode by the shore of the seas,
And by his creeks* must needs rest.

Zebulun — a people that scorned their souls unto death;
And Naphtali — upon the heights of the field.

On came kings, they fought,
Then fought the kings of Canaan,
In Taanach,
By the waters of Megiddo,—
Plunder of silver they took not away!

From heaven was the battle fought,—
The stars in their courses fought against Sisera.
The torrent of Kishon swept them away,
The torrent of olden times, the torrent of Kishon!

Let my soul march along, with victorious strength!

he fell,
he lay,—
Between her feet> he bowed—
he fell,
Where he bowed>
There> he fell—destroyed!

Through the window> looked out and shrilly cried,
The mother of Sisera, through the lattice,—
Why is his chariot ashamed to come?
Why delay the wheels of his chariot?

The wise ladies, her princesses responded,—
Nay! she> returned answer to herself:—
Is it not They keep finding—dividing spoil,
One damsel, two damsels, to every several hero,
Spoil> of divers coloured raiment> for Sisera,
Spoil> of divers coloured raiment, embroidered,
Coloured raiment richly embroidered,
On the necks of them who are taken as spoil?*

So> perish all thine enemies, O Yahweh,
But bo> they who love him> as the going forth of the sun, in his might!

And the land had rested forty years.

[V. GIDEON.]
And the sons of Israel did the thing that was wicked, in the sight of Yahweh,—so Yahweh delivered them into the hand of Midian seven years;
and the hand of Midian prevailed against Israel,—because of Midian> did the sons of Israel prepare for themselves the hollows> which were in the mountains, and the caves, and the strongholds.
And so it used to be, <if Israel had sown> then came up Midian and Amalek and the sons of the east, yea came up against them, and encamped against them, and destroyed the increase of the land, until thou comest unto Gaza,—neither left they sustenance in Israel, nor sheep nor ox, nor ass;
for they used to come up like locusts for multitude, both they and their cattle> were without number, so they came into the land to lay it waste.
Thus was Israel greatly impoverished, because of Midian,—and the sons of Israel made outcry unto Yahweh.

And it came to pass <when the sons of Israel cried unto Yahweh,—on account of Midian> then sent Yahweh a prophet unto the sons of Israel,—who said unto them—

Thus> saith Yahweh, God of Israel,
I led you out of Egypt,*
And brought you forth out of the house of servants:

Yea I rescued you out of the hand of Egypt,
And out of the hand of all who oppressed you,—
That I might drive b thcm out from before you,
And I gave unto you their land;
Yea and I said to you,—
I, Yahweh> am your God,
Ye must not fear the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye> are about to dwell,—
But ye have not hearkened unto my voice.

Then came the messenger of Yahweh, and sat down under the oak which was in Ophrah, which belonged to Joash, the Abiezrite;
and (Gideon his son>) was beating out wheat> in the winepress, to escape the notice of the Midianites;
so the messenger of Yahweh appeared unto him,—and said unto him,
Yahweh> is with thee, thou mighty man of valour!

And Gideon said unto him—
Pardon, my lord! <if Yahweh be> with us> then wherefore> hath all this beenfallen us?
and where are all his wonders, which our fathers have recounted to us—saying,
Was it not <out of Egypt> that Yahweh brought us up?

But you> hast Yahweh abanoned> us, and delivered us into the hand of Midian.

And Yahweh> [turned unto him] and said—
Go in this thy might, and thou shalt save Israel, out of the hand of Midian,—have I not sent thee?

12 And he said unto him—

Pardon, O my Lord! How shall I save Israel? Lo! I am thy servant, and of the house of my father.

14 And Yahweh said unto him—

I will be with thee, and thou shalt smite the Midianites, as one man.

17 And he said unto him,

If I beessech thee, I have found favour in thine eyes: then wilt thou work for me a sign, that it is thou who art speaking with me.

18 Do not, I beseech thee, withdraw from hence, until I come unto thee, and bring forth my present, and set it before thee.

And he said:

If I will tarry until thou return.

19 So went, and made ready a kid of the goats, and an ephah of meal, an unleavened cake, the flesh: he put in a basket, and the broth: he put in a pot, and brought them forth unto him, under the oak, and presented them. And the messenger of God said unto him—

Take the flesh and the cakes, and set them on this crag, and the broth: do thou pour out.

And he did so.

21 Then the messenger of Yahweh put forth the end of the staff, that was in his hand, and touched the flesh, and the cakes: and there came up fire out of the rock, and consumed the flesh and the cakes, and the messenger of Yahweh had departed out of his sight.

22 Then saw Gideon that the messenger of Yahweh was gone up from him. Also, My Lord Yahweh! forsake me as I have seen the messenger of Yahweh! face to face!

23 And Yahweh said unto him—

Peace be unto thee! Do not fear, thou shalt not die.

24 So built there an altar unto Yahweh, and called it, Yahweh-shalom.

25 And it came to pass, on that night, that Yahweh said unto him—

Take the young bullock that belongeth to thy father, even the second bullock of seven years, and throw thou down the altar of Baal, that belongeth to thy father, and the sacred stem that is by it: shalt thou cut down.

Then shalt thou build an altar unto Yahweh thy God, on the top of this fort, with the pile, and shalt take the second bullock, and cause it to go up as an ascending-sacrifice, with the wood of the sacred stem which thou shalt cut down.

26 So took ten men from among his servants, and did as Yahweh had spoken unto him:—and so it was that <as he> too much feared the house of his father, and the men of the city, to do it by day, he did it by night.

And the men of the city rose up early in the morning, and lo! the altar of Baal [had been overthrown], and the sacred stem that was by it had been cut down, and the second bullock had been caused to ascend upon the altar that had been built.

So they said, one to another,

Who hath done this thing? And they inquired, and made search, and it was said,

Gideon son of Joash hath done this thing.

So the men of the city said unto Joash,

Bring forth thy son, that he may die,—because he hath overthrown the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the sacred stem that was by it.

And Joash said unto all who stood by him—

Will ye plead for Baal, or will ye save him?

Whose pleaseth for him? let him be put to death while it is yet morning,—if he be a god, he be let him plead for himself, because one hath overthrown his altar.

So he was called on that day, Jerub-baal, saying,—

Let Baal plead against me. Because he had overthrown his altar.

Now all the Midianites and the Amalekites and the sons of the east were gathered together,—and they crossed over and pitched in the vale of Jeresel. But the spirit of Yahweh clothed Gideon,—so he blew with a horn, and Abiezzer was gathered after him.

Messengers also sent he throughout all Manasseh, and they also were gathered after him,—messengers also sent he throughout Asher, and throughout Zebulun, and throughout Naphtali, and they came up to meet them.

And Gideon said unto God,—

If thou art about to bring salvation, by my hand, unto Israel, as thou hast spoken> lo! I am placing a woolen fleece, on the threshing-floor,—<if the fleece alone and all the ground be dry> then shall I know that thou wilt bring salvation, by my hand, unto Israel, as thou hast spoken.

And it was so: and he rose up early, on the morrow, and pressed together the fleece, and wrung out the dew from the fleece, a small bowl full of water.

Then said Gideon unto God,

Let not thine anger kindle upon me, but let me speak, only this once:—

Let me, I pray thee, put to the proof this once, with the fleece,
I pray thee, let it be dry on the fleece alone', while <on all the ground> there be dew'.

40 And God did so on that night,—and it was dry on the fleece alone', while <on all the ground> there was dew'.

7 Then Jerubbash [the same] is Gideon, and all the people that were with him, rose up early, and encompassed by the fountain of Harod,—and the camp of Midian was on the north of them, by the hill of Moreh, on the vale. 3 And Yahweh said unto Gideon,

<Too many> are the people that are with thee, for me to deliver the Midianites into their hand,—lest Israel vaunt themselves against me, saying, [Mine own hand] hath saved me.

3 [Now] therefore, proclaim, I pray thee, in the ears of the people, saying, [Whose fearer and trembleth]—let him turn and go back from Mount Gilead.

And there returned of the people twenty-two thousand, and <ten thousand> remained. 4 Then said Yahweh unto Gideon, [Yet] are the people too many, take them down unto the waters, that I may prove them for thee there,—and it shall be, that <he of whom I say unto thee>, [This one shall go with thee] [the same] shall go with thee, and <every one of whom I say unto thee>, [This one shall not go with thee] [the same] shall not go.

5 So he took down the people unto the waters,—and Yahweh said unto Gideon, <Every one that lappeth with his tongue of the water, as a dog lappeth> thou shalt set him' by himself, likewise <every one that boweth down upon his knees, to drink>.

6 And so it was, that <the number of them that lapped with their hand to their mouth> was three hundred men,—but <all the rest of the people> bowed down on their knees, to drink water. 7 Then said Yahweh unto Gideon,

<By the three hundred men that lapped> I will save you, and deliver the Midianites into thy hand; and let [all [the rest of] the people] go every man to his own place.

8 So the people took provisions in their hand, and their horns, but <every man of Israel besides> sent he away every man to his home, whereas <the three hundred men> he retained. Now [the camp of Midian] was beneath him in the vale.

9 And it came to pass <on that night> that Yahweh said unto him,

Arise! go down against the camp,—for I have delivered it into thy hand.

10 Or <if thou art afraid'> to go down, go down>—thou and Purah thy young man> unto the camp; 11 so shalt thou hear what they shall say, — and <afterward> shall thy hands grow strong, and thou shalt go down against the camp.

Then went he down, ||he' and Purah his young man||, unto the outmost part of the armed men that were in the camp. 12 Now ||the Midianites and the Amalekites and all the sons of the east|| were lying along in the vale, ||like locusts for multitude||,—<their camels also> were without number, ||as the sand that is by the sea side, for multitude>>. 13 And Gideon came in, and lo! a man relating to his neighbour a dream,—and he said—

Lo!  have I dreamed, and lo! a round cake of barley bread tumbling into the camp of Midian, and it came as far as the tent—and smote it that it fell, and turned it upside down, and the tent lay along.

14 Then responded his neighbour and said:—

<Nothing else> is this, than the sword of Gideon son of Josheb, a man of Israel,—God hath delivered' into his hand, both Midian and all the host.

15 And it was so <when Gideon heard> the story of the dream, and the interpretation thereof> that he bowed himself down,—and returned unto the camp of Israel, and said—

Arise! for Yahweh hath delivered into your hand the host of Midian.

16 And he divided the three hundred men, into three companies,—and put horns into the hands of them all, with empty pitchers, and torches inside the pitchers. 17 Then he said unto them,

<On me> shall ye look, and <in like manner> shall ye do,—and lo! <when I am coming unto the outmost part of the camp> then shall it be, that <as I do> [so] shall ye do. 18 <When I shall blow with the horn>, [I and all who are with me]> then shall ye also, round about all the camp, blow with your horns, and shall say,

For <Yahweh and for Gideon>!

19 So Gideon came, and the hundred men that were with him, unto the outmost part of the camp, at the beginning of the middle watch, they had but <in newly set> the watchers,—and they blew with the horns, and brake in pieces the pitchers, that were in their hand. 20 <Ye> the three companies blew with the horns, and shivered the pitchers, and caught hold,—with their left hands,—of the torches, while <in their right hands> were the horns, to blow with,—and they cried,

A sword for Yahweh, and for Gideon!

21 And they stood still, every man in his place, round about the camp,—and all the host ran' and shouted, and fled. 22 When the three hundred blew the horns, Yahweh set the sword of every man, against his neighbour, and against all the host,—and the host fled, as far as the Place of Acacia, towards Zererath, as far as the border of Abel-meholah, by Tabath. 22 And the men of Israel were called together, out of Naphthali and out of Asher, and out of all Manasseh,—and pursed Midian. 23 And <messengers> did Gideon send through all the hill country of Ephraim, saying—Go down to meet Midian, and capture, before them, the waters, as far as Beth-barah, and the Jordan. So all the men of Ephraim were called out, and captured the waters, as far as Beth-barah, and the Jordan. 25 And they captured the two princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb, and slew Oreb at Oreb's Rock, and <Zeeb> they slew at Zeeb's Winepress, and pursued Midian, and <the heads of Oreb and Zeeb> brought they in unto Gideon at the ford of the Jordan.

8 1 And the men of Ephraim said unto him—What is this thing thou hast done to us, in not calling us, when thou wentest to fight with Midian? And they chide with him sharply. And he said unto them, What have I done [now], in comparison with you? Is not the grape-gleaning of Ephraim better than the vintage of Abiezer? 9 Into your hand> hath God delivered the princes of Midian—Oreb and Zeeb, what then had I been able to do in comparison with you?

Then was their spirit softened toward him, when he had spoken this word. 4 And Gideon came towards the Jordan, being about to pass over—[he] and the three hundred men who were with him, [faint yet pursuing].

So he said unto the men of Succoth, Give, I pray you, leaves of bread to the people that are following me; for <faint> they are, and [I am in pursuit of Zebah and Zalmunna, kings of Midian. 6 And the princes of Succoth said, Are the palms of the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna already in thy power,—that we should give to thine army bread? 7 And Gideon said, Therefore <when Yahweh hath delivered Zebah and Zalmunna into my power> then will I tear your flesh with the thorns of the wilderness, and with the nettles.

So he went up from thence, to Penuel, and spake unto them in like manner,—and the men of Penuel answered him, as had answered the men of Succoth. So he spake to the men of Penuel also, saying,—When I return with success> I will break down this tower.

Now [Zebah and Zalmunna] were in Karkor, and their hosts with them. [about fifteen thousand, all that were left out of all the host of the sons of the east,—and [the fallen] were a hundred and twenty thousand men, who had drawn the sword. 11 So Gideon went up by the way of the tent-dwellers, on the east of Nobah and Jogbeah, and smote the host, when [the host] had become secure. 12 And when Zebah and Zalmunna fled, then he pursued them, and captured the two kings of Midian—Zebah and Zalmunna, and <all the host> put he in terror.

And Gideon son of Joash returned from the battle,—from the ascent of Heres; 14 and caught a young man, of the men of Succoth, and enquired of him,—so he wrote down for him the princes of Succoth, and the elders thereof, seventy-seven men. 15 Then came he in unto the men of Succoth, and said, Lo! Zebah and Zalmunna,—concerning whom ye did taunt me, saying—Are the palms of the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna already in thy power, that we should give to thy weary men bread?

So he took the elders of the city, and the thorns of the wilderness and the nettles, and taught therewith the men of Succoth: 17 [the tower of Penuel also] brake he down,—and slew the men of the city. 18 Then said he unto Zebah and unto Zalmunna, What manner of men were they, whom ye slew at Tabor? And they said, [As thou art, so were they], [each one] as handsome as the sons of a king. 19 And he said: [My brethren, sons of my mother> they were! [As Yahweh liveth] <if ye had saved them alive> I would not have slain you'.

20 So he said to Jether his firstborn, Up! slay them. But the youth drew not his sword, for he feared, because he was yet a youth. 21 Then said Zebah and Zalmunna—Up! [thou] and fall upon us, for [like the man] is his might. So Gideon arose, and slew Zebah and Zalmunna, and took the crescents that were on the necks of their camels. 22 Then said the men of Israel, unto Gideon, Rule over us—[even thou, and thy son, and thy son's son],—for thou hast saved us out of the power of Midian.

And Gideon said unto them, [I will not rule over you, neither shall my son rule over you,—Yahweh shall rule over you, 24 And Gideon said unto them—I would make to you a request, Give me then, every man the nose-ring of his spoil. For they had [nose-rings of gold] for <Ishmaelites> they were'. 26 And they said, We will freely give’.
So they spread out a mantle, and cast therein, every man the nose-ring of his spoil. 26 And it was, that the weight of the nose-rings of gold which he requested, was a thousand and seven hundred [shchekels] of gold.—besides' the crescents, and the pendants, and the raiment of purple that were upon the kings of Midian, and besides' the ornaments that were on the necks of their camels. 27 And Gideon made thereof an Ephod,* and set it up in his own city, in Ophrah, and all Israel went unchastely astray after it there,—so it became, to Gideon and to his house, a snare. 28 Thus was Midian subdued, before the sons of Israel, neither did they again lift up their head,—and the land had rest forty years, in the days of Gideon.

So then Jerubaal, son of Joash, went and dwelt in his own house. 30 And Gideon had seventy sons, sprung from his own loins,—for <many wives> had he. 31 And <his concubine who was in Shechem> [she also] bare him a son,—and he gave him the name of Abimelech. 32 And Gideon, son of Joash, died in a good old age,—and was buried in the grave of Joash his father, in Ophrah, of the Abiezrites.

And it came to pass that <as soon as Gideon was dead> the sons of Israel turned back, and went unchastely astray after the Baals,—and appointed them Baal-berith, to be god: 34 so the sons of Israel remembered not Yahweh, their own God,—who had rescued them out of the hand of all their enemies, on every side; neither dealt they in lovingkindness with the house of Jerubaal [namely] Gideon,—[according to all the goodness wherewith he had dealt with Israel].

[VI. ABIMELECH.]

1 Then went Abimelech son of Jerubaal, to Shechem, unto the brethren of his mother,—and spake unto them, and unto all the family of the house of his mother's father, saying; 2 Speak, I pray you, in the ears of all the owners of Shechem,—Which is better for you, that there should rule over you, seventy men, all sons of Jerubaal, or that there should rule over you, one man? And remember that <your bone and your flesh> am I! 3 So the brethren of his mother spake for him, in the ears of all the owners of Shechem, all these words,—and their heart inclined after Abimelech, for they said—<Our own brother> is he'. 4 So they gave him seventy pieces of silver, out of the house of Baal-berith,—and Abimelech hired therewith, loose and unstable men, and they followed him. 5 And he entered the house of his father, at Ophrah, and slew his brethren, sons of Jerubaal [seventy men, upon one stone],—but there remained Jotham, the youngest son of Jerubaal, for he had hidden himself. 6 Then were gathered together all the owners of Shechem, and all the house of Millo,* and they went and made Abimelech king,—by the oak of the pillar, that was in Shechem. 7 And <when it was told Jotham> he went and stood on the top of Mount Gerizim, and lifted up his voice, and cried aloud,—and said unto them—Hearken unto me, ye owners of Shechem, and may God' [hearken unto you]. 8 The trees [went their way]* to anoint over them, a king,—and they said unto the olive tree—Reign thou over us. 9 But the olive tree said unto them, Should I leave my fatness, which <in me> gods and men do honour,—and go to wave to and fro, over the trees? 10 Then said the trees unto the fig-tree,—Come! [thou reign over us. 11 But the fig-tree said' unto them, Should I leave my sweetness, and mine excellent increase,—and go to wave to and fro, over the trees? 12 Then said the trees unto the vine,—Come! [thou reign over us. 13 But the vine' said unto them, Should I leave my new wine, that rejoiceth gods and men,—and go to wave to and fro, over the trees? 14 Then said all the trees, unto the bramble,—Come [thou] to reign over us. 15 And the bramble said unto the trees, <If [in truth] ye' are about to anoint me to be king over you> come, take refuge in my shade,—but <if not> there shall come forth fire out of the bramble, and devour the cedars of Lebanon. 16 [Now] therefore, <if <in truth and sincerity> ye have acted, in making Abimelech king,—and if ye have dealt [well] with Jerubaal and with his house, and if <according to the deserving of his hands> ye have done unto him; 17 in that my father fought for you, and cast his soul away from before him, and rescued you' out of the hand of Midian,—yet have [ye] risen up against the house of my father, to-day, and slain his sons—seventy men, upon one stone],—and made Abimelech, son of his maidservant, king over the owners of Shechem, because he is [your brother]; 19 if then <in truth and sincerity> ye have dealt with Jerubaal and with his house, this day> rejoice ye in Abimelech, and let [him also] rejoice in you; 20 but <if not> let fire come out from Abimelech, and devour the owners of Shechem, and the house of Millo,—and let fire come out from the owners of Shechem, and from the house of Millo, and devour Abimelech!

to Beer,—and dwelt there, away from the face of Abimelech his brother.

And Abimelech ruled over Israel three years.

Then God let go a spirit of mischief between Abimelech and the owners of Shechem,—and the owners of Shechem dealt treacherously with Abimelech: 34 that the cruel wrong to the seventy sons of Jerubbaal might come [upon them]—and that their blood might be laid upon Abimelech their brother, who slew them, and upon the owners of Shechem, who strengthened his hands to slay his brethren. 35 So the owners of Shechem set for him liears in wait, upon the tops of the mountains, and they robbed all who crossed over them by the road,—and it was told Abimelech.

And Gaal son of Ebed 36 came, with his brethren, and they passed through to Shechem,—and the owners of Shechem put their trust in him. 37 Then went they out into the fields, and gathered the fruit of their vineyards and trode [the grapes], and held a vintage festival,—and entered the house of their god, and did eat and drink, and poured contempt on Abimelech.

And Gaal son of Ebed 38 said: Who is Abimelech—and who is the son of Shechem, that we should serve him? Is he not the son of Jerubbaal? and Zebul his officer? Serve ye the men of Hamor, Shechem's father, but why should we serve him?

Would then, this people were in my hand! that I might set aside Abimelech,—and say 39 to Abimelech.

Increase thine army, and come out!

And < when Zebul, governor of the city, heard' the words of Gaal the son of Ebed > 40 then was kindled his anger. 41 And he sent messengers unto Abimelech, by deceit, saying,—Lo! Gaal son of Ebed, and his brethren are coming into Shechem; and lo! are fortifying the city against thee.

Now therefore, up by night, [thou and the people that are with thee] and lie in wait in the field; 42 and it shall be in the morning, about sunrise: thou shalt get up early, and spread thyself out against the city,—when lo! he and the people that are with him coming out against thee, so shalt thou do unto him as thy hand shall find opportunity.

So Abimelech rose up, and all the people that were with him, by night,—and they lay in wait above Shechem, in four companies. 43 Then came forth Gaal son of Ebed, 44 and took his stand at the opening of the gate of the city,—so Abimelech rose up, and the people that were with him, from the place of ambush. 45 And when Gaal saw the people, he said unto Zebul, Lo! people coming down from the tops of the mountains.

And Zebul said unto him, <The shadow of the mountains> thou' seest, like men. 46

Then did Gaal yet further speak, and say—Lo! people coming down from the highest part of the land,—and one company, coming in by way of the Conjurers' Terebinth.

So then Zebul said unto him,—Where thon, is thy mouth that kept on saying,

Who is Abimelech, that we should serve him?

Is not <this> the people which thou didst despise? Go forth, I pray thee [now], 47 and fight with them!

And Gaal went forth before the owners of Shechem,—and fought against Abimelech. 48 And Abimelech chased him, and he fled before him,—and there fell a multitude of slain as far as the entering of the gate.

Then dwelt Abimelech in Arumah, 49—and Zebul thrust out Gaal and his brethren, that they should not dwell in Shechem.

And it came to pass < on the morrow > that the people went forth into the field,—and they told Abimelech. 50 So he took the people and divided them into three companies, and lay in wait in the field,—and he looked, and lo! the people coming forth out of the city, so he rose up against them, and smote them. 51 And Abimelech, and the companies that were with him, spread themselves out, and [one of the companies] took their stand at the opening of the gate of the city,—while [the two companies] spread themselves out against all that were in the field, and smote them. 52 And Abimelech fought against the city, all that day, and captured the city, < the people also that were therein > he slew,—and brake down the city, and sowed it with salt.

And < when all the owners of the tower of Shechem heard > they entered into the base ment 53 of the house of El-berith. 54 And it was told Abimelech, that all the owners of the tower of Shechem had gathered themselves together. 55 So Abimelech went up Mount Zalmon 56 he and all the people that were with him, and Abimelech took an axe in his hand, and cut down a bough from the trees, 57 and lifted it, and laid it on his shoulder,—and said unto the people that were with him—What ye have seen me do, haste! do likewise.

So, even all the people cut down every man his bough, and followed Abimelech, and laid them over the base ment, 58 and set it on fire over them who were therein,—even all the men of the tower of Shechem died, about a thousand men and women.

50 Then went Abimelech unto Thebez, and encamped against Thebez, and captured it.

51 Now there was a strong tower in the midst of the city, and there was a millstone upon the head of Abimelech, and brake in pieces his skull.

52 Then called he hastily unto the young man bearing his armour, and said unto him—

Draw thy sword, and put me to death, lest they say of me, a woman slew him.

So his young man thrust him through, and he died.

And when the men of Israel saw that Abimelech was dead, they went their way every man to his own place.

Thus did God requite the wickedness of Abimelech, which he had done to his father, in slaying his seventy brethren; and all the wickedness also, of the men of Shechem, did God requite upon their own head, and so brought in upon them the curse of Jotham, son of Jerubbaal.

[VII. TOLA.]

10 And there arose, after Abimelech, to save Israel—Tola son of Puah, son of Dodo, a man of Issachar,—and he used to sit in Shamir, in the hill country of Ephraim; and he judged Israel twenty-three years, and died, and was buried in Shamir.

[VIII. JAIR.]

3 And there arose, after him, Jair the Gileadite, and he judged Israel twenty-two years. Now he had thirty sons, that rode on thirty ass colts, and they had thirty cities,—they are called Havvoth-jair, until this day, which are in the land of Gilead. And Jair died, and was buried in Kamon.

[IX. JEPHTHAH.]

6 And the sons of Israel again did the thing that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh, and served the Baals and the Ashtoreths, and the gods of Syria, and the gods of Zidon, and the gods of Moab, and the gods of the sons of Ammon, and the gods of the Phillistines, and forsook Yahweh, and served him not.

So the anger of Yahweh kindled upon Israel, and he sold them into the hand of the Phillistines, and into the hand of the sons of Ammon; and they envied and oppressed the sons of Israel in that year,— a Mt., "bring back."

b How "judging" may mean "vindicting," and "vindicating" may amount to "saving," this Book of Judges abundantly shows. This development of the idea assumes importance in connection with Psalm lxxix., and many other places.

<eighteen years> did they this unto all the sons of Israel who were beyond the Jordan, in the land of the Amorites, that was in Gilead.

9 And the sons of Ammon crossed the Jordan, to fight, even against Judah and against Benjamin, and against the house of Ephraim;—so that Israel was sore distressed.

10 Then did the sons of Israel make outcry unto Yahweh, saying,—

We have sinned against thee, because we have forsaken our God, and have served the Baals.

11 Then said Yahweh unto the sons of Israel,—Wasa it not from the Egyptians, and from the Amorites, and from the sons of Ammon, and from the Phillistines [that I saved you]?

12 The Zidonians also, and the Amalekites, and the Maonites oppressed you,—and ye made outcry unto me, and I saved you out of their hand.

13 Yet have ye forsaken me, and served other gods,—therefore will I not again save you.

14 Go and make outcry unto the gods whom ye have chosen,—they must save you, in the time of your tribulation.

15 And the sons of Israel said unto Yahweh—We have sinned, do thou with us, according to all that is fitting in thine eyes,—only rescue us, we beseech thee this day.

16 And they put away the gods of the stranger out of their midst, and served Yahweh, and his soul was impatient of the misery of Israel.

17 Now the sons of Ammon were called out, and they encamped in Gilead,—and the sons of Israel assembled themselves together, and encamped in Mizpah. Then said the people, the princes of Gilead, one to another,—Who is the man that will begin to fight against the sons of Ammon? he shall become head to all the inhabitants of Gilead.

1 Now Jephthah the Gileadite was a mighty man of valour, but the daughter was the son of an unchaste woman,—yet Gilead was the father of Jephthah. And the wife of Gilead bare him sons,—and when the wife's sons grew up they thrust out Jephthah, and said unto him—Thou shalt not inherit with the house of our father, for son of an alien woman art thou.'

1 So Jephthah fled from the face of his brethren, and dwelt in the land of Tob,—and there gathered about Jephthah unemployed men, who went forth with him. And so it came to pass, after a time,—that the sons of Ammon made war with Israel. When, therefore, it came to pass that the sons of Ammon made war with Israel, then went the elders of Gilead, to summon Jephthah out of the land of Tob. And they said to Jephthah,
Oh! come and be our commander,—that we may do battle with the sons of Ammon.

But Jephthah said to the elders of Gilead,

Have not ye hated me, and thrust me out from the house of my father? Wherefore, then, are ye come unto me now, when ye are in distress?

And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah—

Therefore! have we now returned unto thee, that if thou go with us, and do battle with the sons of Ammon, and Yahweh deliver them up before me, shall I myself become your head?

And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead—

If ye do bring me back to do battle with the sons of Ammon, and Yahweh deliver them up before me, shall I myself become your head?

And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah—

Yahweh himself will be hearkening between us, if according to thy word.

Then went Jephthah with the elders of Gilead, and the people set him over them, as head and commander,—and Jephthah spoke all his words before Yahweh, in Mizpah.

So then Jephthah sent messengers unto the king of the sons of Ammon, saying—

What occasion is there between us, that thou shouldst have come unto me, to fight against my land?

And the king of the sons of Ammon said unto the messengers of Jephthah—

Because Israel took away my land, when they came up out of Egypt, from Arnon even unto the Jabbok, and unto the Jordan,—now, therefore, restore them in peace.

And Jephthah yet once more sent messengers unto the king of the sons of Ammon; and said unto him—

Thus saith Jephthah,—Israel took not away the land of Moab, or the land of the sons of Ammon; for when they came up out of Egypt, and Israel journeyed through the desert as far as the Red Sea, and came in unto Kadesh, then did Israel send messengers unto the king of Edom, saying—

Let me pass, I pray thee, through thy land, but the king of Edom hearkened not, unto the king of Moab also sent they, but he would not consent,—so Israel abode in Kadesh. Then journeyed they through the desert, and went round the land of Edom, and the land of Moab, and so came from the rising of the sun to the land of Moab, beyond Arnon, and entered not within the boundary of Moab, for Arnon is the boundary of Moab. Then did Israel send messengers unto Sihon king of the Amorites, king of Heshbon,—and Israel said unto him,

Let us pass, we pray thee, through thy land, as far as my own place.

But Sihon trusted not Israel, to pass through his boundary, so Sihon gathered together all his people, and encamped in Jahaz,—and fought against Israel. Then did Yahweh, God of Israel, deliver up Sihon, and all his people, into the hand of Israel, and they smote them,—so Israel took possession of all the land of the Amorites, the inhabitants of that land. Yes they took possession of all the territory of the Amorites,—from Arnon, even as far as the Jabbok, and from the desert, even as far as the Jordan.

Therefore it was Yahweh God of Israel that dispossessed the Amorites from before his people Israel,—and shalt thou possess it? What Chemos thy god giveth thee to possess will thou not possess? and whatsoever Yahweh our God hath set before us to possess shall we not possess?

Therefore, art thou really better than Balak son of Zippor, king of Moab? Hath there been any striving at all with Israel, or any fighting at all with them, all the time that Israel hath been dwelling in Heshbon and in her towns, and in Arroer and in her towns, and in all the cities that are on the banks of Arnon,—for three hundred years? Wherefore, then, have ye not made a rescue within this time? Therefore, have not sinned against thee; but thou art doing me a wrong, in fighting against me, Let Yahweh, the Judge, give judgment today, between the sons of Israel, and the sons of Ammon!

But the king of the sons of Ammon hearkened not unto the words of Jephthah, which he sent unto him.

Then came upon Jephthah the spirit of Yahweh, and he passed through Gilead and Manasseh,—and passed through Mizpah of Gilead, and from Mizpah of Gilead he passed through unto the sons of Ammon. And Jephthah vowed a vow unto Yahweh, and said,—If thou wilt deliver the sons of Ammon into my hand, then shall it be, that whatsoever cometh forth out of the doors of my house, to meet me, when I return successful, from the sons of Ammon shall belong unto Yahweh, and I will offer him up, as an ascending-sacrifice.

32 So then Jephthah passed over unto the sons of Ammon, to fight against them; and Yahweh delivered them into his hand; and he smote them from Aroer even till thouest in to Minmith, even twenty cities, and so far as Abelkeramim, with an exceeding great smiting, and thus were the sons of Ammon subdued before the sons of Israel.

21 Then came Jephthah towards Mizpah unto his own house, and lo ||[his daughter]|| coming forth to meet him, with timbrels, and with dances, and she ||was none other than his only child,|| he had not, besides her, either son or daughter.

33 And it came to pass ||[when he saw her]|| that he rent his clothes, and said—

Thou hast opened wide thy mouth unto Yahweh,

12 1 And the men of Ephraim were called together, and passed over northward, and said unto Jephthah—

Wherefore didst thou pass over to do battle with the sons of Ammon, and ||for us|| didst not call, to go with thee? ||Thy house|| will we consume over thee with fire.

2 And Jephthah said unto them, ||Great strife|| had ||I and my people,|| even with the sons of Ammon; but ||when I cried unto you for help,|| ye saved me not out of their hand. ||So < when I saw that thou hast not going to save > then put ||my life in my hand; and passed over against the sons of Ammon, and Yahweh delivered them into my hand. ||Wherefore, then, have ye come up against me this day, to fight against me?||

4 And Jephthah gathered together all the men of Gilead, and fought with Ephraim, and the men of Gilead smote Ephraim, because they said—

||Fugitives of Ephraim|| are ||ye,|| O ye Gileadites, in the midst of Ephraim, in the midst of Manasseh.

5 And the Gileadites captured the fords of the Jordan, against the Ephraimites,—and so it was, that < when the fugitives of Ephraim said, Yahweh delivered them up into the hand of the Philistines forty years.

1 And there was a certain man of Zorah, of the family of the Danites, and his name was Manoah; and his wife was barren, and had borne no child.

2 And the messenger of Yahweh appeared unto the woman, and said unto her—

Lo! I pray thee, thou art barren, and hast borne no child, but thou shalt conceive, and shalt bear a son. Now therefore, beware, I pray thee, and do not drink wine or strong drink, nor eat anything unclean; for lo! the art about to conceive and bear a son, and no razor shall come on his head, for one separate unto God shall be from his birth, and he shall begin to save Israel out of the hand of the Philistines. So the woman came in, and told her husband, saying, A man of God came unto me, and his appearance was as the appearance of the messenger of God, reverend exceedingly, and I asked him what his name was, and he told me not: But he said unto me, Lo! thou art about to conceive, and bear a son; now therefore, do not drink wine or strong drink, nor eat anything unclean, for one separate unto God shall be from his birth until the day of his death.

3 Then Manoah made entreaty unto Yahweh, and said:

Pardon, O My Lord! The man of God whom thou didst send, I pray thee, let him come again unto me, that he may teach us what we are to do, unto the boy that is to be born.

And God hearkened unto the voice of Manoah, and the messenger of God came again unto the woman, as she was sitting in the field, Manoah her husband not being with her. So the woman made haste, and ran, and told her husband, and said unto him, Lo! the man that appeared unto me, who came the other day, is come again unto me.

4 Then Manoah arose, and followed his wife, and came unto the man, and said unto him—

Art thou the man that spake unto the wife? And he said, I am.

5 And Manoah said, Now let thy words come to pass, What shall be the rule for the boy, and his work?

And the messenger of Yahweh said unto Manoah—

6 Of all that I said unto the woman let her beware.

And his father and his mother said to him—
Is there not, among the daughters of thy brethren, or among all my people, a woman, that thou'art going away, to take a woman' from among the uncircumcised' Philistines?
But Samson said unto his father—
Take [her] for me, for [she] is pleasant in mine eyes.
4 Now his father and his mother knew not, that [from Yahweh] it was, that [an occasion]—he was seeking of the Philistines,—at that time the Philistines having dominion over Israel.
5 So Samson went down, and his father and his mother, to Timnath,—and they came as far as the vineyards of Timnath, when lo! a young lion!! roaring to meet him. And the Spirit of Yahweh came suddenly over him, and he tore in pieces as if he had torn in pieces a kid, there being nothing at all in his hand,—but he told not his father or his mother what he had done.
6 So he went down, and spake unto the woman,—and she was pleasant in the eyes of Samson.
And he returned, after a time, to take her, and went aside to see the carcasse of the lion,—and lo! a swarm of bees[] in the body of the lion, and [honey], which he took into his hands, and went on—eating as he went, and came unto his father and unto his mother, and gave unto them, and they did eat,—but he told them not that [out of the carcasse of the lion] he had taken the honey.
10 And his father went down unto the woman,—and Samson made there a banquet, for [so] used the young men [to do].
11 And it came to pass [because they feared him] that they took thirty companions, who remained with him.
12 And Samson said unto them,
I pray you let me put you forth a riddle,— [if ye] tell [it] me, within the seven days of the banquet, and find it out—then will I give you thirty linen wraps and thirty changes of raiment; but [if ye cannot] tell me then shall [ye] give me' thirty linen wraps, and thirty changes of raiment.
And they said unto him,
Put forth thy riddle, that we may hear it.
14 And he said to them—
<Out of the eater> came forth food,
And [out of the strong] came forth sweetness.
15 And it came to pass [on the fourth day] that they said to Samson's wife, Entice thy husband, that he may tell us the riddle, lest we burn thee and the house of thy father, with fire. Wast it not [to impoverish us> that ye invited us—[was it not]?

16 And the wife of Samson wept upon him, and said—
Thou dost [altogether hate me], and dost not love me, [a riddle] hast thou put forth to the sons of my people, and [unto me] hast thou not told it!
And he said to her,
Lo! [to my own father and mother> have I not told it, and [to thee> shall I tell it?
17 So she wept upon him the seven days,—while their banquet lasted,—and it came to pass [on the seventh day] that he told her, because she urged him, and she told the riddle unto the sons of her people.
18 And the men of the city said to him, [on the seventh day]—ere yet the sun went in—
What is sweeter than honey?
And what is stronger than a lion?
And he said to them:
[If ye had not ploughed> with my heifer>
Ye had not found out my riddle!
19 And the Spirit of Yahweh came suddenly over him, and he went down to Ashkelon, and smote of them thirty men, and took their garments, and gave the changes of raiment to them who had told the riddle,—and his anger was kindled, and he went up to his father's house. And the wife of Samson was given unto his companion' who had served him as his friend.
And it came to pass [after a time, in the 15 days of wheat-harvest> that Samson went to visit his wife, with a kid, and he said—
I will go in unto my wife, in the chamber. But her father would not suffer him to go in.
3 And her father said—
I [thought] that thou didst [hate] her, so I gave her to thy companion,—Is not [her younger sister] fairer than she? Pray let her be thine, in her stead.
3 And Samson said of them,
I shall be more blameless this time, than the Philistines,—though I should do them a mischief.
4 So Samson went, and caught three hundred jackals,—and took torches, and turned tail to tail, and put one torch between the two tails, in the midst. And, when he had set fire to the torches, he let them go into the standing corn of the Philistines,—and set fire, both to the stack of sheaves and to the standing corn, and besides to the olive plantation.
6 Then said the Philistines—
Who hath done this? And they said—

Samson, son-in-law of the Timnite, because he hath taken his wife, and given her to his companion.

So the Philistines went up and burned her and her father, with fire. 7 And Samson said to them, <Though ye do the like of this> yet will I be avenged upon you, and <afterwards> will I cease.

8 So he smote them, leg on thigh, with a great smiting, and went down and dwelt in a cleft of the crag Etam. 9 Then went up the Philistines, and encamped in Judah, and were spread abroad in Lehi. 10 And the men of Judah said,

Wherefore have ye come up against us?

And they said—

<To bind Samson> are we come up, to do unto him as he hath done unto us.

11 Then went down three thousand men of Judah, unto the cleft of the crag Etam, and said unto Samson—

Knowest thou not that the Philistines are lording it over us? What, then, is this thou hast done to us? 4 And he said unto them,

<As they have done to me> ||so|| have I done to them.

12 And they said to him—

<To bind thee> are we come up, to deliver thee into the hand of the Philistines.

And Samson said to them,

Swear to me, that ye will not fall upon me ||yourselves||.

13 And they answered him, saying—

Nay; but we will ||bind|| thee, and deliver thee into their hand, but we will not ||put thee to death||.

So they bound him with two new ropes, and took him up from the crag. 14 ||He|| was coming in as Lehi, and the Philistines came shouting to meet him,—when the Spirit of Jehovah came suddenly over him, and the ropes that were upon his arms became as threads of flax which have been ignited with fire, so that his bonds melted from off his hands. 15 Then found he the jawbone of an ass newly-slain, ||so|| he thrust forth his hand, and took it, and smote therewith ||twice men||.

16 And Samson said,

<With the jawbone of an ass>—

Have I piled them up in heaps? 17 With the jawbone of an ass

Have I smitten a thousand men!

17 And it came to pass ||when he had made an end of speaking> that he cast away the jaw-bone out of his hand, and called the name of that place Ramath-lehi. 18 And he was sore athirst, so he cried unto Jehovah, and said,

||Thou art ||haat given, into the hand of thy servant, this great salvation, and now|| must I die of thirst, and fall into the hand of the uncircumcised?

19 So then God clave open the hollow that is in Lehi, and there came therefrom water, and he drank, and his spirit came back, and he revived,—<for this cause> called he the name thereof—Ain-hakkore, which is in Lehi, until this day.

20 And he judged Israel, in the days of the Philistines, twenty years.

1 Then went Samson unto Gaza, and saw || there an unchaste woman||, and went in unto her. 2 And it was told ||the Gazites||, saying—

Samson hath come in hither. So they came round, and lay in wait for him, all the night, in the gate of the city,—but kept themselves quiet all the night, saying, <Until the light of the morning> then will we slay him.

3 And Samson lay till midnight, and arose at midnight, and took hold of the doors of the gate of the city, and of the two doorposts, and tore them away, with the bar, and put them on his shoulders,—and carried them up to the top of the hill that faceeth Hebron.

4 And it came to pass, after this, that he loved a woman in the ravine of Sh seventh, whose ||name|| was Delilah. 5 So the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and said to her—

Entice him, and see wherein lieth his great strength, and wherewith we may prevail against him, and bind him, to humble him, and ||we|| will give thee, every man, ||seven hundred pieces of silver||.

6 So Delilah said unto Samson,

Do tell me, I pray thee, wherein lieth thy great strength, and wherewith thou mightest be bound, to humble thee.

7 And Samson said unto her,

<If they bind me with seven green cords, that have not been dried> then shall I become weak, and be as any other man.

8 So the lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven green cords, that had not been dried,—and she bound him therewith. 9 Now ||the liers in wait|| were tarrying for her, in an inner chamber,—and she said unto him,—

||The Philistines|| are upon thee, Samson!

And he snapped the cords as a thread of tow is broken, when fire bloweth thereon, so his strength was not discovered. 10 And Delilah said unto Samson,
Lo! thou hast been laughing at me, and speaking unto me falsehoods,—Now do tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mightest be bound.

11 And he said unto her, If they bind me fast with new ropes, wherewith work was never done, then shall I become weak, and be as any other man.

12 So Delilah took new ropes, and bound him therewith, and said unto him—The Philistines are upon thee, Samson! Now the lords in wait were tarrying in an inner chamber. And he snapped them off his arms like a thread.

13 And Delilah said unto Samson—Hitherto hast thou been laughing at me, and speaking unto me falsehoods, do tell me, wherewith thou mightest be bound. And he said unto her, If thou weave the seven braids of my head with the warp.

14 So she beat them up with the pin, and said unto him, The Philistines are upon thee, Samson! And he awoke out of his sleep, and pulled out the pin of the loom, and the warp.

15 And she said unto him—How canst thou say, I love thee, when thy heart is not with me? These three times hast thou laughed at me, and hast not told me wherein lieth thy great strength.

16 And it came to pass when she urged him with her words continually, and pressed him that his soul became impatient, unto death; so he told her all his heart, and said to her—

No razor hath come on my head, for one separate unto God have I been from my birth; if I were shaven, then would depart from me my strength, and I should become weak, and be as any other man.

18 And when Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart, she sent and called for the lords of the Philistines, saying—Come up this once, for he hath told me all his heart.

And the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and brought up the silver in their hand. And she made him sleep upon her knees, and called for a man, and caused him to shave off the seven braids of his head,—and she began to humble him, and his strength departed from him. And she said—

The Philistines are upon thee, Samson! And he awoke out of his sleep, and said—I will go out now, as time after time, and shake myself free:

but not knowing, that Yahweh had departed from him. And the Philistines seized him, and put out his eyes,—and took him down to Gaza, and bound him with fetters of bronze, and it came to pass that he used to grind in the prison.

21 And the hair of his head began to grow, after he had been shaven.

22 Now the lords of the Philistines had gathered themselves together to offer a great sacrifice unto Dagon their god, and to rejoice,—and they said,

Our god hath delivered into our hand, Samson our enemy.

24 And when the people saw him they praised their god,—for they said—Our god hath delivered into our hand our enemy, even him who laid waste our land, and who multiplied our slain.

25 And it came to pass when their heart was merry that they said, Call for Samson, that he may make sport for us.

So they called for Samson out of the prison, and he made sport before them, and they stationed him between the pillars. And Samson said unto the youth that held him by his hand, Place me where I may feel the pillars whereon the house resteth, that I may lean upon them.

27 Now the house was full of men and women, also were all the lords of the Philistines,—and on the roof were about three thousand men and women, looking on while Samson made sport. So then Samson cried unto Yahweh, and said,—My Lord Yahweh! remember me, I pray thee,—and strengthen me, I pray thee, only this once, O God, that I may be avenged with one avenging, for my two eyes; upon the Philistines.

29 Then did Samson grasp the two middle pillars, whereon the house rested, and whereon it was upheld, and he braced himself against them,—the one with his right hand, and the other with his left.

And Samson said—Let my soul die with the Philistines! And he bowed mightily, and the house fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein. So the dead, whom he slew at his death, were more than they whom he slew in his life.

§ 3. Micah and the Danites.

17 And there was a man of the hill country of Ephraim, whose name was Micah. 2 And he said unto his mother—
   "The one hundred pieces of silver that were taken by thee, when thou didst utter a curse, and didst also say in my hearing,
   'Lo! the silver is with me!'
   I took it.

Then said his mother,
   'Blessed be my son by Jehovah.'

3 And when he had restored the one hundred shekels of silver to his mother, his mother said—
   I had hallowed the silver unto Jehovah, out of mine own hand, for my son, to make a graven (molten) image, [now] therefore, I will restore it unto thee.

4 But he restored the silver to his mother, so his mother took two hundred pieces of silver, and gave it to the silversmith, who made thereof a graven (molten) image, and it was in the house of Micah.

5 Now [the man Micah] had a house of gods, and he made an ephod, and teraphim, and installed one of his sons, who became his priest.

6 In those days there was no king in Israel, every man did that which was right in his own eyes.

7 And there was a young man out of Bethlehem-judah, of the family of Judah, he being a Levite, and he being a sojourner there. So the man took his journey out of the city, out of Bethlehem-judah, to sojourn, wheresoever he could find [a home], and he came into the hill country of Ephraim, as far as the house of Micah, in pursuing his journey.

8 And Micah said unto him,
   Whence comest thou? And he said unto him—
   A Levite, am I, from Bethlehem-judah, and I am taking my journey to sojourn, wheresoever I can find [a home].

9 And Micah said unto him—
   Dwell with me, and be to me a father and a priest, and I will give thee ten pieces of silver by the year, and a suit of apparel, and thy sustenance.

So the Levite went.

10 And the Levite was content to dwell with the man, and the young man became to him, as one of his sons. 11 And Micah installed the Levite, and the young man became his priest, and remained in the house of Micah.

12 Then said Micah—
   Now I know that Jehovah will do me good, seeing I have a Levite as my priest.

<In these days> there was no king in Israel, 18 and <in those days> the tribe of the Danites was seeking for itself an inheritance to dwell in, for there had not fallen to them, unto that day, in the midst of the tribes of Israel, enough for an inheritance.

So then the sons of Dan sent, out of their family, five men out of their bounds—men who were sons of valour—out of Zarah and out of Eshtemoa—to spy out the land, and to explore it, and they said unto them, Go! explore the land.

And they came into the hill country of Ephraim, as far as the house of Micah, and lodged there.

21 [They] being by the house of Micah knew the voice of the young man, the Levite, so they turned aside there, and said to him—
   Who brought thee in hither? and what art thou' doing in this place, and what hast thou here?

22 And he said unto them,
   <Thus and so> hath Micah dealt with me, and hath hired me, and I am become his priest.

23 So they said unto him—
   Ask of God, we pray thee, that we may know whether the journey on which we are going shall have good success.

24 And the priest said unto them—
   Go! and prosper. <In thee> Jehovah> is your journey on which ye go.

25 So the five men went their way, and entered Laish, and saw the people who were therein, dwelling securely, <after the manner of the Zidonians> quietly and securely, and there was no one to reproach them with anything in the land, none to possess himself of dominion, they being [far away] from the Zidonians, and having no dealings with any one.

26 So they came unto their brethren, in Zarah and Eshtemoa, and their brethren said unto them—
   Why are ye minded to do nothing?

27 And they said—
   Arise! and let us go up against them, for we have seen the land, and lo! it is very good, are [ye] then, minded to do nothing? do not be too slothful to go, and enter, and take possession of the land. 28 <When ye do enter> ye will enter amongst a people secure, and the land is of ample bounds, and ye God hath delivered it into your hands, [a place] where there is no lack of anything that is in the earth.

29 So there brake up from thence <out of the family of the Danites, out of Zorah and out of Eshಠாலை; six hundred men, begirt with weapons of war. 12 And they went up and encamped in Kiriath-jeearim, in Judah, wherefore they have called that place Mahaneh-dan—unto this day, lo! it is behind Kiriath-jeearim. 13 And they passed on from thence unto the hill country of Ephraim—and came as far as the house of Micah. 14 Then responded the five men who had been to spy out the land of Laish, and said unto their brethren, Know ye that there are in these houses, an ephod, and teraphim, and a graven image, and a molten image,—[now] therefore, know what ye will do!

15 So they turned aside thither, and entered into the house of the young man the Levite, the house of Micah,—and asked him of his welfare. 16 Now the six hundred men, begirt with weapons of war, stood at the entrance of the gate,—they being of the sons of Dan. 17 Then went up the five men who had been to spy out the land, they came in thither, they took the graven image and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image,—now the priest was standing at the entrance of the gate, with the six hundred men who were begirt with weapons of war. 18 But when these had entered the house of Micah, and taken the graven image and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image, the priest said unto them,

What are ye doing?

19 And they said unto him—

Hold thy peace, lay thy hand upon thy mouth, and go with us, and become to us a father and a priest,—is it better that thou be priest to the house of one man, or that thou be priest to a tribe and to a family in Israel?

20 Then was the heart of the priest glad, and he took the ephod, and the teraphim, and the graven image,—and came into the midst of the people. 21 So they turned, and went their way,—and put the little ones, and the cattle, and the goods, before them.

22 [They] had gone a good way from the house of Micah, when [the men that were in the houses near to the house of Micah] were called out and overtook the sons of Dan. 23 And they called unto the sons of Dan, who turned their faces,—and said unto Micah,

What aileth thee? that thou hast called out thy neighbours?

24 And he said—

<My gods which I had made> ye have taken away, and the priest, and have departed, and what have I more? How then is it that ye can say unto me. What aileth thee?

25 And the sons of Dan said unto him,

Do not let thy voice be heard among us,—lest men embittered in soul fall upon you, and thou gather in thy life* and the lives* of thy household.

26 And the sons of Dan went on their journey,—and when Micah saw that they were too strong for him >he turned and went back unto his house. 27 They therefore took what Micah had made, and the priest that he had, and came upon Laish, upon a people quiet and secure, and smote them with the edge of the sword,—the city also—burnt they with fire. 28 And there was no one to rescue, because it was far from Zidon, and they had no dealings with any one, sitting in the valle that pertaineth to Beth-rehob.

Then built they the city, and dwelt therein, and called the name of the city Dan;[1] by the name of Dan their father, who was born to Israel,—howbeit <Laish> was the name of the city [at the first]. 29 And the sons of Dan set up for themselves the graven image,—and Jonathan, son of Gershom, son of Moses, he and his sons became priests to the tribe of the Danites, until the day of the captivity of the land. 30 So they set up for themselves the graven image of Micah, which he had made,—and let it remain all the days that the house of God was in Shiloh.

1 And it came to pass in those days, when it was king, there was none in Israel> that there was a certain Levite sojourning on the farther side of the hill country of Ephraim, who took to him a concubine out of Bethlehem-judah.

2 And his concubine went astray against him. and departed from him, unto the house of her father, in Bethlehem-judah,—and remained there, the space of four months. 3 Then arose her husband, and went after her, to speak unto her heart, that he might bring her back again, having his young man with him, and a couple of asses,—and she brought him into the house of her father, and <when the father of the damsel saw him> he rejoiced to meet him. 4 And his father-in-law, the father of the damsel, constrained him, and he abode with him three days,—and they did eat and drink, and lodged there. 5 And it came to pass <on the fourth day, when they arose early in the morning>.

and go up to go> that the father of the damsel said unto his son-in-law,— Stay thy heart with a morsel of bread, and <afterwards> ye shall go your way.
4 So they both of them sat down and did eat together, and drink. Then said the father of the damsel unto the man,
Be content, I pray thee, and tarry the night,
and let thy heart be glad.
5 And <when the man rose up to go> he and his concubine and his young man,—his father-in-Come now, see! the day hath sunk down tolo! the day goeth down, tarry the night here, and let thy heart be glad, so shall ye rise early to-morrow for your journey, and thou shalt go thy way to thine own home.

6 But the man would not tarry the night, but rose up and went his way, and came as far as over against Jebus,—the same is Jerusalem,— and <with him> were a couple of asses saddled, his concubine also was with him. 11 <They> being by Jebus, and the day having gone far down> the young man said unto his lord—
Do come, I pray thee, and let us turn aside into this city of the Jebusites, and tarry the night therein.
12 And his lord said unto him,
We will not turn aside into a city of aliens, who are not of the sons of Israel,—but will pass on as far as Gibeah.
13 And he said to his young man,
Come and let us draw near unto one of the places,—and tarry the night in Gibeah, or in Ramah.
14 So they passed on, and went their way,— and the sun went in upon them beside Gibeah, which belongeth to Benjamin. 15 Then turned they aside there, to go in and tarry the night in Gibeah,—so he went in and abode in the broadway of the city; and there was no one minded to take them into a house, to tarry the night. 16 But lo! an old man calling in from his work, out of the field, in the evening, and <the man> was from the hill country of Ephraim, the himself being a sojourner in Gibeah,—but the men of the place were Benjaminites. 17 So he lifted up his eyes, and saw a wayfarer man in the broadway of the city,—and the old man said—
Whither goest thou? and from whence hast thou come?
19 And he said unto him—
We are passing along from Bethlehem-judah, unto the farther side of the hill country of Ephraim, whence I am, but I have been as far as Bethlehem-judah, and now <unto the house of Yahweh> am I going, and there is no one minded to take me into a house. Nevertheless <straw and fodder too> is there for our asses, yea moreover <bread and wine> there are, for me, and for thy handmaid, and for the young man that is with thy servants,— there is lack of nothing.
20 And the old man said—
Thou art welcome! only, all thy wants be on me,—by no means <in the broadway>
mayest thou lodge.
21 So he brought him into his house, and gave provender to the asses,—and they bathed their feet, and did eat and drink. 22 They were gladdening their heart, when lo! men of the city, men of the sons of the Abandoned One beset the house round about, beating violently against the door,—and they spake unto the old man the owner of the house, saying, Bring forth the man that hath entered into thy house, that we may know him.
23 And the man, the owner of the house, went forth unto them, and said unto them,
Do not, my brethren, do not act vilely, I pray you,—<after this man hath entered into my house> do not commit this impiety.
24 Lo <my virgin daughter, and his concubine>
I must needs now bring [them] forth, and ye must humble [them], and do [unto them], what seemeth good in your own eyes,—but <unto this man> must ye not do this impious thing.
25 But the men would not hearken unto him, so the man laid hold on his concubine, and brought her forth unto them, outside,—and they knew [her], and abused her all the night, until the morning, and let her go at the uprisings of the dawn. 26 So the woman came in at the turnings of the morning,—and fell down at the entrance of the man’s house where her lord was, and lay there till it was light. 27 So then her lord rose up in the morning, and opened the doors of the house, and went forth, to go on his journey,—when lo! the woman, his concu-bine, fallen at the entrance of the house, <with her hands upon the threshold>.
28 And he said unto her—
Up! and let us be going.
But there was no answer. So he took her up on the ass, and the man rose up, and went his way to his own place. 2 And <when he was come into his house> he took a knife, and laid hold on his concubine, and divided her limb by limb, into twelve pieces,— and sent her throughout all the bounds of Israel. 30 And so it was, that every one who beheld said—

There hath not happened, nor been seen the like of this, from the day when the sons of Israel came up out of the land of Egypt,
until this day:

Put it to yourselves concerning it, take counsel and speak!

Then went forth all the sons of Israel, and the assembly came together as one man, from Dan even to Beer-sheba with the land of Gilead,—unto Yahweh at Mizpah. 2 And the chiefs of all the people—all the tribes of Israel—presented themselves in the convocation of the people of God,—four hundred thousand footmen, that drew the sword. 3 And the sons of Benjamin heard that the sons of Israel had gone up to Mizpah. Then said the sons of Israel,

Tell [us], In what manner was brought to pass this violence? 4 And the Levite, husband of the woman that was cut in pieces, responded and said,—
<Into Gibeah that pertaineth to Benjamin> I entered into my concubine to tarry the night.

And the owners of Gibeah rose up against me,
and beset the house, for my sake, by night,—
<me> they thought to slay, and <my concubine> they so humbled, that she died.

So I laid hold on my concubine, and cut her in pieces, and sent her throughout all the country of the inheritance of Israel,— because they had wrought lewdness and impiety in Israel.

Lo! ye all! are sons of Israel,—give your word and counsel, there!

Then arose all the people, as one man,
saying,—

No man of us will go to his tent, and no man of us will turn aside to his house. 9 [Now] therefore, this is the thing: that we will do to Gibeah,—(Go) against it by lot; and we will take ten men of a hundred of all the tribes of Israel, and a hundred of a thousand, and a thousand of ten thousand, to fetch provisions for the people,—that they may do, when they come to Gibeah of Benjamin, according to all the impiety that it hath wrought in Israel.

So all the men of Israel were gathered together against the city, as one man knit together.
11 And the tribes of Israel sent men throughout all the divisions of Benjamin, saying,—

What is this vile thing that hath been brought to pass, among you?

12 [Now] therefore, deliver up the men—the sons of the Abandoned One—who are in Gibeah, that we may put them to death, and vileness be consumed out of Israel.

But [the sons of] Benjamin would not

14 Then did the sons of Benjamin gather themselves together out of the cities, unto Gibeah,—to go forth to battle against the sons of Israel. 15 And the sons of Benjamin were numbered on that day, out of the cities, twenty-six thousand men, that drew the sword,—besides' <of the inhabitants of Gibeah> were numbered seven hundred chosen men.
16 <Out of all this people> were seven hundred chosen men, left-handed,—any one of whom could sling with a stone to a hair's breadth, and not miss. 17 And 'the men of Israel' were numbered, apart from Benjamin, four hundred thousand men, that drew the sword,—every one of these being a man of war.
18 And they arose, and went up to Bethel, and asked of God, and the sons of Israel said,

Who shall go up for us first, to fight against the sons of Benjamin?

And Yahweh said—

'Judah' first.

19 And the sons of Israel arose in the morning,— and encamped against Gibeah. 20 And the men of Israel went forth, to fight against Benjamin, 21 —so the men of Israel set themselves in array against them, to fight against Gibeah. 22 Then came forth the sons of Benjamin out of Gibeah,— and laid low of Israel, on that day, twenty-two thousand men, to the ground. 23 And the people, the men of Israel, encouraged themselves,—and again set themselves in array for battle in the place where they had set themselves in array on the first day. 24 Now the sons of Israel had gone up, and went before Yahweh, until the evening, and asked of Yahweh, saying,

Shall I again draw near to battle against the sons of Benjamin, my brother?

And Yahweh said,

Go up against him.

25 So the sons of Israel came near against the sons of Benjamin, on the second day. 26 And Benjamin came forth to meet them out of Gibeah, on the second day, and laid low of the sons of Israel, yet eighteen thousand men, to the ground,—(all these) drew the sword. 27 Then went up all the sons of Israel, and all the people, and came to Bethel, and wept, and tarried there before Yahweh, and fasted on that day, until the evening,— and caused to go up ascending-sacrifices and peace-offerings, before Yahweh. 28 And the sons of Israel asked of Yahweh, — (there) being the ark of the covenant of God, 29 in those days; 30 and Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron, stood before those days, saying:

Shall I yet again go forth to battle, against the sons of Benjamin, my brother, or shall I forbear? And Yahweh said—

Go up, for <to-morrow> will I deliver him into thy hand.

23 And Israel set liers in wait against Gibeah round about. 24 So the sons of Israel went up against the sons of Benjamin, on the third day, and set themselves in array against Gibeah, as time after time. 25 And the sons of Benjamin came forth against the people, they were drawn away from the city, and began to smite of the people, slaying as time after time. in the highways, whereof (one) goeth up to Bethel, and (the other) to Gibeah in the field, about thirty men in Israel. 26 Then said the sons of Benjamin,

They are being smitten before us, as at the first. But the sons of Israel had said—

Let us flee, and draw them away from the city into the highways. 27 And (all) the men of Israel rose up out of their place, and set themselves in array in Baal-tamar, and (the liers in wait of Israel) began to break forth out of their place, out of the forest of Gibeah. 28 And there came over against Gibeah ten thousand chosen men, out of all Israel, and the battle was severe; they not knowing that disaster was overtaking them. 29 Thus Yahweh smote Benjamin before Israel, and the sons of Israel destroyed Benjamin that day, twenty-five thousand and one hundred men, (all these) drew the sword. 30 So the sons of Benjamin saw that they were smitten; and that the men of Israel had given place to Benjamin, because they trusted to the liers in wait, whom they had set near Gibeah. 31 And the liers in wait hastened, and rushed upon Gibeah, and the liers in wait marched forward, and smote all the city with the edge of the sword. 32 Now the appointed sign between the men of Israel and the liers in wait, had been, to cause a great cloud of smoke to ascend out of the city. 33 So when the men of Israel turned in the battle, and (the Benjamites) began to smite and slay of the sons of Israel, about thirty men, for they said,

Yea! they are being smitten before us, as in the first battle>

34 then the cloud began to ascend out of the city, a pillar of smoke, and the Benjamites looked behind them, and lo! the whole city flamed up towards the heavens. 35 And when the men of Israel turned then were the men of Benjamin dismayed, for they saw that disaster had overtaken them. 36 And when they turned before the men of Israel unto the way of the desert, the battle overtook them, while (as for) them that came out of the cities they began to destroy them in their midst; 37 they hemmed in the Benjamites, they pursued them, with ease trade them down, as far as over against Gibeah towards sunrise. 44 So there fell of Benjamin, eighteen thousand men,—(all those) being men of valour. 45 And (when) they turned and fled towards the desert unto the cliff Rimmon> then gleaned they of them, in the highways, five thousand men, and they followed hard after them as far as Gidom, and smote of them, two thousand men. 46 So then it came to pass that (all the fallen of Benjamin) were twenty-five thousand men, that drew the sword, (on that day),—(all these) being men of valour. 47 But there turned and fled, towards the desert, unto the cliff Rimmon, six hundred men,—who abode in the cliff Rimmon, four months. 48 Thus (the men of Israel) turned against the sons of Benjamin, and smote them with the edge of the sword, beginning with the city, each and every one down to the beast, even to every one that was met with,—moreover (all) the cities they came to> they set on fire. 1 Now (the men of Israel) had sworn in Mizpah, saying,—

Not a man from among us shall give his daughter unto Benjamin, to wife. 2 So then the people came to Bethel, and abode there, until the evening, before God,—and lifted up their voice, and wept bitterly, and said,

Wherefore, O Yahweh, God of Israel, hast this come about in Israel,—that there should be lacking, to-day, out of Israel, one tribe! 4 And it came to pass, on the morrow, that the people rose early, and built there, an altar,—and offered ascending-sacrifices, and peace-offerings. 5 And the sons of Israel said,

Who was there that came not up, in the convocation, out of all the tribes of Israel, unto Yahweh? 6 For the great oath had been taken, as to any who came not up unto Yahweh at Mizpah, saying—

He shall be put to death. 7 And the sons of Israel grieved for Benjamin, their brother,—and they said,

There is cut off, to-day, one tribe out of Israel. What are we to do for them who remain, for wives,—seeing that we ourselves have sworn by Yahweh, not to give them of our daughters, for wives? 8 So they said,

What one of the tribes of Israel is there, that hath not come up unto Yahweh at Mizpah? And lo! no man had come into the camp; out of Jabesh-gilead, unto the convocation: 9 <When the people were numbered> lo! there was not there a man of the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead. 10 So the assembly sent thither twelve thousand men, of the sons of valour,—and commanded them, saying:— Go and smite the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead, with the edge of the sword, with the women, and the little ones.

11 And this is the thing that ye shall do,— Every male, and every woman that hath cohabited with man, shall ye devote to destruction.
12 And they found,—of the inhabitants of Jabeshgilead,—four hundred young women, virgins, who had not cohabited with man,—so they brought them into the camp, at Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan. 13 Then the whole assembly sent, and spake unto the sons of Benjamin, who were in the cliff Rimmon,—and proclaimed to them, peace. 14 So Benjamin returned at that time, and they gave them the women whom they had saved alive of the women of Jabesh-gilead,—but they found not for them [to suffice] [even so].
15 Now the assembly had grieved for Benjamim,—because Yahweh had made a breach, in the tribes of Israel. 16 So then, the elders of the assembly said,
What are we to do for them who remain, for wives,—for womankind [hath been destroyed out of Benjamin]?
17 And they said,
There is an inheritance for the escaped of Benjamin,—and there must not be wiped out, a tribe, out of Israel. 18 Yet we may not give them wives, of our own daughters,
For the sons of Israel had sworn, saying,
¶Cursed¶ be he that giveth a wife to Benjamin.

1 And it came to pass [in the days when the Judges administered justice] that there was a famine in the land,—and so a certain man went his way, out of Bethlehem-judah to sojourn in the country of Moab, ¶he, and his wife, and his two sons]. 2 And ¶the name of the man¶ was Elimelech, and ¶the name of his wife¶ Naomi, and ¶the name of his two sons¶ Mahlon and Chilion—Ephrathites, out of Bethlehem-judah,— so they came into the country of Moab, and remained there. 3 And Elimelech, husband of Naomi, died,—and she was left,
¶she and her two sons]. 4 And they took them wives, of the women of Moab, ¶the name of the one¶ was Orpah, and ¶the name of the other¶ Ruth,—and they dwelt there, about ten years. 5 And ¶they also¶ both ¶died¶ [Mahlon and Chilion],—so the woman was bereft of her two sons, and of her husband.
6 Then she arose, ¶she and her daughters-in-law¶, and returned out of the country of Moab, ¶for she had heard, in the country of Moab, how that Yahweh had visited his people, in giving unto them bread. 7 So she went forth out of the dwelling-place where she had remained, and her two daughters-in-law with her,—and they went on the way, to return unto the land of Judah.

8 Then said Naomi to her two daughters-in-law:

Go return, each one to the house of her mother,—
Yahweh deal with you in lovingkindness, as ye have dealt with the dead, [and with me].

9 Yahweh grant you, that ye may find a place of rest,* each one in the house of her husband,—

And she kissed them, and they lifted up their voice, and wept. 10 And they said to her,—<With these> will we return, unto thy people.

11 Then said Naomi—

Go back, my daughters! wherefore should ye journey with me?

Have I yet sons in my womb, that they should become your [husbands]?

12 Go back, my daughters, go your way, for I am too old to have a husband,—

<If I should say> I have [hope], if I should [even to-night] have a husband, and should [even bear sons]> 13 would ye [therefore] tarry until they were grown? would ye [therefore] shut yourselves up from having husbands?

Nay! my daughters, for it is far more bitter for me than for you, that forth hath gone against me, the hand of Yahweh.

And they lifted up their voice and wept, <yet more>.

Then Orphah kissed her mother-in-law, but Ruth clave unto her. 13 And she said—

Lo! thy sister-in-law hath gone back, unto her people, and unto her gods,—go thou back, after thy sister-in-law.

16 And Ruth said—

Do not urge me to leave thee, to go back from following thee,—for <whether thou goest> I will go, and <where thou lodgest> I will lodge, ||thy people shall be my people, and ||thy God be my God; <where thou diest> I will die, and ||there will I be buried:

<So> let Yahweh do to me, and ||so let him said, if <death itself part me and thee.

18 And <when she saw that> [bravely determined] was she to go with her,—she ceased entreating her. 19 So ||they two went their way, until they entered Bethlehem.

And it came to pass <when they entered Bethlehem> that all the city was moved concerning them, and the women said—

Is this Naomi?

20 And she said unto them,

Do not call me Naomi [="Sweet"],—call me Mara [="Bitter"], for the Almighty hath dealt very bitterly with me: 21 I was full’ when I departed, but <empty> am I brought back of Yahweh,—wherefore should ye call me Naomi?,

When ||Yahweh|| hath given answer against me,

And ||the Almighty|| hath crushed me?

22 So Naomi returned, and Ruth the Moabitess, her daughter-in-law, with her, who returned out of the country of Moab,—and ||they entered Bethlehem|| in the beginning of barley harvest.

1 Now ||Naomi|| had an acquaintance of her 2 husband’s, a man of great integrity, of the family of Elimelech,—||whose name|| was Boaz. 2 And Ruth the Moabitess said unto Naomi—

Let me go, I pray thee, to the field, and glean ears of corn after him in whose eyes I may find favour.

And she said to her—

Go, my daughter.

2 So she went her way, and came, and gleaned in the field, after the reapers,—and it happened to her, to light upon the portion of field-land belonging to Boaz, who was of the family of Elimelech. 4 And lo! Boaz’ coming from Bethlehem, and he said to the reapers,

||Yahweh|| be with you with you,

and they said to him,

Yahweh bless thee!

2 Then said Boaz to his young man, that was set over the reapers,— Whose’ is this maiden?

And the young man that was set over the reapers answered and said,—

<The Moabish maiden> is she’ who came back with Naomi, out of the country of Moab; 7 and she said—

Let me glean, I pray thee, and gather among the sheaves, after the reapers; so she came in, and hath continued from that time, all the morning until just now, and hath not rested in the house, for a little.

8 And Boaz said unto Ruth—

Hearest thou not, my daughter?

Do not go to glean in any other field, neither indeed shalt thou pass on, from hence,—but <here> shalt thou keep fast by my maidens; ||thine eyes|| be on the field which they shall reap, and go thou after them,

Have I not commanded the young men, that they touch thee not?

And <when thou art athirst> then go unto the vessels, and drink of what the young men shall draw.

10 Then she fell upon her face, and bowed herself to the ground,—and said unto him—

So it should be (w. Sep.)—G.n. [M.C.T.]: "save that she rested."
Wherefore have I found favour in thine eyes, that thou shouldst take notice of me, seeing that I am a stranger? 11 And Boaz answered, and said to her, It hath been told me all that thou hast done unto thy mother-in-law, since the death of thy husband, and how thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and the land of thy nativity, and come unto a people whom thou knewest not, aforetime. 12 Yahweh recompense thy deed, and let thy reward be full from Yahweh, the God of Israel, unto whom thou hast come to take refuge under his wings. 13 And she said—

Let me find favour in thine eyes, my lord, for that thou hast comforted me, and for that thou hast spoken unto the heart of thy handmaid, even though I be not of thine own handmaids. 14 And Boaz said to her at mealtime—

Draw nigh hither, and eat of the bread, and dip thy morsel in the vinegar. So she sat beside the reapers, and there was reached unto her parched corn, and she did eat and was satisfied, and left thereof remaining. 15 And she rose up at go to glean Boaz commanded his young men, saying—<Even between the sheaves> let her glean, and reproach her not; 16 and <draw out> for her, from the bundles, and leave behind that she may glean it, and rebuke her not.

So she gleaned in the field, until the evening, and> and beat out that which she had gleaned, and there was about an ephah of barley. 18 And she took it up, and came into the city, and <when her mother-in-law had seen what she had gleaned> she brought forth and gave her what had been left remaining, after that she was satisfied. 19 And her mother-in-law said to her—

In what place hast thou gleaned, to-day? and where hast thou wrought? 20 May he that took notice of thee, be blessed! So she told her mother-in-law, with whom she had wrought, and said—

The name of the man with whom I wrought to-day is Boaz. 21 Then said Naomi, to her daughter-in-law—

Blessed be he of Yahweh, who hath not left off his loving-kindness to the living, and to the dead. And Naomi said to her—

<Near to us> is the man, <Of our own kindred> is he! 22 And Ruth the Moabitess said,—

Yea> for she said unto me—

<By my young men shall thou keep fast, until they have ended all my harvest. And Naomi said unto Ruth her daughter-in-law,—

Good is it, my daughter, that thou go forth with his maidens, and that they meet thee not, in any other field. 22 So she kept fast by the maidens of Boaz, to glean, until the end of the barley harvest, and the wheat’s harvest, and dwelt with her mother-in-law.

1 Then Naomi her mother-in-law said to her,— 2 My daughter! shall I not seek for thee a place of rest, in which it may be well with thee? 3 <Now therefore, is not Boaz of our kinsred, with whose maidens thou hast been? Lo! he is winnowing the barley threshing-floor, to-night; 4 Thou wilt, therefore, bathe thee, and anoint thee, and put thine apparel upon thee, and go down to the threshing-floor, do not make thyself known to the man, until he have done eating and drinking. 5 And it shall be <when he lieth down> that thou shalt mark the place where he doth lie, and shalt go in and turn aside the covering of his feet, and lay thee down, and <will tell thee> what thou shalt do. 6 And she said unto her,—

<All that thou sayest> will I do. 7 So she went down to the threshing-floor, and did according to all that her mother-in-law had commanded her. 8 And <when Boaz had eaten, and drunk, and his heart was glad;> he went in to lie down at the end of the heap of corn. Then came she in softly, and turned aside the covering of his feet, and laid her down. 9 And it came to pass, <in the middle of the night> that the man started up, and turned;—<and lo! a woman> lying at his feet. 10 And he said, Who art thou? 11 And she said, <I am Ruth, thy handmaid, spread, therefore, thy wing over thy handmaid, for a kinsman> thou art'. 12 And he said—

Blessed be thou of Yahweh, my daughter, for thou hast made thy last loving-kindness better than the first,—in not following after young men, whether poor, or rich. 13 <Now therefore, my daughter, do not fear, whatsoever thou shalt say? I will do for thee,—for all the gate of my people doth know, that a virtuous woman thou art'. 14 And <now> although it is true that a kinsman is I', yet is there a kinsman nearer than I.'

12 Tarry the night, and it shall be, in the morning, if he will act as kinsman to thee, well, let him so act, but if he inclineth not to act as kinsman, then will I so act to thee;—by the life of Yahweh, I will not eat bread, nor drink water, until he put me this day in mind of it.

14 So she lay at his feet, until the morning, and rose up before one could know his neighbour. And he said—

Do not let it be known that a woman came into the threshing-floor.

15 And he said—

Bring the cloak that is upon thee, and hold it. So she held it, and he measured six measures of barley, and laid it upon her, and he went into the city.

16 And <when she came unto her mother-in-law> she said—

What is that thou, my daughter, hast done? And she told him all that the man had done for her. And she said—

<These six measures of barley> gave he unto me,—for he said—

Do not go in empty, unto thy mother-in-law.

17 And she said—

Abide, my daughter, until thou know how the matter will fall out, for the man will not rest, except he hath finished the thing to-day.

4:1 Now Boaz went up to the gate, and sat him down there; and lo! the kinsman passing by of whom Boaz had spoken, so he said—

Turn aside! and sit down here, such a one!

And he turned aside, and sat down. Then fetched he ten of the elders of the city, and said—

Sit ye down here. And they sat down.

2 Then said he to the kinsman,

The parcel of land that was our brother Elimelech’s is to be disposed of by Naomi, who hath returned out of the country of Moab; *and I thought, I would unveil thine ear, saying—

Take it over in presence of such as are here seated, and in presence of the elders of my people.

If thou wilt act as kinsman, act as kinsman, but if thou wilt not act, only tell me—that I may know, for there is none who can set thee aside as kinsman, but I will an after thee.

And he said—

I will act as kinsman.

5 Then said Boaz,

<What day thou takest over the land> from the hand of Naomi> also <of Ruth the Moabitess> wife of the dead> dost thou take [it], to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance.

6 Then said the kinsman—

I cannot act as kinsman for myself, lest I mar my own inheritance,—do thou act as kinsman in my right, for I cannot so redeem.

7 Now <that the Moabitess> [was the way] in Israel, at a redeeming, and at an exchanging, to confirm every word: A man drew off his shoe, and gave it to his neighbour,—yes, was the way of taking to witness, in Israel.

8 So the kinsman said unto Boaz.

Take it over for thyself,— and he drew off his shoe. Then said Boaz to the elders, and all the people—

<Witnesses> are ye to-day,

That I have taken over all that was Elimelech’s,

And all that was Chilion’s, and Mahlon’s,—

From the hand of Naomi:

Moreover <Ruth the Moabitess, wife of Mahlon> have I taken over, to be my wife,

To raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance,

That the name of the dead be not cut off—

From among his brethren,

And from the gate of his dwelling-place,—

<Witnesses> are ye to-day!

11 Then said all the people who were in the gate, and the elders—

Witnesses!—

Yahweh grant the woman who is coming into thy house,

To be as Rachel, and as Leah,

Which two of them did build the house of Israel.

Do thou bravely then, in Ephrathah,

And proclaim thou a name in Bethlehem,

And let thy house be like the house of Peretz,

Whom Tamar bare to Judah,—

Of the seed which—may Yahweh give thee,

Of this young woman!.

13 So Boaz took Ruth, and she became his wife, and he went in unto her,—and Yahweh granted her conception, and she bare a son. Then said the women unto Naomi, Blessed be Yahweh!

Who hath not let thee fail of a kinsman to-day,—

And may his name [be proclaimed] in Israel;

So shall he become a restorer of thy life, and a nourisher of thine old age,—

For [thy daughter-in-law] who loveth thee hath borne him.

15 But <of> should be omitted, as in ver. 10—G.n.

SPECIAL NOTE:
A SUGGESTIVE GENEALOGY.

One of the greatest charms of the Bible is to be found in its genealogies. Commonly considered to be as dry as dust, it may safely be affirmed that in that dust lie hidden grains of purest gold.

This short snatch of pedigree, at the end of the Book of Ruth—how rich in suggestiveness it is! Whether by author or by editor appended, the hand that wrote it was guided by the spirit of the entire Old Testament. Boaz points to one who was then yet to come—to David, in the first instance; how much further, remains to be seen. Boaz stands in the line that runs from Perez to David, and behind Perez, of course, stands Judah his father; so that we at once span from Judah to David—Judah, the heir of special promises, to David the first of a royal line which runs forward into a future which has not ended yet, and which cannot end until provision has been made thereby for every thirsty one to partake freely of “the lovingkindness to David well assured.”

Boaz brings Ruth into the royal line, and Ruth was a Moabitess—in other words, a Gentile—so that the exclusiveness of Hebraicism is evidently not the only aspect in which it may be viewed. But what power is it that brings this young Gentile widow to dwell in Bethlehem? Plainly, the power of love: on the face of it, love to Naomi, Ruth’s mother-in-law. But was there not, in that love, a religious strength of conviction and fervour which embodied the human affection? “Thy God shall be my God,” she said; and she is afterwards treated as if she meant it; as if she knew what she was doing, when she came to Bethlehem that she might find “refuge,” from the idol-worship of her native land, “under the wings of Yahweh God of Israel.”

Finally, the place is significant. Bethlehem may have been a small city—in fact, a mere village; nevertheless it is known in after times as “the village where David was;” and—which is still more significant—the village from which, according to a well-known prediction, was to come forth One greater than David, even He “whose comings forth have been from of old, from the days of age-past time.”

And so the outlook widens. As when some traveller, greeting the timely sign-post, makes pause and asks—Whence have I come, and whither am I bound? so the thoughtful reader of the Bible considers the stages by which his journey is advancing:—From Adam, by way of Seth, to Noah; from Noah, by way of Shem, to Abraham; from Abraham, by way of Isaac and Jacob, to Judah; from Judah, by way of Perez and Boaz, to David; and then, will it not be—a road that leads still on, from David to David’s Son and Lord?

1 And there was a certain man, of Ramathaim-zuph, of the hill country of Ephraim, whose name was Elkanah, son of Jeroham, son of Elihu, son of Tohu, son of Zuph, an Ephraimite; and he had two wives, (the name of the one) Hannah, and (the name of the other) Peninnah; and Peninnah had children, but Hannah had no children. So then that man went up, out of his city, from time to time, to worship and to sacrifice unto Yahweh of hosts, in Shiloh, and there were the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, priests unto Yahweh. And when the day came for Elkanah to sacrifice, he used to give: to Peninnah his wife, and to all her sons and her daughters, portions; and unto Hannah he used to give one portion, howbeit <Hannah> he loved, although [Yahweh] had restrained her from having children. And her rival used even to cause her great vexation, for the sake of provoking her, because Yahweh had restrained her from having children. And [thus] she used to do, year by year, whenever she went up to the house of Yahweh, [thus] used she to vex her, and she wept, and would not eat. So Elkanah her husband said to her—Hannah! wherefore shouldst thou weep, and wherefore wilt thou not eat? and wherefore should thy heart be sad? Am I not better to thee than ten sons? And Hannah rose up, after she had eaten in Shiloh, and after she had drunk, and fell upon her face. So he sat upon his chair, by the door-post of the temple of Yahweh; and [she] being in bitterness of soul, prayed unto Yahweh, and [wept sore]. And she vowed a vow, and said—Yahweh of hosts! If thou wilt upon the humiliation of thy handmaid, And remember me, And not forget thy handmaid, But wilt give unto thy handmaid a man-child, Then will I give him unto Yahweh, all the days of his life, And no razor shall come upon his head.

§ 1. Samuel and Eli.

And so it was <as she continued praying before Yahweh> that Eli was watching her mouth. But as for <Hannah> [she] was speaking in her heart, only her lips were moving, but [her] voice could not be heard,—so Eli thought she had been drunken. And Eli said unto her, [How long] wilt thou be [drunken]? Put away thy wine from thee.

And Hannah responded and said—Nay! my lord;

<A woman depressed in spirit> am I:

Neither wine nor strong drink have I drunk.—but I poured out my soul before Yahweh.

Do not count thy handmaid for an abandoned woman, for <out of the abundance of my grief and my vexation> have I spoken [hitherto].

Then responded Eli, and said—Go and prosper!

And the [God of Israel] grant thy petition which thou hast asked of him!

And she said:

Let thy serving-woman find favour, in thine eyes.

So the woman went her way, and did eat, and [her countenance] was said no longer.

And they rose up early in the morning, and worshipped before Yahweh, and returned, and entered their own house, in Ramah, and Elkanah knew Hannah his wife, and Yahweh remembered her. And so it was <when the days had come round during which Hannah was with child> that she bare a son,—and called his name Samuel [= "Heard of God"].

Because, <of Yahweh> I asked him.

And the man Elkanah, and all his house, went up, to offer unto Yahweh the yearly sacrifice, and [each] his own vow. But [Hannah] went not up,—for she said to her husband—[Not] till the boy be weaned, Then will I take him, And he shall appear before Yahweh, And abide there evermore.

And Elkanah her husband said to her—Do what is good in thine own eyes, tarry until thou have weaned him, Only' may Yahweh establish' his word!

So the woman tarried, and nursed her son, until she weaned him. Then took she him up with her, when she had weaned him, with a bullock of three years old, and one ephah of meal, and a skin of wine, and took him to the house of Yahweh at Shiloh,—the boy yet being young. So they slew the bullock,—and took the boy in, unto Eli. And she said—

Pardon, my lord! By the life of thy soul > my lord, —[I am the woman who was standing near thee here, praying unto Yahweh:]

> For this boy > I prayed,—
> And Yahweh hath given me my petition' which I asked of him.

Hence [I also] have loaned him unto Yahweh, all the days that he liveth." "He is lent unto Yahweh. And he bowed down there, unto Yahweh.

Then prayed Hannah, and said,

My heart hath leaped for joy in Yahweh,
My horn is exalted in Yahweh; my mouth is opened wide, o'er my foes,
Because I rejoice in thy salvation.

There is none holy like Yahweh,
Nay! there [is none] except Thee, Nor [is] there a rock, like our God.

Do not multiply words, so loftily—loftily," Nor let arrogance proceed from your mouth,—For a God of knowledge is Yahweh, And <for himself>" are great doings made firm.

> The bow of the mighty is dismayed,—
> While [the fainting] are girded with strength;

> The sated] have, for bread, taken hire,
But [the famished] have left off their toil,—
So that [the barren] hath given birth unto seven, While [the that hath many sons] languisheth:

> Yahweh doth kill, and make alive,
> Taketh down to hades, and bringeth up:

> Yahweh maketh poor, and enricheth,— > Layeth low, yea exalteth;

> Raiseth, from the dust, the poor, From the dunghill > uplifteth the needy, To give them a dwelling with nobles, And  to make them inherit.

For <to Yahweh> belong the pillars of the earth, And he setteth thereon the habitable world.

* The feet of his loving ones> be shod guard, But [the lawless] in darkness shall be silent,—

For [by strength] shall no man prevail.

As for Yahweh > they shall be shattered who contend with him, Over him] in the heavens' will he thunder, Yahweh will judge the ends of the earth,— That he may give strength to his King, And exalt the horn of his Anointed One.

Then went Elkanah to Ramah, unto his own house,—but [the boy] remained ministering unto Yahweh, before Eli the priest.

Now [the sons of Eli] were abandoned men,—they knew* not Yahweh. And [the custom of the priests with the people] was—<when any man offered a sacrifice> then would come the priest's young man, as the flesh was boiling, with a three-pronged fork in his hand; and would strike it into the boiler, or into the trough, or into the kettle, or into the pot, <all that the fork would bring up> the priest took for himself. <Thus and thus> used they to do unto all Israel, who came thither, in Shiloh. Also, before any could make perfume with the fat> the priest's young man would come in and say to the person who was sacrificing, Come! give flesh for the priest's roasting,—for he will not take of thee boiled flesh—only raw.

And <if the man said to him, Let them at least [make incense] at once, with the fat, then take thou as much as thy soul craveth.>

Then said he to him, But* <at once> shalt thou give it; or else I will take it by force.

And so it was, that [the sin of the young man] was exceeding great, before Yahweh,—for men* scorned the offerings of Yahweh. But <as for Samuel> he was ministering before Yahweh,—. Also  used his mother to make for him, and bring it up to him, from year to year,—when she came up with her husband, to offer the sacrifice of the year. And Eli used to bless Elkanah and his wife, and to say—

Yahweh give thee seed of this woman, instead of the loath that hath been lent unto Yahweh.

So they went their way to his* own place.

And* Yahweh visited Hannah, and she

So as for Samuel, he was ministering before Yahweh,—. Also  used his mother to make for him, and bring it up to him, from year to year,—when she came up with her husband, to offer the sacrifice of the year. And Eli used to bless Elkanah and his wife, and to say—

Yahweh give thee seed of this woman, instead of the loan that hath been lent unto Yahweh.

So they went their way to his own place.

And* Yahweh visited Hannah, and she...
conceived, and bare three sons, and two daughters. Thus did the boy Samuel grow up with Yahweh.

21 Now Eli was very old—but he used to hear all that his sons did unto all Israel, and how they even lay with the women who did service at the opening of the tent of meeting.

22 So he said to them, Wherefore should ye do such things as these? for I keep hearing of your wicked doings, from all these people.

23 Nay, my sons! for it is no good report that I do hear: leading into transgression the people of Yahweh.

24 <If one man sin against another> God will interpose, but <if against Yahweh a man sin who> will intercede for him?

But they hearkened not unto the voice of their father, for Yahweh was pleased to put them to death.

25 But [the boy Samuel] went on growing in stature, and in favour,—both with Yahweh, and also with men. And there came a man of God, unto Eli,—and said unto him,—

I did indeed reveal myself unto the house of thy father, when they were in Egypt, as servants unto the house of Pharaoh; choosing him out of all the tribes of Israel unto myself.

To minister as priest, To offer upon mine altar, To perfume with incense, To bear an ephod before me,— Therefore gave I unto the house of thy father all the altar-flames of the sons of Israel.

Wherefore have ye been kicking at my sacrifices, and my presents, which I commanded, to serve for a home,—and shouldst have honoured thy sons more than me: fastening yourselves, with the first of every present of Israel, before me?!

Hence the oracle of Yahweh God of Israel, I said that thy house, and the house of thy father should go to and fro in my presence, unto times age-abiding: But now (is the oracle of Yahweh)— Be it far from me!

For them who honour me will I honour, But they who despise me shall be lightly esteemed.

Lo! days are coming, when I will hew off thine arm, and the arm of the house of thy father,—that there shall be no elder in thy house;

But thou shalt descend distress at home, in all that shall gladden Israel,—and there shall not be an elder in thine own house, all the days.

23 But any man of thine whom I may not cut off from mine altar it shall be—
To consume his eyes,
And grieve his soul;
Howbeit all the multitude of thy house shall die by the sword of men.

24 And this is the sign, which shall come upon thy two sons, upon Hophni and Phinehas,—
 In one day shall they both of them die;
And I will raise me up a faithful priest, According to that which is in my heart and in my soul will he do;
Therefore will I build for him an assured house,
And he shall go to and fro in presence of mine Anointed, (all the days).

And it shall be, that any that is left in thy house shall come bowing down to him for a small coin of silver, and for a cake of bread, and shall say:
Appoint me, I pray thee, to one of the priestly offices, that I may eat a morsel of bread.

1 Now [the boy Samuel] was ministering unto Yahweh, before Eli,—and [the word of Yahweh] had become rare in those days, there was no well-known vision. But it came to pass, at that time, when Eli was lying down in his place, his eyes were having begun to be dim, he could not see, though the lamp of God was not yet to be put out, and [Samuel] was lying down in the temple of Yahweh, where was the ark of God, that Yahweh called unto Samuel, and he said—
Behold me!

So he ran unto Eli and said—
Behold me! for thou callest me.
And he said—
I called not, return—lie down.
So he went, and lay down.
And again Yahweh called once more—
Samuel!
Then rose Samuel, and went unto Eli, and said—
Behold me! for thou callest me.
And he said—
I called not, my son, return—lie down.
7 Now [Samuel] as yet knew not Yahweh,—nor as yet had been revealed unto him [the word of Yahweh].
8 And again Yahweh called—
Samuel!
a third time.
Then he arose, and went unto Eli, and said—
Behold me! for thou callest me.
Then did Eli perceive, that Yahweh was calling the boy.
8 So Eli said to Samuel—
Go, lie down, and it shall be (if he call unto thee) that thou shalt say—

---

19-2
Speak, Yahweh, for thy servant is listening.
And Samuel went, and lay down in his place.
10 Then came Yahweh, and stood, and called as time after time—
Samuel! Samuel!
And Samuel said—
Speak, for thy servant is listening.
11 And Yahweh said unto Samuel,
Lo! I am doing a thing, in Israel,—at which both ears of everyone that heareth it shall tingle.
12 In that day I will confirm against Eli, all that I have spoken against his house,— beginning and finishing.
Therefore do I tell him, that I am about to judge his house unto times age-abiding,— for the iniquity which he knoweth in that his sons are cursing God, and he hath not rebuked them.
And therefore have I sworn, respecting the house of Eli,—that the iniquity of the house of Eli shall receive no propitiatory-covering, by sacrifice or by present, unto times age-abiding.
And Samuel lay until the morning, and rose early in the morning, and opened the doors of the house of Yahweh,—but Samuel feared to tell the appearing unto Eli.
16 So Eli called Samuel, and said—
Samuel! my son.
And he said—
Behold me!
And he said—
What is the word, which he spake unto thee? I pray thee, do not hide it from me.
17 So let God do to thee, and let him add, if thou hide from me a word, out of anything which he hath spoken unto thee.
So Samuel told him all the words, and hid nothing from him. And he said, Yahweh he is; what is good in his own eyes let him do.
19 And Samuel grew,—and Yahweh proved to be with him, and let none of all his words fall to the ground. 20 So all Israel, from Dan even to Beer-sheba, came to know,—that Samuel had become confirmed as a prophet unto Yahweh.
21 Thus did Yahweh again appear in Shiloh,—for Yahweh had revealed himself unto Samuel in Shiloh, in the word of Yahweh.

And so it was when the word of Samuel had reached all Israel, that Israel went forth to meet the Philistines in battle, and they encamped near Eben-ezer, while the Philistines encamped in Aphek.

And the Philistines set themselves in array to meet Israel, and when the battle spread, then was Israel smitten before the Philistines,—and there were slain of the army in the field about four thousand men.
3 And when the people came into the camp, the elders of Israel said, Wherefore hath Yahweh smitten us to-day, before the Philistines?
Let us fetch unto us of Shiloh, the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, that when it cometh into our midst, it may save us out of the hand of our enemies.
4 So the people sent to Shiloh, and bare from thence the ark of the covenant of Yahweh of hosts, who inhabiteth the cherubim,—and were the two sons of Eli, with the ark of the covenant of God, namely, Hophni and Phinehas.
And so it was when the ark of the covenant of Yahweh came into the camp, that all Israel brake out into a loud shout of joy,—so that the earth rang again.
6 And when the Philistines heard the noise of the shout, they said—
What meaneth the noise of this loud shout of joy in the camp of the Hebrews?
And they learned that the ark of Yahweh had come into the camp. 7 And the Philistines were afraid, for they said—
God hath come into the camp.
And they said—
Woe to us! for there hath not happened the like of this, heretofore.
8 Woe to us! Who shall rescue us out of the hand of these majestic gods?
These are the gods, whom smote the Egyptians with all manner of smiting in the desert!
9 Take courage, and quit yourselves like men, ye Philistines, lest ye come into bondage to the Hebrews, as they have been in bondage unto you,—therefore must ye quit yourselves like men, and fight.
10 So the Philistines fought, and Israel was smitten, and they fled every man to his home; and the slaughter became exceeding great,—and there fell of Israel—thirty thousand footmen.
And the ark of God was taken,—and the two sons of Eli were slain, Hophni and Phinehas.
13 And there ran a man of Benjamin out of the army, and entered Shiloh on the same day,—with his clothes rent, and with earth upon his head. 13 And when he entered, lo! Eli was sitting upon his chair, by the wayside, watching, for his heart was trembling for the ark of God,—and the man entered to tell the news in the city, and all the city made outcry.
14 And when Eli heard the noise of the outcry, he said—

What meaneth the noise of this tumult? And the man hasted, and came, and told Eli.

18 Now the man said unto Eli—

"I am he that came in from the army, yea, from the army, fled to-day.

And he said—

What is the thing that hath happened, my son?

And the bearer of tidings answered, and said—Israel hath fled before the Philistines, Moreover also: they that take the ark of the Lord of Israel, have made themselves men of renown among the people.

Moreover also: the two sons are slain, Hophni and Phinehas, and the ark of God is taken.

And it came to pass, when he mentioned the ark of God, that he fell from off his seat backwards, at the side of the gate, and his neck brake, and he died, for old was the man, and heavy, and he had judged Israel forty years.

Now his daughter-in-law, wife of Phinehas, was with child, ready to give birth, and when she heard the tidings, as to the taking of the ark of God, and the death of her father-in-law, and her husband, she bowed herself and gave birth, for her pains had seized her.

And about the time of her death the women that stood by her said—

Do not fear, for thou hast given birth.

But she neither answered nor regarded. And she called the boy I-chabod! [=Where's the glory?] saying,

"Elohim is gone from us!—"

In regard to the taking of the ark of God, and to her father-in-law, and to her husband. So she said—

"Elohim is gone from us!—"

For the ark of God hath been taken.

§ 2. The Wanderings of the Ark.

1 Now the Philistines having taken the ark of God, brought it in from Eben-ezer unto Ashdod. And when the Philistines took the ark of God, they brought it into the house of Dagon, and placed it by the side of Dagon.

And when they of Ashdod rose early on the morrow and entered into the house of Dagon, they looked and lo! the ark of Yahweh, So they took Dagon and restored him to his place. And when they rose up early in the morning of the morrow, lo! the ark of Yahweh, and the head of Dagon, and both the palms of his hands, had been cut off against the threshold, only Dagon himself was left to him.

For this cause do not the priests of Dagon, nor any that enter into the house of Dagon, tread upon the threshold of Dagon in Ashdod, until this day.

Then was the hand of Yahweh heavy against them of Ashdod, and he astounded them, and smote with tumours Ashdod and her bounds.

And when the men of Ashdod saw that [so] it was then kept they saying.

Let not the ark of the God of Israel abide with us, for hard is his hand upon us, and upon Dagon our god.

So they sent and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines unto them, and said—

What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel?

And they said:

To take the ark of the God of Israel and go round.

So they took round the ark of the God of Israel.

And so it was after they had taken it round, then was the hand of Yahweh against the city, with an exceeding great consternation, and he smote the men of the city, from the least even unto the greatest, and they brake out with tumours.

Then sent they the ark of God to Ekron, and so it was when the ark of God entered Ekron, that the Ekronites made outcry, saying—

They have brought round unto me the ark of the God of Israel, to slay me, and my people!

So they sent and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines, and said—

Send away the ark of the God of Israel, and restore it to its own place, that it slay not me, and my people.

For there had come a deadly consternation, throughout all the city, heavy exceedingly was the hand of God there. And the men who died not were smitten with the tumours, so the cry of the city for help, ascended to the heavens.

And it came to pass, that the ark of Yahweh was in the country of the Philistines, seven months.

Then called the Philistines for the priests and for the diviners, saying,

What shall we do with the ark of Yahweh?

Let us know, wherewith we shall send it to its own place.

And they said—

If ye are going to send away the ark of the God of Israel, do not send it away [empty], but ye must surely return to him a guilt-offering, and then shall ye be healed, and it shall be known to you, wherefore his hand would not turn away from you.

And they said—

What shall be the guilt-offering, that we shall return to him?

And they said—

By the number of the lords of the Philisthe five tumours of gold, and five mice of gold, for the "plague" was upon you all, and on your lords. Wherefore ye shall make likenesses of your tumours, and likenesses of your mice that are laying waste the land, and shall give unto the "God of Israel" [glory],—Peradventure he will lighten his hand from off you, and from off your god, and from off your land. Wherefore, then, should ye make your heart dull, as the Egyptians and Pharaoh made their heart dull! "When he had done his great deeds upon them," did they not let them go, and they departed?

Then shall ye look—"if by the way of its own boundary" it goeth up to Beth-shemesh, then it was who caused us this great affliction,—"but if not" then shall we know that it was not "his hand" that smote us, but a chance, it was, that befell us. The men, therefore, did so, and took two milch kine, and fastened them in the waggon, but their calves shat they up in the shed. And they put the ark of Yahweh, into the waggon, also the coffer, with the mice of gold, and the likenesses of their tumours. And the kine went straight along the road, on the way to Beth-shemesh, yea <along the main highway> they went, lowing as they went, turning not aside, to the right hand or to the left. And "the lords of the Philistines went along after them, as far as the bounds of Beth-shemesh. Now these were reaping their wheat-harvest in the vale, so they lifted up their eyes, and saw the ark, and rejoiced to meet it. And the waggon entered into the field of Joshua, a man of Beth-shemesh, and stood still [there], where also was a great stone,—so they clave into pieces the planks of the waggon, and the kine offered them up as an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh. And "the Levites" took down the ark of Yahweh, and the coffer that was with it, wherein were the jewels of gold, and put them upon the great stone,—and the men of Beth-shemesh caused to go up ascending-offerings and offered sacrifices, that day, unto Yahweh. And the five lords of the Philistines saw it,—and returned unto Ekron, the same day.

Now these are the golden 'boils' which the Philistines returned as a guilt-offering unto Yahweh,—"for Ashdod" one, "for Gaza" one, "for Ashkelon" one, "for Gath" one, "for Ekron" one; And the golden 'mice', by the number of all the cities of the Philistines, pertaining to the five lords, both fortified cities, and country villages,—yes "even the great meadows" whereon they rested the ark of Yahweh—until this day—is in the field-land of Joshua, the man of Beth-shemesh. And "when he smote the men of Beth-shemesh, because they looked into the ark of Yahweh, yea smote of the people seventy men [and] fifty thousand men," the people mourned, for that Yahweh had smitten the people with a great smiting. Then said the men of Beth-shemesh, "Who is able to stand before Yahweh, this holy God?" and unto whom shall he go up from us? And they sent messengers unto the inhabitants of Kirjath-jearim, saying,—"The Philistines have returned the ark of Yahweh, come down, fetch it up unto you. Then came the men of Kirjath-jearim and fetched up the ark of Yahweh, and brought it into the house of Abinadab <in the hill>,—and <Eleazar his son> hallowed them, to guard the ark of Yahweh. And so it was, that from the day the ark came to dwell in Kirjath-jearim—the days multiplied, and became twenty years,—and all the house of Israel went mourning after Yahweh.

§ 3. Samuel and Israel.

And Samuel spake unto all the house of Israel, saying,

<If with all your heart ye are returning unto Yahweh> then put away the gods of the foreigner out of your midst, and the Ashoreths,—and firmly set your heart towards Yahweh, and serve him [alone], that he may deliver you out of the hand of the Philistines. So the sons of Israel put away the Baals, and the Ashoreths,—and served Yahweh, [alone]. E And Samuel said, Gather all Israel unto Mispheth,—that I may pray for you, unto Yahweh.
So they gathered themselves unto Mizpah, and drew water, and poured it out before Yahweh, and fasted on that day, and said [there],

We have sinned against Yahweh.

And Samuel judged the sons of Israel in Mizpah.

And <when the Philistines heard that the sons of Israel had gathered themselves together unto Mizpah> the lords of the Philistines went up against Israel, — and <when the sons of Israel heard it> they shrank with fear, from the face of the Philistines. 8 And the sons of Israel said unto Samuel,

Do not turn in silence from us, from making outcry unto Yahweh our God,—that he would save us out of the hand of the Philistines.

So Samuel took one sucking lamb, and offered it up, as an entire ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, — and Samuel made outcry unto Yahweh, for Israel, and Yahweh answered him. 10 And <when Samuel was offering up the ascending-sacrifice> [the Philistines] drew near to fight against Israel,—but Yahweh thundered with a great noise throughout that day, over the Philistines, and confused them, and they were smitten before Israel. 11 And the men of Israel went forth out of Mizpah, and pursued the Philistines, —and smote them as far as under Beth-car. 12 And Samuel took a certain stone, and set it between Mizpah and Esanah, a.b. and called the name thereof Eben-ezer.a—said, Hitherto hath Yahweh helped us.

So the Philistines were subdued, and [no more] came within the boundary of Israel,—and the hand of Yahweh was against the Philistines, all the days of Samuel. 14 And the cities which the Philistines had taken from Israel were restored to Israel, from Ekron even as far as Gath; —even the boundaries thereof did Israel rescue out of the hand of the Philistines, —thus came there to be peace' between Israel and the Amorites.c

And Samuel judged Israel, all the days of his life. 16 And he used to take his journey, from year to year, and go round to Bethel, and Gilgal, and Mizpah, —and used to judge Israel, at all these places. 17 And this returning[a] was to Ramah, for <there> was his house, and <there> judged he Israel,—so he built there' an altar unto Yahweh.

§ 4. Samuel and Saul.

And it came to pass <when Samuel was old> that he appointed his sons judges to Israel; 2 and the name of his firstborn son was [Joel], and the name of his second [Abijah], —they were judges in Beer-sheba. 3 Howbeit his sons walked not in his ways, but stooped to extortion,—and took bribes, and perverted judgment.

So then all the elders of Israel gathered themselves together, — and came unto Samuel, to Ramah; 5 and said unto him—

Lo! [thou] art old, and [thy sons] walk not in thy ways:

Now appoint for us a king to judge us, like all the nations.

But the thing was displeasing in the eyes of Samuel, when they said,

Give unto us a king to judge us.

So Samuel prayed unto Yahweh. 7 And Yahweh said unto Samuel,

Hearken unto the voice of the people, in all that they shall say unto thee,—for <not thee> have they rejected, but <me> have they rejected, from being king over them.

According to all the doings which they have done, from the day I brought them up out of Egypt, even until this day, in that they have forsaken me, and served other gods> >[see] are they' doing even unto thee.

Now therefore, hearken to their voice,—save that thou [let] protest] against them, and tell them the manner of the king' who will reign over them.

So then Samuel spake all the words of Yahweh unto the people, who were asking of him, a king. 11 And he said,

[This] will be the manner of the king' who will reign over you,—

<Your sons> will he take and appoint for himself, as his charioteers and as his horsemen, and they shall run before his chariots; —and he will appoint for himself, princes of thousands, and princes of fifties,—and to plough his fields, and to reap his harvest, and to make his weapons of war, and the instruments of his chariots; 13 And <your daughters> will he take,—as perfumers and as cooks, and as bakers;

And <your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, the best of them> will he take, and give to his servants; 15 And <your seed, and your vineyards> will he tithe, and give to his courtiers and to his servants;

And <your men-servants, and your maid-servants, and your oxen, even the goodliest, and your asses> will he take,—and put them to his work; 17 <Your flocks> will he tithe,—

And [ye yourselves] shall become his servants.

Then will ye make outcry, in that day, because of your king' whom ye have chosen for yourselves,—and Yahweh will not answer you, in that day.

But the people refused to hearken' unto the voice of Samuel,—and they said—

Nay! but a king' shall be over us: we shall [even we] become like all the nations,

So it shd be (w. Sep.)—G.n. [M.C.T.: "young men."] — and our king shall judge us, and go forth before us, and fight our battles.

21 And Samuel heard all the words of the people, — and spake them in the ears of Yahweh.

22 And Yahweh said unto Samuel,

Hearken unto their voice, and make them a king.

And Samuel said unto the men of Israel:

Go ye, every man to his own city.

9 Now there was a man of Benjamin, whose name was Kish—son of Abel, son of Zeror, son of Becorath, son of Abiah, son of a Benjamite, — a mighty man of valour; 2 and he had a son, whose name was Saul, a choice young man and of noble appearance, and there was not' a man of the sons of Israel, more noble than he, — from his shoulders and upwards — was he taller than any of the people.

3 Now there had gone astray asses belonging to Kish, Saul's father, — so Kish said unto Saul his son—

I pray thee, take with thee one of the young men, and arise—go, seek the asses.

4 And he passed through the hill country of Ephraim, and passed through the land of Shalishah, but they found them not; — then passed they through the land of Shalim, and they were not' there; then passed he through the land of the Benjamites, but they found them not.

5 [They] had come into the land of Zuph when [Saul] said to his young man who was with him,

Come! and let us return; lest my father leave off [caring] for the asses, and be concerned for us.

And he said to him:

Lo! I pray thee, [a man of God] [lives] in this city, — [the man] is held in honour, — all that he saith [surely cometh to pass].

[Now] let us go thither; peradventure he may tell us our way, whereon we should go.

7 Then said Saul to his young man:

Behold <if we go> what shall we bring the man, for [the bread] hath failed from our sacks, and [present] there is none' to bring to the man of God,—what is there with us?

8 And the young man again' answered Saul, and said—

Lo! there is found in my hand, the fourth part of a shekel of silver, — which thou canst' give to the man of God, and he will tell us our way.

9 [Beforertime] in Israel [thus] said a man when he went to enquire of God,

Come and let us go as far as [the seer], —

For the prophet of to-day used to be called [beforetime] [the seer].

10 And Saul said unto his young man,

[God'] is thy word; come! let us go! So they went unto the city, where the man of God was.

11 [They] were going up the ascent of the city; when they found young women, coming out to draw water,—so they said unto these, — Is [the seer] in this place?

12 And the young women answered them and said:

He is, lo! before you now, even as [to-day] hath he entered the city, for the people have a sacrifice, to-day, in the high place.

13 [As ye enter the city] [so] shall ye surely find him, ere yet he shall go up to the high place to eat, for the people will not eat until he hath come, for [the] doth bless the sacrifice. [after that] will they eat who have been bidden.

[Now] therefore, go up, for about this very time shall ye surely find him.

14 So they went up into the city. — [As they were entering into the midst of the city] lo! [Samuel] coming out over against them, to ascend the high place. 15 Now [Yahweh] had unveiled the ear of Samuel, — one day before Saul came, saying:

16 [About this time to-morrow] will I send unto thee, a man out of the land of Benjamin, whom thou shalt anoint, to be king over my people Israel, and he shall save my people, out of the hand of the Philistines,—for I have looked upon the oppression, — because their outcry hath come in unto me.

17 And [when] [Samuel] beheld Saul, — [Yahweh] answered him, —

Lo! [the man] of whom I said unto thee, [Here] is one shall control my people.

18 And Saul drew near unto Samuel, in the midst of the gate,— and said—

I pray thee, do tell me, where is' the house of the seer?

19 And Samuel answered Saul, and said—

[If I am] [the seer], —

Go up before me to the high place, so shall ye eat with me, to-day, — and I will let thee go in the morning, and [all] that is in thy heart will I tell thee.

20 And [as for the asses] that went astray from thee three days ago do not regard them, — for they are found,— but to whom belongeth all that is desirable in Israel? Is it not to thee, and to all the house of thy father?
1 Samuel IX. 21—27; X. 1—15.

3 Then answered Saul, and said—

Am not I [a man of Benjamin, of the smallest of the tribes of Israel, and [now] my family the poorest of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin?
4 Wherefore, then, hast thou spoken unto me of such a thing as this?
5 And Samuel took Saul and his young man, and brought them into the guest-chamber,—and gave them a place at the head of them who were bidden, [they being about thirty persons,] 23 And Samuel said to the cook, Set on the portion of that I gave thee, [of] which I said unto thee. Put it by thee.
6 And the cook took up the shoulder, and that which was upon it, and placed it before Saul, and said—

Lo! the part reserved! Set it before thee [and eat, for unto the time appointed] hath it been kept for thee, since the time that I said, [The people] have I bidden.

So Saul did eat with Samuel, on that day. 26 And [when they had come down from the high place into the city] he spread a couch for Saul [upon the house-top, and he lay down]. 28 And it came to pass [at the sun设置了[pass of the time]] that Samuel called unto Saul on the house-top, saying, Arise! that I may send thee away.

So Saul arose, and they two, he and Samuel, went forth abroad. 27 As they were going down to the end of the city] [Samuel] said unto Saul—

Bid the young man, that he pass on before us, (and he passed on) but thou stand still where thou art, that I may let thee hear the word of God.

10 Then took Samuel a flask of oil, and poured out upon his head, and kissed him,—and said—

Is it not that Yahweh hath anointed thee over his inheritance, as leader?

9 [When thou departest, to-day, from me] then shalt thou find two men by the grave of Rachel, within the boundary of Benjamin, in Zelzah,—and they will say unto thee,
The asses are found, which thou wentest to seek, and lo! thy father hath abandoned caring for the asses, and is concerned for you, saying, What shall I do for my son?

1 Then shalt thou pass on quickly from thence onwards, and come as far as the oak of Tabor, and there shall find thee there, three men going up unto God, at Bethel,—[one] carrying three kids, and [another] carrying three cakes of bread, and [another] carrying a skin of wine; 4 then will they ask thee, of thy welfare,—and give thee two cakes of bread, which thou shalt receive at their hand.

5 [After that shalt thou come unto the hill of God, where is the garrison of the Philistines, and shall it be as thou comest in thither into the city thou shalt light upon a band of prophets, coming down from the high place, and [before them] a harp, and a timbrel, and a flute, and a lyre, [they having been moved to prophesy].] Then will come suddenly upon thee, the Spirit of Yahweh, and thou shalt be moved to prophesy with them,—and shalt be changed into another man.

6 And it shall be [when these signs shall come unto thee] then act thou for thyself, as thou shalt find occasion, for [God] is with thee.

7 And thou shalt go down before me to Gilgal, for lo! I am coming down unto thee, to offer up ascending-offerings, to sacrifice peace-offerings,—[seven days] shalt thou tarry, until I come unto thee, then will I let thee know what thou shalt do.

8 And so it was, that [when he turned away to depart from Samuel] God gave him another heart,—and all these signs came to pass that day.

9 And [when they came thither to the hill] lo! a band of prophets coming to meet him,—then came suddenly upon him, the Spirit of God, and he was moved to prophesy in their midst. 11 And it came to pass, that [all who knew him aforetime] looked, and lo! [with the prophets] he did prophesy. So the people said, one to another—What, now, hath become the son of Kish? Is [even Saul] among the prophets?

7 Then responded one of that place, and said,

But who is [their father]?

For this cause it became a proverb,

Is [even Saul] among the prophets?

12 And [when he had made an end of prophesying] he came to the high place. 14 Then said Saul's uncle unto him, and unto his young man—Whither have ye been?

And he said,

To seek the asses, and [when they were nowhere' to be seen] we came unto Samuel.

15 And Saul's uncle said,—

Do tell me, I pray thee, what Samuel said to thee.

Then Saul called out the people, unto Yahweh, at Mizpah, and said unto the sons of Israel—

"Thus saith Yahweh, God of Israel: I myself brought up Israel, out of Egypt, and rescued you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all the kingdoms that distrest you. Yet ye have rejected your God, who himself hath been giving you salvation from all your calamities and your distresses, and ye have said to him: A king shall thou set over us, therefore, present yourselves before Yahweh, by your tribes, and by your thousands. And when Samuel had brought near all the tribes of Israel, then was taken the tribe of Benjamin. And when he had brought near the tribe of Benjamin, by their families, then was taken the family of Matri. And when he had brought near the family of Matri, man by man, then was taken Saul the son of Kish; so they sought him, but he was not to be found. Then asked they again of Yahweh, 'Hath there yet to come in hither a man?' And Yahweh said, 'Lo! he hath hid himself among the stores.' So they ran, and fetched him thence, and when he presented himself in the midst of the people, then he was seen to be taller than any of the people, from his shoulders and upwards. And Samuel said unto all the people—Have ye seen him whom Yahweh hath chosen, that there is none like him, among all the people? And all the people shouted, and said—Let the king live! When Samuel declared unto the people the manner of the kingdom, and wrote it in a scroll, and laid it up before Yahweh. And Samuel sent away all the people, every man to his own house. Yea, even Saul went to his own house, at Gibeah, and the valiant men, whose heart God had moved went with him. But abandoned men said—How can this one save us? So they treated him with contempt, and brought him no present; but he was as one that was deaf."

§ 5. Saul defeats Nahash the Ammonite.

1. Then came up Nahash the Ammonite, and encamped against Jabesh-gilead; and all the men of Jabesh said unto Nahash, Solemnise against us a covenant, that we may serve thee. 2. And Nahash the Ammonite said unto them, "Hereby will I solemnise [a covenant] with you by digging out for you, every one’s right eye,—and laying it for a reproach, upon all Israel. 3. And the elders of Jabesh said unto him—Give us a respite of seven days, that we may send messengers’ throughout all the bounds of Israel,—and then, if there is none to save us, we will come out unto thee. 4. And when the messengers came to Gibeah of Saul, and spake the words in the ears of the people, all the people lifted up their voice, and wept. But lo! [Saul] came in, following the oxen, out of the field, and Saul said, What aileth the people, that they should weep? Then were recounted to him the words of the men of Jabesh. And the Spirit of God came suddenly upon Saul, when he heard these words,—and his anger raged furiously. So he took a yoke of oxen, and cut them in pieces, and sent throughout all the bounds of Israel, by the hand of messengers—saying, "Whoever cometh not forth after Saul, and after Samuel, shall it be done unto his oxen. Then fell the dread of Yahweh, upon the people, and they came forth, as one man. And when he numbered them in Bezek, the sons of Israel were found to be three hundred thousand, and the men of Judah thirty thousand. So they said unto the messengers who had come—"Thus shall ye surely say to the men of Jabesh-gilead, To-morrow shall ye have deliverance, about the time the sun is hot. And when the messengers came and told the men of Jabesh, they rejoiced. So the men of Jabesh said, "To-morrow will we come out unto you,—Then shall ye do with us, according to all that is good in your eyes. And it came to pass on the morrow, that Saul set the people in three companies, and they entered into the midst of the host, during the morning watch, and smote Ammon until the day was hot. And it came to pass that they who were left were scattered, so that there were not left among them two together. Then said the people unto Samuel,
Who is he that was saying, Shall Saul reign over us? Give up the men, that we may put them to death.

13 But Saul said, There shall not be put to death a man, this day, for to-day hath Yahweh wrought deliverance in Israel.

14 Then said Samuel unto the people, Come and let us go to Gilgal, and let us there renew the kingdom.

15 So all the people went to Gilgal, and made Saul king there, before Yahweh, in Gilgal, and offered there sacrifices of peace-offerings before Yahweh; and Saul and all the men of Israel rejoiced there exceedingly.

§ 6. Samuel expostulates with Israel.

12 1 And Samuel said unto all Israel, Lo! I have hearkened unto your voice, in all that ye said to me, and have set over you a king.

2 [Now] therefore, lo! the king going to and fro before you, But [I] am old and grey-headed, And <my sons> lo! they are with you, But [I] have gone to and fro before you from my youth until this day.

3 Behold me! testify against me, before Yahweh, and before his Anointed— Whose [ox] have I taken? Or whose [ass] have I taken? Or whom have I oppressed? Whom have I crushed? Or at whom [hands] have I taken a bribe, to cover up mine eyes therewith? And I will restore it unto you.

4 And they said, Thou hast not oppressed us, Neither hast thou crushed us, Neither hast thou taken [at the hand of any man], [any thing].

5 And he said unto them— [Witness] is Yahweh against you, And [witness] is his Anointed, this day, That ye have not found in my hand [any thing]! And they 4 said: Witness!

6 And Samuel said unto the people: [Witness] is Yahweh, who wrought with Moses and with Aaron, And who brought up your fathers, out of the land of Egypt.

7 [Now], therefore, take your stand and let me plead with you, before Yahweh, and tell you all the righteous acts of Yahweh, which he wrought with you, and with your fathers:

8 How that <when Jacob had come into Egypt,—and your fathers had made outcry unto Yahweh> then Yahweh sent Moses and Aaron, and they brought forth your fathers’ out of Egypt, and he caused them to dwell in this place;

9 And <when they forgot Yahweh their God> he sold them into the hand of Sisera, prince of the host of Jabin, king of Hazor, and into the hand of the Philistines, and into the hand of the king of Moab, and they fought against them;

10 But <when they made outcry unto Yahweh> and said— We have sinned, in that we have forsaken Yahweh, and have served the Baals and the Ashorethas,—[now], therefore, deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, that we may serve thee— then Yahweh sent Jerubbaal and Jephthah, and Samuel,—and delivered you out of the hand of your enemies, on every side, and ye dwelt in safety.

11 But <when ye saw that Nahash king of the sons of Ammon> came upon you> then said ye unto me, Nay! but [a king] shall reign over us, when [Yahweh your God] was your king?

12 [Now], therefore, lo! the king whom ye have chosen, for whom ye have asked,—lo! therefore, Yahweh hath set over you a king.

13 [If ye will reverse Yahweh, and serve him, and hearken unto his voice, and not rebel against the bidding of Yahweh> Then shall [both ye'] and your king that reigneth over you] continue to follow after Yahweh your God.

14 But <if ye hearken not unto the voice of Yahweh, but rebel against the bidding of Yahweh> then will the hand of Yahweh continue to be against you, and against your fathers.

15 [Even now] stand still and see this great thing, — which Yahweh is about to do before your eyes: 17 Is it not wheat harvest, to-day? I will cry unto Yahweh, that he give me rain; the earth shall also yield its fruit.

16 So Samuel cried unto Yahweh, and Yahweh gave forth thunders and rain, on that day, and all the people greatly feared Yahweh, and Samuel. 19 And all the people said unto Samuel—
Pray for thy servants, unto Yahweh thy God, and let it not be that we die,—
For we have added to all our sins a wrong, in asking for ourselves a king.

20 Then said Samuel unto the people—

Do not fear; Yahweh has done all this wrong;—
nevertheless, do not turn aside from following Yahweh, but serve Yahweh, with all your heart;— and turn not aside after vanities, that can neither profit nor deliver, because they are vanities.

22 For Yahweh will not give up his people, because of his great name,—for Yahweh was minded to make you his people.

23 <As for me also> far be it from me, that I should sin against Yahweh, by ceasing to pray for you,—but I will direct you, in the good and right way.

24 [Only] revere Yahweh, and serve him in truth, with all your heart,—for see, what great things he hath done with you.

But if ye will do wrong; both ye and your king shall be swept away.

§ 7. Saul quails before the Philistines: Jonathan and Saul drive them out of the Land; and Saul's Kingdom is for a time established.

1 Saul was thirty years old when he began to reign; and <when he had reigned two years over Israel> Saul chose him three thousand men out of Israel, of whom there were with Saul, two thousand in Michmash and in the hill-country of Bethel, and 1,000 were with Jonathan, in Gibeah Benjamint, but 1,000 the rest of the people he let go, every man to his own home.

Then did Jonathan smite the garrison of the Philistines that was in Geba, and the Philistines heard of it,—and Saul blew with a horn throughout all the land, saying,

Let the Hebrews hear!

And [all Israel] heard say—

Saul hath smitten the garrison of the Philistines.

Moreover, also, Israel have made themselves odious among the Philistines,—so the people were called together to follow Saul to Gilgal. And [the Philistines] gathered themselves together to fight with Israel thirty thousand chariots, and six thousand horsemen, a people also like the sand that is on the sea-shore for multitude,—and they came up, and encamped in Michmash, east of Beth-aven.

So [the men of Israel] saw they were in a strait, for the people had been harassed,—and the people had hidden themselves in caves, and in thickets, and among cliffs, and in holes, and in pits. And [Hebrews] had passed over the Jordan, to the land of Gad, and Gilead,—but Saul was yet in Gilgal, and [all the people] trembled after him. And he waited seven days, by the set time that Samuel had named, but Samuel came not to Gilgal,—and the people were scattered from him.

Then said Saul,

Bring near unto me, the ascending-sacrifice and the peace-offerings.

And he offered up the ascending-sacrifice.

And it came to pass <as he had made an end of offering> up the ascending-sacrifice, lo! [Samuel] had come,—and Saul went out to meet him, that he might bless him. Then said Samuel—

What hast thou done?

And Saul said—

<Because I saw that the people had been scattered from me, and [thou] hadst not come within the appointed days, and the Philistines had gathered themselves together to Michmash> therefore I said—[Now] will the Philistines come down against me, at Gilgal, but the face of Yahweh have I not appraised:

So I forced myself, and offered up the ascending-sacrifice.

And Samuel said unto Saul—

Thou shewest thyself foolish,—thou hast not kept the commandment of Yahweh thy God, which he commanded thee, for [now] would Yahweh have established thy kingdom unto Israel until times abiding;

Whereas [now] shall thy kingdom not be established,—Yahweh hath sought out for him a man after his own heart, and Yahweh hath commanded him to be leader over his people, because thou hast not kept that which Yahweh commanded thee.

And Saul arose, and ascended from Gilgal unto Gibeah of Benjamint. And Saul numbered the people who were found with him, about six hundred men.

And [now] Saul, and Jonathan his son, and the people that were found with him, were abiding in Gibeath Benjamint,—but [the Philistines] had encamped in Michmash.

And the spoilsmen came forth out of the camp of the Philistines, in three companies,—[the first company] turned unto the way of Ophrah, unto the land of Shual; and [the second company] turned unto the way of Beth-horon,—and [the third company] turned unto the way of the boundary, that overlooketh the valley of Zelboim, towards the wilderness.
Now [as smith] could not be found, throughout all the land of Israel,—for the Philistines had said.

Let the Hebrews make sword or spear.

So all Israel went down to the Philistines,—to sharpen every man his share, and his mattock, and his axe, and his sickle.²² Howbeit they had a file for the sickle, and the mattocks, and the three-pronged forks, and the axes,—and for setting the goads.²³ Thus would it come to pass, in the day of battle, that there was found,—neither sword nor spear, in the hand of any of the people, that were with Saul and Jonathan,—but such were found belonging to Saul and to Jonathan his son.²⁴ Now the garrison of the Philistines had come out to the pass of Michmash.

14 And it came about, on a certain day, that Jonathan son of Saul said unto the young man bearing his armour:

Come! and let us pass over unto the garrison of the Philistines, that is on the other side, yonder! but <to his father> he told it not.

Now Saul was tarrying in the uttermost part of Gibeah, under the pomegranate tree that is in Migron,—and the people that were with him were about six hundred men; and [Abijah, son of Abitub, brother of Ichabod, son of Phinehas, son of Eli], was priest of Yahweh in Shiloh, wearing an ephod,—and the people knew not that Jonathan had departed.

And between the passes by which Jonathan sought to come over up to the garrison of the Philistines there was a crag of rock on the one side, and a crag of rock on the other side; and [the name of the one was Bozer, and the name of the other Seneh.³³ The one crag] was a pillar on the north, over against Michmash, and [the other] on the south, over against Geba.

So Jonathan said unto the young man bearing his armour:

Come! and let us cross over unto the garrison of these uncircumcised, [peradventure] Yahweh may work by us,—for there is no restraint with Yahweh, to save by many, or by few.

And his armour-bearer said to him,

Do all that is in thy heart,—decide for thyself (lo! I am with thee!), according to thine own heart.

Then said Jonathan,³⁴ Lo! [we are] crossing over unto the men,—and will discover ourselves unto them.

If [thus] they say unto us, Keep quiet! until we get to you—then will we stand still where we are, and will not go up unto them; ³⁵ but if [thus] they say, Come up unto us—then will we go up; for Yahweh hath delivered them into our hand.³⁶

This then, is our sign.

So they two discovered themselves unto the garrison of the Philistines,—and the Philistines said—

Lo! [the Hebrews] coming forth out of the holes, wherein they had hidden themselves.

And the men of the garrison responded to Jonathan and his armour-bearer, and said—

Come up unto us, and we will let you know a thing.

Then said Jonathan unto his armour-bearer—

Come up after me, for Yahweh hath delivered them into the hand of Israel.

So Jonathan went up on his hands and on his feet, and [his armour-bearer] followed him,—and they fell before Jonathan, and [his armour-bearer] was slaying after him. ³⁷ And the first smiting wherewith Jonathan and his armour-bearer smote was about twenty men,—within, as it were, half a furrow's length of a yoke of land. ³⁸ And there came to be a trembling in the camp, in the field, and among all the people, <the outposts and the spoilers> they too trembled,—and the earth quaked, so it became a preternatural trembling.³⁹

And the scouts of Saul in Gibeah of Benjamin looked, and lo! [the camp] melted away, hither and thither.⁴⁰ Then said Saul unto the people who were with him:

Number, I pray you, and see who hath departed from us.

So they numbered; and lo! Jonathan and his armour-bearer were missing. ³⁸ Then said Saul unto Abijah, Bring near the ark of God; for the ark of God was, on that day, in the midst of the sons of Israel. ³⁹ And it came to pass, as soon as Saul had spoken unto the priest that the tumultuous noise that was in the camp of the Philistines went on and on: [Its increasing].

Then said Saul unto the priest—

Withdraw thy hand.⁴⁰ And Saul and all the people that were with him gathered themselves together, and came as far as the host,—and lo! the sword of every man was against his fellow, [an exceeding great confusion].³¹ And <the Hebrews who had aforesaid belonged to the Philistines, who had come up with them in the host> (even they turned round) so as to be with Israel who were with Saul and Jonathan.³² And [all the men of Israel who had hidden themselves throughout the hill country of Ephraim] heard that the Philistines had fled,—and [they also] followed hard after them in the battle. ³² Thus did Yahweh, on that day, save Israel,—and the battle passed over by Beth-shean.

Now the men of Israel were tired out on that day,—yet had Saul bound the people by an oath, saying—(Cursed be the man that catcheth food until the evening, and I be avenged upon mine enemies.

So none of the people had tasted food. 25 And [all] the land] had entered into the forest,— and there was honey upon the face of the ground.
So the people came into the forest, and lo! there were streams of honey,—but no man reached his hand to his mouth, because the people revered the oath. 27 But Jonathan, heard not his father putting the people on oath, so he reached forth the end of the staff that was in his hand, and dipped it in the honey-cups,— and brought back his hand to his mouth, and his eyes were brightened. 29 Then responded one among the people, and said—
With an oath I did thy father charge the people, saying—(Cursed be the man that catcheth food to-day!)
And so the people were faint. 30 Then said
Jonathan:
My father hath afflicted the land,—
See, I pray you, how my own eyes have been brightened, because I tasted a little of this honey. 31 How much more if haply the people had eaten freely to-day of the spoil of their enemies, which they found? for now] would not the smiting of the Philistines have been [mighty?]

Howbeit they smote the Philistines on that day from Michmash to Ajalon,—but the people became exceeding faint. 32 And the people darted greedily upon the spoil, and took sheep, and oxen, and calves, and filled them to the ground,—and the people did eat with the blood. 33 And they told Saul, saying, Lo! the people are sinning against Yahweh,
by eating with the blood.

And he said—
Ye have dealt treacherously, roll unto me here! a great stone.

And Saul said—
Disperse yourselves among the people, and
say unto them—
Bring near unto me every man his ox, and every man his lamb, and slay them there,
and then eat, so shall ye not sin against Yahweh, by eating with the blood.

And all the people brought near—every man that which was in his hand, that night, and they slew them there. 34 And Saul built an altar unto Yahweh,—the same was the first altar that he built unto Yahweh.

Then said Saul—
Let us go down after the Philistines by night, and make of them a prey until the morning light, and let us not leave of them [a man.]
And they said,
<All that is good in thine eyes> do!
Then said the priest,
Let us draw near hither unto God.
37 So Saul asked of God,
Shall I go down after the Philistines? wilt thou deliver them into the hand of Israel?
But he answered him not, that day. 38 Then said Saul,

Come near hither, all ye chief of the people,— and get to know and see, [wherein] hath been this sin, to-day.

For by the life of Yahweh, who saveth Israel] <though it be in Jonathan my son> yet shall be <die;>
But there was none ready to answer him, of all the people. 39 Then said he unto all Israel—<Ye, shall be on one side, and I and Jonthan my son, will be on the other side.>
And the people said unto Saul,
<What is good in thine eyes> do!
40 And Saul said unto Yahweh—
O God of Israel, now set forth the truth.
Then were [Jonathan and Saul] taken, and the people; escaped. 42 And Saul said,
Cast lots between me and Jonathan my son.
Then was [Jonathan] taken.

And Saul said unto Jonathan,
Come tell me, what thou hast done.
So Jonathan told him, and said,
I just tasted <with the end of the staff> that was in my hand , here I am—I must die!

Then said Saul,—
<So I may God do, and I may be add> surely thou must die, Jonathan]

But the people said unto Saul—Shall Jonathan die, who hath wrought this great salvation in Israel? Far be it!
By the life of Yahweh: there shall not fall a hair of his head to the ground, for <with God> hath he wrought this day.
So the people delivered Jonathan, that he did died.

Then Saul went up from following the Philistines,—and ||the Philistines|| departed unto their own place.

1 SAMUEL XIV. 24—46.
And Saul took possession of the kingdom over Israel, and made war round about against all his enemies—against Moab, and against the sons of Ammon, and against Edom, and against the kings of Zobah, and against the Philistines, and whosoever he turned against he was victorious. Then made he ready a force, and smote the Amalekites, and delivered Israel out of the hand of such as plundered them.

And the sons of Saul were Jonathan, and Ishvi, and Malchishua, and the names of his two daughters were, the name of the first-born Merab, and the name of the younger Michal.

And the name of Saul's wife was Ahinoam, daughter of Ahimaaz, and the name of the prince of his host, Abner, son of Ner, Saul's uncle. And the name of Kish was Saul's father, and the name of Ner, Abner's father, was son of Abiel.

And there was war against the Philistines all the days of Saul, and whosoever Saul saw any mighty man, or any son of valour, he drew him unto himself.

8. Saul, commissioned to destroy Amalek, fails, and his reign is doomed.

And Samuel said unto Saul, It was iuef Yahweh sent to anoint thee to be king over his people, over Israel, therefore hearken thou to the voice of Yahweh's words.

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, I have well considered what Amalek did unto Israel, how he lay in wait for him in the way, when he came up out of Egypt.

Now go and smite Amalek, and devote ye to destruction all that he hath, and spare him not, but thou shalt slay both man and woman, both child and suckling, both ox and sheep, both camel and ass.

So then Saul called together the people, and numbered them in Telaigm, two hundred thousand footmen, and ten thousand men of Judah.

And Saul came as far as the city of Amalek, and stirred up strife in the ravine. Then said Saul unto the Kenites—Go, depart, get you down out of midst of the Amalekites, lest I destroy you with them, ye that deal in lovingkindness, with all the sons of Israel, when they came up out of Egypt.

So the Kenites departed out of midst of the Amalekites. And Saul smote Amalek, from Havilash till thou enterest Shur, which is over against Egypt. And he took Agag, king of Amalek, alive, but <call the people> devoted he to destruction at the edge of the sword.

But Saul and the people spared Agag, and the best of the sheep and the oxen and the lambs also the fatlings, and all that was good, and would not devote them to destruction, but <all the cattle that was contemptible and diseased> devoted they to destruction. Then came the word of Yahweh unto Samuel, saying—

I am grieved that I made Saul to be king, for he hath turned back from following me, and my words hath he not established. And it was vexing to Samuel, so that he made outcry unto Yahweh all the night. And Samuel rose early to meet Saul in the morning, and it was told Samuel, saying—<Saul having come to Carmel, and lo! having set him up a sign> hath gone round, and passed over, and descended to Gilgal.

And Samuel came unto Saul, and Saul said unto him—

Blessed be thou by Yahweh: I have established the word of Yahweh.

And Samuel said,

What then is this bleating of sheep, in mine ears, and the lowing of oxen, which I can hear?

Then said Saul—

<From the Amalekites> have they brought them in; in that the people spared the best of the sheep, and of the oxen, to sacrifice unto Yahweh thy God, but <the rest> have we devoted to destruction.

Then said Samuel unto Saul,

Stay, and let me tell thee, that which Yahweh hath spoken unto me this night, And he said to him—Speak.

And Samuel said,

Was it not <when little thou wast in thine own eyes> that thou wast made head of the tribes of Israel, and that Yahweh anointed thee to be king over Israel?

So then Yahweh sent thee on a journey, and said—

Go, and devastate to destruction, the sinners—the Amalekites, and make war against them, until they have consumed them.

Wherefore, then, didst thou not hearken unto the voice of Yahweh, but didst rush upon the spoil, and do that which was wrong in the sight of Yahweh?

And Saul said unto Samuel—

As indeed I have hearkened unto the voice of Yahweh, and have been on the journey on which Yahweh sent me, and have brought in Agag, king of Amalek, and <the Amalekites> have I devoted to destruction.

And the people took, of the spoil, sheep and oxen.

The chief of the things so devoted,—To sacrifice unto Yahweh thy God, in Gilgal.
Then said Samuel—
Doth that which is pleasing unto Yahweh consist in ascending-offerings and sacrifices, So much as in hearkening unto the voice of Yahweh? Lo! to hearken is better than sacrifice, And to give heed than the fat of rams; For as the sin of divination is rebellion, And as transgression with household gods is stubbornness,—<Because thou hast rejected the word of Yahweh.> Therefore hath he rejected thee from being king.

Then said Saul unto Samuel—
I have sinned; for I have transgressed the bidding of Yahweh, and thy words, for I feared the people, and hearkened unto their voice.

Now therefore, I pray thee, pardon my sin,—and turn again with me, that I may bow down unto Yahweh.

And Samuel said unto Saul, I will not turn again with thee,—<Because thou hast rejected the word of Yahweh.> Therefore hath Yahweh rejected thee from being king over Israel.

And when Samuel turned about to go away, then laid he hold of the skirt of his robe, and it was rent.

And Samuel said unto him, Yahweh hath rent the kingdom of Israel from thee, to-day,—and will give it unto a neighbour of thine, who is better than thou.

Moreover also [the Eminence of Israel] will not lie, neither will he repent,—For no son of earth is he to repent!

Then he said: I have sinned.

Now honour me, I pray thee, before the elders of my people, and before Israel,—and turn again with me, then will I bow down unto Yahweh thy God.

So then Samuel turned again, after Saul,—and Saul bowed down unto Yahweh.

Then said Samuel—
Bring ye near unto me—Agag, king of Amalek, And Agag came unto him, in fetters. Then said Agag, Surely <terrible> is the bitterness of death!

And Samuel said, <As women have been made childless by thy sword> <So> childless among women shall be thine own mother.

And Samuel cut Agag saunder before Yahweh, in Gilgal.

Then Samuel departed unto Ramah,—but Saul went up unto his own house, at Gibeah of Saul.

And Samuel did no more see Saul, until the day of his death; for Samuel pined for Saul,—but [Yahweh] was grieved that he had made Saul king over Israel.

And Yahweh said unto Samuel—<How long art thou going to pine for Saul, seeing that I have rejected him from being king over Israel? Fill thy horn with oil, and come! let me send thee unto Jesse the Bethlehemite, for I have provided me among his sons] king.

And Samuel said, How can I go? <As soon as Saul heareth> he will slay me.

Then said Yahweh, <A heifer> take thou with thee, and say, <To sacrifice unto Yahweh> am I come.

Then shalt thou bid Jesse to the sacrifice,—when I will let thee know what thou must do, so shalt thou anoint for me him whom I shall name unto thee.

And Samuel did that which Yahweh had spoken, and went to Bethlehem. And the elders of the city came trembling to meet him, and one said—<Peaceably> comest thou?

And he said—

Peaceably: <to sacrifice unto Yahweh> am I come. Hallow yourselves, and come with me to the sacrifice.

And he hallowed Jesse and his sons, and bade them to the sacrifice.

And it came to pass <when they entered> that he looked upon Eliab,—and said to himself, Surely <before Yahweh> is his Anointed.

But Yahweh said unto Samuel—Do not regard his countenance, or the height of his stature, for I have rejected him,—for it is not what man looketh to but what God looketh to. For <man> looketh to the outward appearance,* but [Yahweh] looketh to the heart.

Then Jesse called Abinadab, and made him pass before Samuel,—and he said, <Neither of this one> hath Yahweh made choice.

Then Jesse made Shammah pass by,—and he said,—<Nor of this one> hath Yahweh made choice.

So Jesse made seven of his sons pass before Samuel,—and Samuel said unto Jesse, Yahweh hath not made choice of these.

*This gives a touching glimpse of Samuel. He pined for Saul, yet as Yahweh had definitely rejected the son of Kish, Samuel prudently kept at a distance. His loyalty to God was supreme.

17 Then said Samuel unto Jesse:

Are these all the young men? And he said:

There yet remaineth the youngest; but lo! he is tending the sheep.

Then said Samuel unto Jesse:

Do send, and summon him, for we cannot sit round, while he cometh in hither.

So he sent, and brought him in. Now he was ruddy, a stripling with handsome eyes, and noble mien.

Then said Yahweh:

Rise—anoint him for this is he.

And Samuel took the horn of oil, and anointed him in the midst of his brethren. And the Spirit of Yahweh came mightily upon David, from that day forward.

Then arose Samuel, and went his way unto Ramah.

But the spirit of Yahweh departed from Saul, and there terrify him a sad spirit, from Yahweh.

Then said the servants of Saul unto him:

Lo! we pray thee, a sad superhuman spirit doth terrify thee:

Pray let our lord bid thy servants before thee, seek out a man, skilled in playing on the lyre, so shall it be, when a sad superhuman spirit cometh on thee then shall he play with his hand, and thou shalt be joyful.

And Saul said unto his servants:

I pray you, look out for me a man that excelleth in playing, and bring him in unto me.

Then responded one of the young men and said:

Lo! I have seen—a son of Jesse, the Bethlehemite, skilled in playing, and a mighty man of valour, and a man of war, and of intelligence, and a handsome man, and Yahweh is with him.

So Saul sent messengers unto Jesse, and said:

Send unto me—David thy son, who is with the sheep.

Then took Jesse an ass laden with bread, and a skin of wine, and one kid, and sent by the hand of David his son, unto Saul. And David came in unto Saul, and stood before him, and he loved him greatly, and he became his armour-bearer.

And Saul sent unto Jesse saying:

I pray thee, let David stand before me, for he hath found favour in mine eyes.

And so it used to be, when a superhuman spirit came unto Saul, then would David take the lyre, and play with his hand, and Saul would be refreshed, and be joyful, and the sad spirit would depart from him.

§ 10. David and Goliath.

And the Philistines gathered together their hosts, unto battle, and they were gathered together unto Sooch, which belongeth unto Judah, and they encamped before Sooch and Azekah in Ephes-dammim.

And Saul and the men of Israel gathered themselves together, and encamped in the vale of Elah, and set the army in array against the Philistines. And the Philistines were standing near the hill on one side, and the Israelites were standing near the hill on the other side, while the valley was between them.

And there came forth a champion out of the camp of the Philistines, Goliath, his name, from Gath, six cubits and a span.

With a helmet of bronze on his head, and a scaly coat of mail, the weight of the coat being five thousand shekels of bronze; and greaves of bronze on his feet, and a javelin of bronze between his shoulders; and the shaft of his spear was like a weaver’s beam, and the flashing head of his spear was six hundred shekels of iron; and his shield-bearer was coming on before him.

And he took his stand, and cried unto the ranks of Israel, and said unto them:

Wherefore should ye come out to set in array for battle? Am not I the Philistine, while ye are servants unto Saul? Choose you a man, and let him come down unto me:

If he prevail in railing with me, and smite me, then will we be your servants, but if I prevail over him, and smite him, then shall ye become our servants, and serve us.

And the Philistine said:

I will reproach the ranks of Israel, this day; give me a man, that we may fight together.

When Saul and all Israel heard these words of the Philistine they were dismayed, and feared exceedingly.

Now David was the son of that Ephrathite of Bethlehem-Judah, whose name was Jesse, and who had eight sons, and the man in the days of Saul was old, advanced in years.

And the three eldest sons of Jesse had followed Saul to the battle, and the names of his three sons who went into the battle were Eliab the firstborn, and the next to him was Abinadab, and the third was Shammah. But David was the youngest, and the three eldest followed Saul; whereas David kept going and returning from Saul, to tend his father’s sheep at Bethlehem.

And the Philistine drew near morning and evening, and presented himself forty days.

And Jesse said unto David his son,

Take, I pray thee, unto thy brethren—this epah of parched corn, and these ten loaves, and run to the camp unto thy brethren; also these ten slices of soft cheese shalt thou take to the captain of their thousand, and as for thy brethren give good heed.

to their welfare, their pledge, also shall thou receive.

19 Now Saul, and they, and all the men of Israel, were in the vale of Elah, ready to fight with the Philistines. So then David rose up early in the morning, and enlisted the sheep to a keeper, and took up [the provisions] and went his way, as Jesse had commanded him,—and came into the circular rampart, as the force was going forth into the ranks, and shouted for the fight. So Israel and the Philistines set in array for battle, army against army. Then David entrusted the provisions that were upon him to the care of the keeper of the stores, and ran unto the ranks,—and came and asked for the welfare of his brethren.

20 Now as he was speaking with them> lo! the champion came up, Goliath the Philistine] by name of Gath, [coming up] out of the ranks of the Philistines, and he spake according to these words,—and David heard [them].

21 Now ||all the men of Israel|| <when they saw the man> fled from before him, and feared exceedingly.—And the men of Israel said—Have ye seen this man that is coming up? For to reproach Israel> is he coming. So then it shall be, that <the man that shall smite him> shall make free in Israel.

Then spake David unto the men that were standing by him, saying, What shall be done to the man that shall smite yonder Philistine, and so shall take away reproach from off Israel? For who is this uncircumcised Philistine that he hath reproached the ranks of a Living God?

26 And the people answered him, according to this word, saying,—||So shall it be done to the man that shall smite him.

27 Now Eliaab his eldest brother heard' when he spake unto the men,—then was kindled the anger of Eliaab against David, and he said—Wherefore is it that thou hast come down? and to whom hast thou entrusted those few sheep in the wilderness?

||I know thy pride, and the foolishness of thy heart, for to see the battle> hast thou come down.

29 And David said, What have I done ||now||? Was there not ||a cause||?

30 Then turned he from him unto another, and said—according to this word,—and the people returned him an answer, like the first. And the words which David spake were overheard, —and <when they told them before Saul> he summoned him.

32 And David said unto Saul, Let not the heart of my lord fail, because of him,—thy servant] will go, and fight with this Philistine.

33 And Saul said unto David,—Thou art not able to go against this Philistine, to fight with him,—for  art thou, but ||he|| a man of war [from his youth].

34 Then said David unto Saul, Thy servant used to tend' his father’s sheep,—and there would come a lion, or a bear, and carry off a lamb out of the flock ; and I would go out after him, and smite him, and rescue it out of his mouth,—and <if he rose against me> I would catch him by his beard, and smite him, and slay him.

35 Thy servant could slay ||either a lion or a bear,—and ||this uncircumcised Philistine] shall become ||as one of them|| for he hath reproached the ranks of a Living God.

36 And David said, ||Yahweh] who hath rescued me out of the power of the lion, and out of the power of the bear,|| he will rescue us out of the hand of this Philistine. Then said Saul unto David,—Go! and ||Yahweh|| will be with thee.

38 And Saul clad David with his own military coat, and set a helmet of bronze upon his head,—and clad him with a coat of mail. And David girded his sword above his military coat, but was reluctant to go, for he had not proved them,—so David said unto Saul—

I cannot go in these, for I have not proved them.

And David put them off him. Then took he his stick in his hand, and chose him five smooth stones out of the torrent-bed, and put them in the shepherd’s pouch which he had—even in the wallet, and had his sling in his hand,—and so drew near unto the Philistines. And the Philistines' came on and on, and drew near unto David,—and the man carrying the shield was before him. And <when the Philistine looked about, and saw David> he disdained him,—for he was a youth, and ruddy, a stripling of fair countenance. Then said the Philistine unto David,

<A dog> am I, ||that thou' art coming unto me ||with sticks||?

And the Philistine cursed David, by his god.* And the Philistine said unto David,—||Come|| unto me, that I may give thy flesh to the birds of heaven, and to the beasts of the field.'

So it shd be [or as rendered by O.G.: "he laboured vainly"] (w. Sep.)—G.n.

Sep. adds: "Shall I not go and smite him, and turn aside, to-day, reproach from Israel? For who is this uncircumcised?" (that he hath, etc.)—G.n.

Then said David unto the Philistine—

'(Thou) art coming unto me,' with sword, and with spear, and with javelin,—but 'I am coming unto thee'in the name of Yahweh of hosts, God of the ranks of Israel which thou hast reproached.

39 This day will Yahweh deliver thee into my hand, and I will smite thee, and take thy head from off thee, and will give thy dead body and the dead bodies of the host of Philistines, this day, unto the birds of heaven, and unto the wild beasts of the earth,—that all the earth may know that Israel hath a God;\(^a\) and that all this gathered host may know that <not with sword and with spear> doth Yahweh save, for <unto Yahweh> belongeth the battle, and he will deliver you into our hand.\(^4\)

40 And it came to pass <when the Philistine arose, and came and drew near to meet David> that David hasted, and ran toward the ranks to meet the Philistine. \(^5\) And David thrust his hand into his pouch, and took from thence a stone, and slung it, and smote the Philistine, in his forehead,—that the stone sank into his forehead, and he fell upon his face, to the earth. \(^6\) Thus David prevailed over the Philistine, with the sling and with the stone, and smote the Philistine, and slew him,—but <sword> was there none' in the hand of David. \(^7\) So David ran, and stood by the Philistine, and took his sword and drew it out of the sheath thereof, and slew him, and cut off, threewith, his head,—and <when the Philistines saw that their hero was slain> they fled.

42 Then arose the men of Israel and Judah, and shouted, and pursued the Philistines, as far as thine entrance into Gath,\(^a\) and as far as the gates of Ekron,—and the slain of the Philistines fell in the way to the two gates, even as far as Gath and as far as Ekron. \(^5\) And the sons of Israel returned from hotly pursuing the Philistines,—and plundered their camps. \(^4\) And David took the head of the Philistine, and brought it into Jerusalem,—but <his armour> put he into his tent.

45 And <when Saul saw David going forth to meet the Philistine> he said unto Abner, prince of the host,

'Whose son is the young man, Abner?
And Abner said,
'By the life of thy soul, O king! I know not.'

46 Then said the king,—

'Ask [thou] whose son the striping is.'

47 And <when David returned from smiting the Philistine> Abner took him, and brought him before Saul,—[with the head of the Philistine in his hand]. \(^5\) And Saul said unto him, Whose son art thou? O young man?

And David said,

Son of thy servant Jesse, the Bethlehemite.

§ 11. David and Jonathan—David in disfavour with Saul.

1 And it came to pass <when he had made an 18 end of speaking unto Saul> that [the soul of Jonathan, a] was knit with [the soul of David], so that Jonathan loved him [as his own soul].

2 And Saul took him, that day,—and suffered him not to return unto the house of his father.

3 And Jonathan and David solemnised a covenant,—because he loved him as his own soul.

4 And Jonathan stripped himself of the robe which was upon him, and gave it to David,—and his equipments, even to his sword, and to his bow, and to his girdle. \(^8\) And David went forth,—[whithersoever Saul sent him]—he behaved himself prudently, so Saul set him over the men of war,—and he became a favourite in the eyes of all the people, [yes even in the eyes of the servants of Saul].

5 But so it was <when they came in on the return of David from the smiting of the Philistines> that the women went forth out of all the cities of Israel, singing and dancing, to meet Saul the king,—with timbrels, with rejoicing, and with instruments of three strings.

6 And the women that made merry responded to each other in song, and said,—

[Saul] hath smitten [his thousands],
But [David] his [tens of thousands].\(^6\)

7 Then was Saul exceeding angry, and this saying was offensive in his eyes, and he said,—

They have ascribed [to David] ten thousands, But [to me] have they ascribed thousands,—What [more] then, can he have but [the kingdom]?\(^9\)

8 And Saul was eyeing David from that day forward.

9 And <when it came to pass, on the morrow, that a superhuman spirit of sadness came suddenly upon Saul, and he was moved to raving in the midst of the house,—and [David] began playing with his hand, as he had done day by day> that a spear being in Saul's hand, \(^11\) Saul hurled the spear, and said to himself—

I will smite David, even to the wall! But David moved round from before him \([twice]>.\)

10 And Saul feared because of David,—[for Yahweh was with him], whereas <from Saul> he had departed. \(^12\) So Saul removed him from him, and appointed him to be for him the captain of a thousand,—and he went out and came in before the people. \(^14\) And it came
And Saul said unto Jonathan, and to all Israel and Judah, I will do nothing without you. And Jonathan made a covenant with David, because he loved him: and Jonathan went and told his father Saul, and said unto him, David earnestly sought mine honour. And Saul said, Is it possible for the king's son to be with the son of men? Yet Saul assumed the marks of a king's son. And Jonathan made him swear again: and Jonathan did not tell his father all the words of the oath which David had sworn with him. Then Jonathan called David, andJonathan said unto David, What hast thou done? And Saul said, Thou art a valiant man, and a man of war: and now shall thy brethren fight with the Philistines, and thou shalt be with me in the battle. And again Jonathan made a covenant with David the second time. And Jonathan said, This day hath God delivered thee into mine hand; and now I will certainly smite thee, David, and take away thine head: and I will give the people all the substance of thy father's house unto me, and his inheritance shall be mine. Then said Jonathan, What is there with thee, my brother? what hast thou done? And David said unto Jonathan, There is none guiltiness in me, or in thy servant, whosoever hath said, of the two thrones. And Jonathan said, Thou shalt not die. Behold, my father shall certainly do this thing, and there shall not fail one of all the words of my lips. Then ought I to die, and ought I not rather to get up when my brother the king is dying, and slay the man that killed my master? But his brother Jonathan was not informed: and Saul's servants were the men that weregathering up a harvest in the field. Then answered Doeg the Edomite, which was set over the ravens of Saul, saying, I saw the son of Jesse coming down with an hundred men out of the field, and as though there were a great company of prophets came down from the north, and spake one to another. And David turned his words softly, and spake more softly than any other man, and better: and when he arose to speak, his voice was not that of the voice of man. So Saul said to David, Thou art a valiant man, and a man of war: and now will my soul be delivered into thine hand. And Saul said, Whose son art thou, David? and Saul went on his journey to Naioth. And it was told Saul, saying, David spake thus and thus. And Saul said, Go, and fetch him. And it came to pass, as David came to the town, that Saul said unto Jonathan his son, come, and let us go out thither, that we may catch David. And it was told Saul, saying, David spake thus and thus. Then Saul said, Go, and see the king. And David went out of the city, and spoke with the king. And David said to Saul, Why am I this day in thine sight? And Saul said, Because I love thee, and because thine mother loved thee, and hath blessed thee. And Saul said, Whence camest thou? And David said, From the washery of Zopham, which is at Gath. And Saul said, Whence is thine father's household of the men of Zebulun? And Saul said, Thou art not small, thou art a man of war, and a man of war is not small. And Saul said to David, Go, and stand before me, when I make my sacrifice to the Lord, and I will put my sacrifice in thine hand. And Saul said to David, Go, and put the sheep into the fold. And Saul said to Jonathan his son, David hath desired of me to be slain this day in the field: come, therefore, and let us go out thither, that we may catch the man that is smiting Israel. And Saul his son Jonathan stood up for David, and said, Father, I will go out and fetch David into the city. And Saul said to Jonathan his son, Wherefore art thou come down, my son Jonathan? And Jonathan answered Saul, David earnestly asked me to give him bread: and I gave him, and his two brethren also; for he said to me, Give me, I pray thee, a little bread: for I have not eaten since the morning, neither have the people eaten. And Saul said, Go to the city; and go thou, and bring me from thence a yet more, and it came to pass that Saul went on to fear because of David, yet more, and it came to pass that Saul was hostile to David, all the days. And Saul spake unto Jonathan his son, and unto all his servants, that they should put David to death; but Jonathan, Saul's son, delighted in David exceedingly, —so Jonathan told David, saying, Saul, my father, is seeking to put thee to death,—now therefore, take heed to thyself. I pray thee in the morning, and abide thou in concealment, and hide thyself; —and I will come out and stand beside my father in the field where thou art, and I will speak of thee unto my father,— and if I see ought, I will tell thee. So then Jonathan spake of David things that were good, unto Saul his father, and said unto him— May the king not sin against his servant against David; for he hath not sinned against thee, nay, indeed; his doings have been good to theeward exceedingly. And when he put his life in his hand, and smote the Philistine, and Yahweh wrought a great victory for all Israel> thou sawest, and didst rejoice. Wherefore, then, shouldst thou sin against innocent blood by putting David to death without cause? And Saul hearkened unto the voice of Jonathan, and Saul was aware, —and Saul spake, by the life of Yahweh he shall not be put to death! And Jonathan called for David, and Jonathan told him all these things, and Jonathan brought in David unto Saul, and so he was in his presence, as aforetime. But when the war again brake out, and David went forth and fought with the Philistines, and smote them with a great smiting, and they fled before him> then came there a sad spirit of Yahweh unto Saul, <he' being in his house, seated, with his spear in his hand,—while David played with his hand> Saul sought to smite David with the spear, even to the wall, but he slipped away from Saul, who smote the spear into the wall, whereas David fled and escaped that night. And Saul sent messengers unto David's house, to watch him, and to put him to death, in the morning; and Michal his wife told David, saying, If thou dost not deliver thyself to-night> to-morrow art thou to be put to death.
1 Samuel XIX. 12—24; XX. 1—12.

What have I done? What is my transgression, and what is my sin, before thy father, that he seeketh my life?
2 And he said unto him—
Far be it! thou shalt not die.
Lo! my father doeth nothing, great or small, without unveiling mine ear, wherefore then should my father hide from me this thing?
There is nothing in this.
3 But David sware yet further, and said—
Thy father did know that I have found favour in thine eyes, therefore saith he,—
Do not let Jonathan know this, lest he grieve;
but, indeed in by the life of Yahweh, and by the life of thine own soul surely there is but as it were a step betwixt me and death!
And Jonathan said unto David,—
<Whosoever thy heart shall desire> I will do for thee.
4 And David said unto Jonathan—
Lo! the new moon is to-morrow, and I must not sit with the king to eat, let me go then, and hide myself in the field, until the evening.
6 If thy father enquire for me then shalt thou say—
David did ask leaves of me, to run to Bethlehem, his own city, for a yearly sacrifice is to be held there for all the family.
7 If henceforth he say—
It is well> thy servant shall have peace, but if it anger him> know that harm hath been determined by him.
8 Thus shalt thou do a lovingkindness for thy servant, for into a covenant of Yahweh hast thou brought thy servant, with thee; But if there is in me transgression put me to death thyself, for unto thy father wherefore shouldst thou bring me in?
9 And Jonathan said—
Far be it from thee! but if I get to know that harm is determined by my father, to bring it upon thee is not that the thing that I will tell thee?
10 Then said David unto Jonathan,
Who shall tell me,—if thy father answer thee aught that is harsh?
11 And Jonathan said unto David,
Come! and let us go out into the field. And they two went out into the field. Then said Jonathan unto David—
Witness [be] Yahweh God of Israel> that I will sound my father about this time to-morrow or the third day, and lo! if there be good towards David> will I not

David knew the matter. 4 So Jonathan gave his weapons unto his lad, and said to him, Go, carry them into the city.

41 <As soon as [the lad] was gone> 42 [David] arose from beside the South, 1 and fell on his face to the earth, and bowed himself down three times,—and they kissed each other, and wept over each other, until [David] exceeded. 43 Then said Jonathan unto David—

Go in peace, b—[remembering] that we have both sworn in the name of Yahweh, saying, Yahweh shall be between me and thee, and between my seed and thy seed, unto times ages-abiding.

And he arose, and departed,—and [Jonathan] entered the city.

§ 12. David in Ezion: At Nob—Adullam—Mishah of Moab—the Forest of Herath—Keilah, and elsewhere. Saul slays all the priests of Nob save Abiathar.

21 Then came David to Nob, unto Ahimelech, the priest,—and Ahimelech trembled when he met David, and said unto him—

Why art thou alone? and no man with thee?

2 And David said unto Ahimelech the priest—

The king hath charged me with a matter, and hath said unto me—

Let no man know aught of the business on which I am sending thee, and with which I have charged thee,—

But unto the young men have I appointed 2 such and such a place.

2 Now therefore, what is there under thy hand? 4 <five loaves> give thou into my hand,—or whatever can be found.

4 And the priest answered David, and said, There is no common bread under my hand,—but <hallowed bread> there is, if the young men have kept themselves at least from women.

5 And David answered the priest and said to him—

Of a truth! women have been withheld from us, of late, through my coming out, and the wallets of the young men have become hallowed,—while [the bread] itself is in a manner common, and the more so since [to-day] there are other loaves to be hallowed 1 in the vessel.

So the priest gave him hallowed [bread],—because there was there no bread, save the Presence-Bread, which had to be removed from before Yahweh, to put hot bread, on the day when it should be taken away.

8 Now in that very place was a man of the servants of Saul, on that day, detained before Yahweh,—whose name was Doeg the Edomite,—chief of the shepherds that belonged unto Saul.

8 Then said David to Ahimelech,

See whether there is here under thy hand a [spear or a sword]? for <neither my sword, nor my other weapons> did I take in my hand, for [the king's business was urgent].

9 And the priest said :

The sword of Goliath the Philistine, whom thou didst smite in the vale of Elah> lo! that is wrapped up in a cloth, behind the ephod, <if that thou wilt take to thee> take it, for there is no other, save that here.

And David said—

There is none [like it], give it me.

10 Then arose David, and fled, that day, from the face of Saul,—and came in unto Achish, king of Gath. 11 And the servants of Achish said unto him, Is not [this] David, king of the land?

Was it not [of this man] that they kept responding in the dances, saying,

[Saul] hath smitten his [thousands]

But [David] his [tens of thousands]? 2

12 And David laid up these words in his heart,—and feared greatly, because of Achish king of Gath. 13 So he feigned himself mad, in their sight, and raged in their hand,—and struck against 3 the doors of the gate, and let his spittle run down upon his beard. 14 Then said Achish unto his servants,—

Lo! ye can see, a madman playing his pranks, wherefore should ye bring him in unto me? 15 <Lacking of madmen> am I that ye should bring in this one to play his mad pranks unto me? Shall [this] one enter my household?

1 David therefore departed thence, and escaped 22 into the cave of Adullam,—and <when his brethren and all the household of his father heard it> they went down unto him, thither.

2 And there gathered themselves unto him—every one that was in distress, and every one that had a creditor, and every one embittered in soul, 4 and he came to be over them as a prince,—and there were with him, about four hundred men. 3 And David departed thence, to Mishah of Moab,—and said unto the king of Moab, I pray thee, let my father and my mother dwell 4 with you, until that I know what God will do for me.

4 So he set them before the king of Moab,— and they dwelt with him, all the days that David was in the fortress. 9 Then said Gad the prophet unto David—

Thou must not abide in the fortress, go and get thee into the land of Judah. So David departed, and entered the forest of Hereth.

And when Saul heard that David was discovered, and the men that were with him—

Saul winning the Tamarisk-tree of Ramah, with his spear in his hand, and all his servants stationed by him—then said Saul unto his servants who were stationed by him—

Hear, I pray you, ye Benjamites! What! <even to all of you> will the son of Jesse give fields and vineyards?

<All of you> will he appoint to be princes of thousands, and princes of hundreds?

That ye have conspired, all of you, against me, and there is none to uncover mine ear as to the covenanting of my son with the son of Jesse?

And none from among you that taketh pity upon me, and that uncovereth mine ear to this—

That mine own son hath stirred up my servants against me, to lie in wait, as at this day?

Then answered Doeg the Edomite—being stationed near the servants of Saul—and said—

I saw the son of Jesse coming into Nob, unto Ahimelech son of Ahitub;

Then enquired he for him of Yahweh, <Provisions also> gave he unto him,—

And <the sword of Goliath the Philistine> gave he unto him.

Then the king sent to call Ahimelech, son of Ahitub, the priest, and all the house of his father—the priests, who were in Nob,—and they came, all of them, unto the king. 12 And Saul said,

Hear, I pray thee, thou son of Ahitub! And he said—

Behold me: my lord.

And Saul said unto him,

Wherefore have ye conspired against me, <thou, and the son of Jesse>,—in that thou gavest him bread and a sword, and didst enquire for him of God, that he might rise up against me, that he might lie in wait, as at this day?

14 Then Ahimelech answered the king, and said,—

But who, among all thy servants, [like David], is [faithful], being son-in-law to the king, and [cometh near to have audience with thee], and is [honoured in thy household]?

Did I [that day] begin to enquire for him of God? Far from me! Let not the king impute to his servant such a thing, nor to any of the household of my father, for thy servant knoweth nothing of all this, lesse or more.

16 And the king said:

Thou shalt [die], Ahimelech,—[thou and all the household of thy father].

And the king said unto the runners that were stationed by him—

Turn ye round and put to death the priests of Yahweh, because [their hand also] is with David, and because they knew that he was [in flight], and unsealed not mine ear.

But the servants of the king were not willing to thrust forth their hand, to fall upon the priests of Yahweh.

18 Then said the king to Doeg,

Turn [thou], and fall upon the priests. So Doeg the Edomite turned, and [himself] fell upon the priests, and put to death, that day, four score and five men bearing an ephod or linen; 19 Nob also, the city of the priests, smote he with the edge of the sword, <both men and women, children and sucklings>, and oxen and asses and sheep, with the edge of the sword.

20 But there escaped one son of Ahimelech, son of Ahiab, whose [name] was Abiathar,—and he fled after David. 21 So Abiathar told David,—that Saul had slain the priests of Yahweh.

22 Then said David to Abiathar—

I knew, that day, when Doeg the Edomite was [there], that he would [surely tell] Saul. 23 I* am chargeable with all the lives of the house of thy father.

Abide with me! do not fear, for [who is he, that seeketh my life]? seeketh thy life,—for <in safeguard> shalt thou be [with me].

1 Then told they David, saying,—

Lo! the Philistines* are fighting against Keilah, and they are plundering the threshing-floors.

2 So David enquired of Yahweh, saying,

Shall I go and smite these Philistines? And Yahweh said unto David—

Go, and smite the Philistines, and save Keilah.

But the men of David said unto him,

Lo! [we, here, in Judah], are afraid,—how much more, then, if we go to Keilah, against the ranks of the Philistines?

4 So David yet again enquired of Yahweh, and Yahweh answered him,—and said—

Arise, go down to Keilah, for I am about to deliver the Philistines into thy hand.

5 David therefore went, with his men, 4 to Keilah, and fought with the Philistines, and drave forth their cattle, and smote them, with a great smiting.—so David saved' the inhabitants of Keilah.

6 Now it came to pass <when Abiathar, son ofAhimelech, fled unto David to Keilah> that he came down with [an epidod] in his hand. 7 And <when it was told Saul that David had entered Keilah> Saul said—

God hath given him over into my hand, for he hath shat himself in by entering' into a city with folding doors and bar.

So Saul summoned all the people to war,—to go down to Keilah, to besiege David, and his men. 9 And David ascertained that [against him] Saul was contriving mischief,—so he said unto Abiathar the priest,

Bring hither the epidod.

Then said David:

O Yahweh, God of Israel, thy servant hath heard that Saul is seeking to come unto Keilah,—to destroy the city [for my sake]:

Will the owners of Keilah surrender me into his hand? Will Saul come down, as thy servant hath heard?

O Yahweh, God of Israel, I pray thee, tell thy servant.

And Yahweh said—

He will come down.

Then said David,

Will the owners of Keilah surrender me and my men, into the hand of Saul?

And Yahweh said—

They will surrender.

Then arose David and his men, about six hundred, and went forth out of Keilah, and went to and fro, wheresoever they could,—and <unto Saul> it was told that David had escaped out of Keilah, so he forbade to go forth. 14 Then David abode in the wilderness, in the fortresses, and he abode in the hill country, in the wilderness of Maon. And Saul sought him continually, but God delivered him not into his hand. 15 Then David said that Saul had come out to seek his life [David] being in the wilderness of Ziph, in the thicket. 16 So Jonathan, Saul's son, arose and went unto David in the thicket,—and strengthened his hand in God; 17 and said unto him,—

Do not fear, for the hand of Saul my father shall not find thee, but [though] shalt become king over Israel, and [I] shall be next unto thee,—yes' and [so] Saul my father knoweth this.

And they two solemnised a covenant before Yahweh,—and David remained in the thicket, but [Jonathan] departed to his own house.

19 Then came up the Ziphites unto Saul' in Gibeah, saying,—

Is not David' hiding himself with us, in the strongholds in the thicket, in the hill of Hachilah, which is on the right of Jesi- mon? 20

Then Saul said,

Bless'd be ye, of Yahweh,—because ye have taken pity upon me.

22 Go, I pray you, make ready yet further, and get to know and see his place, where may be his track, who hath seen him there,—for it hath been said unto me, [Cunning indeed] is [he]! 23 See, then, and get to know,—of all the hiding places, where he hideth himself, and return unto me, for certainty, then will I go with you,—and it shall be <if he is> in the land> that I will search' him out [through all the thousands of Judah].

So they arose and departed to Ziph, before Saul,—but [David and his men] were in the wilderness of Maon, in the Arabah, to the right of Jesi- mon. 24 Then Saul and his men departed, to seek [him]; but it had been told David, and he had gone down the cliff, and taken up his abode in the wilderness of Maon,—and when Saul had [heard it] he pursued David in the wilderness of Maon. 25 And Saul went on this side of the mountain, and [David and his men] on that side of the mountain,—wherefore David became hurried, to get away from the presence of Saul, but [Saul and his men] were surrounding David and his men, to capture them: 27 when [as messenger] came unto Saul, saying,— Haste thee and come! for the Philistines have spread over the land.

Then returned Saul from pursuing David, and departed to meet the Philistines,—[for which cause] they called that place Sela-hammahlekoth ["the Cliff of Separation"] 29 And David went up from thence,—and abode in the strongholds of En-gedi.

1 And it came to pass <when Saul had returned 24 from following the Philistines> that it was told him, saying:

Lo! David' is in the wilderness of En-gedi.

2 Then Saul took three thousand chosen men, out of all Israel,—and went to seek David and his men, over the face of the rocks of the mountain-goats. 3 And he came into the sheep-folds by the way, [there] being a cave, which Saul entered, to cover his feet,—[David and his men, in the hinder part of the cave,

I Sam. xxiv. 4—22; xxv. 1—6.

And he said unto him—

Far be it from me, of Yahweh, that I should do this thing unto my lord, unto the Anointed of Yahweh, to thrust forth my hand against him,—for the Anointed of Yahweh is he.

So David did chide his men with the words, and did not suffer them to rise up against Saul. And Saul rose up out of the cave, and went on his way.

Then David rose up after wards, and went forth out of the cave, and cried out after Saul, saying—

My lord, O king!

And when Saul looked about behind him, David inclined his face to the earth, and bowed himself down.

Then said David to Saul, Wherefore shouldst thou hearken unto the words of the sons of earth, saying,— Lo! David is seeking thy hurt?

Lo! [this day] have thine own eyes seen, how Yahweh had delivered thee up, to-day, into my hand in the cave, and when one bade me slay thee> I looked with com passion upon thee,—and I said—

I will not thrust forth my hand against my lord, for the Anointed of Yahweh is he.

But, my father, see, [yea, see!] the corner of thy robe in my hand,—for in that I cut off the corner of thy robe, and yet did not slay thee> know thou, and see, that there is not in my hand either wrong or transgression, neither have I sinned against thee, yet art thou' hunting my life, to take it.

Let Yahweh do justice between me and thee, and let Yahweh avenge me of thee,—but mine own hand shall not be upon thee.

As saith the proverb of the ancients,

<From the lawless> proceedeth lawlessness,—

<mine own hand> therefore shall not be upon thee.

After whom> hath the king of Israel' come forth? [After whom> art thou in purs uit? After a dead dog! after a single flea?

Therefore shall [Yahweh] become [judge], and do justice betwixt me and thee,—that he may see, and plead my cause, and justly deliver me out of thy hand.

And it came to pass when David had made an end of speaking these words unto Saul> that Saul said, <Thy voice> is this, my son David?

And Saul lifted up his voice, and wept. And he said unto David,

<More righteous> art thou than I, for thou hast requited me [good], but I have requited thee [evil].

I found out, dost thou to-day, how thou hast dealt with me> for good,—how when Yahweh had surrendered me into thy hand> thou didst not slay me. And when a man findeth his enemy> will he let him get safely away?

[Yahweh] then, give thee [good] reward for what [this day] thou hast done unto me.

Now therefore, lo! I know that thou [shalt] indeed become king,—and that the kingdom of Israel [shall be established in thy hand.]

Now therefore, swear unto me by Yahweh, that thou wilt not cut off my seed, after me,—and wilt not destroy my name out of the house of my father.

So David sware unto Saul,—and Saul departed unto his own house, but David and his men went up on the stronghold.

And Samuel died, and all Israel were gathered together, and made lamentation for him, and buried him within his own house, in Ramath, and David arose and went down into the wilderness of Maon. 2 Now there was a man in Maon, whose cattle were in Carmel, and the man was exceeding great, and he had three thousand sheep, and a thousand goats,—and so it was, that he was shearing his sheep in Carmel.

Now [the name of the man] was Nabal, and [the name of his wife] Abigail,—and [the woman] was of good understanding, and of beautiful figure,—but [the man] was unfeeling and of evil practices, and he was a Calebite.

So then David heard in the wilderness,—that Nabal was shearing his sheep. 4 David, therefore, sent ten young men,—and David said unto the young men,—

Go up to Carmel, and enter in unto Nabal, and ye shall ask him, in my name, of his welfare; 5 and say thus—
Long life to thee! * Mayest thou prosper, And thy household prosper, And all that thou hast prosper! 7 Now therefore, I have heard that thou hast shearsers,—
Well, the shearsers that thou hast have been with us, We reproached them not, Neither missed they anything, All the days they were in Carmel. Ask thy young men, that they may tell thee, That so my young men may find favour in thine eyes, For a good day have we come! Give, I pray thee, what thy hand findeth, to thy servants, b And to thy son, to David! 9 So David's young men came, and spake unto Nabal, according to all these words, in the name of David,—and waited. 10 Then Nabal answered the servants of David, and said,
Who is David? And who is the son of Jesse? 11 Shall I then take my bread, and my wine, and my oil, and give it to these men? For they are the sons of my lord. 12 So the young men of David turned away from their journey, and came back, and drew near, and told him, according to all these words. Then said David unto his men—
Gird on every man his sword, And they girded on every man his sword, and David also girded on his sword, and there went up after David—about four hundred men, and two hundred abode by the stores. 14 But a certain one of her young men told Abigail, Nabal's wife, saying,— Lo! David sent messengers out of the wilderness to bless our lord, and he treated them with contempt. 15 But the men were exceeding good to us, and we were not harmed, neither missed we anything, all the days we went to and fro with them, while we were in the fields: A wall became they unto us, both by night and by day, all the days we were with them, tasting the flock. 17 Now, therefore, know thou, and see, what thou canst do, for mischief is determined against our lord, and against all his household,—but he is such an abandoned man, that one cannot speak unto him. 18 Then Abigail hastened—and took two hundred loaves, and two skins of wine, and five sheep made ready, and five measures of parched corn, and a hundred cakes of figs, and two hundred cakes of raisins,—and put them on the asses. 19 And she said to her young men,—
Pass on before me, behold me coming after you; but to her husband, Nabal, she said nothing. 20 And so it was as she was riding on her ass, and descending within the covert of the hill—lo! David and his men descending over against her,—so she met them. 21 Now David had said—
Surely in vain did I guard all that pertained to this man in the wilderness, so that there was nothing missed of all that he had,—seeing he hath returned to me evil for good. 22 So may God do to David, and so may he add, if I leave remaining, of all that he hath, until the morning,—so much as a little boy. 23 And when Abigail saw David, she hasted and alighted from off her ass, and fell down before David upon her face, and prostrated herself on the ground; yea she fell at his feet, and said—
On me, even me, is my lord, the trespass,—
But, I pray thee, let thy handmaid speak in thine ears, And hear the words of thy handmaid. 25 Let it not be, I pray thee, that my lord regard this abandoned man—Nabal; For as his name is, so is he. 26 Nabal is Base; is his name, and Base is with him,—But I, thy handmaid, saw not the young men of my lord, whom thou didst send. 27 Now, therefore, my lord—
By the life of Yahweh, and By the life of thine own soul,— Seeing Yahweh hath withheld thee from coming in with bloodshed, and from saving thyself with thine own hand,—
Now, therefore, like Nabal be thine enemies, and who are making search for my lord wrongfully. 28 Now, therefore, this blessing which thy maid-servant hath brought to my lord, let it even be given unto the young men who are going to and fro at the feet of my lord. 29 Forgive, I pray thee, the trespass of thy handmaid,—for Yahweh will certainly make for my lord an assured house, for the light of the m.; cp. ver. 34—G.n. 29 G.n. (the battles of Yahweh) is my lord fighting, and (wrong) shall not be found in thee, all thy days; 22 yea (though there hath arisen a son of earth to pursue thee, and to seek thy life) yet shall the life of my lord be bound up in the bundle of the living, with Yahweh thy God, but (as for the life of thine enemies) he shall sling it out with the middle of the hollow of the sling.

And it shall be (when Yahweh shall do for my lord, according to all the good that he hath spoken concerning thee) (and shall put thee in charge as leader over Israel) then shall this not become to thee a staggering and stumbling of heart, unto my lord—that thou didst either shed blood without need, or that the hand of my lord (saved himself).

And (when Yahweh hath dealt well with my lord) then remember thou thy handmaid.

Then said David unto Abigail,—

Blessed be Yahweh, the God of Israel, who hath sent thee this day, to meet me; 23 and be thy discreet judgment, and be thou myself, for fathers hast kept me this day from coming in with bloodshed, and from saving myself (with mine own hand).

Nevertheless (by the life of Yahweh, God of Israel) (who hath restrained me from harming thee) surely (except thou hadst hastened and come to meet me) there had not been left unto Nabal, by the light of the morning, so much as a little boy. 24 So David received at her hand, that which she had brought him, and (unto herself) he said—

Go up, in peace, unto thy house, see! I have hearkened unto thy voice, and accepted thy person. 25 And (when Abigail came unto Nabal) lo! he had a banquet in his house, like the banquet of a king; and (the heart of Nabal was glad) according to (the) drinking deeply, so she told him nothing—less or more, until the light of the morning. 26 And it came to pass in the morning (when the wine had gone out of Nabal, and his wife told him these things) that his heart died within him, and he became like a stone. 27 And it came to pass (in about ten days) that Yahweh smote Nabal, that he died. 28 And (when David heard that Nabal was dead) he said—

Blessed be Yahweh, who hath maintained the plea of my reproach, at the hand of Nabal, and hath restrained (his) servant; from wrong, yea (the wrong of Nabal) hath Yahweh turned back on his own head.

Then sent David, and spake with Abigail, to take her to himself to wife. 40 And the servants of David came unto Abigail the Carmelite, and spake unto her, saying,

David hath sent us unto thee, to take thee to himself to wife.

And she arose, and bowed herself down with her face to the earth, and said—

Lo! thy handmaid, as serving-woman to bathe the feet of the servants of my lord.

And Abigail hastened, and mounted, and rode upon her ass, with her five damsels that used to journey at her feet, and she went her way after the messengers of David, and became his wife. 42 David took Ahinoam also out of Jezreel, and they two became his wives.

And Saul, indeed, had given his daughter Michal, David's wife, to Palti, son of Laish, who was of Galm.

§ 15. David a Second Time Spereth Saul's Life.

1 And the Ziphites came unto Saul in Gibeah, saying,—

Is not David hiding himself in the hill of Hachilah, overlooking Jeshimon?

2 Then Saul arose, and went down into the wilderness of Ziph, and with him three thousand chosen men of Israel, to seek David in the wilderness of Ziph. And Saul encamped in the hill of Hachilah, which overlooketh Jeshimon, by the way, but David was staying in the wilderness, so he saw that Saul was coming after him into the wilderness.

4 David therefore sent runners, and took knowledge that Saul had come, for a certainty.

5 So then David arose, and came to the place where Saul had encamped, and David saw the place where Saul was lying, with Abner, son of Ner, prince of his host, and Saul was lying within the circular trench, with the people encamped round about him. 6 And David responded, and said unto Ahimelech the Hittite, and unto Abishai son of Zeruiah, brother of Joab, saying,

Who will go down with me unto Saul, within the camp?

And Abishai said,

I will go down with thee.

7 So David came, with Abishai, unto the people by night, and lo! Saul lying asleep, within the trench, and his spear stuck in the ground, at his head, and Abner and the people lying round about him. 8 Then said Abishai unto David,

God hath surrendered, to-day, thine enemy, into thy hand; 9 Now therefore, let me smite him. I pray thee, with the spear to the earth, at one stroke, I will not do it twice. 10 But David said unto Abishai,

Do not destroy him,—for who hath thrust

10 And David said—

"By the life of Yahweh, surely I will smite him, or his day must come that he die, or into battle must he go down, and be swept away."

11 Far be it from me, of Yahweh, that I should thrust forth my hand against the Anointed of Yahweh!

"Now therefore, take, I pray thee, the spear that is at his head, and the cruse of water, and let us go our way."

12 So David took the spear, and the cruse of water, from near the head of Saul, and they went their way, and no man saw, and no man knew, and no man awoke, for all of them were sleeping, for a deep sleep from Yahweh had fallen upon them.

13 Then David crossed over to the other side, and took his stand on the top of the mountain, afar off, \(\text{&}\) a great space being between them.

14 And David cried aloud unto the people, and unto Abner son of Ner, saying, Wilt thou not answer, Abner?

Then answered Abner, and said, Who art thou, that hast cried aloud unto the king?

15 And David said unto Abner—

Art not thou [a man]? Who indeed is like thee in Israel? Wherefore, then hast thou not kept watch over thy lord, the king?

For one of the people hath entered, to destroy the king—thy lord.

16 Not good; is this thing which thou hast done, \(\text{&}\) by the life of Yahweh verily \(\text{&}\) of death ye are, in that ye have not kept watch over your lord, over the Anointed of Yahweh.

17 And Saul knew the voice of David, and said—

Thy voice is this, my son David?

And David said, My voice, my lord O king!

18 And he said, Wherefore is it, that my lord is in pursuit of his servant? For what have I done? or what is in my hand that is wrong?

19 \(\text{&}\) Now\(\text{&}\) therefore, I pray thee, let my lord the king hear the words of his servant, \(\text{&}\) if \(\text{&}\) of Yahweh have goaded thee on against me let him accept the sweet smell of a gift, but \(\text{&}\) if the sons of men \(\text{&}\) accursed they are before Yahweh, for they have driven me out, to-day, from joining myself with the inheritance of Yahweh, saying—

Go, serve other gods!

20 \(\text{&}\) Now \(\text{&}\) therefore, let not my blood fall to the earth, away from the presence of Yahweh, for the king of Israel hath come out to hunt for a single flea, as when one pursueth a partridge among the mountains.

Then said David—

I have sinned. Return, my son David, for I will harm thee no more, because my life was precious in thine eyes, this day,—lo! I have acted foolishly and greatly erred.

22 And David responded, and said,

Lo! the spear of the king! Let, therefore, one of the young men come over, and fetch it.

23 And let Yahweh give back to each man, his righteousness, and his faithfulness,—in that Yahweh delivered thee, to-day, into my hand, but I would not thrust forth my hand against the Anointed of Yahweh.

24 Lo! then as thy life was much set by this day in mine eyes, so let my life be much set by in the eyes of Yahweh, and let him rescue me out of all tribulation.

25 Then said Saul unto David—

Blessed\(\text{&}\) be thou, my son David, thou shalt both \(\text{&}\) of\(\text{&}\) great\(\text{&}\) prevail.

And David went on his way, but Saul returned unto his own place.

§ 16. David obtains Ziklag of Achish and dwells there.

1 And David said, unto his own heart,

Now shall I be swept off, in a single day, by the hand of Saul,—there is nothing for me better than that I escape into the land of the Philistines, so shall Saul give up seeking for me any more, in any of the bounds of Israel, so shall I escape out of his hand.

2 And David arose, and he and the six hundred men that were with him passed over, unto Achish son of Maacah, king of Gath. And David abode with Achish in Gath, \(\text{&}\) he and his men, each man with his household, \(\text{&}\) David with his two wives, Abinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail wife of Nabal, the Carmelite.\(\text{&}\)

And when it was told Saul, that David had fled to Gath, he added no more, to seek him.

5 Then said David unto Achish—

If I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes, let them give me a place in one of the cities in the country, that I may dwell there,—for why should thy servant dwell in the royal city with thee?

6 So Achish gave him on that day, Ziklag, \(\text{&}\) wherefore Ziklag hath pertained unto the kings of Judah, unto this day. And the number of the days that David dwelt in the country of the Philistines became a year and four months.\(\text{&}\)

8 And David and his men went up, and made a... raided against the Geshurites and the Gizrites, and the Amalekites, for they were the inhabitants of the land who had been from age-past times, as thou enterest Shur, even as far as the land of Egypt. Now when David would smite a land he used to save alive neither man nor woman, but took sheep and oxen, and asses and camels, and apparel, and returned, and came in unto Achish. Then said Achish, Whither have ye made a raid, to-day?

And David said—
Against the South of Judah, or against the South of the Jerahmeelites, or as far as the South of the Kenites.
11 But neither man nor woman used David to save alive, to bring into Gath, for he said, Lest they tell of us, saying,—
So hath David done, and so hath his manner, all the days that he hath dwelt in the country of the Philistines.
12 And Achish believed in David, saying,—
He hath made himself odious unto his own people, unto Israel, therefore shall he be my servant all his life long.

§ 17. Saul and the Witch of En-dor.

28 And it came to pass, in those days, when the Philistines gathered together their hosts for war, to fight with Israel; that Achish said unto David,
Thou must know that I with all my heart shall thou go forth in the host, and may thy men.
And David said unto Achish,
Therefore will I keep of my head I will appoint thee, all the days.
Now was dead, and all Israel had lamented him, and buried him in Ramah, even in his own city,—Saul moreover had put away them who had familiar spirits and them who were oracles out of the land.
So then the Philistines gathered themselves together, and came in, and encamped in Shunem,—and Saul gathered together all Israel, and they encamped in Gilboa.
And when Saul saw the host of the Philistines, he was afraid, and his heart trembled exceedingly.
Then enquired of Yahweh, but Yahweh answered him not,—neither by a dream, nor by the Lights, nor by prophets.
Then said Saul unto his servants—
Seek me out a woman that owneth a familiar spirit, that I may even go unto her, and enquire of her.
And his servants said unto him,
Lo! there is a woman that owneth a familiar spirit in En-dor.
Saul therefore disguised himself, and put on other raiment, and departed—"he and two men with him," and they came to the woman by night,—and he said—
Divine for me, I pray thee, by the familiar spirit, and bring up for me whomsoever I shall name unto thee.
And the woman said unto him—
Lo! if thou knowest what Saul hath done, how he hath cut off them who have familiar spirits and him who is an oracle out of the land, wherefore then, art thou striking at my life, to put me to death?
So then Saul swore unto her by Yahweh, saying,— <By the life of Yahweh> there shall no punishment befall thee for this thing.
Then said the woman,
Whom shall I bring up for thee?
And he said,
<Samuel> bring thou up for me.
And when the woman saw Samuel she made outcry with a loud voice, and the woman spake unto Saul, saying—Wherefore hast thou deceived me, thou thyself being Saul?
And the king said unto her—
Be not afraid, but what sawest thou?
And the woman said unto Saul,
<A god> saw me, coming up out of the earth.
And he said to her—
What was his form?
And she said—
An old man, coming up, he being wrapped about with a robe.
Then Saul knew that it was Samuel, so he inclined his face to the earth, and bowed himself down.
And said unto Saul,
Wherefore hast thou deceived me, by bringing me up?
And Saul said—
I am in sore distress, for the Philistines are making war against me, and God hath turned away from me, and answered me no more—either by means of the prophets, or by dreams, therefore have I even called for thee, to let me know, what I am to do.
Then said Samuel,
Wherefore, then, shouldst thou ask me,—when <Yahweh> hath turned away from thee, and hath come to be with thy neighbour?
17 Therefore hath Yahweh done for him, as he spake by me,—yea Yahweh hath rent the kingdom out of thy hand, and given it to a neighbour of thine—to David.

18 <As thou didst not hearken unto the voice of Yahweh, neither didst execute the glory of his anger upon Amalek> [therefore] hast Yahweh done unto thee this day; 19 that Yahweh may deliver [Israel also, with thee] into the hand of the Philistines, and [to-morrow] thou and thy sons with thee are about to fall,—<the host of Israel also> will Yahweh deliver, into the hand of the Philistines.

20 Then Saul fastened, and fell prostrate—the whole length of him—to the earth, and was sore afraid, at the words of Samuel,—and indeed, no [strength] was left in him, for he had not eaten food all the day and all the night. 21 And the woman came unto Saul, and <when she saw that he was greatly terrified> she said unto him—

Lo! thy handmaid hearkened unto thy voice, and I put my life into my hand, and heard thy words which thou didst speak unto me.

22 [Now] therefore, I pray thee, hearken [thou also] unto the voice of thy handmaid, and let me set before thee a morsel of food, and eat thou,—that there may be in thee strength, when thou goest on thy journey.

23 But he refused, and said—

I will not eat. But <when his servants, and the woman also, strongly urged him> then hearkened he unto their voice, and rose up from the earth, and sat on the bed. 24 Now [the woman] had a calf fattening, in the shed. So she hasted, and sacrificed it, and took meal, and kneaded, and baked thereof, unleavened cakes; and brought near before Saul and before his servants, and they did eat. Then rose they up and departed, the same night.

§ 18. David starts with the Philistines to invade Israel, but is sent back.

20 1 Now the Philistines gathered together all their hosts, towards Aphek,—and [the Israelites] were encamping by the fountain, that is in Jezreel. 2 And [the lords of the Philistines] were passing on by hundreds and by thousands,—but [David and his men] were passing on in the rear, with Achish. 3 Then said the princes of the Philistines,

What are these Hebrews [doing]?

And Achish said unto the princes of the Philistines—

Is not this David, servant of Saul king of Israel, who hath been with me this year, or two, and I have found in him nothing, from the day of his coming over unto me unto this day?

4 But the princes of the Philistines raged against him, and the princes of the Philistines said unto him—

Let the man go back, that he may return unto the place which thou didst appoint him, and let him not go down with us, into battle, so shall he not become to us a traitor in the battle,—for [wherewith] should this fellow gain favour with his lord? Would it not be with the heads' of those men?

5 Is not this David, of whom they made responses in the dances, saying,—

[Saul] hath smitten [his thousands],

But [David] his [tens of thousands]? 6

So Achish called for David, and said unto him—

<By the life of Yahweh> surely [upright] thou art', and <pleasing in mine eyes> have been thy going out and thy coming in with me, in the host, for I have found in thee no wrong, from the day of thy coming in unto me, until this day,—but [in the eyes of the lords] [displeasing] thou art'.

7 [Now] therefore, return, and go in peace,—so shalt thou not do wrong in the eyes of the lords of the Philistines.

8 Then said David unto Achish—

But what have I done? and what hast thou found in thy servant, from the day that I came before thee, unto this day,—that I may not go in and fight, with the enemies of my lord the king?

9 Then answered Achish, and said unto David,

I acknowledge that [pleasing] thou art in mine eyes, as a messenger of God,—notwithstanding [the princes of the Philistines] have said,

He shall not go up with us, into the battle.

10 [Now] therefore, rise up early in the morning, [thou] and the servants of thy lord who have come with thee,—yes as soon as ye have risen early in the morning, and have light> then depart.

11 So David rose up early, [he and his men], to depart in the morning, to return into the land of the Philistines,—but [the Philistines] went up to Jezreel.

§ 19. David rescues his People from the Amalekites.

1 And it came to pass [when David and his men came to Ziklag on the third day] that [the Amalekites] had made a raid into the South, and into Ziklag, and had smitten Ziklag, and burned it with fire; and had taken captive you, and <unworthy Chase> do not thou impute in thy heart, for [pleasing] art thou before me; yes as soon," etc.—G.n.

Heb. nageh.
the women and all who were therein, from small even unto great, they had not put one to death,—but had driven them forth, and gone their way. So when David and his men came to the city> lo! it was burnt with fire,—and their wives, and their sons, and their daughters, had been taken captive. Then David and the people that were with him lifted up their voice, and wept,—until they had no more strength to weep. And the two daughters of David—Abishag the Jerushite, and Abigail, wife of Nabal the Carmelite—David was in sore distress, for the people had spoken of stoning him, because the souls of all the people were embittered, every man for his own son and for his own daughters, but David emboldened himself in Yahweh his God. Then said David to Abiathar the priest, son of Ahimelech, Do bring near me, I pray thee, the ephod. So Abiathar brought near the ephod unto David. And David enquired of Yahweh, saying, Shall I pursue this troop? shall I overtake it? And he said unto him: Pursue, for thou shalt overtake it, and thou shalt rescue it. So David went, and he, and the six hundred men, who were with him, and they came in as far as the ravine of Besor,—where they had to be left behind—stayed. But David pursued, he, and four hundred men, but the two hundred men stayed', because they were too weared to cross over the ravine of Besor. And they found an Egyptian in the field, and took him unto David,—and gave him food, and he did eat, and they gave him water to drink; and they gave him a piece of a cake of figs, and two cakes of raisins, and when he had eaten his spirit came back unto him,—for he had neither eaten food, nor drunk water, three days and three nights. Then David said to him—Whose art thou? and whence art thou? And he said,—A young man of Egypt, am I, servant to an Amalekite, and my lord left me behind, because I fell sick, three days ago. As for us> we invaded the South of the Cherithites, and against that which pertained unto Judah, and against the South of Caleb,—and Ziklag burned we with fire. And David said unto him, Wilt thou bring me down unto this troop? And he said—Swear unto me by God, that thou wilt not put me to death, neither wilt thou surrender me into the hand of my lord, and I will bring thee down unto this troop. So he brought him down, and lo! they were left to themselves over the face of all the land,—eating and drinking, and dancing around, for all the great spoil which they had taken out of the land of the Philistines, and out of the land of Judah. And David smote them, from the closing twilight even unto the evening of the next day,—and there escaped not of them a man, save four hundred young men who rode upon camels, and fled. And David rescued all whom the Amalekites had taken,—his two wives also did David rescue; and there was nothing missing to them,—whether small or great, whether spoil, or sons or daughters, or any thing which they had taken unto themselves,—the whole did David recover. And David took all the flocks and the herds,—they drove them before those other cattle, and they said, This is David's spoil. And David came unto the two hundred men, who had been too weary to follow David, and whom they had suffered to remain at the ravine of Besor,—and they came forth to meet David, and to meet the people who were with him, and when David came near unto the people, they enquired of his success. Then responded every man who was bad and abandoned, among the men who had been with David, and said—Because they went not with me* there shall not be given them of the spoil that we have rescued,—save to every man his wife and his children, let them put them forth, then, and go. Then said David, Ye shall not do so, my brethren,—with that which Yahweh hath given to us, who hath preserved us, and delivered the troop that came against us into our hand. Who indeed could hearken unto you in this matter? Surely like the share of him that went down into the battle> even so shall be the share of him that remained by the stores.—alike shall they share. And so it came to pass—from that day forward—that he appointed it, for a statute and for a custom unto Israel, until this day. And when David came to Ziklag he sent of the spoil unto the elders of Judah, unto his friends, saying,—Lo! for you a blessing, out of the spoil of the enemies of Yahweh: to them who were in Bethel, and to them who were in Ramoth of the South, and to them who were in Jattir, and to them who were in Aroer, and to them who were in Siphmoth, and to them who were in Eshtemoa, and to them who were in Racal, and to them who were in Mount Seir, in the land of Edom.
and to them who were in the cities of the Jerameelites, and to them who were in the cities of the Kenites, and to them who were in Hormah,
and to them who were in Corashan,
and to them who were in Atashch, and to them who were in Hebron,— and to all the places where David had gone to and fro, || he and his men.||

§ 20. Saul's Sons slain in Battle, and Saul destroys himself.

31 Now <as || the Philistines| were fighting against Israel> the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and fell slain, in Mount Gilboa. And the Philistines followed hard after Saul, and after his sons,—and the Philistines smote Jonathan and Abinadab and Malchishua, sons of Saul. And the battle went sore against Saul, and the archers discovered him,—and he was terrified || at the archers. Then said Saul to his armourbearer—

Draw thy sword and pierce me through therewith, lest these uncircumcised come, and pierce me through, and abuse me. But his armourbearer was not willing, for he was sore afraid. So Saul took his sword and fell thereon. And <when his armourbearer said> that Saul was dead> || he also fell upon his sword, and died with him. 6 Thus died Saul, and his three sons, and his armourbearer, yea* all his men, on that day. || together.||

And <when the men of Israel who were across the vale, and who were across the Jordan, saw> that the men of Israel had fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead> they forsook the cities, and fled, and the Philistines' entered, and took up their abode therein.

And it came to pass on the morrow, <when the Philistines came to strip the slain> that they found Saul, and his three sons, lying prostrate in Mount Gilboa. So they cut off his head, and stripped off his armour, and sent throughout the land of the Philistines round about, to publish it in the house of their idols, and unto the people. And they put his armour in a house of Ashtaroth,* and <his dead body> fastened they on the wall of Beth-shan.

And <when the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead> heard concerning him, what the Philistines had done unto Saul> * then arose all the men of valour, and journeyed all the night, and took the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, from the wall of Beth-shan,—and came to Jabesh, and burned them there; * and took their bones, and buried them under the tamarisk-tree* in Jabesh,—and fasted seven days.

§ 1. David gets Tidings of Saul's Death, and slays the Messenger.

1 And so it was <after the death of Saul, when David had returned from the smiting of the Amalekites, and David had abode in Ziklag two days> 2 yea so it was <on the third day> that lo! a man came out of the camp, from Saul, with his clothes rent, and earth upon his head,—and so it was <when he came in unto David> that he fell to the earth, and did homage.

2 And David said unto him,

From whence comest thou? And he said unto him,—

<Out of the camp of Israel> am I escaped. 4 And David said unto him—

E.O.T.

How turned out the matter? tell me, I pray thee.

And he said—

The people have fled from the battle,

Yea moreover, ||many|| of the people have fallen, and died,

Yea moreover, ||Saul, and Jonathan his son|| are dead.

5 Then said David unto the young man who was telling him,—

How knowest thou that Saul and Jonathan his son are dead?

6 And the young man who was telling him said,

It ||so happened|| that I was on Mount Gilboa, when lo! ||Saul|| leaning upon his spear,—and lo! ||the chariots and horsemen|| hotly pursued him; so he turned behind him, and saw me,—and cried out unto me, and I said, Behold me! And he said unto me, Who art thou? And I said unto him, <An Amalekite> am I. *And he said unto me, I pray thee, take thy stand by me, and put me to death, for the cramp hath seized me—even for as long as my life shall be in me. *So I took my stand by him, and put him to death, for I perceived that he could not survive his fall,—so I took the crown that was on his head, and the bracelet that was on his arm, and have brought them in unto my lord. [Here].

11 Then David took hold of his clothes, and rent them,—yea, moreover, [so did] all the men who were with him. 12 And they lamented aloud, and wept, and fasted until the evening,— For Saul, and for Jonathan his son, And for the people of Yahweh, And for the house of Israel, Because they had fallen by the sword.

13 And David said unto the young man who was telling him, Whence' art thou? And he said, <Son of a sojourner—an Amalekite> am I. 14 And David said unto him,— How wast thou not afraid to thrust forth thy hand, to destroy the Anointed of Yahweh? 15 So David called one of the young men, and said,— Go near—fall upon him. And he smote him, that he died. 16 And David said unto him, Thy blood be upon thine own head,—for thine own mouth hath testified against thee, saying, I myself put to death the Anointed of Yahweh.

§ 2. David's Dirge over Saul and Jonathan.

17 Then chanted David this dirge,—over Saul and over Jonathan his son; 18 and he thought to teach the sons of Judah [the song of] the Bow,—lo! it is written in the Book of the Upright:—

19 The beauty of Israel! on thy high places—slain! How have fallen—the mighty!

20 Do not tell it in Gath, Do not publish it in the streets of Askelon,— Lest the daughters of the Philistines rejoice, Lest the daughters of the Uncircumcised triumph, 21 Ye mountains in Gilead! Be there neither dew nor rain upon you, Nor fields of offerings,— For 'there' were cast away, the shields of the mighty, The shield of Saul, unanointed with oil.

22 <From the blood of the slain, From the fat of the mighty> The bow of Jonathan ne'er drew back,— And [the sword of Saul] ne'er returned [empty].

23 Saul and Jonathan Delightfully loving in their lives, Even <in their death> were not divided,— <Beyond eagles> were they swift, <Beyond lions> were they strong!

24 Ye daughters of Israel! <For Saul> weep ye,— Who clothed you in crimson, [decked] with lovely things, Who hung ornaments of gold on your apparel!

25 How have fallen the mighty, in the midst of the battle! [Jonathan] [on thy high places] slain! I am distressed for thee, my brother, [Jonathan!] Delightful to me, exceedingly,— [Wonderful] was thy love to me, [passing] the love of women.

27 How have fallen the mighty, and perished the weapons of war!

§ 3. David, under Divine Guidance, removes to Hebron, is anointed King by Judah, and rewards the Men of Jabesh-gilead.

1 And it came to pass <after this> that David enquired of Yahweh, saying,— Shall I go up into one of the cities of Judah? And Yahweh said unto him, Go up. And David said— Whither shall I go up? And he said— Unto Hebron.

2 So David went up thither, and his two wives also, Ahinoam, the Jezreelites, and Abigail, wife of Nabal the Carmelite. 3 <His men also> who were with him> did David bring up—every man with his household,—and they dwelt in the cities of Hebron.

4 Then came the men of Judah, and anointed David there, to be king over the house of Judah. And they told David, saying—<Men of Jabesh-gilead> were they who buried Saul.

5 So David sent messengers unto the men of Jabesh-gilead,—and said unto them— [Blessed] be ye of Yahweh, that ye did this lovingkindness unto your lord, unto Saul, and buried him.

6 Now therefore, Yahweh require you with lovingkindness and truth,—moreover also—

He will requite you, for this noble deed, in that ye did this thing.

Now therefore, let your hands be made firm, and become ye sons of valour, for your lord Saul is dead,—and <me> moreover have the house of Judah anointed, to be king over them.

4. Abner, espousing the Claims of Ish-bosheth, son of Saul, meets Joab at Gibeon: the Play of their young Men ensues in a Fierce Battle: Asahel slain by Abner.

But Abner son of Ner, prince of the host that pertained unto Saul], took Ish-bosheth, son of Saul, and brought him over to Mahanaim;
and made him king for Gilead, and for the Ashurites, and for Jezreel,—and over Ephraim, and over Benjamin, and over [all Israel].
Fifty years old> was Ish-bosheth son of Saul, when he began to reign over Israel, and <two years> reigned he,—but [the house of Judah] followed David.
And it came to pass, that [the number of the days that David was king in Hebron, over the house of Judah] was seven years and six months.
And Abner son of Ner, and the servants of Ish-boseeth, son of Saul, came out from Mahanaim to Gibeon. And Joab son of Zeruiah, and the servants of David, went out from Hebron and met, by the pool of Gibeon, together,— and they sat down, [these] by the pool, on the one side, and [those] by the pool, on the other side. Then said Abner unto Joab, Let the young men arise, I pray thee, and make sport before us.
And Joab said—
Let them arise.
Then there arose, and went over by number,— twelve of Benjamin, pertaining to Ish-boseeth, son of Saul, and twelve of the servants of David.
And they caught every one his fellow by the head, with his sword in his fellow's side, so they fell, together,—and that place was called Helkath-hazzadim ["Field of Potters"], which is in Gibeon.
So the battle became exceeding obstinate, on that day,— and Abner and the men of Israel were defeated before the servants of David.
Now there were there, three sons of Zeruiah, Joab, and Abishai, and Asahel,—and [Asahel] was light of foot as a wild gazelle.
And Asahel pursued Abner,—and turned not, in going to the right hand or to the left, from pursuing Abner.
Then Abner looked behind him, and said—
Art thou' Asahel?

And he said—
I am.
Then Abner said to him—
Turn these aside, to thy right hand, or to thy left, and lay thee hold on one of the young men, and take thee his armour.
But Asahel would not turn aside from pursuing him. And Abner said [yet again] unto Asahel, Turn thee aside from pursuing me,—wherefore should I smite thee to the earth? how then should I lift up my face unto Joab, thy brother?
Howbeit he refused to turn aside, wherefore
Abner smote him with the hinder end of the spear, in the belly." that the spear came out behind him, and he fell there, and died on the spot,—and so it was, that [as many as came up to the place where Asahel died] stood still.
Then Joab and Abishai pursued Abner,—but [the sun] had gone in by the time [they] had come as far as the hill of Ammah, that overlooketh Giah, by way of the wilderness of Gibeon.
And <when the sons of Benjamin had gathered themselves together after Abner, and become one band,—and had taken their stand on the top of a certain hill> then Abner cried aloud unto Joab, and said—
To the uttermost must the sword devour?
Dost thou not well know that [bitter] shall it be, in the latter end? How long then, wilt thou not bid the people turn back from pursuing their own brethren?
Then said Joab—
As God liveth] surely <if thou hadst not spoken> [then in the morning] the people would of themselves have gone up, every man from pursuing his brother.
So Joab blew with the horn, and all the people stood still, and they neither pursued Israel further,—nor fought any more. And Abner and his men journeyed through the waste plains all that night,—and crossed the Jordan, and went through all the Bithron, and entered Mahanaim.
And Joab] returned from pursuing Abner, and <when he had gathered together all the people> there were missing of the servants of David—nineteen men, and Asahel; but [the servants of David] had smitten of Benjamin, of the men of Abner, [so that] three hundred and sixty men had died. And they carried Asahel, and buried him in the grave of his father, which was in Bethlehem,—and Joab and his men journeyed all the night, and had daylight in Hebron.
And the war between the house of Saul and the house of David was prolonged,—and [David] waxed stronger and stronger, and [the house of Saul] became weaker and weaker.
§ 5. The Sons born to David in Hebron.

And there were born unto David, sons, in Hebron,—and it came to pass that—

His firstborn was Amnon, by Ahinoam, the Jezreelite;

And his second, Chileab, by Abigail, wife of Naashon the Carmelite,

And the third, Absalom, son of Maachah, daughter of Talmai, king of Geshur;

And the fourth, Adonijah, son of Haggith,—

And the fifth, Shephatiah, son of Abital;

And the sixth, Ithream, by Eglah wife of David.

These: were born unto David, in Hebron.

§ 8. Abner, provoked by Ish-bosheth, returns round to David, whom he visits in Hebron.

And it came to pass <while the war continued between the house of Saul and the house of David> that [Abner] shewed himself courageous for the house of Saul. 7 Now [Saul] had a concubine [whose name] was Rishah daughter of Aiah,—and [Ish-bosheth] said unto Abner, [Why] wentest thou in, unto my father’s concubine?

And it provoked Abner greatly, on account of the words of Ish-bosheth, and he said—

Am I [the head of the dogs] that pertain unto Judah?

[To-day] would I deal in lovingkindness with the house of Saul thy father, towards his brethren, and towards his friends, and have not delivered thee into the hand of David,—and yet thou hast charged upon me,—the transgression of the woman [to-day].

[So] may God do unto Abner, and [so] may he add to him,—if [as-Isah hath sworn] unto David> [even so] I deal not with him; 10 by turning over the kingdom from the house of Saul,—and establishing the throne of David, over Israel and over Judah, [from Dan] even unto Beer-sheba.

And he could no further answer Abner [a word;],—because he feared him.

So Abner sent messengers unto David, on the spot, saying—[Whose] is the land?

Saying [also]—

Solemnise thy covenant [with me; and lo! [my hand] shall be with thee, to bring round unto thee, all Israel.

And he said—

Good!!! [I] will solemnise with thee a covenant, —but [one thing] must I ask of thee, saying—

Thou shalt not see my face, except thou have brought in* Michal, Saul’s daughter, when thou comest to see my face.

And David sent messengers unto Ish-bosheth son of Saul, saying,—

Give up my wife, Michal, whom I espoused to myself, for a hundred foreskins of Philistines.

So Ish-bosheth sent and took her from her husband,—from Paltiel, son of Laish. 14 And her husband went along with her, weeping as he went behind her, as far as Behurim,—when Abner said unto him—

Go, return.

And he returned.

Then had Abner [speech] with the elders of Israel, saying,—

[In times past] ye were seeking David, to be king over you.

[Now] therefore, act,—for [Yahweh] spake unto David, saying,

[By the hand of David my servant] will I save my people Israel, out of the hand of the Philistines, and out of the hand of all their enemies.

And Abner also spake in the ears of Benjamin,—and Abner also went to speak, in the ears of David, in Hebron, all that was pleasing in the eyes of Israel, and in the eyes of all the house of Benjamin. 19 So <when Abner came in unto David, in Hebron, and [with him] twenty men> David made [for Abner, and for the men who were with him] a banquet. 20 Then said Abner unto David—

I will verily arise and go, and gather together unto my lord the king all Israel—that they may solemnise with thee a covenant, so shalt thou reign over all that thy soul desireth. And David let Abner go, and he departed in peace.

§ 7. Joab slays Abner, over whom David pronounces a Dirge.

And lo! [the servants of David, and Joab came in from a raid, and [great spoil] brought they in with them; but Abner] was not with David in Hebron, for he had let him go; and he had departed in peace. 23 <When Joab, and all the host that was with him> had come in> then told they Joab, saying,

Abner son of Ner hath been in unto the king, and he hath let him go; and he hath departed in peace.

Then Joab came in unto the king, and said—

What hast thou done?

Lo! Abner came in unto thee. Wherefore is it that thou didst let him go, so that he is clean departed?

25 Thou knowest Abner son of Ner, that <to deceive thee> he came, and to take knowledge of thy going out, and thy coming in, and to take knowledge of all that thou art doing.

And when Joab had come out from David, he sent messengers after Abner, and brought him back from the wall of Sirah, but David knew it not. So Abner returned to Hebron, and Joab took him aside into the midst of the gate, to speak with him quietly, and then smote him there, in the belly, that he died, for the blood of Asahel the brother of Joab.

And when David heard of it, after that he said—

Guiltless am I and my kingdom before Yahweh, unto times age-abiding, of the blood of Abner son of Ner.

Let it be hurled upon the head of Joab, and against all his father's house, and let there not fall from the house of Joab one that hath an issue, or a leper, or one that leaneth on a crutch, or that falleth by the sword, or that lacketh bread.

Thus Joab and Abishai his brother slew Abner, because he had caused the death of Asahel their brother, in Gibeon, in the battle.

And David said unto Joab, and unto all the people that were with him—

Rend your clothes, and gird you with sackcloth, and lament aloud before Abner.

And King David himself was following the bier.

And they buried Abner in Hebron, and the king lifted up his voice and wept, at the grave of Abner, and all the people wept.

And the king addressed his dirge unto Abner, and said—

As a base man dieth should Abner have died?

Thy hands were not bound, and thy feet near to fetters were not brought, as one falleth before assassin, so didst thou fall!

And again all the people went over him.

And when all the people came near to get David to eat bread, while yet it was day—

David awoke, saying—

Said let God do to me, and [so], let him add, if before the sun go in I taste bread, or anything else.

And all the people took note of it, and it was noble in their eyes, as all that the king did was, in the eyes of all the people, noble.

So then all the people, and all Israel, took note, that day, that [it was not of the king] to cause the death of Abner son of Ner.

And the king said unto his servants,—

Will ye not take note that a prince and a great man hath fallen this day, in Israel?

And I myself this day am weak, though anointed king,

But these men, the sons of Zeruiah, are more severe than I:

Yahweh repay [the doer of wickedness].

[According to his wickedness].

§ 8. Ish-bosheth slain: his Death avenged by David.

Now when Ish-bosheth, the son of Saul heard that Abner had died in Hebron, his hands became feeble, and [all Israel] were dismayed.

And two men, captains of bands, pertained to Ish-bosheth, son of Saul—[the name of the one] was Baanah, and [the name of the other] Rechab: sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, of the sons of Benjamin, for even Beeroth used to be reckoned unto Benjamin; and the Beerothites fled to Gittaim, and have been sojourners there, until this day.

And [Jonathan, son of Saul] had a son, lame of his feet, [five years old] was he, when tidings came in of Saul and Jonathan from Jezreel, so his nurse took him up, and fled, and it came to pass, when she started up to flee, that he fell and was lamed, and [his name] was [Mephibosheth].

So then the sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, Rechab and Baanah, took their journey and came in, about the heat of the day, unto the house of Ish-bosheth, when he was lying on his noonday couch; and [at] the door entered they as far as the middle of the house, to fetch wheat, and they smote him in the belly, and [Rechab and Baanah his brother] escaped.

Thus they entered the house when [he] was lying on his bed, in his sleeping-chamber, and smote him, and slew him, and beheaded him, and took his head, and journeyed by way of the waste plain all the night; and brought in the head of Ish-bosheth unto David, at Hebron, and said unto the king,

Lo! the head of Ish-bosheth son of Saul, thine enemy, who sought thy life: so hath Yahweh given to my lord the king, avengement this day, on Saul and on his seed.

Then David responded to Rechab and Baanah his brother, sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, and said unto them,—

By the life of Yahweh, who hath redeemed my soul out of all distress <when he that brought tidings to me, saying Lo! Saul is dead, though [he] was as one that bringeth good tidings, in his own eyes> yet I seized him, and slew him in Ziklag,—which was how I gave him reward for his tidings: how much more <when lawless men have slain a righteous person, in his own house, upon his bed>.

2 Samuel IV. 12; V. 1—25; VI. 1, 2.

§ 9. David, becoming King over all Israel, takes Jerusalem, and his Fame and Family are increased.

1 Then came all the tribes of Israel unto David, in Hebron, and spake, saying—

Behold us! [thy bone and thy flesh] we are.

2 Also [in time past, when Saul was king over us] thou wast he that led out and brought in, Israel; and Yahweh said to thee—

[Thou] shalt be shepherd unto my people, Israel, and [thou] shalt become leader over Israel.

So all the elders of Israel came unto the king, in Hebron, and King David solemnised to them a covenant in Hebron, before Yahweh, and they anointed David to be king over Israel.

[Thirty years old] was David when he began to reign,—[forty years] he reigned: [in Hebron] reigned he over Judah, seven years and six months,—[in Jerusalem] reigned he thirty and three years, over all Israel and Judah.

Then went the king and his men, to Jerusalem, against the Jebusites, inhabiting the land,—and they spake to David, saying—

Thou canst not come in hither, unless thou take away the blind and lame—

Thinking, David will not come in hither.

So then David captured the citadel of Zion,—[the same] is the city of David. And David said, on that day—

Whosoever is smiting the Jebusites, then let him reach as far as the aqueduct.

But [as for the lame and the blind] they were the hated of David's soul,—[for which cause] they kept on saying—

Blind and lame! he will not enter the place.

So then David dwelt in the citadel, and called it The City of David,—and David built round about, from Millo and inwards.

And David went on and on waxing great,— Yahweh, God of hosts, being with him.

Then Hiram, king of Tyre, sent messengers unto David, with cedar-wood, and carpenters, and masons, and they built a house for David.

So David perceived that Yahweh had esta-him, arose and went beyond Basal Judah, to bring up from thence, the ark of God, which was placed in the ark of Yahweh, which inhabited the cherubim, thereupon. So they carried the ark of God in a new waggan, and brought it out of the house of Abinsab, who was in Gibeah, and ||Uzza and Ahio, sons of Abinsab, were driving the new waggan. So they brought it out of the house of Abinsab, which was in Gibeah, with the ark of God, and Ahio was going before the ark. And ||David and all the house of Israel were dancing for joy before Yahweh, with all boldness and with songs, and with lyres, and with harps, and with timbrels, and with sistrons, and with cymbals. And when they came as far as the threshing-floor of Nachon> Uzzah thrust forth his hand unto the ark of God, and took hold of it, for the oxen were restive. Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh against Uzzah, and God smote him there, for the error, so that he died there, by the ark of God. And it was a sadness unto David, for that Yahweh had broken in with a breach against Uzzah, therefore called he that place, Perez-uzzah (as it is called) until this day. And David was afraid of Yahweh, on that day, and said, How can the ark of Yahweh come unto me? So David would not remove unto him the ark of Yahweh, unto the city of David, but David took it aside to the house of Obed-edom, the Gittite. And the ark of Yahweh abode in the house of Obed-edom the Gittite, three months, and Yahweh blessed Obed-edom, and all his household. And it was told King David, saying, Yahweh hath blessed the household of Obed-edom, and all that he hath, because of the ark of God. David therefore went and brought up the ark of God, out of the house of Obed-edom, unto the city of David, with rejoicing. And so it was that when they who bare the ark of Yahweh had stepped forward six paces, he sacrificed an ox and a heifer. And David was dancing with all boldness before Yahweh, ||David being girt with an ephod of linen.

But so it was that the word of Yahweh came unto Nathan, saying:

Go and say unto my servant—unto David:

"Thus saith Yahweh,—Shalt thou build me a house, for me to dwell in; seeing that I have not dwelt in a house, since the day that I brought up the sons of Israel out of Egypt, even unto this day,—but have been wandering in a tent as my habitation?"

Wherefore have ye not built me a house of cedar?"

"Now therefore, [thus] shalt thou say unto my servant, unto David:"

"Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, I myself: took thee away from the pasture, from after the flock,—to become leader over my people, over Israel; and was with thee, whithersoever thou didst go, and have cut off all thine enemies, from before thee,—and will make thee a name, like the name of the great ones who are in the earth; and will appoint a place for my people, for Israel, and will plant them, and they shall inhabit their place, and be unsettled no more,—neither shall the sons of pervercity again' humiliate them, as at first; 13 even from the day when I put judges in charge over my people Israel, thus will I give thee rest from all thine enemies.

And Yahweh must tell thee that will Yahweh make for thee.

And it shall be that when thy days shall be fulfilled, and thou shalt sleep with thy fathers, then will I raise up thy seed after thee, which proceedeth from thine own body, and I will establish his kingdom. 11 He shall build a house for my name,—and I will establish his kingly throne unto times age-abiding:

I will become his father,
And he shall become my son:
If he commits iniquity> then will I correct him
With the rod of men,
And with the stripes of the sons of men;"

And it came to pass <after this> that David smote the Philistines, and subdued them, and David took the bridle of the metropolis, out of the hand of the Philistines. He smote Moab, and measured them with the line, casting them down to the ground, and he measured with two lines to put to death, and with one full line to keep alive; so the Moabites became David's, as servants bringing gifts. And David smote Hadadezer son of Rehob, king of Zobah; when he went to lay his hand on the River Euphrates, and David captured from him, a thousand and seven hundred horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen, and David destroyed all the chariots, but reserved of them, a hundred chariots.

And when the Syrians of Damascus came to help Hadadezer, king of Zobah, David smote of the Syrians, twenty-two thousand men. Then David put garrisons in Syria of Damascus, and the Syrians became David's, as servants bringing gifts, and so Yahweh gave victory unto David, whithersoever he went. And David took the shields of gold which had come to the servants of Hadadezer, and brought them to Jerusalem; also from Betah and from Berothai, cities of Hadadezer, did King David take bronze, exceeding much.

And when Tou* king of Hamath heard that David had smitten all the forces of Hadadezer> then Tou* sent Hadarom* his son unto King David, to ask after his welfare, and to bless him, because he had fought against Hadadezer and had smitten him, for Hadadezer* had had wars with Tou,* and in his hand were vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and vessels of bronze. <Them also> did King David hallow unto Yahweh,—with the silver and the gold which he had hallowed from all the nations which he had subdued: from Syria, and from Moab, and from the sons of Ammon, and from the Philistines, and from Amalek,—and from the spoil of Hadadezer son of Rehob, king of Zobah.

And David made a name, when he returned from his* smiting of the Syrians in the valley of salt,—eighteen thousand. And he put [in Edom] garrisons, throughout all Edom, put he garrisons, and so it was that all Edom became servants unto David,—and Yahweh gave victory unto David, whithersoever he went.

And David reigned over all Israel,—and so it was that David used to execute justice and righteousness for all his people; and Joab, son of Zeruiah, was over the army,—and Jehoshaphat, son of Ahilud, was remembrancer. And Zadok, son of Ahitub, and Ahimelech, son of Abiathar, were priests,—and Seraiah, was scribe; and Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, was over the Cherethites and the Pelethites,—and the sons of David became chief rulers.

§ 15. Mephibosheth, Jonathan's Son, Sought out and Highly Favored.

1 And David said, Is* there yet' one left unto the house of Saul,—that I may show him lovingkindness, for the sake of Jonathan?

2 Now <unto the house of Saul> belonged a servant, whose name was Ziba, and when they had called him unto David> the king said unto him—Art thou Ziba?

And he said—Thy servant!

3 Then said the king—Is there never a man remaining' unto the house of Saul, that I may show him the lovingkindness of God? And Ziba said unto the king, There remaineth' a son unto Jonathan, lame in his feet.

And the king said to him,
Where is he?
And Ziba said unto the king,
Lo! [the] is in the house of Machir son of Ammiel, in Lo-debar.

Then sent King David,—and fetched him out of the house of Machir son of Ammiel, from Lo-debar.

Now <when Mephibosheth, son of Jonathan, son of Saul, came in unto David> he fell on his face and did homage. And David said, Mephibosheth?
And he said,
Lo! thy servant.

And David said to him—
Do not fear, for I will [indeed shew] thee lovingkindness for the sake of Jonathan thy father, and will restore unto thee all the land of Saul thy father,—but [thou thyself] shall eat bread at my table [continually].

And he did homage, and said—
What is thy servant,—that thou hast turned towards such a dead dog as I?

Then the king called for Ziba, Saul’s servant,* and said unto him,—
All that pertained unto Saul and unto all his house> have I given unto the son of thy lord;* therefore shalt thou till for him the ground, [thou, and thy sons, and thy servants,] and shalt bring in, so that thy lord’s son may have bread to eat, but [Mephibosheth, thy lord’s son] shall continually eat bread at my table.

Now Ziba had fifteen sons, and twenty servants.

Then said Ziba unto the king,
According to all that my lord the king shall command his servant, [so] will thy servant do,—but [Mephibosheth] is to eat at the table of David, as one of the sons of the king.

Now Mephibosheth* had a little son, [whose name] was Micha. And [all that dwelt in the house of Ziba] were servants unto Mephibosheth.

So [Mephibosheth] dwelt in Jerusalem, for [at the table of the king, continually] had he to eat,—[he] being lame, in both his feet.

§ 16. David makes War upon the Sons of Ammon and upon the Syrians.

And it came to pass <after this> that the king of the sons of Ammon died,—and that Hanun his son reigned in his stead. Then said David—
I will shew lovingkindness unto Hanun son of Nahash, as his father shewed [unto me] lovingkindness.

So David sent to comfort him, by the hand of his servants, as to his father,—and the servants of David came' into the land of the sons of Ammon.

Then said the rulers of the sons of Ammon unto Hanun their lord—

Is David honouring thy father, in thine eyes, that he hath sent unto thee comforters? Is it not <for the sake of exploring the city,> and spying it out, and overthrowing it> that David hath sent his servants unto thee?

Wherefore Hanun took David’s servants, and shaved off half their beards, and cut off their upper garments in the middle, as far as their buttocks,—and let them go. And <when they told David> he sent to meet them, because the men were greatly ashamed,—and the king said—

Tarry at Jericho, until your beards be grown, then shall ye return.

And <when the sons of Ammon saw that they had made themselves odious with David> the sons of Ammon sent and hired the Syrians of Beth-rehob, and the Syrians of Zobah,—twenty thousand footmen, and of king Maacah—a thousand men, and men of Tob—twelve thousand men. And <when David heard of it> he sent Joab and all the army of heroes.

And the sons of Ammon came out, and set in array for battle, at the entrance of the gate,—whereas the Syrians of Zobah, and of Rehob, and the men of Tob and of Maacah, were by themselves, in the field. And <when Joab saw that the front of the battle was towards him> [before and behind]> he chose out of all the chosen men of Israel, and set them in array against the Syrians; while <the rest of the people> he delivered into the hand of Abishai his brother,—and set [them] in array against the sons of Ammon.

And he said—
If the Syrians be too strong for me> then shalt thou become my deliverance,—but <if the sons of Ammon> be too strong for thee> then will I come with deliverance to thee.

Be strong, and let us put forth our strength, for the sake of our people, and for the sake of the cities of our God,—and Yahweh do what is good in his own eyes.

And Joab drew nigh, and the people that were with him, to fight against the Syrians,—and they fled before him. And <when the sons of Ammon> saw that the Syrians had fled> then fled they before Abishai, and entered the city,—so Joash returned from the sons of Ammon, and entered Jerusalem.

And <when the Syrians saw that they were defeated before Israel> they gathered themselves together;* and Hadadezer* sent and brought out the Syrians that were beyond the River,* and they entered Helam,—Shobach the prince of the host of Hadadezer* being before

And when it was told David—

And David sent Joab, and his servants with him, and all Israel, and they destroyed the sons of Ammon, and laid siege to Rabbah;—but David was remaining in Jerusalem.

And it came to pass that David arose from his couch, and walked to and fro on the roof of the king's house, when, from the roof, he saw a woman bathing herself,—the woman being exceedingly beautiful to look upon. And David sent and enquired after the woman;—and one said—

And Joab sent and told David all the news of the battle; and he charged the messenger saying,—

Then shall it be if the king's anger arise, and he say unto thee,

Why came ye near unto the city, to fight? Knew ye not, that they would shoot from off the wall?

Who smote Abimelech son of Jerubbaal? Did not a woman cast on him an upper millstone from off the wall, that he died, in Thebez?

Wherefore came ye near unto the wall?

Then shalt thou say—

[Moreover] thy servant, Uriah the Hittite, died.

And the messenger went his way,—and came in, and told David, all that Joab had sent him [to tell]. And the messenger said unto David,

The men were too strong for us, and sallied forth against us, in the field,—so we were drawn against them as far as the opening of the gate. Then did the archers shoot upon thy servants, from off the wall, and there died some of the servants of the king,—[moreover also] thy servant, Uriah the Hittite, died.

The ark, and Israel and Judah are dwelling in huts and my lord Joab, and the servants of my lord, [on the face of the field] are encamped,

Was I then, to enter my own house, to eat and to drink and to lie with my wife? [By thy life, yes, by the life of thy soul] I could not do this thing.

Abide here to-day also, and [to-morrow] will I let thee go.

So Uriah abode in Jerusalem that day, and the morrow. And David called him, and he did eat before him, and drank, and he made him drunk,—and he went forth in the evening to lie down on his bed, with the servants of his lord, but unto his own house went he not down.

And so it was [in the morning] that David wrote a letter unto Joab,—and sent it by the hand of Uriah; and he wrote in the letter, saying,—

Set ye Uriah in the forefront of the hottest battle, and retire ye from him, that he be smitten and die.

So it came to pass [when Joab was laying siege to the city] that he put Uriah in the place where he knew that the men of valour [were]. And forth sallied the men of the city, and fought with Joab, and there fell some of the people, of the servants of David,—then died also Uriah the Hittite.

So Joab sent and told David all the news of the battle; and he charged the messenger saying,—

When thou hast ended all the news of the battle, in speaking unto the king, then shall it be if the king's anger arise, and he say unto thee,

Why came ye near unto the city, to fight? Knew ye not, that they would shoot from off the wall?

Who smote Abimelech son of Jerubbash? Did not a woman cast on him an upper millstone from off the wall, that he died, in Thebez?

Wherefore came ye near unto the wall?

Then shalt thou say—

[Moreover] thy servant, Uriah the Hittite, died.

And the messenger went his way,—and came in, and told David, all that Joab had sent him [to tell]. And the messenger said unto David,
Then said David unto the messenger—

[|Thou|] shalt thou say unto Joab,—

Let not this thing be grievous in thine eyes, for <now this one, and then that one> doth the sword devour,—make hot thy battle against the city, and overthrow it;

Thus embolden thou him.

And <when Uriah's wife heard that Uriah her husband was dead> she made loud lamentation over her lord. 24 And <when the time of mourning had passed> David sent and received her into his house, and she became his wife, and bare him a son. But the thing which David had done was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh.

12 So then Yahweh sent Nathan the prophet unto David,—who therefore came unto him and said to him—

||Two men|| there were in a certain city, ||the one|| rich, and ||the other|| poor. 2 The ||rich|| man had flocks and herds exceeding many; 3 whereas the ||poor|| man had ||nothing||,—save one little lamb, which he had made his own, and sustained, and it had grown up with him and with his children, ||all together||, — <of his own morsel> used it to eat, and <out of his own cup> used it to drink, and <in his own bosom> used it to lie, and it was to him as a daughter.

Now there came a traveller to the rich man, but he thought it a pity to take of his own flock, or his own herd, to make ready for the wayfarer who had come to him,—so he took the lamb of his poor neighbour, and made ready for the man who had come to him.

Then was kindled the anger of David against the man, fiercely,—and he said unto Nathan, <By the life of Yahweh> ||doomed to death> is the man that hath done this; 6 and <the lamb> shall he pay back sevenfold,—because he did this thing, and, for that he had no pity.

Then said Nathan unto David:

|Thou| art the man!

|Thou| saith Yahweh, God of Israel—

|It| anointed thee to be king over Israel, and ||I|| delivered thee out of the hand of Saul; and gave unto thee the kingdom of Israel, and gave unto thee the house of Israel and Judah. And if this had been too little> I could have given thee more and more of such things.

Wherefore | hast thou despised the word of Yahweh, by doing that which is wicked in mine eyes?—

hast thou smitten with the sword, and <his wife> hast thou taken to thyself to wife, yes <him> hast thou slain with the sword of the sons of Ammon!

|Now|, therefore, the sword shall not depart from thy house, unto age-abiding times,—because thou hast despised me, and taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be thy wife.

|Thus| saith Yahweh,—

"Behold me! raising up over thee calamity out of thine own household, and I will take thy wives, before thine eyes, and give unto thy neighbour, and he will lie with thy wives, [in the eyes of this sun].

|For| thou didst it in secret,—but ||I|| will do this thing before all Israel, and before the sun.

And David said unto Nathan, I have sinned against Yahweh.

Then said Nathan unto David,—

"Yahweh also|| hath put away thy sin, thou shalt not die! ||Nevertheless|| because thou hast greatly blasphemed Yahweh, by this thing: > the very son that is born to thee shall ||die||.

And Nathan departed unto his own house,—and Yahweh struck the child that the wife of Uriah had borne unto David, and it fell sick.

David therefore earnestly sought God in behalf of the boy,—and David kept a fast, and used to go in and pass the night, and lie upon the ground. 17 And the elders of his house stood up over him, to raise him from the ground,—but he would not, neither would he eat food with them. 18 And it came to pass <on the seventh day> that the child died,—but the servants of David feared to tell him that the child was dead, for said they—

Lo! <while the child was living> we spake unto him, and he hearkened not unto our voice, how then can we say unto him. The child is dead, and so he do [himself] harm?

But <when David saw that his servants were whispering among themselves> then understood David that the child was dead,—and David said unto his servants—

Is the child ||dead||?

And they answered—

Dead!

Then David arose from the ground, and bathed and anointed, and changed his apparel,* and <entering into the house of Yahweh> bowed himself down,—then came he into his own house, and asked, and they set before him food, and he did eat. 21 Then said his servants unto him,

What is this thing that thou hast done? <For the child’s sake> while living thou didst fast and weep, but <as soon as the child was dead> thou didst arise and eat food.

22 And he said,—

<While yet the child lived> I fasted, and wept,—for I said—

Who knoweth whether Yahweh may not grant me favour, and the child live?

23 But <[now] that he is dead> wherefore should I go on fasting? can I bring him back again? <I am going unto him>, but <[he] will not come back unto me'.

24 And David consoled Bath-sheba his wife, and went in unto her, and lay with her,—and she bare a son, and called b his name [Solomon] and Yahweh loved him. 25 And he sent by the hand of Nathan the prophet, and called his name Jedidiah [Beloved of Yah] for Yahweh’s sake.

§ 18. Victories over the Sons of Ammon, by Joab and David.

And Joab fought against Rabbah, of the sons of Ammon,—and captured the royal city.

Then Joab sent messengers unto David,—and said—

I have fought against Rabbah; I have also captured the city of the waters. 28 [Now] therefore, gather thou together the rest of the people, and encamp against the city, and capture it,—lost [II] capture the city, and it be called by my name.

So David gathered together all the people, and went to Rabbah,—and fought against it, and captured it. 30 Then took he the crown of Milcom from off his head, [the weight thereof] being a talent of gold, with the precious stones, and it remained on the head of David,—<the spoils of the city also> brought he forth in great abundance; 31 <the people also that were therein> brought he forth, and put them to the saw, and to threshing sledges of iron, and to axes of iron, and made them pass through the brickkiln, and thus used he to do unto all the cities of the sons of Ammon. And David and all the people returned unto Jerusalem.

§ 19. Absalom's sister Tamar forced by her brother Amnon. Amnon slays him and flees.

1 And it came to pass <after this> that [Absalom, son of David] <having a beautiful sister, whose name was Tamar> Amnon son of David loved her. 2 And it so troubled Amnon, that he made himself ill on account of Tamar his sister, for  was she', and it was monstrous in Amnon’s own eyes, to do anything unto her. 3 But [Ammon] had a friend, [whose name] was Jonadab, son of Shimeah, David’s brother,—and [Jonadab] was a very cunning man. 4 So he said to him,—

Why art thou looking so wretched—a king’s son too—morning by morning? Wilt thou not tell me?

And Amnon said to him, <With Tamar, my brother Absalom’s sister> am I in love.

5 And Jonadab *said unto him:

Take to thy bed, and feign thyself ill,—and <[when thy father cometh in to thee> then shalt thou say unto him—

I pray thee, let Tamar my sister come, that she may give me food, and let her prepare, before mine eyes, some delicacy, to the end that I may see [it made], and so eat at her hand.

6 So Amnon took to his bed, and feigned himself ill,—and <when the king came in to see him> Amnon said unto the king—

I pray thee, let Tamar my sister come, and make ready before mine eyes a couple of cakes, that I may eat at her hand.

7 So David sent unto Tamar, in the house—saying,—

Come, I pray thee, to the house of Amnon thy brother, and prepare him enticing food.

8 And Tamar went to the house of Amnon her brother, [he] having taken to his bed,—and took dough and kneaded it, and folded it before his eyes, and baked the cakes. 9 Then took she the pan and put them out before him, but he refused to eat.

And Amnon said—

Have forth every one from me. And they went out every one from him.

10 Then said Amnon unto Tamar—

Bring the food into the chamber, that I may eat out of thine own hand. So Tamar took the cakes’ which she had made, and brought them in to Amnon her brother, in the chamber. 12 And <when she brought them unto him to eat> he took hold of her, and said to her,

Come lie with me, my sister!

13 But she said to him—

Nay! my brother, do not force me, for it should not be done so in Israel,—do not commit this wileness.

14 And [I]—whether could I take my reproach? [Thou] too, wouldst be as one of the vile fellows, in Israel.

[Now] therefore, speak, I pray

Absalom had commanded his young men, saying—

Mark, I pray you, when the heart of Amnon is merry with wine, and I say unto you—

Smite ye Amnon, then shall ye put him to death, do not fear, have not I myself commanded you? Be bold, and show yourselves to be sons of valour.

So Absalom’s young men did to Amnon as Absalom had commanded. Then arose all the king’s sons, and rode away—each man on his mule, and fled.

And it came to pass, while they were yet on the road, that the report reached David, saying—

Absalom hath smitten all the king’s sons, and there is not left of them any one.

And the king arose, and rent his garments, and lay on the ground, and all his servants who stood by rent their garments. Then responded Jonadab son of Shimshai David’s brother, and said—

Let not my lord say that they have put all the young men—the king’s sons—unto death; for Ammon alone is dead; for by the bidding of Absalom was it appointed, from the day that he forced Tamar his sister.

Now therefore, let not my lord the king lay his heart such a thing—as to say—All the king’s sons are dead, but Ammon alone is dead.

Now Absalom had fled. And the young man that was watching lifted up his eyes, and looked, and lo! much people coming on the road behind him, on the mountain-side. So Jonadab said unto the king, Lo! the king’s sons are come, according to the word of thy servant; so hath it come to pass.

And so it was; as he made an end of speaking, that lo! the king’s sons came, and lifted up their voice and wept—the king also, and all his servants wept with an exceeding great weeping.

But Absalom had fled, and had taken his journey unto Talmai son of Ammihud, king of Geshur. And David the king mourned for his son continually.

And it came to pass that he was there three days.
And the spirit of the king pined to go forth unto Absalom,—for he had consoled himself over Amnon, in that he was dead.

§ 30. Joab employs a Wise Woman of Tekoa to induce David to recall Absalom: A Tardy Reconciliation.

14 And Joab, son of Zeruiah, perceived* that the heart of the king was towards Absalom. So Joab sent to Tekoa, and fetched from thence a wise woman,—and said unto her:

I pray thee, feign thyself a mourner, and put on I pray thee, mourning apparel, and do not anoint thyself with oil, but be as a woman that hath [these many days] been mourning for the dead; so shalt thou come in unto the king, and speak unto him, [after this manner].

And Joab put the words in her mouth.

And <when the woman of Tekoa came in unto the king> she fell on her face to the ground, and did homage,—and said—

Save, O king!

And the king said to her—

What aileth thee?

And she said—

Of a truth,  am I, for my husband is dead.

Now <thy maidservant> had two sons, and they two strove together in the field, with none to tear them asunder.—so the one smote the other, and slew him. Lo! therefore, all the family hath risen up against thy maidservant, and have said:

Give up him that hath smitten his brother, that we may put him to death, for the life of his brother, whom he hath slain, that we may destroy <the heir also>.

So will they quench my ember that is left, and make my husband without name or remainder, on the face of the ground.

And the king said unto the woman—

Go to thy house, and <I will> give command concerning thee.

Then said the woman of Tekoa unto the king,

<Upon me> my lord, O king, be the iniquity, and upon the house of my father,—but <the king and his throne> be guiltless.

And the king said,—

<He that speaketh unto thee> bring him in unto me, and he shall [no more] annoy thee.

Then said she:

Let the king, I pray thee, remember Yahweh thy God; so that the blood-redeemer may not make utter ruin, and that they destroy not my son.

And he said—

<By the life of Yahweh> not one hair of thy son shall fall to the earth.

13 Then said the woman,

Pray let thy maidservant speak unto my lord the king, a word.

And he said—

Speak.

And the woman said,

Wherefore, then, hast thou devised the like of this <for the people of God>; and yet the king, <in speaking this word>, is verily guilty, unless the king <bring back his fugitive>. 14 For <when we <die> we become as water poured on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again,—therefore doth God not take away the life, but deviseth plans so as not to thrust out from him, a fugitive.

[Now] therefore, [is it] that <I have come to speak unto the king my lord this word, because the people kept putting me in fear, so thy maidservant said—>

Do let me, I pray you, speak unto the king! peradventure the king will fulfil the request of his handmaid.

For the king can hearken, to rescue his handmaid out of the power of the man who would seek to destroy both me and my son together, out of the inheritance of God.

So thy maidservant said,

Pray let the word of my lord the king be comforting,—for <the messenger of God> so is my lord the king, in bearing the good and the bad, <Yahweh thy God> then, be with thee.

Then responded the king, and said unto the woman,

Nay now! do not hide from me, the thing which I am about to ask thee.

And the woman said,

Pray let my lord the king speak.

Then said the king,

Is <the hand of Joab> with thee, in all this?

And the woman answered and said—

<By the life of thy soul> my lord, O king, there is no way to the right or to the left, of anything that my lord the king hath spoken, for <thy servant Joab himself> charged me, and <himself> put, in the mouth of thy maidservant, all these words:

<for the purpose of turning round the face of the matter> hath thy servant Joab done this thing,—my lord being wise, as with the wisdom of a messenger of God, in knowing all that is [done] in the land>.

20 Then said the king unto Joab,

See, I pray thee, I have done this thing,—go then—bring back the young man, Absalom.

20 So Joab fell with his face to the earth, and did homage, and blessed the king,—and Joab said—

"To-day" doth thy servant know, that I have found favour in thine eyes, my lord O king, in that the king hath fulfilled the request of thy* servant.

21 And Joab arose, and went to Geshur,—and brought Absalom to Jerusalem. 22 And the king said—

Let him go round to his own house, and <my face> let him not see.

So Absalom went round unto his own house, and <the face of the king> saw he not.

25 Now <like unto Absalom> was there no man handsome in all Israel, unto the crown of his head: there was not, in him, [a blemish]. 26 And when he polled his head—and it was at ever year's end that he used to poll it, because it was heavy upon him, therefore he used to poll it—he would weigh the hair of his head, two hundred shekels, by the royal standard. 27 And there were born to Absalom three sons, and one daughter, [whose name] was Tamar,—[he] a woman beautiful to look upon.

28 So Absalom dwelt in Jerusalem two years of days,—and <the face of the king> had he not seen. 29 Then sent Absalom unto Joab, to send him unto the king, but he would not come to him,—so he sent yet a second time, but he would not come. 30 Then said he unto his servants—

See [the allotted portion of Joab] adjointeth me, and [he] hath barley there, go, and set it on fire.

So the servants of Absalom set the portion on fire. 31 Then rose Joab, and went unto Absalom, in his house,—and said unto him, [Wherefore] have thy servants set the portion that pertaineth to me, on fire?

32 And Absalom said unto Joab—

Let I sent unto thee, saying—

Come hither, that I may send thee unto the king, saying—[Wherefore] am I come from Geshur? I might as well have yet' been there.

[Now] therefore, let me see the face of the king, and <if there is in me iniquity> then let him put me to death.

33 So Joab came unto the king, and told him, and the king called for Absalom, and he came in unto the king, and bowed himself down* with his face to the ground, before the king,—and the king kissed Absalom.

1 And it came to pass <after this> that Absalom prepared him chariots and horeses,—and fifty men, to run before him. 2 And Absalom used to rise up early, and take his stand beside the way of the gate,—and so it was,—<when any man who had a controversy would come unto the king for judgment> then Absalom called unto him, and said:

"Of what city> art thou?"

And he said,

<Of one of the tribes of Israel> is thy servant.

And Absalom said unto him,

See! [thy cause]* is good and right,—but <to hear it> thou hast no' one [from the king].

4 And Absalom said,

Oh would that I were appointed to judge in the land! that <unto me> might come every man having a complaint or a defence, then would I see him righted.

5 Moreover, so it used to be, that <when any man came near to do him homage> he would put forth his hand, and lay hold of him, and kiss him. 6 And Absalom did, after this manner, to all Israel [who] came for judgment, unto the king,—so Absalom stole away the heart of the men of Israel.

7 And it came to pass <at the end of forty years> that Absalom said unto the king—

Let me go, I pray thee, that I may pay my vow which I have vowed unto Yahweh, in Hebron; 8 for thy servant vowed <[a vow] while I abode in Geshur in Syria, saying,—

<If Yahweh> will but bring me back unto Jerusalem> then will I serve

Yahweh,

9 And the king said unto him—

Go and prosper!

So he arose and went to Hebron. 10 And Absalom sent spies throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying,—

When ye hear the sound of the horn> then shall ye say,

Absalom hath become king in Hebron!

11 And <with Absalom> went two hundred men, out of Jerusalem, who having been bidden, were going in their simplicity,—neither knew they anything. 12 And Absalom sent and called b Ahithophel the Gilonite, David's counsel, over his city, out of Gilo, when he was offering sacrifices,—and so it was that the conspiracy was strong, and [the people] went on multiplying with Absalom.

§ 22. David in alarm takes Flight from Jerusalem. Pathetic Incidents.

It hath come about, that the heart of the men of Israel goeth after Absalom.

16
Then said David, to all his servants who were with him in Jerusalem—

Arise and let us flee, or we shall have no way of escape from the face of Absalom,—make speed to depart, lest he make speed, and so overtake us, and bring down misfortune upon us, and smite the city with the edge of the sword.

And the king's servants said unto the king,—

According to all* that my lord the king shall choose> here are thy servants.

So the king went forth, with all his household* attending him,—but the king left ten women who were concubines, to keep the house. 17 Thus then the king went forth, with all the people* attending him,—and they came to a stand at a place that was far off.

And ||all his servants*|| were passing on beside him, and all the Cherethites, and all the Pelethites,—and ||all the Gittites—six hundred men, who had accompanied him from Gath|| were passing on before the king. 18 Then said the king unto Ittai the Gittite,

Therefore* shouldest thou go with us? return and abide with the king, for ||a stranger*|| art thou; moreover also* ||canst thou|| art thou from thine own country.

<Only yesterday> camest thou, and <today> shall I let thee wander with us, on our journey, seeing that ||I|| am going whichsoever I may!* Return and take back thy brethren with thee, and may Yahweh deal with thee* in lovingkindness and faithfulness.

But Ittai answered the king, and said,—

<By the life of Yahweh, and by the life of my lord the king> surely ||in whatsoever place my lord the king|| may be, whether for death or for life> there will be thy servant* be.

Then said David unto Ittai—

Go, and pass on.

So Ittai the Gittite passed on, with all his men, and all the little ones that were with him. 21 And ||all the land|| was weeping, with a loud voice, and ||all the people|| were passing on,—||the king also|| was passing on, through the torrent-bed of Kidron, and all the people were passing on over the face of the way leading to the wilderness.

And lo! ||Zadok also, and all the Levites|| with him|| were bearing the ark of the covenant of God, and they set down the ark of God, and Abiathar went up,—until all the people* had made an end of passing over out of the city. 22 Then said the king unto Zadok,

Take back the ark of God into the city,—<if I find favour in the eyes of Yahweh> then will he bring me back, and let me see both him and his habitation,* but ||if he say, I have no delight in thee> here I am, let him do unto me as may be good in his eyes.

And the king said, unto Zadok the priest,

Art thou not ||a seer*||? return into the city, in peace,—and Ahimaaz thine own son, and Jonathan son of Abiathar—your two sons, with you.

See! ||I|| am tarrying in the waste plains* of the wilderness,—until there some word from you, to tell me.

So Zadok and Abiathar took back the ark of God to Jerusalem,—and abode there.

Now ||David|| was going up by the ascent of Olivet, weeping as he went up, with his head covered, ||himself*|| passing on barefoot,—and all the people who were with him covered every man his head, and went up, weeping as they went. 21 And ||unto David|| it was told, saying,

||Ahithophel|| is among the conspirators* with Absalom.

And David said,

Turn to foolishness, I pray thee, the counsel of Ahithophel, O Yahweh.

And it came to pass ||when David reached the summit, where he bowed himself down unto God|| that lo! there met him, Hushai the Archite, his tunic rent, and earth upon his head. 22 And David said unto him,—

<If thou pass over with me> then shalt thou become unto me, a burden; 24 but ||to the city|| thou return> then canst thou say unto Absalom—

<Thy servant* ||I|| O king, will be, as ||the servant of thy father|| I was formerly> so will I ||now|| be thy servant:

thus shalt thou frustrate for me' the counsel of Ahithophel.

And hast thou not, with thee, there' Zadok and Abiathar the priests? so then it shall be, that <what thing soever thou shalt hear out of the house of the king> thou shalt tell to Zadok and to Abiathar, the priests. 26 Lo! they have there with them, their two sons, Ahimaaz for Zadok, and Jonathan for Abiathar,—so shall ye send, by their hand, unto me, everything which ye shall hear.

So Hushai, David's friend, went into the city,—when ||Absalom|| was about to enter Jerusalem.

1 Now ||David|| had passed on but a little from the summit, when lo! ||Ziba, servant of Mephibosheth|| met him,—with a couple of asses saddled, and ||upon them* two hundred cakes of bread, and one hundred cakes of raisins, and one hundred summer fruits, and a skin of wine.

And the king said unto Ziba, What meanest thou [by these]? And Ziba said—

[The asses] are for the king’s household, to ride on; and [the bread and the summer fruits] are for [the young men to eat]; and [the wine] is for drink to such as are faint in the wilderness.

Then said the king, And where is thy lord’s son? And Ziba said unto the king— Lo! abiding in Jerusalem, for he said, [To-day] will the house of Israel [restore unto me] the kingdom of my father.

Then said the king unto Ziba, Lo! thine is all that pertaineth to Mephibosheth.

And Ziba said—

I have done homage, that I might find favour in thine eyes, my lord O king.

And when King David had come as far as Bahurim, lo! from thence a man was coming out of the family of the house of Saul, [whose name was] Shimei son of Gera, coming out and cursing as he came. And he pelted, with stones, David and all the servants of King David,— all the people, and all the mighty men, being on his right hand and on his left.

And [thus] said Shimei, when he cursed,— Out! Out! thou man of bloodshed, and man of the Abandoned One!

Yahweh hath brought back upon thee all the shed-blood of the house of Saul, in whose stead thou hast reigned, and Yahweh hath delivered the kingdom into the hand of Absalom thy son,—and [here thou art] in thy ruin, for that [a man of bloodshed] thou art.

Then said Abishai, son of Zeruiah, unto the king— Wherefore should this dead dog curse my lord the king? I pray thee, let me cross over and take off his head.

But the king said,

What have I in common with thee, ye sons of Zeruiah? [Thus] he curseth, because Yahweh hath said unto him— Curse David.

Who then can say,

Why hast thou done thus?

Then said David unto Abishai, and unto all his servants,

Lo! [my own son who sprang from my body] is seeking my life,—then how much more now, a Benjamite? Let him alone, and let him curse, for Yahweh hath permitted him.

[It may be] that Yahweh will behold with his eye;—and that Yahweh will return me good, for his cursing this day.

And [when David and his men went along in the way] Shimei was going along on the side of the hill over against him, cursing as he went, pelting him with stones, and throwing dust.

And the king and all the people that were with him went weary,—and they refreshed themselves there.

§ 23. Absalom enters Jerusalem, where he confers with his Counsellors, follows odious Advice, and resolves on the Pursuit of his Father.

And Absalom and all the men of Israel entered Jerusalem,—and Ahithophel with him.

And it came to pass when Hushai the Archite, the friend of David, came in unto Absalom, that Hushai said unto Absalom— Long live the king! Long live the king!

Then said Absalom unto Hushai, Is [this] thy lovingkindness unto thy friend? Wherefore wentest thou not with thy friend?

And Hushai said unto Absalom, Nay! but whom Yahweh, and all the people, and the men of Israel have chosen, [his] I will be, and [with him] will I dwell. And [again] whom [should] I serve? Should it not be in presence of his son? <as I served in presence of thy father> [so] will I continue in thy presence.

Then said Absalom unto Ahithophel,— Give ye your counsel, what we shall do.

And Ahithophel said unto Absalom, Go unto thy father’s concubines, whom be hath left to keep the house,—so shall all Israel hear that thou hast made thyself odious unto thy father, and the hands of all that are with thee shall be strengthened.

And they stretched out for Absalom a tent upon the house-top,—and Absalom went into unto his father’s concubines, in the sight of all Israel.

Now the counsel of Ahithophel, which he counselled in those days, was as if a man had enquired at the oracle of God,—so was the counsel of Ahithophel, [both to] David, and also to Absalom.

Then said Ahithophel unto Absalom,— I pray thee, let me choose for myself twenty thousand men, and arise, and pursue David—night; and let me come upon him when he is weary, and weak-handed, and I shall strike him with terror, and all the people who are with him shall flee,—then will I smite the king alone: so that I may bring back all the people unto thee,— <when a return—save> the man whom thou art seeking> all the people] will be at peace.

11 So read; written otherwise, but nearly in same sense.

12 *The ancient authorities emphatically declare that the passage before us exhibits an alteration of the Sopherim, and that the text originally was ‘the Lord will behold (בְּבֵיתוֹ) with his eye’” — O. Intro. p. 565.

13 And when David and his men went along in the way; [Shimei] was going along on the side of the hill over against him, cursing as he went, pelting him with stones, and throwing dust.

14 And the king and all the people that were with him went weary,—and they refreshed themselves there.
4 And the saying was right in the eyes of Ab-

10 slom,—and in the eyes of all the elders of Israel.

15 Then said Absalom,

I pray you, call ye* Hushai the Archite also,— and let us hear what is in his mouth [also].

16 And <when Hushai came in unto Absalom>

Absalom spake unto him saying,

—After this manner> hath Ahithophel spoken, shall we do what he saith? <if b not> thou> shall speak.

17 Then said Hushai unto Absalom,

—<Not good> is the counsel that Ahithophel hath given[—at this time]].

18 And Hushai said—

—[Thou] knowest thy father and his men—that <men of might> they are[—], and <embittered in sorrow> they are[—], like a bear bereaved of her young, in the field,—thy father also[—] is a man of war, and will not lodge with the people. 2 Lo! <by this time> hath [he] hidden himself in some pit, or other place,—and it shall be <as soon as he falleth upon them at the first>

[of it], and will say—

There is a defeat' among the people that are following Absalom:

then will even the son of valour himself,

whose heart is as the heart of a lion], utterly melt[—],—for all Israel do know that <—a man of might> is thy father, and that <—sons of valour> are they who are with him.

11 Therefore I counsel—that there be a general gathering together unto thee of all Israel, from Dan even unto Beer-sheba, as the sand that is by the sea for multitude,—and that thine own presence[—] be going on in their midst.

12 So shall we come upon him in some place where he hath been found, yea [we] shall be upon him, as when the dew falleth upon the ground[—] and there shall not be left of him, or of the men that are with him [so much as one].

13 But <if into a city> he withdraw> then will all Israel bring up unto that city [ropes],

—and we will drag it down unto the ravine, until there be not found in that place [so much as a small stone].

14 Then said Absalom and all the men of Israel, —Better is the counsel of Hushai the Archite, of a man whose name was Ithra the Ishmaelite, who went in unto Abigail, daughter of Nahash, sister of Zeruiah, mother of Joab. 36 And Israel and Absalom encamped in the land of Gilead.

27 And it came to pass <when David entered Mahanaim> that Shobi son of Nahash of Rabbah of the sons of Ammon and Machir son of Ammiel of Lo-debar, and Barzillai the Gileadite, of Rogelim, 38 brought ||sleeping rugs and banises, and earthen vessels, and wheat and barley, and meal and roasted corn,—and beans and lentils, and parched pulse; 39 and honey and cream, and sheep, and cheese of kine, for David, and for the people that were with him, to eat,—for they said, "The people are hungry and thirsty in the wilderness."

§ 25. David's Army gives battle to Absalom's and defeated: Absalom's Death and David's Lament:
The King is roused from his Grief by Joab.

18 Then David mustered 8 the people that were with him,—and set over them, captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds. 9 And David sent forth the people—[a third part] under the hand of Joab, and [a third part] under the hand of Abishai son of Zeruiah, brother of Joab, and [a third part] under the hand of Ittai the Gittite. Then said the king unto the people, "I myself will surely go forth with you." But the people said—

Thou must not go forth, for if we [flee] they will not regard us, neither if half of us die will they regard us, for thou [is compared] with us—[art worth] ten thousand, —[now] therefore, it will be better that thou come to us out of the city [with succour].

And the king spake unto them.

[Whatever is best in your eyes] I will do. And the king stood beside the gate, while [all the people] came out by hundreds and by thousands. 5 And the king charged Joab and Abishai and Ittai, saying,

Deal gently [for my sake] with the young man, even Absalom.

And [all the people] heard when the king charged all the captains, for the sake of Absalom.

So the people went forth into the field against Israel,—and the battle took place in the forest of Ephraim. 7 Then were the people of Israel defeated there, before the servants of David,—and the slaughter there was great, on that day—twenty thousand. 8 And the battle there was spread out over the face of all the land,—and the forest devoured more of the people than the sword devoured there on that day.

Now <when Absalom met the servants of David> ||Absalom|| was riding upon a mule, and the mule came under the thick branches of a large oak, and his head caught hold of the oak, and he was suspended between heaven and earth, [the mule that was under him passing on]. 10 And a certain man saw it, and told Joab,—and said—

Lo! I saw Absalom suspended in an oak. 11 Then said Joab to the man that was telling him—Lo! <since thou sawest him> why didst thou not write him there to the ground? thou should I have been bound to give thee ten pieces of silver, and a girdle.

12 And the man said unto Joab,

<Though I were> weighing upon my palm thousand pieces of silver,yet would I not put forth my hand against the son of the king,—for <in our hearing> the king charged thee and Abishai and Ittai saying,

Watch any man who [would touch] the young man Absalom.

13 Otherwise <had I dealt with my life> false (and nothing can be hid from the king), then [thou thyself] wouldst have stood aloof.

And Joab said,

<Not thus> may I tarry before thee. And he took three darts in his hand, and thrust them into the heart of Absalom, while he was yet alive in the midst of the oak. 15 The came round ten young men who bare Joab's armor,—and smote Absalom, and slew him.

Then Joab blew with a horn, and the people returned from pursuing Israel,—for Joab had restrained the people. 17 And they took Absalom, and cast him into the forest, into a large pit, and raised up over him a very great heap of stones, and [all Israel] fell upon every man to his home. 18 But [Absalom] had taken, and raised up for himself, in his lifetime, the pillar that is in the king's vale, for he said,

I have no son, to keep in remembrance my name, so he called the pillar after his own name, and it is called Absalom's monument until this day.

19 Then ||Ahimaaz, son of Zadok|| said,

Let me run, I pray thee, and carry tidings unto the king,—how that Yahweh hath vindicated him, at the hand of his enemies.

20 And Joab said to him—

<Not a man to bear tidings> art thou the day, but thou shalt bear tidings another day,—but [this day] shalt thou not bear tidings,—for this cause] that the king's son is dead.

Then said Joab to a Cushite,
  Go tell the king, what thou hast seen.
And the Cushite bowed himself down to Joab, and ran.
  Then [yet again] said Ahimaaz son of Zadok unto Joab.
But <be what may> do, I pray thee, let [me also] run, after the Cushite.
And Joab said—
  Wherefore is’t that [thou] wouldst run, my son, when [thou] hast no’ tidings of [any profit]?!
  But <be what may> I will run.
So he said to him—
  Run.
Then ran Ahimaaz by the way of the plain, and got beyond the Cushite.
  Now [David] was sitting between the two gates, and the watchman went on to the top of the gate-house, upon the wall, and lifted up his eyes, and looked, and lo! [a man, running alone].
  So the watchman called out, and told the king. And the king said,
  <If he is alone> there are tidings in his mouth.
And he came on nearer and nearer.
  Then saw the watchman another man, running, so he called out unto the porter,
  Lo! [a man, running alone].
And the king said—
  [This one also] beareth tidings.
Then said the watchman,
  It seemeth [to me] that [the running of the foremost is like the running of Ahimaaz son of Zadok.]
And the king said—
  <A good man> is he’, and [with good tidings> he cometh.]
Then called out Ahimaaz, and said unto the king, Peace!
And he bowed himself down to the king, with his face to the earth, and said—
  [Blessed] be Yahweh thy God, [who hath] surrendered the men who were lifting up their head against my lord the king.
And the king said—
  Is it [well] with the young man—[Absalom]? Then said Ahimaaz—
  I saw a great crowd, when Joab sent the king’s servant and [me] thy servant, but I knew not what [it meant].
  And the king said—
  Aside! stand [here].
So he turned aside, and stood.

Then lo! [the Cushite] coming in,—and the Cushite said—<Tidings> getheth my lord the king, how that Yahweh hath vindicated thee to-day, at the hand of all them who had risen up against thee.

And the king said unto the Cushite—
  Is it [well] with the young man—[Absalom]? Then said the Cushite—
  Be <like the young man> the enemies of my lord the king, and all who have risen up against thee, for harm.
Then was the king deeply moved, and went up to the chamber over the gate, and wept,—and thus he said as he went—
  O my son Absalom, my son—[Absalom]! could I but have died in thy stead, O Absalom, my son—my son! And it was told Joab,— Lo! [the king] is weeping and mourning over Absalom.
So the victory, on that day, was turned into mourning, with all the people, for the people heard, on that day, saying—
  The king is distressed for his son.
And the people stole away, on that day, to go into the city,—as people steal away who are put to shame, when they flee in battle.
But [the king] muffled his face, and the king made outcry, with a loud voice,— O my son Absalom, O Absalom, my son, my son!
Then came Joab unto the king, in the house,—and said—
  Thou hast, to-day, covered with shame the faces of all thy servants, who have rescued thy life to-day, and the lives of thy sons and thy daughters, and the lives of thy wives, and the lives of thy concubines; by loving them who hated thee, and hating them who loved thee,—for thou hast declared, to-day, that <nothing to thee> are princes or servants, for I perceive, to-day, that <if a Absalom> had lived, and <all we> to-day had died > that [then] it had been right in thine eyes.
  [Now] therefore, rise—go forth, and speak unto the heart of thy servants,—for <by Yahweh> have I sworn, that <if thou do not go forth> not a man shall tarry with thee to-night, and this will be to thee a greater misfortune than all the misfortune that hath come upon thee from thy youth until now.
So the king arose, and took his seat in the gate,—and <to all the people> was it told, saying—
  Lo! [the king] is sitting in the gate.
Then came all the people before the king, but [Israel] had fled every man to his home.

§ 26. The Bringing Back of the King.

our enemies, and [he] rescued us out of the hand of the Philistines, but [now] he hath fled out of the land, away from Absalom; 10 and [Absalom, whom we anointed over us, hath died] in the battle.

But [now] therefore, why are [ye] silent as to bringing back the king?

And [King David] sent unto Zadok and unto Abiathar the priests, saying,

Speak ye unto the elders of Judah, saying, Wherefore should ye be behindhand, in bringing back the king unto his home,—seeing that [the speech of all Israel hath come unto the king, regarding his home?]

<Mine own brethren> are ye, <my bone and my flesh> are ye,—wherefore then should ye be behindhand in bringing back the king?

And [unto Amasa] shall ye say,

Art not [thou] [my bone and my flesh]? [So] let God do to me, and [so] let him add, if thou become not [prince of the army] before me continually, instead of Joab.

Thus bowed he the heart of all the men of Judah, as one man,—and they went unto the king, Return, [thou, and all thy servants]!

Then the king returned, and came as far as the Jordan,—and [Judah] came to Gilgal, to go* and meet the king, to escort the king over the Jordan.

Then hastened Shimei, son of Gera, the Benjamite, who was of Bahurim,—and came down, with the men of Judah, to meet King David.

And [a thousand men] were with him, out of Benjamin, Ziba also, servant of the house of Saul, and his fifteen sons and twenty servants, with him,—and they went through the Jordan, before the king. 18 But the ferry-boat kept crossing, to bring over the household of the king, and to do what was good in his eyes. And [Shimei, son of Gera] fell down before the king, when he had passed over the Jordan; 19 and he said unto the king,—

Let not my lord impute to me iniquity, neither do thou remember the perverseness of thy servant, on the day that thou wastent out, my lord O king,b from Jerusalem, that the king should lay it upon his heart.

For thy servant doth know, that [I] sinned,—lo! therefore, I have arrived to-day, as the first of all the house of Joseph, to come down to meet my lord the king.

Then responded Abishai, son of Zeruiah, and said,

<For this> shall not Shimei be put to death, for that he cursed the Anointed of Yahweh?

But David said:

What have I in common with you, ye sons of Zeruiah, for ye would become to me, to-day, a very traitor? 16

Shall there [to-day] be put to death a man in Israel! for do I not know, that [to-day] I am king over Israel?

Then said the king unto Shimei—

Thou shalt not die.

And the king aware to him.

And [Mephibosheth, son of Saul] came down to meet the king,—he had neither dressed his feet, nor trimmed his beard, nor [his clothes] had he washed, from the day the king departed, until the day that he entered in peace. 22 And it came to pass <when he entered Jerusalem> to meet the king, that the king said unto him,

Wherefore’ wentest thou not with me, Mephibosheth?

And he said,

My lord, O king, [my servant] betrayed me,—for thy servant said—

I will even saddle me mine ass, that I may ride thereon, and go with* the king, for [lame] is thy servant.

And he had slandered thy servant, unto my lord the king,—but [my lord the king] is as a messenger of God, do therefore what is good in thine own eyes.

For <when all the house of my father were nothing better* than dead men,* unto my lord the king> then didst thou set thy servant among them that used to eat at thine table,—what then have I further [by way of right], or to cry out any further unto my lord the king?

Then the king said unto him, Wherefore shouldst thou speak any further of thine affairs? I have said—

[Thou and Ziba] shall share the land.c

And Mephibosheth said unto the king,

<Even the whole> let him take,—now* that my lord the king hath entered, in peace, into his own house.

And Barzillai the Gileadite came down from Rogelim,—and passed, with the king, over the Jordan, to escort him over the Jordan. 28 Now, Barzillai was very aged, eighty years old,—and [he himself] had sustained the king throughout his sojourn in Mahanaim, for he was [an exceeding great man].

So then the king said unto Barzillai,—

[Thou] come over with me, and I will sustain thee with me, in Jerusalem.

But Barzillai said unto the king,—

<Like unto what> are the days of the years of my life, that I should come up with the king, to Jerusalem. 25 <Eighty years old>—and I to-day,—could I discern between good and bad? or could thy servant taste what I might eat, and what I might drink? o could I hearken any more to the voice of singing men and singing women? fore, then, should thy servant yet be a burden unto my lord the king?

<Just a little way> will thy servant pass over the Jordan with the king; but wherefore should the king recompense me with this reward? Let thy servant, I pray thee, turn back again, that I may die in mine own city, by the grave of my father, and my mother. But here is thy servant Chimham—let him pass over with my lord the king, and do unto him that which may be good in thine eyes.

Then said the king, <With me> shall Chimham pass over, and I will do unto him that which shall be good in thine eyes; and whatsoever thou shalt choose to lay upon me, I will do for thee.

And when all the people had passed over the Jordan> then the king passed over, and the king kissed Barzillai, and blessed him, and he returned unto his own place. And the king passed over to Gilgal, and Chimham passed over with him; and all the people of Judah, escorted the king, yea moreover, half the people of Israel.

Then lo! all the men of Israel were coming unto the king, and they said unto the king—Why did our brethren the men of Judah steal thee away, and escort the king and his household over the Jordan, and all the men of David with him?

And all the men of Judah made answer unto the men of Israel—Because the king is near of kin unto us, wherfore then is it, that ye are angry over this matter? Have we eaten at the king’s cost? or hath he bestowed any gifts on us?

And the men of Israel answered the men of Judah, and said—<Ten parts> have we in the king; therefore even in David > have we more right than ye. Why then, made ye light of us, so that our word was not heard first as to bringing back our king?

And the words of the men of Judah were fiercer than the words of the men of Israel.

20 Now in that place there happened to be an abandoned man, whose name was Sheba son of Bichri, a man of Benjamin, so he blew a horn, and said—We have no share in David. Nor inheritance have we in the son of Jesse. Every man to his home. O Israel!

2 Then went up all the men of Israel from following David, to follow Sheba son of Bichri, but the men of Judah clave unto their king, from the Jordan, even as far as Jerusalem.

3 And David entered into his own house, in Jerusalem, and the king took the ten women, the concubines whom he had left to keep the house, and put them in ward, and sustained them, but unto them went he not in, so they were shut up until the day of their death, in lifelong widowhood.

4 Then said the king unto Amasa,

Assemble me the men of Judah, within three days, and <thou> here take thy stand!

5 So Amasa went, to assemble Judah, but he tarried beyond the fixed time, which he had appointed him.

6 Then said David unto Abishai, <Now> shall Sheba son of Bichri do us more harm than Absalom, and thou take the servants of thy lord, and pursue him, lest he have got him into fortified cities, and so have escaped our eye.

7 Then went out after him—the men of Joab, and the Cherethites and the Pelethites, and all the mighty men—and they went out from Jerusalem, to pursue Sheba son of Bichri.

8 When they were by the great stone which is in Gibeon, Amasa had arrived before them. Now Joab was girded about with his war-coat as his upper garment, and over it a girdle with a sword, fastened upon his loins, in the sheath thereof, and it came out and fell. Then said Joab unto Amasa, Art thou well, my brother? And Joab took Amasa by the beard with his right hand, to kiss him. Amasa not heeding the sword that was in the hand of Joab> he smote him therewith in the belly, and shed out his bowels to the ground, and struck him not again, and he died. So Joab and Abishai his brother pursued Sheba son of Bichri.

Now [a man] stood over him, of the young men of Joab, and said—Whosoever is well pleased with Joab, and whosever pertaineth to David, let him follow Joab.

12 But Amasa was wallowing in blood, in the midst of the highway, and when the man saw all the people stood still, he moved Amasa, out of the highway into the field, and... cast over him a garment, [as soon as he saw] that every man that came up to him stood still.

12 When he had removed him out of the highway, every man passed on, after Joab, to pursue Sheba son of Bichri.

13 And he passed on throughout all the tribes of Israel, unto Abel and unto Beth-masach, and all the Berites,—and they were called together, and came in, yes and followed him.

14 So they came, and laid siege against him, in Abel, Beth-masach, and they cast up a mound against the city, so that it stood within a rampart,—and ||all the people who were with Joab|| were battering the wall to throw it down.

15 Then cried a wise woman out of the city,—

Hear ye! hear ye! I pray you, say unto Joab,

Come near hither, and let me speak unto thee.

16 So he came near unto her, and the woman said—

Art thou Joab?

And he said—

I am.

And she said unto him—

Hear thou the words of thy handmaid.

And he said, I do hear.

17 Then spake she, saying,—

They ||used to speak|| in former times, saying, ||Enquire|| in Abel! ||And so|| they ended it.

18 ||I am|| of the peaceable among the faithful in Israel,—||thou|| art seeking to put to death a city, and a mother in Israel, whereas wouldst thou swallow up the inheritance of Yahweh?

19 Then answered Joab and said,—

Far be it! far be it from me! I will neither swallow up nor lay waste.

20 <Not so> is the matter! but ||a man of the hill country of Ephraim, [Sheba son of Bichri] his name], hath lifted up his hand against the king, even against David, give him alone, and I will depart from the city.

And the woman said unto Joab,

Lo! ||his head|| shall be cast unto thee, through the wall.

21 So the woman came unto all the people in her wisdom, and they cut off the head of Sheba son of Bichri, and cast it out unto Joab. And he blew with a horn, and they dispersed themselves from the city, every man to his house; but ||Joab|| returned to Jerusalem unto the king.

22 And ||Joab|| was [restored] unto all the army of Israel,—

And ||Benaiah, son of Jehoiada|| was over the Cherethites and over the Pelethites,

23 And ||Adoniram|| was over the tribute,—

And ||Jehoshaphat, son of Ahilud|| was the remembrancer;

24 And ||Sheva|| was scribe,—

And ||Zadok and Abiathar|| were priests; —

Moreover also ||Ira the Jairite|| was chief ruler unto David.

§ 28. A Famine sent in Vindication of the Gibeonites' right to a place in Israel: They avenge themselves on Saul's House: The Story of Rishah.

1 And there came to be a famine, in the days of David, [for three years, ||year after year||, so then David sought the face of Yahweh,—and Yahweh said—

It respecteth Saul and his house, as to bloodshed, in that he put to death the Gibeonites.

2 The king therefore called the Gibeonites, and said unto them [now ||the Gibeonites|| were [not of the sons of Israel] but of the remnant of the Amorites, with whom ||the sons of Israel|| had entered into an oath, and Saul had sought to smite them, in his jealousy for the sons of Israel and Judah]—wherefore David said unto the Gibeonites—

What shall I do for you,—and wherewith shall I make propitiation, so that ye may bless the inheritance of Yahweh?

4 And the Gibeonites said unto him—

It is not a matter with us of silver or gold, with Saul or with his house, neither would we have a man put to death in Israel.

And he said—

What do ye say I should do for you!

Then said they unto the king,

<The man who consumed us, and who thought to have destroyed us from taking a place within any of the bounds of Israel> let there be delivered up to us—seven men of his sons, and we will crucify them unto Yahweh in Gibeah of Saul, the chosen of Yahweh.

And the king said,

I will deliver them up.

7 But the king had pity upon Mephibosheth, son of Jonathan, Saul's son,—because of the oath of Yahweh that was between them, between David and Jonathan, Saul's son.

8 So the king took the two sons of Rishah, daughter of Aiah, whom she had borne to Saul, even Armoni and Mephibosheth,—and the five sons of Michal, daughter of Saul, whom she had had.
borne to Adriel son of Barzillai, the Meholathite; 9 and delivered them up into the hand of the Gibeonites, and they crucified them in the mountain, before Yahweh, so they seven fell together,—they being put to death in the first days of harvest, in the beginning of the barley harvest. 10 Then Rizpah daughter of Aiah, took sackcloth, and spread it out for herself, on the rock, from the beginning of harvest, until water poured out upon them from the heavens,—and suffered neither the birds of the heavens to rest on them by day, nor the wild beasts of the field, [to devour them] by night. 11 And it was told David,—what Rizpah daughter of Aiah, Saul’s concubine, had done. 12 So David went and fetched the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his son, from the owners of Jabesh-gilead,—who stole them from the broadway of Beth-shan, where the Philistines had hanged them, on the day when the Philistines had smitten Saul in Gilboa: 13 and he brought up thence the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his son,—and they gathered together the bones of them who had been crucified; 14 so they buried the bones of Saul and Jonathan his son in the land of Benjamin, in Zelah, in the grave of Kish his father, thus did they all⁷ that the king commanded,—and God suffered himself to be entreated for the land [after this].

§ 29. Various Encounters with the Philistines.

15 And the Philistines had yet again—a war with Israel,—so David went down, and his servants with him, and fought the Philistines, and David became famous. 16 So labbî-benôb, who was of the descendants of the giant,* [the weight of whose spear-head] was three hundred shekels of bronze, he being newly armed> thought to smite⁸ David; 17 but Abishai son of Zeruiah [came to his help], and smote the Philistine, and slew him. [Then] swore the men of David unto him, saying— Thou must not go forth again more with us to battle, that thou quench not the lamp of Israel.

18 And it came to pass [after this] that there was yet again a battle in Gob, ⁷ with the Philistines,—[then] Sibbekai the Hushathite smote Saph, who was of the descendants of the giant. 19 And there was yet again another battle in Gob ⁷ with the Philistines,—when Elhanan son of Jaare-oregim of Bethlehem, smote Goliath the Gittite, the shaft of whose spear was like a weaver’s beam.

20 And there was yet again a battle in Gath; when there was a man of stature, with six fingers on each hand, and six toes on each foot, twenty-four in number; ⁸ he also having been born to the giant; 21 but when he reproached Israel> Jonathan son of Shimeah David’s brother [smote] him. ⁹ [These four] had been born to the giant in Gath,—but they fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of his servants.

§ 30. David’s Song of Triumph over all his Enemies.

(Cp. Psalm xviii.)

1 And David spake unto Yahweh, the words of this song,—in the day when Yahweh had rescued him, out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul; ² and he said,—

2 Ḥayye[wh] was my mountain Craig and my stronghold, and my deliverer—[mine];

3 [My God] was my rock,
I sought refuge in him,— My shield, and my horn of salvation, my high tower, and my refuge,
My Saviour! [from violence] thou didst save me.

4 <As one worthy to be praised> called I on Yahweh,—
And <from my foes> was I saved.

5 <When the breakers of death encompassed me,—
[the torrents of perdition]> made me afraid,—
[the meshes of hades] had surrounded me,— the snare of death had confronted me;>

6 <In my distress> called I on Yahweh,
Yea <unto my God> did I call,—
And he hearkened, out of his temple, unto my voice,
And [my cry for help] was in his ears! ⁷

7 Then did the earth shake and quake,
[The foundations of the heavens] were deeply moved,— Yea they did shake, because he was angry,
There went up a smoke in his nostrils, And [a fire out of his mouth] devoured,— [Live coals] were kindled from it:
Then he stretched out the heavens, and came down,—
And [thick gloom] was under his feet; ⁸
Then he rode on a cherub, and flew,—
And was seen on the wings of the wind; ⁹
And made of the darkness around him, pavilions,— [Out of the brightness before him] were kindled live coals of fire; ¹⁰
[Thunder from the heavens] did Yahweh give forth,— Yea [the highest] uttered his voice;
And he sent forth arrows, and scattered them;—
Lightning, and confused them;
Then appeared* the channels of the sea,
Were uncovered* the foundations of the world,—
At the rebuke of Yahweh,
The blast of the breath of his nostrils in high, he took me,—
He drew me out of many waters;—
He rescued me from my foes, in his might,—
From* them who hated me, because they were too strong for me:
They confronted me, in the day of my necessity,—
Then became Yahweh my stay:
And brought out, into a large place, [even me],—
He delivered me, because he delighted in me:
Yahweh rewarded me, according to my righteousness,—
<According to the cleanness of my hands> he repaid me:
For I had kept the ways of Yahweh,—
And not broken away from my God;
For [all his regulations] were before me,—
And <as for his statutes> I turned not from them.
So became I blameless towards him,—
And kept myself from mine iniquity:
Yahweh therefore repaid me, according to my righteousness,—
According to my pureness before his eyes.
<With the loving> thou didst show thyself loving,
<With the blameless hero> thou didst show thyself blameless;
<With the pure> thou didst show thyself pure,
But <with the perverse> thou didst show thyself ready to contend:
And  thou didst save,—
But [thine eyes] were on the lofty—they layedest them low;
For thou wast my lamp, O Yahweh,—
And Yahweh enlightened my darkness;
For [by thee] I ran through a troop,—
<By my God> I leapt over a wall.
<As for God> [blameless] is his way,—
[The speech of Yahweh] hath been proved,
[As a shield] he is to all who seek refuge in him.
For who is a God, save Yahweh?—
And who a Rock, save our God?
[God] is my fortress of strength,—
And shewed to the blameless his way;—

§ 31. The Last Words of David: His Ideal of Kingship and Assurance of its Realisation in his House.

Now these are the last words of David,—
The oracle of David, son of Jesse,
Yea the oracle of The man raised up on high,
The Anointed of the God of Jacob,
The Delight of the Songs of Israel:—

1 | The Spirit of Yahweh spake in me,—
And his word was on my tongue;
Said the God of Israel,
Unto me: spake the Rock of Israel:—
One Ruling over Men,*
A Righteous One ruling in the reverence of God.

4 | Is even as the light of the morning when arise the sun,—
A morning [without clouds],
As from brightness, [and] from rain, the fresh shoots out of the earth.

5 | When not so was my house with Gop:—
Then a covenant age-abiding he appointed me.
Ordered in all things and guarded,
Now that it is all my salvation and all my desire—
Will he not make it shoot forth?*
But as for the abandoned,* like thorns to be tossed away are they all,—
For with the hand—can they be taken;
But the man that would touch them,
Must fence himself with iron, and the shaft of a spear,—
Then with fire shall they be consumed* on the spot!

§ 32. David's Mighty Men.

[These] are the names of the mighty men, who belonged to David,—
[The president* a Tachmonite head of the chieftains b] the same was Adino the Eznite,* for eight hundred, slain at one time.

9 | And after him Eleazar son of Dodo,* son of Ahohi,—in the hero-class of mighty men with David, when they reproached the Philistines they were gathered together there to battle, but the men of Israel had gone up;

[he, however, arose and smote among the Philistines until his hand was weary, and his hand clave unto his sword, so Yahweh smote a great victory on that day,—the people coming back after him, only to strip the slain.

11 | And after him Shammon son of Agee, the Harruite,—and when the Philistines were gathered together into a troop, there being at hand an allotment of field-land full of lentils, but the people having fled from the face of the Philistines then took he his stand in the midst of the allotment, and defended it, and smote the Philistines,—and Yahweh smote a great victory.

13 | And three of the thirty chiefs descended,
and came in, towards harvest, unto David, unto the cave of Adullam,—although a troop of Philistines were encamped in the vale of Rephaim;* and David then was in a stronghold,—and a garrison of Philistines was then in Bethlehem. And David longed, and said,— Who will give me to drink water out of the well of Bethlehem, that is within the gate?

16 | And the three mighty men brake through the camp of Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Bethlehem, that was within the gate, and bare it, and brought it in unto David,—yet would he not drink, but poured it out unto Yahweh, and said—
Be it far from me, O Yahweh,* that I should do this! is it not the blood of the men who went with their lives [in their hands]?
So he would not drink it. These things did the three mighty men.

18 | And Abishai brother of Joab son of Zeruiah then was chief of three,* in that he brandished his spear against three hundred whom he slew; and he had a name among three. Was he not most honourable of the three, and so became their captain? Nevertheless unto the three he attained not.

20 | Benaiah also, son of Jehoiada, son of an active man,* hero of many a deed, a man of Kabzeel> ||he|| smote the two sons of Ariel of Moab, ||he|| also went down and smote a lion in the midst of a pit, on a day of snow; ||he|| also smote an Egyptian, who was of valiant bearing, and ||in the hand of the Egyptian|| was a spear, but he went down unto him with a staff,—and wrested the spear out of the hand of the Egyptian, and slew him with his own spear. These things did Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and ||he|| had a name among three mighty men. He was the most honourable ||of thirty||, although unto the three ||he|| attained not,—so David added him to his council.

Amminadab, brother of Joab, was among the thirty,—Elhanan, son of Dodo, of Bethlehem; Shammah, the Harodite; Elisha, the Bethlehemite; Helez, the Peluite; Ira, son of Ikkesh, the Tekoite; Abiezer, the Anathothite, Mebunnai, the Husathite; Zalmon, the Ahohite, Maharai, the Netophathite; Helech, son of Baanah, the Netophathite,—Ittai, son of Ribai, of Gibeah, of the sons of Benjamin;

Benaiah, a Pirathonite, Hiddai, of the torrents of Gaash;

Abbital, the Arbathite, Azmaveth, the Barhumite;

Eliahb, the Shalbonite, ||Of the sons of Jashen, Jonathan;||

Shammah, the Harorite, Ahiah, son of Sharar, the Hararite; Elephai, son of Ahithophel, son of Abi-ahish, son of the Maacathite. Eliahu, son of Ahithophel, the Gilonite.

Hezro, the Carmelite, Psaai, the Arbite;

Igal, son of Nathan, of Zobah, Bani, the Gadite;

Sela, the Ammonite, ||Armour bearers|| to Nahash, ||the Beerothite, Joab son of Zeruiah;||

Ira, the Ithrite, Gareb, the Ithrite;

Uriah, the Hittite, ||In all|| thirty and seven.

§ 33. David angers God by Numbers the People:
Chooses three Days' Pestilence: The Plague stayed at Jerusalem, where the King buys the threshing-floor of Araunah, builds an Altar, and offers Sacrifice.

And again was the anger of Yahweh kindled against Israel,—so that he suffered David to be moved against them, saying, Go, count Israel and Judah.

The king, therefore, said unto Joab, captain of the force, who was with him,—Go to and fro, I pray thee, throughout all the tribes of Israel, from Dan even unto Beer-sheba, and number ye the people,—so shall I know the sum of the people.

Then said Joab unto the king,—Yea, Yahweh thy God add unto the people, how many soever they be, a hundredfold, and ||suffer|| the eyes of my lord the king; to see it,—but ||my lord the king|| wherefore doth he find pleasure in this thing?

Notwithstanding the word of the king prevailed against Joab, and over the captains of the force,—so Joab went forth, with the captains of the force, before the king, to number the people—Israel. And they passed over the Jordan,—and encamped in Aron, on the right side of the city, that is in the midst of the ravine of Gad even towards Jazer. Thus came they to Gilgal, and unto the land of Tahtim-hodah,—and came to Danjaan, and round about Zidon; and entered the fortress of Tyre, and all the cities of the Hivites, and of the Canaanites,—and they went out to the South of Judah, even to Beer-sheba. So when they had gone to and fro throughout all the land: they came at the end of nine months and twenty days unto Jerusalem. And Joab delivered up the sum of the number of the people, unto the king,—and there were found to be ||in Israel|| eight hundred thousand men of valour, drawing the sword,—and ||the men of Judah|| five hundred thousand men.

And the heart of David smote him, after he had reckoned up the people;—David said unto Yahweh,—I have sinned greatly, in what I have done, ||Now therefore, O Yahweh, take away||, I beseech thee, the iniquity of thy servant, for I have done very foolishly.

And when David arose in the morning ||the word of Yahweh had come unto Gad the prophet, the seer of David, saying||:

Go and speak unto David—

||Thus|| saith Yahweh, ||Three things|| do I offer thee,—choose thee one of them, that I may do it unto thee.

So Gad came in unto David, and told him,—and said to him:

Shall there come unto thee seven years of famine in thy land? Or ||for three months|| wilt thou flee before thine enemies, while ||they|| pursue thee? Or shall there be ||for three days|| pestilence in thy land? ||Now|| consider and see, what ||answer|| I shall return to him that sent me.

4 And David said unto Gad—
I am in a great strait,—let us fall, I pray thee, into the hand of Yahweh, for [manifold] are [his compassions], but [into the hand of man] let me not fall.

So Yahweh sent forth a pestilence throughout Israel, from the morning even unto the time appointed,—and there died of the people, from Dan even unto Beer-sheba, seventy thousand men.

But [when the messenger stretched out his hand towards Jerusalem, to destroy it] then relented Yahweh as to the evil, and he said to the messenger who was destroying the people—

Enough! [now] stay thy hand.

And [the messenger of Yahweh] was by the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite.

Then said David unto Yahweh, when he saw the messenger who was smiting the people, yea he said—

Lo! [II] have sinned, and [II] have done perversely,

But what have [these sheep] done?

Let thy hand, I pray thee, be against me, and against the house of my father!

And Gad came unto David, on that day,—and said unto him—

Go up, rear thou unto Yahweh an altar, in the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite.

§ 1. In his Old Age, Abishag is given to David as his Companion.

Now [King David] was old, advanced in days,—and they covered him with clothes, but he gat no heat.

Wherefore his servants said unto him—

Let there be sought for my lord the king, a young woman—a virgin, so shall she stand before the king, that she may become his companion,—and she shall lie in thy bosom, and my lord the king shall get [heat].

So they sought a fair young woman, throughout all the bounds of Israel,—and found Abishag, the Shunammite, and brought her in, unto the king.

§ 2. Adonijah aspiring to the Throne, Solomon is made King.

And [Adonijah, son of Haggith] exalted himself, saying—

[II] will be king.
Therefore prepared he for himself chariots and horsemen, and fifty men to run before him. 6 Now his father had not displeased him all his days, by saying—

Why [thus] hast thou done? Moreover also [he] was of exceeding handsome appearance, and [him] did his mother bear [after Absalom]. 7 So then he had speech with Joab, son of Zeruiah, and with Abiathar the priest,—and they gave help, following Adonijah. 8 But [Zadok the priest, and Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and Nathan the prophet, and Shimei, and Rei, and the mighty men who belonged to David] were not with Adonijah. 9 And Adonijah sacrificed sheep and oxen and heifers, near the stone of Zoheth, which is beside En-rogel,—and invited all his brethren, sons of the king, and all the men of Judah, servants* of the king; 10 but <Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, and the mighty men, and Solomon his brother> he invited not. 11 Then spake Nathan unto Bath-sheba mother of Solomon, saying—

Hast thou not heard that Adonijah son of Haggith hath become king, and [our lord David] knoweth it not? 12 [Now] therefore, come; let me give thee counsel, I pray thee,—so shalt thou rescue thine own life, and the life of thy son Solomon. 13 Go, and get thee in unto King David, and thou shalt say unto him—

Didst not [thou thyself] my lord O king, swear unto thy handmaid, saying—

[Solomon thy son] shall become king after me, yea [he] shall sit upon my throne? 14 Lo! <while thou art yet speaking there with the king> [I also] will come in after thee, and confirm* thy words. 15 So Bath-sheba went in unto the king, into the chamber, now [the king] was very old,—and [Abishag the Shunammite] was ministering unto the king. 16 And Bath-sheba bowed, and did homage unto the king,—and the king said 4—

What aileth thee? 17 And she said unto him—

My lord, [thou thyself] didst swear by Yahweh thy God, unto thy handmaid, Assuredly [Solomon thy son] shall become king after me, yea [he] shall sit upon my throne. 18 But [now] lo! [Adonijah] hath become king; 1 [now] therefore, my lord, O king, thou knowest it not: 19 and he hath sacrificed oxen and heifers and sheep, in abundance, and hath invited all the sons of the king, and Abiathar the priest, and Joab general of the army,—but [Solomon thy servant] hath he not invited. 20 [Thou therefore, my lord, O king> the eyes of all Israel are upon thee,—to tell them, who shall sit upon the throne of my lord the king, after him. 21 Otherwise it shall come to pass <when my lord the king shall sleep with his fathers> then shall I and my son Solomon be counted [offenders]. 22 And lo! <while yet she was speaking with the king> [Nathan the prophet] came in. 23 So they told the king, saying,

Lo! Nathan the prophet! And <when he had come in before the king> he bowed himself down to the king with his face to the ground.

Then said Nathan—

My lord, O king, hast [thou] said, [Adonijah] shall become king after me,—yes, [he] shall sit upon my throne? 24 For he hath gone down to-day, and hath sacrificed oxen and heifers and sheep, in abundance, and hath invited all the sons of the king, and the generals of the army, and Abiathar the priest, and [there they are]—eating and drinking before him,—and they have said—

Long live King Adonijah! 25 But [thou, even me thy servant, and Zadok the priest, and Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and Solomon thy servant] hath he not invited. 26 [If of my lord the king] this thing had been brought to pass> then wouldest thou not have made known unto thy servant, who should sit upon the throne of my lord the king, after him? 27 Then responded King David, and said, Call me Bath-sheba. So she came in before the king, and stood before the king. 28 And the king said, and said,—By the life of Yahweh, who hath redeemed my life 4 out of every strait 29 [even so] will I do this day. 30 Then Bath-sheba bowed with her face to the ground, and did homage unto the king,—and said—

Let my lord, King David, live to times age-abiding! 31 Then said King David—

Call me Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, son of Jehoiada.
And they came in before the king. Then said the king unto them—
Take ye with you the servants of your lord, and cause Solomon my son to ride upon the mule which pertaineth unto myself,—and bring him down unto Gihon; 34 then shall Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet anoint him there as king over Israel,—and ye shall blow with the horn, and say—Long live King Solomon! Then shall ye come up after him, and he shall enter, and sit upon my throne, yea the he shall become king in my stead; even <him> have I charged to become leader, over Israel, and over Judah.

Then did Benaiah son of Jehoiada make response unto the king, and say—
Amen! §0|| say Yahweh, God of my lord the king.

<As Yahweh hath been with my lord the king> §0|| let him be with Solomon,—and make his throne greater than the throne of my lord, King David.

So Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah son of Jehoiada, with the Cherethites and the Pelethites, went down, and caused Solomon to ride upon the mule of King David,—and they escorted him to Gihon. Then took Zadok the priest, the horn of oil out of the Tent, and anointed Solomon,—and they blew with a [ram's] horn, and all the people said, Long live King Solomon!

And all the people came up after him, [the people themselves also] playing with flutes, and rejoicing with great joy,—so that the earth rent with the sound of them.

And Adonijah, and all the guests who were with him, heard' it, just as [they] had made an end of eating,—and <when Joab heard> the sound of a horn> he said—
Wherefore' the noise of the city, in tumult?

<While yet he was speaking> lo! [Jonathan son of Abiathar the priest] came in,—and Adonijah said—
Come in, for  thou art, and <good tidings> dost thou bring.*

But Jonathan responded and said to Adonijah,—
[Of a truth] [our lord, King David] hath made [Solomon] king. 44 And the king hath sent with him—Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah son of Jehoiada, with the Cherethites, and the Pelethites,—and they have caused him to ride upon the mule of the king; 45 and Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet have anointed' him king, in Gihon, and they went up from thence rejoicing, so that the city rent again,—

§3. Nearing his End, David gives precautionary Charges to Solomon: The Father's Death; The Son's Prosperity.

And <when the days of David drew near 2 that he must die> he charged his son, saying:—

II. I am going the way of all the earth,—thou must be strong, therefore, and shew thyself a man; 3 and keep the observances of Yahweh thy God, by walking in his ways, by keeping his statutes, his* commandments, and his regulations and his testimonies, as written in the law of Moses,—to the end thou mayest prosper in all that thou dost, and whithersoever thou turnest thyself; 4 to the end that Yahweh may establish his word which he spake concerning me, saying,

<If thy sons will take heed to their way, by walking before me, in truth, with all their heart, and with all their soul> (then, said he) there shall not be cut off to thee a man, from off the throne of Israel.

Moreover also [thou] knowest what Joab son of Zeruiah did to me, how he dealt with two generals of the armies of Israel—with Abner son of Ner, and with Amasa son of Jether—both of whom he slew, shedding the blood of war in peace, and putting the blood of war upon his girdle that was on his loins, and upon his sandals, that were on his feet. Thou, therefore, must do according to thy wisdom, but will not let his grey hair go down in peace to hades.

But [with the sons of Barzillai the Gileadite] thou wilt deal in lovingkindness, and they will be among them who eat at thy table, for [so] drew they near unto me, when I fled from Absalom thy brother.

Lo! also, there is with thee—Shimei son of Gera a Benjamite, of Behurim, well he it was who cursed me with a grievous curse, on the day I journeyed to Mahanaim,—but well he came down to meet me at the Jordan, and so I sware to him by Yahweh, saying—

I will not put thee to death, with the sword.

[Now therefore, do not hold him guiltless, for [a wise man] thou art; and wilt know how thou oughtest to deal with him, and wilt suffer his grey hairs to go down to death with blood, to hades.

So then David slept with his fathers,—and was buried in the city of David. [Now the days that David reigned over Israel] were forty years,—[in Hebron] he reigned seven years, and [in Jerusalem] he reigned thirty and three years.

But [when Solomon] took his seat upon the throne of David his father then was the kingdom firmly established.

§ 4. Adonijah seeks Abishag to wife. How Solomon deals with him; also with Abiathar, Joab, and Shimei.

And Adonijah son of Haggith came in unto Bath-sheba, mother of Solomon: And she said—

[Peaceably> comest thou? And he said—

Peaceably.

Then said he—

I have somewhat to say unto thee. And she said—

Say on.

And he said—

[You] knowest that [mine] was the kingdom, and [on me] had all Israel set their faces, that I should become king,—howbeit the kingdom [hath turned away] at Yahweh, and become my brother's, for [from Yahweh] became it [his].

Now therefore, [one request] have I to ask of thee, do not turn away my face.

And she said unto him—

Say on. And he said—

Speak, I pray thee, unto Solomon the king, for he will not turn away thy face, that he give me Abishag the Shunammite to wife.

And Bath-sheba said:

Good! [If myself] will speak for thee, unto the king.

So Bath-sheba went in unto King Solomon, to speak to him for Adonijah,—and the king rose up to meet her, and bowed himself down to her, and sat down upon his throne, and caused a throne to be set for the mother of the king, and she sat on his right hand. Then said she—

[One small request.] am I asking of thee, do not turn away thy face.

And the king said to her—

Ask on, my mother, for I will not turn away thy face.

And she said:

Let Abishag the Shunammite be given to Adonijah thy brother, to wife.

Then answered King Solomon, and said to his mother—

Wherefore then, art thou asking Abishag the Shunammite for Adonijah? Ask then, for him the kingdom, because he is mine elder brother,—[even for him, and for Abiathar the priest, and for Joab, son of Zeruiah].

Then sware King Solomon by Yahweh, saying,—

[S]o let God do to me, and [so] let him add, if [at the cost of his life] Adonijah hath not spoken this word.

[Now therefore, by the life of Yahweh, who hath established me, and seated me upon the throne of David my father, and who hath made me for a household, as he had spoken> surely [to-day] shall Adonijah be put to death!]

So King Solomon sent by the hand of Benaiah son of Jehoiada,—and he fell upon him, that he died. Also <unto Abiathar the priest> said the king—

[To Anathoth] get thee unto thine own fields, for [death-doomed] thou art,—but [this day] will I not put thee to death, [because thou didst bear the ark of My Lord, Yahweh, before David my father, and because thou wast afflicted in all wherein my father was afflicted].

So Solomon thrust out Abiathar from being priest unto Yahweh,—to fulfill the word of Yahweh which he spake concerning the household of Eli, in Shiloh.

And it came to pass, when the report was spread abroad, that Josiah, the son of Amon, went out of Jerusalem; and he went and passed over the Kidron valley, and was there slain by the king of Babylon:

And his servants made speed, and brought him out, and cast him into the sepulchre of his father: and they put a great earthmound upon him.

And his servants carried him in a chariot to Beth-shemesh, and buried him in the sepulchre of his fathers in the city of Judah.

And over him there came all the captains of the armies of Israel, and all the captains of the host of the king of Babylon, and they buried him in the sepulchre of the sons of David.

And all the people of the land, with the priests and the Levites, mourned him, and saw his dead body, and bewailed him, and said, The king, and his soul, be sweet and tranquil!

And when all the people of the land had persuaded and concurred, they came and carried him out of Jerusalem, and brought him to the sepulchre of his father, and buried him in the sepulchre of his fathers.

And they abolished the groves of Bethel, and the high places, and the Ashtaroth, and the niches, and they made the image of a bullock an abomination.

And they laid up the bones of Ahab in the temple of Jehovah, and they madeDisposition of bones of Ahab.

And all the rest of the acts of Ahab, and all that he did, and his might, and how he reigned, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

And Ahab slept with his fathers, and Jehoshaphat his son succeeded him.

And the word of Jehovah came to Jehoshaphat,

Thus saith the king, Come forth! And he said, Nay! but let us go to the king of Edom, and to the king of Moab, and to the king of Ammon, and to the king of Syria, and to the king ofman, and to the king of the north,

And he said, Thus spake Jehovah, saying,

Then sent the king and called for Shimei, and said unto him—

And Beniah came into the Tent of Jehovah, and said unto him—

And the king sent, and called for Shimei, and said unto him—

And Beniah, the son of Jehoiada, went up, and fell upon him, and put him to death; and he was buried in his own house, in the wilderness.

And the king put Beniah, the son of Jehoiada, in his stead, over the host; and Zadok the priest did the king put in the stead of Abiathar.

And Shimei said to the king—

And Solomon said, If there be a way that this people go forth, and that they go not forth from thence, neither come they to thee, nor come their flesh to die, neither be thy soul moved to desire their soul to perish from thee—

And Solomon loved Jehovah, by walking in the statutes of David his father: and Jehovah was with him, and was exalted exceedingly.

In Gibeon Jehovah appeared unto Solomon, in a dream by night, and said, Ask, what I shall give thee.

And he said, Thou hast dealt well with thy servant my father, in great lovingkindness, according gave birth to a child,—'we two' being together, there was no stranger with us in the house, male but we two in the house.'
19 And this woman's son died in the night—she overlaid it.
20 Then arose she <in the middle of the night> and took my son from beside me, while thy handmaid was sleeping, and laid it in my bosom. 21 And <when I arose in the morning, to give suck to my child> lo! it was dead! but <when I looked at it narrowly in the morning>, lo! it was not my son that I had borne.
22 Then said the other woman—
Nay! but [my son] is the [living] and [thy son] the [dead].
But [this] one kept on saying—
Nay, verily! but [thy son] is the [dead] and [my son] the [living].
Thus spake they before the king. 23 Then said the king,
||The one woman is saying||This is [my son] |the one that liveth| and [thy son] is |the one that is dead|— and [the other] is saying. Nay! but [thy son] is |the dead one|, and [my son] the |living|.
24 And the king said—
Bring me a sword! So they brought a sword before the king.
25 Then said the king,
Divide the living child, in twain, and give half to the one, and half to the other.
26 Then spake the woman whose was the living child unto the king—for tender became her compassions over her son—so she said—Pardon, my lord! Give [her] the living child, and do not kill it. But the other kept on saying—Neither mine, nor thine> shall it be, divide it.
27 Then responded the king, and said—
Give [her] the living child, ye shall not kill it,—she is its mother.
28 And all Israel heard of the judgment which the king had delivered, and they stood in awe before the king,—for they saw, that the wisdom of God was in him, to execute justice.

§ 6. Solomon Shows His Wisdom in the Case of Two Unchaste Women.
16 Then came there in two unchaste women, unto the king,—and stood before him. 17 And the woman said—
Pardon, my lord! 18 And this woman dwelt in one house,—and I gave birth to a child near her, in the house. 19 And it came to pass <the third day after I bore> that [this woman also]...

20 And God gave wisdom unto Solomon, and discernment, and very great largeness of heart,—like the sand that is on the shore of the sea;—so that [the wisdom of Solomon] excelled [the wisdom of all the sons of the East,—and all the wisdom of the Egyptians] so that he was wiser than any man,—than Ethan the Ezrahite, and Heman and Calcol and Darda, sons of Mahol,—and it came to pass that [his name] was throughout all the nations round about. 22 And he spake three thousand proverbs,—and it came to pass that [his songs] were a thousand and five. 23 And he discoursed of trees,—from the cedar that is in Lebanon, even unto the hyssop, that springeth out in the wall,—and he discoursed of beasts and of birds, and of creeping things, and of fishes. 24 And there came in [of all the peoples], to hear the wisdom of Solomon—of all the kings of the earth, who heard his wisdom.

¶ 9. Solomon treats with Hiram King of Tyre for Materials to build a Temple.

1 And Hiram King of Tyre sent his servants unto Solomon, for he had heard that [him] had they anointed king, in the room of his father,—for [Hiram] was [a lover] of [David] continually. 2 So Solomon sent unto Hiram, saying:— 3 Thou knowest David my father, how that he could not build a house unto the Name of Yahweh his God, because of the wars that were about him on every side,—until Yahweh should put them under the soles of his feet;—but now [I Yahweh my God] hath given me rest on every side,—there is neither adversary nor incident of evil.

Behold me then, purposing to build a house for the Name of Yahweh my God,—even as Yahweh spake unto David my father, saying—

"<Thy son, whom I will set in thy stead, upon thy throne, he shall build the house for my Name.>

Now therefore, command thou that they fell me cedars out of Lebanon, and [my servants] shall be [with thy servants], and <the hire of thy servants> will I give thee, according to all that thou shalt say,—for [thou] knowest, that none amongst us hath skill to fell timber, like the Zidonians.

And it came to pass <when Hiram heard the words of Solomon> that he rejoiced greatly,—and said:

"Blessed be Yahweh, to-day, who hath given unto David a wise son, over this great household.

And Hiram sent unto Solomon, saying,

I have heard that which thou hast sent unto me,—<I will do all thy desire, as to timber of cedar and timber of fir>.<

My servants> shall bring them down out of Lebanon unto the sea, and <I will put them> in rafts on the sea, unto the place of which thou shalt send me word, and will cause them to be discharged there, and thou shalt receive them, and thou shalt do my desire, by giving food for my household.

So then Hiram began giving unto Solomon timber of cedar, and timber of fir, even all his desire. And Solomon gave unto Hiram twenty thousand measures of wheat, as food for his household, and twenty measures of beaten oil,—<thus> used Solomon to give unto Hiram year by year.

And <Yahweh> gave wisdom unto Solomon, as he promised him,—and he came to pass that there was peace between Hiram and Solomon, and <they two> solemnised a covenant.

And King Solomon raised a labour-band, out of all Israel,—and it came to pass that the labour-band was thirty thousand men. And he sent them to Lebanon, ten thousand a month, by courses,  were they in Lebanon, <two months> at home,—and Adoniram was over the levy. And it came to pass that Solomon had seventy thousand bearers of burdens,—and eighty thousand hewers in the mountain; besides the chiefs of Solomon's officers, who were over the work, three thousand and three hundred,—who ruled over the people that wrought in the work. And the king commanded, and they quarried great stones, costly stones, to found the house with hewn stones. And Solomon's builders and Hiram's builders with the Gebalites wrought them,—thus made they ready the timber and the stones for building the house.

§ 10. The Temple described and built; also a House for the King. Hiram, a Tyrian Artificer, executes the Work.

And so it came to pass <in the fourth and twentieth year>, by the coming forth of the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt, in the fourth year (in the month of Zif, <the same being the second month>) of the reign of Solomon over Israel, that he began to build the house unto Yahweh. Now the house which King Solomon built unto Yahweh was sixty cubits in length, and twenty in breadth,—and thirty cubits in height. And the porch in front of the temple of the house was twenty cubits in length, according to the breadth of the house,—ten cubits in breadth, up front of the house. And he made to the house windows, with closed bars. And he built—by the wall of the house—a gallery round about, against the walls of the house round about, both to the temple, and to the shrine,—and he made side chambers round about. The lowest gallery was five cubits broad, and the middle six cubits broad, and the third seven cubits broad,—for he put up ledges against the house round about, on the outer side, so as not to make fastenings in the walls of the house. Now <the house, when it was in building>, <with whole quarried stones> was built,—<neither hammer, nor axe, nor any tool> of iron was heard in the house, <when it was in building>. The entrance of the lowest story was on the right side of the house,—and <by winding stairs> went they up unto the middle [story], and <out of the middle> into the third. So he built the house, and finished it,—and closed the house with planks and beams of cedar; and built the gallery against all the house, five cubits in height,—and so fastened the house, with timber of cedar.

Then came the word of Yahweh unto Solomon, saying:

Concerning this house, which thou art building

<If thou wilt walk in my statutes, And my regulations wilt practice, And so observe all my commandments, by walking in them>.

Then will I establish my word with thee, which I spake unto David thy father; and will make my habitation in the midst of the sons of Israel, and will not forsake my people Israel.

13 Thus Solomon built the house, and finished it; and he built the walls of the house on the inside, with boards of cedar, from the floor of the house unto the cross-beams of the ceiling; he overlaid it with wood, on the inside, and he overlaid the floor of the house with boards of fir. And he built twenty cubits, at the hinder part of the house, with boards of cedar, from the floor as far as the cross-beams, and he built it within, for a shrine, even for the holy of holies; but forty cubits was the house itself, the same was the temple, before the oracle. And the cedar for the house within was carved with caryatides, and with festoons of flowers, the whole was cedar, there was no stone to be seen. And the shrine in the midst of the house within made he ready, for placing there the ark of the covenant of Jehovah. And the interior of the shrine was twenty cubits in length, and twenty cubits in breadth, and twenty cubits in height, and he overlaid it with pure gold, and overlaid the altar with gold. Thus did Solomon overlay the house within, with pure gold, and he drew chains of gold across the front of the shrine, and overlaid it with gold; yea all the house overlaid he with gold, until he had made all the house into one whole, even all the altar that was by the shrine overlaid he with gold.

And he made, within the shrine, two cherubim of wild olive wood, ten cubits in height; and five cubits was the one wing of the cherub, and five cubits the second wing of the cherub, ten cubits, from the one end of his wings unto the other end of his wings. Ten cubits also was the second cherub, of one size and one shape were the two cherubim. The height of the one cherub was ten cubits, and so of the second cherub. And he placed the cherubim in the midst of the inner house, and the cherubim stretched forth their wings, so that the wing of the one touched the [one] wall, and the wing of the other cherub, was touching the other wall, and their wings in the midst of the house were touching, wing to wing. And he overlaid the cherubim with gold.

And all the walls of the house round about were carved he with figures of cherubim, and palm-trees, and festoons of flowers, within and without. Even the floor of the house overlaid he with gold, within and without.

And the entrance of the shrine made he with doors of wild olive wood, the pillars and posts being a fifth. The two doors also were of olive-wood, and he carved upon them carvings of cherubim, and palm-trees, and festoons of flowers, and overlaid them with gold, yea he spread out over the cherubim and over the palm-trees the gold. Also he made him for the entrance of the temple, with posts of wild olive-wood, a fourth part. And the two doors were of fir wood, the two leaves of the one door were folding, and the two leaves of the other door were folding. And he carved cherubim, and palm-trees, and festoons of flowers, and overlaid them with gold, smoothed out on the carved work.

And he built the inner court, with three rows of hewn stone, and a row of beams of cedar.

But his own house was Solomon thirteen years in building, so he finished all his house.

Thus he built the house of the forest of Lebanon, a hundred cubits its length thereof, and fifty cubits its breadth thereof, and thirty cubits the height thereof, upon four rows of pillars of cedar, with beams of cedar upon the pillars; and it was covered with cedar above upon the joists, that were on forty-five pillars, fifteen in a row. And there were window spaces in three rows, and light over against light, three times. And all the openings and the posts were square in their frame, and light over against light, three times. And a porch of pillars made he, fifty cubits in length, and thirty cubits in breadth, and a porch was on the one front of them, and pillars and threshold were on the other front of them. And a porch for the throne, where he should judge, even the porch of judgment he made he, and it was wainscotted with cedar, from floor to ceiling. And his own house where he should dwell, in the other court within the porch was of like workmanship unto this, and a house also made he, for the daughter of Pharaoh, whom Solomon had taken to wife, in a similar porch. All these were of costly stones, after the dimensions of hewn stones, sown with saws, within and without, even from the foundation, unto the coping, and without as far as the great court. And the foundation was of costly stones, large stones, stones of ten cubits, and stones of eight cubits.

11 And above were costly stones, after the dimensions of hewn stone, and cedar. And the great court round about was of three rows of hewn stone, and a row of beams of cedar,—both to the inner court of the house of Yahweh, and to the porch of the house.

13 And King Solomon sent and fetched Hiram, out of Tyre: 14 <son of a widow woman> was her of the tribe of Naphtali, but his father was a man of Tyre, a worker in bronze, and he was filled with wisdom, and discernment, and knowledge, for executing all manner of work in bronze; and he came unto King Solomon, and wrought all his work.

15 And he cast two pillars of bronze,—eighteen cubits the height of each pillar, and a line of twelve cubits would surround the second pillar. 16 And [two capitals] made he, to set upon the tops of the pillars, of molten bronze,—five cubits was the height of the one capital, and five cubits the height of the other capital; with a frame of checker work, wreaths of chain work, for the capitals, seven for the one capital, and seven for the other capital. 17 So he made the pillars, and two rows round about upon the one frame of checker work, covering the capitals which were upon the top with pomegranates; thus did he for the other capital. And the capitals which were upon the top of the pillars were of lily work, in a span four cubits.

18 And there were capitals upon the two pillars, that were beside the belly, which was beside the checker work, and there were two hundred pomegranates, in rows round about, upon either capital. So he reared the pillars for the porch of the temple,—yes he reared the right pillar, and called the name thereof Jachin, and the left pillar, and called the name thereof Boaz. And upon the top of the pillars was lily work,—which gave finish to the work of the pillars.

19 And he made a molten sea,—ten cubits from the one brim to the other, it was round all about, and five cubits was the height thereof, and a line of thirty cubits would encompass it round about. And [colocynth] were under the brim thereof round about, encompassing it, ten in a cubit, encircling the sea, round about,—two rows of colocynth, made in the casting thereof: standing upon twelve oxen, three looking northward, and three looking westward, and three looking southward, and three looking eastward, the sea being upon them above,—[all their hinder parts] being inward. And the thickness thereof was a handbreadth, and the brim thereof was like the brim-work of a cup, of lily-blossoms, twocubitsandthousandbaths did it contain.

20 And he made ten stands of bronze,—four cubits the length of each stand, and four cubits the breadth thereof, and three cubits the height thereof. And [this] was the work of the stand, there were [side walls; to them,—and the side walls were between the joining ledges; and upon the side walls which were between the ledges were lions, oxen, and cherubim, and upon the ledges was a pedestal above, and beneath the lions and oxen a wreath of hanging work. And the four wheels of bronze had each stand, with axles of bronze, and the four steps thereof had shoulder-pieces,—under the large was the molten shoulder-pieces, over against each wreath work.

21 And the mouth thereof, within the capital and upwards was a cubit, and the mouth thereof was round, of pedestal work, a cubit and a half,—moreover also upon the mouth thereof were graving, with their side-walls four-square, not round. And four wheels were beneath the side-walls, the axles of the wheels being in the stands,—and the height of each wheel was a cubit and a half: and the work of the wheels was like the work of the chariot-wheel; and their axles, and their felloes, and their spokes, and theirannexes the whole were molten. And there were [four shoulder-pieces] at the four corners of each stand, of the stand itself were the shoulder-pieces thereof. And in the top of the stands, half a cubit in height, was a circular piece round about, and on the top of the stands the tenons thereof, and the side walls thereof were of the same jordan, <upon the plates of the tenons thereof, and upon the side-walls thereof> cherubim, lions, and palm-trees, according to the open space of each with a wreath round about. Thus made he the ten stands,—[one mould, or measure, one shape had they all].

23 Then made he ten lavers of bronze,—<forty baths> would each laver contain; [four cubits was] each laver, <one laver> was on each of the ten stands.

25 And he set the stands, five on the right side of the house, and five on the left side of the house,—but the sea he set on the right side of the house eastward, over against the south.

26 And Hiram made lavers, and shovels, and bowls, and hid, and Hiram ended the doing of all the work which he wrought for King Solomon, for the house of Yahweh: two pillars, and the bowls of the capitals which were upon the top of the two pillars, and the two frames of checker-work, covering the two bowls of the capitals, which were upon the top of the pillars, and the four hundred pomegranates, for the two frames of checker-work,—two rows of pomegranates to each frame, for covering the two bowls of the capitals, which were on the face of the pillars; and the ten stands,—with the ten lavers upon the stands; and the one sea—<with the twelve oxen under the sea; and the pans and the shovels and the toes> bowls, and all these vessels which Hiram made King Solomon, for the house of Yahweh were of burnished bronze. 46 In the circuit of the Jordan did the king cast them, in the clay ground, between Succoth and Zarethan. And Solomon let all the vessels be, because of their exceeding great multitude—the weight of the bronze was not found out. And Solomon made all the vessels* that were in the house of Yahweh,—the altar of gold, and the table of gold, whereon was the presence-bread; 47 and the lamp-holders—five on the right and five on the left, before the shrine, of pure gold,—with the blossoms, and the lamps, and the tongs, of gold; 48 and the bowls, and the snuffers, and the tongs, and the shovels, and the basins of gold, and all the vessels* that were for the sanctuary. 49 So was completed all the work which King Solomon made for the house of Yahweh, and Solomon brought in the hallowed things of David his father—silver, and the gold, and the vessels—he did put in the treasuries of the house of Yahweh.

And hitherto did Solomon call together the elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, and the captains of the fathers of the sons of Israel, unto King Solomon in Jerusalem, that they might bring up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, out of the city of David, where it is, unto Jerusalem, which is the same Solomon brought up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, out of the city of David, unto the temple, which is the seventh month. 2 And all the men of Israel came together unto King Solomon, in the month of steady flowing,* at the feast, 3 so that the same is the seventh month. 4 And all the elders of Israel came in—then the priests took up the ark; 4 and they brought up the ark of Yahweh, and the Tent of Meeting, and all the hallowed vessels that were in the tent, yeas the priests and Levites did bring them up. And King Solomon, and all the assembly of Israel who had assembled themselves unto him, were with him, before the ark, sacrificing sheep and oxen, which could neither be recorded nor counted, for multitude. 6 So the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of Yahweh into its place, into the shrine of the house, into the holy of holies, under the wings of the cherubim. 7 For the cherubim spread forth their two wings, over the ark. 8 And the cherubim made a covering over the ark and over the staves thereof. 9 And they drew out the staves, and the heads of the staves were seen from the holy place, in front of the shrine, although they were not seen on the outside,—and they have remained there until this day. 9 There was nothing in the ark, save the two tables of stone, which Moses deposited there in Horeb,—the tables of the covenant which Yahweh solemnised with the sons of Israel, when they came forth out of the land of Egypt.

10 And so it was when the priests came forth out of the holy place, that a cloud filled the house of Yahweh; 11 so that the priests could not stand ministering, because of the cloud, for its glory filled the house of Yahweh. 12 Then said Solomon,—Yahweh said, that he would make his habitation in thick gloom:

I have built* a house as a high abode for thee,—
A settled place for thee to abide in, for ages.

And the king turned about his face, and blessed all the convocation of Israel,—while all the convocation of Israel was standing; 12 and he said—

Blessed be Yahweh, God of Israel, who spake with his mouth, unto David my father,—that which with his hand he hath fulfilled, saying:—

<Since the day that I brought forth my people Israel out of Egypt> I had chosen no city, out of all the tribes of Israel, for building a house, where my Name might be,—but I have chosen Jerusalem, that my Name should be there,* and I have chosen David, to be over my people Israel.

And so it came to pass, that it was near the heart of David my father,—to build a house for the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel. 16 Then said Yahweh unto David my father,

Because it was near thy heart to build a house for my Name thou didst well that it was near thy heart;

[Only] thou thyself must build the house,—but <thine own son who hath proceeded out of thy loins> [he] shall build the house, for my Name.

So then Yahweh hath established his word which he spake,—and I have been raised up in the room of David my father, and have taken my seat upon the throne of Israel, as spake Yahweh, and have built the house for the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel; 19 and have appointed there a place for the ark, wherein is the covenant of Yahweh,—which he solemnised with our fathers, when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt.

22 And Solomon stood before the altar of Yahweh, in the presence of all the convocation of Israel,— so it shd be (w. Sep.) Cp. 2 Ch. vi. 6—G.n. G. Intro. 174-5.

and spread forth his hands towards the heavens;

28 and said,

29 O Yahweh, God of Israel!

30 Not like thee is there a God, in the heavens above, or upon the earth beneath,—keeping Covenant and Lovingkindness for thy servants who are walking before thee, with all their heart; 31 who hast kept for thy servant David my father, that which thou didst promise him,—in that thou didst promise with thy mouth, and <with thy hand> hast fulfilled, [as it is this day].

32 Now therefore, O Yahweh, God of Israel, keep thou for thy servant David my father, that which thou didst promise him, saying,

33 There shall not be cut off from thee a man from before me, to sit upon the throne of Israel,—if only thy sons take heed to their way, by walking before me, as thou hast walked before me.

34 Now therefore, O God of Israel,—verified be the word, I pray thee, which thou didst speak to thy servant David my father.

35 But <in very deed> will God dwell upon the earth? Lo! <the heaven, yea the heaven of heavens> cannot contain thee, how much less this house which I have built? 36 Yet wilt thou turn unto the prayer of thy servant, and unto his supplication, O Yahweh my God,—to hearken unto the cry, and unto the prayer, wherewith thy servant doth pray before thee to-day; 37 that thine eyes may be opened toward this house, night and day, toward the place of which thou hast said, 38 My Name shall be there; hearing unto the prayer which thy servant shall offer toward this place.

39 Wilt thou, therefore, hearken unto the supplication of thy servant, and of thy people Israel, whencesoever they shall pray toward this place,—yea wilt <thou thyself> hear, in thine own dwelling-place, in the heavens, and <when thou hearest> then wilt thou forgive?

40 When a man shall sin against his neighbour, and there shall be taken up against him an oath, to put him on oath,—and he shall come in and swear< before thine altar, in this house> then wilt <thou thyself> hear in the heavens, and act, and judge thy servants, condemning the lawless, by setting his way upon his own head,—and justifying the righteous, by giving to him, according to his righteousness?

41 When thy people Israel are smitten before an enemy, because they have been sinning against thee,—and they turn again unto thee, and confess thy Name, and pray and make supplication unto thee, in this house>

42 then wilt <thou thyself> hear in the heavens, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel, and bring them back unto the soil, which thou gavest unto their fathers?

43 When the heavens are shut up, and there is no rain, because they have been sinning against thee,—and they shall pray toward this place, and confess thy Name, and <from their sin> shall return, because thou hast been afflicting them> then wilt <thou thyself> hear in the heavens, and forgive the sin of thy servants, and of thy people Israel, that thou mayest teach them the good way, wherein they should walk,—and give rain upon thy land, which thou hast given unto thy people, for an inheritance?

44 When there shall be <famine> in the land, when there shall be <pestilence>, when there shall be <blasting>, <mildew>, <locust>, <caterpillar>, when the enemy shall besiege in one of <their own gates>, whatsoever plague, whatsoever <sickness>; any prayer, any <supplication> which <any> son of <earth> may have, of all thy people Israel,—who will certainly know every man the plague of his own heart, and so shall they spread abroad his hands toward this house> then wilt <thou thyself> hear in the heavens, in the settled place of thine abode, and forgive and act, and give unto every man according to all his ways, whose heart thou wilt know,—for <thou thyself alone> knowest the heart of all the sons of men; 45 to the end they may revere thee, all the days which they do live, upon the face of the soil,—which thou gavest unto our fathers?

46Moreover also< unto the stranger, who is not of thy people Israel,—but hath come in out of a far country, for the sake of thy Name,—for they will certainly hear of thy great Name, and of thy strong hand, and of thy stretched-out arm,—and so will come in and pray towards this house>

47 wilt <thou thyself> hear in the heavens, in the settled place of thine abode, and act, according to all for which <the stranger> shall cry unto thee,—to the end that all the peoples of the earth may truly know thy Name, so as to revere thee, like thy people Israel, and to know that <thine own Name> hath been given unto this house, which I have built?

48 When thy people Israel go forth to war against their enemy, and whithersoever thou mayest send them, and shall pray unto Yahweh, in the direction of the city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy Name> then wilt thou hear, in the heavens, their prayer and their supplication, and maintain their cause.

<When they sin against thee—where there is no son of earth—that sinneth not, and thou shalt be angry with them, and deliver them up before an enemy—who shall carry them away as their captives, into the land of the enemy, far or near; and they come back to their right mind, in the land whither they have been taken captive, and so turn and make supplication unto thee, in the land of their captors, saying,

We have sinned and done perversely, we have been lawless; and so they turn unto thee with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their enemies, who have carried them away captive, and pray unto thee in the direction of their own land, which thou gavest unto their fathers, the city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy Name> then wilt thou hearken in the heavens, the settled place of thine abode, unto their prayer, and unto their supplication, and maintain their cause; and grant forgiveness to thy people, who have sinned against thee, even as to all their transgressions wherein they have transgressed against thee, and grant them compassion before their captors, so that they may have compassion upon them; because thy people and thine inheritance are they, whom thou didst bring forth out of Egypt, out of the midst of the smelting-pot of iron; that thine eyes may be open unto the supplication of thy servant, and unto the supplication of thy people Israel, to hearken unto them, in all their crying unto thee; because thou thyself didst separate them unto thee, for an inheritance, out of all the peoples of the earth, as thou spakest by the hand of Moses thy servant, when thou broughtest forth our fathers out of Egypt, O Lord Yahweh.

And it came to pass when Solomon had made an end of praying unto Yahweh all this prayer and supplication, that he arose from before the altar of Yahweh, from kneeling on his knees, with his hands outspread to the heavens; and stood and blessed all the congregation of Israel, with a loud voice, saying:

Blessed be Yahweh, who hath given rest unto his people Israel, according to all that he promised, there hath not failed one word of all his good promise, which he promised by the hand of Moses his servant.

Yahweh our God be with us, as he was with our fathers, let him not leave us, nor forsake us; but bow our hearts unto himself, to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and his statutes, and his regulations, which he commanded our fathers.

And let these my words, wherewith I have made supplication before Yahweh, be near unto Yahweh our God, day and night, that he may maintain the cause of his servant, and the cause of his people Israel, as any need ariseth.

To the end that all the peoples of the earth may know, that Yahweh is God; if there is none else.

So shall your heart be sound with Yahweh our God, to walk in his statutes, and to keep his commandments, as at this day.

And the king, and all Israel with him, were offering sacrifice before Yahweh. So Solomon offered as a sacrifice peace-offerings, which he offered unto Yahweh:

Oxen, two and twenty thousand, and Sheep, a hundred and twenty thousand.

Thus did the king and all the sons of Israel dedicate the house of Yahweh:

<On that day> did the king hallow the middle of the court, that was before the house of Yahweh, for he offered there the ascending-sacrifice, and the meal-offering, and the fat portions of the peace-offerings, because the altar of bronze that was before Yahweh was too small to receive the ascending-sacrifice and the meal-offering, and the fat portions of the peace-offerings.

And Solomon made that time a festival, and all Israel with him—a great convocation, from the entering in of Hamath unto the ravine of Egypt, before Yahweh our God, seven days and seven days, fourteen days.

<And on the eighth day> he sent the people away, and they blessed the king, and departed to their homes rejoicing and glad of heart, over all the goodness which Yahweh had done for David his servant, and for Israel his people.

And it came to pass when Solomon had made an end of building the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king, and everything that Solomon desired, which he was pleased to make, then appeared Yahweh unto Solomon, a second time, —as he appeared unto him, in Gibeon. And Yahweh said unto him—

I have heard thy prayer and thy supplication, wherein thou hast made supplication before me, I have hallowed this house, which thou hast built, to put my Name there unto times age-abiding, and mine eyes and my heart shall be there, continually.

4 As for thee, therefore, if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked, with a whole heart and with uprightness, to do according to all that I have commanded thee, and keep my statutes and my regulations, I will establish the throne of thy kingdom over Israel, unto times age-abiding, as I promised unto David thy father, saying,

There shall not be cut off from thee a man on the throne of Israel.

6 If ye turn back unto me, and keep my commandments, and my statutes, which I have set before you, but depart and serve other gods, and bow yourselves down to them, then will I cut off Israel, from the face of the soil, which I have given unto them, and the house which I have hallowed for my Name will I suffer to be carried away from before me, and Israel shall become a byword and a mockery among all the peoples; and this house which hath been renowned shall be desolate, every one that passeth by it shall be astonished and shall whistle, and men shall say—

For what cause hath Yahweh done thus unto this land, and unto this house?

And men will answer—

Because they forsook Yahweh their God, who brought forth their fathers out of the land of Egypt, and laid hold of other gods, and bowed themselves down to them, and served them (for this cause) hath Yahweh brought in upon them all this ruin.

§ 12. King Hiram dissatisfied with his cities.

And it came to pass at the end of twenty years, when Solomon had built the two houses, the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king; 11 Hiram king of Tyre having supplied Solomon with timber of cedar, and with timber of fir, 12 and with gold, according to all his desire; that Hiram gave unto Solomon twenty cities in the land of Galilee. 13 And Hiram came out from Tyre to view the cities which Solomon had given him, and they were not pleasing in his eyes. So he said—

What cities are these which thou hast given me, my brother?

And he called them, Unfruitful Land, as they are called unto this day. 14 Now Hiram had sent to the king, a hundred and twenty talents of gold.

Now the following is an account of the taxes which King Solomon raised, for building the house of Yahweh and his own house, and Millo, and the wall of Jerusalem, and Hazor and Megiddo, and Gezer. 16 Pharaoh king of Egypt had gone up, and captured Gezer, and burned it with fire, the Canaanites also who were dwelling in the city, had he slain, and had given it as a dowry, to his daughter, wife of Solomon. 17 So then Solomon built Gezer, and Beth-horon, the nether, and Baalath and The- mor in the wilderness, 18 and the store cities, which Solomon had, and the cities for chariots, and the cities for horsemen, and the desire of Solomon that he was pleasant, built in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon, and in all the land that he ruled over. 19 All the people that were left of the Amorites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites, who were not of the sons of Israel; 20 the sons, who were left after them in the land, whom the sons of Israel were not able to drive to destruction: Solomon levied them for toil and labour-band, which remained unto this day. But of the sons of Israel, Solomon devoted none to bondservice, but they were men of war, and his servants, and his general and his heroes, and captains of his chariots, and his horsemen.

These were the chiefs of the officers, who were over the work, for Solomon, five hundred and fifty, 24 who ruled over the people that wrought in the work. 24 So Scarely had Pharaoh daughter come out of the city of David, into her own house, which he had built for her, when he built Millo.

And Solomon used to offer, three times a year, ascending-sacrifices and peace-offerings, upon the altar which he had built unto Yahweh, and to offer incense at the altar which was before Yahweh, thus Solomon gave completeness unto the house.

26 A fleet also did King Solomon build at Ezion-geber, which is beside Elath on the coast of the Red Sea, in the land of Edom. 27 And Hiram sent in the flit his servants, seamen having knowledge of the sea, with the servants of Solomon; and they came to Ophir, and...
§ 14. Visit of the Queen of Sheba.

And when the queen of Sheba heard the report of Solomon, as pertaining to the Name of Yahweh, she came to prove him with abstruse questions. She came to Jerusalem with a very heavily-laden train, of camels bearing spices, and gold in great abundance, and precious stones, and when she was come to Solomon, he spoke unto him all that was near her heart; and Solomon answered all her questions, and there was nothing hidden from the king, which he told her not. And when the queen of Sheba had seen all the wisdom of Solomon, and the house which he had built, and the food of his table, and the seated assembly of his servants, and the attendance of his ministers with their apparel, and his cupbearers, and his fans, and as he ascended out of the house of Yahweh, there was in her no more spirit. And she said unto the king,

"True" was the word which I heard in mine own land, concerning thine affairs, and concerning thy wisdom. Howbeit I believed not the words, until that I came and mine own eyes had seen, and lo! there had not been told me half the half; thou hast exceeded in wisdom and prosperity, even the report which I heard. And how happy are thy wives! And how happy are these thy servants, who do stand before thee continually, who hear thy wisdom!

Yahweh thy God be blessed, who delighted in thee, to set thee upon the throne of Israel; because Yahweh loveth Israel unto time age-abiding; therefore hath he appointed thee to be king, to execute justice and righteousness, and she gave unto the king a hundred and twenty talents of gold, and spices in great abundance, and precious stones, there came no more such spice for abundance, as that which the queen of Sheba gave unto King Solomon.

Moreover also the fleet of Hiram, which bought gold from Ophir, brought in, from ophir sandal-wood in great abundance, and precious stones. So the king made of the sandal-wood a footpath to the house of Yahweh, and to the house of the king, lyres also and pipes for the singers, there hath neither come such sandal-wood, nor been seen, unto this day. And the queen of Sheba, all her desire, which she asked besides that which he gave her as the bounty of King Solomon; she turned, and went to her own land, and her servants.

§ 15. Various Material Tokens of Solomon's Greatness.

And it came to pass that the weight of the gold which came in unto Solomon in one year was six hundred and sixty-six talents of gold; besides the tribute of the subjunctive, and of the travelling merchants, and of all the kings of Arabia, and the pasha of the land. And King Solomon made two hundred shields of beaten gold, of six hundred shekels of gold, he laid he upon one shield; and three hundred bucklers, of beaten gold, one hundred and fifty shekels of gold, he laid he upon one buckler. And the king put them in the house of the forest of Lebanon. And the king made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it with gold from Ophir. There were six steps to the throne, and there was a circular top to the throne, behind it, and there were supports on this side and on that, unto the place of the seat, with two lions standing beside the supports; and twelve lions were standing there, upon the six steps, on this side and on that; there had never been made the like, for any of the kingdoms.

And all the drinking vessels of King Solomon were of gold, and all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon were of pure gold, none was of silver, it was accounted in the days of Solomon as nothing. For a fleet of Tarshish had the king, at sea, with the fleet of Hiram, once in three years, came in the fleet of Tarshish, bringing gold and silver, ivory and apes, and peacocks.

So King Solomon became greater than any of the kings of the earth, for riches and for wisdom. And all the earth did seek the face of Solomon, to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart. And they did bring every man his present—vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and garments, and armour, and spices, horses and mules, a rate of a year in a year. And Solomon gathered together chariots and horsemen, and so it was that he had a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen, for whom he found place in the chariot cities, and near the king in Jerusalem.

And the king caused silver in Jerusalem to be as stones, caused he to be as the sycamores that are in the lowlands, for abundance. And the horses that Solomon had were an export out of Egypt, and a company of the merchants of the king used to fetch it, and it drove at a price. And a chariot came up and forth out of Egypt, for six hundred shekels of silver and a horse for a hundred and fifty,-and [so] for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Syria, <by their means>- came they forth.

§ 16. Solomon's Foreign Wives seduce him into Idolatry; for which cause Yahweh declares his anger and raises up enemies; one of whom, Jeroboam, is commissioned to reign over Ten Tribes. Solomon's Death.

11 But [King Solomon] loved many foreign women, together with the daughter of Pharaoh,—women of the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonians, Hittites: 2 out of the nations concerning whom Yahweh had said unto the sons of Israel—

Ye shall not go in unto them, and [they] shall not come in unto you; surely they will turn aside your heart after their gods.

<Unto these> did Solomon cleave in love. 2 So it came to pass that he had seven hundred wives who were princesses, and three hundred concubines,—and [his wives] turned aside [his heart]. 4 Yea it came to pass <in the old age of Solomon> that [his wives] turned aside his heart after other gods,—his heart therefore was not sound with Yahweh his God, [as was the heart of David his father]. 5 And Solomon went after Ashtoreth, goddess of the Zidonians, and after Milcom the abomination of the Ammonites. Thus Solomon did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and went not fully after Yahweh, as did David his father.

7 Then did Solomon build a high place for Chemosh in Moab, in the hill that is before Jerusalem,—and for Molech, the abomination of the sons of Ammon; 8 and [thus] did he for all his foreign wives,—who burned incense and offered sacrifices unto their gods.

Therefore did Yahweh shew himself angry with Solomon,—because his heart had turned aside from Yahweh God of Israel [who had appeared unto him twice]; 9 and had been giving command to him concerning this thing, that he should not go away after other gods,—but he had not taken heed unto that which Yahweh had commanded.

11 Wherefore Yahweh said unto Solomon—

<Forasmuch as this hast come to pass with thee, and thou hast not heeded my covenant and my statutes, which I charged upon thee> I will rend the kingdom away from thee, and will give it unto a servant of thine.

Notwithstanding [in thine own days] will I not do it, for the sake of David thy father, —<out of the hand of thy son> will I rend it.

14 [Howbeit] <all the kingdom> will I rend away, <one tribe> will I give unto thy son,—<for the sake of David my servant> and for the sake of Jerusalem, which I have chosen.

14 And Yahweh raised up an adversary against Solomon, Hadad the Edomite,—<of the seed of the king> was he, in Edom. 15 And it came to pass <when David was dealing with Edom> that Joab and Joseph of the army went up toTelem and smote the Edomites, and had smitten every male in Edom. 16 for [six months] did Joab remain there with all Israel, —until he had cut off every man in Edom> that Hadad fled, [he and certain men of Edom] the servants of his father, with him, to go into Egypt,—<Hadad being a little boy>. 18 So they arose out of Midian, and came into Paran,—and took certain men with them out of Paran, and came into Egypt, until the Pharaoh king of Egypt, who gave him a house and [food] appointed him, and [land] did give unto him. 19 And Hadad found great favour in the eyes of the Pharaoh,—so that he gave him to wife, the sister of his own wife, the sister of Tahpenes the queen. 20 And the sister of Tahpenes bare to him Genubath his son, and Tahpenes weaned him, in the house of Pharaoh,—and so it came about, the Genubath was of the household of Pharaoh among the sons of Pharaoh. 21 And [Hadad] heard in Egypt, that David slept with his fathers, and that Joab general of the army was dead> Hadad said unto Pharaoh, Let me go, that I may take my journey unto mine own land.

22 Then said Pharaoh unto him—

But what hast thou been lacking with me in Egypt? that lo! thou art seeking to take thy journey unto thine own land?

And he said—

Nothing, howbeit [let me go].

23 And God raised up against him an adversary Rezon son of Eliada,—who had fled from Hadadezer king of Zobah, his lord; 24 and gathered unto him men, and became captain of a band when David slew them [of Zobah],—they went they to Damascus, and dwelt therein, and reigned in Damascus. 25 Thus became he an adversary unto Israel, all the days of Solomon 26 this [was] the mischief which Hadad did,—sooth he abhorred Israel, when he reigned over Syria.

28 <Jeroboam also, son of Nebat, an Ephrahite from Zeredah, whose mother's name was Zeruia a widow woman, he being servant to Solomon, lifted up a hand against the king. And thus was the cause that he lifted up a hand against the king,—[Solomon] built Millo, he closed the breach of the city of David his father. 29 Now [the man Jeroboam] <by being an ace> man>, Solomon observed his servant, that he was one to execute a work<sup>a</sup>, so he gave him oversight of all the charge of the house of Joseph. And it came to pass at that time, when Jeroboam went forth out of Jerusalem> that there met him Ahijah the shilonite, the prophet, in the way, who having wrapped himself about with a new mantle<sup>b</sup>; and they two were by themselves in the field. Then Ahijah laid hold of the new mantle, that was upon him,—and rent it into twelve pieces; and said to Jeroboam, Take thee ten pieces,—for Thus saith Yahweh, God of Israel—Behold me! about to rend the kingdom out of the hand of Solomon, and I will give unto thee ten tribes: Howbeit one tribe shall he retain,—for the sake of my servant David, and for the sake of Jerusalem, the city that I have chosen, out of all the tribes of Israel: Because they have forsaken me, and bowed themselves down to Ashthoret, goddess of the Zidonians, to Chemosh, god of the Moabites, and to Milcom, god of the sons of Ammon,—and have not walked in my ways, by doing what is right in mine eyes, even my statutes and my regulations, like David his father. Yet will I not take all the kingdom out of his hand,—but will suffer him to be leader all the days of his life, for the sake of David my servant, whom I chose,—who kept my commandments and my statutes. But I will take the kingdom out of the hand of his son,—and will give it to thee, even the ten tribes. Nevertheless to his son will I give one tribe,—to the end there may remain a lamp unto David my servant always before me, in Jerusalem, the city that I have chosen for myself, to put my Name there. But will I take, and thou shalt reign over all that thy soul could desire,—and thou shalt be king over Israel. So shall it be if thou wilt hearken unto all that I shall command thee, and wilt walk in my ways, and do that which is right in mine eyes, by keeping my statutes and my commandments, as did David my servant; then will I be with thee, and will build thee an assured house, as I have built for David, and will give unto thee Israel. Thus will I humiliate the seed of David, because of this; yet not for ever.<sup>b</sup> When therefore Solomon sought to put Jeroboam to death> Jeroboam arose and fled into Egypt, unto Shishak king of Egypt,—and remained in Egypt, until the death of Solomon. Now the rest of the story of Solomon, and all that he did, and his wisdom> are they not written in the book of the records of Solomon? <sup>2</sup> Now the days which Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel were forty years. So then Solomon slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David his father,—and Rehoboam his son reigned in his stead.

§ 17. Rehoboam reigns instead of Solomon, and loses the Ten Tribes.

1 And Rehoboam went to Shechem,—for Shechem had all Israel come to make him king. And it came to pass when Jeroboam son of Nebat heard of it—he being yet in Egypt, whither he had fled from the face of Solomon the king,—<sup>3</sup> that Jeroboam returned from Egypt; <sup>4</sup> yea they sent, and called him, and Jeroboam and all the convocation of Israel came,—and spake unto Rehoboam, saying:

Thy father made our yoke grievous,—now therefore, do thou lighten the grievous service of thy father, and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, that we may serve thee.

And he said unto them—Depart ye for yet three days, and then come again unto me. And the people departed. Then King Rehoboam consulted the elders who used to stand before Solomon his father, while he yet lived, saying,—How do ye advise, that I answer this people?

And they spake unto him, saying—If thou wilt be servant unto this people, and wilt serve them,—and answer them kindly, and speak unto them good words> then will they be thy servants, always.<sup>a</sup>

But he declined the counsel of the elders which they gave him, and consulted with the young men, who had grown up with him, who were standing before himself; <sup>b</sup> and said unto them—What counsel do ye give as to how we shall answer this people who have spoken unto me, saying—Make a lightening of the yoke which thy father put upon us?

Then spake unto him the young men who had grown up with him, saying,—Thus shalt thou say to this people that have spoken unto thee, saying—Thy father made our yoke heavy, thou therefore, lighten it upon us, Thus shalt thou speak unto them, My little finger is thicker than my father's loins;

Now therefore, whereas my father<sup>c</sup> laid upon you a heavy yoke> I will add to your yoke,—

13 So Jeroboam and all the people came in unto Rehoboam, on the third day,—as the king had hidden, saying—
Come again unto me, on the third day.
13 And the king answered the people, harshly,—and declined the counsel of the elders wherewith they had counselled him; 14 and spake unto them after the counsel of the young men, saying,
My father made your yoke heavy,
But || I || will add unto your yoke.—
My father chastised you with whips,||
But || I || will chastise you with scorpions.||

15 Thus the king hearkened not unto the people,—for there had come about a turn from Yahweh, that he might establish his word, which Yahweh had spoken by Ahijah the Shilonite, unto Jeroboam, son of Nebat. 16 So when all Israel saw that the king hearkened not unto them, the people answered the king, saying—
What portion have we in [David],
Or inheritance in the son of Jesse?
To your house! O Israel!
Now see to thine own house, O David!

And Israel departed to their houses. 17 But as for the sons of Israel who were dwelling in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them.
Then King Rehoboam sent Adoniram* who was over the tribute, but all Israel stoned him with stones, that he died,—[King Rehoboam] therefore, hastily mounted his chariot, to flee unto Jerusalem.
So Israel rebelled against the house of David,—unto this day.

And it came to pass when all Israel heard that Jeroboam had returned, that they sent and called him into the assembly, and made him king over all Israel,—there were none that followed the house of David, [saving the tribe of Judah only].

And when Rehoboam entered Jerusalem, he called together all the house of Judah and the tribe of Benjamin—a hundred and eighty thousand chosen men, able to make war,—to fight against the house of Israel, to bring back the kingdom to Rehoboam, son of Solomon.
Then came the word of God unto Shemaiah, the man of God, saying:
Speak unto Rehoboam, son of Solomon, king of Judah, and unto all the house of Judah, and Benjamin,—and the remnant of the people, saying:

Thus saith Yahweh—
Ye shall not go up, neither shall ye fight with your brethren the sons of Israel,—return ye every man to his own house, for <from me> hath this thing been brought about.
So they hearkened unto the word of Yahweh, and turned back to depart, according to the word of Yahweh.

§ 18. Jeroboam, partly from Motives of Policy, leads Israel into Idolatry, which a Prophet out of Judah rebukes, and then comes to a tragic End.

Then Jeroboam built Shechem, in the hill country of Ephraim, and dwelt therein,—and went forth from thence, and built Penuel.
And Jeroboam said in his heart,—
Now shall the kingdom return to the house of David:
If this people go up to offer sacrifices in the house of Yahweh, in Jerusalem,—then will the heart of this people return unto their lord, unto Rehoboam, king of Judah,—and they will slay me, and return unto Rehoboam, king of Judah.
Whereupon the king took counsel, and made two calves of gold,—and said unto them—
It is too much for you! to go up to Jerusalem,
Lo! thy gods, O Israel, that brought thee up out of the land of Egypt;
And he set the one in Bethel,—and the other he put in Dan. 30 And this thing became a sin,—and the people went before the one, as far as Dan. 31 And he made a house of high-places,—and made priests from the whole compass of the people, who were not of the sons of Levi.
And Jeroboam made a festival in the eighth month, on the fifteenth day of the month, like the festival which [was held] in Judah, and offered up on the altar, likewise did he in Bethel, sacrificing to the calves which he had made,—and he kept in attendance* in Bethel, the priests of the high-places which he had made. 32 And he offered up on the altar which he had made in Bethel, on the fifteenth day of the eighth month, in the month which he had devised out of his own heart,—thus made he a festival for the sons of Israel, and offered up on the altar, to make a perfume.

And lo! a man of God came in out of Judah, by the word of Yahweh, unto Bethel,—|| and Jeroboam was standing by the altar, to make a perfume.|| 2 And he made proclamation against the altar, by the word of Yahweh, and said,
O altar! altar!
Thus saith Yahweh,—
Lo! a son to be born unto the house of David, [Josiah] the name, who shall read: "out of his own heart"—G.n.

sacrifice upon thee the priests of the high-places, who are making a perfume upon thee, and human bones shall be burned upon thee; and he shall give, on that day, a sign, saying, "This is the sign of which Yahweh hath spoken."

Lo! [the altar] is to be rent, and the ashes that are upon thee shall be poured out!"

And it came to pass when the king heard the word of the man of God which he proclaimed against the altar in Bethel, Jeroboam thrust forth his hand, from off the altar, saying—

Lay hold of him! and his hand which he had thrust forth against him was dried up, that he could not draw it back to him. Moreover [the altar] was rent, and the ashes poured out from the altar, according to the sign which the man of God gave, by the word of Yahweh. Then responded the king and said unto the man of God—

"Appeare, I pray thee, the face of Yahweh thy God, and pray for me, that my hand may be restored unto me.

"The man of God appeared the face of Yahweh, and the hand of the king was restored unto him, and became as atontime. Then the king unto the man of God, Come home with me, and refresh thyself, and let me give thee a present.

"But the man of God said unto the king—

"If thou wouldst give me the half of thy house, I would not go in with thee, neither would I eat bread or drink water, in this place; for the word of Yahweh, saying, Thou shalt not eat bread, nor shalt thou drink water, neither shalt thou come back by the way thou wentest.

"So he departed another way, and went not back by the way which he came unto Bethel. But [a certain aged prophet] was dwelling in Bethel, whose sons came in and related to him all the deeds which the man of God had done that day in Bethel, and the words which he had spoken unto the king, and they related them to their father. And their father said unto them, Which way then went he? Now his sons had seen the way which the man of God went, who had come out of Judah. So he said unto his sons, Saddle for me, the ass. And they saddled for him the ass, and he rode thereon; and after the man of God, and went and said unto him, sitting under an oak. And he said unto him—"Art thou the man of God who came in out of Judah?

It shall be (w. Sep., VUL.)—G.N. So it shall be (w. Syr. and VUL.)—G.N.

And he said—

I am.

Then said he unto him, Come home with me,—and eat bread.

And he said—

I may not return with thee, nor go in with thee,—neither will I eat bread or drink water with thee, in this place; for there came a message unto me by the word of Yahweh,

"Thou shalt neither eat bread, nor drink water there,—thou shalt not turn back to come by the way by which thou wentest."

And he said to him—

"I also am a prophet, like unto thee, and a messenger hath spoken unto me, by the word of Yahweh, saying—

Bring him back with thee, into thy house, that he may eat bread, and drink water. He deceived him. So he went back with him, and did eat bread in his house, and drank water.

And so it was as [they] were sitting at the table; yes [so it was], that the word of Yahweh came unto the prophet who had brought him back; and he cried out unto the man of God who had come in out of Judah, saying,

"Thus saith Yahweh,—

"Forasmuch as thou hast rebelled against the bidding of Yahweh, and hast not kept the commandment which Yahweh thy God commanded thee; but hast returned, and eaten bread and drunk water, in the place of which he said unto thee,

Thou mayest neither eat bread nor drink water:

thy dead body shall not enter the burying-place of thy fathers.

And it came to pass after he had eaten bread, and after he had drunk, that he saddled for him the ass, for the prophet whom he had brought back. And when he had gone, there met him a lion by the way, and slew him, and his dead body was cast out in the way, and [the ass] was standing near it, and [the lion] was standing near the dead body.

And lo! [certain men, passing by] saw the dead body, cast out in the way, and the lion standing near the dead body,—so they came in, and spake [of it] in the city, wherein [the aged prophet dwelt. And when the prophet who had brought him back from the way's] of it he said—

"The man of God it is, who rebelled against the bidding of Yahweh, therefore did Yahweh deliver him unto the lion, and it hath torn him and slain him, according to the word of Yahweh which he spoke unto him."

And he spake unto his sons, saying,

"Saddle for me the ass.

And they saddled it. So he went and found his dead body, cast out in the way, with [the ass and the lion] standing near the dead body,—the lion had neither eaten the dead body, nor had it torn the ass. 29 And the prophet took up the dead body of the man of God, and laid it upon the ass, and brought it back,—and the aged prophet came into the city, to make lamentation, and to bury him.

30 And he laid his dead body in his own grave,— and they lamented over him [saying]—
Alas, my brother!
31 And it came to pass [after he had buried him] that he spake unto his sons, saying, <When I die> then shall ye bury me in the grave wherein the man of God is buried;
beside his bones] lay my bones:
For the message which he proclaimed, by the word of Yahweh, against the altar which is in Bethel,—and against all the houses of the high places which are in the cities of Samaria. 33 After this thing Jeroboam turned not from his wicked way,—but again made [from the whole compass of the people] priests of high places, whomsoever he would he installed, and he became priest of high places. 34 And so this thing became the sin of the house of Jeroboam,—that it should be both taken away and destroyed, from off the face of the ground.

§ 19. Jeroboam, sending his Wife to the Prophet Ahijah, at Shiloh, in behalf of their Sick Son, is severely rebuked; dies, and is succeeded by Nadab his Son.

14 1 [At that time] fell sick, Abijah son of Jeroboam. 2
Then said Jeroboam to his wife—
Arise, I pray thee, and feign thyself another, that it be not known, that thou art the wife of Jeroboam,—and thou shalt go thy way to Shiloh, to [the Lord] Ahijah the prophet, who promised I shall be king over this people; 2 and thou shalt take with thee ten loaves, and cracknels, and a bottle of honey, and shalt go unto him,—that he will tell thee what shall befall the young man.

4 And the wife of Jeroboam did so, and arose, and went to Shiloh, and entered the house of Ahijah,—now [Ahijah] could not see, for his eyes were fixed by reason of his old age. 5 But [Yahweh had said unto Ahijah—
Lo! the wife of Jeroboam] coming to enquire something of thee, concerning her son, for he is sick [thus and so] shalt thou speak unto her,—though [when she cometh in> she feign to be a stranger-woman.

6 So it came to pass [when Ahijah heard the sound of her feet, as she entered the doorway] that he said—
Come in, thou wife of Jeroboam,—wherefore [is it] that thou art feigning to be a stranger-woman, seeing that [I] sent unto thee, with something hard to bear? 7 Go, say to Jeroboam—
[Thus] saith Yahweh, God of Israel, [Forsworn much as I exalted thee out of the midst of the people,—and gave thee to be leader over my people Israel; and rent the kingdom away from the house of David, and gave it to thee,—and yet thou hast not been like my servant
David, who kept my commandments, and who followed me, with all his heart to do only that which was right in my eyes; but hast made wicked things doings beyond any who were before thee,—and hast gone and made the other gods, even molten images, to voice me to anger, and hast cast [me] behind thy back> [therefore] I will hold me! bringing misfortune against the house of Jeroboam, and I will shut off the meanest pertaining to Jeroboam, whether shut up or left at large,
Israel,—and will consume after the house of Jeroboam, as one consumes dung, till it be all gone:

8 [Him that dieth in Jeroboam in the city] shall [the dogs] eat,
And [him that dieth in the field] shall [the birds of heaven] eat,—
For [Yahweh] hath spoken.

9 [Thou therefore, arise, go to thine own house]— as thy feet are entering the city> that young man shall die.

10 Then shall all Israel lament for him, and bury him, for [this one, pertaining to Jeroboam, shall reach a burying-place,—because the hath been found in him something good toward Yahweh, God of Israel, in the house of Jeroboam.

11 Therefore will Yahweh raise up for himself a king over Israel, who will cut off the house of Jeroboam, this day, but what [even now]? *

12 Therefore will Yahweh smite Israel, as a reed shaken in water, and will root out Israel, from off this goodly soil, which they gave unto their fathers, and will scatter them beyond the River (Euphrates),—be cause they have made their Sacred Steer provoking Yahweh to anger:

13 That he may deliver up Israel,—on account of the sin of Jeroboam, which he com-mittcd, and which he caused [Israel] to commit.

14 Then arose the wife of Jeroboam, and went her way and entered Tirzah, as [she] was coming into the entrance hall> the young man died. 15 And <when they buried him> all Israel lamented him,—according to the words

Yahweh, which he spake through his servant Abijah the prophet. Now <the rest of the story of Jeroboam, how he warred, and how he reigned> behold them! written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel. 20 And the days which Rebhoboam reigned were twenty-two years; and he slept with his fathers, and Nadab his son reigned in his stead.

70. The Story of Rehoboam's Reign resumed.

And Rehoboam, son of Solomon, reigned in Judah, forty-one years old, was Rehoboam when he began to reign, and seventeen years gained he in Jerusalem, the city which Yahweh had chosen to put His name there, out of all the tribes of Israel, and His mother's name was Naamah, the Ammoniteess.

And Judah did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, and provoked him to jealousy above all that their fathers had done, with their sins which they committed. 42 And they also built for themselves high places and images, and Sacred Stems,—upon every high hill, and under every green tree. 43 Moreover so there were male devotees in the land, they did according to all the abominable actions of the nations, which Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel.

And it came to pass in the fifth year of King Rehoboam > that Shishak king of Egypt, came against Jerusalem; 43 and took away the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the house of the king, yes, the whole took he away, and took away all the bucklers of gold, which Solomon had made. 44 King Rehoboam made, in their stead, bucklers of bronze, and committed them unto the hand of the captains of the runners, who kept guard at the entrance of the house of the king, and so it was <whenever the king went into the house of Yahweh> the runners bare them, and then brought them back into the chamber of the runners.

Now <the rest of the story of Rehoboam, all that he did> are not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. 45 And there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam, continually. 46 So then Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David, and his mother's name was Naamah the Ammoniteess, and Abijah his son reigned in his stead.

21. Abijah (a bad King) reigns over Judah.

Now <the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam son of Nebat> began Abijah to reign over Judah. 2 Three years reign he in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother was Maachah, daughter of Abishalom. 3 And he walked in all the sins of his father which he had done before him, and his heart was not blameless with Yahweh his God, like the heart of David his father. 4 But for the sake of David did Yahweh his God give him a lamp, in Jerusalem, by raising up a son of his after him, and by suffering Jerusalem to stand; because David did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, and turned not aside from anything that he commanded him, all the days of his life; save only in the matter of Uriah the Hittite. 5 And there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam, all the days of his life.

§ 22. Asa (a good King) reigns over Judah.

Now <in the twentieth year of Jeroboam king of Israel> began Asa, to reign as king of Judah; 7 and in forty-one years reigned he in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother was Maachah, daughter of Abishalom. 8 And Asa did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, like David his father; 9 and he put away the male devotees out of the land, and removed all the idols that his fathers had made. 10 Moreover also <even Maachah his mother> he removed from being queen, because she had made a monstrous thing to the Sacred Stem, and Asa cut down her monstrous thing and burned it in the Kidron ravine. 11 But in the high places removed he not, nevertheless the heart of Asa was blameless with Yahweh all his days. 12 And he brought in the hallowed things of his father, and his own hallowed things, into the house of Yahweh, silver and gold, and vessels.

13 And there was war between Asa and Baasha, king of Israel, all their days. 14 And Baasha king of Israel came up against Judah, and built Ramah, so as not to suffer any one to come out or go in unto Asa king of Judah. 15 So Asa took all the silver and the gold, that were left in the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the house of the king, and delivered them into the hand of his servants, and King Asa sent them unto Ben-hadad, son of Tabrimmon, son of...
Hezion, king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus,
saying:
[Let there be a] covenant between me and thee, [as] between* my father and thy father:
Lo! I have sent thee a gift, silver and gold,
Come break thy covenant with Baasha, king of Israel,
That he may go up from against me.
So Ben-hadad hearkened unto King Asa, and sent the generals of the forces which he had, against the cities of Israel, and smote Iyooohn [Jon], and Dan, and Abel-beth-maccah,—and all Chinneroth, against all the land of Naph-tali.
And it came to pass, when Baasha heard thereof, he left off building Ramah,— and returned to Tirzah.
And [King Asa] published it unto all Judah, not only to his might, and all that he did and the cities which he built are not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah?
Howbeit <in the time of his old age> he was diseased in his feet.
So then Asa slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David his father,— and Jehoshaphat his son reigned [in his stead].

§ 23. Nadab (a bad King) reigns over Israel: Slain by Baasha (another bad King), who succeeds him.
Now [Nadab son of Jeroboam] began to reign over Israel, in the second year of Asa, king of Judah,—and he reigned over Israel,
two years.
And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,— and walked in the way of his father, and in his sin, wherewith he caused [Israel] to sin.
And Baasha son of Ahijah, of the house of Issachar, conspired against him, and Baasha smote him in Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistines,— Nadab and all Israel being in siege against Gibbethon.
And Baasha slew him, in the third year of Asa king of Judah,—and reigned in his stead.
And it came to pass <when he became king> that he smote all the house of Jeroboam, he left not remaining any breathing thing pertaining to Jeroboam, until he had destroyed him,—according to the word of Yahweh, which he spake by the hand of his servant Ahijah the Shilonite; for the sins of Jeroboam which he committed, and which he caused Israel, to commit,—by his provocation wherewith he provoked to anger Yahweh God of Israel.
Now <the rest of the story of Nadab, and all that he did> are not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel.
And there was [war] between
Asa and Baasha king of Israel, all their days.
In the third year of Asa king of Judah he began Baasha, son of Ahijah, to reign over Israel, in Tirzah, [and he reigned] twenty-four years. And he did that which was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and walked in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin wherewith he caused [Israel] to sin.
Then came the word of Yahweh unto Jehu son of Hanani, against Baasha, saying:
Forasmuch as I exalted thee out of the dust, and gave thee to be leader over my people Israel,—and yet thou hast walkt in the way of Jeroboam, and caused [my people Israel] to sin, provoking me to anger with their sins>
Behold me consuming after Baasha, and after his house,—and I will deliver up thy house like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat:
Him that dieth of Baasha in the city shall eat; and him that dieth of his house shall eat; and the birds of heaven shall eat.
Now <the rest of the story of Baasha, and what he did, and his might> are not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?
So Baasha also did evil in the sight of Yahweh, as did all his fathers.
And he reigned twenty-two years in Tirzah.—

§ 24. Elah succeeds his father Baasha, is slain Zimri his servant, who is speedily beseeched and destroys himself by fire.
In the twenty-sixth year of Asa king of Judah> began Elah son of Baasha to reign over Israel, in Tirzah, [and he reigned] two years.
Then conspired against him his servant Zimri, captain of half the chariots, as he was in Tirzah drinking himself drunk, in the house of Arza, who was over the household in Tirzah. And Zimri went in, and smote him and slew him, in the twenty-seventh year of Asa king of Judah,—and reigned in his stead.
And it came to pass <when he began to reign>, as soon as he sat on his throne, that he smote all the house of Baasha, he left him not even the meanest,—neither of his kinsfolk nor of his friends. Thus did Zimri destroy the house of Baasha,—according to the word
Yahweh which he spake unto* Baasha, through ehu the prophet; 17 as to all the sins of Baasha, and the sins of Elah his son,—wherewith they sinned, and wherewith they caused [Israel] to sin, provoking to anger Yahweh God of Israel, with their vanities.

Now <the rest of the story of Elah, and all that he did> are [they] not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

In the twenty-seventh year of Asa king of Judah—did Zimri reign, seven days in Tirzah, but [the people] were encamped against Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistines. When therefore the people who were encamped, heard say, Zimri hath conspired, [moreover also] he hath smitten the king—

Israel made Omri, general of the army, king over Israel, on that day, in the camp. So Omri, and all Israel with him, went up from Gibbethon,—and laid siege against Tirzah.

And it came to pass, <when Zimri saw that the city was captured,—that the people were assembled into the citadel of the house of the king,—and burned over him the house of the king, with fire, and died;> because of his sins which he committed by doing the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—by walking in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin which he committed, by causing [Israel] to sin. Now <the rest of the story of Zimri, and his conspiracy wherein he conspired> are [they] not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

Then were the people of Israel divided,—[half the people] were following Tibni son of Ginath, to make him king, and [half] following Omri. But [the people that followed Omri] prevailed against [the people that followed Tibni son of Ginath]; so that [Tibni] died, and [Omri] reigned.

25. The Reign of Omri, a very wicked King.

In the thirty-first year of Asa king of Judah—began Omri to reign over Israel [<the firstborn>] twelve years: [in Tirzah] he reigned six years. And he bought the hill Samaria, Shemer, for two talents of silver,—and built on the hill, and called the name of the city which he built, after the name of Shemer lord of the hill ([Samaria]).

And Omri did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and did more wickedly than all who were before him; yet he walked in all the days of Jeroboam son of Nebat, and in his sin therewith he caused [Israel] to sin,—provoking to anger Yahweh, God of Israel, with their vanities.

Some school of Masorites, the other: "consuming."—G.n. school of Masorites: "sin."—G.n. It shd be (w. Sep.)—to two parts."

27 Now <the rest of the story of Omri, what he did, and his might that he shewed> are [they] not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

So Omri slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria,—and [Ahab his son] reigned [in his stead].

§ 26. Ahab succeeds his father Omri, marries the Zidonian Jezebel, and worships Baal—to whom he erects an Altar in Samaria.

Now [Ahab son of Omri] began to reign over Israel, in the thirty-eighth year of Asa king of Judah,—and Ahab son of Omri reigned over Israel, in Samaria, twenty-two years. And Ahab son of Omri did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and did more wickedly than all that were before him. And it came to pass, <as though it had been too light a thing that he should walk in the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat;> that he took to wife Jezebel, daughter of Ethbaal, king of the Zidonians, and went and served Baal, and bowed down to him.

And he reared an altar unto Baal,—in the house of Jezebel, that he built in Samaria. And Ahab made the Sacred Stem,—and Ahab did yet more to provoke to anger Yahweh God of Israel than all the kings of Israel who were before him.

In his days—did Hiel the Bethelite build Jericho,—

[At the price of Abiram his firstborn] he laid its foundation, And [at the price of Segub his youngest] he set up its doors, [according to the word of Yahweh which he spake through Joshua son of Nun].

§ 27. Elijah appears upon the Scene, threatening a long Drought. The Prophet dwells by the Ravine of Cherith; then lodges with a Widow at Zarephath in Sidon, whose Son he restores to Life.

Then said Elijah * the Tishbite, of Taibbe in 17 Gilead, unto Ahab,

[By the life of Yahweh, God of Israel, before whom I stand]—There shall not these two years, be either dew or rain,—save at the bidding of my word.

Then came the word of Yahweh unto him saying:

3 Get thee hence, and turn thee eastward,—and hide thyself in the ravine of Cherith, which faceth the Jordan; and it shall be that <of the torrent> shalt thou drink,—and <of the ravens> have I commanded to sustain thee, there.

So he went and did, according to the word of Yahweh, yea he went and dwelt in the ravine

1 Then said Elijah * the Tishbite, of Taibbe in 17 Gilead, unto Ahab,

[By the life of Yahweh, God of Israel, before whom I stand]—There shall not these two years, be either dew or rain,—save at the bidding of my word.

Then came the word of Yahweh unto him saying:

3 Get thee hence, and turn thee eastward,—and hide thyself in the ravine of Cherith, which faceth the Jordan; and it shall be that <of the torrent> shalt thou drink,—and <of the ravens> have I commanded to sustain thee, there.

So he went and did, according to the word of Yahweh, yea he went and dwelt in the ravine of Cherith, which facest the Jordan. 6 And [the ravens] used to bring him bread and flesh, in the morning, and bread and flesh, in the evening,—and [<of the torrent> he] used to drink. 7 But it came to pass [<at the end of certain days> that the torrent dried up,—because there had been no rain in the land. 8 Then came the word of Yahweh unto him, saying—

9 Arise, get thee to Zarephath, which belongeth to Zidon, and dwell there,—Lo! I have commanded, there, a widow woman, to sustain thee.

10 So he arose and went to Zarephath, and <when he came to the entrance of the city> lo! there, [a widow woman gathering sticks],—and he called to her, and said, Fetch me, I pray thee, a little water in a vessel, that I may drink.

11 And <as she went to fetch it> he called to her and said,

Bring me, I pray thee, a morsel of bread, in thy hand.

12 And she said—

<By the life of Yahweh, thy God> verily I have not’ a cake, only a handful of meal in the jar, and a little oil in the cruse,—and lo! I have been gathering a couple of sticks, so I shall go in and make it ready for me and for my son, that we may eat it—and die!

13 And Elijah said unto her—

Do not fear, go in,—make ready according to thy word,—howbeit, make me thereof a little cake [first], and bring it out to me, and <for thyself and thy son> make ready [afterwards]. 14 For <thus> saith Yahweh, God of Israel, [The jar of meal] shall not waste, And [the cruse of oil] shall not fail,— Until the day that Yahweh giveth rain upon the face of the ground.

15 So she went and made ready, according to the word of Elijah,—and did eat [ashe, and he, and her house[,] (certain days):

16 [The jar of meal] did not waste,— And [the cruse of oil] did not fail,— According to the word of Yahweh, which he spake through Elijah.

17 And it came to pass <after these things> that the son of the woman, owner of the house, fell sick,—yea it came to pass that his sickness was very severe, until no [breath] was left in him.— Then said she unto Elijah,

What have I in common with thee? 5 O man of God? Hast thou come unto me, to call to remembrance mine iniquity, and to cause the death of my son?

19 And he said unto her—

Give me thy son.

And he took him out of her bosom, and carried him unto the upper room, where [he] was staying, and laid him upon his own bed. 20 Then cried he unto Yahweh, and said,— O Yahweh, my God! <Even upon the widow with whom I am sojourning> hast thou brought misfortune by causing the death of her son?

21 And he stretched himself out upon the boy, three times, and cried unto Yahweh, and said,— O Yahweh, my God!

Let the life of this boy, I pray thee, come again within him.

22 And Yahweh hearkened unto the voice of Elijah,—and the life of the boy came again within him, and he lived. 23 Then Elijah took the boy, and carried him down out of the upper room, into the house, and gave him to his mother,—and Elijah said,

See! thy son liveth.

24 And the woman said unto Elijah,

[Now] then I know, that [a man of God] thou art,—and that [the word of Yahweh] is in thy mouth, [of a truth].

§ 28. Elijah, as a Herald of Rain, meets Obadiah; shows himself to Ahab; encounters the Prophets of Baal on Mount Carmel.

1 And it came to pass [<after many days>] that 18 [the word of Yahweh] came unto Elijah, in the third year, saying,—

Go, show thyself unto Ahab, that I may send rain upon the face of the ground.

2 And Elijah went, to show himself unto Ahab. Now [the famine] was severe in Samaria.

3 And Ahab had called for Obadiah d who was over his house.

Now [Obadiah] was one who revered Yahweh exceedingly. 4 And so it came to pass <when Jezebel was cutting off the prophets of Yahweh> that Obadiah took a hundred prophets, and hid them by fifties in caves, and sustained them, with bread and water. 5 So then Ahab said unto Obadiah,

Go, and let us pass throughout the land, unto all the fountains of water, and unto all the ravines,—peradventure we may find grass, and save alive horse and mule, and not have more of the beasts cut off.

6 So they divided to them the land, to pass through it,—[Ahab] went one way, [by himself], and [Obadiah] went another way, [by himself]. 7 And so it was <as Obadiah was on the road> that lo! [Elijah] met him,— and he recognised him, and fell upon his face, and said—

Now art thou my lord Elijah!?

And he said to him—
  I am left, Yahweh's [only] prophet,—but
||the prophets of Baal|| are four hundred and fifty men.
22 Let there be given us, therefore, two bullocks, and let them choose for themselves one bullock, and cut it in pieces, and lay it upon the wood, but <fire> shall they not put,—then I will make ready the other bullock, and place upon the wood, but <fire> will I not put.
23 Then shall ye call on the name of your god, and ||I|| will call on the name of Yahweh, and it shall be <the God that respondeth by fire> ||he|| is GOD.
And all the people responded—
Well spoken 1a
24 Then said Elijah to the prophets of Baal—
Choose for yourselves one bullock, and make ye ready [first], for ||ye|| are many,—and call ye on the name of your god, but <fire> shall ye not put.
25 So they took the bullock which was given them, b and made ready, and called on the name of Baal—from the morning even until the noon, saying—
O Baal! answer us.
But there was no voice, nor any' that answered.
And they leaped about by the altar which had been made. c 27 And it came to pass <at noon> that Elijah mocked them, and said—
Cry with a loud voice, for  he is', either he hath ||a meditation, or an occasion to retire||, or he hath ||a journey||,—per-adventure he ||sleepeth||, and must be awaked.
28 And they cried, with a loud voice, and cut themselves, after their custom, with swords, and with lances,—until the blood gushed out upon them. 29 And so it was <when noon was passed> that although they prophesied until the offering up of the evening gift; yet was there no voice nor any' that answered, nor any' that heartenked.
30 Then said Elijah unto all the people:
Draw near unto [me].
And all the people drew near unto [him]. Then repaired he the broken-down altar of Yahweh; yea Elijah took twelve stones, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob, d unto whom the word of Yahweh came, saying—
||Israel|| shall be thy name;
31 and built, with the stones, an altar, in the name of Yahweh,—and he made a trench, as large as would contain two measures of seed, round about the altar; 32 and he put in order the wood,—and cut in pieces the bullock, and laid upon the wood. Then said he—
Fill four pitchers with water, and pour out upon the ascending-sacrifice, and upon the wood.
And they did so. And he said—

Do it the second time.
And they did it the second time. And he said—

Do it the third time.
And they did it the third time. And the water ran round about the altar,—

| moreover also | <the trench> filled with water. And it came to pass at the time of the offering of the gift—> that Elijah the prophet drew near, and said,

O Yahweh, God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel!

|| To-day || let it be known—

| That thou || art God in Israel,\footnote{G.n. Some cod. (w. Sep.)—Rab. Bible 1017: "to Israel"—G.n.} And that || I || am thy servant,—

And \(<\text{when all the people saw it}>\) they fell upon their faces,—and said,

So they seized them. And Elijah took them down unto the ravine of Kishon, and slaugthered them there.

Then said Elijah unto Ahab,

And I alone am left, and they have sought my life, to take it.

And he said—

Go forth to-morrow, and stand in the mountain before Yahweh.

And lo! [Yahweh, passing by], and a great and strong wind— rending the mountains, and breaking in pieces the crags, before Yahweh,

Not [in the wind] was [Yahweh],—

And [after the wind] an [earthquake],

Not [in the earthquake] was [Yahweh];

And [after the earthquake] a [fire],

Not [in the fire] was [Yahweh],—

And [after the fire] [the voice of a gentle whisper].

And it came to pass [when Elijah heard it] he wrapped his face in his mantle, and went forth, and stood at the entrance of the cave,— and lo! [unto him] [a voice]; and it said—

What dost thou here, Elijah?

And he said—

Very jealous have I been, for Yahweh, God of hosts.

Because the sons of Israel have forsaken thy covenant,

[Thine altar] have they thrown down,

[Thy prophets also] have they slain with the sword,—

[And I alone am left], and they have sought my life, to take it.

And Yahweh said unto him, Go, return to thy way; towards the wilderness of Damascus;

And [when thou enterest]

Then shalt thou anoint Hazael to be king over Syria;

And [Jehu son of Minshi] shalt thou anoint to be king over Israel,—

And [Elisha son of Shaphat of Abel-meholah] shalt thou anoint to be prophet in thy stead;

Then shall it come to pass, that—

[He that escapeth the sword of Hazael] shall [Jehu] slay,—

And [him that escapeth the sword of Jehu] shall [Elisha] slay;

Yet will I leave remaining in Israel, seven thousand, all knees, which have not bowed to Baal, and all mouthes which have not kissed to him.

So he departed from thence, and found Elisha son of Shaphat, [as he] was plowing, with twelve yoke of oxen before him, he being with the twelfth;—so Elijah crossed over unto him, and cast his mantle towards him;

And he left the oxen, and ran after Elijah, and said—

Let me, I pray thee, kiss my father and my mother, that I may follow thee.

11 And he said unto him,—

Go, turn back, for what have I done to thee?

21 So he turned back from following him, and took the yoke of oxen, and sacrificed them, and with the implements of the oxen boiled their flesh,* and gave unto the people, and they did eat.—then he arose, and followed Elijah, and ministered unto him.

§ 30. Ben-hadad king of Syria, laying siege to Samaria, is twice defeated; Ahab is punished for suffering him to escape.

Now Ben-hadad, king of Syria, had gathered together all his forces, and [thirty-two kings] were with him, and horses and chariots,—then came he up, and laid siege to Samaria, and made war against it. And he sent messengers unto Ahab king of Israel, into the city, and said to him,—

[Thus] saith Ben-hadad,

[Thy silver and thy gold] are [mine], and [thy wives and thy sons the goodliest] are [mine].

Then responded the king of Israel, and said, According to thy word will my lord O king! [thine] am I, and all that I have.

And the messengers came back again, and said,

[Thus] speaketh Ben-hadad, saying,—

Because I sent unto thee, saying,

[Thy silver and thy gold and thy wives and thy sons] to me shall thou give;

Therefore [about this time to-morrow] will I send my servants unto thee, and they shall search thy house, and the houses of thy servants,—and it shall be, that [all the delight of thine eyes] shall they put in their hand, and take away.

Then called the king of Israel, for all the elders of the land, and said—

Mark, I pray you, and see, how this man is seeking mischief,—for he had sent unto me, for my wives, and for my sons, and for my silver, and for my gold, and I refused him not.

And all the elders and all the people said unto him,—

Do not thou hearken, neither do thou consent.

So he said unto the messengers of Ben-hadad—

Say ye to my lord the king,—

[All that thou didst send for, to thy servant at the first] will I do, but [this thing] I cannot do.

And the messengers departed, and took him back word. Then Ben-hadad sent unto him and said,— [Sol] let the gods do to me, and [so] let them add,—if the dust of Samaria suffice by handfuls, for all the people who are at my feet.

And the king of Israel responded and said:

Tell him,—

Let not him that girdeth him boast himself like him, that looseth it.

And it came to pass when he heard this message, as he was drinking, he and the kings in the pavilions that he said unto his servants—

Make ready!

So they made ready against the city.

And lo! a certain prophet drew near unto Ahab king of Israel, and said,—

Thus saith Yahweh,

Hast thou seen all this great multitude? Behold me delivering it into thy hand, to-day, so shalt thou know that I am Yahweh.

And Ahab said—

By whom?

And he said—

Thus saith Yahweh,

By the young men of the princes of the provinces.

Then said he—

Who shall begin the war?

And he said—

Thou!

Then numbered he the young men of the princes of the provinces, and they were found to be, two hundred and thirty-two, and after them he numbered all the people, all the sons of Israel, seven thousand. And they went forth at noon. Now Ben-hadad was drinking himself drunk, in the pavilions, he and the thirty-two kings helping him. Then went forth the young men of the princes of the provinces, first, and when Ben-hadad sent they told him, saying—

Men have come forth, out of Samaria.

And he said—

If peaceably they have come, take them alive, or if fighting they have come, take ye them.

Now when these had come forth out of the city, even the young men of the princes of the provinces, with the force which was following them, then smote they every one his man, and the Syrians fled, and Israel pursued them, but Ben-hadad king of Syria escaped on a horse, with horsemen. And the king of Israel went forth, and took the horses and the chariots, and he went on smiting the Syrians, with a great smiting.

Then drew near the prophet, unto the king of Israel, and said unto him—

Go strengthen thyself, and mark and see, what thou wilt do, for at the return of the year is the king of Syria coming up against thee.

And the servants of the king of Syria said unto him—

Gods of the mountains are their gods, for this cause prevailed they against us, but only let us fight with them in the plain, and verily we shall prevail against them.

But this thing do, set aside the king, every man out of his place, and put governors in their stead; and thou must number thee a force, like the force which thou hast lost, both horse for horse and chariot for chariot, and if we fight with them in the plain, verily we shall prevail against them.

And he hearkened unto their voice, and did so.

And so it came to pass at the return of the year, that Ben-hadad numbered the Syrians,—and came up to Aphek, to fight with Israel; and the sons of Israel were numbered, and provisioned, and went to meet them, and the sons of Israel encamped before them like two little flocks of goats, whereas the Syrians filled the land.

Then approached the man of God, and spake unto the king of Israel, and said—

Thus saith Yahweh—

Because the kings have said—

A god of the mountains is Yahweh, but not a god of the vale is he.

Therefore will I deliver all this great multitude into thy hand, so shalt thou know that I am Yahweh.

So they encamped over against them seven days, and it came to pass, on the seventh day, that the battle was joined, and the sons of Israel smote the Syrians a hundred thousand footmen, in one day.

And they who were left fled to Aphek, into the city, and the wall fell over twenty-seven thousand men who were left, and Ben-hadad fled, and came into the city, into a chamber within a chamber. And his servants said unto him, Lo! we pray thee, we have heard king known for lovingkindness they are.

Let us, we pray thee, put sackcloth upon our loins, and ropes about our heads, and let us go forth unto the king of Israel, and peradventure he will save alive thy soul.

So they girded sackcloth upon their loins, and put ropes about their heads, and came in unto the king of Israel, and said—

Thy servant, Ben-hadad, saith,—

Let my soul live, I pray thee, and he said—

Is he yet alive? My brother he is.

Now the men could divine, so they hastened to let him confirm the word of his own accord, and they said—

Thy brother is Ben-hadad!...
1 KINGS XX. 34-43; XXI. 1-11. 377

He said therefore,—

Go fetch him.

So Ben-hadad came forth unto him, and he made him come up unto him on his chariot. 24 And he said unto him—

<The cities which my father took from thy father> will I restore, and <bazaars> shalt thou make thee in Damascus, as my father made in Samaria.

So then [I] with this covenant> will let thee go.

Go be solemnis'd with him a covenant, and let him go.

And a certain man of the sons of the prophets> said unto his neighbour, by the word of Yahweh—

Smite me, I pray thee.

But the man refused to smite him. 26 So he said to him—

<Because thou hast not hearkened unto the voice of Yahweh> lo! <when thou art departing from me> there shall smite thee a lion.

And when he departed from beside him, a lion smote him, and smote him. 27 Then found another man, and said—

Smite me, I pray thee.

So the man smote him—kept smiting and smitting. 28 Then the prophet departed, and waited for the king, by the way,—and disguised himself with his turban over his eyes. 29 And so it was <when the king> was seeing> <he> cried out unto the king, and said—

Thy servant went out in the midst of the battle, and lo! [a man] turned aside and brought unto me a man, and said—

Keep this man, if he be [missing], then shall [thy life] go for [his life], or <talent of silver> shalt thou weigh out.

And so it was, as thy servant was busy here and there that [the] was gone.a And the king of Israel said unto him—

Such is thy judgment, thou thyself hast decided it.

Then hastened he, and removed the turban from his eyes, and the king of Israel knew him, that <of the prophets> was he. 31 And he said unto him—

Thus saith Yahweh,

<Because thou hast let go the man whom I had devoted, out of thy hand> therefore shall [thy life] be instead of [his life], and [thy people] instead of [his people].

And the king of Israel departed unto his house, sullen and disturbed, and entered Samaria.

§ 31. Naboth’s Vineyard, coveted by Ahab, is recklessly procured by Jezebel: Ahab, rebuked by Elijah, humbles himself and is spared.

1 And it came to pass <after these things> 21 that Naboth the Jezreelite had [a vineyard], which was in Jezreel,—hard by the palace of Ahab, king of Samaria. 2 Ahab, therefore, spake unto Naboth, saying—

Come! give me thy vineyard, that I may have it for a garden of herbs, for <the same> is near by my house, and let me give thee, instead thereof, a vineyard better than it,—<if it be good in thine eyes> I will give thee silver’ to the value of this.

And Naboth said unto Ahab,—

Far be it from me, of Yahweh! that I should give up the inheritance of my fathers, unto thee!

4 So Ahab came into his house, sullen and disturbed, because of the word which Naboth the Jezreelite had spoken unto him, that he should have said,

I will not give thee the inheritance of my fathers.

So he laid him down upon his bed, and turned away his face, and did eat no food.

5 Then came unto him Jezebel his wife,—and said unto him—

Why is it, that thy spirit is sullen, that thou art [not eating food]? b

6 And he said unto her—

Because I spake unto Naboth, the Jezreelite, and said unto him—

Come! give me thy vineyard for silver, or <if thou wouldst prefer> I will give thee a vineyard, in its stead; and he said—

I will not give thee my vineyard.

7 Then Jezebel his wife said unto him:

Art [thou] still going to carry on the kingdom over Israel?

Rise! eat food, and let thy heart be merry, [I] will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite!

So she wrote letters, in the name of Ahab, and sealed them with his signet-ring,—and sent the letters unto the elders, and unto the nobles who were in his city, dwelling with Naboth. 8 Now she wrote in the letters, saying,— Proclaim ye a fast, and cause Naboth to sit at the head of the people; 10 then let two reckless men* take their seats before him, that they may bear witness against him, saying,

Thou hast reviled God and king! then shall ye carry him forth and stone him, that he die.

11 So the men of his city, the elders and the nobles who dwelt in his city, did' just as Jezebel had sent unto them,—as it was written in the letters' which she had sent unto them;— they proclaimed a fast,—and caused Naboth to sit at the head of the people. Then came in the two reckless men, and sat before him, and the men bare witness against him, even against Naboth, before the people, saying.

Naboth hath reviled God and king! So they carried him forth, outside the city, and stoned him with stones, that he died. Then sent they Jezebel saying,—Naboth is stoned, and is dead. And it came to pass when Jezebel heard that Naboth was stoned, and was dead, that Jezebel said unto Ahab—Rise! take possession of the vineyard of Naboth the Jerreislemite, which he refused to give thee for silver, for Naboth is not alive, but dead!

And it came to pass when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, that Ahab arose to go down unto the vineyard of Naboth the Jerreislemite, to take possession thereof. Then came the word of Yahweh unto Elijah the Tishbite, saying:

Arise! go down to meet Ahab king of Israel, who is in Samaria,—I tell thee! he is in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he hath gone down, to take possession thereof. Then shalt thou speak unto him, saying—Thus saith Yahweh, Hast thou committed murder, And also taken possession? Then shalt thou speak unto him, saying: Thus saith Yahweh,

In the place where the dogs have lapped up the blood of Naboth shall the dogs lap up thy blood even thine.

Then said Ahab unto Elijah, Hast thou found me, O mine enemy? And be said:

I have found thee! Because thou hast sold thyself to do the thing that is wicked in the eyes of Yahweh>

Behold me! saith he! bringing in upon thee, calamity, and I will consume after thee,—and cut off of Ahab, even the meanest, whether shut up or left at large in Israel; and will deliver up thy house—Like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat, And like the house of Baasha son of Ahab,—for the provocation where with thou hast provoked, and caused [Israel] to sin.

Moreover also, concerning Jezebel hath Yahweh spoken, saying,—The dogs shall eat Jezebel, in the townland of Tzreel:

§ 32. Ahab and Jehoshaphat in Samaria, appendix IX.

Ramoath-Gilead, where Ahab is slain. Ahab's Son reigns in his stead. Jehoshaphat's Successor over Judah: he is succeeded by Jehoram.

And there continued three years' war between Syria and Israel. But it came about to pass in the third year that Jehoshaphat, king of Judah went down unto the king of Israel. And the king of Israel said unto his servants, Know ye that [ours] is Ramoth-gilead,—we are too idle to take it out of the hand of the king of Syria?

And he said unto Jehoshaphat, Wilt thou go with me to make war upon Ramoth-gilead?

And Jehoshaphat said unto the king of Israel, I am as thou art, My people are as thy people, My horses as thy horses.

Then said Jehoshaphat unto the king of Israel. Seek, I pray thee, at once, the word of Yahweh. So the king of Israel gathered together prophets, about four hundred men, and said unto them—Shall I go against Ramoth-gilead, to battle, or shall I forbear? And they said—Go up, that the Lord may deliver it into the hand of the king.

Then said Jehoshaphat, Is there not here a prophet of Yahweh, save whose words?—that we may seek [from him]!
And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat,
Beside is a certain man, by whom we might seek Jehovah: but [I] hate him, for he is never moved to prophesy concerning me anything good, [only evil], Micaiah, son of Imlah.

And Jehoshaphat said,
Let not the king say so.'

Then the king of Israel called a certain courtier, and said,
Hasten Micaiah son of Imlah.

Now [the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah] were sitting—each man upon his throne, having put on robes, in a level place, at the entrance of the gate of Samaria, and [all the prophets] were being moved to prophesy before them; 11 when Zedekiah a son of Chenaah made himself horns of iron, and said—
[Thus] saith Jehovah,
With the sword shalt thou push down the Syrians, until thou hast consumed them.

And [all the prophets] were being moved to prophesy in like manner, saying—
Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and thou shalt prosper, and Jehovah will deliver it, into the hand of the king.

Now [the messenger who went to call Micaiah], spake unto him, saying—
Behold, I pray thee, [the words of the prophets] <with one mouth> are good, as touching the king, and thy word. I pray thee, be as the word of one of them, so wilt thou speak that which is good.

And Micaiah said,—
By the life of Jehovah, [what Jehovah saith unto me] will I speak.

So he came unto the king, and the king said unto him—
Micaiah, shall we go against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall we forbear?

And he said unto him—
Go up and prosper, and Jehovah will deliver it into the hand of the king.

And the king said unto him—
How many times must [I] adjure thee,—that thou speakest unto me nothing but truth, in the name of Jehovah?

And he said—
I saw all Israel, scattered among the mountains, like sheep that have no shepherd,—so Jehovah said,
These have [no masters] let them return every man unto his own house, in peace.

Then said the king of Israel, unto Jehoshaphat,—
Did I not say unto thee, He will not be moved to prophesy concerning me anything good, [only calamity].

Then he said,—
[Therefore] hear thou the word of Jehovah,—I saw Jehovah, sitting upon his throne, and all the hosts of the heavens standing by him, on his right hand, and on his left.

And Jehovah said—
Who will persuade Ahab, that he may go up and fall, at Ramoth-gilead?
And [one] said in this manner, and [another] said in that manner. 21 Then came forth a spirit, and stood before Jehovah, and said—
[1] I will persuade him.

And Jehovah said unto him,— Wherewith?

And he said—
I will go forth, and become a spirit of falsehood in the mouth of all his prophets,—
So he said—
Thou mayest persuade, yes' and prevail, go forth, and do so.

[Now] therefore, lo! Jehovah hath suffered a spirit of falsehood to be put into the mouth of all these thy prophets. But [Jehovah himself] hath spoken concerning thee, [calamity].

Then drew near Zedekiah [son of Chenaah], and smote Micaiah on the cheek, and said—
Where then passed the Spirit of Jehovah, from me, to speak unto thee?

Then said Micaiah,—
Lo! thou art about to see, on that day,—when thou enterest a chamber within a chamber, to hide thyself.

And the king of Israel said,
Take Micaiah, and carry him back unto Amon captain of the city,—and unto Joash son of the king; 27 and thou shalt say—[Thus] saith the king, Put this man into the prison,—and let him eat the bread of oppression, with the water of oppression, until I enter in peace.

Then said Micaiah,—
If thou [return] in peace, Jehovah hath not spoken by me.

And he said,
Hear, ye peoples, [all of you]! 14

So the king of Israel went up, with Jehoshaphat king of Judah, unto Ramoth-gilead.

And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat—
I am about to disguise myself, and enter into the battle, [thou] therefore, put on thy robes.

So the king of Israel disguised himself, and entered into the battle.

Now [the king of Syria] had commanded the captains of chariots which he had, thirty and two, saying,—Ye shall not fight with small or great,—[save with the king of Israel alone].

And it came to pass, when the chariot-captains saw Jehoshaphat, that [they] said:
Surely it is [the king of Israel]!"
But when they turned aside against him to fight, Jehoshaphat cried out. And it came to pass, when the chariot-captains saw that it was not the king of Israel, that they turned back from pursuing him. But a certain man, drawing a bow in his innocence, smote the king of Israel, between the shoulder-joints and the coat of mail, wherefore he said to his charioteer:

Turn thy hand, and convey me out of the host, for I am sore wounded.

But the battle increased that day, and the king was propped up in the chariot, before the Syrians, and died in the evening, and so the blood of the wound ran out into the hollow of the chariot. And a loud cry went through the host, at the going in of the sun, saying—

Every man to his own city! and every man to his own land!

So the king died, and was brought into Samaria, and they buried the king in Samaria. And when the chariot was washed out at the pool of Samaria, the dogs lapped up his blood, also the harlots bathed [there], according to the word of Yahweh which he had spoken.

Now the rest of the story of Ahab, and all that he did, and the house of ivory that he built, and all the cities that he built are not written not in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel.

So Ahab slept with his fathers, and Ahaziah his son reigned in his stead.

Now Jehoshaphat son of Asa began to reign over Judah, in the fourth year of Ahab king of Israel. Jehoshaphat was thirty-five years old when he began to reign, and twenty-five years he reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother was Azubah, daughter of Shilhi. And he walked in all the way of Asa his father, he turned not aside therefrom—doing that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh: nevertheless the high places were not taken away, still were the people offering sacrifices and burning incense in the high places. And Jehoshaphat made peace with the king of Israel.

Now the rest of the story of Jehoshaphat, and his might that he shewed, and how he warred, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah?

Moreover the rest of the acts of Jehoshaphat, first and second, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah?

And the rest of the acts of Jehoshaphat, first and second, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah?

Thus said Ahaziah son of Ahab, unto Jehoshaphat:

Let my servants go with thy servants into the ships,—but Jehoshaphat did not consent.

So Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David his father, and Jehoram his son reigned in his stead.

Ahaziah son of Ahab began to reign over Israel, in the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and reigned over Israel two years. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, and went in the way of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in the way of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who caused Israel to sin. He served Baal, and bowed down to him, and provoked to anger Yahweh, God of Israel, according to all that his father had done.

1. Ahaziah, King of Israel, warned by Elijah, sends Parties of Fifty Men to take him; Two Parties destroyed, the Third spared.

Then Moab revolted against Israel, after the death of Ahab. And Ahaziah fell through the lattice in his upper chamber, which was in Samaria, and became sick, so he sent messengers, and said unto them—

Go enquire of Baalzebub, god of Ekron, whether I shall recover from this sickness. But [the messenger of Yahweh] spake unto Elijah the Tishbite,

Rise, go up to meet the messengers of the king of Samaria,—and say unto them—

Is it because there is no God in Israel, that ye are going to enquire of Baalzebub, god of Ekron?

Wherefore?

Thus saith Yahweh,

From the bed whereunto thou hast gone up shalt thou not come down, for thou shalt surely die.

And Elijah departed. And when the messengers returned unto him> he said unto them—

How is it that ye have returned?

And they said unto him—

A man came up to meet us, and said unto us—

Go, return unto the king who sent you, and ye shall say unto him,

Thus saith Yahweh—

Is it because there is no God in Israel, that thou art sending to enquire of Baalzebub, god of Ekron? Therefore from the bed whereunto thou hast gone up shalt thou not come down, for thou shalt surely die.

And he said unto them,

What was the manner of the man who came up to meet you,—and spake unto you those words?

And they said unto him—

A hairy man, with a leathern girdle girt about his loins.

And he said—

Elijah the Tishbite> it was.

Then sent he unto him a captain of fifty, with his fifty,—and he went up unto him, and lo! he abode on the top of the mountain, and he said unto him,

O man of God! the king hath said,

Come down!

And Elijah responded and said unto the captain of fifty,

If, then a man of God I am, let fire come down out of the heavens, and devour thee and thy fifty.

So there came down fire out of the heavens, and devoured him and his fifty. Then he again sent unto him another captain of fifty, with his fifty. And he also spake and said unto him,

O man of God! thus saith the king.

Haste thee, come down!

And Elijah responded and said unto them—

If a man of God I am, let fire come down out of the heavens, and devour thee and thy fifty.

And there came down a fire of God out of the heavens, and devoured him and his fifty. Then he again sent a third captain of fifty, with his fifty,—and the third captain of fifty ascended and came near, and bowed down upon his knees before Elijah, and made supplication unto him, and said unto him,

O man of God! let my life, I pray thee, and the lives of these thy fifty servants, be precious in thine eyes.

Lo! there hath come down fire out of the heavens, and devoured the captains of the former fifties, with their fifties,—therefore, let my life be precious in thine eyes.

And the messenger of Yahweh said unto Elijah,

Go down with him, do not fear because of him,

So he arose, and went down with him, unto the king; and said unto him—

Thus saith Yahweh—

For that thou didst send messengers to enquire of Baalzebub, god of Ekron> was it because there was no God in Israel, for whose word thou couldst enquire?

---

a Some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn., Aram., Syr. and Vul.) omit: "then."

Let there be, I pray thee, a double portion of thy spirit upon me.

And he said—

Thou hast asked a hard thing, —<if thou seest me when taken from thee, thou shalt have it,> but if not thou shalt not have it.

And it came to pass when they were going up and on and talking—<that I> there was a chariot of fire, with horses of fire, which parted them two; then sauntered, and Elijah went up into a storm, into the heavens. And as soon as Elijah saw it, he began crying out—

My father! my father!
The chariots of Israel, and the horsemen thereof!

But when he could see him no longer, he took hold of his clothes, and rent them in two pieces. Then took he up the mantle of Elijah, which had fallen from him; turned and stood, on the brink of the Jordan; and took the mantle of Elijah which had fallen from him, and smote the waters, and said—

Where> is Yahweh, the God of Elijah? And when he also had smote the waters> they were divided, hither and thither, and Elias passed over.—

And when the sons of the prophets who were in Jericho, saw him, they said—

The spirit of Elijah resteth on Elisha. So they came to meet him, and bowed the souls down to him, to the ground.

And he said—

Lo! we pray thee, there are with thy servants fifty men, sons of valour—let thee go, we pray thee, and seek thy lord, and the Spirit of Yahweh have borne him away, and cast him on one of the mountains, or into one of the valleys.

And he said—

Ye shall not send.

But when they urged him until he was ashamed> he said—

Send. So they sent fifty men, and made search those three days, but found him not. And when they came back unto him, he> having tarried at Jericho> he said unto them,

Did I not say unto you, Do not go?

And the men of the city said unto Elisha,

Lo! we pray thee, the situation of the city is good, as my lord> seeth; but the waters> are bad, and the land> spt miscarry.

And he said—

Bring me a new bowl, and put therein salt. So they brought it unto him; and he went forth unto the spring of the waters, and cast therein salt, and said—

Thus saith Yahweh, I have healed these waters; there shall come henceforth a course of corn and wine.
from thence, no longer, [death or aptness to miscarry].

So the waters were healed, [as they remain] into this day,—[according to the word of Elisha which he spake].

And he went up from thence, to Bethel,—and <as he was going up on the way> [some said] came forth, out of the city, and made mockery of him, and said to him,

Go up, bald head! Go up, bald head!

And <when he turned round and saw them> he cursed them, in the name of Yahweh,—and here came forth two she-bears out of the wood, and laced of them, forty-two youths. 29 And he went from thence, unto Mount Carmel,—and from thence he returned to Samaria.

§ 3. The Kings of Israel, Judah and Edom subdue Moab. Elisha on the Scene.

Now [Jehoram, son of Ahab] began to reign over Israel, in Samaria, in the eighteenth year of Jeshophat, king of Judah,—and he reigned twelve years. 2 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, [only] not like his father, nor like his mother,—but he put way the pillars* of Baal [which his father] had made; 3 nevertheless <unto the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat which he caused Israel to commit> he did cleave,—he turned not away therefrom.

Now [Mesha king of Moab] was a sheepster,—and used to render to the king of Israel, of the wool of a hundred thousand fat sheep, and of a hundred thousand rams. 4 And came to pass <when Ahab died> that the king of Moab revolted against the king of Israel. 5 So King Jehoram went forth, on that day, out of Samaria, and numbered all Israel. 6 And he departed, and sent unto Jeshophat king of Judah, saying—

The king of Moab hath revolted against me, wilt thou go with me against Moab to battle?

and he said—

I will go up, I am as thou' art, my' people are as thy' people, my' horses as thy' horses.

and he said—

Which way then, shall we go up?

and he said—
The way of the wilderness of Edom.

Then departed the king of Israel, and the king of Judah, and the king of Edom, and went and, a journey of seven days,—and there was water for the host, and for the cattle that went with them. 4

Then said the king of Israel—

Alas! for Yahweh hath called these three kings, to deliver them into the hand of Moab.

11 So Jeshophat said—

Is there not, here, a prophet of Yahweh, that we may enquire of Yahweh [from him]?

Then answered one of the servants of the king of Israel, and said,

Here is Elisha son of Shaphat, who poured water on the hands of Elijah.

12 Then said Jeshophat,

The word of Yahweh is's with him. 9

So the king of Israel, and Jeshophat, and the king of Edom, went down unto him.

13 And Elisha said unto the king of Israel—

What have I and thou in common? got thee unto the prophets of thy father, and unto the prophets of thy mother.

But the king of Israel said to him—

Nay! for Yahweh hath called together these three kings, to deliver them into the hand of Moab.

14 Then said Elisha—

<By the life of Yahweh of hosts, before whom I stand> <were it not that the countenance of Jeshophat king of Judah> I would lift up; I would neither look at thee, nor see thee.

15 But <now> bring me one that can touch the strings.

For it to used to <when the player touched the strings> then would the hand of Yahweh be upon him. 19 Then said he,

'Thus' saith Yahweh,—

Make, in this torrent-bed, * pits, pits! 17

For [thus] saith Yahweh,—

Ye shall not see wind,

And ye shall not see rain,

Yet that torrent-bed shall be filled with water,—

And ye shall drink, [eye, and your cattle, and your beasts;]

And <this being a small thing in the eyes of Yahweh> he will deliver Moab into your hand;

And ye shall smite every strong city, and every choice city,

And [every goodly tree] shall ye fell,

And [all fountains of water] shall ye close up,—

And [every goodly heritage] shall ye mar* with stones.

And it came to pass <in the morning, when the offering ascended> that lo! [waters] were coming in from the way of Edom,—and the land was filled with the water.

21 Now [all Moab] had heard' that the kings had come up to fight against them,—so they came together, from all who could gird on a girdle and upwards, and took their stand at the border. 22 And <when they rose early in the morning> [the sun] shone forth upon the waters,—and so the Moabites beheld' over against them, the waters, [red as* as blood]. 23 They said therefore—

 § 4. Elisha and the Widow's Cruze of Oil. The Son of a Shunammite given and restored to life. A Famine.

1 Now a certain woman of the wives of the sons of the prophets made outcry unto Elisha, saying—

Thy servant, my husband, is dead, and though I knowest that thy servant was one who revered Yahweh, now the creditor hath come to take my two sons to himself as bondmen.

2 And Elisha said unto her—

What shall I do for thee? Tell me what thou hast, in the house.

And she said—

Thy maid-servant hath nothing at all in the house, save a flask of oil.

3 And he said—

Go, sell the vessels, from without, of all thy neighbours, and let them not be few.

4 And when thou hast come in, then shalt thou shut the door behind thee and behind thy vessels, and shalt pour out into all these vessels—and that which is full shalt thou set aside.

5 So she went out from his presence, and shut the door behind her, and behind her sons,—they bringing near to her, and she pouring out. And it came to pass when the vessels were full that she said unto her son—Bring me a vessel more.

And he said unto her—There is not a vessel more.

And the oil stayed. Then came she in, and told the man of God, and he said—Go, sell the oil, and pay thy creditor, and thou and thy sons shall live of the rest.

6 And so it was, on a day, that Elisha passed over unto Shunem, where was a woman of position, and she constrained him to eat bread, and so it came about that whenever he passed that way that he turned aside thither, to eat bread. Then said she unto her husband, Lo! I pray thee—I perceive that a holy man of God he is, passing our way continually. Then I pray thee, let us make a little upper chamber on the wall and set for him there—a bed, and a table, and a seat, and a lampstand, so shall it be when he cometh to us that he can turn in thither.

7 And it came to pass, on a day, that he came thither, so he turned aside into the upper chamber, and slept there. Then said he unto Gehazi, his young man, Call this Shunammite, and he called her, and she stood before him.

8 And he said to him—

I pray thee, say unto her—Lo! thou hast cared for us with all this anxious care, what can be done for thee? Is it, that we should speak for thee unto the king, or unto the general of the army? But she said, In the midst of mine own people do I dwell.

9 So he said, What then can be done for thee? And Gehazi said, Verily she hath no sons, and her husband is old.

10 And he said—Call her.

So he called her, and she stood in the doorway.

11 Then said he—At this season, about the time of spring thou shalt be embracing a son.

And she said—Nay! my lord, thou man of God, do not delude thy maid-servant.

12 And the woman conceived, and bare a son, at this season, about the time of spring, when b
And when the child was grown, it came to pass on a certain day that he went out unto his father, unto the reapers; and he said unto his father—

My head! my head!

So he said unto the young man, Carry him to his mother. And when he had carried him, and brought him in unto his mother, he sat on her knees until noon, and then died. 21 And she went up and laid him on the bed of the man of God, and shut him in, and then went out. 22 And she called unto her husband, and said—

Send me, I pray thee, one of the young men, and one of the asses—that I may run unto the man of God, and return!

And he said—

Wherefore art thou going unto him, to-day, [neither new moon nor sabbath]? And she said—

Peace! Then saddled she the ass, and said unto her young man—

Lead on, and go forward, do not slacken, for my sake, the riding, except I have bidden thee. So she went her way and came unto the man of God, unto Mount Carmel. And it came to pass <when the man of God saw her, opposite> that he said unto Gehazi his young man,—

Lo! this Shunammiteess! [Now] run, I pray thee, to meet her, and say to her—

Is it well with thee? is it well with thy husband? is it well with the child?

And she said,—

Well! but <when she came unto the man of God, on the mount> she caught hold of his feet, and Gehazi drew near to thrust her away, when the man of God said—

Let her alone! for her life is embittered to her, howbeit [Yahweh] hath hidden it from me, and hath not told me. Then said she—

Did I ask a son of my lord? Said I not, Thou must not mislead me? and he said to Gehazi—

Gird thy loins, and take my staff in thy hand, and go thy way, <if thou meet with any man> thou must not bless him, and <if any man bless thee> thou must not respond to him, then shalt thou lay my staff upon the face of the boy.

But the mother of the boy said—

<By the life of Yahweh and by the life of thine own soul> I will not leave thee, to be aroose and follow her.

Now Gehazi had passed on before them, and laid the staff on the face of the boy, but there was neither voice, nor attention,—so he returned to meet him, and told him, saying—

The boy hath not awakened.

And <when Elisha had come into the house> lo! the boy was dead, laid upon his bed. 29 So he went in, and shut the door upon them two—and prayed unto Yahweh. 30 Then he stretched him upon the bed, and put his own mouth upon his mouth, and his own eyes upon his eyes, and his own hands upon his hands, a and bowed himself b upon him,—and the flesh of the child waxed warm. 31 Then returned he, and walked in the house—once to and fro, and then went up and bowed himself upon him,—and the boy sneezed as many as seven times, and the boy opened his eyes. 32 Then called he Gehazi, and said—

Call this Shunammiteess.

So he called her, and <when she was come in unto him> he said—

Take up thy son.

So she came in, and fell at his feet, and bowed herself to the ground,—and took up her son, and went forth. 35 Now Elisha returned to Gilgal, and there was a famine in the land, and <the sons of the prophets> being seated before him, he said to his young man—

Put on the large pot, and boil a mess of food, for the sons of the prophets.

And one went out into the field, to gather herbs, and found a vine in the field, and gathered thereof wild gourds, [his lap full],—and came in, and sliced them into the pot; for they knew them not. 39 So they poured out for the men to eat,—and it came to pass <as they were eating of the mess> that they made outcry and said—

Death in the pot, O man of God! And they could not eat. 41 And he said—

Then fetch meal.

And he cast it into the pot,—and then said—

Four out for the people, that they may eat. And there was no harm in the pot. 43 And a man came in from Baal-shalishah, and brought for the man of God firstfruit bread, twenty barley loaves, and garden grain in the husk thereof. And he said—

Give to the people, that they may eat.

But his attendant said—

How can I set this before a hundred men? And he said—

Give to the people, that they may eat, for ||Thus|| saith Yahweh.

They are about to eat and to leave remaining. 46 So he set before them, and they did eat and left remaining. [according to the word of Yahweh].

5 Now Naaman, general of the army of the king of Syria, was a great man in presence of his lord and held in honour, because had Yahweh given deliverance to Syria, and the man was a hero of valor—but a leper.

2 Now the Syrians had gone out in companies, and had brought back out of the land of Israel, a little maiden, who became an attendant on the wife of Naaman.

3 And she said unto her mistress,

Ah! would that my lord were before the prophet, who is in Samaria! then would he set him free from his leprosy.

4 And he went in and told his lord, saying,

<Thus and thus> hath spoken the maiden who is of the land of Israel!

5 And the king of Syria said—

Go, get in, that I may send a letter unto the king of Israel.

6 So he went, and took in his hand ten talents of silver, and six thousand pieces of gold, and ten changes of raiment.

7 And he brought in the letter unto the king of Israel, saying,

<Now> therefore <when this letter cometh in unto thee> lo! I have sent unto thee Naaman my servant, and thou shalt set him free from his leprosy.

8 And it came to pass <when the king of Israel had read the letter> that he rent his clothes, and said,

Am I God to kill and to make alive, that this man is sending unto me, to set one free from his leprosy,—but of a truth, just mark, I pray you, and see, that he is seeking an occasion against me.

9 And it was so <when Elisha the man of God heard that the king of Israel had rent his clothes> that he sent unto the king, saying—

Wherefore hast thou rent thy clothes? let him come, I pray thee, unto me, that he may get to know that there is a prophet in Israel.

10 So Naaman came, with his horses and with his chariot, and stood at the entrance of the house of Elisha: and Elisha sent a messenger unto him, saying,—

Go and bathe seven times in the Jordan, so shall thy flesh come back to thee, and be thou clean.

11 But Naaman was wroth, and went away,—and said—

Lo! I thought <Unto me> will he come right out and take his stand, and call on the name of Yahweh his God, and wave his hand towards the spot, and so set free the leper.

12 Are not Abanan and Pharai, rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel? may I not bathe in them? and be clean?

So he turned, and went away in rage.

13 Then drew near his servant, and spake unto him, and said—

My father! if some great thing had prophethad commanded thee; would thou not have done it? then how much rather when he hath said unto thee, Bathe and be clean?

14 Then went he down, and dipped himself in Jordan seven times, according to the word of the man of God: and his flesh came back as the flesh of a little child, and he was clean.

15 And he returned unto the man of God, he and all his company, and came, and took his stand before him, and said—

Lo! I pray thee—I know that there is God in all the earth, save in Israel.—<Therefore> I pray thee, accept a blessing from thy servant.

16 But he said—

<By the life of Yahweh, before whom stood> I will not accept one.

And <though he urged him to accept it> did he refuse.

17 Then said Naaman—

Shall there not then, I pray thee, be given to thy servant, two mules' burden of earth?

For thy servant will henceforth offer neither ascending-offering nor sacrifice to other gods, save only to Yahweh.

18 <In this thing> Yahweh grant forgiveness to thy servant,—

<When> the Lord entreath the house of Rimmon, bow down therein, he leaning upon my hand, and so I bow down in the house of Rimmon, when boweth down the house of Rimmon> Yahweh, I pray grant forgiveness to thy servant, in this thing.

19 And he said unto him—

Go and prosper!

But <when he had gone from him some distance> Gehazi, the servant of Elisha the servant of God, said—

Lo! my lord hath restrained this Naaman the Syrian, by not taking at his hand the which he brought!

<By the life of Yahweh> verily I will run after him, and accept of him some thing.

21 So Gehazi hastened after Naaman.

And <when Naaman saw one running after him> he alighted from his chariot to meet him, and said—

Is all well?

§ 7. For Revealing the Plots of the Syrian King, a Force is sent to take Elisha, but is smitten with Blindness and taken into Samaria.

8 Now the king of Syria was making war against Israel, so he took counsel with his servants, saying—

In such and such a place shall be my encampment.

9 The man of God, therefore, sent unto the king of Israel, saying—

Beware of passing by this place,—for thither are the Syrians' coming down.

10 So the king of Israel sent unto the place whereof the man of God had spoken to him and warned him, and was on his guard there,—not once nor twice.

11 Then was the heart of the king of Syria disquieted concerning this thing,—and he called his servants, and said unto them,

Will ye not tell me, who of our men are for the king of Israel?

12 Then said one of his servants,

None, my lord O king,—but Elisha, the prophet, who is in Israel, telleth the king of Israel the words which thou speakest in thy bed-chamber.

13 And he said—

Go, and see where he is, that I may send and take him.

And it was told him, saying—

Lo! in Dothan.

14 Therefore sent he thither—horses and chariots, and a strong force,—and they came in by night, and encompassed the city.

15 And when the attendant of the man of God arose early and went forth> lo! a force surrounding the city, with horses and chariots. Then said his young man unto him—

Alas! my lord, what shall we do?

16 And he said—

Do not fear,—for are they who are with us than they who are with them.

17 Then prayed Elisha, and said,

O Yahweh! open, I beseech thee, his eyes, that he may see.

And Yahweh opened the eyes of the young man, and he saw, and lo! [the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire, round about Elisha].

18 And when they came down to him> Elisha prayed unto Yahweh, and said—

Smite, I beseech thee, this people, with sudden blindness.
And he smote them with sudden blindness,
[[according to the word of Eliaha]].
28 Then Eliaha said unto them—
[[This]] is not the way; neither is [[this]] the city, follow me, that I may lead you unto the man, whom ye would secure!
So he led them to Samaria. 29 And it came to pass <<when they had entered Samaria> that Eliaha said,
O Yahweh! open the eyes of these men, that they may see!
And Yahweh opened their eyes, and they saw, and lo! they were in the midst of Samaria! 30 Then said the king of Israel unto Eliaha, when he saw them,—
Shall I smite—shall I smite, my father?
29 And he said—
Thou shalt not smite. <<Them whom thou hadst taken captive with thy sword and with thy bow> wouldst | thou | have been smiting?
Set bread and water before them, that they may eat and drink, and go their way unto their lord.30 And he made for them a great feast, and <<when they had eaten and drunk> he let them go, and they went their way unto their lord. So then, troops of Syrians came again <<no more>> into the land of Israel.

§ 8. Ben-hadad besieges Samaria, causing a severe Famine, the End of which Eliaha foretells and Four Leapers announce.

24 But it came to pass <<after this>> that Ben-hadad king of Syria gathered together all his host,—and came up and laid siege against Samaria. 32 And there came to be <> in Samaria, and lo! they continued the siege against it,—until an ass's head was sold for eighty pieces of silver, and one pint of dove's dung for five pieces of silver. 33 And so it was that <<as the king of Israel was passing by on the wall>> <> made outcry unto him, saying—
Save, my lord, O king! 27 And he said—
<<If Yahweh do not save thee>> whence should I save thee? out of the threshing-floor or out of the wine-press? 28 And the king said to her—
What aileth thee?
And she said—
<<This woman>> said unto me—
Give thy son, that we may eat him, to-day, and <my son> will we eat to-morrow. 30 So we ooked my son, and did eat him,— and I said unto her, on the next day,
Give thy son, that we may eat him;
But she had hid her son.

28 And it came to pass <<when the king heard the words of the woman>> that he rent his clothes, while yet he was passing by upon the wall, the people looked, and lo! sackcloth upon his feet, [within] 31 And he said—<<So>> let God do to me, and [<<so>>] let him do to himself— <<if the head of Eliaha son of Saphan remain on him, to-day!>> 32 Now <<Eliaha>> being seated in his house, and the elders] seated with him,—<<when he sent a man from before him, ere yet the messenger could come in unto him>> <<the messenger>> said unto the elders—Do ye see how this son of a murderer hath to take away my head?
See! <<when the messenger is coming in.
close ye the door, and press him back with the door, is not the sound of his horse's feet behind him? 33 <<While yet he was speaking with them>> I <<the messenger>> coming down unto him,—he said,— Lo! <<this>> is a calamity from Yahweh, what should I wait for Yahweh [any longer]? 1 Then said Eliaha—Hear ye the word of Yahweh,—
Thus saith Yahweh—
<<About this time to-morrow>>
A measure of fine meal for a shekel,
And two measures of barley for a shekel in the gate of Samaria. 2 Then the officer on whose hand the king leaned responded to the man of God, and said,
<<Even if Yahweh were making windows in the heavens>> could this thing <<come to pass>>?
And he said—
Lo! <<thou>> art about to see it with thine own eyes, but <<thereof>> shalt thou not eat! 3 Now there were four men <<leapers>>, at the entrance of the gate;—and they said one to another—
Why are we sitting here until we are dead? 4 If we say—
Let us enter into the city,
Then <<the famine>> is in the city, and we die there, and <if we remain here> then shall we die.
Now therefore, let us fall away unto the camp of the Syrians; <if they save our life> we shall live, and <<if they put us to death>> we shall die.
So they rose up in the twilight, to enter into the camp of the Syrians;—<<when they entered the outskirts of the camp of the Syrians>> lo! there was not there man. 5 Now [[the Lord]] had caused the camp of the Syrians to hear a noise of chariots and a noise of horses, a noise of a great host,
and they said one to another—

Lo! the king of Israel hath hired against us—the kings of the Hittites, and the kings of the Egyptians, to come against us.

7 So they arose, and fled in the twilight, and left their tents, and their horses, and their asses,—*the camp, just as it was*—, and fled for their lives. 8 When, therefore, these lepers came in as far as the outskirts of the camp, they entered into one tent, and did eat and drink, and carried from thence silver, and gold, and raiment, and went away and hid them,—and came again, and entered into another tent, and carried from thence—and went and hid them. 9 Then said they one to another—

<Not a right thing> are <we> doing.

*This day* is | a day of good tidings; and <we> are holding our peace, <if we tarry until the light of the morning> there will come upon us | some misfortune,—

<Now> therefore, come and let us go in, and tell the household of the king.

10 So they came in and called unto the gate of the city, and told them, saying,

We entered into the camp of the Syrians, and lo! there was not <there> a man, nor sound of human being,—only horses tied, and asses tied, and their* tents, just as they were! |

And the watchers of the gate called<sup>3</sup> and told it to the household of the king | within. |

11 Then arose the king by night, and said unto his servants,

Let me tell you, I pray you, what the Syrians have done to us,—they knew that we were <famished>, so they have gone forth out of the camp, to hide in the field, saying,

<When they come forth out of the city> then shall we take them alive, and <into the city> will we enter.

12 Then responded one of his servants, and said—

Let there be taken, I pray thee, five of the horses that remain, which have been left therein, <there they are> according to all the multitude of Israel<sup></sup> who have been left therein <there they are> according to all the multitude of Israel<sup></sup> who have been consumed,—and let us send and see!

13 So they took two chariots and horses,—and the king sent after the host of the Syrians, saying,

Go and see!

14 And they followed them as far as the Jordan, and lo! \[all the way\] was full of garments, and utensils, which the Syrians had cast away in their fright,—and the messengers returned, and told the king. 15 Then went the people forth and spoiled the camp of the Syrians,—and so there came to be—

A measure of fine meal for a shekel, 16 And two measures of barley for a shekel, according to the word of Yahweh. 17 Now || the king || had set the officer on whose hand he leaned, in charge over the gate, and the people trode upon him in the gate, that he died,—||as spake the man of God, who said it when the messenger* came down to him. 18 Yes it came to pass <<the man of God had spoken unto the messenger* saying,—

Two measures of barley for a shekel, 19 And a measure of fine meal for a shekel, shall there be about this time to-morrow, in the gate of Samaria:

20 And when the officer responded to the man of God, and said, 21 || Yahweh were making windows in the heavens, could it be according to this word?* 22 And he said,—

Lo! thou art about to see it with thine own eyes, but [thereof] shalt thou not eat> 23 Yes it fell out to him | thus|,—and the people trode upon him in the gate, that he died.

2 Arise, and take thy journey, || thou and thy household, || and sojourn wheresoever thou canst sojourn,—for Yahweh hath called for a famine, moreover also | it is coming upon the land seven years.

3 So the woman arose, and did according to the word of the man of God,—and took her journey, <she and her household> and she sojourned in the land of the Philistines, seven years. 4 And it came to pass <at the end of seven years> that the woman returned out of the land of the Philistines,—and she went forth to make outcry unto the king, concerning her house and concerning her field. 5 Now || the king || was speaking unto Gehazi, servant of the man of God, saying,—

§ 11. The Reign of Jehoram, Son of Jehoshaphat, King of Judah.

11 Now in the fifth year of Joram son of Ahab, king of Israel, the king of Judah died. 2 Jehoram, son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, began to reign. 3 He was two years old when he began to reign; and he reigned a total of eight years in Jerusalem. 4 And he walked in the ways of the kings of Israel, just as his father had done,而且还行了他列祖以色列的王所行的一切可憎的罪。 5 He also took away the image of Baal which his father had made, but worshiped at the high places of Lebanon, as his father did. 6 He also made altars for Asherah, as did the kings of Israel, and worshiped them. 7 He built altars for all the graven image houses, which his father had made, throughout Judah, and in Jerusalem. 8 He also built altars for all the graven images of Baal, which his father had made, and worshiped them. 9 Moreover he burned incense in the high places, and on the mountains, and under every green tree. 10 Then Israel came to his end in the hands of the king of Assyria, and in the city of Samaria did the king of Assyria take them away in the third year of the reign of Joram king of Judah. 11 For he sent and brought them down out of the city, because of their wickedness. 12 Then the king of Assyria carried them away to Assyria, and placed them in the city of Halah, and in the city of Habor, on the banks of the River, and in the cities of the Medes. 13 And he took away Joram’s son out of Judah, and brought him to Assyria; and there he died. 14 And it came to pass, as it was written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel, so it came to pass. 15 Now the rest of the acts of Joram, and all that he did, are they are written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. 16 And his bowels were inflamed with disease, and he died.

§ 12. The Reign of Ahaziah, Son of Ahab, King of Judah.

22 In the twelfth year of Joram son of Ahab, king of Israel, Ahaziah son of Jehoram, king of Judah, began to reign. 23 Two years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign; and he reigned a total of one year in Jerusalem. 24 And his mother’s name was Athaliah, daughter of Omri, king of Israel. 25 So he walked in the ways of the house of Ahab, for he was a son-in-law of the house of Ahab. 26 And he went with Joram son of Ahab to make war against Hazael king of Syria, in Ramoth-gilead; and the Syrians wounded Joram. 27 So Joram the king turned to get healed in Jezreel, from the wounds wherewith the Syrians had wounded him in Ramah, when he fought with Hazael king of Syria; and Ahaziah son of Jehoram, king of Judah, went down to see Joram son of Ahab in Jezreel, because he was sick.
And he said—
<Thus and thus> spake he unto me, saying,

[Thus] saith Yahweh,
I have anointed thee to be king unto Israel.

Then hasted they, and took, every man his garment, and put it under him, upon the very steps,—and blew with a horn, and said, Jehu is king!

13 Then did Jehu son of Jehoshaphat son of Nimshi conspire against Joram,—when [Joram] was watching Ramoth-gilead, [he and all Israel] because of Hazael king of Syria.

14 But Jehoram the king had returned to get himself healed in Jezreel, of the wounds wherewith the Syrians had wounded him, when he fought with Hazael king of Syria. Then said Jehu—

<If such is' your mind> let no fugitive get forth out of the city, to go and tell it in Jezreel.

15 So Jehu rode in a chariot, and went towards Jezreel, for [Joram] was lying there,—and [Ahaziah king of Judah] had come down to see Joram.

16 Now [the watchman] was standing upon the tower, in Jezreel, so he saw the great company of Jehu, when he came, and said—

[A great company] can I see!

Then said Jehoram—
Take a horseman* and send to meet them, that he may say—

Is it peace?

17 So the horseman went to meet him, and said—

[Thus] saith the king. Is it peace?

And Jehu said—

What hast thou' to do with peace?* turn thee behind me.

And the watchman told, saying,
The messenger came up to them, but hath not turned back.

18 Then sent he a second horseman, and he came up to them and said,

[Thus] saith the king Is it peace?*

And Jehu said—

What hast thou' to do with peace? turn thee behind me.

And the watchman told, saying,
He came up to them, but hath not turned back,—and [the driving] is like the driving of Jehu son of Nimshi; for <with mad haste> doth he drive.

21 Then said Jehoram,
Harness!

So one harnessed his chariot,—and Jehoram king of Israel and Ahaziah king of Judah went forth, each man in his chariot, yea they went forth to meet Jehu, and came upon him in the heritage of Naboth the

And it came to pass, when Jehoram saw Jehu, that he said—

Is it peace, Jehu?—

And he said—

What can be the peace, while thy mother Jezebel's harlotries and her incantations do so abound?

Then Jehoram turned his hands, and fled,— and said unto Ahaziah—

Treachery! O Ahaziah!

And ||Jehu|| bent his bow, and smote Jehoram, between his arms,—and the arrow came out at his heart,—and he sank down in his chariot. Then said he unto Bidkar his officer,

Take [him] up, [and] cast him forth, into the field-portion of Naboth the Jezreelite,—for remember when I and thou were riding as a couple together after Abah his father> that ||Yahweh|| laid upon him this doom:

Surely the blood of Naboth and the blood of his sons have I lately seen,

Declareth Yahweh.

Therefore will I requite thee in this portion,

Declareth Yahweh.

And ||Ahaziah king of Judah|| saw it, and fled by the way of the garden house,—and Jehu pursued him, and said—

<Hi also!> smite him in the chariot!

It was in the ascen of Gur, which is by Ibleam. And he fled to Mepidgo, and died there. And his servants conveyed him in a chariot and brought him into Jerusalem,—and buried him in his sepulchre, with his fathers, in the city of David. Now it was in the eleventh year of Joram son of Ahab> that Ahaziah began to reign over Judah.

Now when Jehu entered Jezreel and ||Jessebel|| heard of it> she set her eyes in stibium, and ornamented her head, and looked forth through the lattice. So when ||Jehu|| had entered in at the gate> she said,

Was it peace, when Zimri slew his lord?

And he lifted up his face unto the lattice, and said—

|Who| is with me? |Who|?

And there looked out unto him, two or three eunuchs. And he said—

Hurled her down.

And they hurled her down,—and there was sprinkled of her blood—upon the wall, and upon the horses, and they trode upon her.

And when he had entered and eaten and drunk> he said—

Look, I pray thee, after this accursed woman, and bury her, for <the daughter of a king> she is.

So they went to bury her,—but found not of her—save the skull, and the feet, and the palms of the hands.

Then came they back, and told him, and he said—

The word of ||Yahweh|| it is, he spake it by the hand of his servant, Elijah the Tishbite, saying—

In the town-land of Jezreel:

Shall dogs cast the flesh of ||Jehu||?

So shall the carcase of ||Jesebel|| become like heaps of dung on the face of the field, in the town-land of Jezreel:

So that they cannot say, ||This|| is ||Jesebel||.

1 Now ||Abab|| had seventy sons in Samaria, and Jezreel, so Jehu wrote letters, and sent to Samaria, and to ||Jezreel||—the elders, and to them who had been foster-parents for Abab, saying:

2 ||Now|| therefore, when this letter comes in unto you, there being ||with you|| sons of your lord,—and ||with you|| chariotes and the horses, and a fortified city,—and the armour> ye shall look out the goodliest and fittest of the sons of your lord, and set on the throne of his father, and ye shall do battle for the house of your lord.

3 Then feared they very greatly, and said,

Lo! ||two kings|| stood not before him; ||then|| should ||we|| stand?

So he that was over the house, and he that was over the city, and the elders, and the foster parents sent unto ||Jehu||, saying—

Thy servants> we are! And <all that thou shalt say unto us> we do,—

We will make no man king,

Whatsoever is good in thine own eyes>

Then wrote he unto them a second letter, saying—

If <mine> ye are, and <unto my voice ye intend to hearken> take ye the heads of the men> who are sons of your lord, and come in unto me about this time to-morrow in Jezreel.

Now the sons of the king, seventy persons, were with the great men of the city, who had been bringing them up. And it came to pass, when the letter reached them> that they took the sons of the king, and slew them; seven persons, and put their heads in baskets, and sent unto him, to ||Jezreel||. And they came in a messenger and told him, saying,

They have brought in the heads of the sons of the king.

And he said—

Lay ye them in two heaps, at the entrance of the gate, until the morning.

And it came to pass <in the morning> that he went out and took his stand, and said unto all the people, [Righteous:] are [ye!] !

Lo! [I] conspired against my lord, and slew him, but [who] smote [all these]?!

Know ye, then, that there shall fall nought of the word of Yahweh, to the ground, which Yahweh spake concerning the house of Ahab,—but [Yahweh] hath done that which he spake through his servant Elijah.

Then Jehu smote all that were left remaining unto the house of Ahab, in Jezreel, and all his great men, and his acquaintances and his priests,—until there was not left remaining to him [a survivor]. 17 Then arose he, and came in, and departed for Samaria,—[the sheep-shearing house itself being upon the road]; 1{ so [Jehu] sighted upon the brethren of Ahaziah king of Judah, and said—

Who's [are] [ye]!?

And they said—

[Brethren of Ahaziah] are [we]; so we came down to salute the sons of the king, and the sons of the queen.

Then said he—

Take them alive.

So they took them alive, and slew them [casting them] into the pit of the shearing house,—forty-two men, neither left he remaining a man of them. 2

Then departed he from thence, and lighted on Jehonadab son of Rechab coming to meet him, and he blessed him, and said unto him—

Is thy heart [right], as my heart is with thy heart?

And Jehonadab said—

It is.

Then <if it ia> give me thy hand.

So he gave him his hand. And he took him up to him, into the chariot; 16 and said—

Do come with me, and see my jealousy for Yahweh.

So he made him ride in his chariot. 17 And <when he came into Samaria> he smote all that were left remaining unto Ahab, in Samaria, until he had destroyed him,—according to the word of Yahweh, which he had spoken unto Elijah.

Then Jehu gathered together all the people, and said unto them,— [Ahab] served Baal [a little],—[Jehu] will serve him [much].

[Now], therefore, <all the prophets of Baal, all his servants and all his priests> call ye unto me; do not let [a man] be missing; for [a great sacrifice] have I, to Baal, [no one that is missing] shall live.

But [Jehu] acted [craftily] to the end he might destroy the servants of Baal. 20 And Jehu said—

Hallow ye a solemn feast unto Baal.

And they made proclamation. 21 And Jehu sent throughout all Israel, and all the servants of Baal came in, so that there was not left remaining a man, who had not come in,—and they entered the house of Baal, and the house of Baal was filled, from door to door. 22 Then said he to him who was over the wardrobe chamber,

Bring forth vestments for all the servants of Baal.

And he brought forth for them the vestments. 23 Then entered Jehu, with Jehonadab son of Rechab, into the house of Baal,—and he said unto the servants of Baal—

Search ye and see, that there be' not here, with you, any of the servants of Yahweh, [none but the servants of Baal alone].

24 And <when they entered to offer sacrifices and ascending offerings> [Jehu] set him [outside] eighty men, and said—

[The man who shall escape, of the men whom I am bringing into your power]> [his own life] shall be for [his life].

25 And it came to pass <as soon as he had made an end of offering the ascending-sacrifice> that Jehu said to the runners and to the officers—

Enter, smite them, let not [a man] get out. So they smote them, with the edge of the sword,—and the runners and the officers cast them out, and then went as far as the city of the house of Baal, 26 and brought forth the idolatrous pillars* that were in the house of Baal, and then burned it; 27 and they brake down the pillars* of Baal,—and he brake down the house of Baal, and appointed it for a sewer—until this day.

28 Thus Jehu destroyed Baal out of Israel. 29 Nevertheless <as for the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused [Israel] to commit> Jehu turned not away from following them,—[the calves of gold, one being in Bethel, and the other in Dan].

And Yahweh said unto Jehu:

[Because thou hast done well, by doing that which was right in mine eyes]—

[according to all that was in my heart]—

[hadst done to the house of Ahab] [sons] of thine [unto the fourth generation] shall sit upon the throne of Israel.

But [Jehu] took not heed to walk in the law of Yahweh God of Israel, with all his heart,—he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam, which he caused [Israel] to commit.

28 In those days began Yahweh to make inroads in Israel,—and Hazael smote them in all the boundaries of Israel; 28 <from the Jordan, towards sunrise> all the land of Gilead, the Gadites, and the Reubenites, and the Manassites,—from Aroer, which is by the torrent of Arnon, both Gilead and Bashan].

§ 14. The murderous Design of Athaliah frustrated; Joash (= Jehoash) preserved and made King over Judah. His Reign.

11 Now when Athaliah, mother of Ahaziah, saw that her son was dead, she arose and destroyed all the seed royal. But Jehosheba, daughter of King Joram, sister of Ahaziah, took Joash son of Ahaziah, and stole him from among the king's sons that were being slain—him and his nurse—into the bedchamber,—so she hid him from the face of Athaliah, that he was not slain. And he was with her, in the house of Yahweh, hiding himself, six years,—while Athaliah was reigning over the land.

But in the seventh year Jehoiada sent and took the captains of hundreds, of the Carian body-guard, and of the runners, and brought them unto him, in the house of Yahweh,—and when he had solemnised a covenant with them, and put them on oath, in the house of Yahweh, then shewed he them the king's son; and commanded them, saying,—This is the thing which ye must do,—A third part of you will be coming in on the sabbath, and keeping the watch of the house of the king; and a third in the side-gate; and a third in the gate behind the runners,—so shall ye keep the watch of the house by turns. And two parts of you are all that are going out on the sabbath,—so shall ye keep the watch of the house of Yahweh, as touching the king.

Thus shall ye encompass the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand, and he that cometh within the ranks let him be slain,—so be ye with the king, when he cometh out and when he goeth in.

And the captains of hundreds did according to all that Jehoiada the priest commanded, and they took every man his men who were coming in on the sabbath, with them who were going out on the sabbath,—and came unto Jehoiada the priest. And the priest gave unto the captains of hundreds the spears* and the shields which belonged to King David,—which were in the house of Yahweh.

May the king live!

13 And when Athaliah heard the noise of the runners, the people, then came she in unto the people, in the house of Yahweh, and looked, and lo! the king standing by the pillar, as the custom was, and the captains and the trumpeters by the king, and all the people of the land rejoicing, and blowing with trumpets,—so Athaliah rent her garments, and cried out:

Conspiracy! conspiracy!

14 And Jehoiada the priest commanded the captains of hundreds—officers of the force, and said unto them—Take her forth into the inside of the ranks, and he that cometh after her ye are to slay with the sword.

For the priest said,

Let her not be slain in the house of Yahweh.

15 So they made way for her, and she entered the road by which the horses approached the house of the king, and was slain there.

16 And Jehoiada solemnised a covenant between Yahweh, and the king, and the people, that they should become a people unto Yahweh, also between the king and the people. And all the people of the land entered the house of Baal, and brake it down, his altars and his images brake they in pieces utterly; and Mattan the priest of Baal they slew before the altars, and the priest appointed officers over the house of Yahweh. And he took the captains of hundreds, and the Carian body-guard, and the runners, and all the people of the land, and they brought down the king out of the house of Yahweh, and they came, by way of the gate of the runners, into the house of the king,—and he took his seat on the throne of the kings; and all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city had rest,—when they had put Athaliah to death with the sword, in the house of the king.

7||Seven years old was Jehoash, when he began to reign.

And Jehoash did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh.
all his days,—whereunto Jehoiada the priest instructed him: 9 have only that <the high places> took they not away,—still' were the people sacrificing and burning incense in the high places.

2 And Jehoash said unto the priests—
\(<\text{All the silver of the hallowed things, that is brought into the house of Yahweh—the silver of one who transgresseth, the silver of [their] persons by the estimate of [each one],—all the silver which it cometh into any man’s heart to bring into the house of Yahweh}> \text{let the priests take to them, every one from his acquaintance,—and let [them]} repair the breaches of the house, [wheresoever there may be found a breach].

But it came to pass, that <in the twenty-third year of King Jehoash> the priests had not repaired the breaches of the house. 7 So King Jehoash called for Jehoiada the priest, and for the other priests, and said unto them—

Why are ye not repairing the breaches of the house?

Now therefore, do not take silver from your acquaintance, for <to [repair] the breaches of the house> ought ye to have given it?

The priests therefore consented, not to take silver from the people, and not to repair the breaches of the house. 8 Then took Jehoiada a certain chest, and bored a hole in the door thereof,—and set it beside the altar, on the right, as one entereth into the house of Yahweh, and the priests that kept the entrance-hall, used to put therein—all the silver that was brought into the house of Yahweh. 9 And it came to pass <when they saw that there was much silver in the chest> that the king’s scribe and the high priest came up, and brought together and counted the silver that was found in the house of Yahweh; 10 then used they to give the silver that had been weighed out, into the hands of the doors of the work, who had oversight of the house of Yahweh,—and they brought it forth, to the carpenters, and to the builders, who were working upon the house of Yahweh; 11 and to the masons, and to the hewers of stone, and to buy timber, and hewn stone, for repairing the breaches of the house of Yahweh,—and to every one that went out upon the house, to repair it. 12 Howbeit there were not made for the house of Yahweh, bowls of silver, snuffers, dashing basins, trumpets, any vessel of gold, or any vessel of silver,—out of the silver that was brought into the house of Yahweh; 13 for <to the doors of the work> used they to give it; and so they repaired, therewith, the house of Yahweh. 14 And they used not to reckon with the men into whose hands they gave the silver, to give it to the doors of the work,—because <with faithful-\(\text{ness}> \text{were [they] dealing, [16] [Silver for guilt. offerings and silver for sin-offerings] was not brought into the house of Yahweh,—<to the priests> they} \text{ belonged.

[17] Then came up Hazael king of Syria, and fought against Gath, and captured it,—so Hazael set his face to go up against Jerusalem.

Therefore did Jehoash, king of Judah, take all the hallowed things which Jehoshaphat and Jehoram and Ahaziah, his fathers, kings of Judah, had hallowed, and his own hallowed things, and all the gold that was found in the treasuries of the house of Yahweh and the house of the king,—and sent to Hazael king of Syria, so he went up from against Jerusalem.

Now <the rest of the story of Joash, and all that he did> are [they] not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah.

And his servants arose and made a conspiracy, and smote Joash, in the house of Millo which goeth down to Silla. 21 Yea [Jozabah<sup>6</sup> son of Shimeath and Jehozabad son of Shomer, his servants]] smote him, that he died, and he was buried<sup>4</sup> with his fathers, in the city of David,—and Amaziah<sup>6</sup> his son, reigned in his stead.

$ 15. Jehoash, Son of Jehu, Reigned over Israel (wicked).

1 <In the twenty-third year of Jehoash son of 13 Ahaziah king of Judah> began Jehoash, son of Jehu, to reign over Israel, in Samaria, [and he reigned] seventeen years. 2 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and went after the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat which he caused [Israel] to commit, he departed not therefrom. 3 Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh against Israel,—and he delivered them into the hand of Hazael king of Syria, and into the hand of Ben-hadad son of Hazael, continually. 4 And Jehoash appeased the face of Yahweh,—and Yahweh hearkened unto him, because he had seen the oppression of Israel, for that [the king of Syria] oppressed them.

So Yahweh gave unto Israel a saviour, and they went forth from under the hand of Syria,—and the sons of Israel dwelt in their own homes, as aforetime. 6 Howbeit they departed not from the sins of the house<sup>4</sup> of Jeroboam which he caused [Israel] to commit, \(\text{[therein]}\) they \(\text{walked,—moreover also} \) [the Sacred Stem<sup>4</sup>] still stood in Samaria. 7 For he had not left remaining unto Jehoash a people, save only fifty horsemen, and ten

Reign of Jehoash

§ 16. Jehoash ( = Jehoahaz) son of Jehoahaz reigns over Israel. The Death and Burial of Elisha.

10. In the thirty-seventh year of the reign of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, Jehoash son of Jehoahaz began to reign over Israel in Samaria, and he reigned sixteen years. And he did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord, turning away from all the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he had caused Israel to commit, and he walked in the ways of Asa his father. In the thirty-seventh year of his reign he began to reign.

11. Now the rest of the story of Jehoahaz, and all that he did, and his might, are not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

12. So then Jehoahaz slept with his fathers, and he was buried in Samaria, and his son Jehoash reigned in his stead.

13. Thou shouldst have smitten five or six times, then hadst thou smitten Syria until it had been consumed; but now shalt thou smite Syria three times.

20. And Elisha died, and they buried him. And when they had done it, they that had come to pass as they went burying the man saw a troop; and when they saw it, they returned again, and said, There is blood upon the head of Elisha; and they all went to search the young man, seeing the blood upon the head of Elisha.

2. Twenty-five years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem;

3. And he did that which was wrong in the eyes of the Lord;

4. And he smote Amaziah by the hand of David his father; and he did much evil in the eyes of the Lord.

5. And he said to Amaziah, The arrows of Zion are threefold, they are signified to thee, O king:

6. And he smote him before the people.

7. And Amaziah the son of Joash king of Judah went down to fight against Amaziah king of Jerusalem; and Amaziah and his people laid hand on Amaziah and smote him in Jerusalem, and brought him to Samaria.

8. So Joash, the son of Jehoahaz, began to reign over Israel in the thirty and eighth year of the reign of Amaziah, king of Judah, and he reigned sixteen years in Samaria.

9. The rest of the acts of Jehoash are recorded in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

10. And they buried him in the city of David; and his son Uzziah reigned in his stead.

6 "Then" sent Amaziah messengers’ unto Jehoash son of Jehoahaz son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying,— Come now, let us look one another in the face.

9 And Jehoash king of Israel sent unto Amaziah king of Judah, saying, and there passed by a beast of the field that was in Lebanon, and trampled down the thistle:

10 Thou hast smitten Edom, and thy heart would lift thee up,— Glory, and stay at home! Wherefore, then, shouldst thou contend with misfortune, and fall, [thou, and Judah with thee]!"

11 But Amaziah hearkened not.

So then Jehoash king of Israel came up, and they looked one another in the face, || he and Amaziah king of Judah ||,—in Beth-shemesh, which belongeth unto Judah.

12 Then was Judah defeated before Israel,—and they fled, every man to his own home; and <upon Amaziah, king of Judah, son of Jehoash son of Ahaziah> did Jehoash king of Israel [seize] in Beth-shemesh,—and entered Jerusalem, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem, at the gate of Ephraim, as far as the corner gate, four hundred cubits;

14 and took all the gold and the silver and all the vessels that were found in the house of Yahweh, and in the treasuries of the house of the king, and hostages,—and returned to Samaria.

15 Now <the rest of the story of Jehoash, what> he did, and his might, and how he fought with Amaziah king of Judah > are [they] not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?

16 And Jehoash slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria, with the kings of Israel,—and [Jeroboam his son] reigned [in his stead].

17 And Amaziah son of Josiah king of Judah [lived] <after the death of Jehoash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel> [fifteen years].

Now <the rest of the story of Amaziah> is [it] not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah?

19 And <when they made against him a conspiracy in Jerusalem> he fled to Lachish,—but they sent after him to Lachish, and slew him [there].

20 And they bare him on horses,—and he was buried in Jerusalem, with his fathers, in the city of David.

21 And all the people of Judah took Azariah,* [he] being sixteen years old,—and made [him] king instead of his father Amaziah.

22 "He" built Elath, and restored it to Judah,—after the king slept with his fathers.

§ 18. Jeroboam (II.) reigns over Israel.

23 <In the fifteenth year of Amaziah, son of Josiah, king of Judah> began Jeroboam, son of Josiah, king of *Israel, to reign in Samaria, [and he reigned] forty-one years. 24 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—he turned not away from any of the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused |Israel| to commit. 25 "He" restored the boundary of Israel, from the entering in of Hamath, unto the sea of the waste plain,—according to the word of Yahweh, God of Israel, which he spake by the hand of his servant Jonah, son of Amittai, the prophet, who was of Gath-hepher.

26 For Yahweh saw the humiliation of Israel, that it was bitter [indeed],—and that there was no one shut up, nor any one left at large, no one indeed to help Israel. 27 Neither had Yahweh spoken, to wipe out the name of Israel from under the heavens,—so he saved them, by the hand of Jeroboam son of Josaph.

Now <the rest of the story of Jeroboam, and all that he did, and his might when he was warred, and how he restored Damascus and Hamath to Judah in Israel> are [they] not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?

28 And Jeroboam slept with his fathers, with the kings of Israel,—and Zechariah his son reigned [in his stead].

§ 19. Azariah (= Uzziah) reigns over Judah.

1 <In the twenty-seventh year of Jeroboam 15 king of Israel> began Azariah son of Amaziah king of Judah to reign. 2 <Sixteen years old> was he when he began to reign, and <fifty-two years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and [the name of his mother] was Jecholiah, of Jerusalem.

3 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that [Amaziah his father] had done. 4 Only: <the high places> took they not away,—still were the people sacrificing and burning incense in the high places.

5 And Yahweh smote the king, so that he became a leper, until the day of his death, and dwelt in a lazaret-house,[5] and [Jotham, son of the king] was over the house, judging the people of the land.

6 Now <the rest of the story of Azariah, and all that he did> are [they] not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. 7 And Azariah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers, in the city of David,—and [Jotham his son] reigned [in his stead].

8. In the thirty-eighth year of Azariah king of Judah, began Zechariah son of Jeroboam to reign over Israel, in Samaria, [and he reigned] six months. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, as did his fathers,—he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused [Israel] to commit. 11. Shallum the son of Jabesh began to reign, in the thirty-ninth year of Uzziah, king of Judah,—for the space of a month in Samaria. Then came up Menahem son of Gadi, from Tirzah, and entered Samaria, and smote Shallum son of Jabesh in Samaria,—and slew him, and reigned in his stead.

Now <the rest of the story of Shallum, and his conspiracy which he made> behold them! written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel!

12. Then Menahem smote Tiphsah, and all that were therein, and the boundaries thereof, from Tirzah, because they opened not therefore he smote them,—call the women therein that were with child, and he ripped up.

13. In the thirty-ninth year of Azariah king of Judah, began Menahem son of Gadi to reign over Israel, ten years [reigned he], in Samaria. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused [Israel] to commit, all his days.

14. Pul the king of Assyria came against the land, so Menahem gave unto Pul, a thousand talents of silver,—that his hands might be with him, to confirm the kingdom, in his hand. And Menahem exacted the silver of Israel, of all the mighty men of wealth, to give to the king of Assyria, fifty shekels of silver, of each man,—so the king of Assyria turned back, and stayed not there, in the land.

21. Now <the rest of the story of Menahem, and all that he did> are therein not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

22. And Menahem slept with his fathers,—and [Pekahiah his son] reigned in his stead.

23. In the fiftieth year of Azariah king of Judah, began Pekahiah son of Menahem to reign over Israel, in Samaria, [and he reigned] two years. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused [Israel] to commit.

24. And there conspired against him—Pekah son of Remaliah a hero of his, and smote him in Samaria, in the citadel of the house of a king, with Argob and with Arieh, and <with him> fifty men of the sons of the tribe of Gileadites,—and he slew him, and reigned in his stead.

Now <the rest of the story of Pekahiah, and all that he did> behold them! written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

25. In the fifty-second year of Azariah king of Judah, began Pekah son of Remaliah to reign over Israel, in Samaria, [and he reigned] twenty years. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused [Israel] to commit.

26. In the days of Pekah king of Israel came Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria, and took Ijon, and Abel-beth-maacah, and Janah, and Kedesh, and Hazor, and Gilead, and Galilee, all the land of Naphtali,—and carried them away captive to Assyria.

27. And Hoshea son of Elah made a conspiracy against Pekah, son of Remaliah, and smote him, and slew him, and reigned in his stead,—in the twentieth year of Jotham son of Uzziah.

28. Now <the rest of the story of Pekah, and all that he did> behold them! written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

22. In the second year of Pekah son of Remaliah king of Israel, began Jotham son of Uziah king of Judah to reign. Twenty-five years old was he, when he began to reign, and <sixteen years> reigned he, in Jerusalem, and [the name of his mother] was Jerusalem, daughter of Zachok.

23. And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, according to all that Uziah his father had done. Only <the high places> took they not away, still were the people offering sacrifices and burning incense in the high places,—he built the upper gate of the house of Yahweh.

24. Now <the rest of the story of Jotham, what he did> is therein not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

Chronicles of the Kings of Judah?

§ 22. Ahaz succeeds Jotham as king over Judah.

18 [In the seventeenth year of Pekah son of Remaliah] began Ahaz son of Jotham king of Judah to reign. 2 Twenty years old was Ahaz when he began to reign, and [sixteen years] reigned he in Jerusalem. And he did not that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, God, like David his father; but walked in the way of the kings of Israel, moreover also he made [his son] pass through the fire, according to the abominable practices of the nations, whom Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel; and he offered sacrifice and burned incense in the high places, and on the hills, and under every green tree.

[Then] came up Rezin king of Syria, and Pekah son of Remaliah king of Israel, unto Jerusalem, to make war; and they laid siege against Ahaz, but could not overcome him.

At that time > Rezin king of Syria recovered Elath, to Syria, and wholly cleared out the Jews from Edom, and the Syrians entered Elath, and have dwelt there, unto this day.

So Ahaz sent messengers unto Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, saying, <Thy servant and thy son> I am;—Come up and save me, out of the hand of the king of Syria, and out of the hand of the king of Israel, who are rising up against me.

And Ahaz took the silver and the gold that was found in the house of Yahweh, and in the treasuries of the house of the king, and sent them to the king of Assyria, as a bribe.

So the king of Assyria hearkened unto him, and the king of Assyria came up unto Damascus, and seized it, and carried away the people thereof captive to Kir, and put [Rezin] to death.

So then King Ahaz went to meet Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, in Damascus, and saw the altar which was in Damascus, and King Ahaz sent unto Urijah the priest, a likeness of the altar, and a model thereof, according to all the workmanship thereof; and Urijah the priest built an altar, according to all that King Ahaz sent from Damascus; [so] did Urijah the priest make it, by the time

King Ahaz came from Damascus. And when the king came from Damascus> then the king saw the altar, —so the king drew near unto the altar, and caused [offerings] to ascend thereupon. And he made perfume with his ascending-sacrifice, and with his meal-offering, and poured out his drink-offering, and dashed the blood of the peace-offerings which he had upon the altar. And <the altar of bronze which was before Yahweh> he brought away from the forefront of the house, from between the altar, and the house of Yahweh,—and put it at the side of the altar northward. And King Ahaz commanded Urijah the priest, saying—<Upon the great altar> make thou perfume with the ascending-sacrifice of the morning, and with the meal-offering of the evening, and with the ascending-sacrifice of the king and with his meal-offering, and with the ascending-sacrifice of all the people of the land, and their meal-offering and their drink-offering, and all the blood of the ascending-offering, and all the blood of the [peace offering] shall be for me to inquire [into].

So Urijah the priest did according to all that King Ahaz commanded. And King Ahaz cut off the side walls of the stands, and took away from off them the laver, and <the sea> took he down from off the oxen of bronze, which were under it,—and set it on a pavement of stones. Also <the covered walk for the Sabbath, which they had built in the house, and the outer entrance for the king> he changed in the house of Yahweh,—because of the king of Assyria.

Now <the rest of the story of Ahaz, what he did> is [it] not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah.

And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David,—and [Hezekiah his son] reigned in his stead.

§ 23. Hoshea reigns over Israel, and becomes tributary to Shalmaneser king of Assyria, who besieges Samaria and carries Israel into Captivity.

1 [In the twelfth year of Ahaz king of 17 Judah] began Hoshea son of Elah to reign in Samaria, over Israel, and he reigned nine years. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—only not like the kings of Israel who were before him. [Against him] came up Shalmaneser king of Assyria, —and Hoshea became his servant, and rendered him a present. Then found the king of Assyria, in Hoshea, a conspiracy, in that he had sent messengers unto So, king of Egypt, and had not brought up a present to the king of Assyria, as [he had done] year by year,—therefore the king of Assyria shut him up, and bound him in prison. 5 And the king of Assyria came up throughout all the land,—yes he came up to Samaria and besieged it three years. 6 In the ninth year of Hoshea, sent the king of Assyria all the land,—throughout the land of Israel, and took it. 7 And the king of Assyria carried Israel away captive to Assyria, and settled them in Halah, and in Abalah, and in the mountains of Media, and in the cities of Samaria, the king of Assyria set them there. 8 And the king of Assyria commanded the priest of the high places, saying, 9 Set up an altar, and a high place for me in one of the cities of your choice, which I shall give you. 10 And the priests of the high places went to the king, and said to him, 11 If you will set an altar in one of the cities of your choice, we will serve the Lord, even one altar in that city, and will offer burnt offerings and burnt sacrifices to the Lord. 12 But the king, hearkened not unto the people of the land. 13 And the king spake to all the people that dwelt in the cities which he had taken, saying, 14 So did the king of Assyria to all the叶子 which he took, and dwelt in them; and he set over them over 3000 officers, that they might rule over them. 15 Then the king of Assyria brought men from Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from Avva, and from Hamath, and from Sepharvaim, and placed them in the cities which he had taken from Israel, and in Samaria. 16 And the Lord brought up the Assyrians unto king Ahaz, saying, 17 Because you have not hearkened to the words of the prophets, therefore shall you see an altar in the city of Samaria, and a high place in the streets thereof. 18 Therefore work the Lord in the land, 19 And the Lord spake to the king, saying, 20 Hearken not unto him: for all that he saith is a lie. 21 For the king of Assyria shall come, and all his people: and when he cometh, he shall set himself against this city, and against all Israel; 22 And he shall build forts against this city, and cast up a mound against it, and build a wall. 23 And the Lord shall bring the Assyrians unto king Ahaz, saying, 24 And the king of Assyria brought men from Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from Avva, and from Hamath, and from Sepharvaim, and placed them in the cities which he had taken from Israel, and in Samaria. 25 And the king of Assyria commanded the priest of the high places, saying, 26 So spake the king of Assyria unto the priest of the high places, saying, 27 For the king of Assyria commanded the priest of the high places, saying, 28 And the king of Assyria carried Israel away captive to Assyria, and settled them in Halah, and in Abalah, and in the mountains of Media, and in the cities of Samaria, the king of Assyria set them there.
were making their own gods, — and did put them in the houses of the high places, which had made, each several nation in their cities wherein they were dwelling.

24 So then (the men of Babylon made Succothbenoth, and the men of Cuth made Nergal, and the men of Hamath made Ashima:

25 and the Avites made Nibah and Tartak, and the Sepharvites did consume their sons in the fire, to Adrammelech and Anammelech gods of Sepharvaim.

26 Thus became they reverers of Yahweh, — and yet made for themselves, from the whole compass of them, priests of high places, who became offerers for them in the house of the high places. 27 <Yahweh—were they revering, — and yet <their own gods — were they serving, according to the custom of the nations from whence they had brought them away captive. 28 Unto this day are they offering according to the former customs, — they are not revering Yahweh, neither are they offering after their own statutes, or their own custom, nor yet after the law and the commandment which Yahweh commanded the sons of Jacob.

Whose name he made to be Israel:

29 With whom Yahweh solemnised a covenant, and commanded them, saying —

Ye shall not revere other gods, — nor bow down to them, nor serve them, nor sacrifice to them;

30 But <Yahweh—Who brought you up out of the land of Egypt, with great might, and with arm outstretched> shall ye revere, — and shall ye bow down and shall ye sacrifice;

31 And <the statutes and the regulations, and the law and the commandment, which he wrote for you> shall ye surely observe to do, continually.

So shall ye not revere other gods;

32 But <the covenant which I have solemnised with you> shall ye not forget,— So shall ye not revere other gods;]

33 But <Yahweh your God> shall ye revere,— Then will he deliver you out of hand of all your enemies.

34 Howbeit they hearkened not, — but <according to their own former custom> were they offering.

35 Thus were these nations doing reverence unto Yahweh, and yet <unto their own carved images> were they rendering service, — yes <their sons and their son’s sons> <as the fathers offered> so are they offering until this day.

1 And it came to pass in the third year of Hoshea son of Elah king of Israel that Hezekish* son of Ahaz king of Judah began to reign.

2 Twenty-five years old was he when he began to reign, and twenty-nine years — reigned he in Jerusalem, — and <his mother’s name> was Abi b daughter of Zachariah.

3 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, — according to all that David his father did.

4 <He> removed the high places, and brake in pieces the pillars, and cut down the Sacred Stem, — and beat in pieces the serpent of bronze that Moses had made, because <until those days> had the sons of Israel been burning incense thereunto, so he called it Nehush-tan.

5 <In Yahweh, God of Israel> did he trust, — so that <after him> was none like him, among all the kings of Judah, nor that were before him; — and he did cleave unto Yahweh, he turned not’ away from following him, — but kept his commandments, which <Yahweh> commanded <Moses>.

6 So Yahweh was with him, <whithersoever he went forth> he prospered, — and he rebelled against the king of Assyria, and served him not.

7 <He> smote the Philistines, as far as GAZAH, and her boundaries, — from the watchmen’s tower even to the fortified city.

8 And it came to pass in the fourth year of King Hezekiah — the same was the seventh year of Hoshea son of Elah king of Israel > that Shalmaneser king of Assyria came up against Samaria, and laid siege against it;

9 and he captured it at the end of three years, <in the sixth year of Hezekiah, — the same> is the ninth year of Hoshea king of Israel > was Samaria captured.

10 So the king of Assyria drave away Israel to Assyria, — and settled them in Halah, b and in Habor, by the river of Gozan, and the mountains of Media: 12 because they hearkened not unto the voice of Yahweh their God, but transgressed his covenant, all that Moses the servant of Yahweh commanded, — they neither hearkened nor performed.

13 And <in the fourteenth year of King Hezekich) > came up Sennacherib king of Assyria, against all the fortified cities of Judah, and took them. 14 Then sent Hezekiah king of Judah unto the king of Assyria, to Lachish, saying — I have sinned.

Return from me,

<What thou shalt lay upon me> I will bear.

So the king of Assyria appointed unto Hezekich king of Judah, three hundred talents of silver, and thirty talents of gold. 15 And Hezekiah delivered up all the silver that was found in the house of Yahweh, and in the treasuries of the house of the king. 18 <At that time> Hezekiah cut off the doors of the temple of Yahweh, and the columns, which Hezekiah king of Judah had overlaid,—and gave them unto the king of Assyria.

17 And the king of Assyria sent Tartan and Rab-saris and Rab-shakeh, from Lachish unto King Hezekiah, with a heavy force to Jerusalem, —so they came up and drew near to Jerusalem, and took their stand a by the upper channel of the pool, which is in the highway of the fuller's field. 18 Then called they for the king, and there went out unto them Eliakim son of Hilkiah, b who was over the household,—and Shebnaiah, the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder. 19 And Rab-shakeh said unto them—

Pray ye, say unto Hezekiah,—

||Thus|| saith the great king, the king of Assyria, What trust is this' wherewith thou dost trust?

Thou hast said—they are only words of the lips!—

Counsel and might [have I] for the war. ||Now|| in whom' dost thou trust, that thou hast rebelled against me?

||Now|| lo! thou dost trust thyself on the support of this bruised cane, ||in Egypt|| wherein <if a man lean> it will enter his hand and lay it open,—||so|| is Pharaoh king of Egypt, to all who trust upon him.

But <if ye should say unto me,||In Yahweh our God|| do we trust—

Then is that' not he whose high places and whose altars Hezekiah hath removed, and said unto Judah, and unto Jerusalem—

<Before this altar> shall ye bow down, ||in Jerusalem|| !

||Now|| therefore, pledge thyself, I pray thee, with my lord, the king of Assyria,—

That I supply thee with two thousand horses,

If thou, on thy part, be able to set riders upon them.

How then wilt thou turn back the face of one pasha of the least of my lord's servants!

Or hast thou, on thy part, trusted to Egypt for chariots and for horsemen?

||Now|| is it ||without Yahweh|| that I have come up against this place, to destroy it?

||Yahweh himself|| said unto me,

Go thou up against this land, and destroy it.

26 Then said Eliakim son of Hilkiah, and Shebnaiah, and Joah, unto Rab-shakeh:

Speak, we pray thee, unto thy servants in the [Syrian] language, for ||we|| can understand it, a—

And do not speak with us in ||the Jewish language,|| in the ears of the people who are upon the wall.

27 But Rab-shakeh said unto them—

Is it ||concerning thy lord, and concerning these things|| that my lord hath sent me to speak those things?

Is it not concerning the men who are ||tarrying|| upon the wall, that they may eat their own dung and drink the own water b with you?

28 So then Rab-shakeh took his stand, and cried out with a loud voice in ||the Jewish|| language, ||and spake, and said—

Hear ye the message c of the great king, the king of Assyria:—

||Thus|| saith the king:—

Let not Hezekiah deceive you, c for he shall not be able to deliver you out of his hand;

Neither let Hezekiah cause you to trust in Yahweh, saying, ||Yahweh|| will ||certainly deliver|| us,||this city, therefore, shall not be given over into the hand of the king of Assyria.

Do not hearken unto Hezekiah,—for ||thus|| saith the king of Assyria, Deal with me thankfully, f and come over unto me,

Then shall ye eat—

Every one of his own vine,

And every one of his own fig-tree,

And drink every one the waters of his own cistern;

Until I come and take you, into a land like your own land—

A land of corn and new wine,

A land of bread and vineyards,

A land of oil olive and honey,

So shall ye live, and not die,—

But do not hearken unto Hezekiah,

For he would persuade you, saying, ||Yahweh|| will deliver us!

Have ||the gods of the nations|| not delivered|| any one of them, his country out of the hand of the king of Assyria?

Where' are the gods of Hamath, and Arpad?

Where are the gods of Sepharvaim, Hezir, and Ivah?

Yea, did they deliver Samaria' out of my hand?

35 Who are they, among all the gods of the earth, that have delivered?

countries, that have delivered their country, out of my hand,—

That [Yahweh] should deliver [Jerusalem] out of my hand?

But the people held their peace, and answered him not a word,—for <the command of the king> it was saying—

Ye must not answer him.

Then came in Eliakim son of Hilkiah who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and Josh son of Asaph the recorder, unto Hezekiah, with rent clothes,—and they told him the words of Rab-shakeh.

And it came to pass <when King Hezekiah heard> that he rent his clothes,—and covered himself with sackcloth, and entered the house of Yahweh; 2 and sent Eliakim who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth,—unto Isaiah, the prophet, son of Amoz; 3 and they said unto him—

Thus saith Hezekiah,

<A day of trouble, and rebuke, and reviling> is this day,—

For children are come to the birth, and ||strength|| is there none' to bring forth!

It may be that Yahweh thy God will hear all the words of Rab-shakeh, whom the king of Assyria his lord hath sent, to reproach a Living God, and will rebuke the words which Yahweh thy God hath heard,— Wherefore lift thou up a prayer, for the remnant that remaineth.

So the servants of King Hezekiah came unto Isaiah. 4 And Isaiah said unto them, —

Thus shall ye [say] unto your lord,—

Thus saith Yahweh,

Be not thou afraid, because of the words which thou hast heard, wherewith the servants of the king of Assyria have reviled [me]:

Behold me! about to let go against him |a blast|, 5 and <when he heareth the report> then will he return to his own country,—and I will cause him to fall by the sword, in his own land.

So Rab-shakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria warring against Libnah,—for he had heard that he had broken up from Lachish.

And when he heard say of Tirshakah, king of Ethiopia, saying—

Lo! be hath come forth to fight with thee,—then he again' sent messengers unto Hezekiah, saying—

Thus shall ye [speak] unto Hezekiah king of Judah, saying—

Let not thy God in whom thou' art trusting boguile thee, saying,— Jerusalem shall not be given over, into the hand of the king of Assyria.

Lo! ||thou thyself|| hast heard, what the kings of Assyria have done to all the lands, in devoting them to destruction,—and shalt ||thou|| be delivered?

Did the gods of the nations ||deliver them|| whom my fathers destroyed, Gozan, and Haran,—and Rezeph, and the sons of Eden, who were in Telassar?

Where are the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim,—of Hena, and Ivvah?

And <when Hezekiah had received the letter at the hand of the messengers, and had read it> then went he up to the house of Yahweh, and Hezekiah spread it out before Yahweh. 12 And Hezekiah prayed before Yahweh, and said,

O Yahweh, God of Israel, inhaling the cherubim,

[Thou thyself] art GOD, ||alone||, for all the kingdoms of the earth,—

[Thou] didst make' the heavens and the earth.

Bow down, O Yahweh, thine ear, and hear,

Open, O Yahweh, thine eyes, and see,—

Yes hear thou the words of Sennacherib, who hath sent—To reproach a Living God!

||Of a truth|| O Yahweh,—the kings of Assyria have devoted to destruction' the nations and their lands; 13 and have put their gods in the fire,—for <no-gods> were [they], but the work of the hands of men—wood and stone, and so they destroyed them.

||Now|| therefore, O Yahweh our God, save us, we pray thee, out of his hand, That all the kingdoms of the earth may know,

That ||thou, Yahweh|| art God, ||alone||!

Then Isaiah son of Amoz sent unto Hezekiah, saying,—

Thus saith Yahweh, God of Israel,

<What thou hast prayed unto me concerning Sennacherib king of Assyria> I have heard. 21 ||This|| is the word that Yahweh hath spoken concerning him,—
The virgin daughter of Zion |laughs thee to scorn, mocketh thee|,
The daughter of Jerusalem ||after thee|| |doth wag her head|.

||Whom|| hast thou reproached, and insulted?

And ||against whom|| hast thou lifted high thy voice?

Yea thou hast proudly raised thine eyes, ||against the Holy One of Israel||.

||Through thy messengers|| thou hast reproached My Lord," and hast said —

Some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns.) : "Yahweh" in stead of "My Lord"

G.n.
Therefore—

Thus saith Jehovah, concerning the king of Assyria,
He shall not enter this city,
Nor shoot there an arrow,—
Nor attack it with shield,
Nor cast up against it, a mound;

By the way that he cometh in>
By the same shall he return,—
And into this city shall he not enter.

Declareth Jehovah!

Thus will I throw a covering over this city, to save it,—
For mine own sake,
And for the sake of David my servant.

And it came to pass <during that night> that the messenger of Jehovah went forth, and smote, in the camp of the Assyrians, a hundred and eighty-five thousand. And <when men arose early in the morning> lo! they were all dead bodies! 36 So Sennacherib king of Assyria brake up, and went his way, and returned,—and remained in Nineveh.

And it came to pass <as he was bowing down in the house of Naisroh his god> that Adrammelech & Sharezer [his sons] smote him with the sword, hew-they escaped into the land of Ararat,—and Esarhaddon his son [reigned in his stead].

1 <In those days> was Hezekiah sick unto death,—and Isaiah son of Amoz, the prophet, came unto him, and said unto him—

Thus saith Jehovah.

Set in order thy house, for about to die thou art, and shalt not recover.

Then he turned his face unto the wall,—and prayed unto Jehovah, saying:

I beseech thee, O Jehovah, remember, I pray thee, how I have walked before thee, in truth, and with a whole heart, and that which is good in thine eyes have I done! And Hezekiah wept aloud.

And it came to pass that Isaiah had not gone out into the middle court> when the word of Jehovah came unto him, saying:

Return, and thou shalt say unto Hezekiah the leader of my people—

Thus saith Jehovah.

God of David thy father,
I have heard thy prayer, I have seen thy tears,—Behold me! about to heal thee,
6 And I will add unto thy days, fifteen years,
And out of the hand of the king of Assyria will I deliver thee, and this city,
And will throw a covering over this city,
For my own sake,
And for the sake of David my servant.

7 And Isaiah said—
Take ye a cake of figs.
So they took and laid it upon the boil, and he recovered.

8 Now Hezekiah had said unto Isaiah,
What sign is there, that Yahweh will heal me,—and that I shall go up on the third day, to the house of Yahweh?

9 And Isaiah said—
'This' unto thee is the sign from Yahweh, that Yahweh will do the thing which he hath spoken.
The shadow hath gone forward ten steps, shall it return ten steps?

10 And Hezekiah* said—
It is |a light thing| for the shadow, to decline ten steps,—
Nay, but let the shadow go back' ten steps.

11 And Isaiah the prophet cried unto Yahweh,— and he caused the shadow on the steps by which it had gone down on the steps of Ahaz to go back, ten steps.

12 <At that time> Berodach-baladan son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a present, unto Hezekiah,—for he had heard' that Hezekiah had been sick. 13 And Hezekiah hearkened unto them,* and shewed them all his house of precious things—the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious ointment, and his armoury, and all that was found among his treasures,—there was |nothing| that Hezekiah shewed them not, in his house or in all his dominion. 14 Then came Isaiah the prophet unto King Hezekiah,—and said unto him—

What said these men, and from whence came they unto thee?

And Hezekiah said,
<From a land far off> came they—from Babylon.

And he said—
What have they seen in thy house?

Then said Hezekiah—
<All that is in my house> have they seen, there was |nothing| that I shewed them not, among my treasures.

14 Then said Isaiah unto Hezekiah,— Hear thou the word of Yahweh:

17 Lo! days are coming, when all that is in thine house, and that thy fathers have treasured up, unto this day, shall be carried into Babylon,—nothing shall be left, saith Yahweh; 18 and <of thy sons who shall issue from thee, whom thou shalt beget> shall they* take away,— and they shall become eunuchs, in the palace of the king of Babylon.

19 And Hezekiah said unto Isaiah,—
|Good| is the word of Yahweh, which thou hast spoken.
And he said—
Is it not, that |peace and stability| there shall be in my days?

Now <the rest of the story of Hezekiah, and all his might, and how he made a pool and an aqueduct, and brought water into the city> are |they| not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 21 So Hezekiah slept with his fathers,—and |Manasseh his son| reigned |in his stead|.

§ 27. Manasseh's wicked Reign over Judah:
Judgments threatened.

1 <Twelve years old> was Manasseh when he began to reign, and <fifty-five years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and the name of his mother was Hephzibah. 2 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—after the abominable practices of the nations, whom Yahweh had dispossessed from before the sons of Israel. 3 He again built the high places, which Hezekiah his father had destroyed,—and reared altars to Baal, and made a Sacred Stem, 4 as did Ahab, king of Israel, and bowed down to all the army of the heavens, and served them. 5 And he used to build altars in the house of Yahweh,—concerning which Yahweh had said,—

5 In Jerusalem| will I put my Name.| 6 And he built altars to all the army of the heavens,—in the two courts of the house of Yahweh; 6 and caused his son to pass through the fire, and practised hidden arts and used divination, and dealt with a familiar spirit and wizards,—exceeded in doing the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, provoking [him] to anger; 7 and he set the image of the Sacred Stem which he had made,—in the house, of which Yahweh had said unto David, and unto Solomon his son, and I will not again let the foot of Israel wander away from the soil which I gave unto their fathers. Only if they take heed to do according to all that I have commanded them, even to the extent of all the law which |my servant Moses| commanded them.

But they hearkened not,—and Manasseh led them astray to do the thing that was wicked, more than the nations which Yahweh destroyed from before the sons of Israel. 10 Yahweh therefore spake through his servants the prophets,—

<Because Manasseh king of Judah hath made these abominations,—hath done that which is wicked, more than all which the Amorites did who were before him, and and hath caused [even Judah] to sin with his manufactured gods. Thus saith Yahweh, God of Israel, Behold me bringing in calamity upon Jerusalem and Judah,—that whosoever heareth thereof shall his ears will tingle;

And I will stretch over Jerusalem, the line of Samaaria, and the plummet of the house of Ahab,—

And will wipe out Jerusalem, as one wipeth out a dish, wiping it and turning it upside down;

And will abandon the remnant of mine inheritance, and deliver them into the hand of their enemies,—and they shall become a prey and a plunder, to all their enemies:

Because they have done the thing that is wicked in mine eyes, and have become such as to provoke me to anger,—from the day when their fathers came forth out of Egypt, even until this day.

Moreover also, <innocent blood> did Manasseh shed in great abundance, till he had filled Jerusalem, from one end to the other, besides his committing the sins which he caused Judah to commit, in doing the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh.

Now <the rest of the story of Manasseh, and all that he did, and his sin that he committed> are not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. And Manasseh slept with his fathers, and was buried in the garden of his own house, in the garden of Uzza,—and |Amôn his son| reigned [in his stead].

§ 28. Amôn's short but wicked reign.

<Twenty-two years old> was Amôn when he began to reign, and <two years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and |his mother's name| was Meshullethmeth daughter of Haruz of Jothbah. 20 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—as did Manasseh his father; 21 yea he walked in all the way wherein |his father| had walked,—served the manufactured gods that |his father| had served, and bowed down to them; 22 forsook Yahweh the God of his fathers,—walked not in the way of Yahweh. 23/ The servants of Amôn conspired against him,—and slew the king in his own house. 24 Then the people of the land brought all who had conspired against King Amôn,—and the people of the land made |Josiah| his son king [in his stead].

Now <the rest of the story of Amôn, which he did> is |it| not written in the book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 25/ he was buried in his grave, in the garden of Uzza,—and |Josiah| his son reigned [in his stead].

§ 29. Josiah's good reign, during which the Law is found. The King's reforming work postpones but cannot avert the Coming Visitation. Josiah is slain at Megiddo by Pharaoh Necho King of Egypt.

<Eight years old> was Josiah when he began to reign, and <thirty-one years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and |his mother| was Jedidah daughter of Adaiah; 2 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—and walked all the way of David his father, and turned aside, to the right hand or to the left.

And it came to pass <in the eighteenth year of King Josiah>—that the king sent Shaphan son of Azaliah son of Meshullam, the scribe, to the house of Yahweh, saying—

Go up unto Hilkiah, the high priest, and he pour out the silver that hath been brought into the house of Yahweh,—with the keepers of the entrance—hail before the people, 3 that they may give it into the hand of the doers of work, who have oversight of the house of Yahweh, that they may give it to the doers of the work, who are in the house of Yahweh, to repair the breaches of the house—to the carpenters, and to the builders, to the masons,—and to buy timber, and hewn stones, for repairing the house.'

Now there used to be no reckoning with them, as to the silver that was given in their hand,—because <with faithfulness> were they dealing.

Then said Hilkiah the high priest, to Shaphan the scribe—

Then came Shaphan the scribe unto the king, and brought the king word again;—and said—
Thy servants have poured out the silver that was found in the house, and have delivered it unto the hand of the doers of the work, who have overspread the house of Yahweh.

Then Shaphan the scribe told the king, saying—

A book hath Hilkiah the priest delivered unto me.

And Shaphan read it before the king.

And it came to pass when the king heard the words of the book of the law, that he rent his clothes.

And the king commanded Hilkiah the priest, and Ahikam son of Shaphan, and Achbor son of Micaiah, and Shaphan the scribe, and Asaiah the king's servant, saying:

Go ye—enquire of Yahweh for me and for the people, and for all Judah, concerning this book of which ye have heard, for greatly is the wrath of Yahweh, in that ye have profaned me, because our fathers have not hearkened unto the words of this book, to do according to all which is written concerning us.

So Hilkiah the priest, and Ahikam, and Achbor, and Shaphan, and Asaiah, went unto Huldah the prophetess, wife of Shallum son of Tikvah, son of Harhas, keeper of the vestments; she having her dwelling in Jerusalem, in the new city;—and they spake unto her.

And she said unto them,

Thus saith Yahweh, God of Israel, Say ye unto the man that hath sent you unto me:

Thus saith Yahweh, Behold me! about to bring calamity upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof,—all the words of the book, which the king of Judah hath read:

Because they have forsaken me, and burned incense unto other gods, that they might provoke me to anger, with all the workmanship of their hands;—and my wrath shall be kindled against this place, and shall not be quenched:

But unto the king of Judah, whom hath sent you to enquire of Yahweh; thus shall ye say unto him,—

Thus saith Yahweh, God of Israel,

As touching the words which thou hast heard:

Because tender was thy heart, and thou didst humble thyself before Yahweh when thou hearest what I have spoken against this place and against the inhabitants thereof—that they should become a desolation and a curse, and didst rend thy clothes, and weep before me;—therefore also I have hearkened—

Declareth Yahweh.

[For this cause] behold me! about to gather thee unto thy fathers, and thou shalt be gathered unto thy graves, in peace, and so thine eyes shall not look upon all the misfortune which I am about to bring upon this place.

And they brought the king word again.

Then the king sent,—and there were gathered unto him, all the elders of Judah, and Jerusalem; and the king went up to the house of Yahweh, and all the men of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with him, and the priests, and the prophets, and all the people, both small and great,—and he read in their ears, all the words of the book of the covenant, which had been found in the house of Yahweh.

And the king took his stand by the pillar, and solemniseth a covenant before Yahweh—to follow Yahweh, and to keep his commandments and his testimonies and his statutes, with all [their] heart and with all [their] soul, to confirm the words of this covenant, written in this book. And all the people took their stand in the covenant.

Then the king commanded Hilkiah the high priest, and the priests of the second order, and the keepers of the entrance-hall, to bring forth, out of the temple of Yahweh, all the vessels that had been made for Baal, and for the Sacred Stem, and for all the army of the heavens,—and he burned them up outside Jerusalem, in the fields of Kidron, and carried the ashes of them to Bethel; and he put down the idol-priests, whom the kings of Judah had appointed, so that incense might be burned in the high places, in the cities of Judah, and round about Jerusalem,—them also that burned incense to Baal, to the sun, and to the moon, and to the constellations; and to all the army of the heavens; and he brought forth the Sacred Stem out of the house of Yahweh, outside Jerusalem, into the Kidron ravine, and burned it in the Kidron ravine, and crushed it to powder,—and cast the powder upon the graves of the sons of the people; and he brake down the houses of the male devotees, which were in the house of Yahweh,—where the women did weave houses to the Sacred Stem; and he brought in all the priests out of the cities of Judah, and defiled the high places where the priests had burned incense from Geba unto Boer-sheba,—and brake down the high places of the gates, that were at the entrance of the gate of Joshoth, the governor of the city, which were on one’s left hand, in the gate of the city; and he defiled Topheth, which was in the valley of the sons of Hinnom, so that no man might cause his sons or his daughters to pass through the fire unto Molech; and he did away with the horses, which the kings of Judah had devoted to the sun, at the entrance of the house of Yahweh, near the chamber of Nathan-meolech the courtier, which was in the suburbs,—also he <the chariots of the sun> burned he with fire; and the altars which were on the roof of the upper chamber of Ahaz, which the kings of Judah had made, also the altars which Manasseh had made, in the two courts of the house of Yahweh, did the king break down, and hurried away from thence, and cast out the powder of them into the Kidron ravine; and the high places that were before Jerusalem, which were on the right hand of the mount of destruction, which Solomon king of Israel had built unto Ashoth-reh — the abomination of the Zidonians, and unto Chemoth — the abomination of the Moabites, and unto Milcom — the disgusting thing of the sons of Ammon — did the king defile; and he brake in pieces the pillars, and cut down the Sacred Steams,—and filled the seas with human bones; moreover also, the altar that was in Bethel, the high place which Jeroboam son of Nebat made, wherewith he caused Israel to sin, — even that altar, and the high place he brake he down, and burned the high place, crushing it to powder, and burned a Sacred Stem. And <when Josiah turned, and saw the graves which were there, in the mount> he sent and took the bones out of the graves, and burned upon the altar, and defiled it,— according to the word of Yahweh, which the man of God’ proclaimed, who proclaimed these things. Then said he — What is yonder erection, which I do see? And the men of the city said unto him— The grave of the man of God, who came in out of Judah, and proclaimed these things, which thou hast done, concerning the altar of Bethel. And he said— Let him rest, lest no man disturb his bones.

So they let his bones rest, with the bones of the prophet who came in out of Samaria. Moreover also <all the houses of the high places which were in the cities of Samaria, in which the kings of Israel had made, as to provoke Yahweh to anger> <did Josiah remove, and he did to them according to all the doing which he had done in Bethel>, and he turned away all the priests of the high places, which were there, by the altars, and burned human bones thereupon,—and returned to Jerusalem. Then did the king command all the people saying, Keep ye a passover unto Yahweh, your God,—such as is written in this book of the covenant.

Surely there had not been held such a passover as this, from the days of the Judges who judged Israel,—nor all the days of the kings of Israel, and the kings of Judah; only the in the eighteenth year of King Josiah, when this passover was held unto Yahweh, in Jerusalem.

Moreover also <them who had familiar spirits, and the wizards, and the households of gods, and the manufactured gods, and the abominations which were to be seen in the land of Judah, and in Jerusalem> <did Josiah command, that he might confirm the words of the law which were written in the book that Hilkiah the priest had found in the house of Yahweh. And like him was no king before him who turned unto Yahweh with all his heart, and with all his soul, and with all his might, according to all the law of Moses, neither did after him arise one like him. So Yahweh said: Even Judah> will I remove from before my presence, as I have removed Israel, and will reject this city, which I have chosen, even Jerusalem, and the house as to which I have said. | My Name | shall be there. Now the rest of the story of Josiah, and all that he did, are | they | not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? In his days came unto Pharaoh-nechoh king of Egypt against the king of Assyria, unto the river Euphrates, and and when King Josiah went against him, he slew him at Megiddo, as soon as he saw him, and And his servants conveyed him in a chariot dead, from Megiddo, and brought him to Jerusalem, and buried him in his own sepulchre, and the people of the land took Jehoahaz, son of Josiah, the son of Josiah.

§ 30. Josiah succeeded by Jehoahaz (son), Jehoiakim (son), Jehoiachin (grandson), and Zedekiah (son).

31. <Twenty-three years old> was Jehoahaz when he began to reign, and <three months> reigned he in Jerusalem, and [his mother's name] was Hamutal<sup>a</sup> daughter of Jeremiah<sup>b</sup> of Libnah. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, according to all that his <[his] fathers> had done. And Pharaoh-nechoh put him in bonds at Riblah, in the land of Hamath, that he might not reign<sup>c</sup> in Jerusalem, and he laid a fine upon the land, a hundred talents of silver, and a talent of gold.

34. And Pharaoh-nechoh made Eliakim<sup>d</sup> son of Josiah king instead of Josiah his father, and turned his name to Jehoiakim,<sup>e</sup> and <[Jehoahaz]> took he away, so he entered Egypt, and died there. And <the silver and the gold> did Jehoiakim give unto Pharaoh, howbeit he assessed the land, that he might give the silver at the bidding of Pharaoh, —[every man, according to his assessment]— exacted the silver and the gold of the people of the land, that he might give it to Pharaoh-nechoh.

35. <Twenty-five years old> was Jehoiakim when he began to reign, and <eleven years> reigned he in Jerusalem, and [his mother's name] was Zebudah<sup>f</sup> daughter of Pedaiah<sup*g</sup>, of Rumah. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that [his fathers] had done.

24. <In his days> came up Nebuchadnezzar<sup>h</sup> king of Babylon,—and Jehoiakim became his servant three years, then turned he and rebelled against him. And Yahweh sent against him troops of Chaldeans, and troops of Syrians, and troops of Moabites, and troops of the sons of Ammon, yea he sent them against Judah, to destroy him,—according to the word of Yahweh, which he spake through his servants the prophets.

Surely it was <because of the anger of Yahweh> that this came upon Judah, to remove them from his presence,—for the sins of Manasseh, [according to all] that he had done]: <moreover also> [for the innocent blood that he had shed, so that he had filled Jerusalem with innocent blood,—which Yahweh was not willing to pardon].

Now <the rest of the story of Jehoiakim, and all that he did> are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah?

6. So Jehoiakim slept with his fathers,—and [Jehoiachin his son] reigned [in his stead].

7. And the king of Egypt came no more again out of his land,—for the king of Babylon had taken—from the ravine of Egypt, unto the river Euphrates, [all that had belonged to the king of Egypt].

8. <Eighteen years old> was Jehoiachin when he began to reign, and <three months> reigned he in Jerusalem, and [his mother's name] was Nekuahtha daughter of Elhanan, of Jerusalem.

9. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that [his father] had done.

10. <At that time> came up the servants of Nebuchadnezzar<sup>i</sup> king of Babylon, unto Jerusalem,—and the city came into the siege.

11. And Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came against the city, and his servants were about to besiege it. Then came out Jehoiachin king of Judah, unto the king of Babylon, [he and his mother, and his servants, and his generals, and his courtiers,—and the king of Babylon took him, in the eighth year of his reign. And he carried forth from thence all the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the house of the king,—and he cut off all the fittings of gold, which Solomon king of Israel had made in the temple of Yahweh, [according to all that [Yahweh] had spoken].

12. And he carried away all Jerusalem, and all the generals, and all the mighty men of valour, ten thousand becoming captives, and all the artificers and the smiths,—none remained save the poorest of the people of the land. And he carried away captive Jehoiachin, to Babylon,—and <the king's mother, and the king's wives, and his courtiers, and the nobles of the land> took he away captive, from Jerusalem to Babylon. And <all the men of might—seven thousand, and artificers and smiths—a thousand, all who were valiant and ready to make war> the king of Babylon brought them captive to Babylon. And the king of Babylon made Mattaniah, his relative, king in his stead,—and changed his name to Zedekiah.

13. <Twenty-one years old> was Zedekiah when he began to reign, and <eleven years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and [his mother's name] was Hamutal, daughter of Jeremiah of § 31. The final Siege of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon: How the Temple was despoiled, the Nobles slain, and the common People driven into Egypt through fear of the Chaldeans. Jehoiachin in Babylon finds favour.

25 And it came to pass in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came—thee and all his forces—against Jerusalem, and encompassed it, and they built against it a siege-wall round about. And the city came into the siege,—until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. On the ninth of the month, when the famine had become severe in the city, and there had come to be no bread for the people of the land; then was the city broken up, and all the men of war [fled] by night by way of the gate between the two walls, which is by the garden of the king, the Chaldeans being near the city round about, and he went the way of the Waste Plain; and the force of the Chaldeans [pursued] the king, and overtook him in the Waste Plains of Jericho,—and all his force was scattered from him. So they seized the king, and brought him up unto the king of Babylon, at Riblah,—and they pronounced sentence of judgment. And the sons of Zedekiah they slew before his eyes, and the eyes of Zedekiah put they out, and then bound him with fetters of bronze, and brought him into Babylon. And in the fifth month, on the seventh of the month, [the same] was the sixteenth year of King Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, came Nebuzaradan, chief of the royal executioners, servant of the king of Babylon, to Jerusalem; and burned the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king, yea all the houses of Jerusalem, even every great man’s house, burned he with fire. And as the walls of Jerusalem round about did all the force of the Chaldeans who were with the chief of the royal executioners [break down]. And the residue of the people who were left in the city, and the disheartened who fell away unto the king of Babylon, and the residue of the multitude did Nebuzaradan, chief of the royal executioners, carry away captive. But <of the poorest of the land> did the chief of the royal 13 And the pillars of bronze that were in the house of Yahweh, and the stands, and the bases of bronze which was in the house of Yahweh, the Chaldeans brake in pieces, and they carried the bronze of them to Babylon; 14 the candlesticks, and the shovels, and the snuffers, and the basins, and the censers, and the spoons, even all the utensils of bronze wherewith ministration was used to be made; they took away; and the sprinkling pens and the shovels the dashing bowls which were of gold, in them and which were of silver, in silver did the royal executioners take away. 16 For the two pillars one sea and the ten stand which Solomon made for the house of Yahweh, the one without weight was the bronze of all the things. 17 Eighteen cubits was the height of each pillar, and the capital thereof was brass, and the height of the capital was three cubits, and the lattice-work and the granates upon the capital round about was whole was of bronze; and like these was the second pillar, upon the lattice-work.

18 And the chief of the royal executioners, Seraiah the head priest, and Zephaniah the second priest,—and the three keepers of the entrance hall; and <out of the city> took one courtier who himself was set over the men of war, and five men of them who were warders of the watch of the city, and the scribe—general of the army, used to muster the people of the land,—sixty men of the people of the land, who were found in the city; 19 and Nebuzaradan, chief of the royal executioners, took them,—and brought them unto the king of Babylon, at Riblah; 20 and the king of Babylon smote them and put them in Riblah, in the land of Hamath, and thus Judah disappeared from off their own land. 21 But <one> for the people who were left in land of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon left remaining> he set over Gedaliah, son of Ahikam son of Shaphan.

22 And <when all the generals of the forces, of the men heard> that the king of Babylon had given oversight unto Gedaliah> then came they in unto Gedaliah, at Mizpa,—even Ishmael son of Nethaniah and Johanan son of Kassim, and Seraiah son of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jaazaniah son of Maacathite they their men. 23 And Gedaliah awoke them, and to their men, and said to them, Do not fear because of the servants of Chaldeans,—dwell in the land, and serve.

31 And the sons of Ketura, the concubine of Abraham: she bare Zimran, and Jokshan, and Medan, and Midian, and Ishbak, and Shuah;
32 and the sons of Jokshan: Sheba, and Dedan;
33 and the sons of Midian: Ephah, and Epher, and Hanoch, and Abida, and Eldaah; All these were the sons of Keturah.
§ 3. The Tribe of Judah (I).

3 The sons of Judah were Er, and Onan, and Shelah, the three born to him of the daughter of Shua the Canaanitess; but Er the firstborn of Judah became wicked in the eyes of Jahweh, and he slew him. 4 And Zimri his daughter-in-law bare him Perez and Zerah. 5 All the sons of Judah were five. 6 The sons of Perez were Hezron and Hamul. 7 And the sons of Zerah were Zimri and Ethan, and Heman and Calcol and Dara; 8 all of them were five. 9 And the sons of Carmi were Achar, the troubler of Israel, who trespassed in a thing devoted. 10 And the sons of Ethan were Azariah. 11 And the sons of Hezron, who were born to him, Jerahmeel and Ram and Caleb. 12 And Ram the firstborn of Amminadab begat Mahola; 13 and Mahola the firstborn of Mahol, and the sons of Mahol were Zerah and Shaul. 14 And Shaul died, and there were in his stead, Jobab the son of Zerah, of Bozrah. 15 And Jobab died, and there were in his stead, Husham, of the land of the Temanites. 16 And Husham died, and there were in his stead, Hadad, the son of Bedad, who smote Midian in the field of Moab, and the name of his city was Avith. 17 And Hadad died, and there were in his stead, Samlah of Masrekah. 18 And Samlah died, and there were in his stead, Shaul, of Rehoboth by the River. 19 And Shaul died, and there were in his stead, Baal-hanan, the son of Achbor. 20 And Baal-hanan died, and there were in his stead, Hadad, 1 and the name of his city was Pau, 2 and the name of his wife was Mehetabel, daughter of Matred, daughter of Mezraim. 21 And Hadad died. 22 And the sons of Seir were Reuel and Hiah and Zephi and Eber. 23 The sons of Reuel were Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah. 24 The sons of Zerah were Perez and Zerah. 25 The sons of Perez were Hezron and Hamul. 26 And the sons of Zerah were Zimri and Ethan, and Heman and Calcol and Dara; 27 all of them were five. 28 And the sons of Carmi were Achar, the troubler of Israel, who trespassed in a thing devoted. 29 And the sons of Ethan were Azariah. 30 And the sons of Hezron, who were born to him, Jerahmeel and Ram and Caleb. 31 And Ram the firstborn of Amminadab begat Mahola; 32 and Mahola the firstborn of Mahol, and the sons of Mahol were Zerah and Shaul. 33 And Shaul died, and there were in his stead, Jobab the son of Zerah, of Bozrah. 34 And Jobab died, and there were in his stead, Husham, of the land of the Temanites. 35 And Husham died, and there were in his stead, Hadad, the son of Bedad, who smote Midian in the field of Moab, and the name of his city was Avith. 36 And Hadad died, and there were in his stead, Samlah of Masrekah. 37 And Samlah died, and there were in his stead, Shaul, of Rehoboth by the River. 38 And Shaul died, and there were in his stead, Baal-hanan, the son of Achbor. 39 And Baal-hanan died, and there were in his stead, Hadad, 1 and the name of his city was Pau, 2 and the name of his wife was Mehetabel, daughter of Matred, daughter of Mezraim. 40 And Hadad died. 41 And the sons of Seir were Reuel and Hiah and Zephi and Eber. 42 The sons of Reuel were Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah. 43 The sons of Zerah were Perez and Zerah. 44 The sons of Perez were Hezron and Hamul. 45 And the sons of Zerah were Zimri and Ethan, and Heman and Calcol and Dara; 46 all of them were five. 47 And the sons of Carmi were Achar, the troubler of Israel, who trespassed in a thing devoted.
name of the wife of Abishur[1] was Abihail,— and she bare him Abhan, and Molad. 30 And the sons of Nadab[2] Seled and Appaim,—but Seled died without sons. 31 And [the sons of] and [the sons of] Sheshan[5] Ahlai. 32 And [the sons of] Jada[6], brother of Shammai[7], Jether, and Jonathan,—but Jether died without sons.
These were the sons of Jerahmeel. 34 Now
Sheshan had [no sons], but [daughters],—and [Sheshan] had a servant, an Egyptian, whose name was Jarha; 35 so Sheshan gave his daughter to Jarha his servant to wife,—and she bare him Attai. 36 And [Attai] begat Nathan, and [Nathan] begat Zabad; 37 and [Zabad] begat Ephal, and [Ephal] begat Obed; 38 and [Obed] begat Jehui, and [Jehui] begat Azariah; 39 and [Azariah] begat Helez, and [Helez] begat Eleasah; and [Eleasah] begat Sismai, and [Sismai] begat Shallum; and [Shallum] begat Jekamiah, and [Jekamiah] begat Eliahah. 40 Now the sons of Caleb, brother of Jerahmeel were, Meshaa his firstborn, [the same] was the father of Ziphi, and the sons of Mareshah the father of Hebron.
41 And [the sons of] Hebron[9] Korah and Tappuah, and Rekem and Shema. 42 And [Shema] begat Raham, the father of Jorkeam,—and [Rekem] begat Shammai. 43 And [the sons of] Shammai was Maon,—and [Maon] was the father of Beth-zur.
44 And [Ephrah, the cubicle of] Caleb bare Haran and Moza, and Gazez,—and [Haran] begat Gazez. 45 And [the sons of] Jahdai Regem and Jotham and Geshan and Pelet, and Ephra and Shaaph. 46 A cubicle of Caleb, Maacah; bare Sheber, and Tirhanah; and she also bare Shaaph, father of Madmannah, Sheva, father of Machbena, and father of Gibeon; and [the daughter of Caleb] was Acmash. 47 [These were] the sons of Caleb, sons[10] of Hur, firstborn of Ephraim,—Shobal the father of Kirath-jearim; 48 Salma, the the father of Bethlehem, Hareth, the father of Beth-gader. 49 And Shobal, the father of Kirath-jearim[11] has sons,—Haroeh, half of the Menuhoth. 50 And [the families of] Kirath-jearim[12] were the Ithrites, and the Puthitites, and the Shumathites, and the Mishiraites,—from these came the Zorathites, and the Ezdothites. 51 The sons of Salma[13] were Bethlehem, and the Netophathites, Atroth-beth-josh, and half of the Manathathites, the Zorites; 52 and the families of scribes that dwelt at Jabez, the Tirathites, the Shemithites, the Sacsathites. [The same] are the Kenites who came in from Hammath, father of the house of Rechab.

3 And the sons of David, who were born to him in Hebron,—the firstborn:

1 Now [these] were the sons of David, who were born to him in Hebron,—the firstborn:

these were the sons of Etam, Jezreel and Ishma, and Idabash—and the name of their sister was Hazzelelponi; and Penuel the father of Gedok, and Ezer, the father of Hushah. These are the sons of Hur, the firstborn of Ephrathah, the father of Bethlehem. And Ashur the father of Tekoa had two wives, Helah and Naarah. And Naarah bare him Ahuzzam and Hepher, and Temeni and Hashaasharai. These were the sons of Naarah. The sons of Helah were Zereth, Ithar, and Ethnan. And Koz begat Anub, and Zobebah, and the families of Aharhel, the son of Harum.

Now it came to pass that Jabez was more honourable than his brethren, but his mother had called his name Jabez, saying, Because I bare him with pain.

So then Jabez called upon the God of Israel, saying, Oh that thou wouldest indeed bless me, and enlarge my boundary, and that thy hand might be with me, and that thou wouldest work to deliver me from evil.

And God granted him that which he asked.

And Chelub the brother of Shuhah begat Mehr, the same was the father of Eshton.

And Eshton begat Beth-rapha, and Paseah, and Tehinnah, the father of Ir-nahash. These are the men of Recah. And the sons of Kenaz were Othniel, and Seraiah, and the sons of Othniel were Hathath. And Meonothai begat Ophrah, and Jered, and the father of Garehshamiram, for they were of the craftsmen. And the sons of Caleb the son of Jephunneh were Iru, Elah, and Naam, and the sons of Elah were Kenaz.

And the sons of Jehallelel were Ziph and Ziphah, Tiria, and Asarel. And the sons of Ezrah Jether and Mered, and Ephra and Jalon. And these are the sons of Bithia, the daughter of Pharaoh, whom Mered took, and she conceived and bare Miriam and Shammuel and Ishbah, the father of Eshebon.

And the sister of Nahum were the father of Keilah the Garmite, and Eshtemoa the Maacathite. And the sons of Shimon were Amnon, and Rinnah, Ben-hanan and Tilon. And the sons of Ishi were Zobeth, and Ben-zobeth.

The sons of Shelah, the son of Judah: Enger, the son of Leach, and Leach, the father of Mares, and Marreshah, and the families of the house of them that wrought fine linen, the house of Ashba; and Jokim, and the men of the house of Ashba; and Joas, and Sarah who ruled for Moab; and Jashub-ilehem, but the records are ancient. They were the potters and inhabitants of Netaim; and Gedera, with the king in his work dwelt they there.

§ 4. The Tribe of Simeon (II.).

The sons of Simeon, Nemuel, and Jamin, and Jarib, Zerah, Shaul; and Shallum his son, Mibsam, and his son Mishma his son. And the sons of Mishma Hammuel his son, Zaccur his son, Shimei his son. And Shimei had six sons, and six daughters, but their brethren had not many children, nor did any of their families multiply so much as the sons of Judah. And they dwelt in Beer-shewah, and Mephaath, and Ziklag, and Beth-marcaboth, and Hazar-susim, and Beth-biri, and Shareshaim. These were their cities unto the reign of David. And their villages were Etam, and Ain, Rimmon, and Tochen, and Shahar, five cities; and all their villages that were round about these cities, as far as Baal. These were their habitations, and they had their own genealogical register. And Moshobab, and Jamlech, and Joshah, the son of Amaziah; and Joel, and Jehu, the son of Joshibiah, the son of Seraiah, the son of Asiel; and Elioenai, and Jaakobah, and Jeshobaal, and Asaah, and Adiel, and Jesimiel, and Benajah; and Ziza, the son of Shihoh, the son of Allon, the son of Jediah, the son of Shemiram, the son of Shemahia. These introduced by their names were leading men in their families. And their ancestral house brake forth exceedingly; so they went to the entering in of Gerar, unto the east of the valley, to seek pasture for their flocks; and they found pasture, fat and good, and the land was broad on both sides, and quiet and secure, for of Ham were the dwellers there aforetime. But these written by name came in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah and smote their tents, and the Meunim who were found there, and devoted them, until this day, and dwelt in their stead, for there was pasture for their flocks there.
of Manasseh, of the sons of valour, men bearing shield and sword and bending the bow, and instructed in war] were forty-four thousand and seven hundred and sixty, ready to go forth in the host. 19 So they made war with the Hagarites,—and Jetur and Naphish, and Nodab; and were helped against them, and the Hagarites and all that were with them were delivered into their hand,—for [unto God] made them outcry, in the war; and he suffered himself to be entreated by them, because they put their trust in him; 21 and they captured their cattle—[their camels] fifty thousand, and [their flocks]; two hundred and fifty thousand, and [as many as] two thousand,—and [persons] of men] a hundred thousand; 22 for [many slain] fell, for [God] was the war,—and they dwelt in their stead, until the captivity.

Amram, and Izhar, and Hebron, and Uzziel. 19 The sons of Merari:
Mahli, and Mushai. And the families of Levi by their fathers:
20 To Gershom pertain Libni his son, Jachath his son, Zimmah his son, Joel his son, Zerah his son, Jeatherai his son. 21 The sons of Kohath:
Ammiudah, his son, Korah his son, Asir his son, Elkanah his son, and Eibaphis his son, and Assir his son; 22 Tahath his son, Urieel his son, Uzzaiah his son, and Shaul his son. 23 And the sons of Elkanah:
Amsaiah, and Ahimoth. 24 As for Elkanah:
The sons of Elkanah: Zophai his son, and Nahath his son, 25 Eliah his son, and Elkanah his son. 26 And the sons of Samuel:
[the firstborn] Joel, and Abiah. 29 The sons of Merari:
Mahli, his son, Shimei his son, Uzzah his son, Shimea his son, Haggiah his son, Asiah his son. 31 And these are the sons of David to stand, as the servants of song, in the house of Yahweh, when he had given rest unto the ark; 32 so they became attendants before the habitation of the tent of meeting, with song, until Solomon built the house of Yahweh, in Jerualem; and they took their stand according to their prescribed manner over their work.

30 Yeas [these] are they who stood, with their sons: Of the sons of the Kohathites:
Heman the singer, son of Joel, son of Samuel, son of Elkanah, son of Jeroham, son of Eliel, son of Toah, son of Zuph, son of Elkanah, son of Mahath, son of Amsaiah; 34 son of Elkanah, son of Joel, son of Azariah, son of Zophaniam, son of Tahath, son of Assir, son of Elipheasah, son of Korah; 35 son of Isha, son of Kohath, son of Levi, son of Israel. 36
And his brother Asaph who stood on his right hand Asaph son of Berechiah, son of Shimea, son of Michael, son of Baaseiah, son of Malchijah, son of Ethni, son of Zerah, son of Adaiah, son of Sham, son of Zimmah, son of Shimei, son of Jahath, son of Gershom, son of Levi. 37 And the sons of Merari, their brethren, on the left hand:
Ethan son of Kushi, son of Alid, son of Malluch;
Hashabiah; son of Amaziah, son of Hilkiah, son of Ami, son of Bani, son of Shemer;
son of Mahli, son of Mushi, son of Merari, son of Levi. 38 Howbeit [their brethren, the Levites] were given, for all the work of the habitation, of the house of God. 39 But [Aaron and his sons] were to make perfume upon the altar of ascending-sacrifices; and upon the altar of incense, according to all that God commanded. 40 And these are the sons of Aaron:
Eleazar his son, Phinehas his son, Abishua his son,
Bukkiah his son, Uzzi his son, Zerahiah his son, Morioth his son, Amariah his son, Ahitub his son, Zadok his son, Ahimassah his son. 41 And these are their dwelling places, according to their encampments, in their boundary,—pertaining to the sons of Aaron, and the families of the Kohathites, for [their] families: 42 so they gave them Hebron, in the land of Judah, and the pasture lands thereof round about it; but the field-land of the city, and the villages thereof gave they to Caleb son of Jephunneh. 43 And to the sons of Aaron gave they the cities of refuge—Hebron, and Libnah, with her pasture lands, and Jattir and Eshtemoa, with her pasture lands; and Hilen with her pasture lands, Debir, with her pasture lands; and Asas, with her pasture lands, and Bethshemesh, with her pasture lands; and all their cities were thirteen cities, through out to their families. 44 And unto the rest of the sons of Kohath,—of the families of the tribe of Dan, and of the tribe of Ephraim and of the tribe of Benjamim, the half-tribe of Manasseh, by lot to the cities. 45 And unto the sons of Gershom, by their families,—out of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the tribe of Manasseh in Bashan thirty and six cities. 46 And unto sons of Merari:

by their families—out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun> by lot twelve cities.

64 So then the sons of Israel gave, to the Levites, the cities and the pasture lands thereof; yes they gave, by lot, out of the tribe of the sons of Judah, and out of the tribe of the sons of Simeon, and out of the tribe of the sons of Benjamin> these cities which are mentioned by name. 66 But <as for some of the families of the sons of Kohath> they had the cities of their lot, out of the tribe of Ephraim; and they gave unto them the cities of refuge—Shechem and her pasture lands, in the hill country of Ephraim, and Gezer, with her pasture lands; and Jokneam, with her pasture lands, and Beth-horon, with her pasture lands; and Aijalon, with her pasture lands, and Gath-rimon, with her pasture lands; and <out of the half-tribe of Manasseh> Aner, with her pasture lands, and Bileam, with her pasture lands, for the rest of the family of the sons of Kohath. 67 <Unto the sons of Gershom>—out of the family of the half tribe of Manasseh—Golan in Bashan, with her pasture lands; and Ashtaroth, with her pasture lands. 68 And <out of the tribe of Issachar> Kedesh, with her pasture lands, and Debora, with her pasture lands; and Ramoth, with her pasture lands, and Anem, with her pasture lands. 69 And <out of the tribe of Asher> Maresha, with her pasture lands, and Atap, with her pasture lands; and Bukok, with her pasture lands; and Rehob, with her pasture lands. 70 And <out of the tribe of Naphtali> Kedesh, in Galilee, with her pasture lands, and Hammon, with her pasture lands, and Kirjathaim, with her pasture lands. 71 <Unto the rest of the sons of Menari>—out of the tribe of Zebulun—Rimmon, with her pasture lands, and Tabor, with her pasture lands. 72 And <beyond the Jordan at Jericho> on the east of the Jordan—out of the tribe of Reuben—Bezer in the wilderness, with her pasture lands, and Jahzah, with her pasture lands; and Kedemoth, with her pasture lands, and Mephaath, with her pasture lands. 73 And <out of the tribe of Gad> Ramoth in Gilead, with her pasture lands, and Mahanaim, with her pasture lands; and Heshbon, with her pasture lands, and Jazer, with her pasture lands.

§ 9. The Tribe of Issachar (VII.).

7 And <to the sons of Issachar> belonged, Tola and Puah, Jashub and Shimron, four. 2 And <to the sons of Tola> were Uzi and Rephaiah and Jeriel and Jahni and Ibam and Shemuel, chiefs of their ancestral house, pertaining to Tola, heroes of valour, in their generations—their number in the days of David, twenty-two thousand and six hundred. 3 And <the sons of Uzzi> Izrahiah, and <the sons of Izrahiah> Michael and Obadiah and Joel, Ishshiah—five, chiefs all of them; 4 and <with them by their generations, pertaining to their ancestral house> were bands of a host for war, thirty-six thousand—so they had many wives and sons; 5 and <their brethren, of all the families of Issachar, heroes of great valour> were eighty-seven thousand, when they had all registered themselves.

§ 10. The Tribe of Benjamin (VIII.).

6 <Benjamin> Bela and Becher and Jediael, three. 7 And <the sons of Bela> Ezbon and Uzi and Uzziel and Jerimoth and Iri, five, chiefs of the ancestral house, heroes of great valour—who <when they had registered themselves> were twenty-two thousand and thirty-four. 8 And <the sons of Becher> Zemirah and Joash and Elizebor and Elocham and Omri, and Jeremoth and Abijah, and Anathoth, and Alemeth. 9 And <when they had registered themselves by their generations, the chiefs of their ancestral house> were heroes of valour—twenty thousand and two hundred. 10 And <the sons of Jediael> Bilhan, and <the sons of Bilhan> Jeush and Benjamin and Ehud and Chenaanah, and Zethan, and Tarshish, and Aliahshah. 11 All these—sons of Jediael, by ancestral chiefs, heroes of great valour—were seventeen thousand and two hundred, ready to go forth as a host to war. 12 Shuppim also and Huppim, sons of Ir, Hushim sons of Aher.

§ 11. The Tribe of Naphtali (IX.).

13 <The sons of Naphtali> Jahziel and Guni, and Jezer and Shallum, sons of Bilhah.

§ 12. The Tribe of Manasseh (X.).

14 <The sons of Manasseh> Asriel, whom [his wife] bare,—his concubine, the Syrian bare Machir the father of Gilead; and Machir took a wife pertaining to Huppim and Shuppim, and [the name of his sister] was Maacah, and [the name of the second] Zelophehad, and [Zelophehad] had [daughters]. 15 So then Maacah, wife of Machir, bare a son, and called his name Peresh, and [the name of his brother] was Sheresh, and [his sons] were Ulam and Rakem. 16 And <the sons of Ulam> Bedan. These were the sons of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh. 17 And <his sister>, Hamanoleseth bare Ishod, and Abiezer, and Mahlah. 12 And [the sons of Shemida were] Ahian and Shechem, and Likhi, and Aniam.

28 And [the sons of Ephraim were] Shuthelah, and Berech his son, and Tahan his son, and Elesah his son, and Tahath his son; 29 and Zabad his son and Shuthelah his son, and Ezer and Elad,—but the men of Gath who had been born in the land slew them, because they had come down to take away their cattle. 30 And Ephraim their father mourned many days,—and his brethren came to comfort him. 31 And he went in unto his wife, and she conceived, and bare a son,—and he called his name, Beriah, because [in mistake] was she in his house. 32 And [his daughter was] Sheerah, who built Beth-horon the nether and the upper,—and Uzez-sheerah. 33 And Rephah his son, and Resheph, and Telah his son, and Tahath his son,—34 Ladan his son, Anamihud his son, Eliphal his son, 35 Non his son, Japhia his son. 36 And [their possessions, and their dwellings were] Bethel, and the villages thereof; and [eastward] Naaran, and [westward] Gezer, and the villages thereof, and Shechem, and the villages thereof,—as far as Ajah, and the villages thereof,—and on the sides of the sons of Manasseh, Beth-horon and the villages thereof Taanach and the villages thereof, Megiddo and the villages thereof, and Ofel and the villages thereof. [In these dwelt] the sons of Joseph, son of Israel.

39 [The sons of Asher were] Imnah, and Ishvah, and Ishvi and Beriah,—and Serah their sister. 40 And [the sons of Beriah were] Heber, and Malchiel,—[the same] was the father of Birzaith. 41 And [Heber begat] Japhlet, and Shomer, and Hotham,—and [Shua] their sister. 42 And [the sons of Japhlet were] Pasach, and Bimhal, and Ashvath. [These were] the sons of Japhlet. 43 And [the sons of Asher were] Ali, and Rohaph, Jahbah, and Aram. 44 And [the sons of Hezir were] Zophah, and Imna, and Shelesh and Amal. 45 [The sons of Zophah were] Siah and Harneph, and Shual and Beri, and Imrah,—Zebul and Hod, and Shasham and Shishah, and Beera. 46 And [the sons of Jether were] Jephunneh, and Pipa, and Ara. 47 And [the sons of the Ulla were] Ariah, and Hanniel, and Rizia.

48 [All these were] sons of Asher, chiefs of the ancestral house, chief men, heroes of great valour, chiefs of the leaders,—and [when they registered themselves, in host, for war] the number of the men was twenty-six thousand.

§ 15. Another Genealogy of Benjamin, leading up to that of Saul, first king.

1 And [Benjamin begat] Bela his first-born Ashbel, the second, and Aharah the third, 2 and Nohah the fourth, and Rapha, the fifth, 3 and Bela had sons—Addar, Gera, and Abihud; 4 and Abihos, Naaman, and Ahoah, and Gera, and Shephuphan, and Huram. 5 And [these are] the sons of Ehud,—[these are] the ancestral chiefs to the inhabitants of Geba, but these were carried away captive unto Manasseh, and [as for Naaman and Aijah and Gera] [the same] carried them captive,—and [begat] Uzza and Ahihud. 6 And [Saharim begat] children in the field of Moab after he had sent away Hushim and Baara their wives. 7 Then begat he of Hodesh his wife Jobab, and Zibia, and Meshe, and Malcah, and Jeuz, and Sachia, and Mirmah. 8 [These were] the sons of his ancestral house. 9 And [of Hushim he begat] Ataun, and Elpaal. 10 And [the sons of Elpaal, Elaphim, and Masham, and Shemed,] [he built] Ophra and Lod, and the villages thereof. 11 And [for Beriah and Shema] [they were] ancestral chiefs to the inhabitants of Aijalon,—they put to flight the inhabitants of Gath,—Ahio, Shashak, and Jeremoth,—Zebadiah and Arad, and Eder,—Micaiah, and Ishhod, and Jobah, and Jaha, and Ahoah 12 and Elpaal, and Esthan, and Zichri, and Zabdi,—and Elienai, and Elishai, and Asahel, and Adaria, and Bascli, and Shimrath, sons of Shimei,—Hebron, and Eber,—and Eliezer, and Elad, and Abdon, and Zichri, and Hanan,—Elau, and Anthothjai,—and Iphdeiah,—Penuel,—sons of Shashak,—Shamsh and Sheharial, and Athaliah,—Jaazaniah, and Elijah, and Zichri, sons of Jeroboam. 13 [These were] ancestral chiefs to their generations, chief men,—[these dwelt] in Jezreel. 14 And [in Gibeah dwelt] the father of Gibion [Jefiel], the name of whose wife was Maacah,—and his first-born Abdon, and Zur and Kish, and Baal and Naadab,—Jedid and Geder, and Ahio.
1 Chronicles VIII. 32—40; IX. 1—29.

Zechariah. And Mikloth begat Shimeah, —moreover also he died in Jerusalem, with their own brethren. And the sons of Micah were Pithon, and Melech, and Tarea, and Ahaz. And the sons of Jozabad were Jeriah, and Shimea, and Joash, and Jachin, and Zadullam, and Joah. And the sons of Eliezer were Micah and Imlah. And the sons of Hattush were Eliel and Shelemiah, and Shemiramoth, and Elnathan, and Behanan. And the sons of Shobal were Rehob, and Benon, and Ishi, and Shaphan, and Hushai. And the sons of Haran were Meremoth, and Paddan, and Jochanan. And the sons of Uz were Irad, and Selah, and Balaam. And the sons of Becher were Zimri and Sedah. And the sons of Shephathi were Zopheth and Hanan, and Oballa. And the sons of Shuppim were Hizkiah and Abijah. And the sons of Shishak were Zara, and A版权归, and Jehiel, and Azri, and Hashuel, and ephim.

And the sons of Shihathaim were Zoheth and Hasip. And the sons of Ater were Hezron, and Hussah, and Hashuel, and Mattithiah. And the sons of Ikkedah were Zia, and Ezer, and Saul. And the sons of Abdon were Sibsamah and Zicri, and Zechariah, and Joel, and Nathan, and Serafiah. And the sons of Eber were Io and Eben, and Ezer. And the sons of Zela were Ram and Arubam, and Selah. And the sons of Saul were Raham, and Banan, and chishah, and Mephibosheth. And the sons of Beau were Bela and Zebah, and Shauban, and Ishuv. And the sons of Tola were Ussib, and Obadiah, and Helaph, and Riphath, and Tela, he dwelt in the valleys of Netophath. And the sons of Asher were Penuel, and Igal. And the sons of Abinadab were Tali, and Shilaloth. And the sons of Elpaal were Zele, and Shaddai, and Ater, and Helel, and Sh聘请, and Baale, and Nathanias, and Shaphat, and Mahalaleel. And the sons of Shobal were Adam, and Rechab. And the sons of Appaim were Rechab, and Algal, and Shecaniah, and Shemaiah, and Shobab, and Jaddua, andintel, and Benaiah, and Meshullam, and Shephatiah, and Zorai. And the sons of Caleb were Iru, and Elpelet, and Shephatiah, and Cushi, and Beor. And the sons of Jabez were Geshur, and Choresh, and Aram, and Miriam, and Imothep, and Timna. And the sons of Johanan were Azrikam, and Joel, and Jeshua, and Shaphan, and Jozabad. And the sons of Enok were Asaph and Zimri. And the sons of Simei were Miriam and Peroz. And the sons of Sheel were Zimri, and Shalum, and Naaman, and Ahisaac, and Shephatiah, and Zadok, and Haggai. And the sons of Uzziel were Shemtan, and Meshullam, and Hezir, and Asa, and Joel. And the sons of Segub were Pocah, and Pachuth, and Zuriel, and Shimei. And the sons of Shaphan were Zorah, and Jeremiah, and Shimei. And the sons of Haziel were Shul, and Bani, and Jozadak. And the sons of Zaccur were Shallum, and Benaiah, and Ishmael, and Azrikam, and Jeroham. And the sons of Elhanan were Aijah and Ithiel, and Ezer. And the sons of Hezro were Halfon, and Sarnach, and Segub, and Adiel, and Helkai. And the sons of Micah were Pithon and Melech and Tarea and Ahaz. And the sons of Eliezer were Micah and Imlah. And the sons of Shallum were Zephaniah and Jeuel, and their brethren, six hundred and fifty. All these were of the sons of Benjamin.

§ 16. Principal Families dwelling in Jerusalem before the Captivity.

1. And all Israel registered themselves, and lo! they are written, in the Book of the Kings of Israel, — and Judah was carried away captive to Babylon, for their faithlessness. Now the first inhabitants, who were in their possessions, in their cities, were Israel, the priests, the Levites, and the Nethinim. And those who dwelt, in Jerusalem, were: the sons of Judah, and the sons of Benjamin, — and the sons of Ephraim, and Manasseh: Uthai son of Ammihud, son of Omri, son of Imri, son of Bani, of the sons of Perez, son of Judah. And of the Shilonites was Asiah the firstborn, and his sons. And of the sons of Zerah was Joesa, — and their brethren, six hundred and ninety. And of the sons of Benjamin was Saul, son of Meshech. And of the sons of Kiriathaim was Hushai, son of Shallum, son of the tribes of Benjamin, and Adishai, son of Jeroham.

2. And of the priests were Jedediah, and Jehoiarib, and Jachin, and Azariah, and Johanan, and Gareb, son of Elah, son of Azariah, son of Zadok, son of Hezro, chief ruler of the house of God; and Adishai, son of Jeroham, son of Pashur, son of Malchijah, — and Maasei son of Adiel, son of Jahaziel, son of Meshech, son of Meshillemith, son of Immer; and their brethren, chief men of their ancestral house, a thousand and seven hundred and sixty,—able men, for the business of the service of the house of God.

3. And of the Levites were Shemaiah, son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, of the sons of Merari; and Bakbakkar, Heresh, and Galal, and Mattaniah, son of Mica, son of Zichri, son of Asaph; and Obadiash, son of Shemaiah, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun, and Berechiah son of Asa, son of Elkanah, who dwelt in the villages of the Netophathites. And the keepers of the gates were Shallum, and Akkub, and Talmon, and Ahiman, — and their brethren—Shallum the chief; and Hithero they were in the gate of the king, eastward,—the same were the keepers of the gate, for the camps of the sons of Levi. And Shallum son of Kore, son of Ebiasaph, son of Korah and his brethren of the ancesstral house of the Korhites were over the business of the service, watchers at the vestibule of the tent, and their fathers had been over the camp of Yahweh, watchers at the entrance. And Phinehas son of Eleazar was chief ruler over them aforetime, Yahweh being with him. Zechariah son of Meshelemiah was doorkeeper at the entrance of the tent of meeting. All those who were chosen for doorkeepers in the vestibule were two hundred and twelve,—the same. In their villages had registered themselves, the same did David and Samuel the seer establish in their trust. So they and their sons were over the gates of the house of Yahweh, of the house of the tent, by watches. Towards the four winds were the keepers of the gates, eastward, westward, northward, and southward. And their brethren in their villages had to come in, every seven days, from time to time, along with these. For in trust were four mighty men of the keepers of the gates, the same were Levites, and they were over the chambers, and over the treasures of the house of God. And round about the house of God used they to lodge, for upon them was the charge, and they were over the setting open, morning by morning. And some from among them were over the utensils of the service, for by number used they to bring them in, and by number used they to take them forth. And some from among them were appointed over the utensils, yes over all the vessels of the place, and over the fine meal, and the wine. and the oil, and the frankincense, and the spices. And some from among the sons of the priests were compounders of perfumes, with the spices. And Mattithiah, from among the Levites—a of the same was the first-born of Shallum the Korahite—was in trust over the making of the flat cakes. And some from among the Kohathites of their brethren were over the Bread that was set in Array—to place it sabbath by sabbath. These also were the singers, ancestral chiefs of the Levites, in the chambers, free—for by day and by night—was there [a charge] upon them, in the business.

These were the ancestral chiefs, of the Levites, by their generations, chief men,—these dwelt in Jerusalem.

§ 17. Genealogy of Saul repeated: introductory to an Account of his Death, and David's Succession to the Throne.

And in Gibon dwelt the father of Gibon, Jeiel, a of the name of whose wife was Maacah: and his firstborn son Abdon, and Zur, and Kish, and Baal and Ner, and Nadab; and Gedor, and Ahio, and Zechariah, and Mikloth.

And Mikloth begat Shimeam, and they also begot against their brethren—did dwell in Jerusalem, along with their brethren.

And Ner begat Kish, and Kish begat Saul, and Saul begat Jonathan, and Malchishua, and Abinadab, and Eshbaal.

And the son of Jonathan was Merib-baal, and Merib-baal begat Micah; and the sons of Micah were Pithon, and Melech, and Tahrea (Ahaz).

And Ahaz begat Jarash, and Jarash begat Alemeth, and Azemath, and Zimri, and Zemirih begat Moza; and Moza begat Binea, and Raphaiah his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son; and Azel had six sons, and these are their names—Azrikam, [his firstborn], and Ishmael, and Sheariah and Obadiah, and Hanan, [and Asha]. These were the sons of Azel.

Now the Philistines fought against Israel, and the men of Israel fled before the Philistines, and the wounded fell in Mount Gilboa. And the Philistines followed hard after Saul, and after his sons, and the Philistines smote Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Malchishua, sons of Saul. And the battle was sore against Saul, and the archers dis covered him with the bow, and he was terrified because of the archers. Therefore said Saul unto his armour-bearer:

Draw out thy sword and thrust me through thereby, lest these uncircumcised men abuse me, But his armour-bearer would not, for he feared greatly, so then Saul took the sword, and fell upon it. And when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead, then he also fell upon the sword, and died. So Saul died, and his three sons, and all his house together died.

And when all the men of Israel that were in the vale saw that they had fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, then forsook they their cities, and fled, and the Philistines came and dwelt in them.

And it came to pass, on the morrow, when the Philistines came to strip the slain,—then they found Saul, and his sons, lying prostrate, in Mount Gilboa. So they stripped him, and took his head, and his armour, and sent throughout the land of the Philistines round about, to publish it to their idols, and to the people.

And they put his armour in the house of the gods, but his skull fastened they up, in the house of Dagon.

And when all Jabesh-Gilead heard all this, the Philistines had done to Saul; they took up all the men of valour, and took away the corpse of Saul, and the corpses of his sons, and brought them to Jabesh, and buried their bodies under the terebinth, in Jabesh, and fasted seven days.

Thus died Saul for his unfaithfulness when he dealt unfaithfully against Yahweh, over the word of Yahweh, which he kept not, and also in asking by necromancy when he desired to enquire; and enquired not of Yahweh, whereby he slew him, and turned round the kingdom unto David, son of Jesse.

§ 18. David anointed King in Hebron: Zion captured and called The City of David.

Then did all Israel gather themselves together to David, unto Hebron, saying,—Lo! thy bone and thy flesh are we.

Moreover also— in time past— when Saul was king— thou wast he that led out and brought in Israel,—and Yahveh thy God said unto thee:

Thou shalt shepherd my people Israel, Yea thou shalt be chief ruler, over all people Israel.

Thus came all the elders of Israel unto David, king, to Hebron, and David solemnised to them the covenant in Hebron, before Yahweh,—and they anointed David to be king over Israel, according to the word of Yahweh, through Samuel.

Then went David and all Israel to Jerusalem.
1 CHRONICLES XI. 5—47.

Now these are the chiefs of the heroes, that pertained to David, who held strongly with him in his kingdom,* with all Israel, to make him king,—according to the word of Yahweh, concerning Israel. 11 And this is the number of the heroes who pertained to David, —Jashobeam son of Hemmonite, chief of the thirty, the same branded his spear over three hundred—slain at one time. 12 And after him was Eleazar son of Dodai, the Ahohite,—he was among the three heroes; 13 he was with David in Pas-dammim, where the Philistines were gathered together to battle; and there was a field-plot full of barley,—and the people fled, from before the Philistines; 14 so they took their stand in the midst of the plot and rescued it, and smote the Philistines,—and Yahweh wrought a great victory. 15 And three of the thirty chiefs went down upon the rock unto David, into the cave of Adullam,—a host of Philistines, being encamped in the vale of Rephaim. 16 Now David then was in the stronghold,—and a garrison of Philistines then was in Bethlehem. 17 And David longed, and said—

Who will give me to drink of the water, out of the well of Bethlehem, that is within the gate?

And the three brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Bethlehem, that was within the gate, and bare it, and brought it in unto David,—yet would not David drink it, but poured it out unto Yahweh; 19 and said—

Far be it from me, of my God, that I should do this!

The blood of these men shall I drink, with their lives? * 4

For with their lives have they brought it! So he would not drink it. * 20 And Abishai brother of Joab—he was the chief of three, he having brandished his spear against three hundred—who were slain—and so he had a name among three. 21 Of the third in the second rank was he honourable, therefore became he their captain, though unto the [first] three did he not attain. 22 Benaiyah son of Jehoiada, son of a man of valour, hero of many a deed, from Kabziel—he smote the two [sons] of Ariel of Moab, he also went down and smote a lion in the midst of a pit, in time of snow; 23 he also smote an Egyptian, a man of [great] stature, five cubits, and in the hand of the Egyptian was a spear like a weaver's beam, so he went down unto him with a staff, and wrested the spear out of the hand of the Egyptian, and slew him with his spear. 24 These things did Benaiah son of Jehoiada, so he had a name among three heroes. 25 Among the thirty lo! [honourable] was he, but unto the [first] three did he not attain,—howbeit David set him over his council.*

Now the heroes of the forces were,—Asahel, brother of Joab, Elhanan son of Dodo, of Bethlehem; 26 Shammoth, the Harorite, Helez the Pelatite; 27 Ira, son of Ikkesh, the Tekoite, Abiezer, the Anathothite; 28 Sibbecai, the Hushathite, Zalmon, the Ahohite; 29 Maharai, the Netophathite, Hezai, son of Parnach, of the sons of Benjamin. 30 Benaiah, the Pirathonite; 31 Hurai, son of the torrents of Gaash, Abiel the Arbathite; 32 Azmaveth, the Bahurimite, Eliahu, the Shaalbonite; 33 the sons of Hashem, the Gizonite, Jonathan, son of Shageh, the Hararite; 34 Abish, son of Sacar, the Hararite, Eliphal, son of Uru; 35 Hepher, the Mecherathite, Ahijah the Pelonite; 36 Hezro, the Carmelite, Naarai, son of Ezbai; 37 Joel, brother of Nathan, Mihiar son of Hagri; 38 Zeleek, the Ammonite, Naharai, the Berothite, the armour-bearer of Joab son of Zeruiah; 39 Ira, the Ithrite, Gabr, the Ithrite; 40 Uriah, the Hittite, Zabad son of Ahlai; 41 Adina, son of Shiza, the Reubenite, a chief of the Reubenites and over the thirty; 42 Hanan, son of Maacah, and Josaphat, the Mithmite; 43 Uzza, the Asherathite, Sheha, and Jereioth son of Hotham, the Ahorite; 44 Jediael, son of Shimri, and Joha, his brother, the Tizite; 45 Elieel, the Mahavite, and Jeribai and Josiah, sons of Elnaam, and Ittahiah the Masabite; 46 Elieel, and Obad, and Jaaciel, of Zobah.*

§ 20. List of Valiant Men who helped David while he was yet persecuted by Saul.

12 Now these are they who came unto David to Ziklag, while he yet being shut up, because of Saul, son of Kish, and they were among the heroes, helpers in the war; armed with bow, using right hand or left with stones, and with arrows in the bow,—of the brethren of Saul, out of Benjamin: 2 The chief Ishi, and Jozabed, sons of Shemaiah the Gibeonite, and Jeriel and Polet, sons of Azmaveth,—and Beraiah, and Job the Anathothite; 4 and Ishmaiah the Gibeonite, a hero among the thirty, and over the thirty,—and Jeremiah and Jahaziel, and Johanan, and Jozabad, the Gederathite; 5 Eluzai and Jerimoth and Bealiah and Shemariah, and Shephatiah the Haruphite; 6 Elkanah and Isshiah, and Azarel, and Joezer and Jashobeam, the Korathites; 7 and Joelah and Zabadiah, sons of Jeroham, of Gedor.

And of the Gadites there separated themselves unto David, to the stronghold towards the desert, heroes of valor, men of war, for battle, men that could handle shield and spear,—and faces of lions were their faces, and like gazelles upon the mountains were they, for swiftness: 9 Ezer, the chief, Obadiah, the second, Eliphael the third; 10 Mashmannah, the fourth, Jeremiah, the fifth; 11 Attai, the sixth, Eliel, the seventh; 12 Johanan, the eighth, Elzabad, the ninth; 13 Jeremiah, the tenth, Machbanai, the eleventh. 14 These were of the sons of Gad, chiefs of the host, one to a hundred, the least, and the greatest to a thousand.

These are they who passed over the Jordan, in the first month, when it was full over all its banks,—and they put to flight all of them of the vale, to the east and to the west.

And there came of the sons of Benjamin, and Judah, as far as the stronghold, unto David. And David went forth to meet them, and responded, and said to them, If peaceably ye are come unto me, to help me, I shall have towards you, a heart for unity,—but if to betray me to mine adversaries, there being no violence in my hands, may the God of our fathers see and requite!

Then the spirit clothed Amasa, chief of the thirty, the third, O David, Yea, with thee, O son of Jesse!

Prosperity, prosperity to thee, And prosperity to thy helpers, For thy God hath helped thee; So David accepted them, and set them among the chiefs of the band.

And of Manasseh there fell away unto David, when he came with the Philistines against Saul to battle, but they helped the not,—for the lords of the Philistines advised him to say, At the price of our heads he might fall away to his master, Saul.

When he went into Ziklag there fell away unto him of Manasseh, Adnah and Jozabad, and Jediael and Michael and Jozabad, and Elihu and Zillethai,—chiefs of the thousand that pertained to Manasseh; 21 and they helped with David, against the band, for heroes of valor were they there all, and they became captains in the host; 22 from day to day there came unto David, to help him,—until it was a great camp, like the camp of God.

§ 21. Warriors out of Various Tribes who came to Hebron to make David King over All Israel.

And these are the numbers of the chairs armed for war, they came unto David, to Hebron,—to turn round the kingdom of Saul unto him; according to the bidding of Yahweh: 24 Of Judah, bearers of shield and spear each thousand and eight hundred, armed for war. 25 Of the sons of Simeon, heroes of valor for the war seven thousand and an hundred. 26 Of the sons of Levi, for thousand and six hundred. 27 And Jehuda was chief ruler for Aaron,—and with his three thousand and seven hundred; 28 and Zadok, a young man, a hero of valor,—and the house of his father, captains twenty and two. 29 Of the sons of Benjamin, brethren of Saul, three thousand,—and of them the greatest part of them had been keeping the charge of the house of Saul. 30 Of the sons of Ephraim, twenty thousand and eight hundred heroes of valor, men of renown, to the ancestral house. 31 And of the half tribe of Manasseh, eighteen thousand, who were distinguished by name, coming in to make David king. 32 And of the sons of Issachar, as were of good understanding of the times, who knew what Israel should do; 33 their chief were two hundred, and all their brethren were at their bidding. 34 Of Zebulun, such were ready to go forth in host, expert in battle with all weapons of war fifty thousand. 35 And of Naphtali, there were a thousand captains, and with them, with shield and spear thirty-seven thousand.
<of the Danites, expert for war> twenty-eight thousand, and six hundred. 36 And <of Asher, such as were ready to go forth in host to set in array for battle> forty thousand. 37 And <from over the Jordan, of the Reubenites and Gadites and half tribe of Manasseh, with all manner of weapons of war for battle> a hundred and twenty thousand. 38 ||All these, being men of war, expert in setting in battle-array<with a perfect heart> came to Hebron, to make David king over all Israel,—moreover also [all the rest of Israel] were of one heart to make David king. 39 So they were there, with David, three days, eating and drinking,—for their brethren had made preparation for them. Moreover also [they who were near of kin unto them, as far as Issachar and Zebulun and Naphtali] were bringing bread, on asses and on camels and on mules and on oxen, meal-food, cakes of figs and cakes of raisins, and wine, and oil, and oxen, and sheep—in abundance,—for there was joy in Israel.

§ 22. Removal of the Ark from Kiriat-jearim, as far as the house of Obed-edom. 13 1 And David consulted with the rulers of thousands and hundreds, even with every chief ruler. 2 And David said to all the convocation of Israel, <If unto you> it seemeth to be good, and from Yahweh our God we will urgently<send unto our brethren who remain in all the lands of Israel, and with them> the priests and the Levites in their pasture-land cities,—that they may gather together unto us; 3 and let us bring round the ark of our God, unto us,—For they sought it not, in the days of Saul. 4 Then said all the convocation, that it should be done thus,—for right was the thing, in the eyes of all the people. 5 So David convoked all Israel, from Shihor of Egypt, even unto the entering in of Hamath,—to bring the ark of God from Kiriat-jearim. 6 And David went up and all Israel to Baalah, unto Kiriat-jearim, which pertaineth to Judah,—to bring up from thence, the ark of God,—Yahweh who inhabiteth the cherubim, on which is called the Name. 7 And they carried the ark of God, upon a new waggon, out of the house of Aminadab,—and [Uzza and Ahio] were driving the waggon. 8 And [David and all Israel] were dancing for joy before God, with all boldness, and with songs and with lyes, and with harpes and with timbrels, and with cymbals, and with trumpets. 9 And <when they came as far as the threshing-floor of Chidon> Uzza thrust forth his hand, to seize the ark, for the oxen were restive. 10 Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh against Uzza, and he smote him, because he thrust forth his hand unto the ark,—and he died there, before God.

11 And it was a sadness unto David, that Yahweh had broken in with a breach against Uzza,—and he called that place Perez-uzza,[as it is called] unto this day. 12 And David was afraid of God, on that day, saying,—

How can I bring unto me, the ark of God? 13 So David removed not the ark unto him, into the city of David,—but took it aside into the house of Obed-edom, the Gittite. 14 And the ark of God remained with the household of Obed-edom, in his house, three months,—and Yahweh blessed the household of Obed-edom, and all that he had.

§ 23. David’s Palace, Family, and Victories over the Philistines. 1 And Hiram king of Tyre sent messengers unto David, and timber of cedars, with masons and artificers, to build for him a house. 2 So David perceived, that Yahweh had confirmed him as king over Israel,—that his kingdom was exalted, for the sake of his people Israel. 3 And David took more wives, in Jerusalem,—and David begat more sons and daughters. 4 Now these are the names of them who were born, whom he had in Jerusalem,—Shammua and Shobah, Nathan, and Solomon; 5 and Ibhar and Elishua, and Elpelet; 6 and Nogah and Nepheg, and Japhia; 7 and Eliahma and Elishama, and Eliphelet. 8 And <when the Philistines heard that David had been anointed king over all Israel> all the Philistines came up to seek to secure David,—and David, hearing, went out against them. 9 Now [the Philistines] had come and spread themselves out, in the vale of Rephaim. 10 Then David asked of God, saying,

Shall I go up against the Philistines? and wilt thou deliver them into my hand? 11 And Yahweh said to him, Go up, and I will deliver them into thy hand. 12 So they came up in Baal-perazim, and David smote them there, and David said,

God hath broken forth against mine enemies by my hand, like the breaking forth of waters.—

<For this cause> called they the name of that place, Baal-perazim. 13 And they left their gods there,—and David gave the word, and they were burned up in fire. 14 And the Philistines yet again spread themselves out in the vale. 15 So David [asked again] of God, and God said to him,

Thou shalt not go up after them,—get thee round, away from them, so shalt thou come in upon them, over against the mulberry-trees; 16 and it shall be, <when thou hearest a sound of marching in the tops of the mulberry-trees: "Then" shalt thou go forth into the battle,—for God will have gone forth before thee, to smite the host of the Philistines.

16 So David did as God commanded him,—and they smote the host of the Philistines, from Gibeon even unto Gezer.

17 And the name of David went forth, throughout all the lands,—and "Yahweh" put the dread of him upon all the nations.

§ 24. The Ark brought to Jerusalem.

1 And he made him houses, in the city of David,—and prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched for it a tent. 2 Then said David,

None must carry the ark of God, save the Levites,—for <of them> did Yahweh make choice, to bear the ark of Yahweh, and to attend unto it, times age-abiding.

3 So David convoked all Israel, unto Jerusalem,—to bring up the ark of Yahweh, unto the place whereof he had prepared for it.

4 And David gathered together the sons of Aaron, and the Levites: 5 <Of the sons of Kohath> Uriel the chief, and his brethren, one hundred and twenty; 6 <of the sons of Merari> Assiah the chief, and his brethren, two hundred and twenty; 7 <of the sons of Gershom> Joel the chief, and his brethren, one hundred and thirty; 8 <of the sons of Elizaphan> Shemaiah the chief, and his brethren, two hundred; 9 <of the sons of Hebron> Eliel the chief, and his brethren, eighteen; 10 <of the son of Uzziel> Amminadab the chief, and his brethren, a hundred and twelve. 11 Then called David, for Zadok and for Abiathar, the priests,—and for the Levites, for Uriel, Assiah and Joel, Shemaiah and Eliel, and Amminadab; 12 and said unto them.

"Ye" are the chiefs of the fathers of the Hallel yourselves, "ye" and your brethren, so shall ye bring up the ark of Yahweh,—God of Israel, into [the place] I have prepared for it.

13 "Because, at the first," ye did not [bring it] Yahweh our God brake forth against us, because we sought him not in the appointed way.

14 So the priests and the Levites hallowed themselves,—to bring up the ark of Yahweh, God of Israel. 15 And the sons of the Levites bare the ark of God, just as Moses commanded, according to the word of Yahweh,—on their shoulder, with the staves upon them. 16 And David spake to the chiefs of the Levites, to station their brethren the singers, with instruments of song," harps and lyres, and cymbals,—sounding aloud at the lifting up of the voice, for joy.

17 So the Levites caused to stand, Heman son of Joel, and <of his brethren> Asaph, son of Berechiah,—and <of the sons of Merari their brethren> Ethan, son of Kushaiiah; 18 and <with them> their brethren of the second degree,—Zochariah, Ben, and Jaaziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel and Unni, Eliaib and Benaiah, and Maaseiah, and Mattithiah, and Eligeber, and Mibsam, and Micah, and the door-keepers; 19 And <the singers, Heman, Asaph and Ethan> <with the cymbals of bronze> were to sound aloud.

20 And Shemiramoth, and Azriel, and Shimri, and Jehiel, and Unni, and Eliaib, and Maaseiah and Benaiah,—with harps, over the trebles; 21 and Mattithiah, and Eligeber, and Micah, and Obed-edom, and Eliezer, and the door-keepers, were blowing with the trumpets before the ark of God,—and <of Obed-edom and Jehiel> were door-keepers to the ark. 22 Thus, it was ||David and the elders of Israel, and the rulers of thousands who were going, to bring up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, out of the house of Obed-edom, with joy.

25 And so it was that <when God helped the Levites, who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh> they sacrificed seven bullocks and seven rams. 26 Now ||David was wrapped about with a robe of byssus, with all the Levites who were bearing the ark and the singers, and Chenaiah the leader of the service rendered by the singers,—but <upon the head of David> was an ephod of white linen.

28 So ||all Israel> were bringing up the ark of Yahweh, with shouting, and with sound of the horn, and with trumpets, and with cymbals,—sounding aloud, with harps and lyres.

29 And so it was that <when the ark of the covenant of Yahweh came in as far as the city of David,—and Michal daughter of Saul looked forth through the window, and saw King David dancing and playing> that she despised him in her heart.
16 So they brought in the ark of God, and placed it in the midst of the tent, which David had pitched for it,—and they brought near ascending-sacrifices and peace-offerings before God. 2 And when David had made an end of offering the ascending-sacrifices, and the peace-offerings> he blessed the people, in the name of Yahweh. 3 And he apportioned, to every one of Israel, both man and woman,—to every one, a loaf of bread, and a sweet drink, and a raisin cake.

§ 25. David's Arrangements, and Psalms, for worship before the Ark and before the Tent in Gibson.
(Cp. chap. xxi. 29.)

And he placed before the ark of Yahweh certain of the Levites, as attendants,—and to celebrate, and to give thanks and render praise, unto Yahweh, God of Israel: 5 Asaph the chief, and, second to him, Zechariah,—Jieel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-edom, and Jieel, with instruments of harps; and with lyres, and Asaph with cymbals, sounding aloud: 6 and Benaiah and Jahazieli, the priests,—with trumpets continually, before the ark of the covenant of God.

<On that day> then David gave [these songs] in chief, to give thanks unto Yahweh,—through Asaph, and his brethren:—

Give ye thanks to Yahweh Call upon his name, Make known among the peoples, his doings; Sing ye to him, Make music unto him, Speak ye of all his wonders. Boast yourselves in his holy name, Joyful be the heart of them who are seeking Yahweh. Search out Yahweh, and his power, Seek diligently his face, at all times. Remember his wonders which he hath done, His splendid deeds, and the just decisions of his mouth. O ye seed of Israel his servant, Sons of Jacob—his chosen ones: Yahweh himself is our God, Through all the land are his just decisions. Remember ye to times age-abiding, his covenant, The word he hath commanded, to a thousand generations; Which he solemnised with Abraham, And his oath, to Isaac; And confirmed it, Unto Jacob, for a statute, Unto Israel, as a covenant age-abiding:

Saying, <To thee> will I give the land of Canaan, As your inherited portion:

While, as yet, ye were men who could be counted, A very few, and sojourners therein:
And they wandered, from nation to nation, And from one kingdom, to another people:
He suffered no man to oppress them, And reproved—for their sakes—kings!
Ye may not touch mine Anointed ones, And <to my Prophets> may ye do no wrong.

Sing to Yahweh, all the earth, Tell the tides, from day to day, of his salvation:
Recount, Among the nations, his glory, Among all the peoples, his wonders.
For great is Yahweh, and worthy to be mightily praised, And to be revered is he above all gods;
For [all the gods of the peoples] are things of nought,
But [Yahweh] made [the heavens];
[Strength and joy] are in his dwelling-place.
Give to Yahweh, ye families of the peoples, Give to Yahweh, glory and strength:
Give to Yahweh, the glory of his name,— Bring ye a present, and enter before him, Bow down to Yahweh, in the adornment of holiness:
Trouble at his presence, all the earth, But the world [shall be established], it shall not be shaken.
Let the heavens rejoice, and the earth exult, Let them say among the nations, [Yahweh] hath become king!
Let the sea roar, and the fulness thereof, Let the field leap for joy, and all that is therein:
[Then] shall shout in triumph, the trees of the forest,— Before Yahweh, for he is coming, to judge the earth.
Give ye thanks unto Yahweh, For he is good, For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.

And say ye, Save us, O God of our salvation, And gather us and deliver us from among the nations,— That we may give thanks unto thy holy name, That we may triumph aloud in thy praise.
Blessed be Yahweh, God of Israel, From one age even to another age.

Then said all the people, Amen, And gave praise to Yahweh.

So he left there, before the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, Asaph and his brethren,—to be in attendance before the ark continually, for the duty of a day on its day; 30 and Obad-edom with his brethren, sixty-eight, and Obad-edom son of Jeduthun and Hossah to be doorkeepers; 31 and Zadok the priest, and his brethren the priests, before the habitation of Yahweh, in the high place that was in Gibeon: 32 to offer ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh, upon the altar of ascending-sacrifices, continually, morning and evening, even according to all that is written in the law of Yahweh, which he commanded concerning Israel; 4 and with them Heman and Jeduthun, and the rest of the chosen ones, who were distinguished by name, to give thanks unto Yahweh,

For abounding is his lovingkindness!

43 And with him Heman and Jeduthun, [with] the trumpets, and the cymbals, for sounding aloud, and the instruments for the songs of God, and the sons of Jeduthun, for the gate.

44 And all the people departed, every man to his house, and David went round, to bless his own household.

§ 26. David, proposing to build a Temple, is forbidden: but receives large promises for himself and his posterity. (Cp. 2 S. vii.)

17 And it came to pass when David had taken up his abode in his house, that David said unto Nathan the prophet, Lo! I am dwelling in a house of cedars, but the ark of the covenant of Yahweh is under curtains.

2 Then said Nathan unto David, All that is thy heart do, for God is with thee.

3 But so it was that in that night the word of God came unto Nathan, saying:

4 And say unto David my servant, Thou shalt not build me a house, to dwell in; seeing that I have not dwelt in a house, since the day that I brought up Israel, until this day, but have been from tent to tent, and without a habitation.

Wheresoever I have wandered with all Israel I spake I ever [a word] with one of the judges of Israel, whom I charged to shepherd my people, saying, Wherefore have ye not built me a house of cedars?

11 [Now] therefore, [thou] shalt thou [borne] unto my servant David; [This] shall saith Yahweh of hosts;

4 If I myself took thee from the pastures from after the flock, to become leader over my people Israel; and was with thee wheresoever thou didst go, and have cut off all thine enemies from before thee; and will make thee a name, like the name of the great ones, who are in the earth; and will appoint for thee a place for my people Israel, and will plant them, and they shall inhabit their place, and be unsettled no more, neither shall the sons of people verity again wear them out, as at first; even from the days when I p. judges in charge over my people Israel, and have subdued all thine enemies, that I might make thee great; will Yahweh build thee a house;

And it shall be that when thy days are fulfilled, to sleep, with thy fathers; then will I raise up thy seed after thee, who shall be of thy seed, and I will establish his kingdom. [He] shall build my house, and I will establish his throne unto times age-abiding.

[If] I will become his father, and [he] shall become my son. And <my lovingkindness> will I cause to depart from him, as I caused it to depart from him who was before thee; but I will cause him to reign over my house and over my kingdom unto times age-abiding, and his throne shall be established, unto times age-abiding.

According to all these words, and according to all this vision, so speak Nathan unto David.

Then entered King David, and turned before Yahweh, and said:

Who am I, O Yahweh God, and what is my house, that thou hast hitherto; and hast made this seem small in thine eyes, O God, in that thou hast spoken concerning the house of thy servant for a great while to come? Thus thou provide for me, according to the rest of manhood, and hast exalted me before Yahweh God!

What yet further can David say unto thee [thou] to honour thy servant, seeing [thou thyself] knowest [thine own servant]?

Mt. c. 18—G.n. 18 What yet further can David say unto thee [thou] to honour thy servant, seeing [thou thyself] knowest [thine own servant]?
19 O Yahweh, <for the sake of thy servant, and according to thine own heart> hast thou done all this great thing, —making known all the great things.
20 O Yahweh, there is none like unto thee, yea there is no God besides thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.
21 Who then is like thy people Israel, a nation alone in the earth, —whom God went to redeem, to be his own people, to make for thyself a name for great and fearful things, to drive out nations from before thy people, whom thou didst redeem out of Egypt; and didst appoint thy people Israel for thyself as a people, unto times age-abiding, —||thou thyself also, O Yahweh, becoming their God?||

||Now therefore, O Yahweh ||the word which thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house, be it steadfast unto times age-abiding, —and do as thou hast spoken: yea let it be steadfast, and so let thy Name be magnified unto times age-abiding, saying, ||Yahweh of hosts, the God of Israel|| is a God to Israel! —seeing that ||the house of David thy servant|| is established before thee.
23 For ||thou, O my God|| hast unveiled the ear of thy servant, that thou wilt build for him a house, —<for this cause> hath thy servant found [it in his heart] to pray before thee.
24 Now therefore, O Yahweh, ||thou art God, therefore hast thou spoken concerning thy servant this goodness.||
25 ||Now therefore, let it please thee to bless the house of thy servant, that it may be unto times age-abiding before thee, —for ||thou O Yahweh|| hast blessed, and it is to be blessed unto times age-abiding.

§ 27. Philistines, Moabites, Syrians, and Edomites subjugated to David.

18 And it came to pass <after this> that David smote the Philistines, and subdued them, —and took Gath and her villages, out of the hand of the Philistines.
2 And he smote Moab, —and the Moabites became servants to David, bearers of a present. And David smote Hadarezer 4 king of Zobah, towards Hamath, —as he went to establish his hold of the river Euphrates. 4 And David captured from him a thousand chariots, and seven thousand horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen, —and David destroyed all the chariots, saving that he reserved from them a hundred chariots. And <when the Syrians of Damascus came to help Hadadrezer king of Zobah> David smote of the Syrians, twenty-two thousand men. And David put [garrisons] in Syria of Damascus, and so it was that the Syrians became David’s servants, bearers of a present, —so Yahweh gave victory to David, whithersoever he went. 7 And David took the shields of gold, that were upon the servants of Hadarezer, —and brought them to Jerusalem; 8 also <from Tibhath and from Cun, cities of Hadarezer> David took very much bronze, —<therewith> did Solomon make the sea of bronze, and the pillars, and the vessels of bronze. 9 And <when Tou, king of Hamath, heard that David had smitten all the force of Hadarezer king of Zobah> he sent Hadoram his son unto King David, to ask after his welfare, and to bless him, because he had made war against Hadarezer and had smitten him, for [a man making war against Tou] had been Hadarezer, —and he had with him all manner of vessels of gold and silver and bronze; ||<them also> did King David hallow unto Yahweh, with the silver and the gold, that he bare away from all the nations, —from Edom, and from Moab, and from the sons of Ammon, and from the Philistines, and from Amalek. 12 Moreover Abishai, son of Zeruiah|| smote Edom, in the Valley of Salt, —eighteen thousand; 13 and set [in Edom] garrisons, and all Edom became servants unto David, —and Yahweh gave David the victory, whithersoever he went.

§ 28. David himself acting as Judge, has about him various Officers of State.

14 So David reigned over all Israel, —and he was executing justice and righteousness for all his people; 15 and ||Jehoshaphat, son of Elihud|| was over the army, —and ||Jehoiachin, son of Elihu|| was recorder; 16 and ||Zadok, son of Ahitub, and Abimelech|| son of Abiathar were priests, —and ||Shavsha|| was scribe; 17 and ||Benaiah, son of Jehoiada|| was over the Cherethites, and the Pelites, —and [the sons of David] were first, in attendance on the king.

§ 29. The Sons of Amazon insult David, as a consequence they and their allies, the Syrians, are defeated and themselves subjugated.

1 And it came to pass ||after this|| that Nahash 19 king of the sons of Ammon died, —and Hanun his son reigned in his stead. 2 Then said David —

I will shew lovingkindness unto Hanun, son of Nahash,—for his father shewed unto me lovingkindness.

So David sent messengers to console him concerning his father,—and the servants of David came into the land of the sons of Ammon unto Hanun, to console him. 2 Then said the rulers of the sons of Ammon unto Hanun, Doth David honour thy father in thine eyes, that he hath sent to thee comforters? Is it not [for the sake of exploring and overthrowing, and spying out the land] that his servants have come to thee? 4 So Hanun took the servants of David, and shaved them, and cut off their upper garments in the middle, as far as their parts of shame,—and let them go. 5 And people went and told David, concerning the men, so he sent to meet them, because the men were greatly ashamed,—and the king said—Tarry at Jericho, until your beards be grown, and then return. 6 And <when the sons of Ammon saw, that they had made themselves odious with David> Hanun and the sons of Ammon sent a thousand talents of silver, to hire for themselves—out of Mesopotamia, and out of Aram-maschah, and out of Zobah—chariots, and horsemen. 7 So they hired for themselves thirty-two thousand chariots, and the king of Maacah, and his people, who came and pitched before Medeba,—and the sons of Ammon gathered themselves together out of their cities, and entered into the war. 8 Now <when David heard> he sent Joab and all the army of heroes. 9 And the sons of Ammon came out, and set in array for the battle, at the opening of the city,—whereas the kings who had come were by themselves, in the field. 10 So <when Joab saw that the battle confronted him> before and behind,—he chose out of all the choice in Israel, and set in array to meet the Syrians; 11 and the rest of the people> delivered he into the hand of Abishai his brother,—and they set in array, to meet the sons of Ammon. 12 And he said—<If too strong for me> be the Syrians then shalt thou come to my help,—but <if the sons of Ammon> be too strong for thee then will I help thee. 13 Be strong, and let us put forth our strength, for the sake of our people, and for the sake of the cities of our God,—and let Yahweh do what is good in his own eyes. 14 Then did Joab, and all the people who were with him, draw near before the Syrians unto the battle,—and they fled from before him. 15 And <when the sons of Ammon> saw that the Syrians had fled then fled they also from before Abishai his brother, and entered the city,—and Joab came to Jerusalem. 16 And when the Syrians saw that they had been defeated before Israel, then sent they messengers, and brought out the sons who were beyond the River,—with Shophach captain of the army of Hadarezer, before them. 17 And it was told David, and he gathered together all Israel, and crossed the Jordan, and came unto them, and set in array against them, and <when David had set in array against the Syrians for battle> they fought with him. 18 And the Syrarians fled before Israel, and David slew of the Syrians seven thousand chariots, and forty thousand footmen,—and <Shophach captain of the army> he put to death. 19 And <when the servants of Hadarezer> saw that they were defeated before Israel—they made peace with David and served him,—neither would the Syrians help the sons of Ammon anymore. 1 And it came to pass <at the time of the two years of the year, at the time of the going forth of the kings> that Joab led forth the force of the army, and laid waste the land of the sons of Ammon, and came and besieged Rabbah, and <David was tarrying in Jerusalem,—and Jehoshaphat was at Jericho;> and overthrew it. 2 And David took the crown of their king from his head, and found it weighed a talent of gold, and <therein> were precious stones, and it was set on the head of David,—and <the spoils of the city> brought he forth, in great abundance; 3 and <the people that were there brought he forth, and out with the saw and with the thrashing sledges of iron and with the ax> used David to do unto all the cities of the sons of Ammon,—and David and all his people returned to Jerusalem.

§ 30. Exploits of some of David’s Heroes against the Philistines. 4 And it came to pass <after this> that there was again a battle in Gezer, with the Philistines,—then] Sibbecai the Hushathite smote Sippai of the children of the giants, and that man was subdued. 5 And there again came to be a battle with the Philistines,—and Elhanan son of Jashareth, brother of Goliath the Gittite, the staff of whose spear was like a spear beam. 6 And there again came to be war with Gath, where was a man of great stature, with a spear three fingers and toes; six on each hand and feet were and twenty, and [he also] had been born unto the giant. 7 But <when he approached Israel> Jonathan, son of Shimea, brother of David, smote him. 8 These were born unto the giant in Gath,—but they fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of servants.

§ 31. The Numbering of the People protested against, persisted in, and punished; the Place of Accepted Sacrifice to be the Site of the Temple.

21 Then the accuser stood up, against Israel,—and moved David, to number Israel. And David said unto Joab, and unto the rulers of the people, Go, number Israel, from Beer-sheba even unto Dan,—and bring [the report] unto me, that I may know the number of them.

3 Then said Joab,

May Yahweh add unto his people, as many as they are, a hundred times, but are they not, my lord 0 king, all of them my lord's, as servants? wherefore should my lord seek this? wherefore should it become guilt to Israel?

4 But [the word of the king prevailed] against Joab,—and Joab departed, and went to and fro throughout all Israel, and came to Jerusalem.

And Joab delivered the sum of the number of the people unto David,—and all Israel was found to be a thousand thousand and a hundred thousand men, who drew sword, and Judah four hundred and seventy thousand men, who drew sword. But <Levi and Benjamin> counted he not among them,—for detestable was the word of the king unto Joab.

And it was displeasing in the eyes of God, concerning this thing,—therefore smote he Israel.

And David said unto God,

I have sinned greatly, in that I have done this thing,—but [now] I beseech thee, take away the iniquity of thy servant, for I have shown myself very foolish.

Then spake Yahweh unto Gad, the seer of David, saying:

Go—and thou shalt speak unto David, saying, [Thus saith Yahweh, <Three things> do I offer thee,—choose thee one from among them, that I may do it unto thee.

So Gad came unto David,—and said to him, [Thus saith Yahweh,]

Choose thee:

Whether <for three years> [there be] famine,

Or <for three months> that thou flee before thine adversaries, while the sword of thine enemies overtake thee.

Or <for three days> the sword of Yahweh, and pestilence be in the land, with [the messenger of Yahweh] laying waste throughout all the boundary of Israel,—

Now therefore, see, what answer I shall return unto him that sent me.

And David said unto Gad,

I am in a great strait,—Oh let me fall, I pray thee, into the hand of Yahweh, for abounding are his compensations, exceedingly, but into the hand of man let me not fall.

So Yahweh laid pestilence, upon Israel,—and there fell of Israel, seventy thousand men.

And God sent a messenger to Jerusalem, to lay it waste,* but <as he was laying it waste> Yahweh looked, and relented concerning the calamity, and said unto the messenger who was laying waste.

Enough! [now] stay thy hand.

And [the messenger of Yahweh] was standing by the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite. And <when David lifted up his eyes, and saw the messenger of Yahweh, standing, between the earth and the heavens, and his sword drawn, in his hand, stretched out over Jerusalem> then fell David and the elders, clothed in sackcloth, upon their faces. And David said unto God,

Was it not [I] who gave word to number the people? Yea [I] it was who sinned and did the great wrong, what then had [these sheep] done?

O Yahweh, my God, let thy hand, I beseech thee, be against me, and against the house of my father, but not against [thy people] that they should be plagued!

And [the messenger of Yahweh] commanded Gad, to say unto David,—that David should go up, to rear an altar unto Yahweh, in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite. So David went up, according to [the word of Gad, which he spake in the name of Yahweh.

And Ornan turned, and saw the messenger, but [his four sons with him] were hiding themselves,—now [Ornan] had been threshing wheat.

Then came David unto Ornan,—and Ornan looked, and saw David, and went forth out of the threshing-floor, and bowed himself unto David, with his face to the ground. And David said unto Ornan

Grant me the place of the threshing-floor, that I may build thereon an altar, unto Yahweh,—<for silver in full> shalt thou grant it me, that the plague may be stayed from off the people.

And Ornan said unto David,

Take it to thee, and let my lord the king do what is good in his own eyes,—see! I have given the oxen for ascending-sacrifices, and <the threshing implements for wood, and the wheat for a meat-offering,—the whole> have I given.

Then said King David to Ornan,

Nay! out I will surely buy it for silver in full,—for I will not take that which is thine for Yahweh, nor offer an ascending-sacrifice that hath cost me nothing.

So David gave to Ornan, for the place,—shekels of gold, by weight, six hundred.

And David built there an altar unto Yahweh, and caused to go up ascending-sacrifices, and peace-offerings,—and called unto Yahweh, and he responded to him, by fire, out of the heavens, upon the altar of ascending-sacrifice. 27 And Yahweh gave word to the messenger, and he put back his sword into its sheath.

28 <At that time, when David saw that Yahweh had answered him in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite> then he sacrificed there. 29 But [the habitation of Yahweh, which Moses made in the desert, and the altar of ascending-sacrifice] were <at that time> in the high place at Gibeon; 30 and David could not go before it, to seek God,—for he had been terrified, because of the sword of the messenger of Yahweh.

Then said David,

[This is the house of Yahweh God,—and this is the altar of ascending-sacrifice, for Israel.]

§ 32. David’s Preparations for Building the Temple; and his Charge to Solomon and the Rulers respecting it.

And David gave word, to gather together the sojourners, who were in the land of Israel,—and he set hewers to hew squared stones, for building the house of God; 3 and <iron in abundance, for nails for the doors of the gates, and for hooks> did David prepare,—and bronze in abundance, without weight; 4 and cedars, even without number,—for the Zidonians and the Tyrians brought cedars-trees in abundance, unto David.

And David said,

[Solomon my son] is young and tender, and [the house to be built] must be great and lofty and famous and beautiful, for all lands,—oh let me then prepare for it.

So David prepared abundantly, before his death. 6 Then he called for Solomon his son,—and charged him, to build a house, for Yahweh, God of Israel. 7 And David said to Solomon his son,—

<As for me> it was <near my heart> to build a house for the Name of Yahweh my God; 8 but the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying,

<Blood in abundance> hast thou shed,
And <great wars> hast thou made,—
Thou shalt not build a house for my Name, Because <much blood> hast thou shed upon the earth, before me.

Lo! [a son] born to thee,
[He] shall be a man of rest,
And I will give him rest from all his enemies, round about,—
For <Solomon> shall be his Name,
And <peace and quietness> will I stow upon Israel, in his days;
<<He]] shall build a house for my Name,
And [he]] shall be my son,
And [I]] will be his father;—
Therefore will I establish the throne of his kingdom over Israel, unto time-abiding.

Now my son, Yahweh be with thee; thy name shall be ever prosperous, and shalt build the house of Yahweh thy God, according to all that he hath spoken concerning thee.

Only Yahweh give thee discretion and understanding, and give thee charge over Israel,—so that thou take heed unto the law and the commandments which Yahweh commanded Moses, concerning Israel,—be strong and bold, thou mayst not be in fear, nor dismayed.

Lo! then <in my humiliation> have I prepared for the house of Yahweh, of gold, in abundance, and silver, in abundance, and bronze, in abundance, without weight, for <iron> in abundance; hath it become,—<tin> also and stone; have I prepared, and <thereunto> thou canst add.

And <with thee, in abundance> are women, hewers and carvers of stone and wood,—and every sort of wise man, in all manner of work: 10 for gold and for silver and for brass, and for iron, without number; Arise and do, And Yahweh be with thee!

And David charged all the rulers of Israel, to help Solomon his son:

Is not [Yahweh your God] with you? if he hath not given you rest on every side, for he hath given into my hand, the inhabitants of the land, and subdued] is the land, before Yahweh, and before his people.

[Now]] apply your heart and your soul, and seek unto Yahweh your God,—and that ye arise ye and build the sanctuary of Yahweh Elohim, that ye may bring the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, and the holy vessels of God, into the house which hath been built for the Name of Yahweh.

§ 33. Solomon to be David’s Successor. The Levites. Number, Families, and Duties.

Now [David] was old, and satisfied with days,—so he made Solomon his son king over Israel; 2 and gathered together all the rulers of Israel, with the priests, and the Levites. 3 Now the Levites were numbered, from thirty years old and upwards,—and their number by their polls, of mature men, was thirty-eight thousand.

1 On these—to preside over the work of the house of Yahweh—were twenty-four thousand, —and officers and judges, six thousand; and four thousand were doorkeepers,—and four thousand were offerers of praise unto Yahweh, with instruments.

2 And David divided them into courses,—pertaining to the sons of Levi, to Gershon, Kohath and Merari.

3 Of the Gershonites Ladan and Shimei.

4 The sons of Ladan the chief Jehiel, and Zetham and Joel, three. The sons of Shimei Shelomoth and Haziel and Haran, three,—the sons were the ancestral chiefs of Ladan.

5 And the sons of Shimei Jahath, Zimmah, and Jeush, and Beriah, four,—the sons of Shimei four.

6 And Jahath was chief, and Zimmah the second,—but Jeush and Beriah had not many sons, so they became an ancestral house, by one reckoning.

7 The sons of Kohath Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uziel, four.

8 The sons of Amram Aaron and Moses,—and Aaron was separated, to hallow the holy of holies, unto times age-abiding, to make a perfume before Yahweh, to be in attendance upon him, and to bless in his name, unto times age-abiding;

9 And as for Moses, the man of God, his sons were called unto the tribe of Levi.

10 The sons of Moses were Gershom and Eliasar. The sons of Gershom were Sheubel the chief; and the sons of Eliasar were Rehaiah the chief, 11 And Eliasar had no other sons, but the sons of Rehaiah were very many.

12 The sons of Izhar Shelomoth the chief; and the sons of Shelomoth Hebron, Jeriah the chief, Amariah the second, Jehaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth.

13 The sons of Uziel Micah the chief, and Ishash the second.

14 The sons of Merari were Mahli and Mushi. The sons of Mahli were Eleazar and Kish.

15 But Eleazar died, and had no sons, but daughters only,—and so the sons of Kish their brethren took them.

16 The sons of Mushi were Mahli and Eder and Jeremoth, three.

17 These were the sons of Levi by their ancestral house, the ancestral chiefs of them who were counted in the number of their names, by their polls, doing the work, for the service of the house of Yahweh,—from twenty years old, and upwards.

18 For, said David, Yahweh the God of Israel hath given rest unto his people,—and hath taken up his habitation in Jerusalem, unto times age-abiding; moreover also, as for the Levites they have no need to bear the habitation, nor any of its vessels in the laborious work thereof.

19 For the last words of David [the same were the number of the sons of Levi,—from twenty years old, and upwards. For their duty was to be in attendance upon the sons of Aaron, in the laborious work of the house of Yahweh, over the courts, and over the chambers, and over the purifying of everything holy,—and doing the laborious work of the house of God; and for the bread set in array, and for the fine meal for the meal-offering, and for the unleavened cakes, even for that which is baked in a pan, for the moistened food,—even of every measure, and size; and to stand morning by morning, to give thanks and offer praise unto Yahweh,—and likewise at even; and for all the offering of ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh, on the sabbaths, and on the new moons, and on the set feasts,—by number, according to the manner prescribed for them continually, before Yahweh; and they shall keep the charge of the tent of meeting, and the charge of the holy place, and the charge of the sons of Aaron, their brethren,—in the laborious work of the house of Yahweh.

§ 34. Priests divided into Twenty-four Courses. Their Duties and those of their Helpers, the Levites, settled by Lot.

1 Now the sons of Aaron had their courses,—the sons of Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar; but Nadab and Abihu [died] before their father, and the sons of Aaron had they none, but Eleazar and Ithamar became priests;

2 and David apportioned to them courses, both to Zadok of the sons of Eleazar, and to Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar,—by their appointed place, in their service.

3 But the sons of Eleazar were found to be more numerous, by the chiefs of their able men, than were the sons of Ithamar, so they divided them,—the sons of Eleazar [had chiefs, of the ancient house, sixteen], whereas the sons of Ithamar had of their ancestral house, eight.

4 They divided them, therefore, by casting lots, these with those, for there were princes of the sanctuary, and princes of God, from among the sons of Eleazar, and among the sons of Ithamar.

5 And Shemaiah son of Nethanel the scribe from among the Levites, wrote them down, before the king and the rulers and Zadok the priest, and Ahimelech son of Abiathar, and the ancestral chiefs, pertaining to the priests and to the Levites, one ancestral house was taken for Eleazar, and the other was equally taken for Ithamar.

6 So then the first lot came forth for Jehoiarib, <for Jedaiash> the second; <for Harim> the 20 Now as for the sons of Levi who remained <of the sons of Amram> Shubael, <of the sons of Shubael> Jehdeiah. 21 ¶ Of Rehaiah, <the chief Ishiah>; 22 <of the Izharites> Shelomoth, <of the sons of Shelomoth> Jahath; 23 and <of the sons of Hebron> Jeriah, <of Amariah> the second, 24 <of Jehozaiel> the third, 25 <of Jekemame> the fourth; 26 <of the sons of Uzziel> Micah, <of the sons of Micah> Shamir; 27 <the brother of Micah> Ishiah, <of the sons of Ishiah> Zechariah. 28 <The sons of Merari> Mahli and Mushi, <of the sons of Jaaziah> Bena; 29 <of the sons of Merari> of Jaaziah> Bena, and Shoham and Zaccur and Ibri; 30 <of Mahli> Eleazar, who had no sons; 31 <of Kish> the sons of Kish> Jerameel; 32 and <of the sons of Mahli> Mahli and Eder and Jerimoth. 33 These were the sons of the Levites, belonging to their ancestral house. 34 Moreover they also cast lots along with their brethren the sons of Aaron, before David the king and Zadok and Ahimelech, and the ancestral chiefs, pertaining to the priests and to the Levites,—the ancestral chief along with his younger brethren.

§ 35. David and His Captains Appoint Twenty-Four Courses of Singers and Musicians, Under Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman.

21 And David and the captains of the host set apart for service, unto the sons of Asaph and Heman and Jeduthun, such as should prophesy, with lyres, with harps, and with cymbals,—and the number of the workers, for their service was: 22 <Of the sons of Asaph> Zenas and Joel and Nathan and Asa and Jerel and Meera, sons of Asaph,—under the direction of Asaph, who prophesied under the direction of the king. 23 Of Jeduthun the sons of Jeduthun—Gedaliah and Zeri and Jeshahiah and Matthithiah six, under the direction of Jeduthun, with lyres, as he prophesied in giving thanks, offering praise unto Yahweh. 24 Of Heman the sons of Heman—Bukki and Mattan, Uziel, Shebuel, and Jeremoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, Romamti-ezer, Jeshobehaiah, Mollioth, Hotham, Mahazioth. 25 All these were sons of Heman, the seer of the king in the things of God, at the lifting of the horn. And they were numbered fourteen sons and daughters. 26 All these were under the direction of their father, in the singing in the house of Yahweh, with cymbals, harps, and lyres, for the service of the house of God, Asaph and Jeduthun and Heman under the direction of the king. 27 And the number of them—their brethren, whom were instructed in singing unto Yahweh, even all the skill was two hundred and eighty-eight. 28 So they cast lots for their charges, all alike, as small so the great, the teacher with the learner. 29 And the first lot came forth for Asaph Joseph, the second, Jeduthun, the third, Zaccor, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 30 The fourth, Izri, his sons and his brethren, twelve. The fifth, Shimei, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 31 The sixth, Ausar, his sons and his brethren, twelve. The seventh, Jelioh, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 32 The eighth, Jesharaiel, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 33 The ninth, Mattaniah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 34 The tenth, Shimei, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 35 The eleventh, Azarel, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 36 The twelfth, to Haskibah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 37 As the fourteenth, Mattithiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 38 As the fifteenth, to Jeremoth, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 39 As the sixteenth, to Hananiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 40 As the seventeenth, to Joshobehaiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 41 As the eighteenth, to Hanani, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 42 As the nineteenth, to Mallothi, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 43 As the twentieth, to Tabetheb, his sons and his brethren, twelve. to Eliathah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. As the twenty-first, to Hothir, his sons and his brethren, twelve. As the twenty-second, to Giddalti, his sons and his brethren, twelve. As the twenty-third, to Mahazioth, his sons and his brethren, twelve. As the twenty-fourth, to Romani-ezer, his sons and his brethren, twelve.

§ 36. Courses of Levites serving as Door-keepers, Treasurers, and Officers and Judges.

1 To the courses of the door-keepers pertained,—of the Korahites Meshelemiah, son of Kore, of the sons of Asaph; and Meshelemiah had sons, Zechariah the first-born, Jediel the second, Zabudah the third, Jathniel the fourth; Elam the fifth, Jehohanan the sixth, Eliehoenai the seventh. And Obed-edom had sons, Shemaiah the first-born, Jehozabad the second, Joah the third, and Saccar the fourth, and Nethanel the fifth; Ammuel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peullethai, the eighth, for all had blessed him.

And Shemaiah his son were born sons, who bare rule to their ancestral house, for heroes of valour were they. The sons of Shemaiah were Ochni and Raphael, and Obed, Ezabad, whose brethren were of valour, Elish and Semachiah. All these were of the sons of Obed-edom, they and their sons and their brethren, able men in strength for the service, sixty-two, pertaining to Obed-edom.

And Meshelemiah had sons, and brethren, sons of valour, eighteen. And Hosah of the sons of Merari had sons, Shimir the chief, for though he was not the first-born, yet his father made him chief. Hilkiah the second, Tebaliah the third, Zechariah the fourth, all the sons and brethren of Hosah were thirteen.

To these belonged the courses of door-keepers, to the chiefs of the strong men, belonged charges, equally with their brethren, to be in attendance in the house of Yahweh.

Yea they cast lots, as the small so the great, by their ancestral house, for every seven gate. And the lot eastward fell to Shleumiah. And for Zechariah his son, a discreet counsellor they cast lots, and his lot came out, northward. To Obed-edom southward, and to his sons the storehouse. To Shuppim and to Hosah westward, near the refuge-gate, in the causeway that goeth up, one ward as well as another.

Eastward—that day—were six, northward—daily—four, southward—that day—four, and for the store—two and two. For the precinct—westward—four, at the causeway—two—by the precinct. These were the courses of the door-keepers, of the sons of the Korahites, and of the sons of Merari.

And the Levites, their brethren, were over the treasuries of the house of God, even to the treasuries of hallowed things. The sons of Ladan—the sons of the Gershonites belonging to Ladan—the ancestral chiefs belonging to Ladan the Gershonite—the Jeiel—his brother who were over the treasuries of the house of Yahweh.

Then came certain of the Amramites, of the Izharites, of the Hebronites, of the Uzzielites. And Shelomith, son of Gershon, son of Moses, was chief ruler over the treasuries. And his brethren pertaining to Eliaser his son, and Joshah his son, and Joram his son, and Zichri his son, and Shelomith his son. The same Shelomith and his brethren were over all the treasuries of the hallowed things, which David the king and the ancestral chiefs, with the captains of thousands and hundreds and the captains of the army, had hallowed: out of the battles and out of the spoils, they hallowed them, to strengthen (the provision) for the house of Yahweh.

And all that Samuel the seer, and Saul son of Kish, and Abner son of Ner, and Joab son of Zeruiah, who over ever had hallowed anything, it was under the direction of Shelomith and his brethren.

Of the Izharites, their brethren were over the outward business over Israel, as officers, and as judges.

Of the Hebronites, Hashabiah and his brethren, sons of valour, one thousand seven hundred had the oversight of Israel, across the Jordan westward, for all the business of Yahweh, and for the service of the king.

Of the Hebronites, Jorijah was chief, he was of the Hebronites by his generations, by his fathers, in the fortieth year of the reign of David, were they sought out, and there were found among them heroes of valour, in Jazer of Gilead; and his brethren that were heroes of valour were two thousand and seven hundred, ancestral chiefs, so David the king gave them oversight, over the Reubenites and the Gadites and the half tribe of Manassites, in all the affairs of God, and the affairs of the king.

§ 37. Twelve Monthly Courses of Royal Attendants, acting between the other Courses and the King.

Now the sons of Israel—as to the number of them, the ancestral chiefs—and rulers of... thousands and hundreds, and their officers who waited upon the king as to any matter of the courses, who came in and went out month by month, for all the months of the year in each course were twenty-four thousand. "The chief of the courses, the first month, was Jashobeam, son of Zabdiel; and in his course were twenty-four thousand. "Of the sons of Perez was the chief of all the courses of the first month. And over the course for the second month was Dodai an Ahohite; and in his course were Mikloth also a chief over the courses, and in his course were twenty-four thousand. "The ruler of the third month, for the third month, was Benaijah, son of Jehoiada, the priest—"a chief, and in his course were twenty-four thousand.

"The same Benaijah was a hero of thirty, and over the thirty, and over his course was Ammizabad his son. "The fourth, for the fourth month, was Asahel, brother of Joab, and Zebadiah his son, after him; and in his course were twenty-four thousand. "Of the fifth, for the fifth month, was Shamhuth the Izrahite; and in his course were twenty-four thousand. "The sixth, for the sixth month, was Ira son of Ikkesh the Tekoite; and in his course were twenty-four thousand. "The seventh, for the seventh month, was Helez the Pelonite, of the sons of Ephraim; and in his course were twenty-four thousand. "The eighth, for the eighth month, was Sibbecai the Hushathite, of the Zerahites; and in his course were twenty-four thousand. "The ninth, for the ninth month, was Abiezer the Anathothite, of the Benjamites; and in his course were twenty-four thousand. "The tenth, for the tenth month, was Maharai the Netophathite, of the Zerahites; and in his course were twenty-four thousand. "The eleventh, for the eleventh month, was Benaijah the Pirathonite, of the sons of Ephraim; and in his course were twenty-four thousand. "The twelfth, for the twelfth month, was Heldai the Netophathite, of Othniel; and in his course were twenty-four thousand.

§ 39. Managers and Stewards of Royal Domain and Possessions.

And over the treasuries of the king was Azmaveth, son of Adiel. And over the treasuries in the fields, in the cities, in the villages and in the castles was Jonathan, son of Uzziah; And over the workers of the field, for the tillage of the ground was Ezri, son of Chelub. And over the vineyards was Sheime, the Ramathite. And over that which was in the vineyards, for the treasuries of wine was Zabdi, the Shiphmite. And over the olive-forests and the sycamore-forests that were in the lowland was Baal-hanan the Gederite. And over the treasuries of oil was Joash. And over the herds that pastured in Sharon was Shirai, the Sharonite. And over the herds in the vales was Shaphat, son of Adlai. And over the camels was Obil, the Ishmaelite. And over the asses was Jehdeya, the Meronothite. And over the flocks was Jaziz, the Hagerite. All these were over the possessions that belonged to King David.

§ 40. David's Nearest Advisers.

And Jonathan the son of Sallai was the chief of the king's valiant men. And Jehiel son of Hachmoni was with the king's sons. And Ahithophel was the king's adviser; and Hushai the Archite was the king's friend.

§ 41. David's last Charge to his Chief Men and his Solomon: His Plans and Patterns for the Temple and its Furniture.

And David called together all the rulers of Israel, the rulers of tribes and the rulers of the courses who waited upon the king—

*Some cod. w. 6 ear. pr. edns. V. Vul. : "in" G. n. soctt: "the Zerahite." *Among "G. n. Op. ver. 11—G. n. so written; but read Or: "Hagerite." and the rulers of thousands and the rulers of hundreds, and the rulers over all the possessions and substance that belonged to the king and to his sons, with the courtiers and the heroes, even every hero of valour, unto Jerusalem.

1 Then David the king rose up on his feet, and said,

"Hear me, my brethren and my people,—

<As for me> it was near my heart, to build a house of rest for the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, and for the footstool of our God, and I made ready to build. 2 But God said to me,

"Thou shalt not build a house for My Name,—for  thou art,’ and <blood> hast thou shed.

4 Howbeit Yahweh, God of Israel, made choice of me, out of all of the house of my father, to become king over Israel unto times age-abiding, for <of Judah> had he made choice to be chief ruler, and <in the house of Judah> (the house of my father),—and <among the sons of my father> (with me) was he well-pleased, to make me king over all Israel; 5 and <from among all my sons>—for <many sons> hath Yahweh given me,—he hath made choice of Solomon my son, to sit upon the throne of the kingdom of Yahweh, over Israel. 6 And he said unto me,

"Solomon thy son—he shall build my house, and my courts,—for I have made choice of him that he may be my son, and that I may be his father. 7 So will I establish his kingdom, unto times age-abiding,—if he be strong, to do my commandments and my regulations, as at this day.

8 Now therefore, <in the eyes of all Israel—the convocation of Yahweh>, and in the ears of our God,

Observe and seek all the commandments of Yahweh your God,—to the end that ye may possess the good land,—and suffer your sons after you to inherit it, unto times age-abiding.

9 Thou therefore, Solomon my son,

Know thou the God of thy father,

And serve him with a perfect heart and with a willing soul,

For <all hearts> doth Yahweh search,

And <every devised purpose> doth he understand,

<If thou seek him>

He will be found of thee,

But <if thou forsake him>

He will cast thee off for ever.*

10 See!< now that> Yahweh hath made choice of thee, to build a house for a sanctuary—be strong and do!

11 Then gave David unto Solomon his son, the plan of the porch, and the recesses thereof, and the treasurest thereof, and the upper rooms thereof, and the inner chambers thereof, and the recess for the propriatory; 12 and the plan of all which had come by the spirit to be with him, for the courts of the house of Yahweh, and for all the rooms round about,—for the treasures of the house of God, and for the treasures of hallowed things; 13 and for the courses of the priests and the Levites, and for all the work of the service of the house of Yahweh,—and for all the utensils of the service of the house of Yahweh: 14 <of gold, by weight> for the gold, for all manner of utensils for each several service,—for all manner of utensils of silver, by weight, for all manner of utensils for each several service; 15 and a weight, for the lamp-stands of gold, and their lamps of gold, by the weight of each several lampstand, and the lamps thereof,—and for the lamp-stands of silver by weight, for each lampstand and the lamps thereof, according to the service of each several lampstand. 16 And the gold (gave he) by weight for the tables for setting in array, for each several table, —and silver, for the tables of silver; 17 and the fleshhooks and the bowls and the cups, pure gold,—and for the goblets of gold, by weight for each several goblet, and for the goblets of silver, by weight for each several goblet; 18 and <for the altar of incense> refined gold, by weight,—and <for the pattern of the chariot of the cherubim> gold, for them that were spreading out, and covering the ark of the covenant of Yahweh:—19 the whole in writing.

From the hand of Yahweh upon me to give understanding,— all the works of the pattern.

20 Then said David, unto Solomon his son,

Be strong and bold, and act, thou mayest not fear nor be dismayed,—for Yahweh, God, my God, will be with thee, he will not let thee go, neither will he forsake thee, until thou hast finished all the work of the service of the house of Yahweh. 21 And there are the courses of the priests and the Levites, for all the service of the house of God,—and <with thee, in all manner of work> is every willing, skilful man for any service, also the rulers and all the people, for all thine affairs.

§ 42. Offerings for Building the Temple made by David and his People.

1 Then said David the king unto all the 29
convocation,

Solomon my son, (the one)* of whom God hath made choice (is young and tender,— and the work is great, seeing that <not for man> is the palace, but for Yahweh Elohim. 2 And <with all my might> have I made preparation for the house of

* Or: "for the time to come."

* Or: "my one son."
my God, the gold for the gold, and the silver for the silver, and the bronze for the bronze, the iron for the iron, and the wood for the wood,—and beryl stones and settings, stones coloured and particoloured, and all manner of precious stones and stones of white marble, in abundance. 8 And yet further, because of my delighting in the house of my God, having a treasure of mine own in gold and silver—I have given for the house of my God, above and beyond all that I have prepared for the holy house: 3 thousand talents of gold, of the gold of Ophir,—and seven thousand talents of refined silver, for overlaying the walls of the recesses. 8 Of gold for the gold, and of silver for the silver, and for all manner of work in the hand of the artificers,—Who then is ready to offer willingly, by filling his hand to-day, unto Yahweh?

Then offered they willingly—the ancestral rulers and the rulers of the tribes of Israel, and the rulers of thousands and hundreds, even to the rulers of the work of the king; 7 and gave for the service of the house of God, of gold five thousand talents and ten thousand darics, 8 and of silver ten thousand talents, and eighteen thousand talents,—and of iron one hundred thousand talents. 8 And everyone one with whom were found precious stones gave to the treasure of the house of Yahweh, unto the hand of Jehiel the Gershonite. 9 So the people rejoiced because they willingly offered, for with a perfect heart offered they willingly unto Yahweh,—moreover also David the king rejoiced with great joy.

§ 43. David's Public Thanksgiving, and his People's Response, in Prayer, Sacrifice and Feasting.

Therefore did David bless Yahweh in the eyes of all the convocation,—and David said, Blessed art thou, O Yahweh, the God of Israel our father, from age even unto age. 11 Thine, O Yahweh, are Greatness, and Might, and Beauty, and Victory, and Majesty, nay! all in the heavens and in the earth!—Thine, O Yahweh, is the kingdom, who art exalted above all—as chief; 12 and riches and honour are from before thee, and art ruling over all, and of thy hand are power and might,—and of thy hand it is, to give greatness and strength unto any.

Now therefore, O our God, we are giving thanks unto thee,—and offering praise, unto thy beautiful Name.

14 And yet, who' am I, and who' are my people, that I should be able to offer willingly like this? For from thee is the heaven and the heaven of heavens, and <out of thine own hand> hast thou given unto thee, 15 for <sojourners,> I and <before thee,> and strangers, like all the fathers,—<like a shadow> are we dwelling upon the earth, and there is hope. 16 O Yahweh our God, [all] the abundance which we have prepared, do build thee a house for thy holy Name; <out of thine own hand> it is, and <thine> the whole. 17 But I know, O my God, that thou art proving the heart, and <with uprightness> wilt thou be pleased, 18 in the uprightness of my heart; hast willingly offered all these things, and therefore, if <thy people> who are found here, I have seen with joy, offering willingly unto thee.

18 O Yahweh, God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, our fathers, oh guard this ark, abidingly, as the devised purpose of heart of thy people,—and establish their heart, unto thyself.

Also unto Solomon my son give thou an undivided heart, to keep thy commandments, thy testimonies, and thy statutes, to do the whole, and to build the palace which I have prepared.

20 Then said David, unto all the convocation, Bless, I beseech you, Yahweh your God. So all the convocation blessed Yahweh, the God of their fathers, and did bend their heads bow themselves down unto Yahweh, and unto the king; 21 and sacrificed unto Yahweh their sacrifices, and caused to go up ascends offerings unto Yahweh, on the morrow of the day, a thousand bullocks, a thousand rams, a thousand young sheep, and the drink-offerings thereof,—and sacrifices in abundance, for Israel. 22 And so they did eat and drink before Yahweh on that day, with great joy,—and they, the second time, made Solomon son of David king, and anointed him unto Yahweh to be chief ruler, and Zadok to be priest.

§ 44. Solomon's Accession to the Throne, and David's Death in Peace and Honor.

23 So Solomon took his seat upon the throne of Yahweh, as king, instead of David his father, and prospered,—and all Israel [hearkened to him]. 24 And all the rulers, and the heroes, moreover all the sons of King David, gathered in hand, under Solomon the king. 25 And Yahweh magnified Solomon exceedingly, before the face of all Israel, and gave unto him a royal majesty, that had not been on any king before him, over Israel. 26 Thus [David son of Jesse] reigned over Israel; 27 and the days that he reigned over Israel were forty years,—in Hebron he reigned he seven years, and <in Jerusalem...>
§ 1. Solomon convokes an Assembly at Gibeon, where he sacrifices; and God promises him Wisdom, Wealth, and Honour.

1 And Solomon, son of David, strengthened himself over his kingdom, and Yahweh his God was with him, and made him surpassingly great.

2 And Solomon gave word to all Israel—to the rulers of thousands, and hundreds, and to the judges, and to all the leaders of all Israel, ancestral chiefs; and Solomon, and all the convocation with him, went to the high place that was in Gibeon, for there was the tent of meeting of God, which Moses the servant of Yahweh made in the desert.

3 Howbeit the ark of God had David brought up from Kiriath-jearim, into the place that David had prepared for it, for he had pitched for it a tent in Jerusalem.

4 Also the altar of bronze that Bezalel son of Uri son of Hur had made was there before the habitation of Yahweh, so Solomon and the convocation sought it.

5 And Solomon went up thither, unto the altar of bronze before Yahweh, which belonged to the tent of meeting, and caused to go up thereon a thousand ascending-sacrifices.

6 During that night God appeared unto Solomon, and said unto him,

Ask what I shall give thee.

8 And Solomon said unto God,

10 Thyself didst deal with David my father in great lovingkindness, and hast made me king in his stead.

9 Now O Yahweh Elohim, let thy word with David my father be brought to pass, for thou hast made me king over a people, for multitude like the dust of the earth.

10 Now wisdom and knowledge give thou unto me, that I may go out before this people, and may come in, for who can judge this thy people, that is so great? a

11 And God said unto Solomon,

12 Because this was near thy heart, and thou hast not asked riches, wealth, or honour, or the life of them that hate thee, nor even in many days hast thou asked, but hast asked for thyself, wisdom and knowledge, that thou mayest judge my people, over whom I have made thee king; moreover wisdom and knowledge are granted unto thee, and will I give thee, such as the kings who were before thee did not possess, neither shall they who come after thee possess the like.

13 And Solomon came from the high place that was in Gibeon unto Jerusalem, from before the tent of meeting, and reigned over Israel.

14 And Solomon gathered chariots and horsemen, and came to have a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen, and he settled them in chariot cities, and with the king in Jerusalem. And the king made silver and gold in Jerusalem, like stones, and cedars made he like the sycomores that are in the lowland, for abundance. And the horses which Solomon had were an export out of Egypt, and a company of royal merchants used to fetch a drove, at a price, and they built and brought forth out of Egypt a chariot, for six hundred shekels of silver, and a horse, for a hundred and fifty, and brought them forth.

15 Or: "this thy great people." So is and be (w. Sep., Vul.—G.n.)

16 Or: "soul."
§ 2. Solomon prepares to Build the Temple.

1 Then Solomon gave word to build a house for the Name of Yahweh, and a house for his kingdom.
2 And Solomon numbered seventy thousand men to bear burdens, and eighty thousand men to hew in the mountain, and three thousand six hundred to oversee them.
3 And Solomon sent unto Hiram king of Tyre, saying,—

As thou didst deal with David my father, and didst send him cedars to build him a house to dwell in, so I am about to build a house for the Name of Yahweh my God, to hallow unto him—to burn before him sweet incense, and for a continual setting in array, and to offer ascending-sacrifices morning and evening, on the sabbaths, and on the new moons, and on the appointed feasts of Yahweh our God,— and this [law] is this law for Israel.

And the house which I am about to build must be great, for great is our God, above all gods.

But who is able to build him a house? and who can foresee the heavens even the heavens my father could not contain, and I, that I should build unto him a house, though only to burn incense before him?

And I therefore send thee a wise man, to work in gold and in silver and in bronze and in iron, and in purple and crimson and blue, and skilful to execute gravings, with the wise men who are with me, in Judah and in Jerusalem, whom my father David did provide.

And send me—timbers of cedar, and cypress, and sandal-wood, out of the Lebanon, for I know that thy servants are skilful, to cut the timbers of Lebanon, and lo! my servants shall be with thy servants; yea to prepare me timbers in abundance,—for the house which I am about to build must be great, and most wonderful.

And lo! for the hewers that cut the timbers have I given wheat as food for thy servants, twenty thousand measure, and barley, twenty thousand measure, and wine, twenty thousand baths, and oil, twenty thousand baths.

Then answered Hiram king of Tyre, in writing, which he sent unto Solomon,— Because Yahweh hath loved his people hath he set thee over them as king.

And Hiram said, Blessed be Yahweh, God of Israel, who made the heavens and the earth, who hath given unto David the king a wise son, skilled in prudence and understanding, who will build a house for Yahweh, and a house for his kingdom.

Therefore, have I sent a wise man, skilled in understanding, pertaining to Hiram my father: son of a woman of the daughters of Dan, whose father was a Tyre, skilled to work in gold and in silver, in bronze, in iron, in stones and in timber, in purple, in blue and in fine white linen, and in crimson, and to grave any manner of graving, and to devise any manner of device that may be given to him, with thy wise men, and the wise men of my lord David thy father.

Therefore, the wheat and the barley, the oil and the wine, whereof my lord hath spoken, let him send unto his servants:

and we will cut down timbers out of the Lebanon, according to all thy need, and will bring them unto thee in floats, upon the sea to Joppah, and thence shall fetch them up to Jerusalem.

So Solomon numbered all the men that were sojourners, who were in the land of Israel, after the numbering, wherewith David his father had numbered them, and they were found to be—a hundred and fifty-three thousand and six hundred. And he made up from among them—seventy thousand to bear burdens, and eighty thousand to hew in the mountain,—and three thousand and six hundred, as overseers, to keep the people at work.

§ 3. The Building and Furnishing of the Temple described.

1 Then began Solomon, to build the house of Yahweh, in Jerusalem, in Mount Moriah, where he had appeared unto David his father,—in the place which David had prepared, in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

And he began to build, in the second month, on the second, in the fourth year of his reign.

And these are the things wherein Solomon was grounded for the building of the house of God,—the length, by cubits, in the first measure was sixty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits. And the porch which was in front of the length,—in front of the breadth of the house was twenty cubits, and the height thereof was a hundred and twenty,—and he overlaid it within, with pure gold.

And the greater house he covered he with cypress wood, and overlaid it with... fine gold,—and raised thereon palms, and wreathed garlands. 6 And he covered the house with precious stones, for beauty,—and [the gold] was gold of Parvaim. 7 And he covered the house, the beams, the entrance-hall, and the walls thereof, and the doors thereof, with gold,—and he carved cherubim upon the walls.

And he made the most holy house, the length thereof was according to the breadth of the house, twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof twenty cubits,—and he covered it with fine gold, to the number of six hundred talents; and [the weight of the nails] amounted to fifty shekels of gold,—and <the upper chambers> covered he with gold. 10 And he made, in the most holy house, two cherubim, of carved work,—and covered them with gold. 11 And <as for the wings of the cherubim> the length of them was twenty cubits,—[the one wing] by the cubit was five, reaching to the wall of the house, and [the other wing] five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub; 12 and [the wing of the other cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house,—and [the other wing] was five cubits, clearing to the wing of the other cherub: 13 the wings of these cherubim, spread abroad were twenty cubits,—and they themselves were standing upon their feet, and their faces were inward. 14 And he made a vail, of blue and purple, and crimson and byssus cloth,—and raised thereon* cherubim. 15 And he made, for the front of the house, two pillars, thirty-five cubits in length,—and [the capital which was upon the top of each] was five cubits. 16 And he made wreathed chains in the shrine, and put them upon the top of the pillars,—and he made one hundred pomegranates, and put them in the chains. 17 And he reared up the pillars in front of the temple, one on the right, and one on the left,—and called the name of that on the right hand, Jachin, and the name of that on the left, Boaz.

4 1 And he made an altar of bronze, twenty cubits the length thereof, and twenty cubits the breadth thereof,—and ten cubits the height thereof. 2 And he made a molten sea,—ten—by the cubit—from the one brim thereof into the other brim thereof, it was round all about, and five—by the cubit—was the height thereof, and a line—of thirty by the cubit—did compass it round about. 3 And the likeness of oxen was under it round about on every side, encircling it, ten in a cubit—going round the sea, on every side,—two rows of oxen, made in the casting. 4 It was standing on twelve oxen, three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the west, and three looking toward the south, and three looking toward the east, the sea being upon them above,—and all their hinder parts inward. 5 And the thickness thereof was a hand-breadth, and the brim thereof was like the brim-work of a cup, with blossoms of lilies,—it could hold many baths, three thousand would it contain.

6 And he made ten lavers, and set five on the right hand—and five on the left, to bathe therein, what is offered as an ascending sacrifice do they rinse therein,—but the sea was that the priests should bathe therein. 7 And he made ten lampstands of gold according to the regulation thereof,—and set in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left. 8 And he made ten tables, and placed in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left,—and he made a hundred pouring bowls of gold. 9 And he made the court of the priests, and the large enclosure,—and doors to the enclosure, and <the doors thereof> overlaid he with bronze. 10 And <the sea> he set on the right side of the house, eastward over against the south. 11 And Huram made—the pans, and the shovels, and the pouring bowls,—and Huram finished doing the work, which he did for King Solomon, in the house of God: 12 two pillars, and the bowls and the capitals on the top of the two pillars, and the two frames of checker work, to cover the two bowls of the capitals, which were on the top of the pillars; 13 and four hundred pomegranates, for the two frames,—two rows of pomegranates for each frame, for covering the two bowls of the capitals, which were on the face of the pillars; 14 and <the stand> made he,—and <the laver> made he upon the stand; 15 the sea, one sea,—and the twelve oxen under it; 16 and <the pans and the shovels and the flesh-hooks> all the vessels made Huram his father for King Solomon, for the house of Yahweh,—of burnished bronze. 17 In the circuit of the Jordan did the king cast them, in the clay ground between Succoth and Zerodah.

18 So Solomon made all these utensils, in great abundance,—for the weight of the bronze could not be searched out.

19 Yea Solomon made all the utensils which were for the house of God,—and the altar of gold, and the tables, whereon was the Presence-bread; 20 and the lamp-holders and their lamps, that they should burn according to the regulation before the shrine, of purified gold; 21 and the blossom-work, and the lamps, and the tongs, of gold,—the same was the purest gold;* and the snuffers and the bowls and the spoons and the censers, of purified* gold,—and the entrance of the house, the inner doors* thereof for the holy of holies, and the doors* of the house of the temple, were of gold. 5

1 Thus was perfected all the work which Solomon* made for the house of Yahweh,—and Solomon brought in the hallowed things of David his father,* <the silver, and the gold, and all the utensils> placed he, in the treasuries of the house of God.

2 ||Then|| Solomon called together the elders of Israel, and all the chiefs of the tribes, the ancestral leaders of the sons of Israel, unto Jerusalem,—to bring up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh out of the city of David, the same is Zion. 2 And all the men of Israel came together unto the king, in the festival,—the same was the seventh month. 4 And all the elders of Israel came in,—and the Levites bare the ark; 5 and they brought up the ark, and the tent of meeting, and all the holy utensils, that were in the tent,—the priests the Levites did bring them up. 6 And King Solomon, and all the assembly of Israel who assembled themselves unto him, before the ark, were sacrificing sheep and oxen, which could not be told nor could they be counted, for multitude. 7 And the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of Yahweh into the place thereof, into the shrine of the house, into the holy of holies,—into [the place] beneath the wings of the cherubim; 8 for the cherubim were spreading forth two wings, over the place of the ark,—so that the cherubim formed a covering over the ark and over the staves thereof, from above. 9 And they drew out the staves, and the heads of the staves could be seen out of the ark, in front of the shrine, although they could not be seen on the outside,—and it came to pass that they have remained there—unto this day. 10 There was nothing in the ark but the two tables which Moses placed [therein] in Horeb,—when Yahweh made a covenant with the sons of Israel, when they came forth out of Egypt. 11 And it came to pass <when the priests came forth> out of the holy place,—for all the priests who were present, had hallowed themselves, they had no need to observe the courses; 12 and the Levites who were the singers, even all of them pertaining to Asaph, to Heman, to Jeduthun, and to their sons and to their brethren, arrayed in white linen, with cymbals and with harps and lyres; stood eastward of the altar,—and with them priests to number of a hundred and twenty, blowing with trumpets> 13 then came it to pass <when the trumpeters and the singers were as one> make one sound to be heard in offering praise and giving thanks unto Yahweh—yes when they lift on high the voice, with the trumpets and cymbals and with the instruments, Yea in offering praise unto Yahweh—For he is good. 14 For age-abiding is his lovingkindness that the house was filled with the cloud of the glory of Yahweh; 15 and the priests could not stand to minister by reason of the cloud, for the glory of Yahweh filled the house of God.

§ 5. Solomon dedicates the Temple by an Introductory Speech, a Recitative Benediction, and an Intercessory Prayer.

1 ||Then|| said Solomon,— 16 |Yahweh| said, that he would make his habituation in thick gloom; *thee,— A settled place for thee to abide in, for age-abiding. 3 And the king turned about his face, and blessed all the convocation of Israel,—while ||all|| the convocation of Israel] was standing; and he said: Blessed be Yahweh, God of Israel, who spake with his mouth, unto David my father, and <with his hand> hath fulfilled saying:

5 <From the day I brought forth a people out of the land of Egypt>—made choice of no city, out of all the thousands of tribes of Israel, for building a house, where my Name might be,—neither made I choice of any man, to be chief ruler over my people Israel: 6 nevertheless have I made choice of Jerusalem that my Name might be there,—a I have made choice of David, that might be over my people Israel. 7 And so it came to pass, that it was near heart of David my father,—to build a house, to the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel.

8 Then said Yahweh unto David my father, 9 <Because it was near thy heart to build a house for my Name> thou didst weaken that it was near thy heart:

10 Only thou must not build house,—but thine own son, that proceedeth out of thy loins,—he shall build the house for my Name.

10 So then Yahweh hath established his word which he spake,—and I have been raised

Then stood he before the altar of Yahweh, in the presence of all the congregation of Israel;—and spake Yahweh, and have built the house to the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel; 11 and have put there, the ark,—wherein is the covenant of Yahweh,—which he solemnised with the sons of Israel.

If a man shall sin against his neighbour, and there shall be laid upon him an oath, to put him on oath,—and an oath shall come before thine altar in this house;—then wilt thou thyself hear out of the heavens, and act, and judge thy servants, bringing back unto the lawless, to set his way upon his own head,—and justifying the righteous, by giving to him, according to his righteousness?

Or if thy people Israel be smitten before an enemy, because they have been sinning against thee,—and they turn, and confess thy Name, and pray and make supplication before thee, in this house;—then wilt thou thyself hear out of the heavens, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel,—and bring them back unto the soil, which thou didst give to them and to their fathers?

When the heavens are shut up and there is no rain, because they have been sinning against thee,—and they shall pray towards this place, and shall confess thy Name, [from their sin] shall return, because thou hast been afflicting them;—then wilt thou thyself hear [out of] the heavens and forgive the sin of thy servants, and thy people Israel, that thou mayest direct them into the good way, wherein they should walk,—and give rain, upon thy land, which thou hast given unto thy people, for an inheritance?

When there shall be a famine in the land, when there shall be a pestilence,—when there shall be blasting or mildew, locust or caterpillar,—when their enemy shall besiege them in the land at their own gates—whatever plague or whatsoever sickness;—whatever prayer, whatsoever supplication, which any son of earth may have, or any of thy people Israel,—when any man shall come to know his plague, or his pain, and so he shall spread abroad his hands towards this house;—then wilt thou thyself hear out of the heavens, the settled place of thine abode, and forgive, and grant to every man according to his ways, whose heart thou wilt know,—for thou thyself alone knowest the heart of the sons of men;—to the end they may revere thee, to walk in thy ways, all the days which they shall be living upon the face of the soil,—which thou gavest unto their fathers?

Moreover also unto the stranger who is not of thy people Israel, but he shall come in out of a far country—for the sake of thy great Name, and of thy strong hand, and of thine outstretched arm,—and so they shall dwell

<Not like unto thee> is there a god, in the heavens, or throughout the earth,—who keepeth Covenant and Lovingkindness for thy servants who are walking before thee with all their heart:—who hast kept, for thy servant David my father, that which thou didst promise him,—in that thou didst promise with thy mouth, and with thy hand hast fulfilled, as it is this day.

Now therefore, O Yahweh, God of Israel, keep thou, for thy servant David my father, that which thou didst promise him, saying,

There shall not be cut off to thee a man, from before me, to sit upon the throne of Israel,—if only thy sons take heed to their way, to walk in my law, as thou hast walked before me.

Now therefore, O Yahweh, God of Israel,—verified be thy promise, which thou didst make unto thy servant David.

But [in very deed] will God dwell with man on the earth? Lo! the heavens, even the heaven of heavens cannot contain thee, how much less this house which I have built! Wilt thou then turn unto the prayer of thy servant and unto his supplication, O Yahweh my God,—to hearken unto the cry and unto the prayer, wherewith thy servant is praying before thee;—thine eyes may be open toward this house, day and night, toward the place of which thou hast said thou wouldst set thy Name there,—to hearken unto the prayer which thy servant may pray towards this place;—wilt thou therefore hearken unto the supplications of thy servant, and thy people Israel, when they shall pray toward this place;—yea wilt thou thyself hear, out of thine own dwelling-place, out of the heavens, and when thou hearest then wilt thou forgive?

come in and pray towards this house> then wilt thou thyself hear out of the heavens, out of the settled place of thine abode, and do according to all for which the stranger' shall cry unto thee,—to the end that all the peoples of the earth may know thy Name, so as to revere thee like thy people Israel, and know that thy Name hath been given unto this house, which I have built?

<<When thy people shall go forth to war against their enemies, whithersoever thou mayest send them,—and shall pray unto thee in the direction of this city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy Name> then wilt thou hear, out of the heavens, their prayer and their supplication,—and maintain their right.>>

When they sin against thee—for there is no son of earth who sinneth not—and thou shalt be angry with them, and deliver them up before an enemy,—who shall carry them away as their captives into a land far away or near; and they come back to their right mind, in the land whither they have been taken captive,—and so turn and make supplication unto thee in the land of their captivity, saying,

We have sinned, we have done perversely, and been lawless;—and so turn unto thee with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their captivity, whither they have carried them captive,—and shall pray in the direction of their own land, which thou gavest unto their fathers, and the city which thou hast chosen, and unto the house which I have built for thy Name> then wilt thou hear, out of the heavens,—out of the settled place of thine abode—their prayer and their supplications, and maintain their cause,—and forgive thy people, that wherein they sinned against thee?

Now, O my God, let—I beseech thee—thine eyes be open, and thine ears attent—to the prayer of this place.

Now therefore, arise! O Yahweh God, unto thy rest, unto thou, and the ark of thy strength:— Thy priests; O Yahweh God, let them be clothed with salvation, and thy men of lovingkindness let them rejoice in prosperity.

O Yahweh God! do not turn away thy face from thine Anointed One,—oh remember lovingkindness unto David thy servant.

§ 6. Divine Consecration of the Temple, followed by Sacrifices and a Festival.

Now, when Solomon had made an end of praying> Fire came down out of the heavens, and consumed the ascending-offering and the sacrifices,—and the glory of Yahweh filled the house; so that the priests could not enter the house of Yahweh,—because the glory of Yahweh filled the house of Yahweh; and the sons of Israel> seeing the descending of the fire and the glory of Yahweh upon the house> then knelt down with their faces toward the ground, upon the pavement, bowed themselves in prostration, and gave thanks unto Yahweh.

For he is good,

For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.

And the king and all the people> were offered sacrifices before Yahweh.

And King Solomon offered a sacrifice of oxen four hundred and twenty thousand, and of sheep four hundred and twenty thousand,—and so he consecrated the house of God.

while the priests> over their charges were standing, [the Levites also] with the instruments for the songs of Yahweh, which David the king had made, for giving thanks unto Yahweh.

For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness, when David offered praise by their means,—the priests> kept on blowing trumpets over against them, while all Israel> were standing.

And Solomon hallowed the middle of the court that was before the house of Yahweh; for he offered there the ascending-sacrifices, the fat portions of the peace-offerings,—besides the altar of bronze which Solomon had made, was not able to receive the ascending-sacrifice and the meal-offering and the fat portions.

And Solomon made a festival—at that time, for seven days, and all Israel with him, exceeding great convocation,—from the evening in of Hamath unto the raven in Egypt.

And they made, on the eighth day, a closing feast,—because <the dedication of the altar> they had kept seven days an festival seven days.

And <on twenty-third of the seventh month> he sent people away to their own homes, rejoicing and glad in heart, over the goodness which Yahweh had performed unto David and unto Solomon, and unto Israel his people.

Thus Solomon finished the house of Yahweh and the house of the king,—and <all that came in upon the heart of Solomon, to do in the house of Yahweh and in his own house> prosperously executed.

choice of this place for myself, as a house of sacrifice:—

13 If I shut up the heavens that there be no rain, or if I lay command on the locust, to devour the land,—or if I send pestilence amongst my people: 14 if my people upon whom my Name is called shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear out of the heavens, and forgive their sin, and heal their land. 15 Now mine eyes shall be open, and mine ears attent—to the prayer of this place. 16 Now therefore, have I chosen and hallowed this house, that my Name may be there, unto times age-abiding, and mine eyes and my heart shall be there, all the days.

17 Thou therefore, if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked, even to do according to all that I have commanded thee,—and my statutes and regulations thou wilt observe—then will I establish the throne of thy kingdom, according as I covenanted to David thy father, saying—There shall not fail there a man, to rule over Israel.

But if ye yourselves shall turn away, and forsake my statutes and my commandments, which I have set before you, and shall go and serve other gods, and bow down to them; then will I root you out from off the soil, which I have given to you, and this house, which I have hallowed for my Name, will I cast off from before my face,—and will appoint it for a by-word and a mockery, among all the peoples; and this house which hath been renowned, shall be astonished, and say—Wherefore hath Yahweh done thus and thus to this land, and to this house?

And men shall say,—Because they forsook Yahweh the God of their fathers, who brought them up out of the land of Egypt, and laid hold of other gods, and bowed down to them, and served them; for this causeth hath he brought upon them, all this calamity.

§8. Solomon's Building Enterprises; his Tributaries and Officers; his Confirmation of the Appointments made by Moses and David as to Public Worship; and his Maritime Commerce.

And it came to pass at the end of twenty years, wherein Solomon had built the house of Yahweh, and his own house, that the cities which Huram had given to Solomon he built them, and caused the sons of Israel to dwell there.

And Solomon went to Hamath-zobah,—and prevailed against it; 4 and he built Tadmor, in the wilderness,—and all the store cities, which he built in Hamath; 5 and he built Beth-horon, the upper, and Beth-horon, the nether,—fortified cities, with walls, and doors and bars; 6 and Baalath, and all the store cities which pertained to Solomon, and all the chariot cities, and the cities of the horsemen,—and every delight of Solomon which he delighted to build in Jerusalem, and in the Lebanon, and in all the land of his dominion.

7 As for all the people that were left, of the Hittites and the Amorites and the Perizzites and the Hivites and the Jebusites, who were not of Israel; 8 of their sons who were left after them in the land, whom the sons of Israel had not utterly destroyed, Solomon enrolled them as tributary—unto this day. 9 But of the sons of Israel, were there none whom he delivered up as bondmen unto his work,—for they were men of war, and his captains and his heroes, and captains over his chariots, and his horsemen. 10 Moreover, were the chiefs of his officers whom King Solomon had, two hundred and fifty,—who wielded dominion over the people.

11 And the daughter of Pharaoh, Solomon brought up, out of the city of David, unto the house which he had built for her,—for he said, A wife of mine must not dwell in the house of David king of Israel, for holy are those places whereinto the ark of Yahweh hath come.

12 Then Solomon offered up ascending sacrifices, unto Yahweh, upon the altar of Yahweh, which he had built before the porch: 13 even according to the duty of each a day upon [its own] day, offering up according to the commandment of Moses, for the sabbaths, and for the new moons, and for the appointed feasts, three times in the year,—in the festival of unleavened cakes and in the festival of weeks, and in the festival of booths; 14 and he caused to stand, according to the regulation of David his father, the courses of the priests over their service and of the Levites over their charges, to offer praise and to minister before the priests, for the duty of each day upon its own day, and the gate-keepers in their courses, at every several gate,—for such was the commandment of David the man of God; 15 neither departed they from the commandment of the king concerning the priests and the Levites as to any duty, or as to the treasuries. 16 So all the work of Solomon was prepared, from the day of founding the house of Yahweh, even as far as the finishing thereof,—complete was the house of Yahweh.

17 Then] went Solomon to Ezion-geber, and unto Eloth on the seashore in the land of...
§ 9. Visit of the Queen of Sheba.
(Cp. I. K. x.)

And [the queen of Sheba] heard the report of Solomon, so she came to prove Solomon with abstruse questions, in Jerusalem, with a very great train, and camels bearing spices, gold in abundance, and precious stones,—and when she was come to Solomon she spake with him, as to all that was near her heart. And Solomon answered her all her questions,—and there was nothing hidden from Solomon, which he told her not.

9 And when the queen of Sheba had seen the wisdom of Solomon, and the house which he had built; and the food of his table, and the seats of his servants, and the standing of his attendants, with their apparel, and his cupbearers, and his apparel, and his ascent whereby he used to ascend the house of Yahweh; then was there in her no more spirit.

And she said unto the king, True was the word, which I heard by in my own land, concerning thine affairs, and concerning thy wisdom.

Howbeit I believed not their words, until I came and mine eyes had seen it, and mine ears had heard it, half of the fulness of thy wisdom,—thou hast not exceeded the report which I heard.

9 And how happy are thy men, and how happy are these thy servants, who are standing before thee continually, and hearing thy wisdom.

Yahweh thy God be blessed, who hath delighted thee, to set thee upon his throne as king unto Yahweh thy God. Because of the love of thy God unto Israel, to establish them unto times ages-abiding; therefore hath he set thee over them, as king, to execute justice and righteousness.

And she gave unto the king, a hundred and twenty talents of gold, and spices in great abundance and precious stones,—and there was none, like that spice, which the queen of Sheba gave unto King Solomon.

Moreover also the servants of Huram, and the servants of Solomon, who brought gold from Ophir, brought sandal-wood and precious stones. And the king made of the sandal-wood, stools unto the house of Yahweh, and unto the house of the king, also lyres and harps, for the singers,—and there were none, like them before, in the land of Judah.

§ 10. A further Account of Solomon's Wealth.

Fame closes the Chronicler's History of the Monarch.

Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred and sixty talents of gold; besides what came in revenue from merchants' importations, and what the travelling merchants brought in,—and all the king's Arabia and the pschas of the land were bringing gold and silver unto Solomon.

And King Solomon made two hundred square of beaten gold, six hundred and twenty square of beaten gold] over one shield; and there were six hundred bucklers of beaten gold, three hundred bucklers of gold, over one buckler; and the king placed them in the house of forest of Lebanon. And the king made a great throne of ivory, over one shield, and therein were pure gold; and there were six steps to the throne, and a footstool in gold, over one shield, made fast, and supports, on this and on that, unto the throne,—and two handrails standing by the supports; and twelve stands there upon the six steps, on this and on that,—there was never made for any kingdom. And all the drinking vessels of King Solomon were of gold, [all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon] were of pure gold,—there was no silver, it was esteemed in the day of Solomon, as nothing. For the ships of the king] used to go to Tarshish, with servants of Huram,—[once in three years] came in the ships of Tarshish, bearing gold and silver, ivory and apes, and peacocks.

And so King Solomon became greater than all the kings of the earth, as to riches and wisdom. And [all the kings of the earth] were seeking the face of Solomon, to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart; and [they were bringing in every present—utensils of silver, and utensils of gold, and mantles, armour, and spices, balsam, and mules,—the need of a year in a year].

And Solomon had four thousand stalls of horses, and four thousand chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen, and he settled them in the chariot cities, with the king in Jerusalem. And the king made silver in Jerusalem like stones,—and cedars trees] made he linen, and the sycomore trees which are in the lowland, for abundance. And they used to bring horse.
out of Egypt unto Solomon, and out of all lands.

Now the rest of the acts of Solomon, first and last, are they not written in the records of Nathan the prophet, and in the prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the visions of Iddo the seer, concerning Jeroboam son of Nebat? 10 And Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel, forty years. 11 And Solomon slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David his father,—and Rehoboam his son reigned in his stead.

11. Rehoboam succeeds Solomon; loses Ten Tribes; forsakes the Law, and is punished by an Egyptian Invasion under Shishak.

1 And Rehoboam went to Shechem,—for <to Shechem> had all Israel come, to make him king. 2 And it came to pass, <when Jeroboam son of Nebat, who was in Egypt—whither he had fled from the face of Solomon the king—heard of it> then returned Jeroboam out of Egypt. 3 And they sent, and called him, so Jeroboam and all Israel came,—and spake unto Rehoboam, saying:

 Thy father made our yoke oppressive,— now therefore, lighten thou somewhat the oppressive servitude of thy father and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, and we will serve thee. 4 And he said unto them, <Yet three days>—and then return unto me,—and the people departed. 5 Then King Rehoboam took counsel with the old men who had been standing before Solomon his father, while he yet lived, saying,—How do ye counsel to return answer unto these people? 6 And they spake unto him saying, <If thou wilt be kind to this people, and please them, and speak unto them kind words>—then will they be thy servants, all the days. 7 But he declined the counsel of the old men, which they gave him,—and took counsel with the young men who had grown up with him, who were standing before him. 8 And he said unto them, What do ye counsel that we should return as answer, unto this people,—who have spoken unto me saying, Lighten thou somewhat the yoke, which thy father put upon us? 9 Then spake with him the young men who had grown up with him, saying, [Thun] shall thou speak unto the people who have spoken unto thee saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, Thou therefore, lighten somewhat our yoke,—[Thun] shall thou say unto them, My little finger is thicker than my father's loins;
and Mareshah, and Ziph; and Adoraim and Lachish, and Azekah; and Zorah, and Aijalon and Hebron, which are in Judah and Benjamin,—as fortified cities. And he strengthened the fortified places,—and put therein captains, and stores of food, and oil and wine; and in every city—shields and spears, and made them exceedingly strong,—thus Judah and Benjamin remained his.

And the priests and Levites that were in all Israel took their stand with him, out of all their boundaries. For the Levites left their pasture lands, and their possessions, and came to Judah, and to Jerusalem,—for Jeroboam and his sons cast them off, from ministering as priests unto Yahweh; and appointed for himself priests for the high places, and for the demons and for the calves which he had made. And after them,—b out of all the tribes of Israel, such as were setting their heart to seek Yahweh God of Israel, came to Jerusalem, to sacrifice unto Yahweh, God of their fathers.

So they strengthened the kingdom of Judah, and emboldened Rehoboam son of Solomon, for three years,—for they walked in the ways of David and Solomon, for three years.

And Rehoboam took to wife, Mahalath, daughter of Jerimoth, son of David,—and Abihail, daughter of Eliab, son of Jesse; and she bare him sons,—Jeush and Shemariah and Zaham. And after her, he took Maacah, daughter of Absalom,—and she bare him Abijah, and Attai, and Ziza, and Shelomith.

And Rehoboam loved Maacah daughter of Absalom, above all his wives and his concubines, for eighteen wives took he, and sixty concubines,—and begat twenty-eight sons and sixty daughters. So then Rehoboam appointed Abijah son of Maacah as head, to be chief ruler among his brethren, yea that he might make him king. So he took heed, and dispersed all his sons throughout all the lands of Judah and Benjamin, unto all the fortified cities, and gave them food in abundance,—and asked a multitude of wives.

And it came to pass when Rehoboam had established the kingdom, and had strengthened himself—he forsook the law of Yahweh,—and all Israel with him. And so it came to pass in the fifth year of King Rehoboam, that Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem,—because they had dealt treacherously against Yahweh;—with twelve hundred chariots, and with sixty thousand horsemen,—and without number the people who came with him out of Egypt—Lybians, Sukkites, and Ethiopians. And he captured the cities of defense which belonged to Judah,—and came, as far as Jerusalem.

And Shemaiah the prophet came unto Rehoboam, and the rulers of Judah, who had gathered themselves together unto Jerusalem because of Shishak,—and said unto them, Thus saith Yahweh, Yay have left me, Therefore I also have left you, in the hands of Shishak.

And the rulers of Israel—and the king humbled themselves,—and said,

Righteous is Yahweh! They have humbled themselves, I will not destroy them—but will grant them, in a little while, to escape, and my wrath shall not be poured out upon Jerusalem, by the hand of Shishak.

Nevertheless they shall become his servants, that they may know my service, and the service of the kingdoms of the countries.

So Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem, and took the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the house of the king—the whole—he took,—and he took the bucklers of gold, which Solomon had made. And King Rehoboam made, instead of them, bucklers of bronze,—and committed them unto the hand of the captains of the runners, who kept guard at the entrance of the house of the king. And so it was whenever the king came into the house of Yahweh,—the runners came and bare them, and then returned them into the chamber of the runners. But when he humbled himself,—then turned from him the anger of Yahweh, that he would not destroy, to make an end,—moreover also in Judah there were some good things.

So King Rehoboam strengthened himself in Jerusalem, and reigned,—because forty-one years old was Rehoboam when he began to reign, and seventeen years reigned he in Jerusalem, the city which Yahweh had chosen, to set his Name there—from among all the tribes of Israel, and the name of his mother was Naamah, the Ammonitess. But he did evil,—in that he did not fix his heart to seek Yahweh.

Now the story of Rehoboam, first and last is it not written in the story of Shemaiah the prophet and Iddo the seer, for enrolling,—also the wars of Rehoboam and Jeroboam, all the days? And Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David,—and Abijah his son reigned in his stead.
§ 12. Abijah succeeds Rehoboam; enters into a successful Conflict with Jeroboam, and dies.

18 1 In the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam began Abijah to reign over Judah: 2 three years after his father Rehoboam reigned he in Jerusalem, and 3 the name of his mother was Maachah, 4 daughter of Uriel of Gibeah, and there was war between Abijah and Jeroboam. 3 And Abijah began the war with a force of heroes of war, four hundred thousand chosen men, and 3 Jeroboam set in array against him, to battle, with eight hundred thousand chosen men, heroes of valour. 4 And Abijah stood up upon Mount Zemaraim, which is in the hill country of Ephraim, and said:

Hear me, O Jeroboam and all Israel! 5 Is it not yours to know, that 3 Yahweh God of Israel gave the kingdom to David, over Israel, unto times age-abiding, to him and to his sons, by a covenant of salt? 6 Yet hath Jeroboam son of Nebat, servant of Solomon son of David, risen up, and rebelled against his lord. 7 And there are gathered unto him men of valour, and rebels against Rehoboam son of Solomon, when 3 Rehoboam was young and tender of heart, and had not strengthened himself to meet them.

8 Therefore, ye are thinking to strengthen yourselves against the kingdom of Yahweh, in the hand of the sons of David, and ye are a great multitude, and with you are calves of gold, which Jeroboam hath made for gods.

9 Have ye not driven out the priests of Yahweh, the sons of Aaron, and the Levites, and made for yourselves priests like the peoples of the countries? 10 Whosoever cometh to install himself with a young bullock, and seven rams, then becometh he a priest unto the [no-gods].

10 But with us 3 Yahweh is our God, and we have not forsaken him, and 3 the priests who are waiting upon Yahweh are sons of Aaron, with Levites in the work; 11 and they are making a perfume unto Yahweh, with ascending-sacrifices morning by morning, and evening by evening and an incense of sweet spiciness, and are putting in order bread upon the pure table, and the lampstand of gold with the lamps thereof, for lighting up evening by evening, for 3 observants are we of the charge of Yahweh our God, whereas ye have forsaken him.

12 And lo! with us as Head is God himself, and his priests, and the trumpets of alarm, to sound an alarm against you. — O sons of Israel! do not fight against Yahweh God of your fathers, for ye shall not prosper.

13 But 3 Jeroboam sent round an ambush, to come up from behind them, so they were before Judah and 3 the ambush did come up from behind them. 14 And when Judah turned and lo! as for them, the battle was before and behind, then made they outcry unto Yahweh, and 3 the priests kept on blowing with the trumpets. 15 Then the men of Judah gave a shout, and it came to pass when the men of Judah shouted then 3 God himself smote Jeroboam and all Israel before Abijah and Judah. 16 And the sons of Israel fled from before Judah, and God delivered them into their hand. 17 And Abijah and his people smote among them with a great smiting, and there fell down slain, of Israel, five hundred thousand chosen men.

18 Thus were the sons of Israel subdued at that time, and the sons of Judah prevailed, because they leaned upon Yahweh the God of their fathers.

19 And Abijah pursued after Jeroboam, and captured from him, cities, even Bethel, with the villages thereof, and Jeshanah, with the villages thereof, and Ephron, with the villages thereof; 20 neither was Jeroboam strong any more, in the days of Abijah, and Yahweh smote him that he died.

21 And Abijah strengthened himself, and took him, fourteen wives, and begat twenty-two sons, and sixteen daughters.

22 And the rest of the story of Abijah, both his ways and his words, — are written, in the commentary of the prophet Iddo.

§ 13. The Reign of Asa, a good and victorious King, who, howsoever, sins, and is punished before he dies.

1 So Abijah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David, and Asa his son reigned in his stead, — in his days the land rested ten years.

2 And Asa did that which was good and that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh his God; and took away the foreign altars, and the high places, and brake in pieces the pillars, and cut in twain the Sacred Steens; 4 and bade Judah seek Yahweh, God of their fathers, and execute the law, and the commandment; and removed from all the cities of Judah, the high places, and the sun-images, — and the kingdom became quiet before him. 6 And he built cities of defence, in Judah, — for the land had quiet, nor was there near him any war.

in these years, because Yahweh had given him rest. 7 Therefore said he to Judah, Let us build these cities, and let us surround them with walls and towers, doors and bars, while the land is yet before us, for we have sought Yahweh our God, we have sought him, and he hath given us rest on every side. So they built, and prospered.

6 And it came to pass that Asa had a force bearing shield and spear, out of Judah, three hundred thousand, and out of Benjamin, such as bare a buckler and trode a bow, two hundred and eighty thousand;—all these were heroes of valour.

9 Then came out against them Zerah the Ethiopian, with a force of a thousand thousand, and three hundred chariots;—and he came as far as Mareselah. 10 And Asa went out to meet him,—and they set in array for battle, in the valley of Zaphonah, at Mareselah. 11 Then Asa cried out unto Yahweh his God, and said, O Yahweh, it is nothing with thee, to help whether with many or with such as have no strength. Help us, O Yahweh our God, for on thee do we lean, and in thy name have we come against this multitude. O Yahweh! our God, thou art, let not [weak man] have power against thee.

12 So Yahweh smote the Ethiopians, before Asa, and before Judah,—and the Ethiopians fled. And Asa and the people that were with him pursued as far as to Gerar, and the Ethiopians fell, so that there was no way for them to recover, for they were routed before Yahweh, and before his host,—and they carried away exceeding much spoil. 13 And they smote all the cities round about Gerar, for the dread of Yahweh was upon them,—and they plundered all the cities, for great plunder was there in them. Moreover also <the tents of the cattle> they smote,—and carried off sheep in abundance, and camels, and returned to Jerusalem.

15 Now <as for Azariah son of Oded> there came upon him, the spirit of God. So he went forth to meet Asa, and said unto him, Hear me, O Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin,—Yahweh is with you, so long as ye are with him, and if ye seek him he will be found of you, but if ye forsake him he will forsake you.

3 Now many days had Israel been, without the faithful God, and without a teaching priest, and without the law; But they turned, in their distress, unto Yahweh God of Israel,—and sought him, and he was found of them.

5 And in those times there had been no prosperity, to him that went out nor to him that came in,—for great conternations were upon all the inhabitants of the lands; and they were beaten in pieces—nation against nation, and city against city,—for Yahweh discomfited them with all manner of distress.

7 Ye therefore, be strong, and let not your hands be slack,—for there is a reward for your work! And <when Asa heard these words and the prophecy of Oded the prophet> he strengthened himself, and put away the abominations out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he had captured out of the hill country of Ephraim,—and renewed the altar of Yahweh, that was before the porch of Yahweh. And he gathered together all Judah and Benjamin, and the sojourners with them, out of Ephraim and out of Manasseh, and out of Simeon,—for they fell unto him out of Israel, in great numbers, because they saw that Yahweh his God was with him.

10 So they gathered themselves together unto Jerusalem, in the third month of the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa. And they sacrificed unto Yahweh on that day out of the spoil they had brought in,—oxen seven hundred, and sheep seven thousand.

12 And they entered into a covenant, to seek Yahweh God of their fathers,—with all their heart, and with all their soul; and whosoever would not seek unto Yahweh God of Israel should be put to death,—whether small or great, whether man or woman. So they bound themselves by oath unto Yahweh, with a loud voice, and with shouting,—and with trumpets and with horns. And all Judah rejoiced over the oath, for with all their heart had they sworn, and with all their good will had they sought him, and he was found of them,—and Yahweh gave them rest round about.

15 Moreover also, <as touching Micaah mother of Asa> the king> he removed her from being queen, because she had made, unto the Sacred Stem, a monstrous thing,—so Asa cast out her monstrous thing, and reduced it to dust, and burnt it up in the Kidron ravine. But the high places were not taken away out of Israel,—only the heart of Asa was perfect, all his days.

16 And he brought the hallowed things of his father and his own hallowed things, into the house of God,—silver and gold, and utensils. And war was there none,—until the thirty-fifth year of the reign of Asa.

1 In the thirty-sixth year of the reign of Asa king of Israel came up against Judah, and built Ramah,—that he might let none come out or go in, unto Asa king of Judah.

2 So Asa brought forth silver and gold, out of the treasuries of the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king,—and sent unto Ben-hadad, king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus, saying:

3 [Let there be] a covenant, between me and thee, as between my father and thy father.—

Lo! I have sent thee silver and gold, go break thy covenant with Baasha, king of Israel, that he may go up from me.

4 And Ben-hadad hearkened unto King Asa, and sent the chief captains of the forces which he had against the cities of Israel, and smote Ijon and Dan, and Abel-maim,—and all the storehouses of the cities of Naphtali.

And it came to pass, when Baasha heard it, he left off building Ramah,—and let his work cease. And [Asa the king] took all Judah, and they carried away the stones of Ramah, and the timbers thereof, which Baasha had used in building,—and he built them thither, Geba and Mizpah.

And [at that time] came Hanani the seer, unto Asa the king of Judah,—and said unto him, <Because thou hast leaned upon the king of Syria, and hast not leaned upon Yahweh thy God> || for this cause || hath the force of the king of Syria escaped out of thy hand.

5 Were not [the Ethiopians and the Lybians] a huge host, with chariots and horsemen exceeding many? yet <because thou didst lean upon Yahweh> he delivered them into thy hand.

6 For [as touching Yahweh] ||[seeing that]|| [his eyes] are ever running to and fro throughout the whole earth, to show himself strong with them who are perfect toward himself> thou hast made thyself foolish over this,—for <from henceforth> there shall be with thee—war.

Then was Asa angry with the seer, and put him in the house of the stocks, for he was in a rage with him, over this,—and Asa oppressed some of the people, at that time.

But lo! <the story of Asa, first and last> [there it is] written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.

And Asa became diseased,—in the thirty-ninth year of his reign,—in his feet, <exceedingly severe> was his disease,—yet <even in his disease> he sought not Yahweh, but unto physicians.

And Asa slept with his fathers,—yea he died in the forty-first year of his reign; and they buried him in his own stately sepulchre, which he had hewn for himself in the city of David, and laid him on a couch which was full of sweet spices—yea of various kinds, made by the perfumer’s art,—and they burned for him with an exceeding great burning.

§ 14. The Reign of Jehoshaphat: his reforming Zeal and Prosperity; his entangling Alliances with Ahab and Israel; the Invasion of his Land and his signal Deliverance.

1 And Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead, 17—and strengthened himself against Israel;

2 and put forces in all the fortified cities of Judah,—and set garrisons in the land of Judah, and in the cities of Ephraim, which Asa his father had captured.

3 And it came to pass, that ||Yahweh|| was with Jehoshaphat,—because he walked in the first ways of David his father, and sought not unto the Baalim; 4 for <unto the God of his father> he sought, and <in his commandments> he walked,—and not according to the doing of Israel. 5 Therefore did Yahweh establish the kingdom in his hand, and all Judah gave a present unto Jehoshaphat,—and he came to have riches and honour, in abundance.

6 And his heart was encouraged, in the ways of Yahweh,—and he [yet further] took away the high places and the Sacred Stems, out of Judah.

7 And <in the third year of his reign> he sent to his rulers, even to Ben-hail and to Obadiah and to Zechariah, and to Jehoiada, and to Maaseiah,—that they were to teach throughout the cities of Judah; 8 and <with them> Levites, Shemaiah and Nethaniah and Zebadiah and Asahel and Shimrithoth 9 and Jehonathan, and Adonijah and Tobijah 9 and Tob-adonijah, Levites,—and <with them> Eliahu and Jehoram, priests; 10 and they taught throughout Judah, and <with them> was the book of the law of Yahweh,—so they went round throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people.

11 And it came to pass, that ||the dread of Yahweh|| was upon all the kingdoms of the countries, that were round about Judah,—and they waxed not against Jehoshaphat.

12 And <from among the Philistines> were they bringing in unto Jehoshaphat a present, and silver as tribute,—even the Arabians were bringing in unto him flocks, seven thousand seven hundred rams, and seven thousand seven hundred he-goats. 13 And so it came to pass that ||Jehoshaphat|| went on waxing surpassingly great,—and he built, throughout Judah, fortresses and cities for store; 14 and <much business> had he, throughout the cities of Judah,—but ||the men of war, the heroes of valor|| were in Jerusalem.

15 And ||these|| are the numbers of them, by their ancestral house,— <To Judah> pertained rulers of thousands, Adnah the chief, and <with him> mighty men of valor, three hundred thousand; and <under his direct-

29
And it came to pass <when Jehoshaphat had riches and honour, in abundance> that he contracted, by marriage, affinity with Ahab.

So he went down, at the end of some years, unto Ahab, to Samaria, Ahab therefore sacrificed for him, sheep and oxen, in abundance, also for the people whom he had with him,—and then persuaded him to go up against Ramoth-gilead. For Ahab king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat king of Judah, Wilt thou go up with me to Ramoth-gilead?

And he said unto him—

"So am I even as thou, and like thy people are my people, and with thee in the war.

Then said Jehoshaphat, unto the king of Israel,—

Seek, I pray thee, some time to day, the word of Yahweh.

So the king of Israel gathered together the prophets, four hundred men, and said unto them:

Shall we go up against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear?

And they said—

Go up, and may God deliver it into the hand of the king!

Then said Jehoshaphat, Is there not here a prophet of Yahweh besides, that we may seek, [from him]?

Then said the king of Israel unto Jehoshaphat—There is yet one man, by whom to seek Yahweh, but [I] hate him, for he is never prophesying concerning me, anything good—but all his days—evil, [the same] is Micaiah, son of Imla.

Then said Jehoshaphat, Let not the king say [so]!

And the king of Israel called for a certain officer,—and said,

Haste, Micaiah son of Imla!

Now [the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah] were sitting, each upon his throne, clothed in robes, and they were sitting in an open space, at the entrance of the gate of Samaria,—and [all the prophets] were prophesying before them.

Then did Zedekiah son of Chenaanah make him horns of iron,—and said—

"Thus saith Yahweh,—<With these> shalt thou push Syria, until they are consumed.

And [all the prophets] were prophesying [so], saying—

Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and prosper, and Yahweh will deliver it into the hand of the king.

And [the messenger who went to call Micaiah spake unto him, saying,]

Lo! [the words of the prophets,] <with one mouth> are good' for the king,—be the word then, I pray thee, like one of their so wilt thou speak good.

Then said Micaiah,—

[By the life of Yahweh]<whosoever my God shall say>[that] unto me, I speak.

Now, when he came unto the king, the king said unto him,

Micaiah, shall we go against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear?

And he said,

Go ye up and prosper, and may they deliver into your hand.

Then the king said unto him,

<How many times> must [I] be put to oblation thee on oath,—that thou speakest unto me of nothing' but the truth in the name of Yahweh?

So he said,

I saw all Israel, scattered upon the mountains, like sheep that have no shepherd, and Yahweh said,

<No masters> have these; let them return every man unto his own house, in peace.

Then said the king of Israel, unto Jehoshaphat,—

Said I not unto thee,

He will not prophesy concerning me anything good, but evil?

Then said he,—

Therefore hear ye the word of Yahweh, I saw Yahweh, sitting upon his throne, and all the host of the heavens, standing before Yahweh, and said—

[I] will persuade him.

And Yahweh said unto him Wherewith?

And he said,

I will go forth and become a spirit of falsehood, in the mouth of all the prophets.
And he said—
Thou mayest persuade, moreover also' thou shalt prevail, go forth, and do so.[2]

[Now] therefore, lo! Yahweh hath suffered a spirit of falsehood to be put into the mouth of these' thy prophets,—but [Yahweh] hath spoken concerning thee—evil.[2]

Then drew near Zedekiah son of Chenaanah, and smote Micaiah upon the cheek,—and said,
Which then is the way the spirit of Yahweh passed from me, to speak with thee?

Then said Micaiah,
Lo! thou shalt see, on that day when thou shalt enter into a chamber within a chamber, to hide thyself.

Then said the king of Israel,
Take ye Micaiah,' and carry him back unto Amon ruler of the city, and unto Joash son of the king: 29 and ye shall say,
[Thus] shall saith the king,
Put ye this one into the prison,—and feed him with the bread of oppression 4 and with the water of oppression, 4 until I return in peace.

Then said Micaiah,
<If thou do [at all return] in peace> Yahweh hath not spoken by me.
And he said,
Hear! ye peoples, all!

Then went up the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah, against Ramoth-gilead. 29 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, [I am about] to disguise myself, and enter into the battle, but [thou] put on thy robes.

So the king of Israel disguised himself, and entered* into the battle. 29 Now the king of Syria had commanded the captains of chariots which he had, saying,
Ye shall not fight, with small [or] with great,—save with the king of Israel alone.

So it came to pass <when the chariot-captains saw Jehoshaphat> that [they] said,
<The king of Israel> it is.'

And they compassed him about, to fight,—but Jehoshaphat made outcry, and [Yahweh] helped him, yea God almighty them from him.

And so it came to pass <when the chariot-captains saw that it was not the king of Israel> that they turned back from pursuing him;

but 'a certain man drawing a bow in his innocence, smote the king of Israel between the shoulder-joints and the coat of mail,—wherefore he died in the chariot.

Turn thy hand,* and convey me out of the host, for I am sore wounded.
34 But the battle increased on that day, and [the king of Israel] was propping himself up in the chariot before the Syrians, until evening,—and died at the time of the going in of the sun.

1 And Jehoshaphat the king of Judah returned 19 unto his own house in peace, to Jerusalem.
And there came out to meet him, Jehu son of Hanani, the seer, who said unto King Jehoshaphat, <Unto the lawless> was it [right] to give help? and <on them who hate Yahweh> to bestow thy love?
For this cause therefore, is there wrath against thee, from before Yahweh; 3 howbeit [good things] are found with thee,—for that thou hast consumed the Sacred Stems 5 out of the land, and hast fixed thy heart to seek God.

So Jehoshaphat dwelt in Jerusalem,—and he again' went forth among the people, from Beer-sheba as far as the hill country of Ephraim, and brought them back unto Yahweh, the God of their fathers. 5 And he stationed judges in the land, throughout all the fortified cities of Judah, city by city; 6 and said unto the judges,
See what [ye] are doing; inasmuch as <not for man> must ye judge, but for Yahweh,—who will be with you, in the word of justice.

7 [Now] therefore, let the dread of Yahweh be upon you,—observe and do, for there is, with Yahweh our God, neither perversity nor respect of persons nor the taking of bribes.

And <even in Jerusalem> did Jehoshaphat station some of the Levites and the priests, and of the ancestral chiefs of Israel, to pronounce the just sentence of Yahweh, and to settle disputes,—when they returned to Jerusalem. 5 And he laid charge upon them, saying,— <Thus> shall ye act, in the fear of Yahweh, faithfully and with an undivided heart.

<Any*> dispute that shall come in unto you from among your brethren who are dwelling in their cities, between blood and blood, between law and commandment and statutes and regulations> then shall ye warn them, that they may not become guilty against Yahweh, and so wrath come upon you and upon your brethren,— <Thus> shall ye act, and not incur guilt.

And lo! [Amariah the chief priest] is over you as to every matter of Yahweh, and [Zebadiah son of Ishmael the chief ruler

29-2
And it came to pass <after this> that the sons of Moab and the sons of Ammon, and <with them> some of the Meunim,* came against Jehoshaphat, to battle. 2 And there came [some] and told Jehoshaphat, saying, There is coming against thee, a great multitude from beyond the sea, from Syria,—and lo! they are in Hazazon-tamar, [the same] is Engedi. 3 And Jehoshaphat was afraid, and set his face to seek unto Yahweh,—and proclaimed a fast for all Judah. 4 And Judah gathered themselves together, to enquire of Yahweh,—even <of all the cities of Judah> came they in, to seek Yahweh. 5 And Jehoshaphat stood in the convocation of Judah and Jerusalem in the house of Yahweh,—before the new court; * and said, O Yahweh, God of our fathers, art not thou [our] God in the heavens? and art thou not ruling throughout all the kingdoms of the nations? and <in thy hand> are there not strength and might? and is there any who <against thee> can stand? 6 Art not [our] God, who didst dispose the inhabitants of this land, from before thy people Israel,—and didst give it unto the seed of Abraham who loved thee, unto times age-abiding? * and they have dwelt therein,—and have built for thee therein, a sanctuary for thy Name, saying: 7 If there come upon us calamity, the sword of judgment or pestilence or famine,—we will stand before this house, and before thee, for [thy Name] is in this house,—that we may make outcry unto thee out of our distress, that thou mayest hear and save. 8 And Jehoshaphat bowed his head, with his face to the ground,—and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem fell down before Yahweh, prostrating themselves unto Yahweh. 9 Levites,—of the sons of the Kohathites and the sons of the Korahites, stood up to praise unto Yahweh, God of Israel, with exceeding loud voice. 10 So they rose early in the morning, and went out to the wilderness of Tekoa,—and <as they went out> Jehoshaphat stood and said, Hear me, O Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, Trust ye in Yahweh your God, and ye shall be trusted, Trust ye in his prophets, and ye shall prosper. 11 And <when he had given counsel unto the people> he appointed such as should sing unto Yahweh, and offer praise with holy strings,—<as they should be going forth before armed men> that they should be saying, O give thanks unto Yahweh, For age-abiding is his lovingkindness. 12 And <when they began to sing and praise> Yahweh * had set liars-in-wait against the sons of Ammon, Moab and Mount Seir, whom thou didst not suffer Israel to invade, when they came out of the land of Egypt,—but they turned away from them and destroyed them not, * yea lo! [they] are requiting us,—by coming to drive us out, from thy possession, which thou didst cause us to possess. 13 O our God, wilt thou not bring judgment upon them, seeing that there is, in us, no strength, before this great multitude, that is coming against us,—[we] therefore, know not what we shall do, but <unto thee> are our eyes. 14 And <all Judah> were standing before Yahweh,—also their little ones, their wives and their children.

dead bodies and precious jewels, and they stripped off for themselves, beyond what they could carry away,—and they were three days plundering the spoil, for great it was. And <on the fourth day> they assembled themselves in the vale of Beracah, for there they blessed Yahweh, <on this account> the name of that place called The Vale of Beracah—unto this day.

Then turned every man of Judah and Jerusalem, with [Jehoshaphat] at their head, to go again to Jerusalem with joy,—for Yahweh had caused them to rejoice over their enemies. So they came to Jerusalem, with harps and with lyres, and with trumpets, unto the house of Yahweh.

And it came to pass that [the dread of God] was upon all the kingdoms of the countries,—when they heard that Yahweh had fought against the enemies of Israel. So the kingdom of Jehoshaphat was quiet,—for his God gave him rest round about.

Thus Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah,—<thirty-five years old> was he when he began to reign, and <twenty-five years> reigned he in Jerusalem, and the [name of his mother] was Azubah, daughter of Shilhih. And he walked in the way of his father Asa, and turned not from it,—doing that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh. Howbeit [the high places] were not taken away,—for as yet [the people] had not fixed their heart unto the God of their fathers.

But <the rest of the story of Jehoshaphat, first and last>! lo! there it is written in the story of Jehu son of Hanani, which hath been added to the book of the Kings of Israel.

Yet <after this> did Jehoshaphat king of Judah join himself with Ahaziah king of Israel,—<he> was lawless in his doings; and he joined with him, to make ships to go unto Tarshish,—and they made ships in Ezion-geber. Then prophesied, Eliezer son of Dodavahu of Mareshah, against Jehoshaphat, saying,—<Because thou hast joined thyself with Ahaziah> Yahweh hath broken in pieces thy works. So the ships were wrecked, and were not able to go unto Tarshish.

§ 15. The Wicked Reign of Jehoram (Jehoshaphat's Son) calls forth a Warning Letter from the Prophet Elijah, which is fearfully fulfilled.

21 And Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David,—and Jehoram his son reigned in his stead. Now [he] had brethren, sons of Jehoshaphat,—Azariah and Jehiel and Zechariah and Azzariah, and Michael and Shephatiah,—all these were sons of Jehoshaphat king of Israel, and their father gave them large presents—of silver and of gold and of precious things, with cities of defence in Judah,—but <the kingdom> gave he unto Jehoram, for [he] was the firstborn. But <when Jehoram had arisen over the kingdom of his father> he strengthened himself, and slew all his brethren, with the sword,—moreover also some of the rulers of Israel.

<Thirty-two years old> was Jehoram when he began to reign,—and <eight years> reigned he, in Jerusalem.

And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, like as did the house of Ahab, for <the daughter of Ahab> had he, to wife,—so he wrought wickedness, in the eyes of Yahweh.

Howbeit Yahweh was not willing to destroy the house of David, because of the covenant which he had solemnised unto David,—and as he had promised to give unto him a lamp, and unto his sons, all the days.

<In his days> revolted the Edomites, from under the hand of Judah,—and set over themselves a king. So Jehoram passed over, with his captains, and all his chariots, with him,—and it came to pass that he rose up by night, and smote the Edomites that were round about unto him, and the chariot-captains.

So Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah —unto this day. Then must Libnah needs revolt at the same time, from under his hand,—because he had forsaken Yahweh, the God of his fathers. [He too] made high places among the mountains of Judah,—and caused the inhabitants of Jerusalem to be unchaste, and seduced Judah.

Then came there unto him, a writing, from Elijah the prophet, saying,— [Thus] saith Yahweh, God of David thy father,

<Because thou hast not walked in the ways of Jehoshaphat thy father, nor in the ways of Asa, king of Judah; but hast walked in the way of the kings of Israel, and hast caused Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to be unchaste, after the unchastities of the house of Ahab,—moreover also> <thine own brethren of the house of thy father who were better than thou> hast thou slain> 14 lo! [Yahweh] is about to plague, with a great plague, thy people,—and thy children and thy wives, and all thy possessions; also [thyself] with sore diseases, with a disease of thy bowels,—until thy bowels shall fall out, by reason of the disease, in a year added to a year.4

16 And Yahweh stirred up against Jehoram the spirit of the Philistines, and the Arabians, who were under the direction of the Ethiopians; and they came up against Judah, and forced their way into it, and carried off all the possessions that were found belonging to the house of the king, moreover also his sons and his wives,—so that there was left him never a son, save only Jehoshaz the youngest of his sons.

17 And after all this, Yahweh plagued him in his bowels with an incurable disease. And it came to pass, in a year beyond a year, even when the end of the days of two years had passed;—that his bowels fell out by reason of his disease, so that he died of malignant disease,—and his people made him no burning, like the burning of his fathers.

18 Thirty-two years old was he when he began to reign, and eight years he reigned in Jerusalem, and went his way—unregretted, and though they buried him in the city of David yet not in the sepulchres of the kings.

§ 16. Jehoram's Son and Successor, Athaliah, caused by his own wicked mother Athaliah and by the house of Ahab, to walk in wickedness, and is slain in Samaria by Jehu. His Mother usurps the Throne after (as she supposes) having slain all the Seed Royal; from whom, however, the boy Joash is secretly rescued.

22 And the inhabitants of Jerusalem made Athaliah his youngest son king, in his stead, for all the elder sons had the band of men slain who came in with the Arabians into the camp,—so Athaliah son of Jehoram king of Judah reigned. Forty-two years old was Athaliah when he began to reign, and one year he reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother was Athaliah, daughter of Omri.

He too walked in the ways of the house of Ahab,—for his mother, because his counsellor, to work lawlessness. Wherefore he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, because the house of Yahweh, for they became his counsellors, after the death of his father, to his destruction. Even in their counsel, he walked, and went with Jehoram son of Ahab king of Israel, to war against Hazael king of Syria, in Ramoth-gilead,—and the Syrians smote Joram. And he returned to be healed in Jezreel, because of the wounds wherewith they smote him in Ramah, when he fought with Hazael, king of Syria,—and Azariah son of Jehoram king of Judah went down to see Jehoram son of Ahaziah in Jezreel, because [sick] was he! But from God came the downfall of Athaliah, through his coming to Joram,—and because through his coming he went out with Jehoram against Jehu son of Nimshi, who had anointed to cut off the house of Ahab. And so it came to pass when Jehu was executing judgment upon the house of Ahab,—and found the rulers of Judah and the sons of the brethren of Ahaziah ministering to Athaliah,—that he slew them. And he took Athaliah, and they captured him, [she,] having hid himself in Samaria, and they brought him unto Jehu, and he staved him to death, and they buried him, because, said they, it is the son of Jehosheba, the young woman, whom Yahweh had all his heart,—and no one of the house of Ahaziah had ability for the kingdom.

10 But when Athaliah mother of Athaliah saw that her son was dead, she rose up and destroyed all the seed royal of the house of Judah. But Jehosheba, daughter of the king, took Joash son of Ahaziah, and stole him from among the sons of the king who were being slain, and put him and his nurse in a bedchamber,—so Jehosheba daughter of the king, Jehoram's wife of Jehosaphat the prince for [she] was the sister of Ahaziah—hid him from the face of Athaliah so that she slew him not. And it came to pass that he was with them, in the house of God, hidden six years, while Athaliah was reigning over the land.

§ 17. Jehoiada the Priest secures the Royal Succession to Joash, who reigns well during Jehoada's life, but then becomes corrupt. Jehoiada's faithful son Zechariah, and him comes to an untimely end.

1 And in the seventh year, Jehoiada strengthened himself, and took the rulers of hundreds—even Azariah son of Jeroham, Ishmael son of Jehohanan, and Azariah of Obadiah, and Maaseiah son of Adaniah—Elishaphat son of Zichri—unto himself, as covenant. And they went round through Judah, and gathered together the Levites of all the cities of Judah, and the ances-try chiefs of Israel,—and they came into Jeru-salem. And all the convocation solemnised covenant in the house of God, with the king, and him said to them, Lo! the king's son must reign, as said Yahweh concerning the sons of David.

4 This is the thing that ye shall do,—A third of you entering on the sabbath, both of the priests and of the Levites, doorkeeper of the porch; and a third being in the house of the king, and a third, at the foundation gate,—and all people, being in the courts of the house of Yahweh, then let no one enter the house of Yahweh save the priests and they who are in attendance of the Levites. They may enter, for it is holy. But all the people shall keep the watch of Yahweh.

7 So shall the Levites encompass the king round about, every man with his weapons, in his hand, and he that entereth into the house shall be put to death.

Thus be ye with the king, when he cometh in and when he goeth out.

5 So the Levites and all Judah did according to all that Jehoiada the priest commanded, and they took every man his men, who were coming in on the sabbath, with them who were going out on the sabbath, for Jehoiada the priest dismissed not the courses. And Jehoiada the priest gave unto the captains of hundreds, the spears and the bucklers and the shields, which belonged to King David, which were in the house of God. And he caused all the people to stand, even every man with his weapon in his hand, from the right corner of the house as far as the left corner of the house, by the altar and the house, near the king round about.

Then brought they forth the king's son, and set upon him the crown and the testimony, and made him king, and Jehoiada and his sons anointed him, and said:

May the king live!

12 Now when Athaliah heard the noise of the people which were running and those who were praising the king, then she went in unto the house of Yahweh, and looked, and lo! the king, standing by his pillar, and all the people, the captains, and the trumpets by the king, and all the people of the land rejoicing, and blowing with trumpets, and the singers, with instruments of song, and such as led the offering of praise, then Athaliah rent her garments, and said:

Conspiracy! conspiracy!

14 Then Jehoiada the priest commanded the captains of hundreds, officers of the force, and said unto them:

Take her forth within the ranks, and he that cometh in after her let him be slain with the sword.

So they made way for her, and she came into the entrance of the horse-gate of the house of the king, and they slew her there.

And Jehoiada solemnised a covenant, between himself and all the people, and the king, that they should become people unto Yahweh. Then all the people entered into the house of Baal and brake it down, and <his altars and his images> brake they in pieces, and <Mattan the priest of Baal> they slew before the altars.

13 And Jehoiada put the oversight of the house of Yahweh into the hand of the priests and the Levites, whom David set by courses over the house of Yahweh, that they might offer up the ascending-sacrifices of Yahweh, as it is written in the law of Moses, with rejoicing and with song, under the direction of David.

19 And he caused gatekeepers to stand at the gates of the house of Yahweh, that no one who was unclean should, on any account, enter.

20 Then took he the captains of hundreds and the nobles and the rulers over the people and all the people of the land, and brought down the king out of the house of Yahweh, and they entered, through the midst of the upper gate into the house of the king, and set the king, upon the throne of the kingdom. And all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was quiet, when <Athaliah> they had slain with the sword.

24 <Seven years old> was Josiah when he began to reign, and <forty years> reigned he in Jerusalem, and <the name of his mother> was Zibiah of Beersheba. And Josiah did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, all the days of Jehoiada the priest. And Jehoiada took him two wives, and he begat sons and daughters.

4 And it came to pass after this, that it was near the heart of Josiah to renew the house of Yahweh. So he gathered together the priests and the Levites, and said unto them:

Go ye out unto the cities of Judah, and gather out of all Israel silver to repair the house of your God, year by year, and ye shall hasting the needed work of the house of Yahweh, which the Levites hastened it not.

6 Then the king called for Jehoiada the chief, and said unto him:

Wherefore hast thou not required of the Levites, to bring in out of Judah and out of Jerusalem the tribute of Moses the servant of Yahweh, and of the convocation of Israel, for the tent of testimony?

7 For as for Athaliah the Lawless, her sons brake up the House of God, moreover all the hallowed things of the house of Yahweh offered they unto the Baalim. So the king bade them, and they made a certain chest, and set it in the gate of the house of Yahweh, outside. And they made a proclamation throughout Judah and Jerusalem, to bring in unto Yahweh the tribute of Moses the servant of God, laid upon Israel in the desert. And all the rulers and all the people rejoiced, and brought in and cast into the chest, until they had finished. And it came to pass what time the chest was... brought into the office of the king by the hand of the Levites, and when they had seen that abundant was the silver— that the scribe of the king came in, and the officer of the chief priest, and they emptied the chest, and bare it, and put it back in its place,—thus they did, day by day, and collected silver, in abundance; 12 and the king and Jehoiada gave it unto such as were doing the work of labouring upon the house of Yahweh, and they were hiring masons and carpenters, to renew the house of Yahweh,—moreover also, such as were fashioners of iron and bronze, to repair the house of Yahweh. 13 So the doors of the work wrought, and the work of restoration went forward, in their hand,—and they caused the house of God to stand forth according to its due proportions, and made it strong. 14 And when they had finished it, they brought in the king and Jehoiada the rest of the silver, and he made it into utensils for the house of Yahweh, utensils of attendance, and bowls, and spoons, even utensils of gold and silver. 15 Then were they offering ascending-sacrifices in the house of Yahweh, continually, all the days of Jehoiada.

But Jehoiada waxed old and became satisfied with days, and died,—a hundred and thirty years old, when he died. 16 And they buried him in the city of David, with the kings,—because he had done good in Israel, both toward God and his house.

Now after the death of Jehoiada came the rulers of Judah, and bowed themselves down unto the king, and hearkened the king unto them. 18 And they forsook the house of Yahweh, God of their fathers, and served the Sacred Stems, and the images,—so there was wrath against Judah and Jerusalem, for this their guilt. 19 And he sent among them prophets, to bring them back unto Yahweh,—and they testified against them, but they would not give ear.

And the spirit of God clothed Zechariah, son of Jehoiada the priest, and he took his stand above the people,—and said unto them:

Thus saith God, Wherefore are ye transgressing the commandments of Yahweh, that ye cannot prosper, because ye have forsaken Yahweh therefore hath he forsaken you.

So they conspired against him, and stoned him with stones, by the commandment of the king,—in the court of the house of Yahweh. 21 Thus Joash the king [remembered not] the lovingkindness which Jehoiada his father had done for him, but slew his son,—and [as he died] he said, Yahweh see and require!

And it came to pass when the year had gone round that the force of Syria came up against him, and they entered Judah, and Jerusalem, and destroyed all the rulers of the people, from among the people,—and [all the spoil of them] sent they unto the king of Damascus. 24 [Although with a comparatively few men] came the force of Syria yet Yahweh delivered into their hand an exceeding large force,—because they had forsaken Yahweh, the God of their fathers,—and upon Joash he executed his judgments.

And when they had departed from him, for they left him with sore diseases [his own servants conspired against him, for the blood of the son of Jehoiada the priest, and slew him upon his bed, and he died,—and though they buried him in the city of David yet did they not bury him in the sepulchres of the kings,] 26 Now if these are they that conspired against him,—Zabad son of Shimshai the Ammonites, and Jehozabad son of Shimri the Moabite.

But as for his sons, and the greatness of the oracle on him, and the foundation of the house of God, lo! there they are written in the commentary of the Book of Kings,—and Amaziah his son reigned in his stead.

§ 18. The Reign of Amaziah, not wholly good; a victorious War with Edom, a disastrous one with Israel; Amaziah dies in Lochiah by conspiracy.

After twenty-five years old was Amaziah, 25 when he began to reign, and after twenty-nine years reigned he in Jerusalem,—and the name of his mother was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem. 22 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, only not with a whole heart. 23 And it came to pass when the kingdom was confirmed unto him,—that he slew his servants who had smitten the king his father; 24 but [their sons] he put not to death,—but as it is written in the law—in the book of Moses how that Yahweh commanded saying—[Fathers] shall not die for [sons], and [Sons] shall not die for [fathers], but Each man [for his own sin] shall die.

And Amaziah gathered Judah together, and appointed them by their ancestral houses, as rulers of thousands and as rulers of hundreds, for all Judah and Benjamin,—and he numbered them, from twenty years old and upwards, and found them three hundred thousand choice men, able to go forth to war, who could grasp spear and shield. 6 And he hired out of Israel, a hundred thousand heroes of valour, for a hundred talents of silver. 7 But [a man of God] came unto him, saying,
O king! let not the host of Israel come with thee,—for Yahweh is not with Israel, [with] any of the sons of Ephraim.
8 But [if thou art going] do, be strong for the battle,—God will cause thee to fall before the enemy, for there is strength in God, to help or to cause to fall.
9 And Amaziah said unto the man of God,
What then shall be done as to the hundred talents, which I have given to the company of Israel?
Then said the man of God,
Yahweh is able to give thee much more than this.
10 So Amaziah separated them, [appointing] unto the company which had come unto him out of Ephraim, to depart unto their own place,—wherefore their anger was greatly kindled against Judah, so they returned to their own place in a heat of anger.
11 And [Amaziah] took courage, and led forth his people, and went to the valley of salt,—and smote of the sons of Seir, ten thousand; 12 and the sons of Judah took captive [ten thousand alive], and brought to the top of the crag,—and cast them down from the top of the crag, and all of them were torn sunder.
13 But [as for the sons of the company which Amaziah sent back from going with him to the war] they spread themselves out against the cities of Judah, from Samaria, even unto Beth-horon,—and smote of them three thousand, and took great plunder.
And so it was [after Amaziah came in from smiting the Edomites] that he brought in the gods of the sons of Seir, and set them up for himself as gods,—and [before them] used he to bow himself down, and [unto them] used he to burn a perfume.
Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh, against Amaziah,—and he sent unto him a prophet, and said unto him,
Wherefore hast thou sought the gods of the people, which delivered not their own people out of thy hand?
And it came to pass [as he spake unto him] that he said to him,
To be [counselor to the king] have we appointed thee? forbear thou, wherefore should they smite thee?
So the prophet forbade, and said,—I know that God hath determined to destroy thee, because thou hast done this, and hast not hearkened unto my counsel.
17 Then Amaziah king of Judah took counsel, and sent unto Joash, son of Jehoahaz son of Jehu king of Israel, saying,—Come, let us look one another in the face!
18 And Joash king of Israel sent unto Amaziah king of Judah, saying,
A thistle that was in Lebanon sent unto a cedar that was in Lebanon, saying,—Come! give thy daughter unto my son to wife,—but there passed by a hawk of the field that was in Lebanon, and trampled down the thistle.
19 Thou hast said—
Lo! thou hast smitten the Edomites, and thy heart hath lifted thee up to display honour,—
Now abide in thine own house, wherefore shouldst thou engage in strife with Misfortune, and fall, [though Judah with thee]?
20 But Amaziah hearkened not, because [from God] it was, to the end he might deliver them up into [their enemies'] hand,—because they had sought the gods of Edom. 21 So Joash king of Israel came up, and they looked one another in the face, 22 and Amaziah king of Judah,—in Beth-shemesh, which belongeth unto Judah.
23 Then was Judah defeated before Israel,—and they fled every man to his own home; 24 and [Amaziah king of Judah, son of Joash son of Jehoahaz] was taken by Joash king of Israel, in Beth-shemesh, —and he brought him to Jerusalem, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem, from the gate of Ephraim as far as the corner-gate, four hundred cubits; 25 and [all the gold and the silver and all the utensils that were found in the house of God with Obed-edom, and the treasures of the house of the king, and hostages> [he took],—and returned to Samaria.
26 And Amaziah son of Joash king of Judah lived, after the death of Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel,—fifteen years.
27 Now [the rest of the story of Amaziah, first and last] lo! it is written in the book of the Kings of Judah and Israel.
§ 19. The Reign of Uzziah: a Good and Prosperous King, who, however, presumptuously thrusting himself into the Priest's Office, is smitten with Leprosy; and his son Jotham acts as Regent.
1 Then all the people of Judah took Uzziah, 26 when [he] was sixteen years old,—and made him king, instead of his father Amaziah.
2 [He] built Elath, and restored it to Judah,—after that the king slept with his fathers. 3 <Sixteen years old> was Uzziah, when he began to reign, and <fifty-two years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and [the name of his mother] was Jecchiliah 4 of Jerusalem. 4 And he did that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that Amaziah his father had done.

1 Ml. "tents."
2 Lit. "sons of security."
3 Written: "Yekilyah"; read: "Yekolyah."
5 And it came to pass that he set himself to seek God, in the days of Zechariah, who gave understanding in the seeing of God, and throughout the days of his seeking Yahweh God [prospered him]. 8 So he went forth and made war against the Philistines, and brake down the wall of Gath, and the wall of Jabneh, and the wall of Ashdod, and built cities in Ashdod, and among the Philistines. And God helped him against the Philistines and against the Arabian who dwelt in Guz-baal, and the Meunim. And the Ammonites gave a present to Uzziah; and his name went forth as far as the entering in of Egypt, for he shewed exceeding great strength.

9 And Uzziah built towers, in Jerusalem, over the corner-gate, and over the valley-gate, and over the angle, and he made them strong. 10 And he built towers in the desert, 6 and dug many wells, for much cattle had he, both in the lowland, and in the plain, husbandmen and vine-dressers, in the mountains and in the fruitful field, for he was a lover of the soil. 11 And it came to pass that Uzziah had a force ready to make war, to go forth as a host in company, by the number of their reckoning, under the direction of Jeiel the scribe, and Masheiah the officer, under the direction of Hananiah, from among the captains of the king. 12 [The whole number of the ancestral chiefs pertaining to the heroes of valour: was two thousand and six hundred; and under their direction was the force of a host, three hundred and seven thousand five hundred, ready to make war, with the strength of a force, for helping the king against an enemy. 14 And Uzziah prepared for them, for the host, bucklers and spears and helmets, and coats of mail, and bows, and yea even sling-stones. 15 And he made in Jerusalem, inventions invented of the inventor, to be upon the towers and upon the turrets, for throwing with arrows, and with great stones, so that his name went forth afar, for he was marvellously helped, until that he was strong. But when he became strong uplifted was his heart, unto ruin, for he acted unfaithfully against Yahweh his God, and entered into the temple of Yahweh, to burn incense upon the altar of incense. 17 Then entered after him, Azariah the priest, and with him eightieth priests of Yahweh, sons of valour; and they took their stand against Uzziah the king, and said unto him—It is not for thee O Uzziah, to burn incense unto Yahweh, but for the priests, the sons of Aaron, who are hallowed to burn incense.

Go forth out of the sanctuary, for thou hast acted unfaithfully, and not to thee, for an honour [shall it be] from Yahweh Elohim.

19 Then was Uzziah wroth, and in his hand was a censer, to burn incense, and when he was wroth with the priests a leprosy, shot forth in his forehead before the priests, in the house of Yahweh, from off the altar of incense. 20 When Azariah the chief priest and all the priests turned towards him, lo! [he] was leprous, in his forehead, so they hastened him from thence, yea even he himself hurried to go out, because Yahweh had smitten him.

21 And it came to pass that Uzziah the king was a leper until the day of his death, and dwelt in a house apart—a leper, for he was cut off from the house of Yahweh, and Jotham his son was over the house of the king, judging the people of the land.

22 Now the rest of the story of Uzziah, first and last, hath Isaiah son of Amoz, the prophet, written.

23 And Uzziah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the field of burial that pertaineth unto the kings, for they said, A leper he is. And Jotham his son reigned in his stead.

1 [Twenty-five years old] was Jotham when he began to reign, and [sixteen years] reigned he in Jerusalem, and [the name of his mother was Jerushah, daughter of Zadok. And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, according to all that Uzziah his father had done, only he entered not into the temple of Yahweh, though still were the people acting corruptly. 3] [He] built the upper gate of the house of Yahweh, and on the wall of Ophel built he extensively. 4 Cities also built he, in the midst of the country of Judah, and in the thick woods built he fortresses and towers. 5 He also made war against the king of the sons of Ammon, and prevailed against them, and the sons of Ammon gave him during that year, a hundred talents of silver, and ten thousand measures of wheat, and ten thousand measures of barley, and thousand, this did the sons of Ammon render him, both in the second year, and the third. 6 So Jotham strengthened himself, for he fixed his ways before Yahweh his God.

7 But the rest of the story of Jotham, and all his wars, and his ways: lo! there they are written in the book of the Kings of Israel and Judah. 8 [Twenty-five years old was he when he began to reign, and sixteen years reigned he in Jerusalem. And Jotham slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David, and Ahaz his son reigned in his stead.

Berechiah son of Meshillemoth, and Jehizkiah son of Shallum, and Amasa son of Hadlai, against them who were coming in from the army; and said unto them, Ye shall not bring in the captives hither, for with guilt against Yahweh already upon us are thinking to add unto our sins and unto our guilt, for great is the guilt we have, and fierce is the anger over Israel.

So the armed men left the captives and the plunder, before the rulers, and all the convocation. Then rose up the men who have been expressed by name and took the captives, and all who were naked among them clothed they out of the spoil, and arrayed them and sandalled them, and gave them to eat and to drink, and anointed them, and conducted them with asses for every one that was exhausted, and brought them to Jericho the city of palm-trees near unto their brethren, and then returned to Samaria.

And the sons of Israel carried away captives from among their brethren two hundred thousand, wives, sons and daughters, moreover also did they plunder them, and brought the spoil to Samaria.

But a prophet unto Yahweh, Oded his name, so he went out to meet the host that was coming unto Samaria, and said unto them, Lo! in the wrath of Yahweh, God of your fathers, against Judah hath he delivered them into your hand, and ye have slain them in a rage, until to the heavens it hath reached.

Therefore are thinking to tread down the children of Judah and Jerusalem as servants and as handmaids for yourselves. But is it not so—that ye yourselves are altogether guilty against Yahweh your God?

Therefore, hearken unto me, and restore the captives whom ye have taken captive from among your brethren,—for the anger of Yahweh is over you.

Then rose up certain of the chiefs of the sons of Ephraim—Azariah son of Jehohanan.

first and last; there they are; written in the book of the Kings of Judah and Israel.
27 And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city, in Jerusalem, but they brought him not into the sepulchres of the kings of Israel, — and Hezekiah his son reigned in his stead.

§ 22. The Reign of Hezekiah, who purifies and rededicates the Temple; celebrates a Great Pas-over; destroys Idolatrous Imagery; restores Temple Services; provides for Priests and Levites; is saved from Assyrian Invasion; falls sick and receives a wonderful Token; is uplifted with Pride, but humbles himself, and dies greatly honoured.

29 And Hezekiah began to reign when he was twenty-five years old, and twenty-nine years reigned he in Jerusalem, — and the name of his mother was Abijah, daughter of Zechariah.
And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that David his father had done.

And in the first year of his reign, in the first month, he opened the doors of the house of Yahweh, and repaired them. And he brought in the priests, and the Levites, — and gathered them together in the broadway on the east; and said unto them,
Hear me, O Levites!
Now shall hallow yourselves, and hallow the house of Yahweh, God of your fathers, and take forth the impure thing out of the holy place.
For our fathers have acted unfaithfully and done the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh our God, and have forsaken him,— and have turned round their faces from the habitation of Yahweh, and have offered their backs.
Moreover they have shut up the doors of the porch, and have quenched the lamps, and incense have they not burned,— and ascending-sacrifice have they not casted to go up in the holy place, unto the God of Israel.
Thus hath it come to pass, that the wrath of Yahweh hath been upon Judah and Jerusalem,—and he hath delivered them up as a terror and as an astonishment and as a hissing, even as ye can see with your own eyes.
And lo! our fathers have fallen by the sword, and our sons and our daughters and our wives are in captivity for this.

Now is it near my heart, to solemnise a covention unto Yahweh, God of Israel,— that he may turn from him the glow of his anger.

My sons! now do not be faulty,—for of you hath Yahweh made choice, to stand before him, and to wait upon him, and to be his' attendants and burners of incense.

12 Then arose the Levites — Mahath son of Amasai, and Joel son of Azariah, of the sons of the Kohathites, and (of the sons of Merari) Kish son of Abdi, and Azariah son of Jehaleli,— and (of the Gershonites) Josiah son of Zimmah, and Eden son of Josiah; — and (of the sons of Elizaphan) Shimri and Jeiel,* and (of the sons of Asaph) Zechariah and Mattaniah;

14 and (of the sons of Heman) Jehiel* and Shimei, and (of the sons of Jeduthun) Shemaiah, and Uzziel; — and they gathered together their brethren, who hallowed themselves, and came in according to the command of the king, in the things of Yahweh, — to purify the house of Yahweh.

16 So the priests entered into the inner part of the house of Yahweh, to make purification, and they brought out every unclean thing which they found in the temple of Yahweh, into the court of the house of Yahweh, — where the Levites received it, to carry it forth to the Kidron ravine outside. And they began, on the first of the first month, to hallow, — and on the eighth day of the month they came to the porch of Yahweh, so they hallowed the house of Yahweh in eight days, — and on the sixteenth day of the first month they finished.

Then came they in unto Hezekiah the king,
and said,
We have purified all the house of Yahweh,— the altar of ascending-sacrifice, and all the utensils thereof, and the table for setting in array, and all the utensils thereof.

And all the utensils which King Ahaz in his reign rejected when he acted unfaithfully have we made ready and hallowed, — and there they are before the altar of Yahweh.

So Hezekiah the king rose up early, and gathered together the rulers of the city, — and went up to the house of Yahweh.

And they brought in seven bullocks, and seven rams, and seven young sheep, and seven he-goats for bearing sin, for the kingdom and for the sactuary and for Judah, — and he bade the sons of Aaron, the priests, cause them to ascend upon the altar of Yahweh. So they slaughtered the bullocks, and the priests received the blood, — and dashed it against the altar, — and they slaughtered the rams, and dashed the blood against the altar, — and slaughtered the young sheep, and dashed the blood against the altar. —

And they brought near the he-goats for bearing sin, before the king, and the convocation, — and they leaned their hands upon them; and the priests slaughtered them, and sin-cleansed, with their blood, the altar, to put a propitiatory-covering over all Israel,— because for all Israel did the king appoint the ascending-sacrifice and the offering for bearing sin.

25 And he caused the Levites to stand in the house of Yahweh, with cymbals and with harpaand with lyres, by the commandment of David, and of Gad the seer of the king, and of Nathan the prophet,—for <by the hand of Yahweh> came the commandment by the hand of his prophets. 26 So the Levites took their stand, with the instruments of David, and the priests, with the trumpets. 27 And Hezekiah gave word, to cause the ascending-sacrifice to go up on the altar,—and <when the ascending-sacrifice began> the singing unto Yahweh began, and the trumpets, even under the direction of the instruments of David, king of Israel. 28 And <all the convocation> were bowing themselves in prostration, and <the song> was resounding and the trumpets were blowing,— <the whole> until the completing of the ascending-sacrifice. 29 And <when the offering was complete> the king knelt down and all who were present with him, and bowed themselves in prostration. 30 And Hezekiah the king and the rulers gave word to the Levites, to offer praise unto Yahweh, in the words of David, and of Asaph the seer,—so they offered praise right joyfully,* and bent their heads and bowed themselves in prostration. 31 Then responded Hezekiah and said—

<Now> have ye consecrated yourselves unto Yahweh.
Draw near, and bring in sacrifices and thank-offerings unto the house of Yahweh,—
So the convocation brought ascension-sacrifices
<and everyone of a willing heart> [brught] ascending-sacrifices. 32 And it came to pass that <the number of ascending-sacrifices which the convocation brought> was—seventy bullocks, and a hundred rams, and two hundred young sheep,—as an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh. <all these>. 33 But <the hallowed beasts> were six hundred bullocks, and three thousand sheep. 34 Only <the priests> were too few, and were unable to play all the ascending-sacrifices,—so their brethren the Levites strengthened them, until the work was complete and until the priests had hallowed themselves, for <the Levites> were more upright in heart to hallow themselves, than the priests. 35 Moreover also <the ascending-sacrifices> were in abundance, with the fat portions of the peace-offerings, and with the drink-offerings to every ascending-sacrifice,— thus was established the service of the house of Yahweh. 36 And Hezekiah rejoiced, and all the people, because God had established it for the people,—for <suddenly> had the thing come about.

30 Then sent Hezekiah unto all Israel and Judah, moreover also <letters> wrote he unto Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come unto the house of Yahweh, in Jerusalem, to keep a passover unto Yahweh, God of Israel. 32 Yes the king and his rulers and all the convocation in Jerusalem, had taken counsel,—to keep the passover in the second month. 33 For they were unable to keep it at that time,—because <the priests> had not hallowed themselves in sufficient numbers, and <the people> had not gathered themselves unto Jerusalem. 34 And the thing was right, in the eyes of the king,—and in the eyes of all the convocation. 35 So they established a decree, to make proclamation throughout all Israel, from Beer-sheba even unto Dan, that they should come in to keep a passover unto Yahweh the God of Israel, in Jerusalem,—for <not for a long time> had they kept it as written.

6 The runners, therefore, went with letters from the hand of the king and his rulers, throughout all Israel and Judah, and according to the commandment of the king, saying,— Ye sons of Israel, return ye unto Yahweh, God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel, and he will return unto the remnant,* that which is left to you, out of the hand of the kings of Assyria. 7 And be not ye like your fathers, or like your brethren, who acted unfaithfully with Yahweh, God of your fathers,—who therefore delivered them up for an astonishment, as <ye yourselves> can see. 8 <Now> do not stiffen your neck, like your fathers,—stretch forth the hand unto Yahweh, and enter into his sanctuary which he hath hallowed unto times age-abiding, and serve Yahweh your God, that he may turn from you the glow of his anger. 9 For <by your returning unto Yahweh> <your brethren and your children shall find compassion before their captors, so as to return unto this land.
For <gracious and compassionate> is Yahweh your God, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye will return unto him.

10 So the runners were passing from city to city throughout the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, even unto Zebulun,—but they were laughing them to scorn, and mocking them. 11 Howbeit <some, out of Ashor and Manasseh and out of Zebulun> humbled themselves, and came to Jerusalem. 12 Also <upon Judah> came the hand of God, to give them one heart,—to keep the commandment of the king and the rulers, as the word of Yahweh had come.

13 And there gathered themselves unto Jerusalem much people, to keep the festival of unleavened cakes, in the second month,—an exceeding large convocation].

14 Then rose they up, and removed the altars, which were in Jerusalem,—and all the censors took away the candles, and cast them into the Kidron ravine. Then slaughtered they the passover, ... on the fourteenth of the second month,—and all the priests and the Levites were put to shame and hallowed themselves, and brought in the ascending-sacrifices of the house of Yahweh. And they stood in their place, according to their regulation, according to the law of Moses the man of God,—and the priests, dashing the blood, which they received at the hand of the Levites. For there were many in the convocation, who had not hallowed themselves, but the Levites were over the slaughtering of the passover-lambs, for every one who was not pure, to hallow him unto Yahweh. For the multitude of the people <many out of Ephraim and Manasseh, Issachar and Zebulun> had not purified themselves, for they did eat the passover, otherwise than as was written,—for Hezekiah prayed for them, saying, May Yahweh the Good, put a propitiatory-covering about every one who hath prepared his heart to seek God, even Yahweh' God of his fathers,—though not according to the purification of the sanctuary!

20 And Yahweh hearkened unto Hezekiah, and healed the people.

21 And so the sons of Israel who were found in Jerusalem kept the festival of unleavened cakes seven days, with great rejoicing, and the Levites and the priests [were offering praise unto Yahweh day by day], with loud instruments unto Yahweh.

22 And Hezekiah spake unto the heart of all the Levites who were giving food instruction respecting Yahweh,—and they did eat the appointed feast seven days, sacrificing the peace-offerings, and offering praise unto Yahweh, God of their fathers.

23 Then all the convocation took counsel, to keep seven days more,—and they kept seven days, with rejoicing. 24 For Hezekiah king of Judah presented to the convocation, a thousand bullocks and seven thousand sheep, and the rulers presented to the convocation, a thousand bullocks and ten thousand sheep,—and the priests in great numbers hallowed themselves. So all the convocation of Judah, and the priests and the Levites, and all the convocation that came out of Israel rejoiced,—also the sojourners who were coming in out of the land of Israel, and the dwellers in Judah. 26 Thus was there great rejoicing, in Jerusalem,—for since the days of Solomon son of David king of Israel> there had not been the like of this, in Jerusalem.

27 Then rose up the priests the Levites, and blessed the people, and there was a hearkening unto their voice,—and their prayer entered into his holy dwelling-place, even into the heavens. 28 Now when all this was finished all Israel who were present went forth unto the cities of Judah, and brake in pieces the pillars—and cut down the Sacred Stems—and threw down the high places, and all the altars, out of all Judah and Benjamin—and throughout Ephraim and Manasseh, until they had made an end.—then all the sons of Israel returned every man to his own possession, unto their own cities.

2 And Hezekiah appointed the courses of the priests and the Levites, over their courses, every man according to the requirements of his service, both priests and Levites, for ascending-sacrifice and for peace-offerings,—to be in attendance and to give thanks and to offer praise, in the gates of the camps of Yahweh; also the portion of the king out of his own substance, for the ascending-sacrifices,—even for the ascending-sacrifices of the morning and of the evening, and for the ascending-sacrifices for the sabbaths, and for the new moons, and for the appointed feasts,—as written in the law of Yahweh. And he bade the people who were dwelling in Jerusalem give the portion of the priests and the Levites,—to the end they might persevere in the law of Yahweh. And <as soon as the thing spread abroad> the sons of Israel caused to abound the firstfruit of corn, new wine, and oil, and honey, and all the increase of the field,—yea <the tithe of all—in abundance> brought they in. And <as for the sons of Israel and Judah who were dwelling in the cities of Judah> they [ did bring in and pile up]—heaps, heaps. <In the third month> began they the heaps, at the foundation,—and <in the seventh> they finished. And Hezekiah and the rulers came, and saw the heaps,—and blessed Yahweh, and his people Israel.

9 Then applied Hezekiah unto the priests and the Levites concerning the heaps. 10 And Azariah, the chief priest of the house of Zadok, spake unto him,—and said—<From the time of beginning to bring in the heave-offering into the house of Yahweh—to eat and to be full> there hath still been left, even to this abundance.

For <Yahweh> hath blessed his people, and <that which is left> is this great plenty.
Then Hezekiah gave word to prepare chambers in the house of Yahweh, and they prepared them; 12 and brought in the heave-offering and the tithe and the hallowed things, faithfully,—and <over them, as chief ruler> was Cononiah  the Levite, and Shimei his brother, next; 13 and Jehiel and Azariah and Nahath and Asahel and Jeremoth and Jozabad, and Eliel and Ismachiah, and Mahath, and Beniah,—overssees under the direction of Cononiah and Shimei his brother, by the appointment of Hezekiah the king; and Azariah the chief ruler of the house of God.

5 And ||Kore, son of Imnah the Levite, the doorkeeper on the east[,] was over the freewill offerings of God,—to give the heave-offering of Yahweh, and the most holy things. 16 And <under his direction> were Eden and Miniamin and Jeshua and Bani and Shecaniah, in the cities of the priests, in trust to give unto their brethren by courses, as the great so the small; 18 besides registering them by males, from three years old and upward, unto every one that entered into the house of Yahweh, in the need of a day upon its day,—by their service, in their watches, according to their courses: 17 both the registering of the priests, by their ancestral houses, and the Levites, from twenty years old and upward,—in their watches, in their courses;

even to the registering of all their little ones, their wives and their sons and their daughters, unto all the convocation,—for <in their trust> they hallowed themselves in holiness; 18 also unto the sons of Aaron the priests in the fields of the pasture land of their cities, in every several city, men who were expressed by name,—to give portions to every male among the priests, and to all registered among the Levites.

7 And Hezekiah did thus, throughout all Judah,—and he did that which was good and right and faithful, before Yahweh his God.

11 And || in all the work which he began in the service of the house of God,—and in the law—and in the commandment, to seek unto his God || with all his heart || he wrought, and prospered.

12 <After these things done in faithfulmess> came Sennacherib king of Assyria,—and entered into Judah, and encamped against the fortified cities, and thought to break into them for himself. 12 And when Hezekiah saw that Sennacherib had come,—and that his face was—to war, against Jerusalem— 1 he took counsel with his captains and his heroes, to stop the waters of the fountains, which were outside the city,—and they helped him. 1 And there were gathered together much people, so they stopped all the fountains, and the torrent that flowed through the midst of the land, saying,— Wherefore should the kings of Assyria come, and find many waters?

4 And he took courage, and built all the wall that was broken down and carried up thereon towers, and <on the outside> another wall, and strengthened Millo, the city of David,—and made weapons in abundance, and bucklers, and set captains of war over the people,—and gathered them together unto him in the broadway of the gate of the city, and spake unto their heart, saying,—

7 Be strong and bold, do not fear neither be dismayed, because of the king of Assyria, nor because of all the multitude that is with him,—for <with us> is One greater than with him: 8 <with him> is an arm of flesh, but <with us> is Yahweh our God, to help us, and to fight our battles. And the people loaned upon the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

5 <After this> Sennacherib king of Assyria sent his servants towards Jerusalem, || himself|| being near Lachish, and all his imperial might  with him,—unto Hezekiah king of Judah, and unto all Judah that was in Jerusalem, saying:

10 ||Thus || saith Sennacherib, king of Assyria,—<Upon what> are ||ye|| trusting, that ye are awaiting the siege in Jerusalem?

13 Is it not ||Hezekiah|| persuading you, so as to deliver you up to die with hunger and with thirst, saying,— Yahweh our God will deliver us out of the hand of the king of Assyria?

Is it not ||the same Hezekiah|| who hath removed his high places, and his altars,—and hath given word to Judah and Jerusalem, saying,

<Before one altar> shall ye bow yourselves down, and <thereupon> shall ye burn incense?

15 Will ye not take note, what I have done, ||I and my fathers,|| to all the peoples of the countries? 16 Have the gods of the nations of the countries been [at all able] to deliver their country, out of my hand?

14 Who <among all the gods of these nations whom my fathers devoted to destruction> hath ever been able to deliver his people out of my hand,—that your god should be able to deliver you' out of my land?

15 ||Now|| therefore, do not let Hezekiah beguile you nor persuade you thus, neither do ye believe him.

For no God of any nation or kingdom hath ever been able to deliver his people out of my hand, or out of the hand of my fathers,—how much less shall your gods deliver you out of my hand?

And yet more spake his servants, against Yahweh, God,—and against Hezekiah his servant. 17 <Letters> also wrote he, to scoff at Yahweh God of Israel, and to speak against him, saying,

<Like the gods of the nations of the countries, who delivered not their people out of my hand> shall the god of Hezekiah not deliver his people out of my hand.

Then cried they out, with a loud voice, in the Jews' language, unto the people of Jerusalem who were upon the wall, to afflict them, and to terrify them,—to the end they might capture the city. 19 And they spake against the God of Jerusalem,—as against the gods of the peoples of the earth, the work of the hands of men.

And Hezekiah the king and Isaiah, son of Amoz, the prophet, prayed concerning this,—and made outcry unto the heavens. 20 So Yahweh sent a messenger, who cut off every hero of valour, and chief ruler and captain, in the camp of the king of Assyria,—and he returned with shame of face to his own land, and <when he entered the house of his god> then the issue of his own body—there—caused him to fall by the sword.

Thus did Yahweh save Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem out of the hand of Sennacherib king of Assyria, and out of the hand of every one,—and gave them rest on every side.

And many were bringing in a present unto Yahweh, to Jerusalem, and precious things, unto Hezekiah king of Judah,—so that he was exalted in the eyes of all the nations, from thenceforth.

In those days was Hezekiah sick unto death,—and <when he prayed unto Yahweh> he was entreated of him, and a wonderful token he gave him. 22 But <not according to the benefit due unto him> did Hezekiah make return, for uplifted was his heart,—and so there came upon him wrath, and upon Judah and Jerusalem. 23 Then Hezekiah humbled himself, for the uplifting of his heart, and he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem,—so that the wrath of Yahweh came not upon them, in the days of Hezekiah.

And it came to pass that Hezekiah made riches and honour in great abundance,—and treasures made he for himself—for silver and for gold and for costly stones, and for spices and for precious things, and for all utensils to be coveted; 28 storehouses also, for the increase of corn, and new wine and oil,—and cribs for every kind of beast, and cribs for the flocks; 29 and <cities> made he for himself, and possessions of flocks and herds, in abundance,—for God had given him exceeding great wealth. 30 And (the same Hezekiah) stopped up the upper spring of the waters of Gihon, and brought them straight down the west side of the city of David,—and Hezekiah prospered in all his work. 31 Yet verily <with regard to the ambassadors of the rulers of Babyl on, who sent unto him to enquire concerning the wonderful token which came to pass in the land> God left him,—to prove him, to take note of all that was in his heart.

But <the rest of the story of Hezekiah, and his lovingkindnesses> there they are written in the visions of Isaiah, son of Amoz, the prophet, in the book of the Kings of Judah and Israel.

And Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the vaults of the sepulchres of the sons of David, and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did him honour in his death,—and Manasseh his son reigned in his stead.

§ 23. Manasseh's wicked and deposing Reign: the King, degraded and carried to Babylon, humbles himself, and is pardoned: being brought back, he fortifies Jerusalem, and restores the Worship of Israel's God.

<Twelve years old> was Manasseh when he began to reign,—and <fifty-five years> reigned he in Jerusalem. 2 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to the abominable ways of the nations, whom Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel. 3 And he again built the high places, which Hezekiah his father had thrown down,—and set up altars to the heavens, and made Sacred Stems, and bowed in prostration unto all the army of the heavens, and served them; 4 and built altars in the house of Yahweh, —as which Yahweh had said,

<In Jerusalem> shall be my Name, unto times age-abiding.

Yea he built altars unto all the army of the heavens,—in the two courts of the house of Yahweh. 6 And he< ] caused his sons to pass through the fire, in the valley of the son of Hinnom, and practised hidden arts and used divination, and practised sorcery, and appointed a necromancer, and a wizard,—he exceeded in doing the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, to provoke him to anger; 7 and he set a resemblance-image which he had made,—in the house of God, as to which God had said unto David, and unto Solomon his son,

<In this house and in Jerusalem which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel> will I put my Name, unto times age-abiding.
8 So will I not again remove the foot of Israel away from the soil which I appointed for their fathers. Only they must observe to do, all that I have commanded them, even all the law and the statutes and the regulations, by the hand of Moses.

9 And so Manasseh led astray Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, to commit wickedness beyond the nations which Yahweh had destroyed from before the sons of Israel.

10 And Yahweh spake unto Manasseh and unto his people, but they did not give ear. 11 So Yahweh brought in upon them, the captains of the army that belonged to the king of Assyria, and they captured Manasseh with hooks, and bound him captive with a pair of bronze fetters, and took him away to Babylon. 12 But in his distress he appeased the face of Yahweh his God, and humbled himself greatly, before the God of his fathers; and when he prayed unto him, then was he entreated of him, and hearkened unto his supplication, and brought him back to Jerusalem, unto his own kingdom, and so Manasseh came to know, that Yahweh is God.

14 And after this he built an outer wall to the city of David on the west of the Gihon in the ravine, even to the entering in through the fish-gate, and went round to Ophel, and carried it up very high, and put captains of valour in all the fortified cities throughout Judah. 15 And he removed the gods of the foreigner and the image, out of the house of Yahweh, and all the altars that he had built in the mountain of the house of Yahweh, and in Jerusalem, and he cast them forth outside the city. 16 And he built the altar of Yahweh, and sacrificed thereon peace-offerings, and thanksgiving sacrifices, and gave word to Judah to serve Yahweh, God of Israel. 17 Howbeit 'still' were the people sacrificing in the high places, only unto Yahweh their God.

18 But the rest of the story of Manasseh, and his prayer unto his God, and the story of the seers who spake unto him in the name of Yahweh (God of Israel) [there they are] in the story of the kings of Israel: 19 [both his prayer and how [God] was entreated of him—] and all his sin and his treacherous act, and the sites wherein he built high places, and set up the Sacred Stems and the images, before he humbled himself [there they are] written in the story of the seers.

20 And Manasseh slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the garden of his own house, and Amon his son reigned in his stead.

§ 24. Amon's brief but wicked reign: ended by the Assassination of the King by his own Servants in his own House.

21 [Twenty-two years old] was Amon when he began to reign, and [two years] reigned he in Jerusalem. 22 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, as Manasseh his father had done, and unto all the images which Manasseh, his father had made: Amon offered sacrifice, and did serve them. 23 But he did not humbly himself before Yahweh as Manasseh his father humbled himself, for he, Amen, made guilt abroad. 24 And his servants conspired against him, and put him to death, in his own house. 25 But the people of the land smote all the conspirators against King Amon, and the people of the land made Josiah his son king in his stead.

§ 25. Josiah's good reign, during which the Book of the Law is found. The King's reforming zeal postpones but cannot avert the Coming Visitation. Josiah is slain at Megiddo by Pharaoh-necho king of Egypt.

1 Eight years old was Josiah when he began to reign, and thirty years he reigned he in Jerusalem. 2 And he did that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh, and walked in the ways of David his father, and turned not aside to the right hand or to the left. 3 And in the eighth year of his reign, [he] being yet a boy he began to seek unto the God of David his father, and in the twelfth year he began to purify Judah and Jerusalem, from the high places and the Sacred Stems, and the carved images and the molten images. 4 And they threw down before him, the altars of the Baalim, and the sun-pillars which were on high above them he hewed down, and the Sacred Stems and the carved images and the molten images brake he in pieces and ground to dust, and tossed over the face of the graves, of them who had been sacrificing unto them. 5 And the bones of the priests he burned he upon their altars, and so purified Judah and Jerusalem: also throughout the cities of Manasseh and Ephraim and Simeon, even as far as Naphtali, searched he their houses, round about. 6 And when he had thrown down the altars and the Sacred Stems, and the images, he had beaten to powder, and the sun-pillars he had hewn down throughout all the land of Israel then returned he to Jerusalem.

And in the eighteenth year of his reign, when he had purified the land and the house, he sent Shaphan son of Azaliah and Maaseiah the ruler of the city and Josiah son of Josaziah the recorder, to repair the house of Yahweh his God. So they went in unto Hilkiah the high priest, and delivered the silver that had been brought into the house of God, which the Levites who kept the entrance-hall had collected from the hand of Manasseh and Ephraim and from all the remnant of Israel, and from all Judah and Benjamin,—and returned to Jerusalem. And the overseers in the house of Yahweh delivered it into the hand of the doer of the work,—yes they delivered it to the doers of the work, because they were working in the house of Yahweh, in searching and repairing the house: yes they delivered it to the artificers and to the builders, to buy carved stones and timbers for the joinings,—and to build up the houses which the kings of Judah had destroyed. Now the men were working faithfully in the work, and over them as overseers were—Jahath and Obadiah, Levites, of the sons of Merari, and Zechariah and Meshullam, of the sons of the Kohathites, to preside,—and Levites, all who had understanding in instruments of song; also over the burden-bearers, and such as took the lead, for everyone who was working in any manner of service,—and of the Levites were scribes and officers and doorkeepers. Now as they were taking out the silver which had been brought into the house of Yahweh Hilkiah the priest found the Book of the Law of Yahweh by the hand of Moses. Then spake up Hilkiah, and said unto Shaphan the scribe, The Book of the Law have I found, in the house of Yahweh,—and Hilkiah gave the book unto Shaphan. Then Shaphan took in the book unto the king, and returned yet further unto the king a message, saying,—All that was delivered into the hand of thy servants they are doing; and they have poured out the silver, that was found in the house of Yahweh, and have delivered it into the hand of the overseers, and into the hand of the doers of the work. Then Shaphan the scribe told the king, saying, A book hath Hilkiah the priest given to me. And Shaphan read therein before the king.

And it came to pass when the king heard the words of the book that he rent his clothes. Then did the king command Hilkiah—and Ahikam son of Shaphan—and Abdon son of Micah—and Shaphan the scribe—and Asaah servant of the king saying:

Go, enquire of Yahweh for me, and for the remnant in Israel and in Judah, concerning the words of the book which hath been found,—that the wrath of Yahweh, which hath been poured out upon us, because our fathers kept not the words of Yahweh, to do according to all that is written in this book.

So Hilkiah and they whom the king had named went into Huldah the prophetess, wife of Shallum son of Tikvath son of Hakha keeper of the wardrobe, a she having her dwelling in Jerusalem in the new city,—and they spake unto her accordingly. And she said unto them,

Thus saith Yahweh God of Israel,—Say ye unto the man who hath sent you unto me:

Thus saith Yahweh, Behold me bringing in calamity upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof,—even all the curses that are written in the book which they have read before the king of Judah:

Because they have forsaken me, and burned incense unto other gods, so as to provoke me to anger, with all the works of their hands therefore hath my wrath been poured out upon this place, and shall not be quenched. But unto the king of Judah, who hath sent you to enquire of Yahweh thus shall ye say unto him,—Thus saith Yahweh God of Israel, As touching the words which thou hast heard: Because tender was thy heart, and thou didst humble thyself before God when thou hearest his words against this place and against the inhabitants thereof, and didst humble thyself before me, and didst rend thy clothes and weep before me therefore I also have heard.

The declaration of Yahweh. Behold me gathering thee unto thy fathers, and thou shalt be gathered unto thy sepulchres in peace, and thine eyes shall not look upon all the calamity which I am bringing in upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof.

And they returned, unto the king, the message.
Then the king sent, — and gathered together all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem. And the king went up to the house of Yahweh—and all the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem—and the priests and the Levites, and all the people, from the great even unto the small,—and he read in their ears, all the words of the book of the covenant, which had been found in the house of Yahweh.

And the king stood in his place, and solemnised the covenant before Yahweh, to walk after Yahweh, and to keep his commandments and his testimonies and his statutes, with all his heart and with all his soul,—to perform all the words of the covenant that are written in this book. And he caused to take a stand, all that were present in Jerusalem, and Benjamin,—and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the covenant of God, the God of their fathers.

And Josiah removed all the abominations, out of all the land which belonged to the sons of Israel, and caused all that were present in Jerusalem to serve, even to serve Yahweh their God,—<all his days> turned they not aside from following Yahweh, God of their fathers.

And Josiah kept, in Jerusalem, a passover unto Yahweh, — and they slaughtered the passover, on the fourteenth of the first month. And he set the priests over their charges, — and encouraged them unto the service of the house of Yahweh; and said to the Levites who gave instruction to all Israel as to the things which were hallowed unto Yahweh.

Put the holy ark in the house which Solomon son of David king of Israel did build, it is not yours as a burden on the shoulder,—<Now> serve ye Yahweh your God, and his people Israel; and prepare yourselves by your ancestral houses, according to your courses,—by the writing of David king of Israel, and by what hath been written by Solomon his son; and stand ye in the holy place, by the divisions of the ancestral house, for your brethren, the sons of the people, and the partitioning of an ancestral house, for the Levites.

So slaughter ye the passover,—and hallow yourselves, and prepare for your brethren, that they may do according to the word of Yahweh, by the hand of Moses.

And Josiah presented to the sons of the people—<of flocks> young sheep and the young of the goats, the whole for the passover offerings, for all present, to the number of thirty thousand, and <of bullocks> three thousand,—<these> out of the substance of the king. And <his rulers> willingly <to the people and to the priests and to the Levites> presented,—<Hilkiah and Zechariah and Jehiel, chief rulers of the house of God>, <unto the priests> did give <for passover offerings> two thousand and six hundred, and <of bullocks> three hundred; and <Conaniah, and Shemaiah and Nathanel his brethren, and Hashabiah and Jeiel and Jozabad, rulers of the Levites> presented to the Levites <for passover offerings> five thousand, and <of bullocks> five hundred.

Thus was the service prepared,—and the priests stood in their place, and the Levites in their courses, according to the commandment of the king. So they slaughtered the passover, and the priests dashed [the blood received] at their hand, and the Levites were flaying [the offerings]. Then they removed the ascending-sacrifice, that they might give them—by the divisions of each ancestral house—unto the sons of the people, to offer unto Yahweh, as it is written in the Book of Moses—and <in like manner> with the bullocks. And they cooked the passover with fire, according to the regulation,—<but the hallowed things> cooked they in cauldrons and in pots and in bowls, and then took quickly unto all the sons of the people. And <afterwards> prepared they for themselves and for the priests, because <the priests, the sons of Aaron> had been engaged in offering up the ascending-sacrifice and the fat pieces, until night,—<the Levites> therefore prepared for themselves, and for the priests, the sons of Aaron.

The singers also, the sons of Asaph, were in their place, according to the commandment of David, and Asaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun the seer of the king, and <the doorkeepers> were at the several doors,—there was no need for them to remove from their service, for <their brethren the Levites> prepared for them.

Thus was all the service of Yahweh prepared on that day; to keep the passover, and to offer up the ascending-sacrifice, upon the altar of Yahweh,—according to the commandment of King Josiah.

So the sons of Israel who were present kept the passover at that time,—and the festival of unleavened cakes, seven days. And there had not been kept, a passover like it, in Israel, since the days of Samuel the prophet,—yea <none of the kings of Israel> had kept such a passover as was kept by Josiah and the priests and the Levites and all Judah and Israel that were present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

In the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah was kept this passover.
20 After all this—when Josiah* had prepared the house> Neco king of Egypt came up,—to fight against Carchemish, by Euphrates,—and Josiah* went forth against him. 21 But he sent unto him messengers, saying—What have I to do with thee, O king of Judah? [not against thee] [have I come] this day, but against the house wherewith I have war, and help hath given word to speed me,—cease thou from [provoking] God who is with me, lest he destroy thee.
22 Howbeit Josiah* turned not his face from him, for [to fight against him] he had disguised himself, and he hearkened not unto the words of Neco, from the mouth of God,—so he came to fight in the valley of Megiddo. 25 And the archers shot at King Josiah,—and the king said unto his servants, Take me away, for I am sore wounded.
24 So his servants took him away out of the war-chariot, and conveyed him in a second chariot which she had, and carried him to Jerusalem, and he died, and was buried in the sepulchres of his fathers,—and [all Judah and Jerusalem] were mourning over Josiah. 28 And Jeremiah chanted a dirge over Josiah,* and all the singing men and singing women in their dirges have spoken concerning Josiah,* until this day, and they appointed them by statute for Israel,—and [there they are] written among the dirges.
25 But the rest of the story of Josiah, and his loving-kindness,—according to that which is written in the law of Yahweh: 27 even his story, first and last> [there it is] written in the book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

§ 26. Josiah succeeded by Jehoahaz (son), Jehoakim (son), Jehoiachin (grandson), and Zedekiah (grandson), whose Wickedness, with that of the People, brings on the Invasion of Nebuchadnezzar, the Destruction of the Temple, and the Carrying Away to Babylon. The Proclamation of Cyrus at length relieves the Gloom.

36 1 And the people of the land took Jehoahaz, son of Josiah,*—and made him king instead of his father, in Jerusalem. 2 <Twenty-three years old> was Joashah when he began to reign,—and <three months> reigned he in Jerusalem.
was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh his God,—he humbled not himself before Jeremiah the prophet, from the mouth of Yahweh. 13 Moreover also, against King Nebuchadnezzar he rebelled, who had made him swear by God,—and he stiffened his neck, and emboldened his heart, from turning’ unto Yahweh, God of Israel. 14 Also all the rulers of the priests and of the people abounded in committing treachery, according to all the abominable ways of the nations,—and polluted the house of Yahweh, which he had hallowed in Jerusalem. 15 And though Yahweh God of their fathers sent unto them through his messengers, zealously sending them,—because he had compassion upon his people and upon his habitation: 16 yet became they mockers of the messengers of God, and despisers of his words, and mimics of his prophets,—until the mounting up of the wrath of Yahweh against his people, until there was no healing. 17 So he brought up against them the king of the Chaldeans, who slew their young men with the sword, in the house of their sanctuary, and had no compassion upon young man or virgin, elderly or ancient,—delivered he into his hand. 18 And <all the utensils of the house of God, both great and small, and the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the king and of his rulers: ||the whole he carried to Babylon; and they burned the house of God, and threw down the wall of Jerusalem,—and <all the palaces thereof> burned they with fire, and <all the precious vessels thereof> he destroyed; and he exiled the remnant left from the sword, into Babylon,—where they became his and his sons, as servants, until the reign of the kingdom of Persia: 21 to fulfil the word of God, by the mouth of Jeremiah, until the land had paid off her sabbaths,—<all the days of her lying desolate> she kept sabbath, to fulfil seventy years.

But in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, to accomplish the word of God by the mouth of Jeremiah> Yahweh aroused the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, so that he made proclamation throughout all his kingdom, moreover also in writing, saying:

Thus saith Cyrus king of Persia,

<All the kingdoms of the earth> hath Yahweh God of the heavens [given unto me], and [he himself] hath laid charge upon me, to build him a house, in Jerusalem, which is in Judah.

Who is there among you of all his people with whom is Yahweh his God? Then let him go up.

§ 1. Edict of Cyrus encouraging Jews to return and build their Temple in Jerusalem.

1 1 In the first year of Cyrus, king of Persia, to fulfil the word of Yahweh from the mouth of Jeremiah> Yahweh aroused the spirit of Cyrus, king of Persia, and he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, moreover also in writing, saying:

Thus saith Cyrus, king of Persia,

<All the kingdoms of the earth> hath Yahweh God of the heavens [given unto me], and [he himself] hath laid charge upon me, to build for him a house, in Jerusalem, which is in Judah.

Who is there among you of all his people? His God be with him, and let him go up to Jerusalem, which is in Judah,—and build the house of Yahweh God of Israel, (the) is God 19 which is in Jerusalem;

2 Ch. xxxvi. 23—G.n.

4 And whosoever is left, of all the places where he doth sojourn> let the men of his place uphold him, with silver and with gold, and with goods and with beasts,—along with a voluntary offering for the house of God, which is in Jerusalem.

Then arose the ancestral chiefs of Judah and Benjamin, and the priests, and the Levites,—even every one whose spirit God had aroused, to go up to build the house of Yahweh, which was in Jerusalem; and all they who were round about them strengthened their hands, with utensils of silver, with gold, with goods and with beasts, and with precious things,—besides any thing he had volunteered.

And King Cyrus] brought forth the utensils of the house of Yahweh,—which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth from Jerusalem, and put in the house of his gods:

Yea Cyrus king of Persia brought them forth, sons of Uzza, the sons of Pasah, the sons of Besai; 20 the sons of Asnah, the sons of Meunim, the sons of Nephusim; 21 the sons of Bakub, the sons of Hakupha, the sons of Harbur; 22 the sons of Bazluth, the sons of Mehida, the sons of Harsha; the sons of Barkos, the sons of Sisera, the sons of Temah; 23 the sons of Neziah, the sons of Hatipha.

The Sons of the Servants of Solomon 24 The sons of Sotai, the sons of Hassophereth, the sons of Peruda; 25 the sons of Jaalah, the sons of Darkon, the sons of Giddel; 26 the sons of Shephatiah, the sons of Hattil, the sons of Pocheresh-hazzehaim, the sons of Ami. 27 All the Nethinim, and the Sons of the Servants of Solomon were three hundred and ninety-two.

And these were they who came up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addan, Iruv, and they knew not, whether of Israel: they were: 28 the sons of Dobalah; 29 the sons of Tobiah, the sons of Tekoa, the sons of Nekoda; six hundred and fifty-two.

And of the sons of the priests were these, the sons of Habal, the sons of Hakkoz, the sons of Barzillai; who took of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite to wife, and was called after their name. 30 These sought their writing wherein they were registered, but they were not found, so they were desecrated out of the priesthood; and the governor told them, that they must not eat of the most holy things, until there should stand up a priest, with Lights and Perfections.

All the gathered host together was forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty; 32 besides, their men-servants and their maid-servants who were these, seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven; and there pertained to them singing men and singing women, two hundred; 33 their horses were seven hundred and thirty-six, and their mules, two hundred and forty-five; 34 their camels four hundred and thirty-five; asses six thousand seven hundred and twenty.

And a portion of the ancestral chief was when they came to the house of Yahweh which was in Jerusalem, offered voluntarily for the house of God, to set it up on its basis. 36 According to their ability gave they unto the treasury of the work, 37 sixty-one thousand drains,  and  of silver five thousand manehs,  and  tunics for priests one hundred.

So the priests and the Levites, and some of the people, and the singers and the doorkeepers and the Nethinim, took up their abode in their cities, and  all Israel  in their cities.

§ 3. The Altar restored and Foundation of Temple laid.

But when the seventh month was come, and the sons of Israel were in cities, then did the people gather themselves together as one man, unto Jerusalem.

Then arose—Joshua son of Jozadak and his brethren the priests, and Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and his brethren, and built the altar of the God of Israel,—to offer thereon ascending-sacrifices, as it was written in the law of Moses, the man of God. 2 So they settled the altar upon its stands, for it was upon them, because of the peoples of the countries, therefore caused they to go up thereon, ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh, ascending-sacrifices for the morning and for the evening. 4 And they kept the festival of booths, as it was written, and the ascending-offering of each day upon its own day, by number, according to regulation, the matter of a day upon its day; and of the new moons, and on all the appointed seasons of Yahweh, the hallowed things, also for every one that volunteered a voluntary offering unto Yahweh.

From the first day of the seventh month began they to offer ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh,—but the temple of Yahweh had not its foundation laid. 7 And they gave silver, unto the masons and carpenters, and food and drink and oil unto them of Zidon and unto them of Tyre, to bring in cedar-trees out of the Lebanon, unto the sea of Joppa, according to the grant of Cyrus king of Persia unto them.

Now in the second year of their coming in unto the house of God, to Jerusalem, in the second month began Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Jeshua son of Jozadak and the rest of their brethren—the priests and the Levites, and all that were come out of captivity to Jerusalem, and stationed the Levites, of twenty years old and upwards, to preside over the work of the house of Yahweh.

So they took their station—even Jeshua, his sons and his brethren, Kadmiel and his sons, sons of Judah, as one man to preside over the doers of the work in the house of God, the sons of Heneadad, their sons and their brethren, the Levites.

And when the builders laid the foundation of the temple of Yahweh, then the priests, enrobed, took their stand with trumpets, and the Levites the sons of Asaph with cymbals, to offer praise unto Yahweh, after the instructions of David king of Israel. And when they made responses in offering praise and in giving thanks unto Yahweh—

For he is good,
For age-abiding is his lovingkindness upon Israel—

then all the people shouted with a great shout, in offering praise unto Yahweh, over the laying of the foundation of the house of Yahweh.

But many of the priests and the Levites and the ancestral chiefs, who were old men, that had seen the first house, when the foundation of this house was laid before their eyes; were weeping with a loud voice; however, shouting and rejoicing, with voice raised on high; so that the people could not distinguish the noise of the shout of joy, from the noise of the weeping of the people, for the people did shout with a great shout, and the noise was heard afar off.

§ 4. Judah’s Adversaries, requesting to join and being refused, weaken the People’s Hands; and, later on, write to Artaxerxes, who returns a Prohibitive Edict.

1 Now when the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin heard—that the Sons of the Exile were building the temple, unto Yahweh, God of Israel—then drew they near unto Zerubbabel, and unto the ancestral chiefs, and said unto them,

Let us build with you, for like you we seek your God, and unto him have we been sacrificing since the days of Esar-haddon, king of Assyria, who brought us up hither.

But Zerubbabel and Joshua and the rest of the ancestral chiefs of Israel, said unto them,

<It pertaineth not to you and to us in common> to build a house unto our God,—but we ourselves together will build unto Yahweh, God of Israel, even as King Cyrus, king of Persia, hath commanded us.

Then came it to pass, that the people of the land were weakening the hands of the people of Judah,—and troubling them in building; and hiring against them counsellors, to overturn their purpose,—all the days of Cyrus, king of Persia, even until the reign of Darius, king of Persia. And in the reign of Ahasuerus, in the beginning of his reign wrote they an accusation against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem. And in the days of Artaxerxes wrote Beshan, Mithredath, Tabeel, and the rest of his associates, unto Artaxerxes, king of Persia,—and the writing of the letter was written in Aramaean, and was to be interpreted as Aramaean.

Rehum holder of judicial authority, and Shimshai the scribe, wrote a certain letter against Jerusalem,—to Artaxerxes the king, thus: Then Rehum holder of judicial authority, and Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their associates,—the Dinaites and the Aparshathchites, the Tarpeles, the Aparshaites, the Archivites, the Babylonians, the Shushanites, the Dehavites, the Elamites; and the rest of the peoples, whom the great and noble Osnappar hath exiled, and set in the city of Samaria,—and the rest Beyond the River, and so forth: This is a copy of the letter which they sent unto him,—unto Artaxerxes the king,—

Thy servants, the men Beyond the River and so forth:

Be it known unto the king,—that the Jews who came up from thee unto us are come to Jerusalem,—the rebellious and wicked city are they building, and the walls have they finished, and the foundations will they repair.

Now be it known to the king, that if this city be built, and the walls thereof be finished neither <tribute, excise, nor toll> will they render, and so the revenue of the kings shalt thou damage.

Now because the salt of the palace we have eaten <the impoverishment of the king> it is not meet for us to see,—therefore have we sent, and certified the king; so that search may be made in the book of the records of thy fathers, so shalt thou find out in the book of records—and shalt ascertain, that this city is a rebellious city, and one that causeth damage unto kings and provinces, and that <rebellion> have they been wont to cause in the midst thereof since the days of age-past time,—<for this cause> was this city laid waste.

We do certify the king that <if this city is built, and the walls thereof finished> if for that very reason <portion Beyond the River> shalt thou have none.

The king sent a message unto Rehum holder of judicial authority, and Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their associates, who were dwelling in Samaria, and the rest beyond the River.

Peace, and so forth.

18 "The letter which ye sent unto us" was distinctly read before me;

19 And "from me" went forth an edict, and they have made search and found, that "this city" "since the days of age-past time" "against kings" hath lifted herself up, and "sedition and rebellion" have been made therein; and "mighty kings" have there been over Jerusalem, and bearing rule everywhere beyond the River,—and "tribute, excise, and toll" have been given to them.

21 "Now" issue ye an edict, to forbid these men,—that "this city" be not built, until "from me" the edict be issued.

22 Beware, then, of failure to do thus,—wherefore should the damage increase, to inflict loss on the kings?

23 Then "the copy of the letter of Artaxerxes the king" had been read before Rehum, and Shimshai the scribe, and their associates: they journeyed in haste to Jerusalem, unto the Jews, and forbade them, with arm and force. Then ceased the work of the house of God, which was in Jerusalem,—yes it did cease, until the second year of the reign of Darius king of Persia.

§5. Prophets encourage the Builders; and Pasha Tattenai writes to King Darius, who confirms the Edict of Cyrus. The Temple finished.

5 Then were moved to prophesy, Haggai the prophet, and Zechariah son of Iddo, the prophet, unto the Jews who were in Judaea and in Jerusalem,—in the name of the God of Israel, unto them.

2 Then arose—Zerbabel son of Shealtiel, and Joshua son of Jozadak, and began to build the house of God, which was in Jerusalem,—and "with them" were the prophets of God, strengthening them.

3 At that time came unto them Tattenai, pasha Beyond the River, and Shethar-bozenai, and their associates,—and "spake" they unto them.

Who hath issued unto you an edict, "this house" to build, and "this wall" to complete?

4 "Then" "after this manner" spake we unto them.

What are the names of these men, who "this building" do rear?

5 Nevertheless "the eye of their God" was upon the elders of Judah, and they did not forbid them, until "the matter" unto Darius should come,—and "then" answer be returned by letter, concerning this.

6 A copy of the letter which Tattenai pasha Beyond the River, and Shethar-bozenai, and his associates, the Ahasuerites, who were beyond the River, sent unto Darius the king: "a message" sent they unto him,—and "thus" was it written therein, "Unto Darius the king" all prosperity!

8 Be it known unto the king, that we journeyed into the province of Judah, unto the house of the Great God, and "the same" is being built with large stones, and "timber" is being laid in the walls,—and "this work" with speed is being done, and is prospering in their hands.

9 Then" asked we of these elders, "thus" we said to them,—Who hath issued to you an edict "this house" to build, and "this wall" to complete?

10 You "thee"—asked we of them, to certify thee,—that we might write the name of the man who are at their head.

And "thus" returned they "answer" to us, saying,—"We are servants of the God of the heavens and the earth, and are building the house which was built these many years ago, which "a great king of Israel" built and completed.

12 But "after that our fathers had provoked the God of the heavens to wrath" he delivered them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, the Chaldean,—and "this house" he destroyed, and "the people" he exiled to Babylon.

13 Howbeit "in the first year of Cyrus king of Babylon" "Cyrus the king" issued an edict "this house of God" to build.

14 Moreover also "the utensils of the house of God, of gold and silver, which "Nebuchadnezzar" had brought forth out of the temple which was in Jerusalem, and had brought into the temple of Babylon, Cyrus the king [brought them forth] out of the temple of Babylon, and they were delivered to one Sheshbazzar by name, whom he made "pasha"; and said to him—"These utensils" take, go carry them into the temple that is in Jerusalem,—and let "the house of God" be built in its place.

16 Then "this Sheshbazzar" came, he laid the foundations of the house of God, which was in Jerusalem,—and "since then, even until now" it hath been in building, and is not finished.

17 "Now" therefore, "if unto the king" it seem good, let search be made in the treasure-house of the king which is there, in Babylon, whether it be so, that "from Cyrus the king" issued an edict, to build this house of God, in Jerusalem,—and <the pleasure of the king concerning this> let him send unto us.

6 Then [Darius the king] issued an edict,—and they made search in the house of the books, where the treasures were laid up in Babylon.

And there was found in Achmetha, in the fortress which is in the province of Media, a roll,—and <thus> was it written therein, as a record:

3 In the first year of Cyrus the king", [Cyrus the king] issued an edict, as to the house of God in Jerusalem.

Let the house be built, the place where they used to offer sacrifices, and let the foundations thereof be reared,—[the height thereof] sixty cubits; [the breadth thereof] sixty cubits; 4 layers of large stones, three, and one* layer of new timber,—and <as for the expenses> <out of the house of the king> let them be given.

Moreover also <the utensils of the house of God, of gold and silver, which [Nebuchadnezzar] took forth out of the temple that was in Jerusalem, and brought unto Babylon> let them again be taken to the temple which is in Jerusalem, every one to its place, and lay them up in the house of God.

6 [Now] therefore, Tattenai pasha Beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and their associates, the Apharsachites, who are Beyond the River,—be ye far from thence: 7 let alone the work of this house of God,—[the pasha of Judah, and the elders of Judah] <this house of God> shall build upon its place;

And <from me> is issued an edict, as to that which ye shall do, with these elders of Judah, for the building of this house of God,—

That <of the resources of the king, even the tribute Beyond the River> [forthwith] the expenses be given unto these men, for they must not be hindered.
